Here's 50¢ for my more than two months' supply of Playtex tampons. Send in a plain brown wrapper, please.

☐ Regular ☐ Super

Name_____ (please print)

Address_____

City_____ State_____ Zip_____

Mail coupon to: International Playtex Corporation, Dept. 580, P.O. Box 2205, Wilmington, Delaware 19899. Offer expires January 31, 1971. Please allow four weeks for delivery. RBO-01

Playtex is the registered trademark of the International Playtex Corp., Dover, Del. © 1970 International Playtex Corp.

USCC Begins Relations For State and Students

The University and State Communications Council (USCC) will hold its first general meeting of the year on October 6 at 7p m. in the Colonial Lounge of the Student Union

USCC is dedicated to increasing communications between the University of Massachusetts and the state's private citizens and Legislators. Its Mass Media branch devotes its energies to informing the general public about U. Mass. Amherst; the Internal University branch is concerned with informing students about their University; and the Legislative Relations branch deals with elected officials.

During the past year, the Legislative Relations area involved students in the process of filing bills, testifying in front of Legislative committees on educational matters and lobbying. In addition, USCC brought seventy Legislators to campus during the student strike last spring to discuss collegiate and social issues, it was the only such event in the nation during the strike.

In the past, the concern has been only with the University, its programs, budgets and special events. However, during this year, the Legislative Relations branch will expand into other areas of social concern. By opening channels between the Legislature and faculty and students who have interests in specific areas of social welfare it is hoped that members of the University community can lend their ideas and knowledge to the betterment of the Commonwealth.

"Sarge Day" Well Received

As a part of Sarge Day a group of U. of Mass. students canvassed in Springfield's Black Ghetto, white scores more worked in the Amherst area.

According to U. of Mass. Sargent coordinator Belden Bly "the group distributing Sargent was well received." Bly noted that those welfare recipients contacted were most enthusiastic about Sargent's Flat Grant System. A system gets welfare money where it belongs: to those in need of it, not to the machinery of its distribution. It permits social workers to be social workers, not book-keepers or detectives.

State wide 17,000 canvassers went door to door for Governor Sargent Sunday. The Massachusetts College Sargent Organization represented one-third of this total.

If you are interested in working for Governor Sargent please contact personel co-chairmen Kathy Gwiazda, 1515 J.Q.A., 546-8481, or Dave Crea, 1705 J. Adams, 546-8839.

A public forum on "The Middle East, 1970: Peace?" will be presented at Orchard Hill in the lounge of Webster tonight at 7:30.

Dr. Luther Allen, associate professor of government and Orchard Hill faculty resident, will be moderator. Panelists will be Dr. Leila Meo, associate professor of government, Dr. George Kirk, professor of history.

Description of term paper requirements for Dr. Wood's National Urban Policy Seminar, Government 391, are now available at the Department of Government's office, Thompson Hall. Class members are requested to pick up their copies today.

Dr. Wood will meet with all those selecting Field (1) -- Specific Urban Problem and Solution -- at 3 p.m., Tuesday, October 6, at Departmental office.

Fields (2) and (3) meetings will be held next week.

Northampton Volunteers

On October 7 (Wednesday) the Northampton Volunteers will renew their program at Northampton State Hospital. Old volunteers are urged to continue the good work, and new are encouraged to join the forces. For those who don't know, Northampton Volunteers are a group of students who spend from one to two hours a week with the mentally disturbed patients of Northampton State Hospital. It is a good chance to see what really happens in a mental hospital and to help the patients in a program of resocialization. Often students can be of more help than the trained personnel simply because they are not meeting the patients on a formal basis, but as friends. The first meeting is an orientation program and anyone at all interested is urged to come -- with no strings attached. The bus will leave from Hasbrouk Hall and Patterson Dorm at 6:30, October 7th.

AUTO INSURANCE

ALL DRIVERS
— LOWEST, LEGAL RATES —
— BUDGET PAYMENTS —

Tekoa Insurance Agency

160 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-2742
10 Broad St. Westfield 562-3604

!USCC NEEDS YOU!

WORK WITH . . .

the Media, the Administration, or the State Legislature

ONLY YOU CAN MAKE UMASS

A BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Join the university and state communications council

Tuesday, October 6, 7:00 P.M. in the Colonial Lounge

Think of all the advantages dormitory life has to offer . . .

now think harder — try tau epsilon phi

TEΦ

418 North Pleasant St. For Riders Call 253-9041
Informal SMOKER Tonight 253-9171
8:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m.

Salutes
Senior of the Week

OUTSTANDING AGAINST BUFFALO THIS WEEKEND WAS SENIOR BOB PENA

Fidelity Union Life Insurance Co.

VILLAGE INN LUMS Restaurant

85 Amity St Amherst, Mass

Fish & Chip Night
MONDAYS 4:30 - 9 p.m.

VILLAGE INN LUMS
Open Daily 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

PEACE DOG TAGS — military style, one the Dove of Peace, the other Peace symbol. On 24 inch chain, $1.00. PO Box 661, Holyoke, Mass. 01040. tf10-8

Honda 69 CB350, ex. cond. 584-4970. tf10-6

Wig for sale — long medium brown hair, never worn, $30 or best offer. Call 665-3951. tf10-8

Sansui 2000 Stereo Tuner Amp. Call 584-6967. tf10-8

Roberts 710A Tape Recorder-phono outputs. Praktica FX3 35mm camera w/Tessar lens, Alpex light, UC5 electronic flash. Head competition slalom skis 210 cm. Call 549-6741. tf10-6

2 Guitars — one Eko model 111, steel string $45. Also Yamaha FG-300 folk guitar w/case, an incredible buy at $150. Call Jim at 8-9160 anytime. tf10-8

For sale — CB450 (K3) Honda 1970 7000 mi., front disc brake, good reliable transportation. Ex. con. Call 665-3776 tf10-7

Roberts 770XSS Tape Recorder, 1½ year old, perfect condition, best offer, call 545-6095 or 549-1915. Ask for Harold Nilsson. tf10-7

Must sell 100" 2-piece sectional couch, sandliter, club chair, tables, lamps, draperies, rug 9' x 12'; all in excellent conditon. Call 413-773-5976 after 4:00 p.m. tf10-9

Baby Boa Constrictor Call 665-3672 — very friendly pet. tf10-7

1970 Honda SL90 $350. Call Janet 584-5700, X301. tf10-13

FOR SALE — AUTOS

Senate Bus Driver Training Program begins Mon., Oct. 5th. Limit first twenty applicants — sign up outside SU Room 430. tf10-6

67 TR4A-IRS BRG needs minor work but will take this into consideration of price. No reas. offer refused. Call Al 549-0666. tf10-6

BMW - 66 1800 sedan, must sell, name your price. 6-5421, ask for Phil. tf10-6

WANTED

Male and female students to participate in research study for pay. Inquire Whitmore 243. Call 253-9459 after 5 p.m. tf10-6

German tutor wanted one night a week. Call 253-5458 after 6 p.m. tf10-7

FOR EXCHANGE

Vacation rent-free anywhere, anytime with another student, with apt. or without. Thousand opportunities. Write: Experiment-In-Living, Box 783, Grante, New Mexico, 87020 tf10-6

SERVICES

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car, 197 No. Pleasant St. 256-8133. tf12-53

Pioneer, Trac, Garrard, PE Astec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, LPs, 8 track and other necessities. Amherst Audio! tf10-53

Will tutor French at all levels and will type in French or English theses papers etc. Call 549-6323. tf10-6

ROOMMATES WANTED

Female graduate needs to share a room and expenses. Call Madan 665-3685. tf10-5

Attention girls! Have your own room in apt. near campus $50/ mo. available now! Call Sooty 253-5317. tf10-7

Roommate needed to replace me in trio at Puffton Village Apt. Good location and facilities. Call Tom at 549-1929. 10-5

ROOM FOR RENT

Female - room and or board available about one mile UMass within one block of Five-College bus stop. 253-2148. tf10-6

HELP WANTED

Ambitious couple who need more income. Unusual opportunity for good earnings for both. Works together, part-time or full time. Car necessary. Phone 1-413-774-2587 between 7 - 9 p.m. tf10-16

Babysitter wanted Wed. 8:40 - 1:35 preferably on campus. Call 586-2733 after 6. tf10-7

DRIVER TRAINING

Hardtop for MGB — fits any year, cost $250. 1 year old, will sacrifice for $140. Call Tom anytime at 253-7806. tf10-6

Mistakes Costly as UMass Frosh Footballers Bow to BU, 35-13

By DAN KAMAL
Staff Reporter

An opportunistic Boston University defense either set up or scored all 35 points as the UMass freshman football team literally handed the BU frosh a 35-13 victory. Two intercepted passes returned for touchdowns and three fumble recoveries which led to touchdowns accounted for all the BU scoring.

UMass, after a good punt return by Tim Berra, had driven to the BU 30 yard-line behind the running of Ken Hoff and Jim Mahaney. However, Terrier linebacker Jim Bennett then picked off a Mark Tripucka pass and ran it back 75 yards for a touchdown. Aidan Moore's kick for the extra point was good, and BU led 7-0. This is the way the score stood after one quarter.

In the second quarter, Berra halted a BU drive with an interception on his own 20 yard-line, but UMass fumbled again, and the Terriers took only two plays to score as quarterback George Jerina hit split end Darryl Hall with a ten-yard touchdown pass. Moore's conversion made the score 14-0.

The Little Redmen had a scoring opportunity with nine seconds left in the half, but Kevin Dwyer's 24-yard field goal attempt was partially blocked and the half ended with BU still ahead 14-0.

The mistakes kept continuing in the third quarter. This time, after Berra had once again given UMass good field position with an excellent punt return, BU linebacker Moore intercepted Paul Hanson's pass and returned it 65 yards for the third Terrier touchdown. His conversion made the score 21-0, the way it remained at the end of three quarters.

HOW UMASS' FOOTBALL FOES FARED THIS WEEKEND
Maine lost to URI, 23-6 Dartmouth beat Holy Cross, 50-14
Boston U. lost to Temple, 10-7
URI beat Maine, 23-6 UConn beat UNH, 27-14 Vermont lost to Northeastern, 34-21 Holy Cross lost to Dartmouth 50-14
UNH lost to UConn 27-14
Boston Col. beat VMI, 56-3

Possibly wanting to return some of the generosity they had received throughout the afternoon, BU fumbled and linebacker Mike McNiff recovered on the visitors' fifteen yard-line. A few plays later, Hoff took it in from the one and Dwyer converted to make the score 21-7.

At this point, UMass was still very much in the game. After the kick-off, the defense halted BU's drive and the Redman offense took over on its own 34 yard-line.

However, after another good drive which brought the home team to the BU thirty, there was yet another fumble in the UMass backfield, and, almost incredibly, BU had been given the ball again. Terrier quarterback Jerina took quick advantage of the latest UMass error and hit Hall with a 65-yard completion. Harmon Hudson ran it in from the five and Moore made his fourth successful conversion, making the score 28-7.

On the ensuing UMass drive, quarterback Tripucka and fullback Hoff teamed for good yardage on the ground, with Hoff scoring on a 22-yard burst up the middle. The two-point conversion failed, and UMass trailed 28-13.

Bu was again forced to punt and the Redmen took over deep in their own territory. A couple of plays later, Tripuka was hit hard in the backfield and fumbled, and the BU defense had given its offense the ball again, this time on the 16-yard line.

Jerina scored from the one a few plays later, and Moore's fifth conversion made the final score: BU 35, UMass 13.

FROSH FILINGS - It is probably academic to say that UMass actually dominated the football game...'...The offensive line did a good job opening holes for the runners and protecting the quarterback...Hoff and Mahaney ran well as did Hanson, who played quarterback, halfback, and split-end...Berra also proved his versatility as he returned punts in addition to playing end on offense and free safety on defense.

Tonight's Intramurals

FOOTBALL

FIELD	TIME	TEAMS
1	6:30	Oxfords VS. Hack
2	6:30	Cult VS. Lifers
3	6:30	Dildoughs VS. Team
4	6:30	Senators VS. Terrors
5	6:30	"C" Cruisers VS. Cans
6	6:30	Bulldozers VS. Panthers
1	7:30	Academics VS. Seagrams
2	7:30	Spartans VS. Lions
3	7:30	Comanches VS. Colt 45's
4	7:30	Flaming A's VS. Aces
5	7:30	Trojans VS. Pines
6	7:30	Bears VS. Oaks

COME ONE COME ALL

"Dig It"

Monday
Beer Bust
1.75 Men
1.00 Ladies
All the draft beer you can drink
MOVIES — MUSIC

Tuesday
Rock Festival
SPECIAL DRINK PRICES
Low
Low
Low
"Dig It"

Wednesday
ROCK FESTIVAL
BANDS
Change Every Two Weeks

Thursday
Rock Festival
Ladies Night
"NO COVER"
"HEAVY"

Friday
SINGLES NIGHT
Happy Hour
Live Music
John Morgan

Saturday
Dixieland

The Hutch Inn
THE AREA'S ORIGINAL SINGLES AND DATING BAR

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

Evangeline Adams, a direct descendant of President John Adams, is considered the outstanding astrologer to have practiced the scientific art in America. Her autobiography, "The Bowl of Heaven," reads like an adventure story.

• •

ARIES (March 21 - April 20): Accent on far away places, long-distance calls and messages. Give full play to idealism. Hold fast to principles. One born under Sagittarius could provide incentive and inspiration.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): A bizarre situation could unfold involving one close to you. Be sure you get facts. Don't fall prey to rumor, innuendo. Above all, don't be fooled into parting with valuables.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Emphasis on how you relate to those who hold opposing views. Don't get caught in middle of dispute. Your mate or a close associate could make some unusual demands. Bide your time.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): One who performs special services deserves recognition. Show that side of yourself which is humanitarian. The more you give, the more ultimately you will receive.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): You may be concerned with investment potential. Key is to heed your own counsel. Special feeling about a person or proposition is apt to be valid.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Settle problems, estates, questions of long-standing. Cancer-born individual could pay meaningful compliment. Express appreciation for being appreciated. Sweep away cobwebs or illusion.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Accent on short trips, communications from relatives, significant calls and messages. Stress tend to be scattered. Don't try to do too much at once. Sense of humor proves great ally.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): If you are observant, you find way to overcome minor obstacles. Key is to work within rules, regulations. Then what you need is practically handed to you. But be wary of con game.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Cycle his high; fine for making new contacts. Set your own pace. Utilize creative abilities. Be ready for significant changes, opportunity for travel.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): If you seek the sensational, disappointment is invited. Maintain steadiness. Work in conjunction with one who has your welfare at heart — takes some discipline, but it's worthwhile.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): You learn by sharing knowledge. A young person exhibits faith in your opinions, abilities. Set fine example by fulfilling obligations. Stress patience, steadfast approach.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Pressure is on the line. You asked for certain responsibilities, opportunities. Now they may be tossed in your lap. Avoid panic. Remember past lessons. Success is indicated.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a creative individual with a special spark. You attract opportunities, but don't always take advantage of them. You are due for domestic adjustment which will be all to the good.

Copyright 1970, Los Angeles Times

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Friday's Puzzle

R	O	A	S	T		M	A	N	O	R
F	E	E	L	E	R		A	B	I	D	E	D
I	S		P	A	I	N		L	I	V	E
R	I	A		T	O	A	S	I	T		N	E	B
E	G	G	S		S	I	T	T	E	R	S		A	T
S	N	A	P	S		L	E	N	T	I	L	S
		T	I	E	S		T	O	R	S
P	R	E	E	N	E	D		R	A	L	P	H
A	M		D	O	M	E	S		V	A	L	E
G	O	T		R	I	G	E	S		M	A	W
E	D	I	T			K	A	I	L	E		C	E
S	E	R	A	P	E		R	A	N	G	E	D
S	E	T	O	N		S	M	E	E	S

5

ACROSS
1 Increase in size
4 Makes lace
8 Temporary bed
11 Wild buffalo of India
12 Precipitation
13 Girl's name
14 College degree (abbr.)
15 Afternoon party
17 Regular
19 Greek letter
21 Twitching
23 Insect
24 Pronoun
26 Once around track
28 Calumniate
31 Place
33 Extinct flightless bird
35 Nahoor sheep
36 Above
38 Snake
41 Conjunction
42 Scottish cap
44 Born
45 Speck
47 Periods of time
49 Lift with lever
51 Shallow vessels
54 Male sheep
56 Ocean
58 Female deer
59 Second of two
62 Unit of Siamese currency
64 Symbol for tellurium
65 One, no matter which
66 Offspring (pl.)
68 Arabian seaport
70 Long, slender fish
71 Warm
72 Proposition

DOWN
1 Anger
2 Indefinite article
3 Indian memorial post
4 Spoor
5 Cooled lava
6 Metal
7 Supercilious person
8 Ships of the desert
9 Room in harem
10 Hindu cymbals
11 Encourage
16 Latin conjunction
18 Things, in law
20 Roman bronze
22 Outdoorsmen
25 Affirmative
27 American essayist
29 Spanish for "one"
30 Ethiopian title
32 Number
34 Conjunction
36 Southwestern Indian
37 Equality
39 Corded cloth
40 Cover
43 Sullerer for a cause
46 Youngster
48 Posed for portrait
50 Bread ingredient
52 Famed
53 Observed
55 Intertwine
57 Near
59 Fall behind
60 Collection of facts
61 Fish eggs
63 Flap
67 A continent (abbr.)
69 Roman gods

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 5

Red men Nipped in 4th Period, 16-13

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

Daily Collegian
Sports
VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 19
MONDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1970

BUFFALO, N.Y. - UMass' football record dropped to 1-2 as the Redmen went down to defeat, 16-13, at the hands of the State University of New York at Buffalo when the home town Bulls forged a touchdown in the very late goings here on Saturday, before an estimated gathering of 6,206 fans.

It was a back-and-forth game as neither team could bang across back-to-back scores. Fortunately for Buffalo, it scored last to win the ballgame just two minutes and ten seconds away from the final whistle.

In gaining their first victory in four games this fall, the Bulls were also the first to score; the Redmen were second, then Buffalo followed with the third tally of the game, UMass the fourth and the home team the capper.

With six minutes left in the tussle, UMass had rallied for a go-ahead TD and led its foe, 13-9. This drive for paydirt was 12 plays long and started when Buffalo's punter, Joe Moresco, shanked his fourth-down kick a mere five yards, giving the visitors a first and ten on the Bull 40-yard line.

UMass got a second life on this drive when a fourth-down field goal attempt by the Redmen's Denis Gagnon was blocked by the Buffalo defense and batted around by a couple of Bulls right into the waiting arms of halfback Pat Scavone.

The Redmen went right back to work and, three plays later, fullback Dick Cummings cracked over the goal line from four yards away. Because of an extremely critical wind, Gagnon's try for the extra point went awry; however, a Bull penalty gave UMass another try at the extra point conversion from only two and a half yards out.

Reserve quarterback Len Matuza was hurried in for a two point attempt, but his QB rollout was snuffed by an alert Buffalo defense and UMass held a tentative 13-9 advantage.

At this point, the pesty wind, which was blowing with gusts of 20 to 28 miles per hour, played a major roll in

At this point, the pesty wind which was blowing with gusts of 20 to 28 miles per hour, played a major role in UMass coach Vic Fusia's football strategy. He was faced with a kickoff into the wind and was given just two alternatives

One would be to kick the ball in the air toward the end-zone with a great chance that the pigskin wouldn't carry very far at all; two would be to kick the ball along the ground, allowing the opponent to take possession of it on his own 40-yard stripe or so. Not much of an alternative; Fusia chose the latter but Gagnon's kick was such that Buffalo's Joe Hudson returned it 15 yards to the UMass 45.

Instant trouble for a Redman defense that had already put in an excellent afternoon of grid duty. Its late afternoon challenge: the right arm of Bull quarterback Kirk Barton. The arm prevailed as Barton passed four times in six plays for 30 yards and a home team first down on UMass' eight. Three running plays later, John Faller, a stellar halfback, slashed around his own right end for the clinching score. Mike Constantino added the extra point for the final 16-13 spread.

The Redman quest for victory looked slim, but the guys in the white jerseys took a few last cracks at the Bull. Three incomplete aerials by QB Ken Hughes forced a UMass punt but, in four plays, the defense gave the offense the ball for the final time as a second-down pass from Hughes to halfback Mark Russell brought the oval thing to the Redman 44 yard-stripe and brought the game to a halt.

The initial points on the blue-and-white Buffalo scoreboard came in the second period when Constantino booted a 25-yard field goal. The visitors made it 7-3 when Cummings bulled five yards for six points to culminate an 11- play drive and Gagnon added the seventh marker, also in the second quarter

A ten yard loss from Barton to split end Mike Sharrow gave Buffalo another second-quarter tally as this Bull TD came with just 15 seconds left to go to halftime. Constantino's extra point attempt was blocked but the home guys led, 9-7, and kept that lead going into the woolly last period.

WINDBLOWN WISDOM - Overall the Bulls led the Redmen in first downs. 15-10. in net yards gained rushing, 160-111, in net yards gained passing, 125-66 and in total offensive yardage, 285-177...Individually, Faller led all rushmen with 83 yards; UMass' Cummings was second with 51 and Buffalo's Joe Zelmanski was third with an even 50...Barton completed 12 of 23 tosses for 125 yards; Hughes was six of 14 for 66...Three players caught three passes apiece, best in the receiving line...Scavone was one, Faller and Hudson of Buffalo were the others...The Redmen's John O'Neil had the best foot of the day, belting nine punts with the wind and all and averaging a solid 39.5 yards per kick...The Redman offensive line played well and, overall, the offense was a shade better than last weekend against Dartmouth...Obviously the room for improvement is great...Guard Bob Pena shined on the offensive line again, or should that be still....UMass defense was very tough again...The outstanding performers are familiar: Bill De Flavio (five tackles-nine assisted tackles).

ALMOST BLOCKED - UMass' Don Dotson stretches in vain trying to block Buffalo's Joe Constantino's extra-point kick. Earlier in the game, Dotson had been successful, blocking Constantino's try after the Bulls had scored their second touchdown for a 9-7 lead. In Saturday's affair, Buffalo prevailed over the Redmen, 16-13. (MDC photo by Gary Slickman)

UMass Loses Two Harriers and Meet

By EARLE BARROLI'
Staff Reporter

BOSTON-What was to be a showdown of two of the top cross country powers in New England never materialized here Saturday as the UMass Redmen, performing without their numbers two and three runners, fell to the Northeastern University harriers, 24-34.

Grounded by the virus were sophomores Tom Jasmin and Tom Swain, who performed so well last week at Providence College and who were counted on to give UMass the front line strength to upend the Huskies. Coach Ken O'Brien thought it best to let them recuperate and be in top health for the rest of the schedule.

Winning for the second week in a row was co-captain Ron Wayne. After a tight battle with three Northeastern runners for the first three miles, Wayne bursted into the lead and never looked back, winning by 22 seconds with a time of 24:58 over the five-mile Franklin Park course.

After Wayne came three Huskies, followed by Redmen Leo Duart and Doug O'Connell, a freshman. Duart ran his typical race by starting out at the back of the pack and increasing his pace as the race progressed with the result being a high position in the final standings.

Due to the absence of Jasmin and Swain, O'Connell was placed into services for his first time on the varsity level. He performed very well finishing as the number three UMass finisher and sixth in the meet.

Co-captain Larry Paulson showed signs of returning to last years form with a tenth place finish. With continued performances like this one, Paulson should hit mid-season form soon, to help bolster the Redman attack.

Bob Sullivan, a sophomore, ran another fine race finishing as the fifth Redman to cross the finish line. His consistency in the first two races has pleased O'Brien.

Following Sullivan to the line were Rick Barry, another sophomore and Rich Tashjian, a senior who placed in the top seven for the first time.

There were many pluses for both the coach and the team in this losing cause. First was Duart running his second top notch effort without his knee giving him trouble.

Next were the return of Paulson to resembling his last season performances, the outstanding effort turned in by freshman O'Connell in his first varsity effort, Sullivan's second straight good race, the continued success of Wayne as one of the best in New England, and finally the improvement on their best previous Franklin Park times by Joel Fox, Arnie Morse, and Tashjian.

In the freshman race, Northeastern was also victorious by the score of 31-36. Redman Rich Sevigny led the field until the very end, only to be nipped in the final few yards by a Huskie. Rounding out the rest of the frosh top seven were Bill Lowry, Ted Beaulieu, Jack Rabbitt, Jay Nestor, Roger Nasatha and Ken Rago.

scathing by-UMass' Ron Wayne (80) slips past two Northeastern runners on his way to placing first in the Redmen's cross country meet with the Huskies. (MDC photo by Earle Barroll)

Pats Bow, 14-6

Ruggers Dominate Beacon Hill, 28-5

by FRED WYSHAK
Staff Reporter

With less than a minute gone in the first half, Mike Bell stunned New England Champs Beacon Hill with a 50-yard drop kick to give the UMass Rugby Club a lead which it never surrendered as it belted the Bostonians, 28-5, Saturday.

Player-coach Dale Toohey added three quick points as he booted a 25-yard penalty kick. Beacon Hill had touched the ball in the scrum.

Bull, after a pass from Pete Harrison, next scored a try. The conversion attempt was no good.

Again Toohey followed with two successive penalty kicks for holding the ball after being tackled and an illegal throw. This made the halftime score 15-0 in favor of the Redmen.

Beacon Hill came back at the beginning of the second half ready to show the Redmen the match was no pushover, and Spruce quickly scored a try. Dick Rose made the conversion kick.

However, UMass quickly got

However, UMass quickly got on the scoring path with another Toohey penalty kick and two of the best tries all day.

The first came on a very fine run by Captain John Long, who should be commended for his all around play, after a pass from Bull. Toohey made the conversion kick.

The second and last score was a fantastic run by Bull which took him from one end of the field to the other. He literally used his size and speed to run through the entire Beacon Hill XV. Again, Toohey made the conversion kick.

The match was a very well-played, hard-nosed affair. Even though the Redmen lost most of the scrums, the potency of their scoring attack could not be denied.

The UMass XV played minus one man for the last half of the second half. Rick Ross was removed from the game after he cut back and got his head caught between two opposing players.

Toby Lyons and Willis Frisbee along with Jack Long and Mark Chenoweth shone on defense. Lyons was particularly noted for stopping a kick with his face, and Chenoweth almost lost to the XV when he made an amazing tackle of someone twice his size.

Coach Bob Laurence cited the team's momentum, beginning with Bull's first goal, as the moving factor of the match.

The B team lost to Beacon Hill's B squad 9-6, but the progress of the team's learning was impressive as it gave the more-seasoned Boston XV some hard times.

All the scoring was made on penalty kicks. For most of the match the score remained 6-6

The UMass soccer team remains undefeated after beating Boston College on Friday. Details in tomorrow's

Janis Joplin O.D.'s

See Story Page Four

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 20 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS TUESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1970

Mid-East Crisis Debate Sizzles

Campus Arms Limitation Talk Held
Page Two

Buying Beer?
Read Up on Page Two

EVELYN REED WAITS PRESIVELY in the Commonwealth Room before her address last night on aspects of the Women's Liberation movement. (Photo by Barry Penn.).

Bottle Or On Tap?

By ALBERT BENSON
Staff Reporter

Almost every night of the week thirsty students make their way to one of the local package stores to augment their supplies of liquor. What most of them don't realize or ignore is the fact that they are liable to arrest under state law.

According to Officer John Taylor of the campus police, "There is much myth and misunderstanding concerning alcholic regulations. Some students, he continued, apparently believe that they cannot be arrested for drunkeness on state property and that they do not get a notation of their arrests on their permanent records if they are apprehended. This is not the case."

Campus regulations are essentially the same as state regulations - accordingly, students can be arrested for selling liquor without a licence, being seen in public in an intoxicated state, causing a disturbance, selling to or purchasing liquor from anyone under 21, and using a false I.D. to purchase alcohol.

Once a student is arrested, a notation of the arrest is made on his permanent record at the Board of Probation in Boston. However, this notation cannot be used against the student and cannot be released without his permission.

If the arrest is the student's first, he is granted what is known as a "drun:: release". This allows him to forgo an appearance in court. On the other hand, if the student has been arrested more than three times in the course of one year, he must either remain in jail, post bond, or appear before court. Those students arrested for drunken driving also face serious penalties. If a student is stopped for drunken driving, he is usually asked by the officer to take a breathalizer test. If he does and is found to be sober, he is released. If he refuses, the Registry of Motor Vehicles revokes his licence for three months.

Tippo Reaffirms Arm Stand

by DON GLICKSTEIN
Staff Reporter

Chancellor Oswald Tippo said at his noontime coffee hour yesterday that not only was he opposed to all but the police having firearms on campus, but that "in the long run," he hoped the police, too, could be persuaded "to shed their guns."

Tippo stressed, "I think that absolutely we should have no weapons of any kind on campus," in answer to a question from representatives of the Flying Redmen, a drill team that uses unloaded arms in their exhibitions. However, he did not preclude off-campus practice for the Redmen.

Turning to problems of drugs on campus, he said the Narcotics Division of the State Police had told him their primary concern was for the apprehension of pushers and people having drugs in large quantities. The police also urged the University to give them the names of students who had used drugs, he added.

Tippo declared, though, that the requet raises some "serious legal questions," especially regarding the Infirmary. He emphasized the integrity of the Infirmary and said of drug busts: "We are not involved at all - Police do their own investigation."

Asked what he thought was the statewide reputation of UMass for drugs, he replied, "I suspect it's pretty bad."

The Chancellor covered many other topics: the conversion of Arnold House to a dormitory or an interdepartmental center in 1972, the construction of "modular" department buildings spotted around the campus, a request by the House Internal Security Committee for names of speakers at UMass (it was refused), open housing, ROTC contracts, vandalism and the still-mythical University Ombudsman (no-one has been found who wants the job).

Clarifying the Administration's policy of student representation in search committees, Tippo said Staff positions, the Associate Provost for example, will not have search committees while administrative policymaking posts will.

He added that the University reorganization would not necessitate a search for people to fill positions already held; specifically, the Treasurer, Kenneth Johnson, will remain the Treasurer in charge of fiscal affairs, unless he elects to take a position in the University system from the Boston office.

The coffee hour gave the Chancellor an opportunity to tell students his thoughts about the Board of Trustees. Ideally, the members of the Board would have no vested inzerests--including students and faculty. "I am opposed to special representation on the Board", he said.

He added about the present Board, "You may not like this particular Board, but it's one of the better ones", and cited examples of other Trustees, including the Regents in California, to support his statement.

Explaining that studies on the transportation difficulties at UMass were currently underway, Tippo added that the University has contributed $10,000 to help the in-campus busing program.

The Chancellor's coffee hour will be held again October 19, two weeks from yesterday, in the Colonial Lounge of the Student Union between noon and 2 p.m.

Women's Lib Discussed At Militant Forum

By BETH GOODELL
Staff Reporter

Evelyn Reed, nationally known spokesman for the Women's Liberation movement spoke last night in the Commonwealth Room to approximately 80 persons, which included about a dozen males. She spoke on "How Women Lost Control of Their Destiny -- And How They Can Regain It." Jean Lafferty, one of the founders and organizers of Boston Female Liberation also spoke, dealing mainly with recent actions in the movement.

Also involved in the American Socialist movement, Evelyn Reed addressed herself to the problem of discrimination in the institution of sex, marriage, and the family, considering it from a Socialistic orientation combined with her Women's Liberation point of view.

Miss Reed began her address by sketching a history of how the institution of marriage came into being as the result of a need of a moneyed, property-owning class. In order to ensure the maintenance of their system, the noble and wealthy classes treated women as little more than property. They would trade them off as wives whose sole value was determined by the amount of property which went with them to the husband, and by their production of a legitimate heir.

Marriage did not become a universal institution among all social classes until the development of western civilization, according to Miss Reed. Marriage was extended to the working masses with the advent of industrialization. Then with the rise of "capitalistic exploitation", families were converted from producing units into consumers. Women were stripped of their productive work and became just housekeepers dependent upon a wage-earning husband, a position anathema to Women's Liberation.

Miss Reed next spoke on the movement's demand for a woman's right to gain complete control over her own body. This includes a demand for the legalization of abortion for all who want it until completely safe birth control techniques are developed; a demand for the opportunity to develop the mind intellectually and on equal terms with the male; and demands for the full development as a sexual being, also in equality with males.

Woman's entrance into the working world on a large scale gave rise to the Women's Liberation Movement, according to Miss Reed, because women's lives were opened up and they got their first taste of independence. The time had passed when women were willing to submit themselves to the oppression of males.

Miss Reed has concluded that the family institution must be greatly restructured. She would suggest the creation of 24-hour care centers for children that would give them proper care and guidance free from the current neurotic hangups of parents. The female would then be able to join the male as a productive being free from household chores.

Concluding her talk, Miss Reed said that the initial ridicule of the movement has now receded and respect has been gained. She added that men may now hope for their own liberation through the success of this movement. She also said that the "humanizing role ' of the movement may well help to bring about an end to all exploitation, pollution, war, and violence. She concluded that this is a cry for a socialist movement.

Boston's Jean Lafferty reported that the movement is now clearly a mass movement. Consciousness among women has grown considerably now, as evidenced by the nationwide success of the August 26 protest in various major American cities. This was a "turning point at which women gained a sense of power because of the large turnout of women to demonstrate in the streets. Women are now beginning to feel a strong sense of unity and are starting to examine society in its entirety, and the movement is becoming more and more politically involved, according to Miss Lafferty.

Miss Reed, self-avowed Marxist, is sponsored by the East Coast Women's Liberation Lecture Tour and was brought to this campus by the Militant Forum, the weekly socialist educational service.

TONIGHT

Ingmar Bergman's

WINTER LIGHT

When the parish priest kills God,

Hell very subtly breaks loose.

MAHAR — 8 and 10

Comparative Literature Film Series

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor).

Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $7.50 per semester, $14.00 per year.

GOT THE MUNCHIES??

"MOBILE DELI" DELIVERS

SUPER

SUBMARINES AND PIZZAS

(no minimum)

549-1700

7 P.M. TO MIDNIGHT

(Student Owned and Operated)

Free Delivery

Stormy Forum Brings Mid-East Impasse to Campus

By BRIAN WHITE
Staff Reporter

Three UMass members held a stormy forum yesterday on the chances of peace in the Middle East.

Dr. Leila Meo, of the Government Department, began with a pro-Arab view of the Mid-East tensions. She stated that there would be no peace for years to come, because any settlement satisfactory to the major powers and to the Israelis would be unsatisfactory to Palestinean Arabs.

Saying that no people can be considered expendable, Dr. Meo spoke of the "inalienable right" of people made homeless by war to go home again. She continued that the goal of the Palestinean liberation movement is to return Palestinean Arabs to their homes under conditions fair to both the Arabs and the Jews.

Will the Israelis, once considered expendable, continue to believe the Arabs expendable? Or will they follow the higher principles of Judaism, and accept Palestineans into their homeland? This is the crux of the Middle East crisis, Dr. Meo stated.

She went on to charge Israel of imperialism, terrorism, and of having a racist domestic policy. Referring to great inequities of land distribution, she accused the Israelis of having driven the native Arabs from their homes by tactics including napalm bombing and psychological warfare, and of expanding their boundaries by military aggression.

Dr. Meo spoke of the news sources used by the West as being "monopolized by Zionists," and spoke of a lack of world concern for the Arabs, as expressed by the actions of the United Nations. The Palestineans had initiated guerrilla warfare because they had been driven to despair, she said.

The guerrilla movement includes all strata of the population. It had deliberately acted to disrupt the U.S. peace plan because it had not been recognized and included in the negotiations. Now the matter is out of the hands of the Arab governments and the guerrillas, because the Palestineans as individuals are aroused, Dr. Meo concluded.

Dr. Haim Gunner of the Department of Environmental Science, a member of a kibbutz for the past several years, represented the Israeli viewpoint. Agreeing in principle that "no people is expendable," he went on to question the Arab concept of non-expendability.

He noted revisions in the covenant of the Arab liberation movement. Where in 1947 the covenant had called for allowing Jews presently living in Palestine to remain there, the revised document allows only those Jews living in Palestine before the "Zionist invasion" (Balfour declaration), (1917) to remain. What, asked Dr. Gunner, would happen to the rest of the Jews?

He stated that the heart of the Middle Eastern tragedy was a growing anti-Jewish sentiment on the part of the Arabs. He spoke of the case of a hijacked plane, where American Jews had been isolated from the rest of the American passengers and held captive.

Dr. Gunner called for a justice which the world has not yet given; the recognition of Jewish roots in the Middle East, the acceptance of Israel as a state.

Israel has been used as a cause by Arab leaders in order to evade their responsibilities in domestic matters. There is a sort of Arab paranoia on the subject of Israel, Dr. Gunner stated. It is difficult to separate fact from fantasy in this matter in view of the Arab desire to make Israel look as much of a villain as possible.

Dr. Gunner said that the land which Israel had acquired by "terrorism" had actually been bought from Arab owners, who infact had chuckled over the Jews' buying up such apparently worthless territory. Some 450 peasants had actually been displaced in the process. Israel had added to her territory by military force, but had acted in response to Arab aggression.

Where once a neutral Palestinean state, a kind of Switzerland, had been planned, Arab aggression had disrupted such plans. While the Israelis had made Herculean attempts to find leadership among the native Palestinean Arabs for such a state, the "cutthroats and thugs" of the resistance movement had made the efforts futile. Dr. Gunner expressed a hope that the ideology of the resistance movement would soon become too heavy a burden for the Palestineans, and that true dialogues could begin. This would still leave the major powers unsatisfied, however, Dr. Gunner concluded.

Professor George Kirk, of the History Department, finished the scheduled speeches with a brief perspective on the Middle East crisis. Referring to the "no people is expendable" catchphrase the other two speakers had used, Professor Kirk noted that he agreed with this as an ethical proposition, but not as an historical statement.

Extermination of a people usually has occurred as an annihilation of culture, not of individuals, and this is what the Arab communities face. Even as Arab expansion disrupted the culture of the Copts in Egypt and the Aramaic-speaking of Lebanon, the Arabs themselves face a weakening of their own culture among the Palestineans -- partly through a weakness of their own leadership.

Dr. Haim Gunner Dr. Leila Meo and Luther Allen were speakers at a forum on peace in the Middle East last night. (Photo by David Bernstein).

Professor Kirk charged the resistance leadership with absentee control, noting that every time actual fighting broke out the Arab leaders seemed to be well outside the country. He spoke of the Middle East situation as unique in history: two powers of the strength of the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. impotent in so small an area, "grovelling" before a tiny group of "militants."

(In the break after Professor Kirk's speech, one member of the panel was heard to say, "If it's a week before they play the tape" -- the discussion will be heard on WFCR -- "the whole situation will have changed by the time they hear it.")

A question and answer period followed, leading to heated discussions among the panel, particularly Dr. Meo and Dr. Gunner. The following exchange was typical:

MODERATOR: "No member of this panel seems to agree with any other member."

DR. GUNNER: "Oh, I do." (Nodding to Professor Kirk.)

DR. MEO: "Naturally, as a fellow agent of imperialism."

In the final stages the discussion seemed to break down into pointless my-word-against-yours argument, almost reaching the point of sheer insult. Professor Kirk had summed it up earlier: "If two people as intelligent as Dr. Meo and Dr. Gunner cannot agree at all in this matter, what hope is there for peace in the Middle East?"

Bus Terminal Relocated

The on-campus bus terminal will be moved from its present location at Haigis Mall to the new loop located on the Northeast side of the new Campus Center Parking garage, starting Wednesday morning, October 7.

All persons using Peter Pan line buses will be affected by the terminal move. The terminal is adjacent to Stockbridge Hall and Draper Hall.

The location change has been planned for some time now and is expected to relieve the congestion caused by buses picking up passengers in front of Herter Hall.

For further information, please contact the bus ticket office located on the first floor of the Student Union.

Nasser Successor Named

CAIRO (AP) - Anwar Sadat was designated Monday by leaders of Egypt's only political party to succeed Gamal Abdel Nasser as president in a move apparently aimed at avoiding a divisive power struggle.

The nomination by the all powerful executive committee of the Arab Socialist Union was tantamount to election of the 52 year old Sadat, who has been serving as provisional president since Nasser died last Monday.

Sadat was considered by many observers to be the least controversial of several contenders for Nasser's job. He was named vice president by Nasser last year in a governmental shakeup. They were old friends, Sadat having joined Nasser in the coup that toppled King Farouk 18 years ago.

The unanimous nomination by the union's eight man executive committee went to the party's 150 member central committee.

An official party statement said the executive committee recommended that the National Assembly meet in formal session Wednesday to endorse Sadat and that a national referendum be held Oct. 15. The president would be sworn in two days later.

CLASS of 1972!

Exec Council Applications are now available in front of RSO. Must be in by THURSDAY Oct. 8, 5:00 P.M. You must apply to have a vote!

The Rev. Robert F. Drinan, S.J., Democratic Candidate for Congress from the third district of Massachusetts who defeated 28-year incumbent Philip Philbin in the primary Sept. 15, will speak informally and answer questions in Room 106 of Thompson Tower.

TUESDAY NIGHT, Oct. 6, at 7:30 P.M.

He is sponsored by the Movement for a New Congress

(Political Action for Peace, New Priorities) and anyone interested in working for Drinan or other nearby Peace candidate should come.

I already have my Index – do you?

INDEX OFFICE

Mon. thru Fri.

9 - 5

waffle smorgasbord waffle awful waffle movie waffle glass waffle waffle spaghetti strainer ball waffle waffle eating waffle escalator party waffle waffle
awful waffle
WAFFLE waffle week waffle waffle
oct. 13-18 waffle
waffle concrete Waffle waffle (campus center) waffle campus center program council

In The Nation And The World

Superstar Joplin Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Janis Joplin, whose writhing, wailing and sometimes profane performances electrified the music world, has been found dead in her apartment at the age of 27.

The coroner said death was due to an overdose of drugs and tests would be needed to determine the type.

Police called for an autopsy after saying they found needle marks on one arm. The autopsy surgeon reported numerous needle marks on both arms, with fresh ones on the left arm.

There was a small amount of alcohol but no evidence of barbiturates, ingredients of sleeping pills, the autopsy surgeon said, and no evidence of injury or violence.

"It didn't look like foul play," said an ambulance attendant who removed the nightgown clad body Sunday night. "It looked like she had just fallen over."

Miss Joplin had come here from her San Francisco home to record for Columbia, which had sold millions of her singles "Piece of My Heart," "Maybe," "One Good Man" and albums "Cheap Thrills," "I Got Them Ol' Kozmic Blues Again, Mama."

Her body was found by her guitarist, John Cooke, who wondered why the singer had not emerged from her hotel apartment all day Sunday, and borrowed a key to enter. He summoned police.

She had been dead approximately 12 hours, police said. Bottles of tequila, vodka and wine were found in the apartment, but no drugs.

Miss Joplin followed in death another member of the rock pantheen, Jimi Hendrix, 27, who was found in a London apartment last month, having suffocated on vomit while unconscious.

"People seem to have a high sense of drama about me," Janis Joplin once told an interviewer. "Maybe they can enjoy my music more if they think I'm destroying myself."

Her galvanic style brought her the title "the Judy Garland of rock." She bore a resemblance to the previous star in her full voiced style, her complete openness with an audience, and talk of self destruction. Miss Garland died in a London apartment in 1969, apparently from a drug overdose.

Born in Port Arthur, Tex., in 1943, Janis Joplin was a rebel at an early age. She left home at 17, drifted across the country, taking odd jobs and occasional college courses. She came to admire beatniks because they "believe things aren't going to get better and say the hell with it, stay stoned and have a good time."

Fame overtook her at the 1967 Monterey Pop Festival. She had been singing in small clubs in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

At Monterey she astounded the huge audience with her vibrant style and depth of feeling on "Love is Like a Ball and Chain." Her success was made.

Once she analyzed her style:

"Black people have the blues because they can't have this and they can't have that. Me, I was brought up in a middle class family; I could have had anything. But you need something more in your gut, man."

Nixon Ends European Tour

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) - Tired but bouyant, President Nixon brought his nine day European tour to a close Monday after paying tribute to his Irish forebears and pledging the United States to a policy of peace for all the world.

With thousands cheering him in the Irish capital, the President did not appear bothered by a few brief incidents in which dissenters hurled eggs and unidentified objects at his car. None hit Nixon or his wife sitting next to him, but the motorcade picked up speed.

Two eggs splattered against the windshield of the limousine as the motorcade entered Dublin after a swing through the Irish countryside. Another was squashed against the window next to which Mrs. Nixon was sitting. Irish police arrested a woman and two men.

The President had been standing up in the open car waving vigorously to the crowds, but quickly sat down when he saw the egg throwers.

Later, as the presidential motorcade headed for the airport, dissenters emerged again from an applauding and cheering crowd and hurled objects at the car. One was an egg thrown apparently from an upper story of a business building. It missed its target and splattered on the street. Moments later unidentified objects hit the left front door of the limousine just under the presidential seal.

While Nixon did not seem disturbed, the incidents apparently discouraged him from his usual practice of stopping the motorcade to shake hands with people in the crowd.

Some Irish groups protested Nixon's visit to Ireland because he took the occasion to hold a strategy meeting with his Paris envoys to the Vietnam peace talks.

Nixon came to Ireland on Saturday after having visited Italy, the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean, Yugoslavia, Spain and England. He spent two hours Sunday at Limerick meeting with his Vietnam envoys.

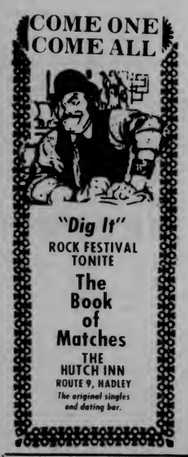
On Monday morning he and Mrs. Nixon traveled by car and helicopter in intermittent showers and clear weather across the countryside to Dublin.

In the Irish capital he met with Prime Minster Jack Lynch and other leaders, telling them it is U.S. policy "to make it possible for Ireland and every other country in the world to develop in a period of peace."

Lynch praised the President's trip as "a mission of peace" and said the country was proud that Nixon and his wife had come to look at some of the roots of their family trees.

Earlier at Timahee, where Nixon said the United States wanted to achieve "a generation of peace" in the last part of this century, and to continue to work for peace from there on. He noted that no generation in the 20th century has known a long period of peace.

The asserted purpose of Nixon's tour was to underscore the U.S. commitment to peace in the Mediterranean area especially and the world in general.



Colt 45 Malt Liquor introduces the adult game for game adults.

The new "Bottoms Up" game is very much like Colt 45 Malt Liquor. It is designed for adventurous adults (2 or more) and is not recommended for the shy or faint of heart. Enjoy both Colt 45 Malt Liquor and the fun and excitement of this adult game. Who wins and who loses is between you and your playmate(s).

A completely unique experience.

Please rush me _____ (quantity) of your completely unique "BOTTOMS UP" game(s). I have enclosed a check or money order for _____ ($4.95 ea. postpaid). Check payable to "BOTTOMS UP". (Allow 4 weeks for delivery.)
Name_____
Address_____
City_____ State_____ Zip_____
Mail to: "Bottoms Up", Box 1042, Framingham, Massachusetts 01701
This offer void in states where illegal. "Bottoms Up"® Taurus Creations, Inc.
Colt 45 Malt Liquor and design is the trademark of the National Brewing Co., Balto., Md.

IMMEDIATE ATTENTION TO EMERGENCY REPAIRS · CONTACT LENS SUPPLIES ALL KINDS · MATCHLESS SELECTION OF FASHIONABLE FRAMES · WIRE FRAMES LOTS!
Amherst Optical Shoppe
195 North Pleasant St., Amherst
Tel. 256-6183

Mr B says:
"It's the world's finest fit sewn in by hand"

BOSTONIAN FLEX-O-MOCS
VISIT OUR BOOT CELLAR
AT
BOLLES
8 Main Street
WE HONOR master charge
BANKAMERICARD

Draft Counselor's Corner

Courage, Determination Needed to Fight Draft

By GILBERT J. SALK
Staff Reporter

As more and more young Americans become concerned about the cancerous growth of militarism in the United States, the question of alternatives to serving in the armed forces assumes greater and greater importance. Men are seeking ways to avoid supporting the abhorrent war against Vietnam, and both men and women are disturbed by the disruption and channeling of their lives caused by the Selective Service. Draft Counselor's Corner will provide information about alternatives through general information and by answering questions submitted by readers. NOTE: We recognize that the draft does as much to disrupt the lives of women as it does of men. Therefore, a special effort will be made to provide information to women also.

As a draft counselor, I'm constantly confronted by young men who are trying to find an easy way out of the draft. Ways exist, but there is a real moral hassle caused by using that approach to help people "solve" their draft problems.

I am totally opposed to the military and every other system which uses violence. As a direct corallary to this, I am also irrevocably opposed to the draft. This is in part because the draft provides cannon fodder (my brothers) to the military. More importantly, it does a constant, more subtle violence to nearly everyone of draft age. It forces people to lie to and about themselves. It destroys their freedom of choice by setting up an option which is undesirable to most and intolerable to many. Thus, it channels people into courses they might not even consider otherwise.

So what is the problem? Simply that I don't want to continue helping the draft teach people not to confront themselves. This means that I rebel against helping people find an easy out. Instead, I prefer to help them find their way through the system in a way which preserves their personal integrity.

This means work. It's more work for me, and it's more work for the individual involved. But the real point that makes the extra work worth-while is political. As people come directly to grips with the systematic machinations which are working them over, they understand first the ones they are confronting, and, through them, many of the others which are controlling their lives. They also learn that the system can be beaten in a direct confrontation.

Thus, they learn more about themselves as individuals and more about the system as an oppressor. Each individual who finds the courage and the energy to confront the draft as an oppressive system weakens that system's ability to oppress others. Each individual who works through the hassles of applying for a conscientious objector's status weakens the ability of his board to ignore CO's, legitimizes the CO position for others, and bears personal, solitary witness to our government that war is wrong, and that he will not, under any circumstances, be forced or persuaded to lend support to it. The CO, more than any others, is responding to the plea for individual refusal to participate in war's policy-killing's voiced in Buffy Saint-Marie's UNIVERSAL SOLDIER.

People who find an easy out stop allowing themselves to feel the oppressiveness of the draft, and as a result leave their brothers standing alone. If, on the other hand, they confront the system and demand that it deal with them as human beings with individual lives to lead, the battle they face makes them aware that others are in the same boat and need the same jelp that they received.

Basically, I want to see myself out of a job as soon as possible. I am not concerned particularly with getting you out of the draft for the sake of getting you out of the draft. I am concerned with helping you free yourself from the draft so that you can begin to confront other systems with your humanity. I am concerned with helping you free yourself from the draft so that you can help others free themselves, so you can help end the draft, so you can help end the war, and so you can help abolish the army.

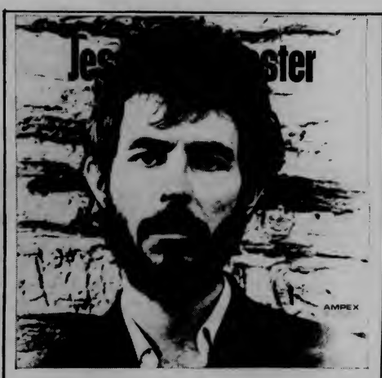
That's my basic concern as a human being, and my bias as a draft counselor. Your responses to this, and your problems as registrants in the Selective Service System also concern me. I'd like to know what you think. Last para in 6 point.

Questions to this column should be addressed to Gilbert J. Salk, c/o Draft Counseling Services RSO #395, Campus Center, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.

For free personal counseling, visit the Draft Counseling Services office in Room 418C on the second floor of the Student Union.

Teaching Improvement Program Begun This Fall

A campus-wide teaching improvement program to help graduate student teaching assistants do a better job has been started this fall at UMass.



UMass Graduate School Dean M.H. Appley and Associate Dean Arthur C. Gentile initiated the program with the encouragement of Chancellor Oswald Tippo. Dr. Appley explained: "Much of the instruction at the introductory level at UMass, as in other large universities, involves the active participation of graduate student teaching assistants. Since the introductory courses taken by the incoming freshmen significantly influence his remaining college experience and future career, we have become increasingly concerned about improving the quality of instruction at the introductory level."

The major elements of the program are a two-day pre-class orientation session, a handbook, a teaching improvement laboratory with a library and video-tape equipment, and a series of evening seminars on teaching. UMass has 750 graduate student teaching assistants.

EVELYN WOOD READING DYNAMICS
Speed reading and study skills course
We guarantee to triple your reading ability or refund your tuition.
ATTEND A FREE MINI-LESSON AT
Wesley Methodist Church, 365 N. Pleasant St.
7:30 p.m.
Tuesday, Oct. 6th Thursday, Oct. 8th
For further information call Paul Scharf at 253-2425

What is the Blue Wall?

It's good food at reasonable prices
Baken Lasagna - 90 cents.
Chinese style Spareribs - 75 cents
Rock Cornish Game Hen - 85 cents
(Price of meals includes choice of starch or vegetable)
It's in the Campus Center.
Enjoy fine food in comfortable surroundings in the Campus Center Cafeteria. We are open 7 days a week for lunches and dinner with Saturday and Sunday specials. (Dining Commons Cash Meal Tickets accepted on weekends.)
Luncheon served: 11:30 - 2:00 p.m.
Dinner served: 4:30 - 6:00 p.m.
For a hearty breakfast, or a quick lunch, try our coffee shop featuring the ¼lb. all beef centerburger.
Open Daily from 7:00 a.m. to 2:00 a.m.

A Bearsville Record Production produced by Robbie Robertson for Ampex Records & Tapes
"...his songs transcend all barriers with the exception of one: art."
(ED WARD)
ROLLING STONE
Available now at all record stores
AMPEX RECORDS
555 Madison Avenue, New York, New York

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF	Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR	Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER	Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR	Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR	Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR	John Sullivan
PHOTO EDITOR	Steve Schmidt
ADVERTISING MANAGER	John Fayad

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR	David Williams
NEWS STAFF	Stanley Olson, Mary Toupher, Ann Guraette
DARKROOM	Barry Penn, Rich McIntyre
SPORTS	Barry Rubenstein
AD LAYOUT	Rick Rutstein
EDITORIAL	Cathie Perkins

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

"You'll Have To Remember That Some Students You Talk To Will Not Be FBI Agents"

Columbia's Gone Scholarly

The Columbia University Senate has turned down a proposed 10-day election recess for its faculty members and students and voted instead to adopt a compromise recess to run from Oct. 30 to Nov. 2.

Before the vote, Dr. William J. McGill, president of Columbia, who normally is chairman of the senate meeting, relinquished his post so he could "address the issues as your president."

"I speak from deep conviction," said Dr. McGill, "and I feel that the 10-day recess would be a mistake. I deplore this type of university response to political activity because I feel that our function is primarily a scholarly one."

Dr. McGill repeatedly emphasized, however, that he felt that every member of the university had "the right and the duty" to participate in the political process.

"We are living in desperate times," he continued. "Our whole society is in crisis and, as a consequence, our universities are in crisis."

"I see the university as a guidepost in society on which the rest of society can see how questions can be resolved," said Dr. McGill. "But I do not want to give up my university. I do not want political issues to be seen to be more important than normal scholarly endeavors."

Dr. McGill went on to give to the senate his analysis of the actions of American universities last May. He explained that university involvement in political activity did nothing but provoke a "backlash reaction" from the general public.

"And we are just providing more fuel for the speeches of the Vice President," he said.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR must be typed, double spaced, at sixty spaces and must carry the writer's signature, address, and telephone number (all of which will be withheld upon request). The limit is one page and the deadline is 5 p.m. the day prior to intended publication. The editors reserve the right to edit all letters.

elliot eisenberg

What Now Will Be Like Then

Maybe you don't know it, but at the end of each semester they collect and bind the issues of the MASSACHUSETTS Daily Collegian. You can walk into the editor's office and pick up the volume for just about any year you choose.

Some day people are going to pick up the volumes for 1970. They'll be half curious, half searching for the way it was back then.

They'll find (if they didn't know) that this was the year that Hendrix and Joplin died and the Beatles split. Out of context not very earth shattering, but perhaps symbolic of the nihilistic turn of the generation which had grown up with the Beatles. They'll see all over these pages that 1970 was the year of the environment. That the Coalition for Environmental Quality had declared war on those forces upsetting our delicate ecology. They'll find implied in student statements that the politicians and the establishment only chose to attack those forms of pollution which wouldn't cost them very much.

They'll read that CEQ is collecting the plastic silverware in the new coffee shop, and it promises to recycle them.

Will they read that the environment people went out and took a study of noise pollution in the university? And perhaps found that the decibel level in the Hatch where thousands eat and gather each day, was high enough to cause hearing trouble to those souls who sat for hours each week just under or in front of the speakers?

"Noise begins to irritate and annoy", federal officials have reported, "when it reaches 80 to 85 decibels. It becomes uncomfortable at 120 decibels and painful at 140. 10 to 15 percent of the population begins to suffer hearing losses when sustained sound levels reach 90 decibels, and the number of people who much suffer hearing impairment increases as noise levels go higher."

Will some future editor open the pages of 1970 and see that an environmental researcher stood in the Hatch or in the hallway of a dorm with a decibel meter and was shocked at what he saw?

Perhaps he'll read that CEQ blasted manufacturing units that foul the air and slowly ruin our lungs. Will he read that smoking (cigarettes, too) was given up by a majority of 1970 UMass students?

Maybe this future person will be looking for what it was like to be a student in 1970.

Well, if you're listening, I'll tell you. It isn't all that great. For many of us every day it becomes harder and harder to find a reason to be here.

Our faces are haggard and our hair is long. (You knew that?) We're looking for as much money as quick as ever, except that maybe it isn't money any more. Just sheer hedonism. Of course the world isn't all that bad all the time for all of us. But sometimes I swear it seems so.

There are other times when all of us seem so united and so sure that what we're doing at the moment is worthwhile. Times and emotions like these are ephemeral, and their tragedy is that it usually takes a dramatic death or emergency to cause them.

Really, though, you in the future are the lucky ones. You can look back. I'd give a lot to know if the zeitgeist changed in the seventies; if the anxiety and the nihilism faded back into that beautiful idealism which we once seemed to have.

To the rest of my friends who read this column, you can do with it what you always do. File it.

Hot Lines

by David Stewart

(ED. NOTE: Not all the happenings on campus deserve headlines. But some deserve mention if only because they paint a picture of the times of our lives that are too easily forgotten among the "important" things that happen. HOT LINES attempts to record for posterity the minutia that make life on campus worth living. Contributions are welcomed).

SOME THINGS IN LIFE ARE STILL FREE...one Wit who asked the clerk at the SU sub-Post Office window for a pre-licked six-cent stamp not only got it, the other day...but with a smile, yet.

*****

EVERYBODY'S A CRITIC...a red Setter-plus type canine was observed approaching the entrance to Bartlett Hall, the other week. His purposeful trot came to an abrupt halt when he reached the piece of metal sculpture that has been rusting for more than six years to the left of the main door.

He looked up in apparent disbelief, searched intently for an alternate route to his destination (the south door), and finally slinked past the piece, giving it as wide a berth as the hedges allowed.

At the same time, he kept a wary eye on the anonymous magnus opus.

*****

THE ADMINISTRATION'S ANNUAL GRILLING of faculty has a new wrinkle. The new four-page form on which they recite their accomplishments (real or imagined) now requires the faculty to tell what each considers to be his "major" accomplishment in both teaching and service to the University... in 25 words or less.

The kindest inference is that "brevity is the soul of wit."

*****

SPEAKING OF POLLUTION... what with all the campus doings to promote a cleaner environment, some people still don't have the word.

The day after the Coalition for Environmental Quality kicked off its season with "less talk, more action", a University vehicle bearing Mass. Lic. S-4498 was merrily polluting the air and Rte. 116 south from the Connecticut River. Its load of grass cuttings, destined apparently for the silo near Lot 5, covered the road, infiltrated approaching autos and the nostrils of hay fever sufferers who were driven to their misto-meters.

The John Deere Chuck Wagon was not covered with a tarp, as required by law. And the three men crowded into the cab of the truck were blissfully unaware that they were making a contribution to the pollution.

CEQ, where are you?

*****

DEAR TEL. NO. 545-2228... news it isn't, when the Sept. 22 calendar of events in the Campus Center is still being announced on Sept. 25.

*****

PEARL HARBOR WAS CHEAPER... according to a story in the Magazine Industry News letter, the Dec. 7, 1941 attack on Pearl Harbor cost the Japanese $900,000.

When 20th Century Fox made the movie, the cost was $24,000,000-plus.

It's the high price of faking things?

mark silverman

The Experience

Mourn, decayed into pettiness, the culture lives in the past, convinced that the good is gone, that only in memories can the spirit live. It is fourteen months since the experience; and while there have been other attempts, only the Experience was real, only the Experience escaped the decay of the culture.

The others have bombed. The dead on the coast, the court order in Connecticut have only mocked the Experience. And even the Memory of the Experience is decayed. It can be relived on record ($9.98) and on the screen for $2.50. The Capitalists have taken over the Experience; its memory is a part of the decline.

And those who taged along to make the screen and those who weren't there but lie and say they were there are the worst.

"Remember the rain...Cocker was far out...I passed out for two days...remember the blue micro-dots...remember when Charlie OD'd?" They are the worst.

When a culture dies it is its people who kill it. It is those who become so concerned with status quo images and fear personal development as a sacrilege to the original culture, forcing the decay to come almost at the same time as the creation.

Woodstock is dead, if it ever did live at all. Its citizens were merely the cautious disapprovers, afraid to really move away from the parent culture. Their new culture was but a weekend's coincidence. And their memories are but proof of their culture's weakness. Dead is the person who lives by thinking about a past experience he himself imagined to be more than meaningless.

Each Wednesday, there will be a page devoted to the human creative instinct manifesting itself in the forms of poetry, illustrations, short stories or plays, songs, sonnets, photographs, and other musings of the spirits. The way to successful peaceful revolution and spiritual ecstasy is through art. Express yourself! Share what you feel with other sensitive and gentle folk.

. . . and this is a lawyer?

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 26 - Abe Fortas, former Supreme Court justice, in a magazine article made public this week, declared that it was "entirely unacceptable" for lawyers to encourage or to participate in courtroom disruptions.

In an article written for the Yale Law Journal, which will be distributed early next month, Mr. Fortas asserted that lawyers were obligated to make the legal system work.

"They are not at liberty," he said, "to disrupt or participate in disrupting its working by the tactics of the street or the barroom. Aggressive powerful representation neither requires nor permits this."

Contrast Is Drawn

Mr. Fortas, who is 60 years old, resigned from the Supreme Court in May 1969 after he had been nominated to be Chief Justice and had come under fire for his association with Louis E. Wolfson, a New York City and Miami Beach businessman convicted of stock manipulation.

Mr. Fortas reportedly has been working on a book, and last month he registered as a Congressional lobbyist for Loeb Rhoades & Co., New York City investment bankers.

In his article "Thurman Arnold and the Theatre of the Law," Mr. Fortas contrasts the attitudes of Judge Arnold with those of lawyers going into practice today.

Mr. Fortas wrote that causes were becoming more important to young lawyers than clients and argued that lawyers should maintain a professional neutrality that would permit them to handle cases for anyone in need of legal help, regardless of ideology.

'Serve and Represent'

In some instances, Mr. Fortas said, the client becomes nothing more than a technical necessity and the "undertaking is shaped and prosecuted not in defense or vindication of the client, but in maximum furtherance of the idea or program." That, Mr. Fortas called "project-lawyering."

In Mr. Arnold's time, Mr. Fortas said, the responsibility of a law firm was clearly "to serve and represent each client as an individual, whether the client was a corporate male-factor or a (presumably) saintly civil libertarian."

"Once a client had been accepted, the lawyer's course was clear," Mr. Fortas said, "if the interest of the client required the lawyer to advocate a position or seek a result which he personally disliked or even when he considered it contrary to society's welfare, it was the lawyer's duty to do so with all his mind and heart..."

'Hired Gun' Rejected

According to Mr. Fortas, lawyers should serve as agents and not as principals. "They should neither criticize nor tolerate criticism based upon the character of the client whom they represent or the cause that they prosecute or defend," he said.

"They cannot and should not accept responsibilities for the client's practices. Rapists, murderers, child abusers, General Motors, Dow Chemical - and even cigarette manufacturers and stream polluters - are entitled to a lawyer," he added.

Many Yale law students refer to that as the "hired gun" approach and reject it out of hand. Many say they were drawn to law school more in hopes of being able to provide social service than to gain financial reward and they look forward to trying to cope with such things as racism, poverty, consumer protection and environmental improvement when they graduate.

"The monetary impulse is 'way down'," said one student, "People want to subsist, but they're much more interested in giving their efforts to certain causes."

In an introduction to the coming issue of The Law Journal, the editors note that there is "some irony" that it is dedicated to the memory of Judge Arnold.

While his career and life ; "came close to being a model of the 'great life in the law'," they write, some articles in the issue question, at least implicitly, "his life as a model for the future."

Campus Comment

To The Editor:

In reply to the letter "By and For WMUA", Oct. 5, we offer these points of clarification.

1. "Name withheld by request" asks that the University "Build a Radio station for the students". (His words) WMUA is student owned, operated, and maintained and develops its entire philosophy of programming to serve the UMass student. WMUA is indeed an excellent laboratory for broadcasting oriented majors, which only serves to point out an inadequacy of the University's Speech Department, and at the same time, demonstrates a rare instance where student concern in an academic area has generated a facility of which all students of the University can be proud.

2. Those "serious-minded semi-professional broadcasters sometimes disguised as University students" ARE University students whose objectives are to enhance their own educational experience with practical experience, and to provide a valid and valuable service to the students of UMass-Amherst.

3. As for music providing "filler" between news and public affairs programming, WMUA by the non-commercial and educational nature of its license, has been endowed with the task of providing educational information and entertainment to the campus and surrounding communities. With this in mind, one can clearly see that WMUA is a second-service radio station, providing what cannot be found elsewhere on the band, or treating the programming in a unique and service-oriented manner, instead of the more common programming purely for commercial gain.

4. "Name" asks why seven turntables are necessary to provide this "filler". "Name" obviously does not understand the intricacies of radio programming and the engineering aspects of programming and production. All of the equipment at WMUA is designed to produce a quality product, and at the same time, provide a durable facility, saving students money in the long run. We invite "Name" and all students to visit your facility and, thereby, answer what questions you have.

5. Finally, programming decisions are made by those students who make it their business to spend fifty plus hours a week thinking about those decisions. As for you "poor Schmucks" ("Name's" words) who partake of the end product, we recommend you first come to understand the nature of WMUA's programming philosophy and then participate in the groundwork. I wonder if "Name" has ever seen our studios or come down to ask questions of our staff "disguised as University students"?

Power to the students, then to "Name Withheld by Request."

KEN HORSEMAN
Station Manager

To The Editor:

We have organized a nation-wide student organization called PEACE VOTES. The purpose of the organization is to raise money on campuses for ten Senatorial candidates who favor a peace-oriented foreign policy: Hart in Michigan, Burdick in North Dakota, Hartke in Indiana, Hoff in Vermont, Duffey in Connecticut, Metzenbaum in Ohio, Tunney in California, Moss in Utah, Stevenson in Illinois, and Williams in New Jersey. PEACE VOTES has been successful in reaching a number of campuses, but so far we have no representatives on your campus.

These peace candidates are badly in need of funds. Nixon and Agnew are raising millions of dollars to buy saturation television and Madison Avenue campaigns for their war-oriented candidates. We must act quickly to counter this flood of conservative dollars. Nixon is buying war votes; we must buy peace votes. Students who would like to help these candidates by distributing material and canvassing on your campus should write us today.

$5 or less from a fraction of the 7.2 million students in America can help elect Peace Senators. Contributions should be made payable to PEACE VOTES, P.O. Box 2700, Washington, D.C. 20013.

JEFF LERNER, Georgetown University
Co-Chairman & Treasurer

Traveling Circus

LONDON, Oct. 3 (UPI) - The Times of London has described President Nixon's entourage of aides and newsmen on his European tour as a "traveling circus."

The Times said in a commentary that Mr. Nixon's meeting today with Queen Elizabeth and Prime Minister Edward Heath at Heath's official country residence, Chequers, "must be one of the most expensive lunch appointments ever undertaken."

The newspaper said that the President's five hour visit to Britain "involves logistical planning worthy of a major military campaign."

Six helicopters have been brought from an American military base in West Germany to ferry Mr. Nixon and his party from London's Heathrow Airport to Chequers, The Times said. If flying weather is bad, Mr. Nixon will make the trip by car. Two bulletproof limousines have been brought in for this purpose, The Times added.

"The whole traveling circus - some 425 strong including over 200 newsmen - is contained in five airplanes," The Times said.

When in doubt . . . drop back ten yards and fumble.

15c 8:00 to 9:00 LARGE DRAFT BEER then THE ENDLESS KNIGHTS til closing
(a decent, different kind)

THE NEW MEADOW INN
See our NEW BAR
Rt. 47 Sunderland
Every Tuesday GET IT ON!!

WORRIED ABOUT NUCLEAR POLLUTION ?
WANT SOME FACTS ?
DVP PRESENTS
John W. Gofman, M.D.
of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory
Five College Open Forum
Thursday, 2-4 p.m., Colonial Lounge
Lecture on Nuclear Pollution
Thursday, 8 p.m., C.C. Auditorium

AFSC To Hold Fund-Raising Dinner

An eye-witness report of developments in South East Asia will be presented to residents of the Connecticut Valley on October 7th at a dinner and fund-raising event sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee.

Russell Johnson, Peace Secretary for the New England office of AFSC, has just returned from a four-month trip to Cambodia, Laos, Thiland and South Vietnam, and will give a first-hand account of events in these key areas. George Wald, Professor of Biology at Harvard University, will make the opening remarks at the dinner, which will be held at Campus Center at 7 p.m.

Mr. Johnson, well-known to school children and service clubs in the Valley as a lecturer on issues of peace and social justice, has directed the Peace Education program of the AFSC in New England for twenty years, during which time he has also traveled extensively in South East Asia and made personal contacts with political, intellectual and religious leaders there. Having returned in November, 1969, from a four week visit to Cuba to observe the effects of the Cuban Revolution, he left for Asia in May of this year. His report will provide background information for political action concerning the embattled areas of South East Asia.

George Wald is the author of the recently widely-printed speech at M.I.T., "A Generation in Search of a Future." Dr. Wald has done outstanding research in biochemistry, and in 1967 was awarded the Nobel Prize.

The American Friends Service Committee, a non-profit corporation administers projects of social and technical assistance through out the world, operates community relations programs in the U.S., conducts seminars on international affairs, and sponsors work and study projects for young people. It does not attempt to advance any particular political theory, and is entirely dependent on voluntary gifts. The evening of October 7th is intended both to inform and to help raise the funds necessary to carry on peace education work in New England. For information about tickets contact Betty Savereid at 549-3822.

Pre-Law Students to Meet

Tomorrow night at 7:30 there will be a meeting of all students interested in information on the pre-law organization. The meeting will be held in the Commonwealth Room of the Student Union.

Topics covered range from a discussion of this Fall's interview schedule to an explanation of the procedure for an application to law school. Any questions relevant to any aspect of application to law school, legal education, or careers in the law will be entertained.

All students, regardless of class, interested in attending law school are urged to attend.

On Thursday the University of Pennsylvania will be interviewing at Amherst College. For further information and appointments at these interviews contact Mrs. Fournier at 545-2554.

Auditions Slated For University Theatre

Tryouts for "In White America," the second University Theatre production, will begin Thursday, October 8th. The production is scheduled for November 18-21. Tryouts are on Thursday, October 8, and Friday, October 9, at 7:30 p.m. Tryouts will also be held on Tuesday, October 13, at 4:30, and Wednesday, October 14, at 7:30 p.m. All tryouts will be in Bartlett 119. Other times can be arranged by appointment with Vincent Brann, Machmer 402.

The casting calls for black actors as well as white actors....two men and one woman in each case...plus a guitar player.

All University students are welcome to try out. This is a unique and powerful stage documentary on the subject of the black man's progress in the United States, from the slave ships to Little Rock. It was assembled by Martin Duberman, a professor of history at Princeton University, and was widely acclaimed on Broadway and on tour.

HELP DETERMINE
SOUTHWEST'S LIFE STYLE

Southwest Assembly Elections

October 8, 1970

Nomination Papers available in Southwest Office — Coolidge Lobby

Nomination Paper Deadline — noon — October 7, 1970

MDC Hotline
5-2550

Spare Time Money

Are you interested in earning between $30 - 60 per week?

If you are active, aggressive, and want to learn how to earn this money in your spare time, selling a truly distinctive line of products imported from Europe, contact FINANCIAL AID OFFICE, Whitmore 237, for information, or send your resume to Parachem Corporation, 45 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, New York 10020.

PANHELLENIC CALENDAR OF SORORITY EVENTS OCTOBER 5-8

Panhellenic Council invites all University women to Campus Sororities at any time.

For further information call
Jan 5-0162

Monday 5th

SIGMA DELTA TAU	Women's Lib	7:00 - 9:00

Tuesday 6th

PI BETA PHI	Taffy Pull	7:30
KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA	Mystic Cult - (Speaker)	7:00

Wednesday 7th

LAMBDA DELTA PHI	"The Beautiful People" cosmetic night	7:30

Thursday 8th

TRI SIGMA	Barbecue	5:30
SIGMA DELTA TAU	Italian Night	5:00 - 8:00
PI BETA PHI	Spirit Night	7:30
ALPHA CHI OMEGA	Guest Speaker	6:30 - 8:00

Students Face Huge Scholarship Squeeze

Every few months I receive a press release proclaiming "Millions in Scholarships Go Begging." The releases are sent by computer scholarship search firms which match students' needs, interests and qualifications against huge banks of details on scholarships actually available today.

Sure, I know that there are a lot of specialized scholarships knocking around, for would-be vegetable growers future rodeo ropers, pottery majors and prospective missionaries.

But I will quarrel with the cruel implication, made at regular intervals, that huge sums of scholarship money are being wasted because students and parents simply don't know where to find such funds. It just isn't true.

The 7,500,000 students who have just returned to college this month are up against the biggest scholarship squeeze in our history.

Large numbers of families are being forced to deplete emergency rainy day funds - or take out bank loans at brutally high interest rates. In fact, there's evidence that a significant number of students just didn't make it to college this fall - for lack of scholarship funds.

Here are the facts on scholarships today:

According to the American Legion which publishes an excellent annual guide to student financial aid entitled "Need A Lift?" more than $2 billion in scholarships, loans and job subsidies for college students is now available. Nevertheless, a big part of the growth in financial assistance for college students in recent years reflects the growth of publicly-subsidized loan programs - not outright grants to students.

Also, federal funds of all kinds to assist college students, which were counted in the millions only a decade or so ago, now are counted in the billions. But, most federal funds are going today into low-cost subsidized loans and work-study grants, rather than into straight scholarships.

The key federal scholarship source is the Educational Opportunity Grant program, and through this program some 290,000 students are getting a total of $165 million a year in grants of $200 to $1,000 each. This program, however, is strictly for those in the very lowest income brackets. And the average grant is only $550 - 600 a year.

Similarly, the U.S. office of Education calculates, college students are now being awarded more than $130 million of scholarships by the colleges themselves. But the average scholarship now being awarded is only about $400 - a sum which barely touches real life financial needs.

And the story is the same for "low-cost" college loans, in case you think that huge pools of subsidized loan funds are "going begging," too. The average amount of this type of loan is only about $1,000.

And, the average federal work-study grant is only a little more than $400. The average low-cost loan for low income students under the National Defense Education Act is only $429.

Yes, record sums of college scholarship and loan money are available to record numbers of students today. But college costs are climbing at a far more rapid rate than the available amounts of financial aid and the competition for this money has never been tougher.

Scholarships are at least as hard to get today as they were in the past. And what's more, all evidence indicates that scholarships now pay for a smaller share of today's soaring college costs than they did a decade ago.

Strike Damage Listed At $12,780

Last spring's student strike following the U.S. invasion of Cambodia cost about $12,780 in articles missing or extensively damaged at the Student Union Building, Walter Grinnan, student union manager has estimated.

Grinnan said the loss will be made up by appropriations from the Student Senate or from student fees.

The actual cost of the items which must be replaced or repaired was $10,890, but replacement cost is expected to exceed the original figure given.

Grinnan went on to say that a remaining loss of $43,600 should also be considered, representing a loss of anticipated revenue of $26,000 in bookstore sales and also a loss of $3,400 because of early closing of the reception room.

However, one university official said this is subject to speculation.

Actual items missing after the occupation of the building were audio-visual aids and an American flag and accessories. Damage included knife slashes in couches, and damage to walls where posters were ripped off, tearing the wallpaper or damaging the paint.

"Some damage and theft which occurred during the strike was not done by striking students but by young people from surrounding communities," Grinnan said.

PHI NU DELTA IS STEREOTYPED

We all believe in the same things
Brotherhood and Individuality

COME AND MEET THE MEN WHO MAKE IT WORK

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 6 AT 9:00 P.M.
For rides call 5-2163 Fraternity Park

BLACK STUDENTS!

Would you like to help your Fellow Black Brothers

Avoid the DRAFT?

If so learn Draft Counseling

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 13, 20 — 7-11 P.M.

C.C. Rm. 175

2.50 for materials — scholarships available

Contact Draft Counseling Service

418E Student Union 5-2661

W.B.

AUTO INSURANCE

ALL DRIVERS
— LOWEST, LEGAL RATES —
— BUDGET PAYMENTS —

Tekoa Insurance Agency

160 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-2742

10 Broad St. Westfield 562-3604

You've got the world on a string in a Woolrich Fringed Vest.

Cuts you loose from the crowd with thong closure and a turn-on assortment of plaids or solids. Puts new life into body shirts. See if your world doesn't wear a lot better. Men's sizes: XS,S,M,L. About $15. Prep's 12 to 20. About $12.

Woolrich

Featured at:
HOUSE OF WALSH — AMHERST
HARRY DANIELS, INC. — NORTHAMPTON

Notices

ASTRONOMY CLUB
Meeting Wednesday, Oct. 7th. 8:00 p.m. Room 134, Hasbrouck Lab. Organization of new programs and discussion of open house Friday, Oct. 9th at Amherst Observatory. New members welcome.

CEQ
Anyone interested in a project on nuclear pollution and power plants, call Marie 546-8956.

COMPUTER SCIENCE
The state of the Art and Science of Computing in Russia and Japan by Dr. Jinsong Lee, EBE-112, 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 6th.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS
Meeting Tuesday night at 6:30 p.m. in Room 174 Campus Center.

COMPUTER CLUB
Meeting on Oct. 6th. at 7:30 p.m. Eng. East Room 114, talk on "Computer Technology in Russia and Japan." Everyone is welcome. New members may join at this time. Membership not a prerequisite to attendance.

COUNSELING CENTER
The Counseling Center offers students opportunities to participate in sensitivity groups directed by the counseling center staff. Interested students should sign up 243 Whitmore.

DELTA CHI
Smoker at Delta Chi "see how brotherhood and individuality combine" 314 Lincoln Avenue. Call 549156 or 549195 for information and transportation.

DRAFT COUNSELING SERVICES
Draft counseling training Tues. Oct 6th. 7 p.m. Campus Center 175. Contact Draft Counseling Services, 418E Student Union, 545-2261 before 4 p.m. Tuesday.

HEYMAKERS SQUARE DANCE CLUB
The regular square dance and beginners classes will be held in the Campus Center Aud., Tuesday, Oct. 6th

HOMECOMING
Applications for Homecoming Queen may be picked up at the RSO Office in the Campus Center.

HOMECOMING FLOAT PARADE
Mandatory meeting for organizations wishing to enter a float ONLY opportunity to pick up applications. Tuesday, Oct 6th. 7:30 p.m. Room 165 Campus Center

HOMECOMING PUBLICITY COMMITTEE
There will be a meeting for the Publicity Committee on Tues., Oct. 6th. at 8:00 in room 804-808 Campus Center. Everyone is asked to attend.

INTERVARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Stained glass conversation will be held Monday through Friday, 4:30 - 5:00 in the Nantucket Room, Student Union. Come with a friend and a desire to talk with others.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA
"Sunday Party," Oct. 6th. Tuesday at 7:00 Casual dress. See you there.

MAROON KEYS
Maroon Keys meeting, Tues., Oct. 6th. at 6:30 p.m. Room 801 Campus Center. Mandatory attendance required.

NAIADS
It is mandatory that you attend all practices. If unable please notify me. Linda 6-9713

NEWMAN CLUB
Movie "Jail Keys Made Here" a commentary on society and discussion led by Sr. Elizabeth Oliksala, S.P. Tuesday, Oct. 6th. at 7:30 Newman Center Social Lounge

WEIGHT PROBLEM
Are you between the ages of 17 and 25 and have an overeating problem, and would like to participate in a fun program designed to help you with it call Pam Hajjar at 545-0943 on Fri. from 1-2L30 p.m. and on Monday, from 2:30 - 4:00 p.m.

PRE AND PARA MEDICAL SOCIETY
Dr. Eugene Piedmont, a medical sociologist will present "Social Change in Medicine." All medical affiliated students should attend. Thursday, Oct. 8th., 8 p.m. Commonwealth Room, Student Union.

READING STUDY CENTER
Registration for 5 week course in "Reading Study Improvement" Oct. 6th., 6:45 Room 163 Campus Center. Class meetings Tuesday, Thursday at 6:45 - 8:15. No credit.

PI BETA PHI
Do you have ESP? Come and find out at Pi Beta Phi, 388 North Pleasant St., 7:00 to 8:30 p.m., Oct. 6th. All women welcome!

CLASS OF '72
Exec. Council applications are now available in front of R.S.O. Office. Must be in by Thursday, Oct. 8th., 5 p.m.!

CEQ
Speaker's project workshop tonight at 7 p.m. in Campus Center 171 for all those who are interested in the CEQ lecture program.

MPG
First meeting of secret MPG tomorrow at 7 p.m. in Campus Center 177. Make sure you're not followed.

HOCKEY CHEERLEADERS
Hockey cheerleaders will meet in the Campus Center Auditorium tonight from 4:30 to 6:30.

INTEGRAL YOGA INSTITUTE
There will be an open class in Hatha Yoga, breathing, and chanting and meditation in Campus Center 904-908 fr. n 5:30 to 7:00 p.m. tonight. Please bring a towel, loose-fitting clothes and an empty stomach.

COLLEGIATE FLYING CLUB
Meeting Wednesday in Campus Center 162 at 7:30 p.m. Al Duncan, control tower operator will show movie and answer questions.

SCROLLS
Meeting 6:15 today in Campus Center 165. Please bring candy money.

MASSASOIT COMMUNITY COLLEGE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION
Organizational meeting to be held at 155 Summer St., No. Amherst apt. 56 on Friday at 8 p.m.

PANTHER DEFENSE COMMITTEE
The Panther Defense Committee is having an open meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Dukes Room in the Student Union.

NES
Coordinating committee meeting scheduled for Tuesday evening has been postponed. See tomorrow's notices for new time.

ANGEL FLIGHT
Don't forget tonight's meeting in 210 Dickinson. Exec. Board will meet at 6:30 and a general meeting will be at 7 p.m.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
Find out how students have solved everyday problems using Christian Science. Everyone is invited to come to our Campus Center 911-915. Business meeting afterwards.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
Meeting Tuesday in JQA lobby at 5 p.m. Meeting to follow at 6 p.m. in Berkshire Clubroom.

FAIR PLAY IN THE MIDEAST
The Committee will have its first organizational meeting in Campus Center 174 tonight at 8 p.m.

TEACHER EVALUATION
People are needed for University-wide Teacher Evaluation and publication of booklet. Meet tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Campus Center 805.

SPANISH CLUB
We will meet for dinner in Hampshire Commons from 5 to 6 p.m. tonight.

TAU EPSILON PHI
Open House - school getting on your nerves? Take a break tomorrow nite at TEP's open house, from 8:30 on.

KRISHNA CONSCIOUSNESS
Anyone who would like to rap about Krishna Consciousness please contact Lee Roth in 204 Cance. 6-5024.

!USCC NEEDS YOU!

WORK WITH . . .

the Media, the Administration, or the State Legislature

ONLY YOU CAN MAKE UMASS

A BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Join the university and state communications council

Tuesday, October 6, 7:00 P.M. in the Colonial Lounge

If you were here as an undergraduate both semesters last year and don't have your INDEX yet, you can pick it up MONDAY thru FRIDAY, 9 o'clock to 5 in the INDEX OFFICE.

TEACHER — Noun, one that teaches or instructs ESP; one whose occupation is to instruct.

EVALUATION — Noun, the act or result of evaluating; judgement appraisal, rating, interpretation.

Teacher Evaluation Meeting

Tonight at 7:30, In Rooms 805-809

Campus Center

(If you want it, come.)

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

PEACE DOG TAGS — military style, one the Dove of Peace, the other Peace symbol. On 24 inch chain, $1.00. PO Box 461, Holyoke, Mass. 01040. tf10-8

Sansui 2000 Stereo Tuner Amp. Call 584-2367. tf10-8

Roberts 770X Tape Recorder-phone outputs, Praktica FX3 35mm camera w/Tessar lens, Alpex light, UCS electronic flash. Head competition skates size 210 cm. Call 549-6741. tf10-6

2 Guitars — one Eko model III, steel string $45. Also Yamaha FG-300 folk guitar w/case, an incredible buy at $100. Call Jim at 6-9109 anytime. tf10-8

For sale — CB150 (K3) Honda 6720 2000 mi., front disc brake, good reliable transportation. Excon. Call 665-3276. tf10-7

Roberts 770X88 Tape Recorder, 1½ year old, perfect condition, best offer, call 583-6066 or 549-1915. Ask for Harold Nilsen. tf10-7

Must sell 100" 2-piece sectional couch, recliner, club chair, tables, lamps, draperies, rug 9' x 12'; all in excellent conditon. Call 413-733-5076 after 4:00 p.m. tf10-8

Baby Boa Constrictor. Call 665-3072 — very friendly pet. tf10-7

1970 Honda SL-90 $350. Call Janet 584-2700, X301. tf10-13

40-inch electric range, good condition, $75. Telephone 584-4753. tf10-6

Mobile home 10 x 55 Detretter deluxe on lot in Orange, Mass., 24 easy miles from Amherst. Price $3000. Call 617-544-6036 anytime. tf10-12

Why spend more? If you want to see first and save. Call 6-6985, ask buy something, buy it cheap! See for Chief or Scott. 10-6-4-12-14

10-room house, 6 bedrooms, Main St., Sunderland. Ideal living for faculty. Mr. Conrad Abbott 665-3030. tf10-8

Boy's 26" English Bike, no gears coaster brake, new, saddle-bag-type baskets attached. Phone 1-527-9074 after 2 p.m. 10-6

Pioneer, Teac, Garrard, FE Astec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, LPs, 8 track and other necessities. Amherst Audio. tf12-23

FOR SALE — AUTOS

Senate Bus Driver Training Program begins Mon., Oct. 6th. Limit first twenty applicants — sign up outside SU Room 420. tf10-6

'67 TRIA-IRS BRG needs minor work but will take this into consideration of price. No reas. offer refused. Call Al 549-6666. tf10-6

BMW - 66 1800 sedan, must sell, name your price. 6-5451, ask for Phil. tf10-6

1968 Ford Galaxie X-L, black, PS, radio and heater. Reliable transportation. Call Mike 256-6629. tf10-8

1970 Z28 Camaro 4 speed 4:10 posi, am/fm radio, tinted glass, will consider trade. Contact Jim 6-6235. tf10-9

1964 VW bus, 59 thou. original miles on engine, trans., front end and brakes, body fair, asking $395. Call Alan 584-4607. tf10-13

WANTED

German tutor wanted one night a week. Call 253-5450 after 6 p.m. tf10-7

Women with unusual ideas for sensual experience with a desire to participate in the bizarre. Call 546-6308 or 546-6029. tf10-7

FOR EXCHANGE

Vacation rent-free anywhere, anytime with another student, with apt. or without. Thousand opportunities. Write: Enjoyment-by-Living, Box 783, Grants, New Mexico, 87020 tf10-8

SERVICES

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car, 197 No. Pleasant St. 256-6133. tf12-23

Will tutor French at all levels; and will type in French or English thesis papers etc. Call 549-6395. tf10-6

Do you need a tutor for your Spanish classes? If you are having trouble in first or second year Spanish, call Marv Burich at 546-7440. tf10-8

Alterations — pick up and delivery. Call 1-535-4795. tf10-7

ROOMMATES WANTED

Attention girls: Have your own room in apt. near campus $50/ mo. available now! Call Scotty 253-5517. tf10-7

ROOM FOR RENT

Female - room and or board available about one mile UMass within one block of Five-College bus stop. tf10-6 253-2148.

HELP WANTED

Ambitious couple who need more income. Unusual opportunity for good earnings for both. Works together, part-time or full time. Car necessary. Phone 1-413-774-3207 between 7 - 9 p.m. tf10-16

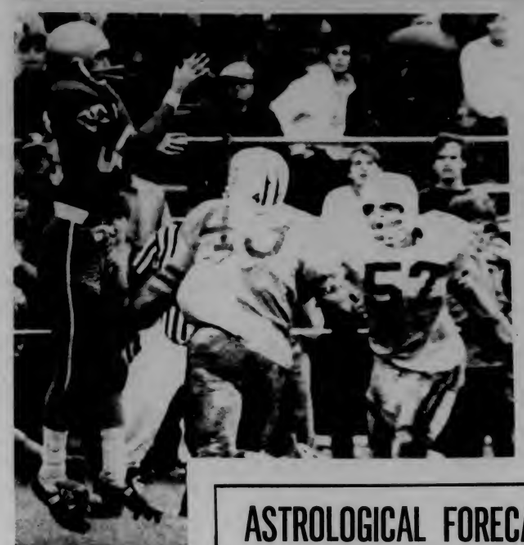
Babysitter wanted Wed. 8:30 - 1:30 preferably on campus. Call 586-7733 after 6. tf10-7

Waitress 21 or over, Saturdays 12 p.m. to 8 p.m. or 5 p.m. to 1 a.m., excellent tips, possibility of more hours. Call Aqua Vitae Restaurant 586-0300. tf10-7

Must take shorthand and type. Work on Campus. Call 665-4025 between 8 a.m. and 11 p.m. including weekends, part-time jobs. tf10-7

DRIVER TRAINING

Hardtop for MGB — fits any year, cost $250, 1 year old, will sacrifice for $140. Call Tom anytime at 253-7896. tf10-6



PERSONAL

Joe and Ralph Buck — your new nurses and values cramp your style and our enjoyment. 10-6

To Jon and the two midgets — have one hell of a birthday week from a sole Virgo, no mate. 10-6

AUCTION

Sat., Oct. 10th, 10:30 a.m., Bob's Barn, 5 miles east of Amherst, off Rt. 9, look for signs. Clothes dryer, bureaus, sofas, rugs, desk, chairs, kitchen sets, odds and ends, etc. Call 253-5881. tf10-5

OUT-BUFFALOED-In scenes from UMass' 16-13 last period loss to th State University of New York at Buffalo, the Bulls' Mike Sharrow (89 in photo at left) awaits a pass above the coverage of UMass' Dennis Collins (43) and Joe Sabulis, while suretackler Bill Bush (24 in photo at right) brings down Buffalo's Barney Woodward. (MDC photos by Gary Slickman)

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

Five of the greatest scientists to grace the stage of world history were also astrologers: Nicolaus Copernicus, Galileo Galilei, Tycho Brahe, Johannes Kepler and Isaac Newton.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Procedural change may be a necessity. What was taken for granted requires a new look. Be perceptive; detect trends and cycles. Avoid extremes. Obtain needed rest — and privacy.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Give logic equal time with emotions. Obtain greater balance. Avoid outbursts which call for later apologies. Degree of self-control can save money, time and embarrassment. Act accordingly.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Hold off on long-term commitment. Check with expert. Play waiting game. Seek delay if pressed. Time to finish what is on current agenda.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): New approach could solve employment dilemma. In personal area, you must make first step toward reconciliation. Means give a little in order to receive. Message will be clear.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Avoid extravagance. You cannot really buy affection. It will be given willingly, enthusiastically. But you must open yourself to the experience. Stop trying to force issues.

VIRGO (Aug 23 - Sept. 22): You may be in too much of a hurry to revise and transform. Obtain hint from Leo message. Check details. Be thorough. Accent on how well you succeed in building a solid base.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Postpone journey, if possible. Avoid writing letters in anger. Be diplomatic in dealings with neighbors, relatives. One close to you expresses frustration.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Not wise to mix money and friendship. Key is to be a cool, calculating investigator. You deserve more than promises. Make sure you are not being led into fool's paradise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 - Dec. 21): Some unusual demands are made. Overcome temptation to rebel. This is not the time. It is appropriate for you to perform duties, to add to prestige. Co-operate in special project.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Aid comes from unorthodox source. Be a willing listener. Avoid brooding. Stop berating yourself for past mistakes. The very next minute should become the first minute of the rest of your life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Some who mean well may be spending too much. Do some comparative shopping. You deserve to get money's worth. Study Scorpio message. You can learn now by doing.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Some breaks in relationships are indicated. Duties may conflict with personal desires. Key is to finish what you start. Those who are impatient may be showing their true colors.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY You have sense of drama. Your voice is compelling. You appreciate luxury, beauty. Often you are too sensitive for your own good. You are ambitious to point where wise choices will replace reckless abandon.

Copyright 1970, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Quarterback Club

The fourth weekly UMass Redmen Quarterback Club Luncheon will be held at the Newman Center on Wednesday, Oct. 7, at 12:15 p.m., to let out promptly at 1:15 p.m. A film of the UMass-Buffalo game will be shown with a narration by UMass head coach Vic Fusia. Also featured will be the awards for the offensive and defensive players of the week, a scouting report on Boston University (the Redmen's next opponent), a door prize and a raffle of choice game tickets.

Intramural Grid Stats

Leading Rushers (on passer)
Fisichella (Dildoughs) - 13
Woodcock (BX) - 13
Zajac (3 M's) - 11
Summer (Pied Pipers) - 10
Guglietti (Seagrams) - 8
Nieves (Lemons) - 8
Jarosz (Panthers) - 8
Warner (KS) - 7
Meatball (Dildoughs) - 7

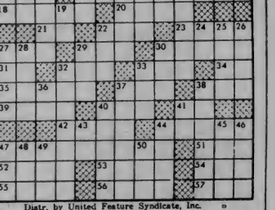
Leading Scorers
Brennan (Roadrunners) - 60 pts.
Jordan (Smashers) - 56 pts.
Brown (Redwoods) - 49 pts.
Whitten (Redwoods) - 48 pts.
Lewis (PSD) - 48 pts.
Rinkane (Lubees) - 44 pts.
Steverson (Hilo's) - 38 pts.
Dellaville (Tubes) - 37 pts.
Willis (Bulldozers) - 36 pts.
Petrides (TEP) - 36 pt.

Leading Receivers
Dellaville (Tubes) - 22
Cunningham (PLP) - 21
D.Cost (SPE) - 20
Brown (Redwoods) - 19
Faiite (Pied Pipers) - 19
Rinkane (Lubees) - 16
Sweeney (Aces) - 16
DiDonato (Aces) 15
Allegrezza (Burners) - 14
DeLuggan (BX) - 13

Roadrunners - 209 pts.
Leading Defensive Team:
Smashers - 0 pts.
SPSD - 0 pts.

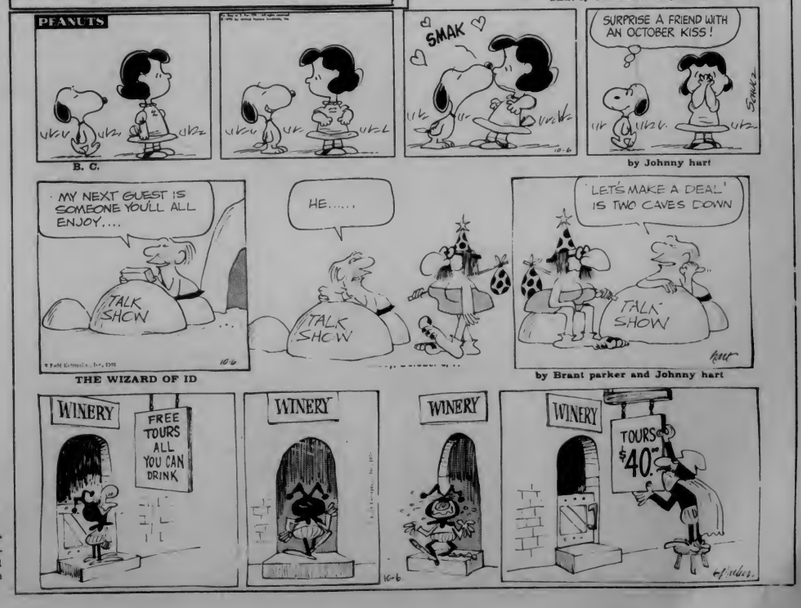
Frosh Hoop

FROSH BASKETBALL-There will be a team meeting of all freshman basketball candidates tonight at 7 in room 218 of the Boyden Building.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



ACROSS
1 Resort
4 27th President
8 Lane
12 Equality
13 Butter substitute (colloq.)
14 Silkworm
15 Ventilate
16 Smallness in nature
18 Instant
20 Youngsters
21 Brother of Odin
22 Everyone
23 Egyptian goddess
27 Pedal digit
29 Baker's product
30 Avoid 31 Bone
32 Obstruct
33 Fish eggs
34 Babylonian deity
35 Work at one's trade
37 Male
38 Swiss river
39 Anon
40 Headgear
41 Conjunction 42 Lubricates
44 Go in 47 Agreements
51 Southwestern Indian
52 Musical instrument
53 Cleaning substance
54 Measure of weight
55 Fruit seeds
56 Remain
57 Goal

DOWN
1 Quarrel
2 Couple
3 Come on the scene
4 Drink heavily
5 Beverage
6 Condition
7 Sum
8 Thoughtful
9 Exist
10 It is (contr.)
11 Possesses
17 Cyprinoid fish
19 Symbol for cerium
22 Goal
24 A continent (abbr.)
25 Mental image
26 Scorch
27 Covers
28 City in Norway
29 Dance step
30 Vast age
32 Supplies
33 Knock
36 Maiden loved by Zeus
37 Person supposed to bring good luck
38 Clever
40 Genera
41 Indefinite article
43 Prefix: not 44 Discover
45 Short jacket
46 Tear
47 Policeman (slang)
48 Japanese sash
49 Negative
50 Chinese pagoda

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Agressive Booters Blank Boston College, 3-0

by EDWARD DOHERTY
Staff Reporter

CHESTNUT HILL - For the third year in a row the UMass soccer team shutout the Boston College Eagles Friday, by a three-goal margin here at BC's soccer field, which is a dirt patch a little larger than the floor of the Cage but with many rocks and less grass.

The agressive Redmen took the entire first period to adjust to the unusual field as both teams were held scoreless. It wasn't until Rick Matuszczak and Lindo Alves teamed up about three minutes into the second quarter that the Redmen went ahead. For Alves it was his third goal of the season, a hard-earned head ball that paralyzed the BC goalkeeper.

Less than two minutes later the Redmen headed for BC territory again. This time Alves got his fourth goal of the young season unassisted to make it 2-0.

The Eagle defense then tightened up and it took a fine effort by senior Dave Piccus and sophomore Jeff Hague for the third goal as Hague chipped into the penalty area when Duane Brown settled the ball and drilled the final UMass score past the frustrated BC goalie.

In view of the fact that the hosts played a defensive game, concentrating on stopping UMass rather than mounting a drive, and that the field was in such sad shape, the three-goal performance by UMass can be considered adequate. The perfect netminding of Bill Leary can be considered an added plus.

Once again all players who made the trip, saw considerable action. The Redman backup forward line of Peter Broell, Bob Curtin and Bill Davidson consistently pursued the dragging Boston College fullbacks late in the game, while Tony Nunziante, Paul Gibavic, Scott Nickerson and Vin Grandonico completely dominated the midfield play when they were in the game.

But the depth of the Redmen can not be better illustrated than by the fact that starters Larry DeFelice, Brown and Alves could be alternated or rested with a choice of three outstanding forwards to substitute, Marc Cantor, Abdu Thraya or Gus Penon.

This week the booters are preparing for a big Yankee Conference game with always tough Connecticut. Two ailing fullbacks, Paul Slack and Dick McCarron, are expected to rejoin the team in the near future, possibly for the UConn game. When they do, the depth and experience of the fullback line will become one of the major assets of the team.

With juniors Slack, McCarron, Gary Hart and Joe Cerniawski, veteran Dan Howle and sophomores Dave Ouellette and Todd Buck, the Redmen have a rank as a serious threat to Vermont's Yankee Conference Crown.

JOE CERNIAWSKI

PAUL SLACK

Coach Broaca and captains Augie Calheno and Matuszczak are preparing the team for the rest of their tough schedule which finds Trinity here a week from Wednesday and then a UMass invasion of Rhode Island October 17.

Daily Collegian
Sports
VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 20
TUESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1970

Intramurals - Last Night And Tonight

FOOTBALL
Redwoods 43, Hilo's 0
Bruins 32, Eagles 0
Hemlocks 16, Maroons 8
Civil Eng. 13, Burners 12
Conglos 30, Bodies 6
Gotchas 30, Crestview 0

Oxford 12, Hacks 8
Cult 26, Lifers 6
Team 27, Dildoughs 18
Senators 24, Terrors0
"C" Crushers 21, Cans 15
Panthers 29, Bulldozers 6
Seagrams WBF Academics
Lions 12, Spartans 6
Colt 45's 34, Comanches 18
Flaming a's 25, Aces 20
Pines 48, Trojans 6
Bears 24, Oaks 6

TUG-O-WAR
Bulldogs 2, Tubes 0
3 M's 2, Browns 0
Dildough's 2, BX 0
Oxfords WBF Gak

KS 2, BKP 0
PSD 2, TEP 0
BX 2, DX 0
Seagrams 2, Cougars 0
Terrors-Academics double forfeit
Pipers WBF Dogs
Redwoods 2, Maroons 0
LCA WBF APO
PMD 2, SPE 0
PSK-SAE Double forfeit

FOOTBALL

FIELD	TIME	TEAMS
1	6:30	Smashers vs. Lubees
2	6:30	Gregorians vs. Outhouse T
3	6:30	Elephants vs. Bucks
4	6:30	Freaks vs. Bulldogs
5	6:30	Colonels vs. Duchies
6	6:30	Deacons vs. 3 M's
1	7:30	LCA vs. ZN
2	7:30	PSK vs. SAM
3	7:30	SAE vs. APO
4	7:30	PLP vs. SPE
5	7:30	TEP vs. DC
6	7:30	TC vs. BKP
1	8:30	Broncos vs. Pipers
2	8:30	Murgalroyds vs. Barracudas
3	8:30	Nurds vs. Brigade
4	8:30	Browns vs. Turtles
5	8:30	Puckers vs. Heroes
6	8:30	Gypsies vs. Lil Fellas

sPoRts shorTiEs

— AP —

BALTIMORE (AP) - THE STREAKING BALTIMORE ORIOLES charged into the 1970 World Series yesterday, riding the seven-hit pitching of Jim Plamer to an easy 6-1 victory over Minnesota to complete a three game sweep of the Twins in the American League championship playoff series.

CINCINNATI (AP) - THE CINCINNATI REDS clinched their first National League pennant since 1961 yesterday, completing a three game playoff sweep by defeating Pittsburgh 3-2 on Bobby Tolan's two out, two strike single in the eighth inning.

The victory sends the Reds into the World Series beginning here Saturday against the Baltimore Orioles, who won the American League pennant with a similar sweep of the Minnesota Twins.

Winning Season For Redmen Is Just Around The Corner

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

UMass' football team is a good one and will turn out to be a winning one very soon. After losing to the State University of New York at Buffalo, 16-13, the Redmen's record has dipped to 1-2. But the Redmen have showed gradual improvement from week to week and continued improvement in the future can be expected.

On the surface this just does not seem to be true because UMass won its first game, 28-0, over Maine, lost its second game, 27-0 to Dartmouth and now has dropped its third game for a sub .500 average of 1-2.

But a closer look at the first three games that have produced this 1-2 record reveals an improving Redman team.

The shutout victory over Maine was just not that great. The defense played well sure, but the offense sputtered often and, of course, the Black Bears aren't what they used to be.

In the Dartmouth tilt, the defense really grew in prowess, although the 27 points rung up by the Indians would lead one to think otherwise. Read into the play-by-play of this affair and it is found that the first two touchdowns of the game were scored against the Redman offense and that, in fact, the defense performed mightily, letting up in the fourth quarter partly because an inconsistent UMass offense placed a heavy burden on its shoulders.

And the Buffalo game? The offense showed more spark and the defense was excellent. The Redmen lost the contest but, very likely, it will be the last UMass down for weeks to come.

The basis for this observation results from pecking ahead at the next six Saturdays of Redman football.

Next weekend, UMass hosts Boston University and the Terriers are not as great as last year's BU squad, a team the Redmen defeated 14-9 in 1969 at a time when Vic Fusia's club held a 1-2 mark, identical to the present record.

Last fall UMass defeated Maine easily in the first tilt, then lost successive encounters to Buffalo and Delaware, before upsetting BU. This fall, a 1-2 Redman squad goes against a 1-2 Terrier squad and the former should prevail at home.

After that tussle, UMass will face Rhode Island away, Connecticut at home, Vermont away, Holy Cross away and New Hampshire at home in five consecutive Saturdays. URI is more spirited under new head coach Jack Gregory than it has been in years but the Redmen have the superior talent to take the Ram.

The UConn tilt should be really something. The talent-laden Huskies are UMass' major threat to another Yankee Conference title, but the Redmen will be home and, with the personnel to match UConn's best team in years, can win this big one.

Vermont presents no large problem; Holy Cross is away but the Crusaders are tailspinning and, although it gave UConn a tough time this past weekend, New Hampshire is in a class with Vermont.

UMass does have one more game scheduled after the six just mentioned and that one is home and that one is against Boston College. The Eagles have the best quality around and presently appear to have no peer in New England circles.

But, forgetting BC, the Redmen have the talent and the defense to play on a par or above each of the remaining teams on their schedule. Of course, certain pieces have to fall into the right places; the biggest for instance: UMass' offense which has to develop much more consistency, and that seems to be the main problem area.

Areview of the attack reveals that the offensive line is a strong one, although it was badly hurt by the banishment of star guard Pierre Marchando. Persons like Bob Pena, Bob Donlin, Dick Donlin, Dave Levine and Ron Marino have grouped together and have made the line a solid unit.

The ground game is very good also with long-yardage man Pat Scavone running well on sweeps, while fullbacks Dick Cummings and Dick Heavey nose their way through the middle of enemy defenses.

All of which brings one to the passing attack. Like the offensive line, the air corps was crippled in pre-season by the shelving of a star potential pro receiver, Nick McGarry. However, despite the loss of the big end, quarterback Ken Hughes has still completed 23 of his 44 passes so far, better than 50 per cent.

But passing has been a Redman down. Every UMass TD but one has been scored on the ground. Its not that the Redmen need better passing; they need more passing.

Forty-four passes in three games by a starting QB is not enough. Hughes' clutch end has been John Hulecki although split end Bob Cabrelli made a couple of big catches at Buffalo. Scavone is also a very dangerous receiver out of the backfield, so the receiving corps can improve.

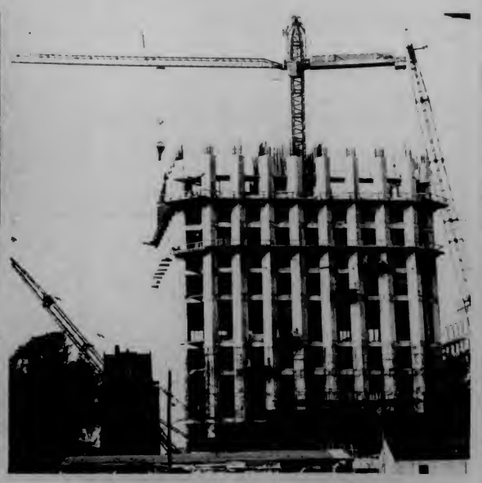
Hughes really needs to release the ball more often for he has been dumped by the defense on occasions when he had the proper time to throw the pigskin but had lost his receivers.

If this wrinkle can be ironed out, a more balanced Redman offense should be able to move the football more fluently which will allow the UMass defense to get some needed rest during the action, which will mean that UMass will win its share of football games.

MASS OF UMASS - In action from Saturday's UMass-Buffalo football game, the Redman defense stacks up punt returner Tom Elliott (40) as soon as he gets the ball. The UMass defense has come through all season but an inconsistent offense has proven to be the Redman's biggest weakness and been the main factor in UMass' two losses. (MDC photo by Gary Slickman)

NL-AL PLAYOFFS
Baltimore 6, Minnesota 1
Cincinnati 3, Pittsburgh 2

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 21 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1970



"Selling Of A Priest" Explained Last Night

Details, page three

• New Senate Elected Tomorrow
See page eight
• UM Prexy On Environment
See page two

October, 1969 — October, 1970

SPROUTING FROM THE MUD in front of South College, the University Library grows toward its eventual 28 story height. The foundation for the building was laid a year ago this month, and eight floors have been added in the last 12 months. The building's scheduled target date is Fall 1973. (MDC photos by Steve Schmidt and Al McArdle).

UM President Robert C. Wood (MDC Photo by Ed Fenwick)

Wood Calls Environment Major Political Issue

By BRIAN WHITE
Staff Reporter

UMass President Robert Wood spoke last night on the urban aspects of environmental problems, in the first of a series of "Views on the Environment" lectures in S.B.A. before 150 persons.

Dr. Wood noted a Playboy poll which had placed environmental problems second among the readers' list of priorities--behind the Indochina War, and tied with racial problems. "If the Vice President can quote it, I can," he observed.

The body of his lecture was devoted to listing some problems which will come with increasing population, especially concerned with patterns of settlement, and to proposing a few tentative solutions.

Our cities face spiralling property costs, which make it progressively more difficult to build low-cost housing, and increasingly unacceptable migration patterns, he said. The cities will get larger as time goes on, and more impossible to live in.

Dr. Wood proposed a carrot-and-stick policy on the part of the federal government--subsidy, on one hand, to encourage desired building, and more restrictions, to help control industry.

He noted Australia's incentives to full use of property through increased taxation of undeveloped land, which is in contrast with our urban tax systems, which encourage the use of land for, e.g., parking lots.

Asked by a member of the audience whether or not he was proposing a form of socialism, Dr. Wood agreed. He indicated that "socialism" is a loaded term: he did not wish to call his plans of action by that name, whatever they might come down to in practice.

what do you call a concrete coffee shop?
or — would you like $10 in the Coffee Shop?
if you do — enter the
AWFUL WAFFLE NAME THE WAFFLE's COFFEE SHOP the winner will be announced at the WAFFLE SMORGASBORD
oct. 14, 7-11 p.m.
concrete WAFFLE (campus center)
coffee shop

I think the coffee shop should be called
..... coffee shop.
name .....
address .....
tel. .....
entries should be deposited in the box at the scheduling desk (2nd level, C.C.) before 5 p.m., oct. 13.
WAFFLE LUCK!

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor). Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic or except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $7.50 per semester, $14.00 per year.

B.C. To Stop ROTC Program After Current School Year

Special to the MDC

Boston College will sever its ties with the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) at the end of the current academic year, the Rev. W. Seavey Joyce, SJ announced Monday, after the University Academic Senate had voted for its end on campus and student participation.

UMass is presently re-negotiating its contract with both the Army and the Air Force.

Student involvement in the program, Fr. Joyce said, has been dropping in recent years. Total undergraduate enrollment at Boston College is about 6,000, but there are only 106 students involved in the ROTC program.

Speaking for the board of directors, Fr. Joyce said: "IT IS THE BOARD'S judgment that the severance of ties with ROTC is the best course for the university at this time."

But the board made a proposal, unique in this area, according to Army officials, that an off-campus ROTC program be established by the Army.

Lt. Col. Frank Schofield, who heads the program at BC, said he had never heard of such a suggestion from other universities where ROTC programs have been cancelled.

"TO MY KNOWLEDGE, the Army has no plans to establish an off-campus facility," Lt. Col. Schofield said.

On May 6, the University Academic Senate voted 25-15 to end ROTC presence on campus, reversing a vote five months earlier, that supported retention by a 54-4 margin.

The May 6 vote came the day after a student rally after which some students stormed ROTC headquarters in Roberts Center. Students reactions at that time centered on a tuition hike, later modified, and the Cambodian invasion, according to Col. Schofield. Students had launched a strike on the tuition issue earlier.

"IN ADDITION to its consideration of the vote of the University Academic based on the result of hearings recently held on campus between the board and concerned representatives," Fr. Joyce's statement said.

"The decision also reflects the board's judgment that the interest of the Army and the students interested in the Reserve Officers program would best be served by training programs held in locations other than the college campus." the announcement from Fr. Joyce said.

Two freshmen, five sophomores, with the rest juniors and seniors, hold the scholarships, he said. These will continue if the student is able to transfer to another college where the ROTC program is operating.

He said that the letter he had received from Fr. Joyce regarding the severance of association with the ROTC, stated that Boston College will pick up the tuition costs for those holding the ROTC scholarships, but will not underwrite fees and books or the $50 monthly allowance.

The ROTC staff at BC which occupies office space in Roberts Center and classrooms in Carney Hall, includes five officers, two enlisted men and one civilian employe, Col. Schofield said.

The University Academic Senate is composed of 28 faculty members and 14 students, with 14 other university persons serving ex officio.

Sessions Begin In Two Weeks

Counseling Center Directs Campus Sensitivity Group

By ANNE STADNICKI
Staff Reporter

"Where am I going
And what will I find
What's in this grab bag
I call my mind?"

Sensitivity groups under the direction of the University Counseling Office are attempting to find the answers to these and other questions troubling the UMass student body this semester, spokesmen for the office say.

A sensitivity group is a microcosm of society where people look at themselves and their environment and learn about their here-and-now affects on others.

Each group is made up of eight to twelve members, both male and female, and a pair of co-trainers.

Meetings are held once a week in the late afternoon or evening for about two hours.

The group itself determines its goals and what it wants to do. Sensitivity is a personal experiment for selfgrowth and education. The trainers are merely the means to an end. They are present only to suggest methods of approaching the group's goals.

The Counseling Office became involved in sensitivity three years ago when the idea of such groups was a new concept.

Mental Health at the University initiated group therapy for students with problems and the Counseling Office at the same time arranged meetings for people that were just curious to know themselves better.

Two major reasons for the Counseling Office's involvement with sensitivity groups are to assure that qualified co-trainers are present at encounters and to attempt some sort of evaluation of group results to aid other groups.

Trainers in this program have background in psychology. They are all experienced and competent, many have been to NTL (National Training Lab) where they act as apprentices in sensitivity groups, learning to guide as they learn about themselves.

"A trainer has an ethical responsibility for other people" said Eleanor Bossi, three year veteran counselor at the office. She is a UMaass graduate, and, along with Fran Kelly, psychology intern, will work as trainor in addition to organizing the groups.

Kelly emphasizes the merit of an evaluation of the encounters. He says: "So far we have only the general impressions from a few of the participants. We need to know more of the results to understand how these groups help people."

Of the benefits of the group experience it was said that "the sensitivity group shows people how good they are and how they can develop themselves."

Popular opinion concerning sensitivity groups has frightened away many people, the co-workers agreed. there are no "hot-seat" attacks, they said. No individual will be torn apart at these meetings.

Later in the semester several marathons will be offered according to Kelly. They are sensitivity workshops meeting for ten or twelve hours. They serve as a sort of climax to the shorter group participations.

Sensitivity groups are not psychotherapy. These offered by the Counseling Office are not in conjunction with the School of Education or the Psychology Department. There is no cost.

Very few groups outside the University offer such opportunity for personal growth and revelation.

Prompt sign-up in the Counseling Office, 243 Whitmore, is advised since sessions begin the week of October 19th.

There Will Be No Collegian
Mon. Oct. 12

I already have my Index — do you?
INDEX OFFICE
Mon. thru Fri.
9 - 5

MDC
CLASSIFIEDS PAY

The Jesuit vs. The Republican

Drinan Outlines Campaign Issues For Students

By RICHARD C. HANSON
Asst. News Editor

"The 3rd Massachusetts Congressional district has a limited choice this year; a Jesuit or a Republican."

That's the way Father Robert Drinan described his candidacy last night in a crowded Thompson Hall. He called it the "selling of a priest."

Drinan, presently Dean of the Boston College Law School, told the UMass audience, that the "Drinan campaign" and September 15 Democratic primary victory were "un-precedented in Massachusetts, possibly in the states." The campaign he spoke of had mustered approximately 3500 volunteers in an impressive combination of "door to door personal contact" and computer campaigning.

Arriving late from a "cocktail party", Fr. Drinan flashed a peace sign and began an address which covered everything from abortion to Israel. Drinan outlined his three major concerns: the Vietnam war; domestic issues; and a "fundamental reordering" of life in the United States. He was particularly adament on Congressional reform, which had recently been defeated by Congress. Drinan characterized the present system of seniority in Congress as its "cancer."

During the question and answer period following his speech, Drinan clarified his views on the following topics:

Power in the U.S. - "The president and the pentagon control the country." He spoke strongly against the spending of $200,000,000.00 per day on war and defense.

October 31st peace demonstrations-" I will not participate October 31," Drinan expressed the view that demonstrations hadn't produced the necessary results.

Hatfield-McGovern-"Its the only legislative option available and even it can't be passed."

Abortion-"It is an illusion" to think that repealing the abotion laws will be a "panacea" Drinan stated that he "personally" felt that "a healthy woman taking the life of a healthy fetus was immoral".

War-"War...is obsolete." He urged a "war against war" and argued that unless a war can meet the "test of proportionality; the good achieved must out Weigh the evil," war has no place in the Nuclear age.

Middle-East-"We should keep the balance of terror" by replacing Israeli jet losses. He emphasized that this was by no means a solution and that the only solution to the conflicts lay within negotiated "settlements of differences between Israel and the Arabs." Drinan cited the U.S. failure to act properly in the Middle east over the last twenty years and that now the U.S. can only help "facilitate" a settlement.

Drinan was sponsored by the regional branch of Movement for a New Congress partially in an effort to recruit students for the Movement. Drinan was introduced by Ted Lawrence regional MNC director, who spoke about forming a UMass chapter to support peace candidates in the region, including Father Drinan.

The "Drinan campaign" as Drinan calls it had its origins one day when, as he explained "a nice man called me at my B.C. office and asked if I wanted to run for congress. I told him to send a letter." The man "nice man" happened to have been the representative of a coalition of Democratic peace oriented people, who wanted to un-seat Rep. Philbin; the 28 year veteran Congressional hawk and Vice Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee. Drinan told the UMass audience that "nobody discouraged him from running", so he did.

Drinan claimed that his candidacy went beyond the war and that he had taken a stand on "every domestic issue." "Our domestic and international problems form a seamless web" he said, promising to work toward a time when the people in the United States can "say to the world that we have created the most just and humane society we are capable of."

WMUA will broadcast Drinan's address this Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

A PRIEST ON THE RUN-"Its the only legislative option available," was Father Drinan's reaction to the McGovern Hatfield "end the war" ammendment. (MDC photo by Ed Fenwick)

Drinan Primary Victim Launches Write-In Race

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Philip J. Philbin, (D-Mass), upset by a Roman Catholic priest in a primary last month, announced Tuesday he will wage a ballot sticker campaign in a bid to retain the seat he has held since 1942.

Without naming names in a statement of his intentions, the self proclaimed conservative in cumbent charged "ultra liberal extremists and outsiders" were pouring money "in a golden stream into Massachusetts from outside sources to defeat me."

"The managers of this scurrilous campaign have stopped at nothing," he added, "and they reached down into the gutter to smear me and misrepresent my position on the principal issues before the nation. This has been one of the most shameful campaigns in the history of our state."

Philbin, 72, was beaten in the primary by the Rev. Robert F. Drinan, 47, an antiwar candidate who took time off as Boston College law school dean to run for Congress. The republicans nominated John McGlennon.

Philbin's drive is aimed at having voters stick his name on the ballot at the November election-an approach he described as "feasible and the only course I can conscientiously pursue in the interest of the district, the nation and the people."

He underlined his sincerity, and said: "... no stretch of the imagination could my inexperienced, freshman congressional [illegible] be [illegible] his credentials, possibly to form as effective [illegible] as I can [illegible] troubled times."

Teacher Evaluation Program Seen Getting Off The Ground

By PAULA MAXIM
Staff Reporter

Once again last night the Student Senate Academic Affairs Committee held an open organizational meeting for the Teacher-Course Evaluation Program. It had to be termed a success in that eleven interested students arrived and volunteered to form subcommittees. At the two previous meetings, absolutely no one showed up.

Tom Filmore, Chairman of the Academic Affairs Committee, was optimistic that the organization could now begin to function.

During the summer the committee was granted a $3000 budget to publish and distribute teacher and course evaluation forms. Model forms were sent to faculty members for comment and to date 160 faculty members have agreed to cooperate with these evaluations.

The coverage includes an estimated 10% of the courses offered, at UMass. The committee hopes for a 40% coverage in their first publicapon of the teacher-course evaluation.

This publication, to come out in Spring, '71, will attempt to "help the student use the elective system to his advantage." It will offer constructive analysis of the individual teacher's method and course content.

Filmore pointed out that the organization is "trying to prove the faculty that we're doing a good job here" and are not "out to murder them."

The committee hopes to "reward good teachers", to see that "teachers are recognized for their importance," and are used in their most effective capacity.

On the other hand, failings in course meanings and teacher shortcomings will be available to the students in order that they can elect courses which will meet their interests and expectations.

Operating with an additional $12000 publishing cost coverage from the Student Senate, the Teacher - Course Evaluation Program can prove to be an invaluable service to the students.

A similar program initiated at Dartmouth showed that a poorly evaluated course suffered a loss of enrollment from 25 to 30%, thus showing the effectiveness of such a service. With an adequate number of workers, this program can be successful in offering the students a guidebook, not a course descriptions, but of synopses resulting from student opinions and evaluations.

CANDIDATE
Representing Commutors for STUDENT SENATE
George M. McCullough
Basic Goal:
Establishment of Commuter Senate Representative Office

Will it be MINI or MIDI?
neither?!!
Meet the MAXI organization
ANGEL FLIGHT RUSH
Wed. & Thurs. Nites 7-9 P.M.
Colonial Lounge SU

LOOK at what we have for COEDS!!!
Make Ups by:
DUBARRY - PLAYTHINGS
BONNE BELL LOVE
COTY
MAXFACTOR
REVLON
AZIZA Fragrances by:
GUERLAIN - SHALIMAR
JEAN D'ALBERT
REPLIQUE
CHRISTIAN DIOR
MA GRIFFE
NINA RICCI
MAJA
MADAME ROCHAS
FEMME
JE REVIENS
CHANTILLY
TABU
WINDSONG
AND MANY, MANY MORE
COLLEGE DRUG
COME IN AND SEE FOR YOURSELF AT
4 Main St. Amherst

In The Nation And The World

Nixon To Propose Peace —Again

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon will give the nation Wednesday night what he called a comprehensive statement on the Vietnam war. He said it will include a major new proposal in an effort to break the deadlock at the Paris peace talks.

In a short, unscheduled meeting with newsmen Tuesday only 15 hours after returning from Europe, Nixon said he will make a radio television address at 9 p.m. EDT Wednesday that will be "the most comprehensive statement ever made on this subject since the beginning of this very difficult war."

He declined to give details of what he intends to say but told newsmen it will not be limited to Vietnam and will cover all of Southeast Asia.

As an indication of the U.S. attitude, Nixon said he has instructed the chief U.S. negotiator at Paris, Ambassador David K. E. Bruce, "to lay this proposal on the table" at the next meeting Thursday morning with representatives of North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

Nixon said the statement had been prepared "only after very thorough consideration of all the issues that are involved in our negotiating position."

Tarr Calls UN "Great National Tragedy"

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) - Calling the Vietnam war "a great national tragedy," Curtis Tarr, national director of the Selective Service System, said Tuesday the armed forces "will need to go through a long process of winning back the respect they lost" in the conflict. Tarr, on a tour of several states, commented at a news conference here that American involvement in the war was caused by a "leadership commitment without a national commit ment.

"We were involved by leaders whose reasons were probably good and sound but who made no real attempt to communicate their reasons to the people." Asked about the possibility of an all volunteer Army, he replied that "If you can get enough men of sufficient quality to do the job... by volunteer methods you're far and away better off."

He added, however, he doubted the armed forces could recruit sufficient manpower while the war in South east Asia continued.

He said the purpose of his trip was to familiarize himself with local draft board problems in an effort to set uniform standards in the 4,100 board system.

Panthers Seen Linked Internationally

WWASHINGTON (AP) - The Black Panther Party has established ties with "foreign revolutionary groups such as Al Fatah," the Palestinian guerrilla organization, a House committee investigator testified Tuesday.

A study of the Panthers' official newspaper indicates the party's ties with Al Fatah " have gone beyond the talking stage," investigator Stewart Pott told a subcommittee of the House Committee on Internal Security.

A most important recent trend, he said, is that the Panthers "are reaching out more and more for support and assistance to anti U.S. forces overseas."

He added that Panther sympathies "have developed from the point of giving lip service into actual support of foreign revolutionary movements." The study of the Panthers' official weekly newspaper and its Black Community News Service was prepared by the committee staff.

The subcommittee hearings into the Black Panther Party have been going on since February.

In reconvening them Tuesday, Rep. Richardson Preyer, D N.C., chairman of the subcommittee, said:

"We are particularly interested in whether the statements and pronouncements of revolutionary violence which emanate from national leaders or are printed in the Black Panther Party newspaper are intended as more rhetoric or the advocacy of a recommended course of revolutionary action."

Another committee investigator, Richard A. Shaw, said the Communist Party has sought to maintain strong ties with the Panthers.

However, he said, in answer to a question by Preyer, "It never has been established that they the Communists had any success establishing influence over the Panther Party." Shaw said two Panther representatives attended a Communist meeting where they were told "money was available to organize the black community" if the Panthers would take direction from the Communist Party.

Asked if the Panthers had accepted the money, Shaw replied: "Apparently not." He said the Panthers' frequent use of dictums by Mao Tse Tung apparently is "not to teach Communism per se but to instill the discipline necessary to effect revolution."

Shaw said the National Chapter to Combat Fascism as an arm of the Panther Party "which gives the party a broader base, allowing caucusians to participate both physically and financially."

Trudeau Meets With Kidnappers

MONTREAL (AP) - The Canadian Cabinet met Tuesday to discuss steps for the safe return of Britain's senior trade commissioner, in Montreal, kidnaped by Quebec separatists.

After the 2 1/2 hour meeting in Ottawa, Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau said he could not comment on the meeting, under the circumstances.

James Richard Cross, 49, whose job is the equivalent of that of a consul general, was seized on his home in Montreal Monday by armed members of the terrorist Front de Liberation Quebecois, FLQ which seeks the independence of Quebec. It was Canada's first political kidnaping and the 12th one in the Western Hemisphere since 1968.

Justice Minister Jerome Choquette of Quebec Province said the kidnapers demanded within 48 hours $500,000 worth of gold bullion and the release of a number of alleged political prisoners. They were to be put aboard a plane for Cuba or Algeria.

Montreal police halted their hunt for the kidnapers after the ransom note warned there must be no police action against the kidnapers, a police spokesman said.

The trial of an accused terrorist was postponed Tuesday so his lawyer, Robert Lemieux, could meet with jailed terrorists to discuss the ransom demand. He said his client, Claude Morency, charged with conspiracy to kidnap Harrison Burgess, U.S. consul general in Montreal, "prefers to win his freedom in court." He also said a number of other jailed terrorists hinted they would not accept asylum into Cuba or Algeria.

Grass Grows

Tokyo (AP) Marijuana smoking has spread from a few major cities to all districts of the country, a Welfare Ministry report said, and "worst of all is the fact that the use of marijuana has spread from foreigners to Japanese."

FRESHMAN

Get Out And Do Your Thing.

FRESHMAN ELECTIONS ARE THURS., OCT. 29th

NOMINATION PAPERS are due Friday, Oct. 16th

PRIMARIES are Thursday, Oct. 22nd

Pick up Nomination Papers in RSO Level #1 C.C.

If you don't do your thing someone else will do theirs.

DIG IT?

W.B.

☆ Only ☆ certain Americans can buy new Freedom Shares

☆ ASK WHERE YOU WORK OR BANK ☆

The other odor

Even bathing every day can't stop it.

Feminine odor starts internally, and no amount of bathing can remove it. Soap and water simply can't reach the area where the odor starts.

That's the reason you need Norforms"... the second deodorant." These tiny internal suppositories kill germs—stop odor effectively yet safely. In fact, gentle, doctor-tested Norforms are so safe and easy to use, you can use them as often as necessary.

No bath or shower can give you Norforms' protection. Get Norforms, and you'll feel secure and odorfree for hours.

The second deodorant.

Norforms

FREE NORFORMS MINIPACK plus informative booklet! Write: Norwich Pharmacal Co. Dept. CN-B, Norwich, N.Y. 13815. (Inclose 25¢ for mailing, handling.)

Name_____

Street_____

City_____

State_____ Zip_____

Don't forget your zip code.

24

THE HUNGRY-U

submarine sandwiches & PIZZA

ONLY QUALITY INGREDIENTS WILL SATISFY THE HUNGRY-U

AND WE USE THE FINEST BLEND OF ITALIAN TOMATO PUREE IN ALL EIGHT OF OUR GREAT PIZZA RECIPES.

COME IN AND ENJOY THE ADDED TABLES AND WARM DECOR OF OUR NEWLY EXPANDED SHOPE.

103 N. PLEASANT AMHERST MASSACHUSETTS 256-0300

Che's Troops Rise Again

LA PAZ, BOLIVIA (AP)-Civil war broke out between leftist and rightist military forces Tuesday in Bolivia where Latin America's master insurrectionist, Ernesto "Che" Guevara, was slain three years ago.

Leftists bombed the presidential palace and raked armed forces headquarters with machinegun fire. The battle was triggered by the resignation of leftist President Alfredo Ovando Candia.

The air force, supporting leftist Gen. Juan Jose Torres, launched six planes in a 15 minute attack on the presidential palace, and the small military garrison occupying it.

Rightist General Rogelio Miranda, who led the revolt against Ovando on Sunday, arrived at the palace after the attack and castigated Torres' forces claimed to have taken Bolivia's second largest city, Cochabamba, a national and international transport terminus 140 miles southeast of La Paz.

He denounced recent guerrilla activity in the northeast-which all but ceased after Bolivian troops killed Guevara in October 1967-and pledged to put it down. Guevara, Fidel Castro's right hand man in the Cuban revolution, had embarked on a campaign of revolutionizing Latin America.

Leftist troops followed up the palace bombing with a machinegun attack on armed forces general headquarters, Miranda's command post.

Residents fled the streets of La Paz. The capital's airport was closed.

A spokesman for Tores said, "The action will continue if the Fascists do not surrender."

Miranda forces moved new artillery into place at their strongpoints in the city.

Groups of university students in the capital declared themselves for Torres and a government that would be "nationalist, of the left and with participation of workers and students."

They asked the leftists for arms to join the fight.

Miranda named a military triumvirate loyal to him. He decided to remain in the background without an official title.

The armed forces radio said the junta would retain power "for some days" until it could name a new president.

Ovando sought asylum in the Argentine Embassy.

A group of air force officers loyal to Ovando answered Miranda immediately by declaring Torres, who was eased out as commander of the armed forces 2 1/2 months ago, "president of the revolutionary committee."

Two civilian Cabinet members-E. Ortiz Mercade, planning minister, and Oscar Bonifaz, minister of mines-resigned to fight against Miranda's attempt to take over this tin mining nation of 4.3 million people.

War "Must Be Escalated" - Riad

(AP) - Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad of Egypt expressed willingness Tuesday to extend the Middle East cease fire by 90 days after it expires Nov. 5 but he ruled out any withdrawal of missiles from the Suez Canal truce zone as the United States and Israel demand.

At the same time, Egypt's ruling political party declared that the struggle against Israel "must be escalated in all fields" and called for a strengthening of relations with the Soviet Union. The party, the Arab Socialist Union founded by Gamal Abdel Nasser, met in Cairo to ratify Anwar Sadat as Nasser's successor as president.

In New York, the United States told the other three big powers at the United Nations it is pointless to talk about guide lines for a Middle East peace until Egypt pulls back the antiaircraft missiles.

But Riad, talking on television in Cairo, declared the missiles were placed in the canal zone before the cease fire went into effect Aug. 7 and that none would be withdrawn.

The foreign minister accused the United States of violating the cease fire it had initiated by agreeing to supply arms to Israel.

He also said Arab nations could begin applying pressure on the United States by threatening to shut off Middle East oil supplies.

Riad spoke out in the first Egyptian governmental policy statement since Nasser died of a heart attack Sept. 28.

On Monday, Israel made its 21st. complaint to the U.N. commission supervising the cease fire on the canal, charging that Egypt was continuing to build bases for its Soviet supplied missiles within 18 miles of the waterway.

Israel has insisted it will not return to the negotiations with Egypt, Jordan and U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring until the missiles are pulled back.

U.S. sources said the American position in seeking Middle East peace guidelines was stated at a private meeting of deputy representatives of the United States, the Soviet Union, France and Great Britain.

Ambassador Christopher H. Phillips, the U.S. participant, asked for a suspension of the meetings, saying that the alleged missile movements in the canal truce area "have raised doubts whether there is a sincere desire for peace."

Big four meetings on the level of chief delegates will continue, however, with the next one set for Monday.

In other developments, the head of an Arab team supervising the truce between Jordanian government troops and Palestinian guerrilla forces denied reports of fig

In other developments, the head of an Arab team supervising the truce between Jordanian government troops and Palestinian guerrilla forces denied reports of fighting in northern Jordan Monday.

The truce team said nearly 16,000 captured Palestinian fighters have been released from detention camps and another 1,850 would be released shortly.

S.Sgt. Mitchell Charged With Murder At MyLai

FT. HOOD, TEX. (AP)-The judge in the first court martial stemming from the alleged My Lai massacre rejected as premature a plea Tuesday to have the trial date changed, clearing the way for selection of members of the court Wednesday. S. Sgt. David Mitchell, 30, is charged with assault with intent to commit murder. The Army accuses him of shooting at 30 South Vietnamese civilians during an attack on My Lai on March 16, 1968. He has pleaded innocent. The defense raised the issue whether Maj. Gen. William Desobry, commander of the 1st Armored Division, followed the recommendations of the military judge, Col. George B. Robinson, in naming a new court martial panel from which Mitchell's court will be selected.

Ossie Brown of Baton Rouge, La., the chief defense attorney, asserted that Desobry had failed on four counts to follow the judge's recommendations.

Brown said the general's reappointment of two colonels who were on the original panel was done "directly in the face of the request your honor made."

The colonels, Erwin R. Brigham and Richard G. Trefry, were recommended by name to the former commander of the 1st Armored division by the division's staff judge advocate, Lt. Col. Edward Lassiter.

Brown said Lassiter recommended the next day, Sept. 29, that Brigham and Trefry be retained on the panel. Brown also noted that four of the other eight officers on the panel are under the command of either Brigham or Trefry. He said he was in the Navy during World War II and "we who have been in the military nd who are in the military peculiarly know who is expected of us."

Brigham, Trefry and a third member of the new panel, Lt. Col. J. Bruce Tripp, all were in the United States during the period of greatest news coverage - October 1969 to April 1970 - of the alleged My Lai massacre.

None of the members of the new panel are from outside the 1st Armored Division despite the judge's recommendation that other commands at Ft. Hood also be drawn upon.

No second lieutenants or warrant officers are on the new panel despite the judge's recommendation that all officer ranks be represented. The judge said he would wait until after lawyers for both sides have had an opportunity to question the panel befor e accepting the motion for a change of venue.

ANOTHER MOVEMENT ON CAMPUS

EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY

AS OF WED., OCT. 7

All Peter Pan buses will load on the north side of the Campus Center Parking Garage. Tickets and information are still available in the lobby of the Student Union Building.

Springfield — Worcester — Boston — Bradley International Airport

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR — Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER — Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR — Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR — John Sullivan

PHOTOGRAPHY EDITOR — Steve Schmidt
ADVERTISING MANAGER — John Fayad

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Mark Silverman
NEWS STAFF — Diana Traywick, Denise Magnell, Mike Aroian
DARKROOM — Ken Emory, Ed Fenwick
SPORTS — Ken Littman
AD LAYOUT — Sherry Morse
EDITORIAL — Ed Bryant

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

"I'm Gonna Cut You Guys Down, Do You Hear? Cut You Right Down!"

Ed Bryant

A Few Thoughts, And Some Love

I don't have a column tonight. There are enough ideas kicking around in my head to fill the Albert Hall, but none of them add up to a column. I could ask myself why I write these things in the first place, and why it is so necessary to write one tonight. I don't however, want to bore anyone with my own private introspection. The problem is that I've already laid out the space, and I want to fill it. So what I'm going to do, I think, is to write about a lot of things, snorties, if you will. Few people read anything beyond Sidney Omarr and the comics anyway, and maybe I can clear my head out.

Janis Joplin has been on my mind. She died. Is that important? Forty thousand Americans, and many, many more VietNamese have died in a war that would be silly if it weren't so damned real. Everyone dies eventually. And people who look for the definitive comment when something happens like this really annoy me. (In KING COHN, a biography of Harry Cohn, late president of Columbia, the author begins by quoting the reaction of every celebrity he can find. That's sick.) But Janis Joplin died, and I cannot deny being affected by the news.

I never met her. Oh, I know a few Joplin anecdotes that are not public knowledge, but that's insignificant.

What does seem real, to me, is my memory of her sining. I only heard her once, after she had left the Holding Company. I was disappointed with the Joplinaires, who didn't seem as good as Big Brother did on records. But Janis. She poured forth her soul, and her unbelievable voice, throughout her regular set. She sang her first encore, her voice clearly demonstrating that it was overworked. Janis gave too much of herself when she sang. Then she came back for another encore, long after she should have been resuscitating her damaged throat. I've seen men lift tremendous weights. I've seen world record shot puts and miles. I've seen people push three thousand pound automobiles up hills. But I've never seen anyone work as hard as Janis did singing Ball and Chain. It was overwhelming; I'll never forget it.

You can't sing like that if you're satisfied. I wish Janis was happier, and I wish she could have lived forever. She gave.

I heard another song yesterday. It wasn't Janis Joplin. A guy I know wrote a song about someone, someone we share. We both tried to write a song about her. Because both of us had tried to reach her, and each of us failed. There was no rivalry, for we extended ourselves at different times. Still, each of us shared the same frustration.

It's not a happy song. He knows her, well. His feelings paralleled mine. We could have hashed and rehashed the topic many times; we would never have come as close to understanding but for the song. My song never went anywhere. His went to my soul. We're closer now, because of a song.

* * * * *

I think everyone should love everyone else. It would not only solve a lot of problems; it would also be good merely by itself, without considering the ramifications. Think about being happy to see everyone who walks by you each day. About saying hello to people whose names are a total mystery to you. About not having to be witty or sensitive or virile, or on the distaff side, beautiful, easy, or feminine, to score somebody. Think about no one ever trying to score anybody again. About everyone offering free dope, which you'd probably turn down because you didn't need it. About not being afraid of what others think of you. About black people and yellow people and red people and white people just becoming people. About ecstasy, pure and sustained.

It's nice to think about. Peace.

Tony Granite

Campus Carousel

UP THE FACULTY...The Washington University has dropped the 10 percent discount policy for faculty, according to the newspaper, Student Life.

The result is an estimated saving of $18,000 a year which might result in a 7 per cent reduction in prices of non-book items.

Now if the store can find as easy a solution to the shop lifting which results in a loss of $15,000 a year, everybody will get it in the end.

*****

HEADLINE GRABBER on the U-Texas campus, of late, has been a long-haired member of the swimming team who has been suspended because he won't get the haircut his coach has decreed.

The campus ombudsman is in the act on the side of the breast stroke star because, according to a Daily Texan report, "It is our contention that certain due process procedures must be followed...in order to suspend any athlete." So far, he's still high and dry.

*****

COOL COW CONTRIBUTES QUARTS MORE, according to The Daily Reveille of Louisiana State University.

The Dairy Department there has discovered , after two years of experiments, that "If a cow keeps a cool head, she will produce three more quarts of milk a day than her hot-headed sisters."

Verily, there is a moral there for the rest of us.

*****

END YOUR 'MORNING AFTER' DOUBT is the headline in The Vidette of Illinois State U. that describes the "first do-it-yourself pregnancy test, which will allow women to find out in 60 minutes" with 95 percent accuracy.

Don't be five per cent safe! ****

TENT-IN TONITE?...housing shortages at the University of Michigan are being protested by students and "guests" camping on the plaza in the center of the campus.

It all started Sept. 1, when 30 students set up a tent community after a large number of freshmen was told the university might not be able to provide them with housing.

Even though rooms have since been found for all students, 15 of the original protesters are still tenting out. They have been joined by young people "just passing through."

University authorities are playing it cool. Their only hangup is that the campers must move their tents every few days to avoid killing the grass (lawn, that is). ****

SHUSHING SPIRO...Editor-in-Chief Dennis Adams of the Central Michigan U. Life writes that "Allowing Agnew to speak without resistance is probably the best way to combat Spiroism, for this tactic leads directly tothe best of all cures, a foot in the mouth."

And it also assures a prognosis of continued freedom of speech.

*****

THIS NEWS IS GOOD NEWS..."They" tell with glee about the four-letter words,pornographic pictures and other no-nos which appear in the campus press. That's NEWS.

But when a newspaper like the Daily Evergreen of Washington State U. runs a Church Directory column in its Friday editions, no one ever mentions it.

Whaddya want? Good grammer and good taste?

*****

WANNA GO TO COLLITCH?...The Argus of Illinois Wesleyan U. says that there are 7.6 million students enrolled in American Colleges, this fall. The increase of one per cent over last year finds 5.6 million students enrolled in public colleges which employ 394,000 faculty.

The cost of public higher education is estimated at $17 billion.

Taxpayers of the nation, be thanked!

*****

UP, UP, UP AND AWAY...Basketball Coach Ed Gregory's chances of a winning team are looking up, this year. He's signed Neal McCoy, a 7'2" freshman from Sacramento, to play with the smaller boys at Fresno State College. The big man is pictured in nine column inches of the campus publication, Insight.

*****

THE HIGH COST OF SKIPPING CLASSES...at Washington State U., they're peddling lecture notes for $6 per class per semester, according to an announcement in the Daily Evergreen.

Notes for each class, are published once a week. They are taken by juniors or seniors who have previously taken the course and earned a grade of A or B.

There's no indication that the prof gets any royalties.

*****

GAY DOGS AND PET CATS appear to be the principal subjects of conversation at MIT, accordingto the Tech.

When the Student Homophile League requested the use of MIT's Student Center as the pad for a city-wide gay mixer, the administration denied the request. Four months later, it is still explaining why in print.

Also on page one appears the recitation of a tempest brewing over the campus rule that bans pets in dorms.
Seems that cats are enrolled in one dorm, while rumors put three French poodles and a German Shepherd in another.

SPCA, where are you?

*****

MEANWHILE, IN SEOUL, KOREA...Chang-ang University has conferred an honorary degree on David D. Carver. The campus newspaper, The Chun-and Herald, identifies him as secretary-general of the International PEN Club.

He was cited for "the promotion of friendly understanding between the peoples of the world."

On the absence of a translation of the acronym, PEN, one may but assume that Dr. Carver is the world's number one Pen Pal.

Campus Comment

To the Editor:

We would like to point out the dangerous shortage of security guards on night duty on campus this year. Recent events in Southwest and in the Quad demonstrate clearly the need for a larger security patrol.

Last wek there was an armed robbery in a Southwest dormitory. Students were bound and gagged at gunpoint. Earlier that evening there was an attempted holdup in the Quad. One of those arrested in Southwest was identified as having also participated in the Quad affair.

Because of student objection to the raise in room rents, the University cut funds for the Campus Police for 1970-1971. At present the nine dormitories in Northeast are patrolled by one policeman, who quite obviously cannot be in more than one place at a time. This invites theft, as witnessed by last week's events.

Entering the dorm late at night is another related problem. Many dorms do not provide keys for residents. After one o'clock, entering the dorm is an extremely difficult. Because of the cutback, security guards ar impossible to find. As a result, students often leave doors open, in order to avoid being locked out. While this is an obvious invitation to burglars, the problem of not being able to enter the dorm is a real one.

We ask that all dormitory residents be given keys to the front door to their dorms. We also ask that funds be found to increase security protection. As constituted now, the protection afforded us is inadequate. Armed robbers are a serious threat to the property and safety of everyone. Clearly we need more protection. We ask that the University take steps to eliminate this dangerous situation.

Marcia Cohen, President, Mary Lyon House
Maureen McManns
Patricia Vaccar

robbers are a serious threat to the property and safety of everyone. Clearly we need more protection. We ask that the University take steps to eliminate this dangerous situation.

Marcia Cohen President, Mary Lyon House
Maureen McManns
Patricia Vaccar

Hot Fad Sunday Float

Icebergs in the northern sea

crashing

7/8 below seelevel

... reckless sleepers with their heads on airpillow sweet dissheveled restless bodies under blanketcover ...

MOTHER PUNCH worn out Titanic Assassin calls LITTLE FROZEN in a dryvice voice--

"O RNA ment!
don't be late for D-NA!

... sun shines bounce in a temperature trance off the runnynose waves thru the arctic sneeze ...

Speeding Gulfstreaming it wouth

he replies--

"On a hot day

you cacan melt forever"

Blessing

The silence. Bless the silence
Bless the vast tranquility in whose midst the grandfather clock is free to fill the air with a tender steady beat while I shelac the wooden bench where I always like to sit beneath the shade tree

Evening is here as I turn the porch light on and fall into my rocking chair.
Bless this quiet feeling -- for in it I can sing a prayer

Requiring a dues ex machina

Seated in a storm,
the storm inside her mind
Images fleet faster than leaves fall
Her heart, though kind, and her mouth discreet
trailing far behind.
Bittersweet loveliness almost, almost.
But afraid of butterflies and things that sing.
Riding the edge of a whirlpool, lovely, lonely
almost in harmony, the tranquil perimeter of dragonflie eyes.
Almost near.
Harried leaflet of lies of fears, of hopes, her dreams thunder inside
faster than leaves fall, and fall, more slowly than her cannabis grows.
Almost, nearly.
Falling rain does Fall.

Larry Trillo — Hot Fad Sunday Float
Lance Reidy — Blessing
Gary Slickman — Requiring a dues ex machina
Dr. Dick & Dr. Lou — Photography Layout

Elections Tomorrow

Swan Song For Old Senate Tonight

By WAYNE SOINI,
Senate reporter

Tonight the old senate meets for the last time, if a quorum is achieved. Tomorrow a new senate will be elected. How new?

All of last week there was much speculation as to what changes would occur. Locked-up nomination papers have now been validated and made public by the chairman of the Student Government Association, Leo Clark. Their apparent disappointing secret is that voters tomorrow will have, in most cases, little choice. Thus, the question "how new?" can be answered in advance-not very new at all.

There are 23 incumbent senators running for re-election. Eight are literally unopposed, seven (in the special commuter situation) are virtually unopposed, and the remaining eight are running strong in every case, sometimes against nominal or divided opposition.

These 23 plus the 3 senate officers, who remain in office until next April, constitute not the majority of 87, but the leading minority. The new senate will very likely be shaped around the present officers and committee chairmen.

There will be at least 61 new senators. They are not members of tickets or parties. They are going to be elected tomorrow as individuals, often on popularity rather than platform. And any new senators coming with axes to grind will need a month or more to learn procedures.

A majority of the races tomorrow are unopposed contests. Twenty-three dorms presently have instant winners on paper, one candidate on the ballot for one senate seat. Historically, some of these winners have always lost to write-ins and last-minute sticker candidates. Three dorms-Cance, Hills North and Patterson-have two candidates on the ballot for two seats.

There are actual contests, for the first time in a while, among candidates for the three fraternity seats and two sorority seats.

Nineteen dorms also have more candidates than offices to go around. The commuter race is unusual in being a contest of picking losers-thirty people running for twenty-seven seats.

There are vacant seats also. No elections will be held tomorrow in Brett, Leach, John Adams Upper, Coolidge Lower, and Coolidge Middle. No candidates appeared from these dormitories to file nomination papers. Also, when a dormitory entitle to two seats in the senate iiles only one candidate, the spare seat lapses and will remain vacant. This occured in dorms such as Baker, Field, Grayson, Mackimmie, etc.

Who's in charge after tomorrow? The old senate, for a while at least. Tomorrow is still election day and write-ins are legal, upsets are still possible. But sooth-sayers in the center of the storm pouring over the entrails of the nomination papers box are predicting STATUS QUO.

SGA Chairman Leo Clark, in charge of elections, has established the polling place for commuters, fraternities and sororities in the Cape Cod lounge of the Student Union from 9 to 5 tomorrow. Dormitory lobbies or lounges will be polling places for respective dorm races between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. Come with your ID.

SENATE MEETING TONIGHT will be the last meeting of the present senate as the senate will have elections tomorrow. Here President Glenn Elters (R) and Secretary Kathy Gwiazda preside over a recent meeting.

Colleges Are Either Clamping Down or Co-Opting

By the Associated Press

Thousands of college and university students returning to campuses this fall are finding the law laid down about demonstrating, occupying buildings, and other forms of protest.

New antiviolence measures across the country range from electronic sensors and secret tactical plans to revised codes, judicial machinery and penalty procedures. More are in the works.

The new rules come in the wake of last spring's campus turbulence which closed or disrupted hundreds of colleges in protests related to Cambodia and the deaths of four students at Kent State.

Some schools are offering students encouragement to get involved in the System through participation in political campaigns.

Higher education authorities were preparing to stiffen their stands against violence months before President Nixon's Sept. 16 admonition to " stand up and be counted" and similar recommendations from his Commission on Campus Unrest.

On Sept. 18 trustees of Southern Illinois University specified activities that will be punishable by suspension or expulsion and listed among more serious offenses the occupation of a university facility in defiance of administrative orders.

The same day, regents of the University of Washington passed unanimously a five point conduct code with a controversial clause that forbids "intentionally inciting others to engage immediately in any of the conduct prohibited herein."

The University of Wisconsin, long plagued by violence, reflects two aspects of line drawing. The state regents have set forth categories of offenses for which students may be disciplined by the school.

They include damaging or attempting to damage university property or programs, endangering safety of university functions and conviction of certain crimes.

Complementary to these by laws, the Wisconsin administration has adopted a code that specifies other offenses, including possession of firearms and unauthorized use of sound equipment. It provides for school discipline plus fines up to $500 and as many as 90 days in jail, such penalties to be imposed by county courts.

California's giant state college system has made a sweeping crackdown, including abolition of faculty and faculty student panels that used to hear cases against students. Now disciplinary hearings are to be before the college president, closed, with a prosecuting attorney and the opportunity for a defense attorney "if proper early notice is given."

Stanford University, which says its disruptions last school year cost more than $500,000, has a new acting president, historian Richard Lyman, and an array of preventive measures.

A booklet to incoming students outlines campus rules and the judicial system.

Measures under consideration to identify disrupters include more highly trained campus police, photographs of disruptive incidents and use of faculty, students and staff as observers.

Some schools, like Northwestern and Emory universities, have informed students in advance that if they don't like the rules-as Northwestern put it- "you should spare yourself and the university future troubles by reconsidering your decision to enroll."

Sources say a few institutions are trying to head off violence by screening applicants. Oklahoma State's dean of students, Abe Hesser, said: "We are watching enrollment procedures and identifying students who have had problems on other campuses. We are counseling these students and, in some cases, not permitting them to enroll."

Interestingly, the digging in of heels comes at a time when mass disruptions might be waning. The American Council on Education compared studies of campus unrest for last academic year and the year before, and concluded that while protests increased in frequency and prevalence-with two thirds of all institutions affected-they were only about half a severe.

Antiviolence mesures are far from universally popular. Many students and faculty members have called them repressive and likely to increase polarization' Some student governing bodies as at the University of Washington, have raised objections. The United Professors of California urges its 2,500 members to boycott new disciplinary procedures applying to faculty.

OPEN HOUSE
Tonight 8:30
TAU EPSILON PHI
418 N. Pleasant St.

Reminder! All applications for Homecoming Queen must be returned to the RSO office at the Campus Center NO later than Oct. 14.

BEER 15¢ BEER
FROM 9:00 TO 10:00 TONIGHT
THEN
THE FABULOUS "D. J."
AT THE NEW MEADOW INN
RT. 47 "Get It On" SUNDERLAND

NOW WORLD WIDE!
THE MAIL BOX
SUPER DISCOUNT SOUNDS
Lowest overall prices anywhere on 8 track tapes, cassettes, & provocative & groovy posters at super low discount prices. Speediest delivery & completely guaranteed. Send for our current catalog of selections & their low prices. We have a complete line of rock, pop, blues, soul, country western, folk, jazz, classical, gospel & soundtrack. For free catalog mail your request to:
The Mail Box, P.O. Box 2417
San Francisco, Calif. 94126

FOR ALL TYPES OF HALLMARK CARDS
GO TO HASTINGS!!
45 South Pleasant St.
Amherst

Former NASA Director Named As UMass Vice President

Franklyn W. Phillips, former Director of Administration for the NASA North Eastern Office in Cambridge, has been named Vice President of UMass it was announced by University President Robert C. Wood.

In his new post, Mr. Phillips will administer the budget and fiscal affairs of the University system. In addition, he will coordinate the planning, budgeting and fiscal affairs of the three campuses in Amherst, Boston and Worcester.

In 1941, Mr. Phillips joined the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics (NACA) which was the predecessor of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. He spent the next four years engaged in research at laboratories in Virginia and Ohio.

In 1945, he was appointed to the Director's Staff at NACA Headquarters in Washington, D.C., where he was responsible for the management of programs being carried out in government laboratories as well as in university and industrial facilities.

When the National Aeronautics and Space Administration was established in 1958, Mr. Phillips wau appointed Special Assistant to the first administrator, T. Keith Glennan. He also served for a period as Secretary of the President's National Aeronautics and Space Council. He was appointed Special Assistant to the second administrator of the Space Agency three years later.

In 1962, Mr. Phillips became Director of the NASA North Eastern Office in Cambridge, Massachusetts. He later joined the NASA Electronics Research Center in Cambridge where he served as the Director of Administration.

A graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Mr. Phillips also attended the General Motors Institute in Flint, Michigan and has studied at the University of Maryland and the Brookings Institute.

As member of the Americar Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, the American Society for Public Administration, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science, he has also been active in community affairs in Wellesley, Massachusetts where he and Mrs. Phillips have their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips have a son who teaches in the public school system in Amherst, and a daughter who is married and lives in Waltham, Massachusetts.

FRANKLYN PHILLIPS

N.E.S. Tutoring Service Seeks Student Involvement

The Northern Educational Service tutorial program conducted the third in the series of Sunday orientation meetings last weekend.

Mr. Len Lockley, the director of N.E.S. in Springfield spoke to all the tutors, giving a brief history of the N.E.S. program and describing how the N.E.S. staff could help in the tutoring process.

Mr. Arthur Smith spoke later to a group of elementary tutors on tutoring problems and turor interaction with tutees from economically deprived areas of Springfield. Both Mr. Lockley and Mr. Smith stressed the need for patience in tutoring with the emphasis placed on changing the tutees attitude toward education instead of actual improvement of academic grades.

Mr. Smith is the Center Coordinator of the N.E.S. Main Street Center.

After the talks workshops were held in which demonstrations of games using construction paper were shown to the elementary tutors. The secondary level tutors were shown a film which is part of a multi-media educational game set. The set includes paperbacks, records and action orientated workbooks.

So far the orientation sessions have been general in nature. Those sessions scheduled for Oct. 18 and 25 will deal with specific tutoring techniques and problems. Marty Klein, the N.E.S. Coordinating Committee Tutor Director will be handling the workships for these meetings working closely with personel from the School of Education. Marty has a year of tutoring experience as a VISTA volunteer.

The number of students who have volunteered to tutor from UMass number a little over 300 so far. This is hardly 2% of the campus. N.E.S. as a student organization is not looking for more tutors to develop a reputation of biggest tutoring service in the area. Rather, it is looking for more tutors to fill a need of education.

The N.E.S. Coordinating Committee invites ALL the campus to join in a program that offers humanistic responsibilities, teaching and learning goals.

If you are interested in organizational activities that make a tutoring program work please attend our meeting tonight.

S.O.A.P. Study

The Student Organization Against Pollution, a new ecology group on campus, is set to begin taking five special problems courses in English, History, Psychology, Sociology, and Zoology, each dealing with a different aspect of ecology.

The S.O.A.P Commandos, as they call themselves, is an independent study group of twelve students living in Moore House.

They are action-oriented in that they will be involved in a process-oriented approach to our ecological crisis. Their main concern lies in the method of dealing with the problems rather than the goal of solving them, per se.

The group will deal with phosphated soaps in the area and the recycling of wastes in the University.

Young Workers Lib League Views Markism Tonight

The Western Mass. branch of the Young Workers Liberation League will hold the first of a series of Marxist educationals tonight in Rm. 811 of the Campus Center at 7:30.

The topic of tonight's educational will be "The Fundamentals of Marxism" and the discussion will be based on the following questions.

1. On what basis does Marxism claim to be a scientific theory?
2. How is Marxism different from the bourgeois study of history?
3. What are classes, and what is the significance of class in Historic development?
4. What is historic materialism?

The Young Workers Liberation League is a new multi-national, interracial, working class, Marxist-Leninist Youth organization. The Y.W.L.L. is a member of the World Federation of Democratic Youth which has several million members.

All interested persons are invited to come and participate.

Campus Guidelines For Protest Toughen

A growing number of colleges and universities around the country are issuing new guidelines on campus dissent that generally take a firmer stand against disturbances by students, nonstudents and faculty than in previous years.

The movement comes in the wake of student strikes, building seizures and demonstrations that closed or disrupted hundreds of schools, last spring.

The guidelines designed to eliminate any possible confusion over a school's policies toward campus demonstrations, range from specific regulations published in handbooks to general philosophical statements on freedom of expression issued at the school's opening or in letters to students, parents, faculty and alumni.

In Washington, the American Council on Education, which is surveying 1,200 institutions of higher learning on their campus protest policies, has found that "the greater majority" of the 400 schools replying so far have issued some form of statement on "permissible limits of campus protest."

The final findings will be compiled this fall.

A spokesman said a preliminary study of the responses indicated that "college administrators are prepared to act firmly and decisively to protect their institution's physical facilities and to protect those within the institution's community from harassment or interference with their regular duties and responsibilities."

The policy statements are part of a broad campus preparation for the new school year that includes, in some cases, improved and expanded campus security forces, undisclosed contingency plans for major disturbances, and revised student judicial systems. As such, the statements fulfill a major recommendation of the recent report of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest.

Typically, the policy edicts combine promises of maximum freedom of expression on campus with firm pledges of prompt action, including possible use of the civil authorities, should there be disruption of classes or other academic activities, threats of violence, or violation of freedom of expression.

Few of these provisions have yet been invoked. Typical of the firm stands was that taken early last month by the University of Missouri's Board of Curators, which adopted the following statement:

"In a community of learning, willful disruption of the educational process, destruction of property and interference with the rights of other members of the community will not be permitted."

Promising "prompt and appropriate disciplinary action" against violators, the board's statement also invited "students, faculty, administrators and employees who are not in sympathy with (this) basic philosophy" to sever their relationship with the university.

At Yale University, undergraduate regulations have been revised to dispel any student belief in immunity from civil prosecution and to condemn and penalize disruptive campus actions.

John Hopkins University has designed a new conduct code for its Arts an d Sciences division defining two broad areas as being subject to disciplinary action: conduct that abridges the rights of others and conduct that impairs the school's effective functioning or damages facilities.

At Kent State University where four students died in demonstrations last spring, new restrictions are aimed at nonstudents on campus. All visitors at night must register. All students must carry the elaborate new identification card. And few campus events are open to non university personnel.

Demonstrations must be registered 24 hours in advance. They are prohibited on the Commons, scene of the fatal encounter last spring with the National Guard, and must not block other university activities.

The provisions, the first such in the school's 60-year history, also allow the immediate suspension of any student or teacher suspected of violations. A hearing would follow within 10 days.

The 33,000 students returning to the University of Washington in Seattle last week were given a new six-point conduct code that applies equally to faculty.

3 THEATRES UNDER 1 ROOF
Campus Cinemas
256-6411
AMHERST HADLEY LINE
#1 EDWARD G. ROBINSON IN HIS FOR PURPOSE
A movie as American as Mama apple pie. Daddy's home on the range and Uncle Hamlet being epic.
"The people next door"
Nightly at 7:15 & 9
#2
Nightly at 7 & 9:15
FELLINI SATYRICON
#3
AN ALL STAR CAST!
STANLEY KRAMER'S
"IT'S A MAD, MAD, MAD, MAD WORLD"
STARTS WED., OCT. 14 — "FANTASIA"
STARTS FRI., OCT. 16 — "CATCH - 22"

AUTO INSURANCE
ALL DRIVERS
— LOWEST, LEGAL RATES —
— BUDGET PAYMENTS —
Tekoa Insurance Agency
160 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-2742
10 Broad St. Westfield 562-3604

EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO SKI
Tennis - Soccer - Football - Hockey
including professional fitting at WESTERN VILLAGE SKI SHOP
Western Auto
32 Main St., Northampton

Q-Club
HAPPY HOURS
EVERY FRIDAY!
Start 4:30 P.M.
D.J. IN PERSON
Rt. 9, Russell St., Hadley
253-9214

Spare Time Money
Are you interested in earning between $30 - 60 per week?
If you are active, aggressive, and want to learn how to earn this money in your spare time, selling a truly distinctive line of products imported from Europe, contact FINANCIAL AID OFFICE, Whitmore 237, for information, or send your resume to Parachem Corporation, 45 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, New York 10020.

Notices

RALLY
Friday night at Campus Center facing the Pond

BICYCLE CLUB
Important meeting Thursday, Oct. 8, in room 175 of the Campus Center at 7:00 P.M. Constitution and first trip will be discussed.

ANGEL FLIGHT
Rush parties will be held Oct. 7 and 8, 7-9 P.M. in the Colonial Lounge and Oct. 13, 7:30-9:30 P.M. in room 209 Dickinson Hall. University women are cordially invited. Come on down and meet the Angels.

CEQ
Anyone interested in obtaining summer grants for environmental research please contact Gary Kamen. 6-7783.

COLLEGIATE FLYING CLUB
Meeting Wed., Oct. 7, Room 162 C.C., 7:30 P.M. Al Duncan, control tower operator will show movie and answer question.

PAN HELLENIC
Pan Hellenic invites all university women to Lambda Delta Phi's cosmetic night. "The Beautiful People" at 7:30.

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Stained glass conversation is in Nantucket Room S.U., from 4:30-5:00 P.M. this week

MASSOSOIT COMMUNITY COLLEGE ALUMNI ASSOC.
Organizational meeting to be held at 155 Summer Street, No. Amherst, Apt. #56, Friday, Oct. 9, at 8:00 P.M.

NAIADS
Practice will be held today 4:30-6 P.M. Bring your suits BUT don't forget to put YOURSELF in them!

PANTHER DEFENSE COMMITTEE
The Panther Defense Committee is having an open meeting Thursday, Oct. 8, at 7:30 P.M. in the Dukes Room in the S.U.

HOME ECONOMICS MAJORS
Have you joined AHEA yet? Applications available in Room 120 Skinner. Make a difference - join college chapter AHEA!

MEHER BABA LEAGUE
There will be a meeting 7:30 P.M. Thursday, Oct. 7, at the Campus Center Room 173 for anyone interested in discussing drugs, religion and BABA.

BIOCHEMISTRY SEMINAR
"Some Biochemical Defects in Down's Syndrome (Mongolism)" Speaker: Dr. Martin Appleton at 11:30 A.M., Thursday, Oct. 8 room 252 Goessmann Lab. Coffee will be served at 11:15 A.M.

BIOCHEMISTRY SEMINAR
"Hormonal Control of Polyamine Synthesis" Speaker: Dr. Yutaka Kobayashi, 11:30 A.M., Thursday, Oct. 15, Room 252 Goessmann Lab. Coffee will be served at 11:15 A.M.

INTEGROL YOGA INST.
There will be a general meeting of all people interested in the Integrol Yog Institution, Friday 6:00-7:00 P.M. in th Campus Center room 904-908.

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Film, Urban '67, Thurs. Oct. 8, 7:30 P.M., Memorial Hall. Important meeting to discuss Urbanes and plans for this semester. Please come.

HILLEL
Hillel exec. board meeting, tonight 6:30 P.M. in the Middlesex room, S.U. All welcome.

WHITE-DUKASIS COMMITTEE
Canvassing in Springfield; meet at Morrill Science Bldg., Bus Stop at 3:00 P.M. We will be home by 7:30 P.M.

ACCOUNTING ASSOCIATION
The tape of Orson Well's "War of the Worlds" scheduled for 8:15 P.M., Oct. 8 in Maher has been cancelled.

MPG
First meeting of secret MPG project, Oct. 7, at 7:00 P.M. Campus Center room 177. Make sure you're not followed.

OUTING CLUB
Whites trips this weekend - next weekend Bently's and Skull. See bulletin board for details.

WOMEN'S LIBERATION
Meeting to form action groups and Women's Information Center. Campus Center 805-809, Oct. 7, at 6:00 P.M.

SDS
Ally with campus workers - fight male chauvinism! Meeting to discuss further building of anti-imperialist movement at U. Mass. Wed., Oct. 7 at 7:30 P.M. in room 169 Campus Center.

COUNSELING CENTER
The Counseling Center offers students opportunities to participate in sensitivity groups directed by the Counseling Center Staff. Interested students should sign up in 243 Whitmore.

CEQ
Anyone interested in a project on Nuclear Pollution and power plants, call Marie 546-8956.

ASTRONOMY CLUB
Meeting Wed. Evening Oct. 7, at 8:00 P.M. room 134 Hasbrouck Lab. Organization of new programs and discussion of open house. Friday Oct. 9 at Amherst Observation. New members welcome.

PSYCHOLOGY OF HIGHER EDUCATION
Will meet in Bartlett 202, Thursday at 4:00 p.m.

UMASS SPORT PARACHUTE
skydiving-Meeting of UMass Sport Parachute Club; all interested persons invited. Tuesday, Oct. 20, 8:00 Room 174 Campus Center.

BIRTH CONTROL LAWS REFERENDUM
See Bill Baird in the Colonial Lounge, Thursday, Oct. 8 between 1 and 5 p.m.

COLLEGIATE FLYING CLUB
No ground school tonight. Sex life of Cessna to be discussed at monthly meeting. Be there. Campus Center Room 162.

SOCIOLOTY-PSYCHOLOGY 101
"Women on the March" and "Fabienne" (a biography of a night-club entertainer) will be shown in Maher today at 4:40, 8:00 and 10:00.

N.E.S.
Coordinating Committee meeting tonight (Wed.) at 6:30 in Rooms 911-915 of the Campus Center.

SMC SMC Steering Committee meeting to be held Thursday, Oct. 8, Room 174, 176 Campus Center at 8:00 p.m. All other persons welcome.

UMASS CHESS CLUB
The Chess Club will meet Thursday, Oct. 8 at 7:00 p.m. in Room 811 of the Campus Center.

UMASS STUDENTS FOR SARGENT/D-WIGHT
"A real R.S.O. group" Meet at press gate five minutes before end of football game Sat. for bumper sticker distribution.

UMASS STUDENTS FOR SARGENT/D-WIGHT
Join our bumper sticker distribution team. Call Randy Sloane, 243 Cance, 546-5051.

YOUNG WORKERS' LIBERATION LEAGUE
YWLL will hold an educational class on the fundamentals of Marxism-Leninism Wednesday, Oct 7 (tonight) at 7:30 p.m. in Room 811 Campus Center. Everyone welcome.

LOST
In Southwest area - Wire rim glasses in black case. Please call 6-5363 if you find them.

CEQ
Interested in making films on the environment? Meeting Wednesday night at 7:00 p.m. in the CEQ office, Campus Center, Room 124.

CEQ
Mobile art display in front of the Student Union Tuesday thru Saturday. Tiny "jewel" paintings on the environment.

CEQ
Meeting students going on CEQ Raft Trip on Oct. 10-11. Meet in WOPE pool at 8:30 p.m. Bring clothes to swim in, plus bathing suits and towels.

MENTAL HEALTH SERVICE
Married Students: Series of 6 weekly discussions on "Problems of Marital Adjustment for the Student" beginning Oct. 13 from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Mental Health Service, stadmer Limited enrollment - couples only. Call Mr. Siddall at 5-2337.

SOPH CLASS STUDENT NURSES
Want a CORNY time? Come to the POPCORN PARTY in the Social Lounge at the Newman Center, Thurs., Oct. 8, 8-10 p.m. Sponsored by the Soph. Student Nurses.

LOST
Multi-course red notebook by Campus Center Bookstore Tuesday Oct. 6, 3:00 p.m.

Please return if found - very important papers and notes that are only of use to me. Peace.

Brown printed umbrella at 10:30 Concert Saturday night. Call Carolyn 546-6607.

Hermes 3000 typewriter. Please phone 253-3590.

Two commemorative medals of sentimental value. Call 546-6596 or return to 317 Dickinson.

Brown briefcase, (U.S. Citation). Last seen by Campus Center elevator.

Brown briefcase, (U.S. Citation). Last seen by Campus Center elevator, West side, Lower level. Contents: 3 books: ABNORMAL PSYCHOLOGY, CELL BIOLOGY, and VINGT ET UN CONTES, plus 3 notebooks. Please call 665-2928.

Glasses lost between P-10 and Middlesex Sept. 28 afternoon. Gold-rimmed, untinted, Peter Fonda-fetish specials. Call 5-0156 Maureen Middlesex Basement.

University of New Mexico indentification cards, athletic cards and drivers license in brown leather purse with shoulder strap. Call Kathy or Gina 6-9919.

Gold toothpick in leather case. Initials DLN inscribed. Call 546-9756.

Boundlike 6 months old brown puppy with floppy ears, named Rip. Please bring to 312 Puffton.

Men's Tissot wristwatch. Gold face, leather band. Please return to DONRoom 324, James House 6-7758.

Black prescription sunglasses. Return Call Paul 6-7758.

Light blue denim hat, with a Sole Power button over small silver M pinned on top. Lost a week ago Friday in Franklin Dining Commons.

At Big Ep. Friday night: girl's gold watch. If found, please call Pat 546-9094.

One 10-speed purple Schwinn racing bike. Please return to 1501 JFK or call 6-7807.

Pair of men's black prescription sunglasses. Call Paul 1108 JFK 6-7758.

Brown suede fringed jacket-man's size 40. If found, please contact Linda Anderson 408 Mary Lyon. 545-2516.

YOUR AUTHORIZED DEALER
NORTHAMPTON VOLKSWAGEN, Inc.
• SALES • SERVICE • PARTS
COMPLETE BODY SHOP
246 KING ST. (RTE 5) NORTHAMPTON
Your Authorized Dealer
584-8620 Open 9-9 — Sat. 9-5

A E Pi will NEVER Die!

BIG SMITTY'S DELI RESTAURANT
featuring
HOT PASTRAMI — HOT CORNED BEEF
OPEN 10 A.M. to 2 A.M.
Opposite Zayre's Tel. 253-3481

VILLAGE INN
LUMS
Restaurant
HOT ROAST BEEF SANDWICHES
Hot Dogs steamed in beer with Sherry flavored sauerkraut
Eat in or take out
Open Daily
11 A.M. - 2 A.M.

ONLY MINUTES AWAY VIA RT.91 OR MASS. PIKE
HONORED HERE
ACRES FREE PARKING
RECLINING ROCKER LOUNGES
2 ART GALLERIES
GROUP RATES
Showcase Cinemas 1 & 2 & 3 733-5131
RT.5 RIVERDALE RD. W. SPFLD.
1 'Joe' is a 'this-minute' film: a movie truly of our times and demanding to be seen this minute." —Judith Crist, New York Magazine
"Joe" R
Mon.-Fri. 2-7:25-9:40
Sat. & Sun. 1:30-3:30-5:35-7:35-9:40
2 Barbra Streisand Yves Montand
On A Clear Day You Can See Forever
Mon.-Fri. 2, 7:25, 9:30
Sat & Sun: 2, 4:45, 7:25, 9:50 G
3 MIKE NICHOLS
starring Alan Arkin
CATCH-22. R
Mon.-Fri. 2, 7:30, 9:55
Sat & Sun: 2-4:30 7:20-9:55
9th Week!

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

PEACE DOG TAGS — military style, one the Dove of Peace, the other Peace symbol. On 24 inch chain, $1.00. PO Box 461, Holyoke, Mass. 01040. tf10-8

Sansui 2000 Stereo Tuner Amp. Call 584-2567. tf10-8

2 Guitars — one Eko model III, steel string $45. Also Yamaha FG-300 folk guitar w/case, an incredible buy at $150. Call Jim at 6-0169 anytime. tf10-8

For sale — CB'ers (K3) Honda 1970 7000 mi., front disc brake, good reliable transportation. Excon. Call 665-3576. tf10-7

Roberts 770XSS Tape Recorder, 1½ year old, perfect condition, best offer, call 545-0995 or 549-1915. Ask for Harald Nilsson. tf10-7

Tone Recorder Panasonic Professional model 8225 w/tapes. Call Paul 5-5 533-9356. 10-7

Must sell 100" 2-piece sectional couch, recliner, club chair, tables, lamps, draperies, rug 9' x 12'; all in excellent condition. Call 413-773-3076 after 4:00 p.m. tf10-9

Baby Boa Constrictor. Call 665-3072 — very friendly pet. tf10-7

1970 Honda SL90 $350. Call Janet 584-2700, X391. tf10-13

Mobile home 10 x 55 Detroiter deluxe on lot in Orange, Mass, 21 miles from Amherst. Price $3000. Call 617-511-0036 anytime. tf10-13

10-room house, 6 bedrooms, Main St., Sunderland, Ideal living for faculty. Mr. Conrad Abbott 665-3030. tf10-9

FROM THE 19.30's: Clothing, shoes, suited bags, and velvet maxi-coat at Mizzue's Thrreantile, next to Amherst Towers. tf12-2

Pioneer, Teac, Garrard, FE Astec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, LPs, 8 track and other necessities. Amherst Audio. tf10-23

BMT Motorcycle, 600, twin cylinders, good condition, must sell this week, $75 or best offer. Call 665-2749. tf10-1

2 speaker units, excellent quality, must hear to believe. 253-2905 or 256-6836. tf10-8

FOR SALE — AUTOS

1961 VW bus, 20 thou. original miles on engine, trans., front end and brakes, body fair, asking $295. Call Alan 584-4657. tf10-1

Hardtop for MGB — fits any year, cost $250, 1 year old, will sacrifice for $140. Call Tom anytime at 253-7599. tf10-9

1966 MGB Roadster, fast, excellent mechanical condition. Quick sale. Asking $1100. 584-7277. tf10-9

1963 Jaguar XKE coupe, black with red leather interior, chrome wire wheels, nu-fu, new tires and studded snows, dealer maintained, excellent condition, $1300. 773-7361 tf10-9

'61 Pontiac, auto transmission, good running condition already inspected, good tires. Best offer. Call 549-1790 tf10-9

WANTED

German tutor wanted one night a week. Call 253-5455 after 6 p.m. tf10-7

Women with unusual ideas for social event, one with a door to particlepate in the bizarre. Call 546-6330 or 546-6576. tf10-7

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthology. Please include stamped return envelope. Idlewild Press, 1867 East Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

Need someone to sell stereo equipment. All brands 30 per cent discount. I do bookkeeping, ron take 80 per cent profit. Bob Tyler, 21 Gladden, Williamstown, 458-5237. tf10-13

SERVICES

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car, 197 No. Pleasant St. 256-8133. tf12-23

Do you need a tutor for your Spanish classes? If you are having trouble in first or second year Spanish, call Mary Ehrlich at 546-7440. tf10-8

Alterations — pick up and delivery. Call 1-532-4792. tf10-7

ROOMMATES WANTED

Attention girls: Have your own room in apt. near campus $50/mo. available now! Call Scotty 253-5317. tf10-7

I need a female roommate, own room, furnished. Great place with lots of trees. Pets allowed. Sue 323-7111 tf10-9

HELP WANTED

Ambitious couple who need more income. Unusual opportunity for good earnings for both. Works together, part-time or full time. Car necessary. Phone 1-413-774-2587 between 1 - 9 p.m. tf10-10

Babysitter wanted Wed. 5:40 - 1:35 preferably on campus. Call 586-2753 after 6. tf10-

Waitresse 21 or over, Saturday 12 p.m. to 8 p.m. or 5 p.m. to 1 a.m., excellent tips, possibility o more hours. Call Aqua Vitae Restaurant 586-9360. tf10-

Must take shorthand and type Work on Campus. Call 665-4035 be tween 9 a.m. and 11 p.m. Includ ing weekends, part-time jobs. tf10-

PERSONAL

Washington Upper — Vote Dave Slutsky for Student Senate. Your voice will be heard. Oct. 8 6-9 p.m. 10-7

To James Basement — all you sincere people, don't try to add meaning to our lives. Plastic people suite and be happy. The Traveling Pointer. 10-7

To Cance 2nd floor, either put up or shut up!! — H.B.'s 10-7

Wanted — males to participate in sincere group relationship. Must be free-thinking. Call 6-7250 or 6-7251 tf10-8

AUCTION

Sat., Oct. 10th, 10:30 a.m., Bob's Barn, 5 miles east of Amherst, off Rt. 9, look for signs. Clothes dryer, bureaus, sofas, rugs, desk, chairs, kitchen sets, odds and ends, etc. Call 253-2881. tf10-9

MUSICIANS WANTED

Sax, Flute, Trumpet, Bass, Rhythm, Lead, Pop Singer sought for active Pop Rock Band. Other talent also sought. Call Harold 549-4307. tf10-8

Gorfman Slates Address In DVP Environment Series

The Distinguished Visitors Program will sponsor a lecture on "Nuclear Pollution: The Ultimate Insult to Man and His Environment," Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium.

The speaker will be Dr. John Gofman, professor of medical physics at the University of California Lawrence Radiation Laboratory, and the public is invited to attend.

Dr. Gofman was graduated from Oberlin College and received his Ph.D. and M.D. degrees from the University of California at Berkeley and the University of San Francisco, respectively.

In addition to teaching at the university level for more than 20 years in the radioisotope and radiobiology field, he has conducted extensive research on Low Dose radiation, chromosomes and cancer. Dr. Gofman is the author of over 130 scientific publications and three books. At present he is a research associate at the Lawrence Biomedical Laboratory at Berkeley and Livermore.

Workshops on nuclear pollution will be held the afternoons of Oct. 8 and 9 in the Campus Center. In addition a Five-College open forum for the public will take place at 2 p.m. in the Student Union Colonial Lounge. Students are welcome to bring questions. Dr. Gofman will also hold a colloquium for students and faculty from the physics department on Oct. 9 at 3:30 p.m. in Hasbrouck Laboratory.

Dr. Gofman

Baird Speaks Here Tomorrow

Bill Baird, the independent candidate for U.S. Senate, and noted birth control advocate, will be on campus tomorrow to discuss with the university community the referendum on birth control laws in the S.U. Colonial Lounge from 1 to 5 p.m.

Baird recently spoke at a UMass Hillel-sponsored brunch to a crowd of approximately 300 on the various methods and devices of birth control. After his talk, over 100 people signed up to help in the state-wide referendum to abolish the following laws, all part of the Massachusetts General laws, Chapter 272 called "Crimes Against Chastity."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

Many Capricorn individuals have a secret desire to paint. Under emotional stress, these natives often do turn to art — the results can be beneficial. Once a Capricorn becomes serious in this direction there are delightful surprises.

• • •

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Avoid temptation to commit yourself to bizarre scheme. Stick to course which leads to wealth. Libra individual may mean well — but it is best to rely on your own experience.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Stay with current project. You can finish it and earn plaudits. If you stop in midstream, the result is disappointment. Emphasis is on your ability to communicate.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Emotions fly high; you can channel creative urges with constructive results. Gain shown if you do what comes naturally. Means adhere to your own style.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Play waiting game. Don't jump at first offer. Some around you offer superficial explanations. Dig for facts. Face truth as it actually exists. Discard excuses.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): If you go to extremes, there could be error which is costly. Be versatile without scattering your forces. Change of routine would be good — one with one who stimulates you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Unorthodox approach results in profit. Take chance on your own abilities. Some ideas are shopworn. Replace outmoded concepts. Fresh, vigorous approach attracts success.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Sudden changes due — affect environment, personal residence. Be alert and flexible. Excitement is keynote. Creative thinking is necessary. Don't force matters with Aries person.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Short journey may bring answers you require. Intellectual curiosity acts as positive force. Family member expresses unusual desire. Third party may be involved.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Examine carefully any speculative proposition. What appears a sure thing may be only a certain way of losing money. Realize this and respond accordingly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Some in positions of authority may push panic button. Your personal cycle is high; maintain equilibrium. You are due to merge victorious from minor crisis.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Immediate action may be forthcoming. But you can prepare formal outline. You have breathing spell; take advantage of it. A long-distance call could clear emotional debris.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Have faith in your own ideas. Love could provide some fine ideas, open doors of opportunity. Cultivate those who can envision potential. Steer clear of one who sings the blues.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you tend to be introspective, are attracted to metaphysical subjects. You are emerging from period of emotional turmoil. You've learned valuable lessons which you can now profitably apply.

BILL FIELD
has his copy of the INDEX. If you don't have yours yet, and you were an undergrad both semesters last year, your INDEX is available in the INDEX office, 2nd floor, Student Union.

CLASS of 1972!
Exec Council Applications are now available in front of RSO. Must be in by THURSDAY Oct. 8, 5:00 P.M. You must apply to have a vote!

C.C. Garage Debuts With Tolls

The Campus Center Garage opened for business Monday. This 900 car parking facility located across from the Campus Center services the University community, visitors to campus, and those attending conferences at the center.

The 246 spaces on the lower level have been set aside for reserved parking for students, faculty and staff. For the first two weeks, only yearly and semester rentals will be accepted. Depending on how many spaces are left, monthly and weekly rentals will be available on a first come, first serve basis with students having preference.

The Rate Schedule is as follows:

General Rates: The general rate is 25¢ for the first hour and 15¢ for every completed hour thereafter to a maximum of $2 a day.

Non-Student Rates:
$ 215.00 per year (12 months)
$ 85.00 per semester
$ 19.00 per month (during school year)

Student Rates:
$185.00 per year (12 months)
$ 75.00 per semester
$ 16.50 per month (during school year)
$ 12.50 per month (June, July, August)
$ 3.60 per week (7 days)

All students interested in elementary and secondary student teaching and internship during the spring semester of 1971 MUST attend an organization meeting on Thursday, October 29.

If you are a secondary student teacher your meeting will be from 2:30-4:00 P.M. in the Mark's Meadow Auditorium. If you are in elementary your meeting is from 4:00-6:30 P.M.

MDC Hotline 5-2550

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS
1 Musical instrument
5 Narrow, flat board
9 Arabian garment
12 Sandarac tree
13 Virginia willow
14 Vessel
15 Deprive of office
17 Teutonic deity
18 Beverage
19 Await settlement
21 Imbecile
23 Approves
27 A state (abbr.)
28 Brief
29 Insect
31 Carpenter's tool
34 A continent (abbr.)
35 Make bigger
38 Note of scale
39 Skill
41 Dine
42 Willow used for basketry
44 Sun god
46 Resigned
48 Squandered
51 Italian actress
52 Macaw
53 Cooled lava
55 Takes unlawfully
59 Obtained
60 Highest point
62 Attitude
63 Harvest goddess
64 Meadows
65 Kill

DOWN
1 Possessed
2 Enid
3 Knock
4 Offer for consideration
5 Hold on property (pl.)
6 Near
7 Golf mound
8 Damage
9 Macaws
10 Philippine knife
11 Solar disk
16 Calm
20 Argued
22 King of Bashan
23 Sicilian volcano
24 Approach
25 Physician (abbr.)
26 Weight of India
30 Self-centered person
32 Toward shelter
33 Section of hospital
36 Young boy
37 Holds in high regard
40 Handles
43 Pronoun
45 Indefinite article
47 Ponders
48 Starch prepared from East Indian palm
49 Support
50 South African Dutch
54 High card
56 Be ill
57 Meadow
58 Vessel's curved planking
61 Parent (colloq.)

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

S	P	A		T	A	F	T		P	A	T	H
P	A	R		O	L	E	O		E	R	I	A
A	I	R		P	E	T	T	I	N	E	S	S
		T	R	I	E		T	A	D	S
			V	E		A	L	L		I	S	I	S
T	O	E		P	I	E		E	V	A	D	E
O	S		D	A	M		R	O	E		E	A
P	L	I	E	S		M	A	N		A	A	R
S	O	O	N		C	A	P		A	S
		O	I	L	S		E	N	T	E	R
C	O	N	T	R	A	C	T	S		U	T	E
O	B	O	E		S	O	A	P		T	O	N
P	I	T	S		S	T	A	Y		E	N	D

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Yan-Con Picks Go to UMass' Opponents

Connecticut halfback Vin Clements, Maine cornerback Jim Walsh and Rhode Island halfback Grant Denniston have been chosen as the top offensive, defensive and sophomore players in the Yankee Conference for their performances last Saturday.

Clements, a 6'3-215 lb. senior, gained 156 yards on 26 carries, including three touchdowns, and caught three passes for 35 yards to lead UConn to a come-from behind 27-14 win at New Hampshire. It's his second selection this fall.

Walsh, a 5'11-165 lb. junior, recovered a fumble to set up Maine's touchdown, threw two Rhode Island runners for losses and made five unassisted tackles althougt Maine dropped a 23-6 Conference decision to the Rams.

Denniston, a 6'1-180 lb. sophomore, got his second straight selection by running for 75 yards on nine carries, catching four passes for 64 yards, including a 48-yard touchdown, and returned two kickoffs for 79 yards to spark the URI Yan-Con win at Maine.

Other nominations were ; offense-halfback Bill Swadel (Maine), fullback Ken Roberson (New Hampshire), fullback Dick Narcessian (Rhode Island), halfback John Pelcher (Vermont) and fullback Dick Cummings (UMass); defense-tackle Jim Pisciottano (UConn), tackle Cliff McDonald (New Hampshire), halfback Bill Dolan (Rhode Island), safety Tom Nieradka (Vermont) and tackle Bill DeFlavio (UMass); sophomores-linebacker John Salek (UConn), split end Dave Paul (Maine), end Dan Leber (Vermont) and offensive tackle Clarence Brooks (UMass).

Gladchuck Image Rekindled in Award

By MARK VOGLER
Staff Reporter

While most athletic honors are bestowed upon an individual on the basis of the proficiency he has offered in a certain phase of sport, the Chester S. "Chet" Gladchuck Memorial Award tends to reflect an exclusive quality which goes beyond the polished performance.

The presentation, which originated last year with Tony Lauria of Phi Sigma Delta as the first recipient, is emblematic of the university's annual outstanding intramural athlete. The criterion used for the election process involves the measures of character, leadership ability, team success, participation interest as well as consistent skill.

Chet Gladchuck, who has been honored for his invaluable work within the intramural program, first made his mark in the sports world with the Boston College football club that attracted much attention in its prime years of "39" and "40". In the latter campaign he received All-American acclaim as the Eagles soared to an unbeaten 11-0 season, including a Sugar Bowl victory over Tennessee.

After an illustrious collegiate career Gladchuck advanced into the pro ranks for the New York Giants where he earned All-Pro recognition as an offensive center in the mid "40s". Upon his retirement from the National Football League, the "Gentile Giant" came to UMass and served as an assistant grid mentor for 12 years.

In 1964 he was appointed intramural director. It was in this area that he was most noted for his many contributions to UMass and also credited with the tremendous expansion of the program. Assistant intramural director Peter Graham labels Gladchuck "prime instigator in developing what we consider an outstanding intramural program here at the university."

Graham, also an alumnus of UMass ('64), spoke very highly of the former B.C. great, stating: "Coach Gladchuck probably was one of the finest coaches and gentlemen that I had the priviledge as a student and athlete to have been associated with."

Gladchuck assumed the role of Assistant Athletic Director shortly before his death in 1968.

There is probably nobody more deserving on campus for the Gladchuck Award than last year's recipient, Lauria. In his junior year the sports enthusiast from Phi Sigma Delta displayed some enviable versatility by competing in 14 of the 18 possible intramural events. He notched the passing title in the process and helped spark his house to fraternity championships in both soccer and touch football.

As a sophomore he carried a somewhat lighter, yet energenic agenda of ten sports. During this period he shelved individual honors in soccer (still co-holder of scoring record with 8) and handball to go with a team pennant in soccer.

His milestones this year -- to surpass last year's participation mark and help his fraternity brothers in their quest of the coveted Olympus Cup, given ennually to the top frat.

In a breath of confidence Tony says: "We'll be No. 1 in campus football this year", and he looks to the Roadrunners for prime competition. Although a bit outspoken, he has good reason to be. Phi Sigma Delta boated a 3-0 mark and were unscored upon at the time this article was written.

A graduate of East Boston High, Lauria can also look back at a colorful and most impressive schoolboy career. He lettered nine times in each of three years of football, track and baseball. On the grid iron the split end was dubbed with honerable mention merit by the Boston Globe. In rack he reigned as district champ n the high hurdles andrunnerup in he high jump.

INITIAL AWARD - Mrs. Gladchuck, wife of Chet Gladchuck, presents first award in husband's honor to Tony Lauria of Phi Sigma Delta. Award is given to best intramural athlete of year.

When asked what receiving the Gladchuck Award meant to Lauria, the upper classman eplied: "Well, it's hard to capivate all my feelings in one sence. To me it's a goal that I set for mysetf through hard work and physical and mental alertness; sort of like the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow."

"The merit is not only for myself, but for the most part should go to my fraternity--for without their help I coldn't have accomplished this feat."

Likewise, he acknowledged the function of the intramural department and encouraged more students to participate in the many and varied sports that are offered. "I've received athletic recognition primarily because the intramural program is there. If there was no program, there'd be no goal to shoot for."

Now 22, Lauria plans to enter the sales marketing field upon graduation. As far as sports are concerned he models his philosophy after the late Vince Lombardi. As he puts it: "I have this way of playing ball that keeps the enthusiasm running in our house. There's no fun in playing if you can't win.

"If you work hard at anything you can conquer it. Winning a sport is like capturing a goal."

Coach Graham feels that Lauria is probably the best all around athlete at UMass. "To me Tony represents the quality of the students that we have on campus. I feel we have an excellent student body and are most happy to have them actively participate in this program", he remarked.

Tonight's Intramurals

FOOTBALL

FIELD	TIME	TEAMS
1	6:30	Team vs. Cult
2	6:30	Lifers vs. Oxfords
3	6:30	Hacks vs. BX
4	6:30	Panthers vs. "C" Crushers
5	6:30	Cans vs. Senators
6	6:30	Terrors vs. Monuments
1	7:30	GAK vs. BX
2	7:30	Dildoughs vs. Oxfords
1	7:45	DC vs. KS
2	7:45	BKP vs. TC
3	7:45	PSD vs. TEP
1	8:00	SAE vs. PMD
2	8:00	PLP vs. SPE
3	8:00	PSK vs. APO
1	8:15	Maroons vs. Pipers
2	8:15	Dogs vs. Redwoods
1	8:30	Cougars vs. Terrors
2	8:30	Panthers vs. Seagrams
1	8:45	3 M's vs. Bulldogs
2	8:45	Tubes vs. Browns

TUG-O-WAR

PIT	TIME	TEAMS
1	7:30	Colt 45's vs. Spartans
2	7:30	Lions vs. Academies
3	7:30	Seagrams vs. Bruisers
4	7:30	Oaks vs. Trojans
5	7:30	Pines vs. Flaming A's
6	7:30	Aces vs. Lemons
1	8:30	Eagles vs. Maroons
2	8:30	Redwoods vs. Bruins
3	8:30	Hi-lo's vs. Hemlocks
4	8:30	Cresview vs. Bodies
5	8:30	Civ. Eng. vs. Gotchas
6	8:30	Conglos vs. Burners

The fourth weekly UMass Redmen Quarterback Club Luncheon will be held at the Newman Center today at 12:15 p.m., to let out promptly at 1:15. A film of the UMass-Buffalo game will be shown. Also featured will be the awards for the offensive and defensive players of the week, a scouting report on Boston University (the Redmen's next opponent), a door prize and a raffle of choice game tickets.

12 New Tennis Courts To Be Built

By STEVE FERBER
Staff Reporter

Have you seen the tennis courts lately? Have you notice

Have you seen the tennis courts lately? Have you noticed the cracks and the pot-holes on the courts? How about the ripped nets and the missing center straps? Maybe you noticed that there are only 12 courts left where there used to be 24?

Well something is going to be done about UMass' tennis facilities. If all goes according to plan there should be 12 newly surfaced courts for the general tennis playing public, and 12 new courts for the varsity, come spring 1971.

On October 24th, work will begin on the 12 courts near Boyden Gymnasium. There will be an addition of one to three inches of asphalt to the sur

On October 24th, work will begin on the 12 courts near Boyden Gymnasium. There will be an addition of one to three inches of asphalt to the surface and, with newly painted lines and the acquisition of new nets, the courts should be in excellent shape for UMass tennis enthusiasts. The money to re-do these 12 courts was appropriated early this fall from the University funds.

The new tennis complex has been talked about for years. Ever since the planned extension of Bartlett Hall, which removed 12 courts, there has been tennis talk. In what was termed an excellent example of good foresight, Vincent Cobb, Assistant to the Dean in charge of facilities, explained, "When the contract for the Bartlett extension was drawn up it included plans for the replacement of the 12 to come down. Thus the students would not be without tennis facilities for too long a time." Now that the funds have been produced action will be forthcoming shortly.

Presently the new complex is still in the preliminary design status. An architect is working on a design that will please all concerned and the finalization of plans appears close at hand. For this coming spring 12 courts are on the agenda.

For this coming For these 12 the present architectual se-up calls for one singularly enclosed court and one two court area. The other fenced-in areas are to include three and six courts. Plans for stands have also been made, with two proposed bleachers to be installed, one set in the single couurt area and one in the double court area.

The site for this new complex lies adjacent to the new baseball field (Varsity Field), and the ultimate goal in court number stands at 35. Surrounding the courts will be shrubbery, the primary purpose of which will be to keep the wind velocity as minimal as possible.

A pavilion, similar to a tennis shop, is also on the drawing board. This pavilion would appear at the entrance of the complex, from which there would be one walkway connecting these 35 courts. The eventuality of lights is also being discussed and, if instituted in the future, they would surround the entire perimeter.

As of yet the surface for the new courts has not been determined, for it will decide upon the bidding of the competing companies. Thus the timing of construction will depend upon which surface is going to be used. In the event of an asphalt base, the deadline would be November 15th. If the base is unable to be completed before the snowy weather, the spring will see the completion of this project.

By spring the site will be fully prepared and the 12 courts planned on shouldbe

By spring the site will be fully prepared and the 12 courts planned on should be a certainty. As Mr. Cobb stated, "The university community will be looking forward to the completion of this site within the near future.

Last Night's Intramurals

FOOTBALL

TEP 29, DC 12.
TC 21, BKP 12.
LCA 14, ZN 6.
PSK 38, SAM 12.
APO 12, SAE 6.
SPE 36, PLP 0.
Pipers 37, Broncos 0.
Murgatroyds 20, Barracudas 14.
Brigade 15, Nurds 7.
Smashers 22, Labees 19.
Outhouse T 14, Gregorians 0.
Bucks WBF Elephants.
Bulldogs 12, Freaks 0.
Colonels 26, Duchies 6.
3M's 38, Deacons 12.
Turtles 12, Browns 8.
Puckers 12, Heroes 0.
Gypsies 36, Fellas 18.
CO REC. BEEF-PULL

sPoRts ShorTiEs

— AP —

NEW YORK (AP) - Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn will meet with presidents of the two major leagues and the attorney for the umpires Wednesday in an effort to forestall another walkout by major league umpires before Saturday's World Series opener.

NEW YORK (AP) - Dennis Shaw, a rookie passer from San Diego State, has earned the Associated Press citation as offensive player of the week in the National Football league with assists from O. J. Simpson, Marlin Bruiscoe and Haven Moses. as No. 1 in total offense among the nation's major college football players.

Plunkett, who was third in passing in last week's statistics, released by National Collegiate Sports Services, fell to fifth as Parker and three other players tied for first.

By the Associated Press

The National Basketball Association has three new teams, four new coaches and a new divisional setup, but the biggest change is likely to be a switch in lettering with the Big O joining the Big A in Milwaukee.

Alcindor is considered the best big man ever to play the game, but alone he could only power the Bucks into a second place.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 22 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1970

Viet CeaseFire Asked

SPEAKING TO THE NATION on television last night, President Nixon called for a ceasefire to be imposed in Southeast Asia, and for the United Nations to assume the responsibility for maintaining the standdown. (MDC photo by Gib Fullerton).

Senate's Last Meeting

Election eve quorum proved hard to get at senate last night. Needed: 28. Present: 19. But help is on the way as elections are today and a student senat of about 87 members will be meeting next week. Commuters, fraternity and sorority members vote from 9 to 5 in the Cape Cod lounge of the Student Union. Dormitory residents vote in their respective dorm lobbies between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m.

By the way, four of those present last night deserve special credit- Rick Bonito, Ann Dubrowski, Valerie Endres and Ron Kurtzman were dedicated enough to show up even on the last day of their terms. They are not candidates for re-election. (Photo by Gib Fullerton)

Scroll sweeties sort goodies for sale. Funds are to be added to their treasury.

Last night gubernatorial candidate Mayor Kevin H. White made an unofficial visit to Northhampden. At the Hotel Northampden, White met with a convention of Town Clerks. Later he met with a reporter from The Collegian. The interview will follow in tomorrow's issue. (MDC Photo by Ed Fenwick)

Academic Calendar Due For Revisions

David A. Booth, Faculty Senate Space and Calendar Committee chairman is scheduling a series of open hearings to obtain suggestions from all university community members on the 1972-1973 academic calendar. The decision to hold the hearings was prompted by the need to establish a calendar which will have substantial support among members of the University community and yet be flexible enough to allow for such outside forces as the urgency of national problems.

"Last year's discussion of the Princeton Plan has shown us that outside forces can change the calendar, and therefore it is necessary that we develop a calendar which will allow for those forces and still maintain the academic integrity of the calendar we have" was Booth's statement on behalf of the committee which will hold three separate hearings in three different sections of the campus.

The hearings to be held on Wednesday, October 14, from 4:00 - 6:00 in Machmer E-33; Thursday, October 22 from 12:30 - 2:30 in Duke Room, Student Union; and on Monday, October 26 from 2:30 - 4:25 in SBA, Room 101, are scheduled so as to allow ample opportunity for concerned members of the community faculty, students and administration to present their views.

There are at present four major alternatives under consideration by the committee and subject to the views of the community as a whole:

1. The Traditional Calendar upon which the University year is now based would continue the system which begins the year shortly after Labor Day with exams and intersession following Christmas.

2. The Modified Calendar, as is now in operation at such major universities as the University of Oklahoma and the University of Kentucky, would allow for the completion of exams before Christmas to be followed by a month long intermission. This plan would see the year closing in late April or mid-May and would thus extend the summer recess so as to provide more time for summer employment, study, research or travel.

3. The Tri-Semester Plan would see the school year divided into three ten-week semesters running from September to December, January to April and May through July.

4. The 4-1-4 Plan would provide for two four-month semesters with regular classes with the month of January set aside for independent research or field study projects. It would allow students and faculty alike the opportunity to engage in intensive research or study in their field of interest.

Although these proposals are the major ones currently under consideration, the committee will be open to all suggestions so that it may determine the type of calendar which would be satisfactory to all. "It is the committee's hope that the fact that these hearings will pertain only to the calendar for the year 1971-1973 will not prevent interested persons from coming forward to give their views", Booth stated. "It is our hope that we may be able to present to the Faculty Senate for approval, a calendar which already has support behind it and therefore eliminate useless debate."

Membership on the committee includes three undergraduates and two graduate students as well as faculty so as to insure the fair consideration of the needs and desires of all in the determination of the calendar plan which will be presented to the Faculty Senate and the Board of Trustees.

"You want these kids? I give them to you. I sign the papers.

"Good kids. Wonderful boys. I'm not kidding. I give them to you, I steal it. You don't take them, I put them in the rowboat all alone in the ocean."

HERBERT B. LEONARD presents
ALAN ARKIN
in
"POPI"

Thursday, October 8 SU Ballroom
Admission: 50c 7:00 & 9:30

Jack Leaman

is not entitled to an INDEX. If you don't have yours yet, and you were an undergrad both semesters last year, your INDEX is available in the INDEX office, 2nd floor, Student Union.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor).

Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday, during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of [illegible] 1879 as amended by the act of June [illegible]. $8.50 per semester, $4.00 per

A Σ Φ

MEETING

9:30 P.M. — Oct. 8, 1970

Rooms 805-809 Campus Center

GRIZZLY FURS

FURS! WOOD PRODUCTS!

Vests, Mittens, Slippers

hats and skins

USED FUR COATS!

16 Chapman Street

Ceasefire Stalemate Sought by Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon proposed Wednesday night a standstill cease fire in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos, immediate release of all prisoners and a broadened peace conference to seek a settlement of conflict throughout all of Indochina.

Departing in several major instances from previous American initiatives, Nixon said of his cease fire plan: "My hope is that it will break the logjam in all the negotiations."

However, an administration official who insisted he not be identified by name said the administration would be surprised if the five point Nixon plan were immediately accepted by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

He said officials in Washington are hopeful rather that the mpvresident's suggestions will trigger a process of exploration at the bargaining table.

In Paris, where it was early Thursday morning when Nixon spoke, the word from the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations was that there would be no comment until later in the day.

Nixon, declaring that his program has the "full support" of the governments of South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos, said in a national television radio address:

"The time has come for the government of North Vietnam to join its neighbors in a proposal to quit making war and to start making peace."

The President asserted the United States is prepared to negotiate a complete withdrawl of American troops from South Vietnam as part of any settlement. The anonymous administration official indicated the pullout would be accomplished over a 12 month period once an agreement was reached.

Nixon called also for "the immediate and unconditional release of all prisoners of war held by both sides"- declaring that such moves "could serve to establish good faith, the intent to make progress, and thus improve the prospects for negotiations.

A fifth main point of the Nixon plan-to be presented in Paris Thursday by chief U.S. negotiator David K.E. Bruce- calls on North Vietnam to recognize that there are two sides to the conflict in the South and that any meaningful settlement must satisfy both.

In this connection, he employed tough language at the only point in his address. Referring to recent Viet Cong suggestions for a settlement that would, among other things, rule out continued officeholding by Saigon President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, he said:

"Let there be no mistake about one essential point: the other side is not merely objecting to a few personalities. They want to dismantle the organized non Communist forces and insure the takeover by one party, and they demand the right to exclude whomever they wish from government.

"This patently unreasonable demand is totally unacceptable."

While asserting that the United States is prepared to be flexizle on many issues, Nixon said: "We stand firm for the right of all the South Vietnamese people to determine for themselves the kind of government they want."

The chief executive said the Indochina wide cease fire he seeks "must be effectively supervised by international observers" and that there should be safeguards against violations.

He put his suggestion in these terms:

"I propose that all armed forces throughout Indochina cease firing their weapons and remain in the positions theynow hold. This would be a "cease fire in place." It would not in itself be an end to the conflict, but it would accomplish one goal all of us have been working toward: an end to the killing."

Through diplomatic channels, the Soviet Union was given advance word earlier in the day of the general content of Nixon's address. And officials recalled that last April Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Jacob Malik talked approvingly of a possible new Geneva conference to deal with the Vietnam war.

Said Nixon:

"An international conference is needed to deal with the conflict in all three states of Indochina. This war in Indochina has been proved to be of one piece; it cannot be cured by treating only one of its areas of outbreak."

Nixon said "the essential elements of the Geneva accords of 1954 and 1962 remain valid as a basis for settlement of problems between states in the Indochina area" and that the United States would accept agreements reached by these nations.

"While we pursue the convening of an Indochina peace conference," Nixon said, "we will continue negotiations in Paris. Our proposal for a larger conference can be discussed there as aell as through other diplomatic channels."

He said the Paris talks "will remain our primary forum for reaching a negotiated settlement" in the absence of a broader international meeting.

The White House official who briefed newsmen indicated the United States believes a larger conference should bring together those nations having the greatest interest in promoting peace in Southeast Asia. He said it would seem logical that the Soviets might want to be present and declared the United States certainly would not oppose such a development.

Nixon spoke less than three weeks in advance of the Nov. 3 off year election and the briefing official was asked, in effect, if the five point plan was expected to end Vietnam as a political issue.

The questioner was told that the administration does not treat Vietnam as a political matter and that Nixon put forward his ideas at the earliest moment when, in his best judgment, he felt he could do so responsibly.

The chief executive did not hold out any promise of further speeding withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam, merely sticking to a previous pledge that by next spring more than 260,000 men will have been pulled out- "about one half the number of South Vietnam when I took office."

After pointing with pride to what he termed the lowest U.S. casualty rates since early summer for any comparable period in 4 1/2 years, Nixon said:

We are ready to negotiate an agreed timetable for complete withdrawals as part of an overall settlement. We are prepared to withdraw all our forces as part of a settlement based on the principles I spelled out previously and the proposals I am making tonight."

The briefing officer, asked whether the latest package supplemented that came earlier, replied that Nixon's newest outline represents the new position of the United States.

In talking of the search for a political settlement, Nixon said the United States is governed by three principles:

"-We seek a political solution that reflects the will of the South Vietnamese people.

"-A fair political solution would reflect the existing relationship of political forces.

"-We will abide by the outcome of the political process agreed upon."

The State Department made special efforts to inform foreign diplomats in advance of the President's proposals. One of them, Thailand's foreign minister Thanat Khoman, said his government can "go along with and support the objectives" of the speech, "especially to bring an end to the hostilities."

President Nixon's press conferance turned into a meeting of the bored, as seen by the happy faces of students viewing the telecast. (MDC Phooto by Gib Fullerton.)

News Analysis

Say Good Night, Dick

By MAXINE FORWARD
Staff Reporter

The predominately male group of about 200 which crowded into the television room of the Student Union greeted the President's speech rather cooly Wednesday night. Looks of total bordem were spread about the room.

At first, it appeared that the only break in the ennui was Nixon's remark about it being "the beginning of the end of the war," which prompted several bursts of laughter. One patriotic soul up front shouted out in annoyance, "If you don't like it (the speech), Shut up!" One wonders if he was part of the frenzied crowd roaring at Nixon's comment about being cheered by hundreds of thousands during his European tour. After the laughter subsided, one disconcerted listener walked out. It was too much for him.

When asked for opinions of the speech, the general feeling seemed to be one of disgust. Several observant people figured that this pretty speech would be of help to certain Republican candidates running for re-election this November.

Others said that it was exactly what they expected and that "bull shit like that had no relevant points." The wordy speech, someone remarked, certainly wouldn't hinder any negotiations, although it wouldn't help them either.

A true Republican, probably the guy from up front, remarked that the audience didn't give the President a chance and that he was dealing with a real world, while they were wrapped up in their own little groups.

Looks like Trickey Dick has lost his magical tooch.

Highlights of President's Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) - Following are textual highlights of President Nixon's speech Wednesday Night:

First, I propose that all armed forces throughout Indo-China cease firing their weapons and remain in the positions they now hold.

It would not in itself be an end to the conflict, but it would accomplish one goal all of us have been working toward: an end to the killing.

I do not minimize the difficulty of maintaining a ceasefire in a guerrilla war where there are no front lines. But an unconventional war may require an unconventional truce; our side is ready to stand still and cease fire.

I ask that this proposal for a cease fire in place be the subject for immediate negotiation. My hope is that it will break the logjam in all the negotiations. A cease fire must be effectively supervised by international observers, as well as by the parties themselves.

A cease fire should not be the means by which either side builds up its strength by an increase in outside combat forces in any of the nations of Indo-China.

A cease fire should cause all kinds of warfare to stop. This covers the full range of actions that have typified this war, including bombing and acts of terror.

A cease fire should encompass not only the fighting in Vietnam but in all of Indo-China. The United States has never sought to widen the war.

What we seek is to widen the peace. I propose an Indo-China Peace Conference.

At the Paris talks today, we are talking about Vietnam. But North Vietnamese troops are not only infiltrating, crossing borders and establishing bases in South Vietnam-they are carrying on their aggression in Laos and Cambodia as well.

An international conference is needed to deal with the conflict in all three states of Indo-China. This war in Indo-China has been proved to be of one piece; it cannot be cured by treating only one of its areas of outbreak.

Spiro Agnew

is not entitled to an INDEX. If you don't have yours yet, and you were an undergrad both semesters last year, your INDEX is available in the INDEX office, 2nd floor, Student Union.

Ted, let us forget politics and let us to BELL'S PIZZA

He stays open until 1 A.M. and 2 A.M. on Friday and Saturday

Yes, Spiro, but what are people going to say if they see me with you. Better call BP they make free deliveries too.

256-8011 253-9051

IMMEDIATE ATTENTION TO EMERGENCY REPAIRS — CONTACT LENS SUPPLIES ALL KINDS — MATCHLESS SELECTION OF FASHION-RIGHT FRAMES — WIRE FRAMES LOTS!

Amherst Optical Shoppe
100 North Pleasant St., Amherst
Tel. 256-6381

Reminder! All applications for Homecoming Queen must be returned to the RSO office at the Campus Center NO later than Oct. 14.

Spare Time Money

Are you interested in earning between $30 - 60 per week?

If you are active, aggressive, and want to learn how to earn this money in your spare time, selling a truly distinctive line of products imported from Europe, contact FINANCIAL AID OFFICE, Whitmore 237, for information, or send your resume to Parachem Corporation, 45 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, New York 10020.

In The Nation And The World

Crime Bill Strengthens FBI Inquests On Campus

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House passed Wednesday a sweeping anticrime bill giving the federal government new and expanded legal powers for use against organized crime.

The bill would also give the government greater authority to deal with terror bombings, including the power to send federal agents onto college campuses to investigate explosions and fires.

With sentiment for a strong law and order will running high as election day approaches, the House brushed aside all attempts to soften the measure and then passed it by an overwhelming vote. The roll call tally was 341 to 26.

The Senate passed a similar bill last January by a vote of 73 to 1, and is expected to accept the House version thus completing congressional action without the need for a House Senate conference.

The bill would establish special grand juries with expanded powers to investigate and report on organized crime activities; strengthen procedures designed to compel witnesses to testify; provide protection for witnesses in an effort to keep them from being killed or intimidated, and make it easier to use in court evidence obtained by wire tapping.

Other sections strike at the interstate gambling operations of organized crime and at the infiltration of legitimate businesses by racketeers.

The bill provides that hardened criminals can receive sentences of up to 25 years if a judge determines that they are dangerous offenders.

The antibombinb provisions are not restricted to organized crime. They were added by the House Judiciary Committee in response to the recent bombing at the University Wisconsin in which one man was killed and a research center wrecked.

Bolivian Government Toppled; Leftist General Takes Over

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) - Leftist Gen. Juan Jose Torres swept to power Wednesday with a show of force that toppled his rightist opponents. He promised cheering crowds that as president he would give Bolivia "a popular nationalist government."

Gen. Rogelio Miranda, the conservative army chief of staff who forced President Alfredo Ovando Candia to resign Tuesday, was said to have taken refuge in a foreign embassy along with two members of his junta. Torres' government appeared to have solid support from students, farmers, workers and powerful segments of the armed forces.

The Bolivian coup was bloodless, although some of Torres' planes bombed the government palace Tuesday in a raid that caused little damage.

After receiving the resignations of two junta members early Wednesday at his air force headquarters outside La Paz, Torres rode into the city to the cheers of people massed along the streets. Air Force planes paid him the honor of flying low over his line of march.

Ebullient Torres' supporters, including students and workers, raced through La Paz, sacking the homes of military men and civilians suspected of being rightist and occupied the buildings of three leadingnewspapers.

In a speech to cheering crowds, from the balcony of the governmental palace after taking the oath, Torres declared his was "the revolution of the people, who manifest their unwavering will to take the route of national liberation." Torres said his government would rest on four pillars, the peasant farmers, the workers, the students and the armed forces. All will be invited into the new regime, he added. Torres gave among his government's goals the creation of new jobs with "fair salaries for workers" and the defense of the nation's natural resources. Lost in the day's succession of swift events was Ovando who took refuge in the Argentine Embassy.

Cigarette Ads Seek New Media

NEW YORK (AP) - After the end of this year the cigarette companies no longer will be able to spend the $226 million they have been investing annually in television and radio advertising.

The manufacturers might simply revert some of its TV ad money to profit, as some have suggested. Or they could spend extra dollars to rent more shelf space in supermarkets to display their products, rent more space in vending machines to sell cigarettes, or make use of gift coupons.

Panther Party Attacks Shifted to Capitalism

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Black Panther Party has changed its emphasis from fighting racism to fighting capitalism, a former editor of the Panthers' newspaper testified Wednesday.

The target shift occurred, Frank B. Jones told a House subcommittee investigating the Panthers, "because they came to feel capitalism is the over all problem that causes racism."

Jones, 31, operator of a book store in Richmond, Calif., joined the party in May 1968 after conversations with Huey Newton, he said, "because I felt it was doing something that needed to be done - combatting racism." He left the party in May 1969, Jones related, "because it was no longer emphasizing racism; it started opposing capitalism.

When the Panthers changed "from a paramilitary, self defense organization to a political party," he said, "there was a party purge to remove anyone who didn't make an attempt to understand the political motives."

Jones who was managing editor of the Panther newspaper from February 1969 until May 1969, was questioned extensively by committee counsel about the paper.

Asked by Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R Ohio, about cartoons in the paper depicting police-drawn as pigs-being knifed in the back, Jones said:

"I consider cartoons political satire. For instance, you might have one saying, 'Stamp out literbugs' and showing a giant foot ready to come down on one. That doesn't mean go out and stamp the next litterbug you see."

BOOTS

with the RICH and WEATHERED LOOK FOR THE 70's RIGHT HERE! RIGHT NOW! in the BOOT CELLAR at

BOLLES

3 Main Street

WE HONOR master charge the interbank card

BANKAMERICARD

SOMETIMES YOU GOT TO STAND UP FOR AMERICA

SOMETIMES YOU DON'T

COMMUTER: VOTE FOR

JACK LITTLE BILL ABBOT
JOE ACKERSTEIN
JIM BOUIN
SUSAN SPATRICK
LARRY WOODS
TOM FILMORE
LEO CLARK

(Paid for by concerned citizens for Little, Abbot, Ackerstein, Bouin, Spatrick, Woods, Filmore, and Clark)

FOWLER Jewelers

OF AMHERST
253-7615
65 North Pleasant Street
EXPERT WATCH REPAIR
THE FINER LINES OF CHINA, CRYSTAL AND SILVER
QUALITY JEWELRY
DIAMONDS SOLD WITH USE OF DIAMOND SCOPE.

1st BEER FREE
LARGE BEER 20¢
10¢ cover
MICHELLE MARQUIS IS ON
4:00 - 8:00 P.M.
EVERY FRIDAY at the
NEW MEADOW INN
Rt. 47 Sunderland

ARE NUCLEAR POWER PLANTS SAFE?

DVP Presents

Dr. John Gofman of the University of California

Five College Open Forum: Today 2 - 4 p.m. Cape Cod Lounge, S.U.

Lecture: "Nuclear Pollution: The Ultimate Insult to Man and His Environment"

Tonight at 8, Campus Center Auditorium

Draft Counselor's Cornet

Low Weight Valid Deferment; Also Health Hazard

By Gilbert J. Salk
Staff Reporter

As more and more young Americans become concerned about the cancerous growth of militarism in the United States, the question of alternatives to serving in the armed forces assumes greater and greater importance. Men are seeking ways to avoid supporting the abhorrent war against Vietnam, and both men and women are disturbed by the disruption and channeling of their lives caused by the Selective Service. Draft Counselor' Corner will provide information about alternatives through general information and by answering questions submitted by readers. NOTE: We recognize that the draft does as much to disrupt the lives of women as it does of men. Therefore a special effort will be made to provide information to women also.

Wonder of Wonders! We have real, honest-to-goodness, non-invented questions today. That must mean that my invented questions spurred some people on to true creativity. Well, it won't go unrewarded. Draft Counselor's Corner proudly presents--Questions!

"Dear Sir:

I am at present 5'8", 119 lbs. I'm told that underweight for my height is 115. Would it be worth my while to lose 9 lbs?

At my first physical last May I was 130 lbs. so would they assume I had dieted for convenience and pass me anyway?

Is being underweight enough?"

ANSWER: Yes, being underweight is enough--if you are enough underweight. You have to assume roughly a 10% difference between the regulation minimum weight and what will actually disqualify you. If they pass you and you are below minimum, you do have grounds for appeal, however.

You should consider a minor extra factor, though, namely, your health. You are taking about losing at least 20 pounds since last May, and possibly as much as 30, all to "beat the draft." How much help will that be if you end up in the hospital with malnutrition as a result. The race between you and the draft will be only a tie, at best. If your heart is set on a skeletal figure, please consult a doctor first. He may be able to suggest something to keep you alive.

But consider, if you are so opposed to becoming part of Uncle Sam's Diplomatic (failure) Corps, you may be eligible for a I-0 or some other deferment without jeopardizing your health. Think about it, and talk to a draft counselor.

"Dear Gill,

My brother is now a sophomore in college. He is number 1 in the lottery.

He has allergies which MAY get him a IV-F. My question is this--when should he begin to take action toward a deferment?

Sincerely,
Female Student
(Alias)

"P.S. In your column (Tuesday) you expressed the feeling that in not participating in the SS system; i.e., by going to Canada, etc., you are 'copping out.' I question the possibility of any significant exchange coming from the granting of COs. The draft is still there, fucking over someone else instead of you.

Paradox--why am I asking your advice on deferments?! For my brother--he's not aware of his situation enough to act.

Hmm...."

ANSWER: In seeking any deferment, there is a standard rule of thumb: Do it as soon as possible. In theory, you are supposed to tell the board of anything which might affect your classification within ten days. You don't really have to rush quite that much, but it's usually best to be prompt. He should see a draft counselor first, however, to check on best procdure to follow.

I included the rest of your letter because I think it raises some important points which I'd like to respond to. (As a former English major, I should change that to read, "to which I'd like to respond," but the hell with it.)

It is true that the draft is still fucking people over even if people apply for CO status, but there is a difference. If you go to Canada, somebody is still being screwed in your place, and you haven't told the system what you think of it. Why not go for a CO first, and then go to Canada? It is not going to Canada that is the cop-out, it's going quietly.

Resistance which does not hit the system is no resistance. 100 people from UMass claiming CO status will not hurt the SSS. But 1000 people, each individually and sincerely, after careful thought about what conscientious objection really means, applying for COs, will definitely jurt the system locally. If the same ratio of increased claims occurs nationally, the system will have to buckle and the war will have to end.

This depends on sincere claims, though--people who are saying NO. I will not kill for you!--people who are telling the system that they will go to jail rather than to war. It takes balls, more than most young men have, unfortunately.

Dig on it, people. Election votes don't count for much anymore, but your vote of facing (not necessarily going to) jail after making a very clear statement to and through the system has to be counted. The jails only hold a limited number of people, and the SSS boards can handle only so many claims and appeals.

Please note that I'm not talking about idle or romantic CO claims. I mean the kind of claim that takes painstaking, time-consuming work so that your claim represents you. This is a challenge, brothers. Any takers?

"Dear Gil--

I will be graduating in June and am considering how best to avoid the draft.

My lottery number is 303, and in light of statements made by Selective Service Chief Tarr that numbers over 195 may be exempted from the draft this year, I have not reapplied for a student deferment, and I am now presumably classified I-A.

I was wondering if you would comment on the wisdom of my decision, and any further action I should take.

Peace."

Sorry, no names will be used in this column.

ANSWER: In all probability, you made a wise move. As of December 31, you should be out of the prime eligibility pool.

As for your next steps, you should probably consult a draft counselor to discuss the specifics of your case to be sure that all is well. Just a precaution.

Peace.

Questions to this column should be addressed to Gilbert J. Salk, c/o Draft Counseling Services, WSO #395, Campus Center, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass. 91002.

WMUA Explores VD Tonight

WMUA will present a special show on Venereal Disease tonight at 7:30. All aspects of VD will be covered in the live program while telephone-question period will be held at the end.

The show will be highlighted by a interview with Dr. Nicholas Fiumera, head of the Massachusetts Department of Communicable Diseases. Also on the program hosted by Bruce Davidson, '72, will be Dr. Madsen of the University Health Services, who will aid in answering students' questions.

Specific topics of discussion will include symptoms of the disease different types of disease, what programs are now in effect to combat it, how the infirmary treats a VD case, and how VD is contracted.

Dr. Fiumera now has 21 clinics in the state which concentrate on VD and related diseases. The nearest one is in Springfield. More questions will be answered in a taped interview in which Dr. Fiumera points out that the disease is of epidemic proportions in this country with over 1 1/2 million people contracting it per year.

WMUA invites students with questions to phone in during the latter part of the show if they have questions concerning VD. The number is 545-2425.

MEN JUST LOVE ANGELS
Last Rush Tonite
Colonial Lounge 7-9
TRY ANGEL FLIGHT — AND SEE!

The University of Massachusetts'
BLACK Repertory Theatre
presents
WE SHALL OVERCOME: OR ELSE
a play by Danny L. Scarborough
October 16 and 17 at 8:30 p.m.
October 18 at 3:00 p.m.
Bowker Auditorium for ticket information and reservations call — Bowker Auditorium box office 545-2149 beginning Oct. 10.

CLASS of 1972!
Exec Council Applications are now available in front of RSO. Must be in by THURSDAY Oct. 8, 5:00 P.M. You must apply to have a vote!

mugs mugs mugs
Smug mugs
Mugs without bugs
Mugs for thugs
Mugs for pugs
Mugs to hug
Mugs that are dug or Mugs just cuz -- have we got Mugs!
COME SEE . . .
dangling conversation
OPEN THURS. & FRI. NIGHTS TOO.

WAFFLEWAFFLEWAFFLEWAFFLE
WANTED: name for the escalator
REWARD: $10 in the Bookstore why?: why not?
sponsored by (who else but)
AWFUL WAFFLE WEEK
call the escalator
.....!
name .....
address .....
telephone .....
applications should be deposited in the box at the scheduling desk (2nd level, C.C.) before 5 p.m., Oct. 16.
WAFFLE LUCK!

CHARLIE BRADSHAW IS BACK!!
AND
The English Pub
HAS HIM!!
THURSDAYS 9:30 to closing
5 East Pleasant St.
Amherst

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR — Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER — Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR — Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR — John Sullivan

PHOTOGRAPHY EDITOR — Steve Schmidt
ADVERTISING MANAGER — John Fayad

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Jim Gold
NEWS STAFF — Sue Gerson, Ethel Harris, Chris Reynolds, Dave Callahan, Maxine Farward
DARKROOM — Gib Fullerton
SPORTS — John Sullivan
AD LAYOUT — Pat Lempart
EDITORIAL LAYOUT — Mary Ellen O'Shea

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

"Out, Damned 'Spots'!"

The F Lot Shuffle

If you're like me, a commuter, who doesn't like to be late for class, then you have a gripe----it's called "F LOT." For a few years now the commuter has had to wake up a half an hour early so he can park his car in F Lot and do the F Lot shuffle, while dorm residents take a short walk past their cars to their classes. I think this is ludicrous; a commuter who is often a Junior or Senior should have the right to be able to park in a lot near his classes.

It has been said that lot privileges are granted on a point system. That is if you're a junior, a senior, a veteran, or work off campus and live four miles from campus -- then Congratulations., you're eligible to park in V Lot.

For those who are not familar with V Lot it sits in the shadows of Alumni Stadium and is easily accessible to a long distance runner with a hell of alot of wind.

I cannot understand why a university of this size with computerized equipment and facilities, cannot assign a parking lot and sticker near the commuter's classes the first day of registration

This would eliminate the unnecessary aggravation and grief for the employees of the parking office and the long lines of weary students waiting for parking assignments.

I appreciate the problems confronting the parking office. But with a bit of imagination, some perserverence, and a little coordination among members of the parking office I'm sure a more feasible and more satisfactory arrangement can be attained. But in the mean time-get out the knapsack, pack a hearty snack, and whistle a happy tune. You'll need it.

ROBERT ALAN CILLER

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR must be typed, double spaced, at sixty spaces and must carry the writer's signature, address, and telephone number (all of which will be withheld upon request). The limit is one page and the deadline is 5 p.m. the day prior to intended publication. The editors reserve the right to edit all letters

Peter Pascarelli

Change The Station

"Hey mama, there's a presidential address on the t.v. tonight."

"What? I thought he was in Italy and Ireland trying to get votes."

No, he's back. It said in the papers that he is going to make a big peace proposal tonight."

"That's nice. Now hurry, you have to go to boy scouts."

"I want to hear him. He'll be on for just a few minutes. Look, it just started."

"My, he looks chipper. Isn't it funny how much he sounds like he did last spring when he sent those poor kids into Cambodia to what he say, 'widen the peace?'"

"Mama, he just proposed a cease-fire."

"That's nice. Haven't those Chinese people proposed that for a long time."

"He just said, that an international group could supervise it."

"O boy, the U.N. They had a big success in the Mid East. Maybe, they could bring back the League of Nations. Now that was a fine...

"Mama, he just pointed proudly to the lowest number of casualties in four years. Isn't that wonderful."

"Sure dead kids are just numbers to be tossed around by some politician. Tell the wives and families how wonderful it is their kid is part of the lowest casualty rate in four years. What does he think this is? Aren't lives important anymore?"

"Mama why did he pick tonight to say all this. You'd think he could have done a couple of years ago, and saved all those lives. Is there something special about right now?"

"You stupe, it's an election year. So he shows how peace-loving we Americans are and how the Republicans are ending the war. The only way that would work with me would be if he hauled all those poor kids out of there."

"Mama wasn't that beautiful. He just said that he wants our children to have the chance for something he never had, a chance for a generation of peace."

"Peace. How can he talk about peace. And he only means his own children, not the children with long hair, or the children who are black."

"Oh darn, a spokesman just said that he would be surprised if everything was done and the war would be over soon.

"Well, he accomplished what he wanted. He gave some of this stupe Republicans a big boost. Now clean up and go to your boy scouts before your father hits you with his hard hat."

Art Buchwald

Keep Me Out of It

As everyone knows, there is a "New Nixon" and an "Old Nixon." For the past two years, the New Nixon is the one that has appeared on TV and at press conferences, and the Old Nixon has stayed in the background.

The only time the Old Nixon was allowed to make a public appearance was at the Pentagon when he called the students "bums." This so infuriated the New Nixon that he ordered the Old Nixon to remain out of sight. But this doesn't mean the Old Nixon and the New Nixon are not still close friends.

For example, when the New Nixon came back from his earth-shaking trip to Europe this week, the first person he checked in with was the Old Nixon.

"What's been happening since I've been gone?" the New Nixon asked.

"We're doing great, Dick," the Old Nixon said. 'I got Spiro to attack the campus unrest report and call the whole thing a fraud."

"Great," said the New Nixon. "You keep me out of it, I hope?"

"Of course, Dick. Now that Spiro's pulled the rug out from the Scranton commission, you can say anything you want to about it and people won't care."

"Fine. What else?"

"Well, we really socked it to the pornography commission. Spiro has the country believing the Democrats are reponsible for all the dirty movies and books in the United States."

"I like it," the New Nixon said. "But you kept me out of it?"

"They can't touch you. Every time someone starts screaming about Spiro's rhetoric, we say

"They can't touch you. Every time someone starts screaming about Spiro's rhetoric, we say he's only speaking for himself. Then we leak it later that he's really speaking for YOU. We have the best of both worlds."

"Good thinking," the New Nixon said. "I don't know how I'd get along without the both of you."

"You should see Spiro, Dick. He's better at demagoguing than I ever was," the Old Nixon said. "He learns fast, and I've never known a guy who enjoyed going for the jugular as much as he does."

"As long as he keeps me out of it," the New Nixon said.

"He uses words that no one's even heard of, and still gets standing ovations. The press can't get enough of him. And the money, Dick, it just keeps pouring in. Every time he says 'Doctor Spock,' we raise another $100,000."

"Fine. What's going on politically around here?"

"You're going to love this, Dick. Agnew attacked Charlie Goodell, who's running for senator in New York."

"Did he keep me out of it?" the New Nixon asked.

"Yup. He said Goodell was a radical lib, and he practically endorsed James Buckley of the Conservative Party."

"I hope people don't think I was behind it," the New Nixon said.

"You're clean, Dicky, absolutely clean. Only you and I know how much you wanted to zap Goodell. It also puts egg on Rockefeller's face, which I'm sure doesn't shake you up."

"As long as no one connects me with it. Hey, by the way, did you see the TV pictures of me riding in the rain with Titi?"

"No, I haven't had a chance to watch TV. I've been spending all my time with Spiro trying to think of new ways of attacking college administrators."

The New Nixon nodded his head, "I hope nobody thinks I have anything to do with it."

Silence Is The Voice Of Repression

I can remember the gold old days of quiet intellectual debates on that all-incompassing subject called social justice. We challenged existing laws and institutions that defiled the very name of democracy. We posed solutions in academic rhetoric; all the while extolling the virtues of living in a free society where we would never have to hear that "knock on the door" Phil Ochs sings about.

Armed with our classroom idealism we charged forth into the great heartland of the "Free Society" to join the civil rights movement and to lead a determined struggle against an unjust war in Southeast Asia. What happened? Did our benevolent fathers and zookeepers in Washington D. C. embrace our democratic ideas? Hell no! All the wrath of God, country, and "free enterprise" came down on our heads. It's no joke, friends. Those creeps play a mean game--jails, beatings, frame-ups, murder. Now, tell me, is that the way to treat the citizenry of a free nation? They are doing it.

The slimy troglodytes that run this country have sat hard on the Blacks for 400 years. There are a lot of Huey P. Newtons, Erica Huggins's and Bobby Seales in the ghettos that just aren't going to take this kind of crap anymore. They refuse to march lock-step into the morass of oppression that has been the Black man'

The slimy troglodytes that run this country have sat hard on the Blacks for 400 years. There are a lot of Huey P. Newtons, Erica Huggins's and Bobby Seales in the ghettos that just aren't going to take this kind of crap anymore. They refuse to march lock-step into the morass of oppression that has been the Black man's fare all through the history of this nation. The Black Panthers have the guts to stand up for their rights despite the repression thundering down on them.

That's what it's all about, People--repression and genocide. If you think you can hide safely in your niche and escape the whole mess, you are only fooling yourself. Repression is unwholesomely democratic; it spreads visciously to all who oppose the sanctity of the status quo.

Bobby Seale and Erica Huggins are going on trial in New Haven this month for a murder they did not commit. The powers-that-be hope to put an end to their effective dissent with a frame-up.

We know you are concerned, and we would like to see you translate that concern into action. A few of us have formed a PANTHER DEFENSE COMMITTEE. We are holding an open meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Duke Room, old S.U. Everyone is welcome to come and help us get together effective methods to raise money for trial expenses, and to educate the public to the reality of repression today.

Barbara Pease
for The Panther Defense Committee

Elliot Eisenberg

Quatre Images

As morning sunlight spread across the beach, it lit up diamonds in the great hulks of sand and ice, and provided a bit of warmth to temper the bitter breeze. It shimmered on the golden hair of a girl walking pensively along the shore, her hands dug deep in her pockets. Running to catch up to her was a young man, and he noticed the blonde hair caught momentarily by the wind. She was, he mused, everything you'd expect from a television model. When he reached her, he was out of breath; he took her hand and they walked along a balcony of icy sand over softly flapping waves. They stood there for a while, feeling the brisk wind and talking and laughing. He kissed her and they headed towards his car.

"Don't be mad," said the young man as he opened the glove compartment of his car and took out a small camera. She stood over him in the door-jamb of the auto, her warm body pressing against him, blocking him from standing up.

"Please don't," she said. He looked at the serious intent on her face and put it back.

"I'm sorry," he mumbled.

"Don't be," she said quietly. "Let's go." She slid across the seat to his side; they waited for the engine to warm. The exhaust from the car had melted some of the sand.

Noise filled the dance hall where they sat alone at a table for eight. A thousand people began dancing and singing, stomping their feet and waving their arms with the singer who had suddenly captured their empathy. Sweat poured from his face to his chest; girls swayed to the music, dancing frenetically, reaching to touch the sopping mass of greatness. The youth and his girl walked near the singer as he now grabbed furniture and began smashing it to the tune of the ballad. They swayed to the music, but he found it difficult to become so engrossed in the act that he might for a minute forget the presence of the girl. The first show smashed to an end; they made their way back to their table and another drink. A photographer with a big Polaroid was walking table to table and he motioned questioningly to the young man. The photographer saw his expression, nodded dismally and walked away. "I'm afraid he hasn't taken a picture all night," said the girl.

"Maybe we should have had him take ours."

"No, don't you know it's bad luck to have your picture taken? It's better to remember by memories. It's bad luck."

"I didn't know that. Forget I ever mentioned it."

Noise again began to reverberate through the hall, but this time it was from some second-rate band hired to fill the time between shows. People danced, and they talked, and the discordant notes made it all an uncomfortable undertaking.

There was violin music, and a girl with golden blonde hair dancing along an exotic beach. Over the music came the deeply masculine voice of an announcer speaking of perfume. The Young man, the girl, and her kitten sat in her living room, illuminated by the flickering colors of the television set. The young man began to speak; his voice trembled and it occurred to him that it sounded so young in contrast to the one coming from the television.

"Look," he said, "I love you and you know it. Let's get married. I'd like you to be my wife; we could go through the fountains. I "

A pinkness which seemed to come from the television screen spread across her face. She looked at him the way she did when one of her pets came to her scratched and eeding from a fight. There was a terrible silence, no ven a perfume-announcer to fill the void.

He was shaking.

She put her hand to his cheek. "I though I told you so long ago that I just can't. There's so much that I just haven't seen or done or been to, I can't. Not yet. Now, please I want to be alone. Please go; I want to think." He got up to leave, and he was still quivering.

They kissed lightly and he left. He did not turn back to see her in the doorway as he always had; he was terribly afraid that she would not be there.

Loud, crass notes of the radio met him as he turned on the ignition. He sat behind the wheel waiting for the engine to warm and his nerves to quiet down. He lit one of the cigarette-ends from the ashtray.

The young man was ready to leave. There were tears in his eyes; and in his hand the crumpled picture of a faraway girl on a winter beach.

Campus Comment

To The Editor:

How can we be expected to read, believe, and/or respect the music critics that get to do their ego trips in the Collegian and the Index if they don't know even the simple things? The Index prints a picture of a guitar player from Sea Train, calls him Tim Buckley, and tells us that a splendid time was had by all in the Cage when we boogied in the Ballroom, and also tells us that Ten Years After (ain't they cute?) did "Hello Little School Girl" (ain't she cute?). Bob Nesti, (What the hell is the Fine Arts Staff? How about a rock and roll staff?) the Steve Miller Band does "Living in the U.S.A." not "Back in the U.S.A." and "Space Cowboy" is three albums old (maybe new for you). Any kid hangin' around the record section at Zayre's knows that stuff. Get critics who at least know their shit and quit making us read people who keep talkin' 'bout what they just don't know.

Rock On JOHN HAYMAN

To The Editor:

Now that Father Drinan has spoken on campus perhaps some students are wondering what his opponent, Rep. John McGlennon is like. As a former student coordinator (over half of his campaign staff are college students) for McGlennon, I would like to tell you not what John says but what he has done. He wrote the Environmental Bill of Rights which was passed on Earth Day. He fought for the House Cut and to change our outdated birth control laws. He has filed legislation to revise our drug laws, to expand the power of the Mass. Pesticide Board to cover and control chemical pollution, to ban the sale of high phosphate detergents. He introduced one of the first anti-DDT bills to the General Court. He was program chairman of the Sierra Club Conference On The End of the Earth. He has been a leader in new priorities in Mass. and will be so as our congressman in Washington. Anyone wishing to work for these goals would be welcome at John's headquarters in Acton.

ROBERT A. HALL
302 Wheeler

To The Editor:

In the October 5th edition of the Collegian, Beldon Bly commented on the results of canvassing in Springfield for Governor Sargent. I was amazed that the welfare recipients spoken to were "most enthusiastic about Sargent's Flat Grant System." Not one of my clients has spoken favorably of the plan; and I am no less burdened with detective and bookkeeping chores. But, of course, now I have fewer solutions.

WILLA MARCUS
Social Worker,
Springfield Welfare Office

To The Editor:

As most people have probably found out, it is difficult to let another person use your meal ticket. To quote the cover of the meal ticket, "...any student other than the issuee found using it must be reported for disciplinary action." The reason for this is given to be that if a meal ticket is lost, then the person who finds it shouldn't get free meals. However, there is already a system of checking the numbers, so if a meal ticket is reported lost, it will, theoretically be discovered

But what if I don't want to eat breakfast some day and there is a visitor next door without a meal ticket? I have already paid for that meal, so why shouldn't I be able to let someone else eat the food? If I don't eat breakfast, the way things stand now, no one can, that doesn't seem at all fair. To draw it a step further, I own some of that food, and I can do with it what I please.

The system wouldn't have to be changed, either. If I lose my meal ticket, I simply report it, and it will hopefully be found if someone tries to use it. If I lose my meal ticket, I certainly don't report it as missing because I know where it is, and therefore the person using it won't have "disciplinary action" taken against him.

Maybe it's about time the students of this University stopped getting screwed by "non-profit organizations."

DAVID YORK
460 Pierpont

To The Editor:

It has come up in one way or another at each of the Chancellor's two open coffee hours this semester, but there's distinctly more that can result from the article.

Don mentions, approvingly I think, the Michigan State University experience "where, for example, a science major lives in close proximity to science buildings, etc." This simple and perhaps practical sounding proposal could contain the seed of a rather counter-productive turn of academic events.

Some years ago we had a dormitory on campus named Abigail Adams House. It was, as it turns out, rather heavily haunted by engineers and (I'm told) a few chemistry majors. This was a residence hall in quite close proximity to some academic buildings - the Engineering Building, in fact. In its small way (and in a simpler age) this was a mini-example of what Don was advocating. It is easy to imagine that the concentration of engineers living in the Abbey produced a particularly close relationship between these students - a relationship which probably worked to the advantage of their strictly engineering studies. What we are now unable to assess, however, is how much this small example of academic and residential isolation contributed to an insularity and parochialism of outlook on the part of its residents.

It is rather easy to imagine, I think, that a concentration of students from any discipline - I don't really mean to pick on engineers alone - living in close proximity, and perhaps tending to meet more of each other in their courses, would tend to produce a narrowness of mind and of outlook that I would hope we are striving to avoid in the broadening atmosphere of a university.

In brief, any proposal to concentrate students of like programs in given residential areas, to live together as well as study together, could contain the seeds of a rather stultifying and constricting provincialism. If the grouping of students, residence halls and academic buildings might be such as to produce an engineering ghetto, artists' quarter, sociologists' case block or landscape architecture pasture, we want to ask (I am suggesting), Would this tend to develop a greater professional-scholarly parochialism? Would this encourage some hardening of the lines separating academic disciplines? Would it tend to reduce, actually or psychologically, the possibilities for a student with an independent turn of mind to mix his courses into a custom-made program? Would it tend to preclude the creation of sorely-needed cross-disciplinary studies?

If the answer to any one of these questions turns out to be 'yes', then I ask if this is really something that we want consciously to foster and encourage. The varied pressures tending towards academic professionalisation and specialisation are already too-present on university campuses to need any additional encouragement. We do, in fact, need to do all we can to plan for cross-pollination and fertilization between our disciplines.

Don makes some good points in his article, most particularly about the strictly architectural-engineering approach to housing design. Additional human factors most certainly do need to be taken into consideration in building dormitories or any other housing. We do, however, want to avoid those planning decisions which may tend to foreclose, rather than enlarge, future academic options

To The Editor:

Don Glickstein's long and thoughtful article on planning and diversity (MDC, 28 September) seems to deserve more discussion than it has received to date. True, it has come up in one way or another at each of the Chancellor's two open coffee hours this semester, but there's distinctly more that can result from the article.

Don mentions, approvingly I think, the Michigan State University experience "where, for example, a science major lives in close proximity to science buildings, etc." This simple and perhaps practical sounding proposal could contain the seed of a rather counter-productive turn of academic events.

Some years ago we had a dormitory on campus named Abigail Adams House. It was, as it turns out, rather heavily haunted by engineers and (I'm told) a few chemistry majors. This was a residence hall in quite close proximity to some academic buildings - the Engineering Building, in fact. In its small way (and in a simpler age) this was a mini-example of what Don was advocating. It is easy to imagine that the concentration of engineers living in the Abbey produced a particularly close relationship between these students - a relationship which probably worked to the advantage of their strictly engineering studies. What we are now unable to assess, however, is how much this small example of academic and residential isolation contributed to an insularity and parochialism of outlook on the part of its residents.

It is rather easy to imagine, I think, that a concentration of students from any discipline - I don't really mean to pick on engineers alone - living in close proximity, and perhaps tending to meet more of each other in their courses, would tend to produce a narrowness of mind and of outlook that I would hope we are striving to avoid in the broadening atmosphere of a university.

In brief, any proposal to concentrate students of like programs in given residential areas, to live together as well as study together, could contain the seeds of a rather stultifying and constricting provincialism. If the grouping of students, residence halls and academic buildings might be such as to produce an engineering ghetto, artists' quarter, sociologists' case block or landscape architecture pasture, we want to ask (I am suggesting), Would this tend to develop a greater professional-scholarly parochialism? Would this encourage some hardening of the lines separating academic disciplines? Would it tend to reduce, actually or psychologically, the possibilities for a student with an independent turn of mind to mix his courses into a custom-made program? Would it tend to preclude the creation of sorely-needed cross-disciplinary studies?

If the answer to any one of these questions turns out to be 'yes', then I ask if this is really something that we want consciously to foster and encourage. The varied pressures tending towards academic professionalisation and specialisation are already too-present on university campuses to need any additional encouragement. We do, in fact, need to do all we can to plan for cross-pollination and fertilization between our disciplines.

Don makes some good points in his article, most particularly about the strictly architectural-engineering approach to housing design. Additional human factors most certainly do need to be taken into consideration in building dormitories or any other housing. We do, however, want to avoid those planning decisions which may tend to foreclose, rather than enlarge, future academic options

To The Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to discuss the impending destruction of the Deerfield River Valley. The Army Corps of Engineers - the same people who brought you the Cross-Florida Barge Canal and a billion dollar project to convert Tulsa, Oklahoma into a seaport - is presently planning to construct a $42 million dam on the Deerfield River just a few miles from the University.

Those students who have enjoyed the waterfall and other scenic beauties at Conway Station can well appreciate the implications of this project. The dam will ruin large areas of the valley and drive people from their homes without any corresponding benefits. The alleged justification for the dam - flood control - is almost totally transparent. So transparent, in fact, that the Corps could probably argue the purpose of the dam is to hold back communism with as much conviction and plausibility as the mythical flood waters.

The Army Corps of Engineers receives about a billion dollars a year from Congress for the purpose of building dams, dredging harbors, connecting places like Tulsa and Ft. Worth, Texas with the sea and occasionally, as in the case of Florida an d Cape Cod, sawing peninsulas off the continental United States. This last activity probably provides a fascinating field of speculation for enterprising Freudians but unfortunately, the immediate beneficiaries of such lucrative busy work are real estate speculators, construction firms, special business interests and, of course, the Corps itself. Public benefits, if Corps dams in Northern Massachusetts are any indication, usually consist of a large "Welcome" sign and three picnic tables at the dam site.

Moreover, many Corps projects entail "cost overruns", a delightful Defense Department euphemism which means incompetence, poor planning, mismanagement or outright stupidity have doubled or tripled the original cost of a given project.

The $42 million figure for the Deerfield Dam is based on 1969 building costs and since the actual construction of the dam will not begin for some time, a billion dollars probably represents a more realistic assessment of the dam's final price. A billion dollars of our money to ruin unspoiled land, destroy wildlife and uproot families!

The Corps can be stopped but it will require the unified efforts of the University community and the people of the valley. To this end, the Graduate Student Senate has created an ad hoc Committee to Save the Deerfield Valley. The committee will serve two functions - political action and research. The research function is especially crucial since a favorite tactic of the Army Engineers is to "bully" the opponents of a given project with a mass of (usually) irrelevant technical data that is unintelligible to the layman.

The Senate would like to mobilize the skills of university engineers and scientists in a research effort that will deal with the Corps on its own terms. The political action aspect of our efforts, will, of course, apply pressure at the appropriate point - in this case a challenge to Governor Sargent to validate his much publicized reputation as a conservationist by blockig the project. Undergraduates, graduates and faculty members interested in saving the Deerfield Valley can leave their name, address and phone number at the Grad Senate Office (Rm. 216 Student Union) or contact me at 549-0142.

Sincerely,
DANIEL J. COLLINS
President
Graduate Student Senate

Children's Theatre Presents "The Tortoise and the Hare"

The University of Massachusetts Children's Theatre is sponsoring a play, The Tortoise and the Hare, in two performances on Tuesday, October 13, 1970 at Amherst Regional High School. The play is presented by The Everyman Players, a professional Troupe, well known in both Europe and America.

In the play, Mr. Sloe, the Tortoise is the underdog, while Mr. Fleet, the champion of the forest, is the favorite. Badger supervises the race with the help of the Water Rat, the Hedgehog, The Squirrel and the other forest people. The whole event reaches a climax as the race winds up in a photo finish that no one would have predicted.

The Everyman players are under the direction of Orlin and Irene Corey, a director-designer team who are authorities on children's theatre and also in religious drama, internationally known for their spectacular staging of The Book of Job, now in its twelfth year of successful run as an outdoor drama in Pineville, Kentucky. The Coreys have traveled and lectured throughout America and abroad in Europe and Africa. In 1964-65, the company toured Europe and Africa for four months with Job and a children's production of Reynard the Fox.

Orlin Corey is Assistant Director of the Children's Theatre Conference of America' and a menber of the U. S. Executive Committee for the International Children's Theatre Association.

Following their appearance in Amherst they will take both Joi and Tortoise to the Bienalle Festival in Venice and Milan, to the All Netherlands Arts Festival for Youth in Amsterdam and the Hague, and from there to London, Yorkshire, and Manchester, England. They are the first professional company chosen to represent the United States in trouping plays to the International Children's Theatre Association.

Performances will be given Tuesday, October 13 at 3:30 and 7:30 p.m. at Amherst Regional High School Auditorium. Tickets will be $100 for children, $1.50 for adults. Tickets will be available at the door.

Film Fans Forewarned

Many good films are avaible on campus in the next few weeks. Most of them will be classics. The Geff film festible, featuring the complete works of the German Impressionist, will be showing "Destiny" ("Der Mude Tod") on October 7; and "The Wax Works" and "Warning Shadows" on October 21. Mureau's "Faust", a rarely seen film, will be shown at 8:00, followed by Geff's "Destiny" at 9:30. The Comparative Literature Department, in c;nnection with the 201 course, is offering a series of films also. Kafka's "The Trial", with Orsen Wells is planned for November 17, while Penn's "Mickey One" is for December 1. Professor Deaver may speak before this film, which is an added attraction that is more than wor th the admission price.

Be sure to attend all or most of these great films. Mark your calendars accordingly, and bring your goodies to the show!

Black Rep Theatre Play Deals With Brotherhood

"Things aren't the way they used to be, are they, Larry? You aren't Negro enough for the Negroes; the colored folks don't like you, and no other race of people will claim you. Blessed are those who go around in eternal circles for they shall be called wheels. Amen and Amen."

The above quote is from the play We Shall Overcome: Or Else which has been scheduled for production by the Black Repertory Theatre on October 16 and 17 at 8:30 p.m., and October 18 at 3:00 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium. The play was written by Danny Scarborough, a graduate student in the UMass English Department. Ester Terry, a menber of the W.E.B. DuBois Department of Afro-American Studies Department and founder of the UMass Black Repertory Theatre is directing the play.

The basic setting for the play is that of a custom from the author's community concerning the Wake. The Wake provides an opportunity for a cross-section of the Black Community to meet since the body of the "loved one" is brought home to "lie in state." The Wake in We Shall Overcome: Or Else gives the audience an opportunity to meet Larry, who believes in the brotherhood of all people and Bernard, who believes in the brotherhood of all Black people. The role of Larry is played by Ronald Hobbs, a sophomore at UMass. William Winston, also a sophomore at UMass, plays the role of Bernard.

According to informed sources, Bowker Auditorium will to be transformed into a "revival hall" during the production of the play. For ticket information and reservations beginning October 10, call Bowker Auditorium Box Office (545-2149).

Lenny Bruce Strikes Again

WMAU in cooperation with Steve Fredericks of WMEX of Boston will present a one hour rebroadcast of a show about the life of Lenny Bruce, including recordings of many of his satirical monologues at 6:30 tonight.

The show also follows Lenny Bruce's rise and fight with society and ends with his tragic overdose of Mescaline.

The show can serve as an introduction to those who have never heard him before.

'Mandabi' Reveals African Problems

The modern African mind will be explored in a Smith College Afro-American studies department screening of "Mandabi" (The Money Order), a Senefalese film Thursday (Oct. 15) in Sage Hall, Smith College. Two showings, at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m., are open to the public free of charge.

Written and directed by Ousmane Sembene, "Mandabi" reveals the problems of modern Africa, an Africa shaped not only by centuries of tribal tradition but by the more recent influence of white colonialism. The hero of the story is Ibrahim, a black man, who receives a money order and becomes entangled in bureaucratic procedures when he tries to cash it.

"Mandabi", winner of acclaim at international film festivals in several countries, focuses on the dilemma of Africa in transition by exploring one man's experience with the confusing intricacies of rules and procedures that modernization brings. In Ibrahim's world, there is no overt struggle between the black man and the white man; the clerks who contribute to his frustration are also black. But skin color alone cannot bridge the gap between his Africanisms and their Western way.

Fine Arts

AUTO INSURANCE
ALL DRIVERS
— LOWEST, LEGAL RATES —
— BUDGET PAYMENTS —
Tekoa Insurance Agency
160 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-2742
10 Broad St. Westfield 562-3604

3 THEATRES UNDER 1 ROOF
Campus Cinemas 256-6411 AMHERST-HADLEY LINE
1 "The people next door" Nightly at 7:15 & 9
2 Nightly at 7 & 9:15 FELLINI SATYRICON
3 AN ALL STAR CAST! STANLEY KRAMER "IT'S A MAD, MAD, MAD, MAD WORLD"
STARTS WED., OCT. 14 — "FANTASIA"
STARTS FRI., OCT. 16 — "CATCH - 22"

All Accessories for Yarncrafts
- Reynolds Imported Yarns
- Native Fisherman Yarn
- Pre-cut Rugs and Rug Yarn
- Crewel, Needlepoint, Straw
- Ponchos, Kits Books

Yarncrafts
HADLEY VILLAGE BARN SHOPS
HADLEY, MASS. 584-3346
Store Hours: 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Daily
Thurs. & Fri. night till 9 p.m.

Hillel — YOM KIPPUR SERVICES
Campus Center Auditorium, Oct. 9, 10
KOL NIDRE SERVICE FRIDAY, 5:30 P.M.
SATURDAY ALL DAY SERVICE* 10:00 A.M.
(*there will be a short break at about 2:30 p.m.)

STUDENTS! FACULTY! MAKE IT HAPPEN!
BUY LP RECORDS, PRE-RECORDED TAPES, AUDIO EQUIPMENT, ACCESSORIES, MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS SELL and SET YOUR OWN PROFIT PICTURE
• MEET and BEAT ALL COMPETITION
IF THIS IS YOUR BAG, CONTACT:
SMG DISTRIBUTORS, INC.
A SUBSIDIARY OF SAM GOODY, INC.
MR. AQUILINA • Phone (212) 786-3337
OR USE THIS COUPON:
MR. AQUILINA, c/o SMG DISTRIBUTORS, Inc.
46-35 54th Road, Maspeth, N.Y. 11378.
Please send THE HAPPENING to:
Name _____ College _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ ZIP _____

ONLY MINUTES AWAY VIA RT.91 OR MASS. PIKE
HONORED HERE
ACRES FREE PARKING
RECLINING ROCKER LOUNGES
2 ART GALLERIES
GROUP RATES
Showcase Cinemas 1263 RT.5 RIVERDALE RD. W. SPFLD. 733-5131
1 'Joe'is a 'this-minute' film: a movie truly of our times and demanding to be seen this minute." —Judith Crist, New York Magazine "Joe" R Mon-Fri: 2-7:35-9:40 Sat. & Sun: 1:30-3:30-5:35 7:35-9:40
2 Barbra Streisand Yves Montand On A Clear Day You Can See Forever Mon-Fri: 2, 7:25, 9:50 G Sat & Sun: 2, 4:45, 7:25, 9:50
3 MIKE NICHOLS starring Alan Arkin CATCH-22 R Mon-Fri: 2, 7:30, 9:55 Sat & Sun: 2-4:30 7:20-9:55

School of Ed.. Attempts To MODernize Classrooms

October 13-15 has been announced as the first of five Mod Methods weekends scheduled this semester in the School of Education. Sessions from 4-6 p.m. in Marks' Meadow will feature faculty, graduate students, area teachers, and under-graduates with field experience sharing their favorite lessons and methods with the undergraduate community. A catalog of the October 13-15 presentations will be available Friday in room 100, School of Education.

William Byxbee, Assistant Director of Field Experiences, explains the purposes and plans for Mod Methods in the following release.

It appears to us that teachers - both new and experienced - are appealing for practical techniques which will meet the needs of the real world in the classroom. Frequently, they are offered texts which are theoretical expositions on learning and teaching; at other times, they are subjected to an individual's philosophical or anecdotal comments regarding his teaching career.

For the under graduate in teacher education, the problem is even more critical. The majority of the students have done very little, if any, teaching and, therefore, don't know what their style is or if the methods they are learning will be adaptable to their style. They feel that the methods commonly presented to them are either too general - never dealing with specific problems or tactics - or that they are only the esoteric ideas of one or two instructors whose life styles, abilities, and personalities may not be consistent with those of the student teachers. In short, there are few good alternatives available to those wishing to learn professional methods.

Our goal is to provide as many different types of methods - specific lessons, gimmicks, techniques, etc.- so that teachers and would-be-teachers will have a broad base of methodology from which to select or reject according to their needs. To achieve these ends we are setting aside five weeks of the academic year 1970-71—October 13-15, December 7-11, February 8-12, and March 15-19, during which members of the faculty and graduate students at the University of Massachusetts, School of Education, as well as area teachers and undergraduates who have completed their field experiences and other interested edcators will come together to present their favorite method or lesson to the undergraduate community. Each presentation will last about one hour and the under graduate will have the option to attend as many of these mini-lessons in methods as he wishes. The student may elect to take these methods either for university credit or simply to supplement and refine his other courses. Each presentation will be acceptable for modular credit.

A catalogue which will contain a brief summary and rationale of each of the presentations will be provided prior to each Mod Method Week so that the student will be able to schedule those presentations which he feels would be most useful to him. Once he has established a basic core of methods he would be free to explore other areas of methodology, areas he might never have been exposed to had he been sitting in a regulated methods course.

What we hope will come out of all this is the formation of a public forum where ideas are shared and appreciated by many at all levels of the professional scale.

Gofman To Lecture Here On 'Nuclear Pollution'

Dr. John Gofman, professor of medical physics at the University of California Lawrence Radiation Laboratory, will speak on the subject of "Nuclear Pollution: The Ultimate Insult to Man and His Environment." The lecture, sponsored by the distinguished Visitors Program, will be held today at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium.

In addition a Five-College open forum for the public will take place at 2 p.m. in the Cape Cod Lounge of the Student Union. Students are welcome to bring their questions. Dr. Gofman will also hold a colloquium for students and faculty from the physics department today at 3:30 p.m. in Hasbrouck Lab.

Dr. Gofman was graduated from Oberlin College and received his Ph.-D. and M.D. degrees from the University of California at Berkeley and the University of San Francisco, respectively.

In addition to teaching at the university level for more than twenty years in the radioisotope and radiobiology field, Gofman has conducted extensive research on Low Dose radiation, chromosomes, and cancer. He is the author of over 130 scientific publications and three books. At present, he is a research associate at the Lawrence Biomedical Laboratory at Berkeley and Livermore.

UM Consumer

Watch Your Signature

Your signature is your most valuable possession. by signing a contract you can incur a debt that exceeds the value of everything you own. With so much importance placed on your signature, you must look out for problems before you sign.

Consumers should always get the entire agreement into writing. One of the most prevalent problems with contract agreements is that some salesmen make oral promises that they will not write into the contract. "We'll paint every room before you move in." "If this car gives you any trouble, bring it back, and we'll take care of it." "We guarantee you will be qualified to use construction equitment within six weeks."

Consumers often sign a contract, naively believing that these oral agreements will be kept. Often they are. But sometimes when a consumer tries to get action on a promise, the salesman disclaims any knowledge of it and brings out the written contract to prove his point.

If a salesman makes an oral agreement, he should be willing to put it in writing. He may try to imply that the firm's good reputation should be sufficient evidence that they will fulfill their promises.

But a salesman with a legitimate offer will not mind writing in and initialing all specifications before either party signs the contract.

Another commun problem with contracts was expressed by one man who complained to the Consumer Protection Division what he had signed a paper to receive information about a correspondence art school. He later found that he had actually signed up to take the course. He simply had not understood the contract and had not protected him self.

If a buyer does not understand any part of a contract, he should not sign it until his lawyer has explained the details to him. He can always sign the contract later, but once he has put his signature on the paper, he is legally bound to its terms.

Buyers who sign contracts in a store generally have gone to the store intending to buy that product. But with sales in the home it may be another matter. The door-to-door salesman arrives to convince his customers that they want a product they had not previously considered buying. After the salesman leaves, the homeowner finds himself with a set of pots and pans or six magazine subscription that he does not want.

To protect consumers who buy on impulse from door-to-door salesmen, Massachusetts has a law that gives buyers three days to cancel certain contracts that they sign in their homes.

To cancel the contract, the buyer must send written notice to the company by midnight of the third business day after receipt of the contract. This clause, by law, must be written into the contract.

But even in the home, buyers should exercise extreme caution before signing anything

Program Council
presents
Ingmar Bergman's
THE MAGICIAN
SU Ballroom 7:00 & 9:00
50c Sunday, Oct. 11

NEED TV MODELS
MALE
1 — LOOKS AGE 25, MOD DRESSER
3 — LOOKS MID 20's, TENNIS PLAYERS
FEMALE
1 — LOOKS AGE 25, MOD DRESSER
3 — LOOKS MID 20's, TENNIS PLAYERS
1 — HOUSEWIFE, PRETTY, WITH LOTS OF KIDS CHILDREN
12 — ASSORTED PRETTY KIDS
Art and Photo School Division pays $20.00 an hour for good life model.
Goyer Films
169 North Elm St., Northampton 584-8973

The new blades vs. Norelco.

We won.
In an independent test, some independent men shaved one side of their face with a platinum or chromium blade.
They shaved the other side with our Tripleheader 35T shaver.
When they finished shaving, we had them feel their faces.
7 out of 10 said our Tripleheader shaved them as close or closer than either the platinum or chromium blade.
Some of the men were surprised.
But, frankly, we weren't.
Because the Norelco Tripleheader is a totally different kind of electric shaver.
It has three shaving heads that float, to follow the curves of your face.
Our blades are rotary. So they shave in every direction. (Because your beard grows in every direction.)
And we make our shaving heads ultra-thin. So it's possible to get a really close shave. And practically impossible to nick or cut yourself.
The Tripleheader comes in a Cord and a Rechargeable model.
Either way, you can't lose.
Norelco
You can't get any closer.
©1970 North American Philips Corporation, 100 East 42nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Notices

ACCOUNTING ASSOCIATION
The tape of Orson Well's "War of the Worlds" scheduled for 8:15 P.M., Oct. 8th in Mahar has been cancelled.

ASTRONOMY CLUB
Open House Amherst Observatory, Oct. 9th (or first clear night thereafter) 8 P.M. to 12 A.M. A map is posted outside of room 20 Hasbrouck Lab showing location of observatory.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS:
Bus leaving from Wistmore at 12:45 for the State School on Saturday. Give a little time to make some friends.

UMASS BIKE CLUB
All interested students concerned about air pollution--help us to promote bikes meeting. Campus Center Room 175.
IMPORTANT meeting Thursday, Oct 8th in Room 175 of the Campus Center at 7 P.M. Constitution and first trip will be discussed.

BIRTH CONTROL LAWS REFERENDUM:
See Bill Baird in the Colonial Lounge, Thursday, Oct. 8th between 1-5 P.M. To speak to anyone about the referendum. Also, anyone can still sign-up, call Elliott 6-9742 or Bruce 6-9216.

CEQ:
Mobile art display in front of the S.U., Tuesday thru Saturday, Tiny "jewel" paintings on the environment.
Anyone interested in obtaining summer grants for environmental research please contact Gary Kamen 6-7933.

CUSP-Psychology Council
Meeting Thursday night 8:15, Campus Center, 8th floor.

UMASS CHESS CLUB:
The Chess Club will meet Thurs., Oct. 8th, at 7 P.M. in room 811 of the Campus Center.

COMMITTEE ON POVERTY:
Meeting to be held, Thurs., Oct. 8th, at 6:30 PM, George Washington Tower, 5th Floor Lounge. All members please attend.

HISTORY DEPARTMENT:
All students, undergrad and graduate, with problems and/or questions concerning the History Dept. are invited to discuss them with fellow students who are history majors and grad students every Wed. from 1:30-4 and every Thurs. from 2:30-4:30, 7th Floor Lounge, Herter Hall starting Wed., Oct. 14th.

HOME ECONOMICS MAJORS:
Join the AHEA. Applications are available in Room 120 Skinner Hall.

BIOCHEMISTRY SEMINAR:
Speaker: Dr. Yutaka Kobayashi, Worcester Foundation for Experimental Biology, will speak on "Hormonal Control of Polyamine Synthesis." Thurs., Oct. 15th, 11:30 AM., Room 252, Goessmann Laboratory. Coffee will be served at 11:15 AM.
Speaker: Dr. Martin Appleton, Dept. of Chemistry, Scranton University will speak on "Some Biochemical Defects in Down's Syndrome (Mongolism)," Thursday, Oct. 8th, Room 252, Goessmann Laboratory at 11:30 A.M. Coffee will be served at 11:15 A.M.

INTERVARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP:
Film, Urbana '67, Thurs., Oct. 8th, 7:30, Memorial Hall. Important meeting to discuss Urbans and plans for this semester. Please come.

INTEGROL YOGA INSTITUTE:
There will be a general meeting of all people interested in the Integrol Yoga Institute, Friday, Oct. 9th 6-7 PM in the Campus Center Room 904-908 OPEN CLASS in Hatha Yoga, breathing, chanting, and meditation. 5:30 to 7:00 P.M. in Campus Center Room 911-915. Please bring a towel, an empty stomach and wear loose-fitting clothes.
(General meeting Friday, Oct. 10th, 6-7 P.M. in Campus Center Room 904-908

MASSASOIT COMMUNITY COLLEGE ALUMNI ASSOC:
Organizational meeting to be held at 155 Summer St., North Amherst, Mass., Apt. #56, Fri., Oct. 9th at 8 P.M.

MEHER BABA LEAGUE:
There will be a meeting 7:30 PM, Thurs., Oct. 8th at the Campus Center Room 173 for anyone interested in discussing drugs, religion and Baba.

MENTAL HEALTH SERVICE:
Married students: Series of 6 weekly discussions on "Problems of Marital Adjustment for the Student" beginning Oct. 13th from 4-5:30 PM, Mental Health Service Machmer. Limited enrollment--couples only. Call Mr. Siddall at 5-2337.

MILITANT FORUM SEMINAR:
Discussion of Engels, Socialism: Utopia and Scientific which is available at the Young Socialist Alliance table in front of the Hatch. Colonial Lounge, 8 PM, Wed., Oct. 14th.

OUTING CLUB:
Whites trips this weekend, next weekend Bently's and Skull. See bulletin board for details.

PANHELLENIC:
Pan Hellenic council announces open parties tonight at Tri Sigma, 5:30; Pi Beta Phi, 7:30; Sigma Delta Tau, 5:00 and Alpha Chi Omega at 6:30.

PANTHER DEFENSE COMMITTEE:
The Panther Defense Committee is having an open meeting Thursday, Oct. 8th, 7:30 P.M. in the Dukes Room in the S.U.

RALLY:
Friday night at Campus Center Facing the Pond.

UMASS. STUDENTS FOR SARGENT - DWIGHT:
Meet at press gate five minutes before end of football game Saturday for bumper sticker distribution.
JOIN our bumper sticker distribution team call Randy Sloan, 243 Cance, 546-5051.

SCUBA CLUB:
Meeting, Thurs., Oct. 8th, 7 PM, Room 163 of Campus Center. Anyone who wishes to join but cannot attend please leave their name in R.S.O. Box 334.

SKI CLUB
Meeting Tues., Oct. 13th at 8 PM in Mahar. Membership gets you a one year subscription to Ski Magazine; day, weekend and week long trips to Vermont, trip to Switzerland, reduced rates, equipment discounts and more.

SKYDIVING:
Meeting of UMass. Sport Parachute Club, all interested persons invited Tues., Oct. 20th, 8 PM, Room 174 Campus Center. Call Marc H. James or David Cherry 253-5368.

PI BETA PHI:
Hear Larry Weed speak on witchcraft from personal experience), Oct. 8th, 7 PM, 388 North Pleasant St., all women welcome.

PRE AND PARA MED SOCIETY:
Dr. Eugene Piedmont, a medical sociologist, will speak to all interested Pre-meds, nurses, med techs, and public health people tonight at 8 PM in the Commonwealth Room of the S.U.

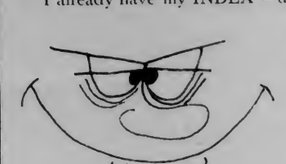
PSYCHOLOGY OF HIGHER EDUCATION:
Paul Poduska will meet in Bartlett 202, Thursday at 4:00 PM.

ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT
Section 24 of Economics 125 will meet at 10 AM Friday Oct. 9 and Tuesday, Oct. 13 at 1 pm. Rm., 919 of Thompson.

SMC:
SMC steering committee meeting to be held Thurs., Oct. 8th, Room 174, 176 Campus Center, 8 PM. All dorm organizers must attend. All other persons welcome.

SOPH CLASS STUDENT NURSES:
Come to the Popcorn Party in the Social Lounge at the Newman Center, Thurs., Oct. 8th, 8-10 PM. Sponsored by the Soph. Student Nurses.

SOUTHWEST NEWSPAPER:
Anyone interested in working on a newspaper for Southwest contact Debbie Clark at 6-8184.



SPECTRUM:
The May '70 issue of SPECTRUM which was not distributed due to the Strike will be given out in the Student Union and the various Dining Commons, Thursday and Friday.

WHITE/DUKAKIS COMMITTEE:
Canvassing in Springfield; meet in Morrill Science Bldg., bus stop at 3:00 PM. We will be home by 7:30 PM.

LOST:
In Southwest area, wire rim glasses in black case. Please call 6-5363 if found.
Hermes 3000 typewriter. Please phone 253-3590.
Two commemorative medals of sentimental value, call 546-6596 or Return to 317 Dickinson.
Gold toothpick in leather case, initials DLN inscribed, call 546-9756 or 135 MacKimmie.

12 oz. Draft 12 oz. Draft
BEER 15¢ BEER
at our SORORITY NITE (9-10 p.m.)
then the Thing of MICHELLE MARQUIS
Follow her army of chicks to
THE NEW MEADOW INN
RT. 47 "Get It On" SUNDERLAND

CANDIDATE
Representing Commutors for STUDENT SENATE
George M. McCullough
Basic Goal:
Establishment of Commuter Senate Representative Office

I already have my INDEX – do you?

Index Office
Mon. thru Fri. 9-4

GUYS' PANTS GIRLS LOVE
IN AN EFFORT TO PROPERLY EDUCATE THE MASS OF IGNORANT AMERICANS, THE WEARHOUSE PRESENTS
LITTLE KNOWN FACTS ABOUT CLOTHING
•OUR CUSTOM DESIGNER: RALPH SWUMP (1949-)

NOT MANY SHOPS HAVE THEIR OWN CUSTOM DESIGNERS! (WE'RE NOT SURE WE DO, EITHER.) LAST OCTOBER, RALPH WALKED IN, SAT DOWN IN A CORNER AND WENT TO SLEEP. A WEEK OR SO LATER, SOMEBODY WOKE HIM UP TO FIND OUT WHAT WAS HAPPENING. HE MUMBLED SOMETHING ABOUT DESIGNING CLOTHES FOR US. THEN HE HAZILY RATTLED OFF SOME COSMIC PARABLES, POPPED SOMETHING IN HIS MOUTH AND PASSED OUT FOR ANOTHER WEEK. THIS HAS BEEN GOING ON FOR SOME TIME NOW. ONE DAY, RALPH BROUGHT US AN EMPTY BOX AND SAID IT CONTAINED A SUIT TO WEAR WHILE ASTRALLY PROJECTING! THEN HE ASKED THE BOSS FOR SOME SPARE CHANGE AND FELL OUT AGAIN. LUCKILY, WE HAVEN'T DEPENDED ON RALPH MUCH AND HAVE STOCKED ALOT OF OTHER FINE CLOTHES! SEE THEM AT WEAR-HOUSE TRUST
201 N. PLEASANT STREET OPEN 10:00-5:30
WE FEATURE Amok, HIP-HUGGER, BELL-BOTTOM JEANS . . . .
AVAILABLE AT WEARHOUSE BOUTIQUE . . . .

GIANT BLOW-UP
2x3 ft. Poster (black & white)

$3.50
Send any black & white or color photo up to 8x10" (no negatives please) to:
RONALD JAYE Poster Service
P.O. Box 43
Plainview, N.Y. 11803
Enclose cash, check or money order (no C.O.D.'s) in the amount of $3.50 for each blow-up.
Original material returned undamaged.
Satisfaction guaranteed. Allow 30 days for delivery. Add 45¢ for postage & handling.
NAME
ADDRESS
CITY STATE ZIP

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

PEACE DOG TAGS — military style, one the Dove of Peace, the other Peace symbol. On 24 inch chain, $1.00. PO Box 461, Holyoke, Mass. 01040. tf10-8

Sansui 2000 Stereo Tuner Amp. Call 584-3567. tf10-8

2 Guitars — one Eko model III, steel string $45. Also Yamaha FG-200 folk guitar w/case, an incredible buy at $150. Call Jim at 6-0160 anytime. tf10-8

Must sell 100" 2-piece sectional couch, recliner, club chair, tables, lamps, draperies, rug 9' x 12'; all in excellent condition. Call 413-772-2970 after 4:00 p.m. tf10-0

1970 Honda SL250 $350. Call Janet 584-2706, N301. tf10-13

Mobile home 10 x 55 Detroiter deluxe on lot in Orange, Mass. 21 east miles from Amherst. Price $3000. Call 617-544-6036 anytime. tf10-12

10-room house, 6 bedrooms, Main St., Sunderland. Ideal living for faculty. Mr. Conrad Abbott 665-3030. tf10-9

FROM THE 1920's: Clothing, shoes, beaded bags, and velvet mask-coats at Miano's Mercantile, next to Amherst Towers. tf12-23

Pioneer, Teac, Garrard, FE Aatec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, LPs, 8 track and other necessities. Amherst Audio. tf10-23

BMF Motorcycle, 600, twin cylinders, good condition, must sell this week, $375 or best offer. Call 665-2249. tf10-13

2 speaker units, excellent quality, must hear to believe. 253-7803 or 256-6696. tf10-8

Who spend more? If you want to buy something, buy it cheap! See us first and save. Call 6-8085, ask for Chief or Scott. 10-6-8-12-14

Black leather motorcycle jacket, size 40, like new. Call Keith at 549-6857. tf10-9

Female black cocker spaniel, chagrin shred, AKC registered, with shots, $75 or best offer. 256-6977 tf10-11

POSTER COLLECTORS
SAN FRANCISCO ROCK CONCERT POSTERS
Full color. Out of print. Full size originals, from the Fillmore Auditorium... Guaranteed highest quality or money refunded. Originally cost $1.50 ea. Limited offer 6 for $4.95. We pay postage. Arbuckle Bros., 3871 Piedmont Ave., Oakland, Ca. 94611. 10-8-13-15

FOR SALE — AUTOS

1961 VW bus, 20 thou, original miles, an engine, trans., front end and brakes, body fair, asking $395. Call Alan 584-4057. tf10-13

Hardtop for MGB — fits any year, cost $250, 1 year old, will sacrifice for $140. Call Tom anytime at 253-7506. tf10-8

1966 MGB Roadster, fast, excellent mechanical condition. Quick sale. Asking $1100. 584-7277. tf10-9

1963 Jaguar XKE coupe, black with red leather interior, chrome wire wheels, am-fm, new tires and studded snows, dealer maintained, excellent condition. $1500. 773-7361. tf10-9

63 Pontiac, auto transmission, good runner condition already inspected, good tires. Best offer. Call 549-1720. tf10-9

1961 Dodge ½ ton pickup, engine very good, must split, no reasonable offer refused. Call Stash 253-9019. tf10-9

1966 VW fastback, excellent condition, $850. Call 253-7706, Terry, after five. 10-8

Ford Chev. Watson, V-8 standard, excellent transportation. Asking $250. Tel. 665-2431 10-8

Steal a 65 MGB, below wholesale, good cond. Call Joe Kohler at 586-7129. 10-8

WANTED

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthology. Please include stamped return envelope. Idlewild Press, 1807 East Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

Need someone to sell stereo equipment. All brands 20 per cent discount. I do bookkeeping, you take 20 per cent profit. Bob Tyler, 21 Gladden, Williamstown, 458-4337. tf10-13

Weekend roommates to share chalet for season at Killington. Call 549-0811. tf10-9

SERVICES

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car, 107 No. Pleasant St. 256-8133. tf12-23

Do you need a tutor for your Spanish classes? If you are having trouble in first or second year Spanish, call Mary Burich at 546-7440. tf10-8

ROOMMATES WANTED

I need a female roommate, own room, furnished. Great place with lots of trees. Pets allowed. Sue 323-7111 tf10-9

Person over 21 to share 3 room apt. in Northampton, $40 mo. Call LU 4-8715, Pete. tf10-13

Wanted — Female roommate to share apt. in Northampton, grad student preferred. Call 584-6150 after 6. 10-8

HELP WANTED

Ambitious couple who need more income. Unusual opportunity for good earnings for both. Works together, part-time or full time. Car necessary. Phone 1-413-774-2587 between 7 - 9 p.m. tf10-16

PERSONAL

Wanted — males to participate in sincere group relationship. Must be free-thinking. Call 6-7256 or 6-7751 tf10-8

Sue: Has the PALACE cured your illness yet? 10-8

To the Flaming A's of Townhouse 64 — "Eat your hearts out, sweeties". J and B Buck 10-8

Carrol
Boo!
Jerry 10-8

AUCTION

Sat., Oct. 10th, 10:30 a.m., Bob's Barn, 5 miles east of Amherst, off Rt. 9, look for signs. Clothes dryer, bureaus, sofas, rugs, desk, chairs, kitchen sets, odds and ends, etc. Call 253-2881. tf10-9

MUSICIANS WANTED

Sax, Flute, Trumpet, Bass, Rhythm, Lead, Pop Singer sought for active Pop Rock Band. Other talent also sought. Call Harald 546-6080. tf10-8

LOST

Would the person who took the magnetic signs from my truck in front of Brett please return them. I need them. I need these for advertising. Neil Morton, Morton's Landscape Nursery.

MASSASOIT COMMUNITY COLLEGE ALUMNI ASSOC:
Organizational meeting to be held at 155 Summer St., North Amherst, Mass., Apt. #56, Fri., Oct. 9th at 8 P.M.

MEHER BABA LEAGUE:
There will be a meeting 7:30 PM, Thurs., Oct. 8th at the Campus Center Room 173 for anyone interested in discussing drugs, religion and Baba.

MENTAL HEALTH SERVICE:
Married students: Series of 6 weekly discussions on "Problems of Marital Adjustment for the Student" beginning Oct 13th from 4-5:30 PM, Mental Health Service Machmer. Limited enrollment--couples only. Call Mr. Siddall at 5-2337.

MILITANT FORUM SEMINAR:
Discussion of Engels, Socialism: Utopia and Scientific which is available at the Young Socialist Alliance table in front of the Hatch. Colonial Lounge, 8 PM, Wed., Oct. 14th.

OUTING CLUB:
Whites trips this weekend, next weekend Bently's and Skull. See bulletin board for details.

PANHELLENIC:
Pan Hellenic council announces open parties tonight at Tri Sigma, 5:30; Pi Beta Phi, 7:30; Sigma Delta Tau, 5:00 and Alpha Chi Omega at 6:30.

PANTHER DEFENSE COMMITTEE:
The Panther Defense Committee is having an open meeting Thursday, Oct. 8th, 7:30 P.M. in the Dukes Room in the S.U.

RALLY:
Friday night at Campus Center Facing the Pond.

UMASS. STUDENTS FOR SARGENT - DWIGHT:
Meet at press gate five minutes before end of football game Saturday for bumper sticker distribution.
JOIN our bumper sticker distribution team call Randy Sloan, 243 Cance, 546-5051.

SCUBA CLUB:
Meeting, Thurs., Oct. 8th, 7 PM, Room 163 of Campus Center. Anyone who wishes to join but cannot attend please leave their name in R.S.O. Box 334.

SKI CLUB
Meeting Tues., Oct 13th at 8 PM in Mahar. Membership gets you a one year subscription to Ski Magazine; day, weekend and week long trips to Vermont, trip to Switzerland, reduced rates, equipment discounts and more.

SKYDIVING:
Meeting of UMass. Sport Parachute Club, all interested persons invited Tues., Oct. 20th, 8 PM, Room 174 Campus Center. Call Marc H. James or David Cherry 253-5368.

PI BETA PHI:
Hear Larry Weed speak on witchcraft from personal experience), Oct. 8th, 7 PM, 388 North Pleasant St., all women welcome.

PRE AND PARA MED SOCIETY:
Dr. Eugene Piedmont, a medical sociologist, will speak to all interested Pre-meds, nurses, med techs, and public health people tonight at 8 PM in the Commonwealth Room of the S.U.

PSYCHOLOGY OF HIGHER EDUCATION:
Paul Poduska will meet in Bartlett 202, Thursday at 4:00 PM.

ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT
Section 24 of Economics 125 will meet at 10 AM Friday Oct. 9 and Tuesday, Oct 13 at 1 pm. Rm., 919 of Thompson.

SMC:
SMC steering committee meeting to be held Thurs., Oct. 8th, Room 174, 176 Campus Center, 8 PM. All dorm organizers must attend. All other persons welcome.

SOPH CLASS STUDENT NURSES:
Come to the Popcorn Party in the Social Lounge at the Newman Center, Thurs., Oct. 8th, 8-10 PM. Sponsored by the Soph. Student Nurses.

SOUTHWEST NEWSPAPER:
Anyone interested in working on a newspaper for Southwest contact Debbie Clark at 6-8184.

SPECTRUM:
The May '70 issue of SPECTRUM which was not distributed due to the Strike will be given out in the Student Union and the various Dining Commons, Thursday and Friday.

WHITE/DUKAKIS COMMITTEE:
Canvassing in Springfield; meet in Morrill Science Bldg., bus stop at 3:00 PM. We will be home by 7:30 PM.

LOST:
In Southwest area, wire rim glasses in black case. Please call 6-5363 if found.
Hermes 3000 typewriter. Please phone 253-3590.
Two commemorative medals of sentimental value, call 546-6596 or Return to 317 Dickinson.
Gold toothpick in leather case, initials DLN inscribed, call 546-9756 or 135 MacKimmie.

Cummings, Collins Cited At QB Club Luncheon

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

The awarding of the Redman offensive and defensive player-of-the-week citations to fullback Dick Cummings and linebacker Dennis Collins respectively highlighted the fourth (of 11) weekly UMass Redmen Quarterback Club Luncheons held yesterday at the Newman Center.

Another large gathering was on hand as a scouting report on Boston University, given by UMass defensive line coach Bob Graham, and films of last Saturday's Redman-Buffalo tilt also highlighted the affair.

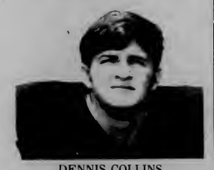
Cummings was singled out for his two-touchdown effort against the State University of New York at Buffalo. The big 6'-230 lb. fullback was UMass' leading rusher for the afternoon, picking up 51 yards in 13 carries on tough-yardage plays up the middle.

In copping the award Cummings broke guard Bob Pena's tight hold on it as Pena had been honored with the citation for both weeks previous to yesterday.

Collins is the second Redman linebacker in two weeks to pick up the top defensive rating; co-captain John Farrelly was honored last week. In the match against Buffalo, the 6'-190 Collins was credited with five unassisted tackles and was in on an additional five stops.

The junior linebacker is not big in size for his demanding position but he possesses great agility and quickness which he adapts well to his play.

Graham presented a brief rundown of BU, most of which information can be found elsewhere on this page.



The UMass-Buffalo films were narrated by Redman head coach Vic Fusia. Before reeling off the picture show, Fusia had a few words about his team. Initially he commented, "We have all the bonus factors necessary for a fine football team", and he cited intangible things like team spirit, dedication and the will-to-win.

He ended his brief prelude by declaring "The exhibition season is ready to get under way", refering to the Redmen's present mark of 1-2.

The film clipping readily revealed a couple of things: one that UMass' offense showed definite signs of coming into its own; and two that the Redman defense is one that must be reckoned with seriously by almost any opponent.

Upon the conclusion of the film session, Fusia left those present with these words; "We're getting closer, come out and see us Saturday."

DICK CUMMINGS
Offensive Award

DENNIS COLLINS
Defensive Award

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

GEMINI individuals often do more than their share of talking. However, they claim to be excellent listeners. That's a good trick if one can pull it off; talking and listening at the same time. If anyone is capable of doing it, the honors would have to go to Gemini.

ARIES (March 2 - April 19): Best to complete rather than initiate projects. Fulfill obligation. But also be sure you receive credit due. Ambitions are highlighted. Bright young person aids.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Some who depend on you may announce new policies. Be ready to take creative steps. Means don't be caught off guard. You have more to offer than might be imagined.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): You get impressions which are valid. Follow through; adhere to basic beliefs. Accent on work procedures, methods of accomplishment. Learn by teaching — share knowledge.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Low. Do more listening than talking. Secure position. Protect assets. Be flexible enough to make necessary adjustments. Discussion with family member proves beneficial.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Obtain hint from Cancer message. Treat lightly, but continue forward progress. One who talks a lot may not have much to show for it. Respond accordingly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Good for getting ideas on paper. Express yourself. Refuse to be held back by foolish inhibitions. Your opinions are sought. Present them in meaningful and direct manner.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): You receive enlightenment about property, special permissions and rights. Don't reveal your hand. Surprise element works in your favor. Know this and act accordingly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Perfect techniques. Don't be bogged down by what others may think and do. Develop your own style. Short trip may bring positive results. Put ideas to work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Handle added responsibility. It could bring greater rewards. You are moving in right direction. Scorpio individual proves valuable ally.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Progress is keynoted. Co-operate in community project. You make significant gains. Aim toward goal. There is room for you at top. Widen horizons. See beyond the immediate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 22 - Feb. 18): Be aware of what occurs behind the scenes. You require additional privacy. Some are anxious to learn your business. Protect your interests.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): You may be held responsible for another's actions. Maintain balance — steer poise. Don't compound errors. Do what must be done in calm, deliberate manner.

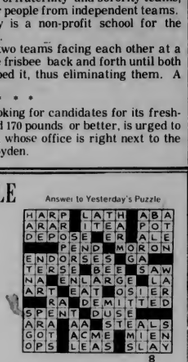
IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are due to make changes which transform the routine into exciting accomplishment. Some circumstances are beyond your control. But you can ride with the tide — to personal achievement. You are a sensitive person, able to detect signs of the times.

Copyright 1970, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Sports Notices

Student exchange coupons for the UMass-Boston University football game can still be traded in at the athletic ticket office in room 255 Boyden. The deadline is Friday at 6 p.m.

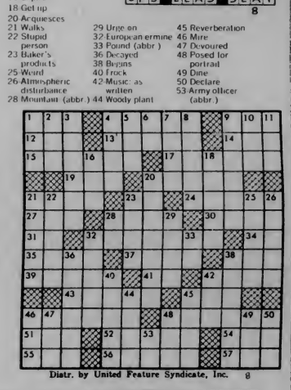
• • • • •



Fraternity Sigma Alpha Mu is sponsoring a frisbee tournament on Sunday, Oct. 18, at 12 noon behind the old Student Union. The competition will be open to any two-member team which registers on either Friday, Oct. 9, Tuesday, Oct. 13 or Wednesday, Oct. 15 in the Student Union Lobby.
Registration will consist of paying a donation to the Springfield Street Academy of $4 for members of fraternity and sorority teams, $3 for members of dorms and $2 for people from independent teams. The Springfield Street Academy is a non-profit school for the education of high school dropouts.
The competition will consist of two teams facing each other at a specified distance and throwing the frisbee back and forth until both members of one team have dropped it, thus eliminating them. A

• • • • •

The UMass crew team is still looking for candidates for its freshman team. Any freshman, 5'11 and 170 pounds or better, is urged to contact crew coach Mike Faherty, whose office is right next to the intramural office in room 215 Boyden.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

ACROSS
1 Everyone
4 Israeli seaport
9 Speck
12 Ocean
13 Church official
14 Female deer
15 Oar
17 Wiped out
19 Plunge
20 Worship
21 Pintail duck
23 Postscript (abbr.)
24 Metal strands
27 Rocky hill
28 Unmarried woman
30 Let it stand
31 Teutonic deity
32 Spire
34 Artificial language
35 Harbor
37 Rebuke
38 Title of respect
39 Net for the hair
41 Initials of 26th President
42 Stalk
43 Fruit cakes
45 Greek letter
46 Substance
48 Frightens
51 Southwestern Indian
52 Musical sign in Psalms
54 Chinese pagoda
55 Fair
56 Contest (colloq.)
57 Puppet

DOWN
1 Snake
2 Meadow
3 Climbing device
4 Succor
5 Beverage
6 Cyprinoid fish
7 Give food to 8 Dart
9 Sandy waste
10 Be in debt
11 Spread for drying
16 Expire
18 Get up
20 Acquiesces
21 Walks
22 Stupid person
23 Baker's products
25 Word
26 Atmospheric disturbance
28 Mountain (abbr.)
29 Urge on
32 European ermine
33 Pound (abbr.)
36 Decayed
38 Begins
40 Frock
42 Music: as written
44 Woody plant
45 Reverberation
46 Mire
47 Devoured
48 Posed for portrait
49 Dine
50 Declare
53 Army officer (abbr.)

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

FOUND:
Sterling silver tie clip from Siam, check Student Union lost and found.
Textbook, Soils by Roy L. Donahue, Check with Student Union lost and found.
Yellow tiger kitten last week vicinity of North Pleasant and Hallock Streets, call 253-7778.
"Fiat" car keys found in Quad Saturday morning can be picket up at 105 Thatcher House.
Two keys found near Hasbrouck Lab. If yours call Ken at 6-7228.
[illegible] and men's watch in Machmer W- [illegible] Mike 419 Dwight.
[illegible] wallet etc.

TERRIER ON THE BLOCK - Halfback Gary Capehart (27 at left), of Boston University's key players on offense when it plays UMass Saturday at Alumni Stadium, cross-body blocks on Redman Curt Bristol (51) during action from last fall's UMass-BU tilt.

TERRIER ON THE FLY - Linebacker Wendell Webster (74 at right), one of BU's top defensive performers, springs over UMass' Dick Cummings in quest of a loose football, also from last year's contest, won by the Redmen, 14-9. (MDC photos by Ken Emery)

Terrier Talk or . . . Boston U. Ballyhoo

BU, at 1 and 2, Seeks to Recapture '69 Formula

By Barry Rubenstein
Assistant Sports Editor

Boston University was generally regarded last year as the finest college football team in New England. It had the best record in the history of Terrier football (9-1) and the squad earned an invitation to the Pasadena Bowl at the season's end.

All of this was accomplished by first-year head coach Larry Naviaux who was rewarded for his achievement by being named the outstanding college division coach not only in New England but in the nation. But by achieving so much in his freshman season, he has provided himself with a tough act to follow.

And so far this season he has been unable to duplicate his feat of 1969. Among the primary reasons for this is the fact that eight of last year's defensive starters graduated. Four men from last year's prevent squad have been drafted by the pros. Bruce Taylor (49'ers), Fred Barry (Chiefs), Pat Hughes (Giants) and Gil Holloway (Falcons), and thus this year's squad has had a lot of holes to fill.

However, most of the gaps have been on defense as nine offensive starters are back from last year's unit. And despite their record (1-2), BU has played well this season. Although their only victory was a 3-6 romp over a week Vermont eleven, the Terriers have come very close to victory in their other two games. Last week they were nipped in the last seconds by Temple, 10-7, and in their opening contest were downed by Colgate, 26-21.

Here, then, are BU's probable starters with comments from UMass defensive line coache Bob Graham.

Leading the offense will be workhorse quarterback Sam Hollo, a 5'11 190 bl. junior. Although he is the signal caller, Hollo has carried the ball forty times, more than any man on the team. He is "a real scrambler" and will not hesitate to run if he finds his recievers covered. It is possible that should Hollo run into trouble, 6'2-175 lb. junior Bill Poole could see action.

The halfbacks will probably be 5'9-185 lb. Pat Diamond and 6'1-185 lb Paul Ebert. Diamond is a letterman from last year while Ebert is only a sophomore. However, he will split his duties with senior letterman Gary Capehart, 5'10-185 lb., who gained 495 yards last year.

The fullback slot will also be split by two Terriers. The probable starter will be 6'0-212 lb. Ted Ryan.

He was the Terriers' number three rusher in 1969. Also seeing action will be 5'11-200 lb. Mike Fields. Fields was used sparingly last year until the Pasadena Bowl in which he gained 74 yards.

The offensive line is one of BU's strong points. It is an experienced unit with an abundance of talent. The tackles are 6'2-225 lb. Jim Dowling and 6'1-220 lb. Don Speaks. Dowling is the only sophomore on the offensive line.

BU is extremely strong at guard. The Terriers have co-captain Darryl Hill, 6'2-230 lb., who has been switched from tackle, and 6'0-195 lb. Bill Soucy. Both have been lettermen for the last two years.

The center is another two-year letterman, 5'9-200 lb. senior Tim Johnson. Although he suffered a broken wrist in '69 and had knee trouble in the spring, he has regained the number one center.

The tight end will be 6'4-210 lb. Al Durkovic who won a close battle with two year letterman Frank Jewett for the post. At split end is the Terriers' leading reciever in '69, Gleen Williams. He had 20 receptions last year and "can really go get that football".

That's the Terrier offense. It has worked well this season, chalking up an average of over 25 points a game.

The defensive unit is questionable. Although it has performed fairly well so far this fall, it would have to be considered the weakness of the Terriers. But it is a hard unit to figure. There are three two-year lettermen listed on the roster who have seen little or no action this season. They are: Dave Blanchard, a 6'3-215 lb. end, Jim Norris, a 5'11-190 lb. linebacker, and Jim Dixon, a 6'5-243 lb. end. Dixon was hurt last week and will not play but, as far as the other two are concerned, there is no word.

The starting defensive ends will be 6'2-205 lb. John Gresock, a sophmore, and 6'2-195 lb. Bill Pukalo, another sophomore. They are inexperienced and are replacing Blanchard and Dixon.

At tackle will be 6'0-210 lb. Jim Pope and Rick Versocki. Versocki, 6'0-215 lb., is the veteran of the defensive line. "He is a real fine football player who has been outstanding in every play this year."

Replacing co-captain Norris at left linebacker will be 6'0-205 lb. senior Rich Cullen. Cullen will be joined at linebacker two lettermen. They are Ken Sinclair, 6'0-205 lb., in the middle, and Wendell Webster, 6'0-200 lb. on the right side.

There is only one returning starter in the Terrier secondary. He is 6'0-185 senior John Dwinell and he will be the safety. At cornerback, will be two men who saw some action in 1969 although they weren't starters, namely Arnie Baker, 6'1-185 lb and Mel Priester, 6'0-180 lb. Rounding out the secondary is another Priester, Floyd, 6'1-195 lb.

This Terrier football team, although only a shadow of the great Terrier unit of 1969, could still prove quite troublesome for the Redmen especially after its disappointing loss to Temple.

Last Night's Intramurals

FOOTBALL

Maroons 12, Eagles 6
Redwoods 43, Bruins 6
Hemlocks 26, Hilo's 0
Trojans 44, Oaks 0
Flaming A's 19, Pines 8
Aces 18, Lemons 16
Colts 19, Spartans 0
Academics 8, Lions 0
Seagrams 30, Bruisers 6
Panthers 14, Crushers 6
Senators 26, Cans 6
Monuments 12, Terrors 6
Team 40, Cult 19
Lifers 12, Oxfords 8
BX over Hacks, wbf
Crestview 12, Bodies 0
Civ. Eng 14, Gotchas 12
Conglos 18, Burners 14
BKP 2, TC 0
PMD over SAE, wbf
SPE 2, PLP 0
PSK and APO, df
PSD 2, TEP 0
Cougars and Terrors, df
Redwoods over Dogs, wbf
Dipers 2, Maroons 0
KS over DC, wbf
Dildoughs 2, Oxfords 0
BX over GAK, wbf

UMass' football, soccer and cross-country teams prep themselves for weekend action, previews of their pending games (or meets) will be printed in tomorrow's Collegian sports pages.

sPoRts —AP— ShorTiEs

ST LOUIS (AP) - Rickie Allen, apparently resigning himself to his latest baseball trade, said Wednesday he's looking forward to playing for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

In fact, said Allen, the confines of Dodger Stadium in Chavez Ravine may permit him to hit more home runs than the 34 he swatted for the St. Louis Cardinals the past season.

"I don't think L.A. is as tough a park to hit in as Busch Stadium," he said.

"It's 370 feet up the power alley there and 386 here. I won't have to pull the ball to hit it out," he added.

The Dodgers, short of power the past few seasons, acquired the 28 year old Allen on Monday in Exchange for infielder Ted Sizemore, the National League's 1969 rookie of the year, and catcher-outfielder Bob Stinson.

Early indications from Dodger Vice President Al Campanis were that the one time Philadelphia Phillie Bad Boy would be tried at third base, a spot Bill Grabarkewitz played most of last season.

If the hard-hitting Allen pans out, Wes Parker will remain at first and Grabarkewitz will shift to second on a permanent basis.

NEW YOUR (AP) - Miami of Ohio, a knuckle down team at the goal line, continues to lead the nation in total defense by allowing 105.3 yards a game.

The figure is the lowest by a leader since 1966, according to statistics by the National Collegeiate Sports Service.

CINCINATI (AP) - Jim Maloney, Cincinnati pitching main stay of the 1960's knows he's a victim of the 1970 Reds youth movement and it's cost him another world Series shot.

Maloney is the only one of the 1970 Reds who appeared in their last Series in 1961.

A ruptured Achilles tendon sent him to the sidelines from April 17 until Sept. 4, and the 134 game winner yielded a spot on the Series roster to young Milt Wilcox.

Manager Sparky Anderson's decision to pick the 20-year old Wilcox over the 30-year old Maloney hasn't upset Jim.

"I don't feel bad about it," he said. "In fact, it looks like it was a whale of a decision."

Wilcox' brilliant 3 1/3 inning one-hit effort helped the Reds lock up the third game of the National League playoffs against Pittsburgh Monday and send them against Baltimore in the Series.

Maloney himself was an impressionable 21-year old when he pitched two thirds of an inning against the New York Yankees in relief in the deciding fifth game in 1961.

Maloney, a veteran of 11 major league seasons now, was socked for four hits and two runs in his brief stint.

"If you left your seat to get a ham sandwich, you probably missed me," he said, chuckling.

Maloney knows he will be expendable as the Reds go with youngsters on their mound staff. He probably will be trade bait, but his $58,000 salary may make other clubs think twice.

NEWYORK (AP) - Major League umpires hammered out a new four-year contract Wednesday with base ball officials, paving the way for a troublefree World Series.

LEXINGTON, KY. (AP) - Timothy T., winner of the Hambletonian, goes after the third jewel in trotting's triple crown Friday when he faces 11 challengers in the 78th Kentucky Futurity.

BOSTON (AP) - The Boston Bruins overcame a four-goal performance by Jean Ratelle last night to defeat the New York Rangers 8-6 in the final preseason National Hockey League exhibition game for both clubs.

Tonight's Intramurals

FOOTBALL

Field	Time	Teams
1	6:30	Bucks vs. Gregorians
2	6:30	Outhouse T vs. Smashers
3	6:30	Lubees vs. Roadrunners
4	6:30	3 M's vs. Colonels
5	6:30	Duchies vs. Freaks
6	6:30	Bulldogs vs. GAK
		POSITION ATHENIAN
1	7:30	1 vs. 2
2	7:30	4 vs. 5
		POSITION SPARTAN
3	7:30	1 vs. 2
4	7:30	4 vs. 5
		POSITION TROJAN
5	7:30	1 vs. 2
6	7:30	4 vs. 5
Pit	Time	Teams
1	8:30	Murgatroyds vs. Nurds
2	8:30	Pipers vs. Barracudas
3	8:30	Broncos vs. Brigade
4	8:30	Lil Fellas vs. Puckers
5	8:30	Heroes vs. Browns
6	8:30	Turtles vs. Tubes

TUG-O-WAR

2 8:00 Deacons vs. Alpha Chi Omega
2 8:15 Dogs vs. Lemons
2 8:30 Cougars vs. Lambda Chi 0

IM Notices

COLUMBUS DAY OFF - There will be no recreational activity on Monday, Oct. 12 due to Columbus Day.

• • • • •

METAWAMPE 500 - Entrees for the Metawampe 500 will be accepted up to 5 p.m. Friday, Oct. 9.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 23 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS FRIDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1970

Gofman Discloses Extent of Nuclear Pollution

Dr. John Gofman talks informally with students in the Campus Center yesterday afternoon. Dr. Gofman spoke about the dangers of nuclear pollution and the arbitrary behavior of the Atomic Energy Commission in a DVP locture last evening. Story on page 2. (MDC photo by Gary Slickman)

Raft Ride Slated For Coming Weekend

Story on page 3

Student Senate Election Results

See page 5

Danger of Nuclear Pollution Exposed in DVP Lecture

by Brian White
Staff Reporter

Dr. John Gofman, an expert in the field of nuclear pollution, accused the Atomic Energy Commission of irresponsibility and duplicity in a Distinguished Visitors Program speech last night.

Dr. Gofman said he has learned that the struggle for a livable environment is no "tea party." Logic, reason, and education are not enough to bring about the changes that are necessary. The fight ahead will be dirty and disheartening.

Citing his own experiences, Dr. Gofman stated that he had once naively believed in the good will and competence of agencies such as the Atomic Energy Commission. He had been made chairman of a committee designed to investigate the effects of proposed atomic energy programs on public health. When his committee came up with material indication that radiation hazards were far greater than had been imagined, Dr. Gofman assumed that he need only present his results to the proper authorities to get action.

Instead of listening to him, the Atomic Energy COMMISSION attacked him. The AEC reacts instinctively to threats, Dr. Gofman noted. The AEC "attempts to destroy anyone who stands in the way of their divine wisdom".

Dr. Gofman's work indicated that the present legally acceptable level for radiation would, if maintained across the country, cause an increase of 1.5% in deaths due to cancer and leukemia: 32,000 extra deaths per year from cancer. There would also be a vast increase in the mutation level -- and from 150,000 to 1.5 million more deaths would result from the genetic defects incurred. The death rate would increase 50% as a result of maintaining the AEC's legally acceptable level.

Only recently, in the months since Dr. Gofman has been attacked for his work, has the Atomic Energy Commission actually prepared to apply actual scientific analysis to his claims.

The trouble with AEC is symptomatic of larger ills, Dr. Gofman stated. There is an overall neglect of human values, an inversion of priorities, in the society at large. Large agencies like the AEC are peculiarly open to the parochial attitude present all around it -- its members oriented towards short-term gains rather than the long-range welfare of the people it presumably serves.

Dr. Gofman went on to criticize the nuclear power plants being built all over the country. He considers such technology dangerous for several reasons. For one, it was developed under vast misconceptions of safe levels of nuclear pollution. Moreover, every nuclear power plant is an experiment.

The insurance companies could not be persuaded to insure the plants; Congress helped the power companies to get around this rulling that only 7¢ out of every dollar would be paid back to those suffering damage because of a nuclear accident.

The power plants are planned near metropolitan areas, since this is cheaper for the power companies -- and this immensely increases the risk involved in their operation. (A typical nuclear power plant would have the potential explosive force of 1000 Hiroshima-size atomic bombs.)

Dr. Gofman asked for a moratorium on the building of atomic power plants for 5 years. Since Congress has refused to limit this danger, we should act to go around it by placing this issue on the ballot. Referendums have al ready been effective in preventing the construction of such plants.

The AEC is sensitive to public opinion. Dr. Gofman feels it maintains 70 full-time public relations men) -- and with a little pressure it might even become reasonable. As it stands, the AEC is the only governmental agency which is autonomous; it makes its own rules, controls itself.

Dr. John Gofman spoke at last night's DVP lecture on the perils facing us as a result of nuclear pollution.
He was especially embittered toward the Atomic Energy Commission. (MDC Photo by David Bernstein)

Smoke-In Protest Held On Common

About 50 persons staged a "smoke-in" last night on the Amherst Common in front of the town's police station to protest what they called police harrassment of town residents. No arrests were made at the demonstration, which lasted several hours.

A police spokesman said "no action was taken because we don't want to court any trouble," and added "they're not breaking any laws out there tonight."

The protestors said they were demonstrating against "police harrassment" outside of Logs Bar last week, when several persons were arrested for loitering and disorderly conduct. They added that they would continue to "smoke and sing on our common until some action is taken to drop charges against those arrested."

Additional details on the protest will appear in Tuesday's issue.

Thatcher House Fights Potential Dissolution

Meeting with a representative of the Treasurer's office last night, approximately thirty residents of Thatcher stated that the residents do not wish to be split up if the dorm is renovated in the future.

Mark Doherty, member of the Save Thatcher Committee, read a statement voted on by the majority of the dorm which stated that the residents of Thatcher do not wish to be split up and will put up a real battle with the Administration to avoid being split up.

According to Charlie Hampton from the Treasurer's office, there are funds earmarked for dorm renovation that are taken out of a residence hall trust fund.

The main bone of contention with the Thatcher residents is that they have spent a lot of time building their government and do not wish to see their work destroyed.

Hampton said that he should know within a short time how much money is available for the work. He requested that the students submit a list of work that they would like to see done. The sooner they do this, he says, the sooner everyone will know if Thatcher residents will be displaced.

Committee Formed To Aid Panthers In Struggle Against Repression

By DAVID CASTALDI
Staff Reporter

"The Panthers are being kicked in the ass and their civil liberties are being violated" said Sidney Finehursh, chairman of the University Mobilization Committee.

About 20 people met for an open meeting of the Panther Defense Committee in the Dukes Room last night. The committee was formed out of the Radical Community Union when some of the members agreed upon the need to form a group to help raise funds for Bobby Seale, Erica Huggins, and other Panthers on trial in New Haven.

The question was raised as to whether or not the committee should take on the responsibility of dispensing information about the Panthers to the community, as well as attempting to raise funds.

Some members considered it necessary for the group to keep people informed on the Panther trial, the repression of the Panthers which increases each day, and to educate people about repression in general.

Some methods of relating information which were used during the strike and are likely to be continued are: distribution of the "Trial News" and the setting up of an information table with the "Black Panther Party" paper being sold along with other information. Workshops, similar to those held during the strike, will be set up if possible.

The committee plans to interact with the campus media--WFCR, WMUA, and the Collegian, in order to keep people posted on the latest news of the trial. This information will be recorded on tape in New Haven and sent directly to the committee.

The chairman of the committee stated that there is about a 70 per cent chance of having Tom Froines of the Chicago Eight speak on campus.

Other suggestions for raising money included selling buttons, having a rock concert, or having films.

Ted, let us forget politics and let us to BELL'S PIZZA
He stays open until 1 A.M. and 2 A.M. on Friday and Saturday.
Yes, Spiro, but what are people going to say if they see me with you. Better call BP they make free deliveries too.
256-8011 253-9051

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor).
Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $7.50 per semester, $14.00 per year.

"Red" Blasko
is not entitled to an INDEX. If you don't have yours yet, and you were an undergrad both semesters last year, your INDEX is available in the INDEX office, 2nd floor, Student Union.

Hillel — YOM KIPPUR SERVICES
Campus Center Auditorium, Oct. 9, 10
KOL NIDRE SERVICE FRIDAY, 5:30 P.M.
SATURDAY ALL DAY SERVICE* 10:00 A.M.
(*there will be a short break at about 2:30 p.m.)

Pollution Highlighted As CEQ Rides Rapids

By WALTER SOBZAK
Staff Reporter

In an effort to bring the problem of river pollution to the public's eye, a group of contemporary Huck Finns will attempt to tame the wild Connecticut River this weekend.

Under the auspices of the Coalition for Environmental Quality, a Raft and Canoe Flotilla, consisting of a dozen canoes and a 10 by 24 foot raft, will set out on the 120 mile "Sunderland to the Sea" trip early Saturday morning. Between 35-45 students will participate. Volunteers are wanted.

From the start at the Sunderland Bridge, the canoes and raft will continue down to Northampton and Easthampton, then to Springfield by Sunday. At all the stops, leaflets will be distributed, concerning the river pollution problem. After leaving Springfield, the group will pole their way down to Thompsonville, Conn.

If Connecticut is reached without collision or drowning, the raft, with its 6-10 seasoned iars will brave the remaining 68 miles to the sea. Since the last of a series of dams is in Enfield, Conn., a flow of four to five miles an hour will allow the navigators to lay their poles aside.

One snag in the plans is the lach of a car to accompany the raft and to retrieve it with a U-Haul trailer at the ocean Monday. The committee is searching for someone willing to help.

The raft currently floating on the campus pond will be "christened" at one o'clock today, and "practice" will follow, according to Eric Walgren of CEQ. The proposed 'CEQ Universal Liferaft' will be propelled by fifteen foot poles, because of the lack of current as a result of the dams.

The purpose of the trip is to "give dramatization to the river pollution problems", according to Quint Dawson, president of CEQ. "It is basically being done for publicity, since few people seem to realize how serious the problem is.

People should be able to use the river as a recreation area, but this is impossible since municipal sewage and industrial waste fill the water. The river is completely controlled by dams, and the result is stagnant water filled with sludge. "The river trip is an attempt to show the public that the problem is, indeed, present. It should be fun at the same time."

Now floating in the pond is a raft that will journey down the Connecticut River this weekend as the CEQ draws attention to river pollution. Pictured are several of the contemporary Huck Finns. (MDC photo by Gary Slickman)

Candidate Bill Baird Solicits Signatures for Abortion Reform

By PAT KING
Staff Reporter

How would you and your favorite sleeping companion like to be busted in bed some fine evening? Big Brother could be watching YOU. Yes, it CAN happen here. Did you know, for instance, that two consenting, single adults can be given up to three months in jail for engaging in intercourse? Even marriage isn't safe. There is a law on the books which makes it a crime for married people to engage in certain sexual positions, including oral-genital contact, punishable by up to five years in prison. Homosexual acts are good for about 15 years' imprisonment. These laws are all part of the Massachusetts General Laws, Chapter 272, called "Crimes against Chastity" The laws regarding abortion also fall under this section.

Bill Baird was here yesterday afternoon in the Colonial Lounge trying to recruit help in his fight to put these laws on the referendum in the November elections. About 30,000 more signatures are needed on petitions so that the people will be able to vote on whether they want their sex lives controlled by the government. Baird now faces jail sentences in Wisconsin and Massachusetts as a result of his campaign to have these laws changed. He is even opposing Kennedy in the Senatorial race. Most candidates refuse to even take a stand on sex laws.

His main interest is in reforming the abortion laws. Here, this issue strikes close to home. A UMass student is currently being held in jail because his girlfriend died after he tried to abort their baby. In another in case, a 15 year-old girl became pregnant as the result of a rape and she was refused an abortion by three Massachusetts hospitals. Baird finally helped her get an abortion in New York. None of the birth control methods are 100% effective, and thousands of babies are conceived every year in spite of The Pill. This in turn means that thousands of women put their lives in the hands of quack abortionists in a desperate attempt to prevent an unwanted baby from being born. If the laws were changed, women have the operation performed safely.

The Supreme Court decided, in 1917, that the state has the right to "protect the chastity of the women of the state." He called for the women to liberate their bodies and fight for their right to make their own decisions. Hopefully, the Supreme Court will rule that women have been discriminated against and that they do have the right to abortion any time they wish. Until this happens, though, which may be quite some time yet, women may be sterile for life because of carelessly performed abortions and unwanted babies will continue to be born. Anyone who wishes to canvass for signatures or help in any other way, may contact Eliott Margolis at 546-9742.

Birth Control advocate Bill Baird spoke yesterday in the Colonial Lounge of the Student Union to gather support for abortion law reformation, citing antiquated laws presently on the books in Massachusetts. Interested students are invited to aid in canvassing for signatures. (MDC Photo by Gary Slickman)

Vic Fusia
is not entitled to an INDEX. If you don't have yours yet, and you were an undergrad both semesters last year, your INDEX is available in the INDEX office, 2nd floor, Student Union.

FOWLER Jewelers
OF AMHERST
253-7615
65 North Pleasant Street
EXPERT WATCH REPAIR
THE FINER LINES OF CHINA, CRYSTAL AND SILVER
QUALITY JEWELRY
DIAMONDS SOLD WITH USE OF DIAMOND SCOPE.

WAFFLE
OCT. 13-18

MDC Interview
White Speaks on Issues

White Interview
JOANNE STILES

Wednesday night, gubernatorial candidate, Mayor Kevin H. White of Boston took time out from his visit with a convention of Town Clerks in Northampton to speak on a number of issues with this MDC reporter.

He touched briefly on such subjects as University funding, drugs, campus unrest, guns on campus, abortion, and Governor Sargent's administration.

UNIVERSITY FUNDING: "I think that instead of pouring the money from student tuitions into the General Fund, they should be put into the University Fund."

DRUGS AND MARIJUANA: "I am one of the few Mayors in the country who has established methadone treatment clinics for addicts." If it could be proven that marijuana has no harmful effects, then I see no reason why it should not be legalized." White was quick to add that just as the effects of cigarettes were not evident for years, so may be the case with marijuana.

CAMPUS UNREST: "Everyone is entitled to protest as long as they are not destructive." White added, "When I send police into a riot area I rarely even let them carry night sticks."

ABORTION: "Abortion is legal in Massachusetts for either mental or health reasons. But who can make a distinction between a fetus which is three months or eight months old?"

"I see no reason why birth control information cannot be made available to unmarried as well as married people."

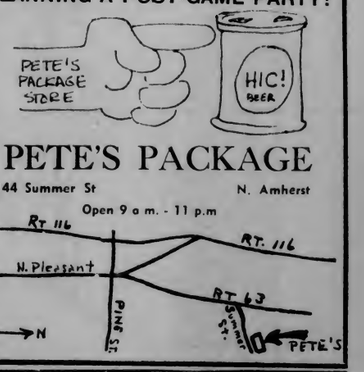
GUNS ON CAMPUS: The Mayor was asked what he thought of the fact that no one on campus was allowed to carry guns except the campus police. At this point White made a distinction between Campus police and National Guard. "Campus police exist to protect the students from intruders while National Guardsmen are called onto campuses to restore order." When asked if he would call the National Guard onto a college campus the Mayor said, "No, I have not before in Boston and I do not intend to."

GOVERNOR SARGENT'S ADMINISTRATION: "Sargent's record shows nothing but a bickering between the Legislature and the Governor."

Toward the end of the interview Mayor White described himself as having a sense of motion.' "If a mayor really moves, he alienates people....I could even lose Boston to Frank Sargent."

MDC
NEWS HOTLINE
5-2550

Lottery #195 Cutoff for II-S



The Placement Office recommends that a Selective Service registrant born between January 1,1944 and December 31, 1950 and whose random lottery number, drawn December 1,1969 for the 1970 lottery, is above 195, give thought to relinquishinng his II-S classification (if he has one) in favor of a I-A for the current calendar year.

If he wishes to do so, he should write, AT ONCE, to his local board and withdraw his previous request for a student deferment.

Through receiving a I-A he will be placed in the 1970 lottery in order of his random sequence number and, at this time, it is not expected that registrants bevond the number 195 will be reached for induction.

As of January 1, 1971 those 1970 lottery registrants not reached will be placed in the lower priority selection group of the 1971 lottery, and will be liable only after the 1971 lottery group is completely exhausted. Presently it seems unlikely that this 1971 lottery group will become exhausted in the 1971 calendar year. His likelihood of induction will decrease yearly until he reaches age 26, beyond which age registrants are not now being drafted.

PLANNING A POST-GAME PARTY?

Rep. MARY B. NEWMAN
Republican Candidate for Secretary of State
WILL BE ON CAMPUS
2:00 p.m Tuesday, October 13th
Colonial Lounge

In The Nation And The World

Nixon's Indochina Plan Refused By Viet Cong

PARIS (AP) - The United States submitted President Nixon's Indochina plan at the Vietnam peace talks Thursday. Not unexpectedly, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong denounced it.

But they conceded this was a preliminary reaction, and U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce said: "I am not discouraged."

Bruce introduced the plan at the 87th session of the talks and said: "It is our most earnest hope that the President's proposals will receive the most careful study and considered response by your side."

North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy hastened to call the plan "an electoral gift certificate." Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh of the Viet Cong said the proposals were a means "of legalizing American aggression in Indochina."

Mrs. Binh took the five points one at a time, and, if she did not flatly reject all of them, nowhere did she give even a hint of acceptance.

On the cease fire it was a clear "no." She restated the Communist position that a cease fire would be established only "after the signature of agreements with view to ending the war."

On an enlarged conference on Indochina, Mrs. Binh declared the path to peace in the peninsula was immediate withdrawal of American forces from the area.

On Nixon's call for negotiation of "a time table for complete troop withdrawals" Mrs. Binh found it ambiguous. She repeated that an American commitment to pull out unconditionally from Vietnam by next June 30 is still considered an essential element of her stand.

Mrs. Binh restated her demand for the ouster of President Nguyen Van Thieu, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and Premier Tran Thien Khiem, whom she called "a major obstacle to peace."

In his speech, Nixon called this demand "totally unacceptable." He proposed a fair political solution "reflecting the existing political process agreed upon."

On the prisoner of war issue, Mrs. Binh was adamant. She recalled that in her own initiative Sept. 17 she tied discussion of prisoner releases to U.S. acceptance of her June 30 troop withdrawal deadline.

"It is only by withdrawing its troops in this manner that the American government can see....captured U.S. service men quickly returned to their homes," she added.

The Communist delegations - while making what sounded like noises of rejection - reserved the right of further commentary.

Returning to the U.S. Embassy after the 3 3/4 hour session, Bruce said "the other side's response" did not discourage him, and added he would "await with interest a more thoughtful response."

President Nixon said in Savannah, Ga., that world reaction to his proposal was "overwhelmingly good." He told newsmen he hoped North Vietnam will take it seriously.

Russian Author Awarded Nobel

STOCKHOLM (AP) - Russian author Alexander Solzhenitsyn, whose works are banned in the Soviet Union, was awarded the Nobel Prize for literature Thursday. He said he would attempt to travel to Stockholm to receive the award worth $80,000.

"I am grateful for the decision," he told a Swedish correspondent who reached him by telephone. "I intend to go to Stockholm to receive it personally as far as this is dependent on me."

The correspondent, Per Hegge of the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dgbladet, said the author did not believe the news at first, and then refused to comment. On thinking it over, however, he decided to announce his acceptance.

Awarding the prize to Solzhenitsyn, the Swedish Academy of Letters cited "the ethical force with which he has pursued the indispensable traditions of Russian literature."

Soviets Agree To Space Rescue Plan

KONSTANZ, Germany (AP) - In a major step toward world space cooperation, the Soviet Union agreed Thursday to discuss an international space rescue system with the United States and 10 other nations.

Under the agreement, the United States and Russia will consider standardizing some spaceship equipment and operating techniques. Initial discussion centered on a common docking mechanism.

The break through came at the 21st. congress of the International Astronautical Federation, where more than 800 scientists and engineers from 35 nations have been hammering hard all week on a theme of international space cooperation.

The announcement was made by P.A. Campbell, American co-chairman of the third International Symposium and Space Rescue, held Thursday as part of the congress.

Campbell said a letter had been received from the Soviet Academy of Sciences nominating four engineers to serve on the federation's space rescue study committee.

He said the four engineers would attend their first formal committee meeting at the Federation's 22nd congress in Brussels, Belgium, next year.

If space rescue agreement is reached, it would be the first major effort at space cooperation by the two space powers.

Senate Revises Bomb Law

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate approved a sweeping overhaul of the nation's antibombing laws Thursday, voting to give federal agents expanded wiretap power and a broad new mandate for venturing onto disrupted college campuses.

Besides making broad changes in current law and adding new definitions of explosives and bombs, the legislation hasthree major provisions.

One would permit wiretapping under court order if criminal use of explosives is suspected.

Another would make it a federal crime to damage or destroy with explosives any federal property or the property of any institution or organization receiving federal funds.

A staff aide of the Senate Judiciary Committee said this provision would give the FBI virtually unlimited access to many of the nation's colleges or universities if any of their property is damaged in a blast.

The third major provision would make criminal use of explosives resulting in a fatality punishable by death.

The measure was part of a fistful of anticrime bills the election minded Senate zipped through in a matter of hours.

Other legislation touched on kidnapings of congressmen, protection of presidents and assistance to law enforcement agencies.

ANOTHER MOVEMENT ON CAMPUS

EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY

AS OF WED., OCT. 7

All Peter Pan buses will load on the north side of the Campus Center Parking Garage. Tickets and information are still available in the lobby of the Student Union Building.

Springfield — Worcester — Boston — Bradley International Airport

Senate Election Results

Students cast ballots in Student Senate Elections yesterday afternoon. Those dorms for which no results have been received should call Leo Clark, Student Senate Office, 5-0341 or 5-0342. (MDC photo by Gary Slickmen).

Baker: Ray Jones
Knowlton: Jane Sweeney
Wheeler: no results
Greenough: not valid
Crabtree: Edie Kort
Chadbourne: Ed Voci
Johnson: Jane Burlington
Dwight: Larry Ladd
Moore: Kevin Kulakowski
Hamlin: William Spinn
John Adams(M): Mark Coltin
J.Q.A.(U): Linda LeRoy
J.Q.A.(M): M. Karen Jacobsen
J.Q.A.(L): Janet Pearlman
Van Meter No.: Kathy Burbee
MacKimmie: Kenneth G. Hagopian
Thoreau: Barbara I. Shannon
Jmes: Ed Tremblay
Field: Mary A. Silveira
Lewis: Ron Capaldo
Brooks: Brenda Rau
Grayson: Bill Belmore
Kennedy(M): Chuck Hallberg
Kennedy(L): Scott Connolly
Wash.(U): no results
Adams(L): John J. Hogan
Wash.(M): Andrew Wildes
Van Meter So.: Kace Cavanaugh
Webster: Emory Rounds, Bill Brickhouse

Melville: Karen MacNutt
Cance: Nancy P. Bass, Kevin Kinnally
Kennedy(U): John Stevens
Butterfield: Maureen Hayes
Thatcher: Mark Doherty
Mary Lyon: Maureen McManus
Gorman: Robert J. Walers, Ross Benjamin
Dickerson: Paul G. DeLeo, Henry P. Bouffard
Emerson: Candy Shultis
Patterson: Ceil Shapiro, Denise Magnell
Crampton: Sophia Treadwell
Pierpont: Lee Sandwen, Rich Guenette
Hills No.: Sanders M. Falcon, Orren Robbins Hills So.: Philip Cohen
Coolidge(U): no results
Wash.(L): Sylvan Menezes

SORORITIES:
Christina Nielson
Jeanne Nicolosi

FRATERNITIES
Mark W. Kustman
Leonard Harris
Timothy J. Maki

COMMUTERS:
Robert Hottin
Mark Duncan Bramble
Jack Little
Jamis O'Toole

Rik Santaquida
Bill Abbott
Joe Ackerstein
James Burns
Kathie Burns
Jim Bouin
Michael Orloff
Jeff Rene
Linus Deasy

Susan R. Spatrick
Paul Marchand
Albery Olmstead
H.B. Bob Buckner
Larry Woods
Sally Norris
Joanne Levenson
Robert Chiller
Lindo Alves
Thomas Filmore

Leo Clark
Charlie O'Dowd
Sharon Tracy
Edward Fenwick

Southwest Assembly Returns

JOHN ADAMS(L): Brown
JOHN ADAMS(M): Mahoney
COOLIDGE(L): Brown
COOLIDGE(M): Kleitt
COOLIDGE(U): Bennett
KENNEDY(L): Kaufmann
KENNEDY (M): Visnik
KENNEDY (U): Olbrych
J.Q.A.(L): Miller
J.Q.A.(M): Venesky
J.Q.A.(U): Mitchell
WASHINGTON(L): Wenner
WASHINGTON(M): St. Cyr
WASHINGTON(U): Fishbin
CANCE: Jayes, Kuppenheimer
MELVILLE: Snyder
CRAMPTON: Micka
PIERPONT: Heaton, Bukiet
MOORE: Meyers
MACKIMMIE: Adams
THOREAU: Marrewa
EMERSON: Cocivera
JAMES: Anderson
PATTERSON: Palumbo, Miner

DVP presents:

A THEOLOGIAN OF "NEW HOPE"

Dr. HARVEY COX

Speaking on:

Religious Revival in the Secular City?

TUES., OCTOBER 13

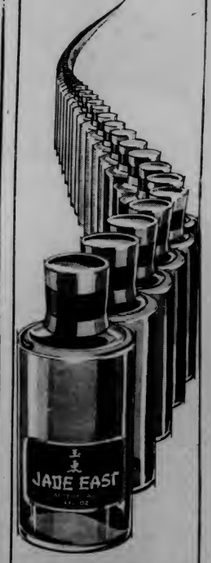
8 p.m. Thompson 104

THE COLLEGIAN WILL NOT PUBLISH MONDAY

VILLAGE INN
LUMS
RESTAURANT
85 NORTH PLEASANT
AMHERST
253-2518

11 am - 2 am Daily

Beware the Body Shirt Snatcher!



You're fair game when you wear a Van Heusen Body Shirt.

Man, you'll just have to defend your property rights! 'Cause the new Van Heusen Body Shirt is the best fitting "property" in your wardrobe! Enjoy it all for yourself, in bolder stripes and solids, with the newest long point collar and 2-button cuffs.

PRIZES! Two big ones! Two round-trip flights via SAS SCANDINAVIAN AIRLINES to Copenhagen and Majorca for a swinging, expense-paid CLUB 33 vacation! Plus a box of Van Heusen Body Shirts for each of 25 runner-up entries. Easy to enter: just create your own slogans for our Body Shirt ad. Send entries to College Contest, VAN HEUSEN, 417 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York 10016. Contest void where prohibited by law

VAN HEUSEN® 417
Body Shirt

lover's lane

JADE EAST

SWANK INC.—Sole Distributor

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR — Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER — Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR — Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR — John Sullivan

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Chris Mackey
NEWS STAFF — Carole Tanginey, Ann Middlebrook, Anne Sladnicki, Sandy Mitchner
DARKROOM — Gary Alpaugh
SPORTS — Earle Barroll
EDITORIAL LAYOUT — Dr. Lou

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Television Campaigns: Election 1970

European Trip

mark silverman

An Index To Nothing

Everyone's had about a month to digest the latest edition of the Index, and most people you talk to around campus have reached the same conclusion about it – there is no difference between this year's book and the yearbook of five years ago.

Events are different. Different people perform at concerts. New buildings rise. Clothes change. But the same method is used to cover "life at the University" in the latest Index as was used five years ago.

Organizing the book by groups, like academics, seniors, faculty, buildings and arty pictures makes everything look exactly the same. The section of Senior pictures probably means something to some seniors, but every other student can reminisce about the old school 10 years from now just as well from the same sections of the last five yearbooks.

Every year is the same. A picture of the pond at sunrise is labeled morning, a picture of the Union between classes is labeled noon and a picture of a darkened Southwest is labeled night. The technique continues, year after year, unchanged.

The latest Index tries to justify its existence by calling itself a chronicle of the past two semesters. But in it, as usual, football gets by far the greatest cpverings of any event. The Student Strike, an event which obviously has had more effect on the University and on the country than any other event last year receives only six pages of coverage.

If anything, this year's Index shows only that the University hasn't changed at all in the last five years. All the year book provides is an updated Senior mugbook, which all students must pay for through their SATF tax.

But a yearbook doesn't have to be a waste of money. Several schools, such as Notre Dame (which has an overwhelming facist student body) have redesigned their books to make them consistent with the changing role of journalism in American higher education.

These schools have printed a book containing a series of fairly long articles on six or seven major events of the year and which include poems relative to the student body, and features a small section of pictures of real university life.

The obvious superiority of such a year book to UMass' annual collection of fraternity drivil, sports reports and senior photos is striking.

The mood of a University cannot be reported by an archaic technique. Index must change if it hopes to escape extinction.

Art Buchwald

Let's Pause For A Moment

WASHINGTON – I don't know if people have noticed it, but TV political commercials are getting nastier and nastier. There was a time when a candidate appeared on the screen and made a one-minute pitch for your vote. But all this has gone by the boards, and now, thanks to the great creative brains of our advertising media, the new approach is to tell the audience what a miserable S.O.B. the candidate's opponent is.

I sat in on a session where the top advertising men were brain-storming a TV commercial campaign for their candidate,Philbus Wurm, who was running for the U.S. Senate against the incumbent Sen. Allegro Symphony.

This is how it went.

"As I see it," said the copy writer, "we have to sell the people on Symphony's softness on pornography. Now what I suggest we do is have a woman sleeping in bed, and a guy comes in and rapes her, and the voice-over says, 'These are the people Sen. Symphony wants to let into your bedroom.'"

"Not enough shock value," the art director said. "How about this? A group of dirty, hairy students sneaks up to a building and plants a bomb. The bomb goes off and the voice-over says 'Symphony voted for the last Education Bill.'"

"That's not bad," said a vice president. "I thought we might use a lot of footage from the California brush fires. You know, homes burning and stuff like that, and then a shot of Symphony playing a violin, which he does. The voice-over could say 'Nero wasn't the only one who fiddled.' "

"That's great," another VP said. "How about Vietnam?"

"We've been working on that," the copywriter said. "We have some stock footage of a GI platoon attacking Hill 2,331. Then we hear Symphony's voice saying 'Vietnam was a big mistake,' and the voice-over says 'Tell it to Company D.' "

The campaign manager was esctatic. "Beautiful. You have anything on the economy?"

The art director says, "We have some footage of an unemployment office, and we go in close on a guy who is holding his check, and we say

The art director says, "We have some footage of an unemployment office, and we go in close on a guy who is holding his check, and we say 'Why are you out of a job?' and he says 'Because Sen. Symphony closed the Naval Base.' Then we show a crew putting the guy's furniture out in the street."

"Did you tell him about the hunger ad?" a vice president asked.

"Not yet," the copywriter said. "We show this family at a table and the mother says to her children, 'All we have to eat tonight is turnips.'
Then we fade and show Symphony eating spaghetti at an Italian saint's day festival and the voice-over says "Mama mia, that's a meatball.' "

The art director said, "I think you'll like this one. It portrays Washington going up in a mushroom cloud and then a bunch of Soviet officers laughing. The voice-over says 'Sen. Symphony voted against the ABM.' "

"It's dirty, but it will sell," the campaign manager laughed.

"But what about our candidate, Philbus Wurm?" someone asked. "Don't you think we ought to make ONE commercial with him in it?"

"Hell no, if anyone sees that idiot on TV, we'll lose all our votes.

Gus Szlosek

Unlawful Awful Waffle

From the Top Secret files of the Student (?) Union Governing Board, here is a poignant letter, written in blood on Dining Commons napkins by a raving lunatic known as a UMass student.

Dear Sir:

Okay, it's there. Now what are you going to do about the new Campus Center? Finish covering it with purple and use it as a Gay Bar?

I hope you're proud of your accomplishment, because I really am proud that I stood by and let the whole thing happen.

Tell me, do you hate your mothers? or just us students? I must admit that as a symbol of sexual repression the Waffle is quite an achievement. Really, as a phallic symbol it is remarkably well disguised. It looks more like a pile of concrete, if you know what I mean.

How soon are you going to resign? You could go into designing birth control devices and help the Pope.

I must admit though, that it feels good in moderation -- being screwed, that is – but did you have to go so far?

By the way, SUG Borard -- who are you?

* * * * * * * * * *

Let's get into solutions. I mean, the Waffle's there, but what are we going to do about it? Here are some of my tentative suggestions,

Let's get into solutions. I mean, the Waffle's there, but what are we going to do about it? Here are some of my tentative suggestions, when you let us vote on them.

Fill it with beer and use it for a swimming pool.

Put a lid on it and use it as a toilet for the Holly Green Giant.

Move it to Southwest to replace Tower #3 that sunk.

Keep painting it with obscenities until it's sandblasted away.

Cover it with gift wrap and put it in the back seat of a car. Maybe somebody will steal it.

Give it to R.O.T.C. for a demolition exercise.

Give it to S.D.S. for a demolition exercise.

Leave it as a sanctuary for bird droppings.

Fill it with Dining Commons food and let it rot.

Tip it on its side and use it for a hockey rink.

Paint it luminescent orange and wait for World War III.

Use it as a monument to the midi skirt and the Edsel.

Sell it to the Penn Central.

Paint a big mouth on it and use it as a statue of Spiro Agnew.

Thank you for your consideration.

P.S. I hope it's bio-degradable.

GUS SZLOS

Peace?

Rhodes: Students Are Scapegoats

(Reprinted from N.Y. Times)

BOSTON-When I learned in late May that the President might appoint a Commission to Investigate Campus Violence, I hurried to Secretary Romney's office to propose a commission on Equal Justice Under the Law as an alternative.

Until recently, I haven't fully understood why I reacted so violently to a campus commission. The issue of "campus unrest" is a carefully laid snare to focus on campus unrest as a problem in an attempt to divert our attention from our real national problems. Students have not placed themselves in harm's way so they could become a "problem."

The students who fell at Kent and Jackson State did not die because of "campus unrest or any feature of American society unique to the academy., The Mississippi Highway Patrolmen and Jackson City policemen fired a 400-round volley into the girls'dormitory because these lawmen function as the final and deadly stage of an elaborate system of injustice in Mississippi aimed at oppressing black people by any means necessary.

The Jackson students died because of the racist character of American society referred to by the Kerner Commission. The Jackson incident underscores the fact that racism is a dynamic of American society–a law governing social behavior. This beast in our country will lash out and destroy our black citizens whenever it can –here the scene is a college campus, a few days later it is a city street. The fact remains that the national policy toward black Americans continues to ignore their plight; the war on poverty has dwindled to a rearguard action. This is a real national crisis.

The Kent State incident presents a more complicated but no less fundamental case. The damage in downtown Kent on Friday night, three days before the shootings, and the Saturday burning of th R.O.T.C. building did not constitute events which in themselves would justify the commitment of the National Guard. The city officials seemed to believe that Kent had become a battleground of the "revolution" and this triggered their request for the Guard.

Governor Rhodes summed up this view in his Sunday morning press conference, the day before the shotting. He said: "I think we are up against the strongest, well-trained militant revolutionary group that has ever been assembled in Americ." He promised that "we are going to use every weapon possible." Strong words--unfortunate words. For those who fell the next day were just students, many Ohioans, who felt the President's invasion into Cambodia could not go unchallenged.

In making this statement, Governor Rhodes drew on the deep-rooted conflict between old and young cultures in our nation. This division has two major causes. America's social institutions have begun to fail for all of us and the student generation has developed new values. These are basic and important issues.

Almost no one in America is happy. This is not a function of class or education. We are an anxious people. Our cosmetic media and modularized lifestyles attempt to hide this fact but it haunts every feature of existence.

The panoply of American institutions has begun to disintegrate. They just don't deliver anymore. Americans are hungry, bored, sick, frustrated, polluted and discarded. We have simply used up the capability of these nineteenth-century institutions. The recent New York prison riots and the pending strike of Santa Barbara policemen who beat hundreds of students during the savage June attacks in Isla Vista illustrate the tragic irony of our situation.

The result of this institutional collapse has been a nation of deeply troubled people. And the young people offer a convenient and in many ways defenseless scapegoat to vent these frustrations. Students also can play the scapegoat role because they embody a new set of values. They seem different and we always employ the "alien" figure as our scapegoat.

American students have increasingly come to embrace a new value system which basically redefines the value of human life. It places human life over all other considerations. This new value system can place this ultimate value on life because the parents of students have sacrificed to create a society with the technological and organizational capacity to supply the resources to make such a life affirming value system a reality. In this way the preceding generation has sacrificed to make the sacrifices of the students possible. This is a classic tragedy. The young are always charged with realizing the dreams of their parents.

A value system generates a pattern of perception., This fact further aggravates our situation because the young people see this advanced stage of institutional decay as a reality and feel compelled to say it. Their parents will go to any lengths to keep this reality from becoming evident. One generation says the house is on fire, the other says the house is just experiencing periencing rapid oxidation.

To this younger generation so disinclined toward war, our Vietnam war represents the height of obscenity. Our war is a war fought for no apparent reason other than that we are there.

The campus unrest issue has been exploited by political figures who would rather keep the public's attention on the students than on the problems that actually plague our nation. This is a cruel trick to play on the American people--to take their pain and to aim it at their children. If we allow this cruel hoax to continue we will surely seal our fate and the students will have died in vain.

Joseph Rhodes, a Harvard graduate student, is a member of President Nixon's Commission on Campus Unrest.

No Guns On Campus

The tragedy of Kent State is a tragedy of irresponsible leadership. This grim picture emerges from the scrupulously objective review by the President's Commission on Campus Unrest of the disorders which last May took the lives of four students at the Ohio university.

The events that led to the disaster were triggered by emotional reaction to the American invasion of Cambodia. What began as legitimate protest was quickly turned by a violent fringe of students and an indeterminable coterie of non-student radicals into a series of destructive actions on and off campus, which, in the Commission's words, were "intolerable." These actions in fact, ought not to have been tolerated; they called for quick and pinpointed arrests and prosecution.

If too many students allowed themselves to be swept along by the minority, it was even more alarming that academic, civil and military authorities alike proved incapable of drawing a clear line between acceptable peaceful protest and unacceptable violent disruption. Had the former been permitted or even facilitated, it might well have forestalled the latter.

Similarly, the violence that proved fatal-the inexcusable firing of panicky salvoes into a crowd of students- was not primarily the fault of tired National Guardsmen on an assignment for which they were ill-trained. A totally ineffective leadership dumped these part-time soldiers into a situation they could neither understand nor control. To march a few hundred soldiers, each with a lethal bullet in the bore of his rifle, through a motley crowd of youths-some hostile and systericla and other merely swept along by the curiosity of mass psychology-represents so abysmal a failure of command judgment as to be almost unbelievable.

The Kent State tragedy must surely mark the last time that loaded rifles are issued as a matter of course to Guardsmen confronting student demonstrators," said the commission. Such optimism is ill-warranted, given the failure of previous recommendations to the same effect. Indeed, one high-ranking officer of the Ohio Guard replied in open defiance to the commission's plea with a boast that "our policies haven't changed." Such truculence equals that of the spokesman for the Mississippi Highway Patrol who denied a need for reforms in the wake of the death of Jackson State.

Such glaring evidence of resistance to voluntary compliance by those who literally hold power over life and death through the arbitrary use of men and weapons leaves no practical alternative to specific orders, issued at the Federal level, and backed by legislation if necessary. The country will not reverse the present trend toward violence on the part of law officers as well as law-breakers until the loaded gun ceases to be the symbol of law-enforcement.

(Reprinted from the N.Y. Times)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR must be typed, double spaced, at sixty spaces and must carry the writer's signature, address, and telephone number (all of which will be withheld upon request). The limit is one page and the deadline is 5 p.m. the day prior to intended publication. The editors reserve the right to edit all letters.

Campus Comment

To The Editor:

Since school ended last spring I've done a lot of traveling finally settling in California. During that time I learned a lot and people continually asked me what I planned to do about the draft. Before I had just accepted my 2S status and tabled any moral decisions until I became IA or was drafted. I thought about applying for consciencious objector status, but that, I felt would be only playing their game on their terms and acknowledging the government's right to wage wars and exclude those persons who disrupt their system. So, I decided to declare my independence from the draft with th's letter I'm asking you to print.

I'm not so naive as to think my draft board will recognize my withdrawal. They will probably draft me regardless; then I will refuse induction and take the consequences.

I am writing this for anyone about to make the decision to resist, to show them they are not alone. And because I've found that liberal bullshit will get us nowhere; we must take our stands, each boldly and clearly. The letter:

Dear Draft Board:

I wish to withdraw my selective service registration. I am returning your registration card and do not wish or intend to continue any correspondence with your office. Just as the United States does not recognize the existence of Red China, I do not recognize the existence of your organization and I do not recognize your authority over me.

I was a boy when I registered at 18; I didn't want to even then, but I obeyed; I am a man now. I shall not play your boyish games.

Any authority you have assumed over me is hereby terminated.

THOMAS J. DERDERIAN
Oakland California.

(Thomas Derderian is a former Collegian photographer and a member of the UMass Track Team)

To The Editor:

The short article on page 2 of the October 6 Collegian entitled "Bottle Or On Tap?" may have misled some of your readers.

Every student electing to challenge the alcohol (and for that matter, drugs) intoxication laws by being publicly intoxicated or operating a motor vehicle after drinking (NOT NECESSARILY DRUNK!) or using chemicals that alter perceptions temporarily (including many over-the-counter pharmaceuticals) risks loss of his license for anywhere from ninety days to life, heavy fines and possible imprisonment. One may assume that he also statistically increases his chances for serious injury or death.

The decision whether to submit to a breathalyzer test or medical exam after arrest cannot ordinarily be made knowledgeably by the arrestee. The law provides that he may have his lawyer's advice before taking this test, but much delay will not be permitted. If he refuses the test the arrestee automatically loses his license for ninety days, but he is by no means certain that he will not lose it for much longer or that he will avoid serious additional penalties and further prosecution.

It may also be important for your readers to realize that having had more than about one or two drinks each hour may cause failure of the breathalyzer test. It is also true that the last quick "one for the road" will be enough since the rule of thumb really requires time to dissipate the effects of alcohol on the body and mind. For those who have been drinking heavily over a period of time it may truly be unlawful to drive at all until after sleep and the passage of considerable time. This is not to moralize; it is a fact.

Very truly yours,
RICHARD M. HOWLAND
General Counsel

To The Editor:

For four years now I have been reading editorials in the Collegian about the perils of F lot. For four years people have been writing about how their car batteries, tape decks and wheels have been lifted.

Well, I've just about had it! Late last night, my sister and my girlfriend parked their car in some last remaining space in some deep dark corner of F lot. Thank God the two of them were together, because after they got out of the car, an exhibitionist followed them, at arms length, all the way through the maze of F lot and up to University Drive.

Now I'm sure the security guard perched on top of Pierpont (or wherever) is a nice fellow and does a very good job for where he is stationed. But I can't believe this type of protection is adequate. If the sex-starved sap in F lot decided to make a big pounce, our tower observer would be a little late to alter the tragedy.

Is it really going to take a rape before we get full lighting and/or constant night patrolling in F lot? Let's start some effective late-night patrolling tonight!

I mean really; come on. It's been four years since I first started reading requests like this one.

God bless the unfortunates in V lot!

NAME WITHHELD BY REQUEST

To The Editor:

The newly posted signs on the "Copper Kettle" windows that announce the additional breakfast serving line showed to me that my voice among thousands of others can speak AND most important, be heard.

Many thanks to the manager of the establishment for considering us students.

Congratulations to the Editor of the Collegian for his effective media.

JOYCE KACOYANIS Field

To The Editor:

In Monday's issue of the Collegian, Mr. Robert J. Morrissey, Director of Placement and Financial Aid Services, admitted he had made an error in giving an incorrect figure to the MDC. I do not understand how he could have noticed his mistake, nor do I (and probably most of the students) care.

My point is that he did a commendable thing. This brave man admitted and publicly apologized for his mistake. Not too many men have the guts to apologize for a mistake. Bravo Mr. Morissey.

ED MERCORELLI

League Will Consider Local Transportation

Consideration of the transportation question, a new local item, will take place at the Oct. 13-15 units of the Amherst League of Women Voters. Members and other interested persons are invited to attend any one of four scheduled meetings (whichever is the most convenient).

The Tuesday morning unit will meet Oct. 13 at 9:30 a.m. at the home of Jeanne Potash, 130 Red Gate Lane. (Babysitter is Kathy Masalski, 25 Cherry Lane, 549-0862.) Tuesday evening's unit at 8 p.m. will meet at the home of Dorothy Reid, 63 Maple wood Drive. On Wednesday, Oct. 14 at 9:30 a.m. the meeting will be at the home of Zella Wyker, 205 Shays St. (Babysitter is Debby Davis, 71 W. Pomeroy Lane, 253-5531.) Thursday, Oct. 15 at 8 p.m. the unit will meet at the home of Doris Frey, 257 Pondview Drive.

Babysitting is provided at the time of the morning meetings. Any one needing this service should call the sitters one day in advance.

Campus Center Faces Property Damages

More than $3600 worth of property has been either damaged or stolen from the Campus Center since the start of the semester, according to a complaint filed with Campus Police.

Nearly $1800 alone will be needed to replace cushions stolen from various floors, according to Harold W. Watts, assistant manager in charge of building facilities.

Other missing items include: 10 stools from auditorium dressing rooms, valued at $385, one granite table top ($225), five microphones ($33), and more, totaling $3140 worth of property. Broken or damaged equipment accounty for an estimated $475 needed for repairs.

Watts says that an informed source has reported seeing some of the stolen items being taken into residences in Southwest and Puffton Village.

According to University rules, the cost of damage or missing equipment and furnishings from any area of the Campus Center must be paid out of student funds.

Workshop Examines Nuclear Pollution

The Coalition For Environmental Quality will sponsor a workshop on nuclear concerns with Mr. Larry Bogart and Dr. Inglis of the University Physics department today.

Mr. Bogart is a noted authority on nuclear pollution, and is active in Save New England.

Dr. Inglis has written over 50 articles in the field of nuclear arms and disarmament, and has taught a course on nuclear disarmament and radioactive pollution in the Physics department.

The object of the discussion will be to organize a group project on nuclear pollution in the area.

The public is welcome to attend in room 165 of the Campus Center at 7 p.m.

Causes Of Viet War Probed By Friends

by KAREN DEGRACE
Staff Reporter

Unnecessary legislation and economic growth as a cause of the Vietnam War were the main points of speeches given by George Wald, Professor of Biology at Harvard and 1967 Nobel Prize recipient and Russell Johnson, Peace Secretary for the New England office of the American Friends Service Committee at a fund-raising dinner held in the campus center Wednesday night.

"By now, war has become altogether obsolete; the Vietnam War is an immediate incident to a bigger problem - our future", Wald said. Nixon's new strategy is a threefold attack to "turn the country against the students".

First, legislation is in progress which threatens a university with loss of its tax-free status if administrators don't do the "right" things.

Second, an addition has been made to the federal crime bill which states that if there is any malicious arson or use of explosives, the FBI may step in. This becomes important because of the vagueness of the terminology used. "Carrying a pack of matches without permission of authorities lays one open to federal investigation", Wald said. "For this Nixon feels it necessary to hire one thousand new FBI men."

These two points introduce nothing new, Wald said; they are simply redundant legislation. What is new is the fact that any institutions, including colleges and universities, which receive federal funds become involved in this kind of legislation. This constitutes Nixon's third area of attack.

This is all part of the American political and judicial system, Wale feels. He urged people to do something about it, not in the form of protest, but through attempts to expose the legislation as totally unnecessary.

Departure from the legislative aspects of the American political system toward a discussion of background information pertinent to political acti n in Southeast Asia was the approach of Russel Johnson.

Having recently returned from a four month tour of Southeast Asia, Johnson presented an eye-witness report of developments there. We are in Vietnam because of the nature of our society and our standards of living, he began.

The United States comprises only 6 per cent of the world's population, yet it consumes 50 per cent of the world's resources. Johnson suggests that Americans must realize that they are in the world for something other than the buying and selling of merchandise.

Americans have been building an empire in Southeast Asia out of the needs of a growing economy; if there is to be a change in the world situation, that change must first occur within the United States, he urged.

Johnson went on to say that despite the government's efforts to convince us that we are disengaging ourselves from the wartorn area, there is no evidence of this; communism is on the rise, and the suffering of the people has increased. We must care about those who are suffering; an international economic order should be used on an an equitable basis, he stressed.

Young Theologian Speaks Next Week

Dr. Harvey Cox, who has been labeled as, "America's most influential younger theologian", will speak at the UMass Tuesday.

The lecture entitled "Religious Revival in the Secular City ?" will be at 8.15 p.m. in Thompson 104 and is sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors Program.

Dr. Cox is a professor at the ULlarvard Divinity School and author of "The Secular City", a best selling analysis of contemporary urban society and Christianity's relation to it. He also wrote "Feast of Fools", "Festivity and Fantasy" and has contributed to such magazines as "Commonweal", "Harpers", "Look", "Life" and "Playboy".

It was in his book, "The Secular City" where Dr. Cox explained, "We are all trying to live in a period of revolution without a theology of revolultion If theology is to survive and make any sense to the contemporary view it must neither cling to a metaphysical world-view nor collide into a mystical mode. It must push on into the living lexicon of urban secular man."

Dr. Cox's lecture is open to the entire University community.

Work Study Not Tax-Exempt

District Director William E. Williams has advised students in college cooperative work-study and part-time work programs that in most cases compensation received for services rendered is taxable.

Many students engaged in these programs mistakenly believe these payments qualify as non-taxable scholarships.

Normal employer-employee relationships do not confer exemption on income under Section 117 of the Internal Revenue Code. Scholarship benefits must meet certain Internal Revenue Service requirements to qualify as tax excludable.

Under the Tax Reform Act of 1969 students and other taxpayers who qualify may earn up to $1725 and not be subject to withholding of income tax.

DEERFIELD Drive-In Theatre
Routes 5 & 10
South Deerfield, Mass.
Tel. 665-8746
FRI. - SAT. - SUN.
If you're a woman, you'll know exactly what I mean.
An experience in subjugation
RADLEY METZGER presents
The Laughing Woman
EASTMAN COLOR - WIDESCREEN
Also
FRIENDS AND LOVERS
No One Under 18 Admitted
Showtime 7:30
Sun. Women at 7:30

ONLY MINUTES AWAY VIA RT.91 OR MASS. PIKE
HONORED HERE
ACRES FREE PARKING
RECLINING ROCKER LOUNGES
2 ART GALLERIES
GROUP RATES
Showcase Cinemas 1&2&3
RT.5 RIVERDALE RD. W. SPFLD.
733-5131
1 'Joe' is a 'this-minute' film: a movie truly of our times and demanding to be seen this minute." —Judith Crist, New York Magazine
"JOE" R
Mon-Fri 2-7:35-9:40
Sat & Sun 1:30-3:30-5:35 7:35-9:40
2 Barbra Streisand Yves Montand
On A Clear Day You Can See Forever
Mon-Fri: G 2, 7:25, 9:50
Sat & Sun: 2, 4:45, 7:25, 9:50
3 MIKE NICHOLS
starring Alan Arkin
CATCH-22 R
Mon-Fri: 2, 7:30, 9:55
Sat & Sun: 2-4:30 7:20-9:55
9th Week

Ample Parking
AMHERST Cinema
Now Showing Eves: 8:00 p.m.
George C. Scott
is
PATTON in technicolor
Due to the length of the showing, one performance only at 8 p.m.

FRISBEE TOURNAMENT
SUN., OCT. 18 — BEHIND THE OLD S.U.
Team Registration
Frat & Sororities $4
Dorm $3
Independents $2
All Registration Fees will go to the Springfield Street Academy
Sponsored by Sigma Alpha Mu
Registration Fri., Tues., & Wed. in the S.U. Lobby

AUTO INSURANCE
ALL DRIVERS
— LOWEST, LEGAL RATES —
— BUDGET PAYMENTS —
Tekoa Insurance Agency
160 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-2742
10 Broad St. Westfield 562-3604

Weekend Arts Calendar

By ROBERT NESTI
Fine Arts Staff

Music

Richie Havens
This evening folksinger Richie Havens performs in John M. Greene Hall, Smith College. 8 p.m. tickets (if still available) $3.50.

Chamber Music Concert
A program of chamber music from the 17th and 18th century will be performed this Sunday afternoon at 4 by Smith faculty members and students from area schools. At theater 14, Smith College, admission is $2.00, students $1.00.

Films

Alice's Restaurant (Saturday, Sage Hall, Smith; 7:30 and 9)
Director Arthur Penn's ("Bonnie and Clyde") adaptation of Arlo Guthrie's hassles with his draft board and the police of Stockbridge, mass.

Beat the Devil (Wednesday, Thompson 103; 6,8, and 10)
An offbeat comedy about a group of international swindlers directed by John Huston and featuring Humphrey Bogart. Part of the Art History Film Series.

Catch-22
Mike Nichol's noble attempt of filming the difficult, dark humor novel of Joseph Heller may or may not succeed, but is far and away the most worthwhile film now about.

Fellini Satyricon
Decadent Rome looked at with a not-too-casual slant towards today's world. A surreal and extremely vivid vision of a great director's imagination. Subtitled.

Grand Illusion (Tuesday, Wednesday, Southwest Club Room, Berkshire DC, 7:15)
The classic 1935 French film by director Jean Renoir. It's about war and how it's all a game. for the film connoisseur.

Hello, Dolly!
The perfect film for the masochist. A tribute to Hollywood's ineptness with Barbra Streisand as Mae West and Walter Mattheau as W.C. Fields.

It's A Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World
An early-sixties, super-big screen homage to the silent, slapstick film comedies of the twenties. It's huge in cast and action and is directed broadly by social crusading Stanley Kramer. Many remember the film fondly as one of the funniest films ever", whether it is in retrospect remains to be seen.

Joe
A blue collar worker and an advertising executive form a unique friendship, then set forth for a not-too-friendly meeting with the "love generation." This year's sequel to "Easy Rider", just exchange the redneck for the hard hat.

On A Clear Day You Can See Forever
Take a Broadway musical, not much of a success but with a nice score; add Barbra Streisand, musical star supreme; import Yves montand, who can't sing. Then cut the score in half, add some mediocre material and center all around musical star supreme. Inflate beyond belief and your result is a perfectly awful film.

Patton
George C. Scott gives an incredible performance as the controversial World War II general in this war film which somehow has managed to please hawk and dove alike.

The People Next Door
Drugs and the generation gap in suburbia make for this film version of an award-winning television drama of some years back. Material something of a cliche, but film saved by superlative acting by a cast headed by Julie Harris and Eli Wallach.

The Wanderer
The story of a headstrong, magnetic young man's search for love. This French film by newcomer Jean-Gabriel Albicoco shows how youthful idealism must be compromised for an understanding of life.

West Side Story (Thursday, SU Ballroom, 7 and 9:30)
The landmark musical film, legendary in some ways, in which "Romeo and Juliet" is played in the New York streets to the rhythms of Leonard Bernstein's score. May seem dated but see it for the music and incredible choreography.

Library Exchange In 5-College Area

Valley students wanting to use libraries at institutions other than their own can now do so on a limited basis through a pass program initiated by the Five College Student Coordinating Board.

Formulated last spring by the FCSCB, the pass system gains students admittance to libraries but does not confer borrowing privileges. It was adopted by the valley librarians on a trial basis and will be reviewed at the end of first semester.

A student planning to use a library- away from his home campus should request a pass from his librarian on the day the library is to be used. It will be clearly dated and is good only on the day issued.

Twenty-five (25) passes will be available on each campus daily, on a first-come, first-served basis. No specific reason for using another school's library is required.

This new system does NOT affect students participating in the five college course exchange, since these students already possess library privileges including the right to borrow on campuses other than their own.

Work Study Gets Funds

Congressman Silvio E. Conte announced that the UMass. Work-Study program has received $153,000 for the second half of the fiscal year (Jan. 1-June 30).

The University had originally asked for $306,000 in funds for the program during this period.

According to a University spokesman, "We won't be able to add any work studies, but we will be able to retain the ones that we have now."

Notices

PUBLICITY FOR HOMECOMING
There will be a mandatory meeting of the Publicity Committee on Tuesday October 13 at 8:00 in Room 172 CC. Everyone must attend.

SOCIOLOGY 103
Will have a make up exam for those who did not take one on last Friday. Date: Friday, October 9th., 2:30 p.m. Mahar.

RECREATION SOCIETY
There will be a meeting of the Recreation Society in 804-808 of the Campus Center at 7:30 on Wed. night, Oct. 14th. Everyone is welcomed.

SKI CLUB
The next Ski Club meeting will be Tuesday evening, 8:00 p.m. in Mahar. Everyone is welcome, skiers and non-skiers alike. Officer elections will be held. Ski movie. Memberships taken and club information given.

SPECTRUM:
The May '70 issue of SPECTRUM which was not distributed due to the Strike will be given out in the Student Union and the various Dining Commons, Thursday and Friday.

WHITE/DUKAKIS COMMITTEE:
Canvassing in Springfield; meet in Morrill Science Bldg., bus stop at 3:00 PM. We will be home by 7:30 PM.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS:
Bus leaving from Whitmore at 12:45 for the State School on Saturday. Give a little time to make some friends.

ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT
Section 24 of Economics 125 will meet at 10 AM Friday Oct. 9 and Tuesday, Oct. 13 at 1 pm, Rm., 919 of Thompson.

SKI CLUB:
Meeting, Tues., Oct. 13th at 8 PM in Mahar. Membership gets you a one year subscription to Ski Magazine; dav, weekend and week long trips to Vermont, trip to Switzerland, reduced rates, equipment discounts and more.

OUTING CLUB:
Whites trips this weekend, next weekend Bently's and Skull. See bulletin board for details.

MILITANT FORUM SEMINAR:
Discussion of Engels, Socialism: Utopia and Scientific which is available at the Young Socialist Alliance table in front of the Hatch. Colonial Lounge, 8 PM, Wed., Oct. 14th.

UMASS SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB
mMeeting of UMass Sport Parachute Club, all interested persons invited Tues., Oct. 20, 1970 at 8 p.m. in Room 174CC

MOVEMENT FOR A NEW CONGRESS
There will be a meeting of the Movement for a New Congress on Tuesday Oct. 13th. It will be held in the Campus Center, Room 905 at 8 p.m.

UMASS WOMEN'S SKI TEAM
Meeting for old and new members, Tuesday Oct. 13 at 7 p.m. in front of Hatch in Student Union. All persons interested please attend or call 6-7442.

REDMEN FOOTBALL
This Saturday
UMASS.
vs.
BOSTON UNIVERSITY
Play-by-Play
Ken Harseman
Color: Dave Melvin
AIR TIME: 12:45
Redmen Kick-off Preview:
12:30 with Hal Dash
WMUA 91.1 FM

THE COLLEGE PLAN FOR THE COLLEGE MAN
CollegeMaster
Fidelity Union Life Insurance Company
21 Pray St., Amherst

3 THEATRES UNDER 1 ROOF
Campus Cinemas 256-6411 AMHERST-HADLEY LINE
1 EVENINGS AT 6:45-9:15 MATS. DAILY AT 2:00
R "The people next door"
Nightly at 7:15 & 9
2 Nightly at 7 & 9:15
"FELLINI SATYRICON"
3 AN ALL STAR CAST! STANLEY KRAMER'S "IT'S A MAD, MAD, MAD, MAD WORLD"
G 12:00 At 8:00
STARTS WED., OCT. 14 — "FANTASIA"
STARTS FRI., OCT 16 — "CATCH - 22"

1st BEER FREE
LARGE BEER 20¢
10¢ cover
MICHELLE MARQUIS IS ON
4:00 - 8:00 P.M.
EVERY FRIDAY at the
NEW MEADOW INN
Rt. 47 Sunderland

YOUR AUTHORIZED DEALER
NORTHAMPTON VOLKSWAGEN, Inc.
• SALES
• SERVICE
• PARTS
COMPLETE BODY SHOP
246 KING ST. (RTE 5) NORTHAMPTON
Your Authorized Dealer
584-8620 Open 9-9 — Sat. 9-5

I already have my INDEX — do you?

Index Office
Mon. thru Fri. 9-4

JOIN US
with a WARM girl for a COLD beer and the COOL sounds of
THE ENDLESS KNIGHTS
DANCING at the CHEQUERS
FRI. & SAT. 9-12 P.M.

Notices

YOUNG WORKERS LIBERATION LEAGUE
Next Marxist-Leninist Educational will be on Wednesday, Oct. 21 (time and room to be announced). Topic will be: The Working Class. Suggested reading: Communist Manifesto. Everyone welcome.

INTERNATIONAL FOLK DANCING
Tonight, Friday, Oct. 9 at Davis Center, Smith College from 8 until 12 p.m. Teaching 8-9 p.m. Beginners welcome.

FRENCH CORRIDORS
Tickets for Albert Camus' 'Caligula" performed by the Treteau de Paris, Oct. 14 at 8:15 are on sale in S.U. Ticket Office.

HISTORY DEPARTMENT:
All students, undergrad and graduate, with problems and/or questions concerning the History Dept. are invited to discuss them with fellow students who are history majors and grad students every Wed. from 1:30-4 and every Thurs. from 2:30-4:30, 7th Floor Lounge, Herter Hall starting Wed., Oct. 14th.

ASTRONOMY CLUB:
Open House Amherst Observatory, Oct. 9th (or first clear night thereafter) 8 P.M. to 12 A.M. A map is posted outside of room 20 Hasbrouck Lab showing location of observatory.

UMASS STUDENTS FOR SARGENT - DWIGHT:
Meet at press gate five minutes before end of football game Saturday for bumper sticker distribution.
JOIN our bumper sticker distribution team call Randy Sloan, 243 Cance, 546-5051.

HOME ECONOMICS MAJORS:
Join the AHEA. Applications are available in Room 120 Skinner Hall.

CEQ RAFT PROJECT. Wanted: Volunteers to sail 10 x 24 foot raft in Huck Finn manner from Sunderland to the sea Saturday, Sunday and monday. Come to practice in Campus Pond today at 1 p.m. Women with muscles especially welcome.

BIG AMERICAN CAR NEEDED to accompany raft and/or retrieve raft with U-Haul trailer at ocean on Monday evening. See Rat today at pond.

LOST
Black men's wallet..very valuable due to cards etc.
Green wool jacket with brown leather buttons. Please call Sarah 546-6451. It's getting chilly
Multi-course red notebook by Campus Center Bookstore Tues., Oct. 6 at 3 p.m. Please return if found. Very important papers and notes.
One key chain with initials RCV on campus. Check SU Lost and Found.
Men's watch in Machmer W35D. Call Mike 319 Dwight.
Brown suede fringed jacket, man's size 40. If found please contact Linda Anderson 408 Mary Lyon or call 545-2516.
Pair of men's black prescription sunglasses call Paul 1108 JFK or 6-7758.
Light blue denim hat, with a sole power button and small M pinned on the top, lost a week ago, Friday in Franklin Dining Commons.
At Sig Ep Friday night: girls gold watch, if found please call Pat 546-9694.
Glasses lost between P-10 and Middlesex Sept. 28th afternoon. Gold-rimmed-untinted-Peter Fonda fetish specials. Call Maureen 5-0158, Middlesex basement.
Brown briefcase, (U.S. Citation). Last seen by Campus Center elevator, west side, lower level. Contents: 3 books, Abnormal Psychology, Cell Biology, and Vingt et Un Contes, plus 3 notebooks. Please call 665-2928.
Brown printed umbrella at 10:30 concert Saturday night. Call Carolyn 546-6607.
Black umbrella in 201 Bartlett last week. If found, please return to Kathy in 420 Knowlton.
Men's silver self-winding Timex watch, between library and Intramural fields. Please call Dick Lavigne 2211 John Adams 546-8919.

FOUND:
Sterling silver tie clip from Siam, check Student Union lost and found.
Textbook, Soils by Roy L. Donahue. Check with Student Union lost and found.
Yellow tiger kitten last week vicinity of North Pleasant and Hallock Streets, call 253-7778.
"Fiat" car keys found in Quad Saturday morning can be picked up at 105 Thatcher House.
Two keys found near Hasbrouck Lab. If yours call Ken at 6-7228.
Found men's watch in Machmer W-35D. Call Mike 319 Dwight.
William Reed. I have your wallet, etc. Contact Jim Wazlaw, 411 Thatcher.

ENGAGEMENTS
Joyce A. Brown '72 Kappa Kappa Gamma to Ronald J. Shepard '73 James.
Susan Curran '71 Kappa Kappa Gamma to Charles St. John '71 St. Anselm's
Elizabeth Howe '71 Kappa Kappa Gamma to Kevin Loughman, Cape Cod Community College.
Carol Cappiello '70 Kappa Kappa Gamma to Robert Couture '70 Theta Chi.
Shelley Lendrum '71 Kappa Kappa Gamma to Edward Kelly '70 Theta Chi.
Suzanne Fragn '72 313 Van Meter South to Dennis Chapman '70 Baltimore, Md.
Shelia Foley '71 Pi Beta Phi to Steve Shea '68 Burdett College.
Carolyn Woolsey '71 Pi Beta Phi to John Kulp '71 Phi Mu Delta, MIT.
Luanne Burnside '70 Walpole to James Nickerson '70 West Roxbury.
Cynthia L. Balcolm '71 Pi Beta Phi to Edward Serrano Fort Rucher, Ala.
Peggy Cruz '71 Pi Beta Phi to Neil Murphy '70 Phi Mu Delta.
Cynthia A Nowick '71 Leach to Larry B. Unklesbay, Jackson, Ojio.
Susan Horowitz '72 JQA to Barry Erber '69 Muhlenberg College.
Terry O.Neil '72 Alpha Chi Omega to Jack Carroll '72 Kappa Sigma.
Joanne Crane '71 Alpha Chi Omega to Michael Cooney '71 Kappa Sigma.
Michelle Boudreau Hull, Mass. to Jeffrey Gilman Hull, Mass.
Deborah Baker '71 Patterson to Paul Baratz '71 JFK.

PINNINGS
Pat Oranski '73 Shutesbury to Stephen Jones '71 Kappa Sigma.
Joan Eichenbaum '71 STCC to Gerald B. Berg '72 UMass.
Mari (Dolly) Hall '71 Lambda Delta Phi to C. Bill Davis '71 Thatcher.
Cheryl Mielke '71 Pi Beta Phi to Jack Domurat '70 Alpha Sigma Phi.

the LOVESHIRTS
"Got it all together"

Adam & Eve couldn't have expressed love and togetherness better than our classic "Loveshirts" do. . . . Gals & guys can wear it anywhere because the loveshirt is casual, it's message is beautiful . . . and obvious. Buy one as a gift - even better by the pair.
Crew neck, rib cuff and bottom, set in sleeves. All cotton, fleeced inside for extra warmth. State size S/M/L/XL.
$6 EACH $11 PAIR
Plus $1.00 p.p. & hdlg.
COHO ASSOCIATES CORP
P.O. Box 1116
Wayne, N. J. 07470

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

Must sell 100" 2-piece sectional couch, recliner, club chair, tables, lamps, draperies, rug 9' x 12', all in excellent condiion. Call 413-772-2076 after 4:00 p.m. tf10-9

1970 Honda SL90 $350. Call Janet 584-2700, X301. tf10-12

Mobile home 10 x 55 Detroiter deluxe on lot in Orange, Mass. 24 easy miles from Amherst. Price $3000. Call 617-544-6636 anytime. tf10-12

FROM THE 1930's: Clothing, shoes, beaded bags, and velvet maxi-coats at Minsur's Mercantile, next to Amherst Towers. tf12-23

Pioneer, Teac, Garrard, FE Astec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, LPs, 8 track and other necessities. Amherst Audio. tf12-23

Black leather motorcycle jacket, size 40, like new. Call Keith at 549-0967. tf10-9

Female black cocker spaniel, champion sired. AKC registered, with shots. $75 or best offer. 256-6057 tf10-11

650 Tiger Triumph Motorcycle. 1970, 3 months old, excellent condition. 3000 miles, maintained and tuned regularly, $1100, call 549-6150. tf10-13

1968 Honda 50, excellent condition, only 450 miles. $150. Call Connie at 6-3306. tf10-13

Turn your house into a home with a dog-trapped 3 mo. old black female Labrador-Shep. Needs home off campus. Inquire 6-8903. tf10-13

FOR SALE — AUTOS

1964 VW bus, 20 thou. original miles on engine, trans., front end and brakes, body fair, asking $300. Call Alan 584-4692. tf10-13

1966 MGB Roadster, fast, excellent mechanical condition. Quick sale. Asking $1100. 584-7221. tf10-9

1963 Jaguar XKE coupe, black with red leather interior, chrome wire wheels, am-fm, new tires and studded snows, dealer maintained, excellent condition. $1500. 773-7364. tf10-9

63 Pontiac, auto transmission, good running condition already inspected, good tires. Best offer. Call 549-1720. tf10-9

1965 Triumph TR4, new top and front tires, very dependable. Must sell. Call George 413-0171 evenings. tf10-16

1960 Ford for sale, good shape, $50. Call 584-6956. tf10-11

WANTED

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthology. Please include stamped return envelope. Idlewild Press, 1807 East Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

Need someone to sell stereo equipment. All brands 30 per cent discount. I do bookkeeping, you take 80 per cent profit. Bob Tyler, 21 Gladden, Williamstown. 458-5337. tf10-13

Weekend roommates to share chalet for season at Killington. Call 549-0814. tf10-9

A used book entitled Handbook to Technical Communication by John Mitchell for English 331. Call 6-7210 and ask for Mary 1 0-9

I would like to purchase some Blues Harp records in excellent condition. Artists like Little Walter and Sonny Boy Williamson. Call 549-6879 10-9

SERVICES

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car, 197 No. Pleasant St. 256-8125. tf12-23

ROOMMATES WANTED

I need a female roommate, own room, furnished. Great place with lots of trees. Pets allowed. Sue 323-7111 tf10-9

Person over 21 to share 3 room apt. in Northampton. $40 mo. — I.C 4-4215, Pete. tf10-13

HELP WANTED

Ambitious couple who need more income. Unusual opportunity for good earnings for both. Works together, part-time or full time. Car necessary. Phone 1-413-774-2587 between 7 - 9 p.m. tf10-16

PERSONAL

John Callahan, Democratic candidate for District Attorney, Franklin-Hampshire County, wants to meet you. Student Union, Colonial Lounge, Oct. 14, 10 - 11:30. tf10-13

Nancy, see the Head Shop in Mizaur's Mercantile — Carole 10-9

To the PALACE will Sue be running and jumping and playing after this weekend? 10-9

Warm bodies for hire for Chemistry 111 Lectures, Varying rates according to lecturer. Call Mary 6-7066 or 6-8309. tf10-13

AUCTION

Sat., Oct. 10th, 10:30 a.m., Bob's Barn, 5 miles east of Amherst, off Rt. 9, look for signs. Clothes dryer, bureaus, sofas, rugs, desk, chairs, kitchen sets, odds and ends, etc. Call 253-2881. tf10-9

LOST

Would the person who took the magnetic signs from my truck in front of Brett please return them. I need them. I need these for advertising. Neil Morton, Morton's Landscape Nursery. tf10-9

VAN

1963 Chevy Van, Greenbriar, 9 seat, new clutch, needs minor repairs. Must sell, $325 or best offer. Call Rich at 367-2755. tf10-16

Big Smitty's Deli RESTAURANT
ROUTE 9, HADLEY
Opposite Zayres Shopping Center
TEL. 253-3481
OPEN 10 AM TO 2 AM DAILY
Jewish Style Deli-Restaurant
FEATURING
HOT PASTRAMI — HOT CORNED BEEF
HOT OVEN & COLD CUT GRINDERS
TRY SMITTY'S HOMEMADE CHEESECAKE

FRESHMAN

Get Out And Do Your Thing.

FRESHMAN ELECTIONS ARE THURS., OCT. 29th

NOMINATION PAPERS are due Friday, Oct. 16th

PRIMARIES are Thursday, Oct. 22nd

Pick up Nomination Papers in RSO Level #1 C.C.

If you don't do your thing someone else will do theirs.

DIG IT?

W.B.

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550

THE HUNGRY-U
submarine sandwiches & PIZZA
TIRED OF FAST FOOD OPERATIONS THAT ARE SO FAST THAT THEY FORGET THE FOOD AND LEAVE YOU HOLDING THE BAG AND A LOT OF OTHER THINGS YOU REALLY CAN'T EAT.
TRY ONE OF OUR OVERSIZED INDIVIDUALLY PREPARED KITCHEN MADE SANDWICHES.
103 N. PLEASANT AMHERST MASSACHUSETTS 256-6556

Fr. Booters Open Season At Tufts

By STEVE FERBER
Staff Reporter

The freshman soccer team, under the direction of David Jekanowski, opens its season tomorrow morning at Tufts University. With boys coming from Eastern Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York, the 25 man team appears to be an extremely well-balanced club.

Now in its fifth week of practice, the team has scrimmaged against Deerfield Academy and Smith Academy. Both games found the frosh victorious by scores of 4-1 and 5-2 respectively. The team has also practiced against high school teams as well as varsity second stringer's.

The first weeks of practice found the squad slowed by injuries and the late acquisition of physicals, but the team has jelled and is well prepared for their opening contest tomorrow.

The problems that faced Coach Jekanowski were two-fold, for with freshman teams there is always an adjustment factor. Coming from different high schools the players have been directed under varying soccer philosophies. Thus the teaching of offense and the "changing of styles" is a necessary function at the beginning of the season.

The second problem is rather a pleasing one, as Coach Jekanowski stated, "There are so many boys that have shown good accounts of themselves that it's going to be tough deciding who will get a majority of playing time."

Last year, the first for Coach Jekanowski, saw the freshman boast a 5-1 record, losing only to Springfield in the last game of the season. This year things are looking just as promising.

As far as stand-out positions go, the goal keeping job seems to be well out in front. "Each one of the three boys at goalie is possibly the best we've ever had at this school. Unfortunately only one of them will get a chance to play. I'd like to see all three of them out there," said Jekanowski.

The battle for goalie goes on as Bill Beggs, Mick Hoodstein and Ron Wormser battle it out.

The other 10 positions have 16 promising prospects including Noel Anderson, Brian Cutty, Bill Hoffinger, Al Himmelberger, Rudolph Jones, Brian McKinney, Mick Nugent, Bobby O'Hare, Charles Palomo, Bruce Pratt, Randy Prouty, Curt Syer, Bruce Sibson, Howie Spier, Jeff Stanwood and Mark Tymer

The freshman team, which will have six contest in

The freshman team, which will have six contests in all this year, appears set for tomorrow's fray, as it looks forward to another successful season for freshman soccer.

Sports Notices

REDMEN ON THE AIR-WMAU, 91.1 FM, will air the play-by-play of tomorrow's UMass-Boston University football game with air time scheduled for 12:45 p.m. (game time is 1). Ken Horseman will handle the action play-by-play while Dave Melvin will chip in with all the color. At 12:30, UWMUA will present Hall Dash with Redmen Kickoff Preview.

COLUMBUS DAY OFF-There will be no recreational activity on Monday, Oct. 12 due to Columbus Day.

* * * * *

METAWAMPE-500-Entrees for the Metawampe 500 will be accepted up to 5 p.m. today.

* * * * *

GRID TICKETS-Student exchange coupons for the UMass-Boston University football game can still be traded in at the athletic ticket office in room 255 Boyden. The deadline is this afternoon at 6.

* * * * *

FRISBEE-Fraternity Sigma Alpha Mu will sponsor a frisbee tournament on Sunday, Oct. 18, at 12 noon behind the old Student Union. The competition will be open to any two-member team which registers on either today, Tuesday (Oct. 13) or Wednesday (Oct. 14) in the S.U. Lobby.

sPoRts ShorTiEs

— AP —

BALTIMORE (AP)-Dave McNally of the Baltimore Orioles tuned up for the World Series by pitching seven innings against his teammates Thursday and turned in a five-hitter over that distance.

"I'm satisfied that McNally got all the work he needed," Manager Earl Weaver said of the left-handed who will start game No. 3 against the Cincinnati Reds next Tuesday. "But I'm not too sure about Cuellar."

Mike Cuellar, another lefty who will pitch the second game in Cincinnati on Sunday, went only two innings during the intrasquad game in which no baserunning was allowed to cut down the chance of injury.

McNally didn't allow a run until his final inning, when the "visiting" team scored on a double by Brooks Robinson and a single by Bob Grich . At that point, however, Weaver pinch hit for pitcher Tom Phoebus and struck out on a 3-2 slider.

"I honestly thought he was much quicker than that," Weaver said of McNally, who on 24 games during the regular season and another during the American League playoffs. "If he can get me out, he won't have any trouble with Bench, Perez and the rest of those guys."

Johnny Bench, Tony Perez and the rest of the slugging Cincinnati team are at their best against left-handed pitching with a 33-12 record against southpaws including an amazing 17-2 mark at home.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aquarius individuals more often than not, have more than one source of income. These persons often anticipate trends and can be first with the most.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Accent on desires and how to fulfill them. Social activity is favored. Accept invitations. Heed words of young person. Take initiative. No time to be a wallflower.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Ability to turn adversity into success is highlighted. You find that some who were aloof now are enthusiastic. Grab and maintain initiative. You are due for added recognition.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Good lunar aspect coincides with ability to communicate. You receive news which stimulates mental processes. Plan ahead for journeys, special projects involving written material.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Emotional reactions are intense. Do not risk funds. Wait until details are thoroughly checked before investing. Applies also to personal life. Hold back — you have time.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Judgment, intuition may veer from course. Know this and permit mate, partner to initiate decisions. With legal matters, don't try to be your own attorney. In short, lie low!

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Much of what you excel in doing is given as challenge, assignment. Be gracious. Realize that some who can help in future are involved. Show your best side. Turn on charm.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): What was illusive comes within reach. Make necessary concessions. You have to make some changes. One who attracts you may be playing games. Respond accordingly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Concentrate on solid relationships. Let go of those who confuse and drain. You have a right to dignity and greater security. Know this and act like you know it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Accent on short trips, ideas not fully developed. Best to finish rather than start projects. You gain more recognition. But one who controls cash is reluctant to let go.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Emphasis on money, personal possessions. New approach could yield dividends. Means discard what is non-essential. You can collect what is due. But you must press advantage.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20 - Feb 18): Lunar position coincides with time when you should take initiative. State terms. Don't sell yourself short. Welcome contacts, challenges. Opposite sex is drawn to you.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): You could find yourself playing significant backstage role. Means many confidants in you. In turn, you act as go-between, bringing together those of opposing views.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are getting ready now to embark upon new venture. Have faith in your ability to be an innovator. Your own life style is due to be more sharply defined. Congratulations.

Copyright 1970, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Ruggers Travel To Hartford

In an effort to up its record to 3-0, the undefeated UMass Rugby team travels to Hartford, Connecticut tomorrow.

The frightening offense of the ruggers, which has scored 46 points in its first two matches over Vermont and Beacon Hill, coupled with its stingy defense, which has allowed only five points, should win according to coach Bob Laurence. "It will be an easier game than Beacon Hill," commented the coach.

It is quite obvious that this team has the desire and the potential to capture the New England Championship and, therefore, is a team to watch.

"After our last two victories, we're going into this with confidence, but not with arrogance, and with all due respect to Hartford," says coache Dale Toohey.

Frosh Grid

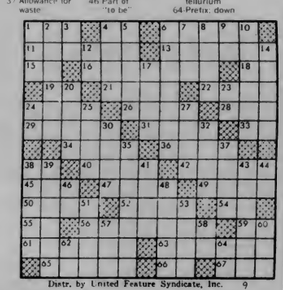
Seeking to even their season record at 1-1, the UMass freshman football team travels to Newton Sunday for a game against the Boston College frosh. Starting time is 1:30.

The Little Redmen will have to cut down considerably on the mistakes which cost them a victory against Boston University last weekend. In that contest, the offense showed that it can move the ball quite well, and the defense also proved it can do the job. However, crucial mistakes literally gave the game to an opportunistic BU team.

Standouts on offense for the frosh in their opening game loss were running backs Ken Hoff and Jim Mahaney, end and punt returnman Tim Berra, and quarterback - halfback Paul Hanson.

On defense, end Dave Yushinsky and linebacker Mike McNiff were imminese throughout the entire game.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE



Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

A	L	L	■	H	A	I	F	A	■	D	O	T
S	E	A	■	E	L	D	E	R	■	E	W	E
■	■	P	A	D	D	L	E	■	E	R	A	S	E	D
■	■	■	D	I	P	■	A	D	O	R	E	■	■	■
S	M	E	E	■	P	S	■	W	I	R	E	S	■	■
T	O	R	■	M	I	S	S	■	S	T	E	T	■	■
■	A	■	S	T	E	P	L	E	■	R	O	■	■	■
P	O	R	T	■	S	N	U	B	■	S	I	R	■	■
S	N	O	O	D	■	T	R	■	S	T	E	M	■	■
■	■	■	T	A	R	T	S	■	E	T	A	■	■	■
M	A	T	T	E	R	■	S	C	A	R	E	S	■	■
U	T	E	■	S	E	L	A	H	■	T	A	A	■	■
D	E	N	■	S	E	T	T	O	■	S	T	Y	■	■

AURIES
1 A state (abbr.)
4 River in Italy
6 Gravestone
11 Buy back
13 Cylindrical
15 Teutonic deity
16 Field flowers
18 Exclamation
19 River in Siberia
21 Stupefy
22 Prepare for print
24 Great bustard
26 Location
28 Frozen water
29 Bar legally
31 Take care of 33 Symbol for tin
34 Ireland
36 Food program
38 Parent (colloq.)
40 Solar disk
42 Challenges
45 Arabian garment
47 Park-away
49 Roman tyrant
50 Tibetan priest
52 Snare
54 Symbol for tantalum
55 Conjunction
56 Awn
59 A continent (abbr.)
61 Retreat
63 Worn away
65 Scorches
66 A state (abbr.)
67 Before

3 Paid notice
4 Edible seeds
5 Leaves out
6 Restricted
7 Golf mound
8 Gaelic
9 French article
10 Science of moral values and duties
12 Man's nickname
14 Consumed
17 Fit
20 Nip
23 Roman gods
24 Faroe Islands whirlwind
25 Rail bird
27 Wife of Geraint
30 Fruit seeds
32 College official
35 Irritates
37 Allowance for waste
38 Restraining to the cheek
39 Degrades
41 Girl's name
43 Rubber-en pencil
44 Conjunction
46 Part of "to be"
48 Liquid
51 Solo
53 Persian lawy
57 Be mistaken
58 Note of scale
60 Fruit drink
62 Symbol for tellurium
64 Prefix: down

DOWN
1 Exist
2 European dormice

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 9

Redmen Look For Repeat Of Last Year's Story

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

Two football teams with identical 1-2 records will square off against each other tomorrow afternoon when the UMass Redmen host the Boston University Terriers at 1 p.m. at Alumni Stadium.

Both teams are coming off of excellent '69 seasons, both are looking to regain the winning touch after slow starts to the present campaign and both think they can come up with a much-needed victory on Saturday.

UMass' '69 story has been rehashed many times but briefly it reads that the Redmen carved out a 6-3 mark after they were down at one point in the season at the same 1-2 level that they hold now. The key game on UMass' road to victory last fall was a 14-9 drubbing of the Terriers.

BU's '69 episode is also well known. The Terriers, under first-year head coach Larry Naviaux, rung up a 9-1 record, good enough for an invitation to the Pasadena Bowl and a spirited showing against San Diego State despite bowing, 28-7.

It's seasons like these that kindle pride among the members of the teams who have achieved such heights. UMass and BU are two proud teams. Neither likes being at 1-2; neither has given up on hopes for banner campaigns. Both want to knock each other's block off and it should be a great game.

But, where these two squads differ is in their respective styles of play. The Redmen are immense defensively with an offense that is fighting hard to catch up. The Terriers are great on the attack but are lacking on defense where eight starters are departed from last autumn's powerhouse.

Going into this one, Redman head coach Vic Fusia is looking for the UMass offense to start clicking on the "big" plays and the "big" downs, something it has been inconsistent at doing thus far in '70.

Many times the Redmen have blown wide-open opportunities at completing second down and long and third down and long situations and, at other times, they have just been snuffed out on these plays.

But Fusia is quite confident that the offense can indeed come through with the big ones, the ones that keep drives alive, the ones that put points on the board, the ones that balance out the attack.

As he puts it, "This is most necessary against BU. It is essential, for us to win, to be more consistent on offense and it's got to be more intelligence out there, more muscle.....and less fat."

He added, "We've got to play the game this team is capable of playing if we want to win on Saturday."

SIDELINE SCRIBBLES - Over the last nine years, except for 1968, the UMass football team has established a nifty pattern of losing one or two games early in a season before finally getting things together around the second or third game and then whipping off a bunch of victories in a row...On the subject Fusia had this to say, "I don't know if that's a pattern but, at this stage of the game, I sort of hope it is."....Skittery halfback Pat Scavone can move into third place on the all-time UMass career rushing list in Saturday's contest if he can gain at least 30 yards... The 5'11-187 lb. senior has a three-year total of 955 yards...Ahead of him are Jerry Whelchel ('65) with 984 yards, Sam Lussier ('63) with 1572 amd Greg :amdryLandry ('68) with 1632...Scavone is currently the best Redman ground-gainer for the present campaign with 188 yards at a 4.8 yards per carry average...In the series between UMass and BU, the Terriers are in front, 8-7...Two years ago, BU came to Alumni Stadium to face another 1-2 Redman team and scalped the Redmen, 21-7...UMass continued from there to a 2-8 debacle...The Redmen have a few changes on the offensive line for this affair...Dave Levine will be starting again at center, a job he had lost to Ron Marino a week previous, although both will see plenty of action at the keystone position...Bob Donlir will be moving from right tackle over to left tackle to spell his older brother Dick...Taking Donlin's vacated spot will be sophomore Clarence Brooks, a 6'-225-pounder...Two sophomores who should see action will be backup quarterback Len Matuza and split end Steve Shubert.

MDC CARTOON BY FRED ROSENTHAL

PROBABLE STARTERS - UMass Offense: Levine (C), Etna (RG), Pena (LG), Brooks (RT), B. Donlin (LT), Cabrelli (SE), Hulecki (TE), Scavone (HB), Russell (HB), Cummings (FB) and Hughes (QB)...BU Offense: Johnson (C), Hill (RG), Soucy (LG), Speaks (RT), Dowling (LT), Williams (SE), Durkovic (TE), Diamond (HB), Ebert (HB), Ryan (FB) and Hollo (QB)... UMass Defense: Sroka (RT), DeFlavio (LT), Bristol (RE), KKelliher (LE), Leamy (LB), Collins (LB), Farrelly (LB), Sabulis (LB), Keating (HB), Bush (HB) and O'Neil (S)...BU Defense: Pope (RT), Versocki (LT), Pukalo (RE), Gresock (LE), Cullen (LB), Sinclair (LB), Webster (LB) Baker (HB), M. Priester (HB), Dwinell (RS) and F. Priester (LS).

Metawampe's Picks

After another incomprehensable week of success, the Great One is about ready to rest on his laurels (he's a hardy sole).* With his sensational season's sum so far, even he has found it difficult to keep his motley moccasins on the old terra firma. Yet he is still optimistic (It looks like a good week for Reds), and with all the pizzazz of a Presidential Peach Plan, he will launch himself (a bottle of champagne might help) into the salty sea of surrealistic soothsaying once again.

But before he begins, he has a bone to pick with a few of his readers. It has reached the Great One's golden ears that some irreverent imbeciles actually want him to give up poetry, to actually change his style. Ridiculous. Absurd. Would Spiro change his style and think of his own words? Would William F. Buckley change his style and become a ghost writer for Soupy Sales? Would Art Buchwald change his style and write sports for the old MDC? He doubts it. And the rollicking Redman is not alone. Rumor has it that the well-known managing editor of one of the local gazettes has come out in open support of the Great One (name witheld upon the jerk's request). So he will continue in the tradition which has been brought forth for moon after moon, passed down from generation to generation. It makes one almost hope for a gap, doesn't it?

*Don't worry, no one else got it either.

UMASS 27, BOSTON U. 17
Hollo rhymes with follow and the temptation is there,
But the Great One will resist it and that's certainly rare.

NEW HAMPSHIRE 16, MAINE 10
Black Bear football is worse than awful,
It's about as useless as a concrete waffle. (The Great One likes to throw in a little local humor)

RHODE ISLAND 22, VERMONT 0
For the Catamounts the afternoon will be boring,

As the Rams are going to do all the scoring.

VILLANOVA 17, BUFFALO 10
There aren't any Redmen at Villanova,
As the Bulls find themselves run-over.

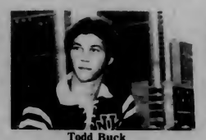
BOSTON COLLEGE 24, PENN ST. 21
It's been a bad year for the Nittany Lion,
And the Eagles will leave Paterno still cryin'.

CONNECTICUT 21, TEMPLE 1
Clements and Huskies may all have the flu,
But Great One not doctor, so he leaves pick for you.
(Speaking of Doctors, the Great One could use one about now)

Ranking Redman Booters Host UConn

By EDWARD DOHERTY
Staff Reporter

The undefeated UMass soccer team will take on the Huskies from Connecticut tomorrow morning at 10:30 in the second Yankee Conference match of the year for both squads.



The Redmen are currently sporting a 2-0 record and have four consecutive victories dating back to last season's wins over the Coast Guard Academy and New Hampshire.

UConn tied its only Conference game, 1-1, against defending champ Vermont, and looms as one of the major obstacles in the Redmen's quest for the Y-C crown.

For the first time in years the UMass soccer team has nudged its way into the top ten listings of New England, placing ninth in this week's rankings. The standings are as follows: (1) Harvard: 0-0-0, (2) Brown: 2-0-1, (3) Springfield: 2-0-1, (4) Vermont: 0-0-3, (5) Bridgeport: 0-2-1, (6) Dartmouth: 0-1-1, and Yale (1-2-0), (8) Connecticut: 1-1-1, (9) UMass: 2-0-0, (10) Trinity: 0-1-0, and Westfield

Among the teams in this top ten UMass must play Springfield on Nov. 4, Vermont on Oct. 31, UConn tomorrow, and Trinity on Oct. 13. There are ten other teams that received votes in the New England balloting and, among them, the Redmen play three squads, Rhode Island on Oct. 17, Worcester Polytech on Oct 27 and Tufts on Oct. 24.

In Yan-Con standings, UMass is tied for first place at 1-0-0 with UConn. Maine is third at 1-1-0, Vermont fourth at 0-0-1, and URI and New Hampshire are last with identical 0-1-0 records.

Todd Buck

The Redmen's Lindo Alves leads Conference scorers with four goals followed closely by his teammate Duane Brown, who has three.

UMass' Augie Calheno, Todd Buck, Rick Matuszczak and Jeff Hagur are tied with ten other Yan-Con players for top spot in the league in assists, they all have one.

Runners Open Y-C Schedule at UConn

By EARLE BARROLL
Staff Reporter

After two non-league meets which netted a record of 0-1-1, the UMass cross country team visits the University of Connecticut tomorrow to open its Yankee Conference schedule against the Huskies in a 2 p.m. encounter.

Year after year these two teams have been the top two teams in YanCon cross country circles and has resulted in this being the biggest rivalry that the Redmen have year after year.

The Huskies are not the same type of unit this year that they have been in the past as they lost the first four men from last years New England Championship team. The only returnee of any note is team captain John Cody, who was the number five man on last years team.

Joining Cody is a talented group of sophomores who finished second in New England last year to the UMass frosh.

Going into tomorrow's meet, the Huskies also sport a record of 0-1-1, with both meets also being out of the league schedule. Redman Coach Ken O'Brien looked back into the records and commented: "This is the first time that these two teams, always noted for their strength in cross country, have come into this meet with the records that they have."

On the Redman side, "sickness" has been the theme of thesteam members over the pasy couple of weeks. Last week Tom Jasmin and Tom Swain missed the Northeastern meet but these two have been running this week to get back into their racing condition and should be ready tomorrow.

Ron Wayne has also been slowed down this week by this virus and only practiced a couple of days with the team. He will be ready to race tomorrow.

These three Redmen will most likely not be as sharp as usual and O'Brien will be looking for Larry Paulson, Bruce Blackburn, and Leo Duart to take up the slack if any of them should faulter.

This has been a week of patching up the wholes and improving of others for the team. There has been no physical progress per se for the team on the whole.

On the freshman level, the UMass frosh will be up against its toughest opposition of the year in the Huskie pups, who are rated as the number one frosh unit in New England.

Doug O'Connell, who ran so well on the varsity level last week, will be running with the freshmen to bolster the Redman attack.

He will be joined by Joe Frontierro, Rich Sevigny, and Bill Lowry to give UConn all the competition that it can ask for.

Last Night's Intramural Scores

FOOTBALL
KS 13, TC 6
BKP 21, DK 6
PMD 50, LCA 15
ZN 26, SAM 18
TSD 49, SPE 18
TLP 24, APO 0
Mergetroids 18, Nurds 13

Pipers 50, Barracudas 0
Brigade 26, Broncos 19
Bucks 26, Gregorians 6
Outhouse T 30, Smashers 7
Roadrunners 34, Lubees 20
3 M's 26, Colonels 12
Duchies 14, Freaks 8
GAK 15, Bulldogs 12

Puckers over Fellas, wbf
Browns 29, Heroes 0
Tubes 15, Turtles 14
CO-REC BEEF PULL
Deacons and ACO, df
Lemons 2, Dogs 1
LCO 2, Cougers 0

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 24 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1970

CEQ BARGES DOWN CONNECTICUT, PUTS SPOTLIGHT ON POLLUTION

The "Universal Life Raft," sponsored by the CEQ, begins its voyage down the Connecticut River, dramatizing the problem of water pollution. The raft was to have floated to the Atlantic Ocean, but various difficulties cut the trip short at Agawam, Mass. (Photo by Steve Schmidt)

Draft To End By 1973
see page 4

Those Little Green Books
see page 3

Huck Finn And The Boys Dramatize Plight Of River

Buoyed on a sea of hopes that their actions will bring about a new awareness of the Connecticut River's potential, the CEQ launched its version of Noah's Ark in Northampton Saturday.

The "Universal Life Raft" was designed and launched with the hope that people would realize the plight of the river and would be moved to cleaning it up. To this end, the raft people made up a detailed fact sheet to hand out on the trip downstream to the ocean.

But the gods of the deep had a few things to say before the raft and its occupants were dumped out into the salty brine. Slow currents and lack of communications plagued the raft-canoe flotilla and the support group, bouncing about in a big rented truck, got lost, the raft got lost, everyone got lost.

The original intent of the voyage was to reach the ocean about 120 miles away. Then someone said let's try for Connecticut but as it turns out the raft only got as far as Agawam, Mass. Most of the raft people got back to campus sometime on Sunday night.

IT'S THESE POWER BOATS and some other people who keep stinking up the river and making a mess. The CEQ floated a raft and a few canoes down the river so people would wake up a little.

THIS IS THE RAFT. It also had about four canoes for company. And so the people on the water wouldn't feel lonely, there was a truckload of people following them with all kinds of food and things. Unfortunately neither one knew where the other was most of the time.

AND THESE LITTLE FELLAS are the ones who have to live with the stink in the river. People who know how bad the river is never go near it anymore. But these poor ducks and a lot of people who have no idea of what the river is really like wouldn't mind seeing it cleaned up.

Photos by Steve Schmidt

Ted, let us forget politics and let us to BELL'S PIZZA. He stays open until 1 A.M. and 2 A.M. on Friday and Saturday

Yes, Spiro, but what are people going to say if they see me with you. Better call BP they make free deliveries too.

256-8011 253-9051

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor).

Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $7.50 per semester, $14.00 per year.

DVP presents:

A THEOLOGIAN OF "NEW HOPE"

Dr. HARVEY COX

Speaking on:

Religious Revival in the Secular City?

TUES., OCTOBER 13

8 p.m. Thompson 104

New Meal Tickets Discourage Free Loading

By DENISE MAGNELL
Monday Issue Editor

The need for a tighter security system against dining commons "freeloading" resulted in this year's stub booklet replacement of meal tickets.

A security proposal was first brought to the attention of the Food Services attention last spring by a subcommittee of the Student Senate Services Committee, dealing only with food service problems.

According to the Director of Food Services, Joel Stoneham, the administration acted on the proposal by studying meal ticket systems throughout the country. The stub booklets seemed the most foolproof as seen by experience with a similar set-up at the University of Rhode Island.

Since the intertransferability of dining commons (students utilizing any commons with the same ticket), freeloading had increased considerably, with the financial burden on those students who paid their board. As a further precaution, more dining commons personnel have been placed as "checkers" at exits in the halls.

"We're here to administer your money as wisely as possible," said Stoneham.

Assistant Director Arthur Warren agreed that "how it's spent should be a joint method and we attempt to have it that way."

On the recent bomb scares in the dining commons, Stoneham commented that they had created a lot of physical inconvenience (extra cleaning, etc.) but no financial losses had resulted. There were six scares in all -- one in Hampshire, one in Berkshire, and four in Hampden Commons.

Mr. Stoneham added that the lengthy lines are not caused at all by the slower process of tearing out stubs. Rather it is the accommodation of people returning for seconds and newcomers selecting their food that slows the process.

Another appeal made by the student Food Services Committee (and the Southwest Assembly) last spring was for an extended hot breakfast since many students could not reach the dining commons by 8:30 a.m. In a survey taken by the Food Services Dept., it was found that 95% of the people who go to breakfast regularly are fed by 9:15.

Many returning upperclassmen were disgruntled, however, by the fact that continental breakfast had been discontinued in favor of the extended hot service. By dropping continental breakfast, the forty-five minute extension was made financially possible (more personnel would have been needed to keep it).

Student Senate Services Committee Chairman Joe Ackerstein maintains that the loss of continental breakfast may fit this year's students' needs, but since almost 4000 new students come to the university each year, more revisions may have to be made in the future.

Ackerstein added that the goals of the food services Committee for the coming year are not definite yet since only one organizational meeting has taken place so far. However, research on two-meals-a-day tickets is now being done and the possibility of rebating unused meal stubs may be looked into.

WHEN THEY RING THE DINNER BELL over in the Central Area, all kinds of people crawl out of their dorms and head for the Copper Kettle to wait in line for a while. But, the Food Service people tell us, it's not the fault of those niftly little meal tickets we got this year. (Photo by Steve Schmidt)

Debater's Grab 2nd Place

By DEBBIE FLAHERTY
Staff Reporter

The UMass Debate Team, besting over 50 of the top college debate teams throughout the nation, captured second place at the annual MIT Debate Tournament this weekend.

The darkhorse Redmen team of seniors Tim Hynes and Phil Doyle moved into the eliminaton rounds after compiling a 5-3 win-loss record in preliminary competition.

Debating the 1970-71 intercollegiate debate resolution on wage-price controls, Hynes and Doyle on the negative, were victorious over Bowling Green in the octo-finals of the elimination rounds. This pitted them on the affirmative against Denver. After beating Denver Hynes and Doyle swept on to defeat Georgia in the semi-finals.

UMass then lost to the undefeated North Carolina team in the final round. The team was awarded a silver trophy for its second place standing.

The Hynes and Doyle team won over Oberline, Dayton, Boston College, Cornell and Virginia in the preliminary rounds while losing to Scranon, Denver, and Canissius.

The UMass team of Michelle Champigny and Paul LeMarche, also competing at the MIT tournament, compiled a 3-5 win-loss record.

This weekend Hynes and Doyle, along with the sophomore varsity team of Roger Legendre and Dave McCaffrey will be again seeking top honors at the Brandeis University Debate Tournament.

N.E.S. Tutoring Bus Leaves Today

The N.E.S. tutoring bus will start its trips to Springfield today for the academic year. The bus will leave at 2:45 and 6:15 PM from the Haigus Mall entrance of the Whitmore Administration Building.

The purpose of these trips is to familiarize tutors with the centers in Springfield. The bus will stop at all four centers; tutors will have an opportunity to meet the center coordinators and take stock of the available material.

Tutors who have received assignments may make arrangements to meet their tutee in the center at this time. Old tutors as well as new are encouraged to make this trial run since two of the centers have relocated since last spring.

These visits to Springfield should provide increased life and curosity for the coming orientation scheduled for this Sunday. The session for October 18 will again be held in the Campus Center.

The call for more volunteers to push the involvement in the program above the 2% level is still out. Presently there is a rising need for volunteers who wish to teach adults. The N.E.S. Main Street Center has a group of parents interested in learning new math starting at the fifth grade level.

The N.E.S. Coordinating Committee is trying to search out volunteers who are willing to do the same in all the centers in the area of teaching Spanish speaking individuals the English language. Essentially all subject areas have some interest to interested parties in Springfield.

If you wish to volunteer or want further informaton please notify the N.E.S. Coordinating Committee or attend in person its meeting every Wednesday. Check the notices for time and place. N.E.S. can be located in the Student Activities Area room 104 in the Campus Center.

Mary Newman Speaks Today

Mary Newman, Republican candidate for Secretary of State, will speak today at 2 p.m. in the Colonial Lounge, the Young Republicans Club has announced. She is a 15 year veteran of the House of Representatives, and was chairman of the House-cut petition drive. Mrs. Newman is a past State vice-President of the League of Women Voters.

As a member of the House she has filed legislation outlawing DDT in Massachusetts. Considered one of the two most effective state legislators by the New Bedford Standard Times, Mrs. Newman, if elected, will be the first woman to hold a statewide constitutional office. Bill Perkins (tel. 253-7029) is coordinating this campaign.

Future events will be discussed at the club meeting Tuesday night at seven in room 908 of the Campus Center.

Coffee will be served following Mrs. Newman's appearance.

Correction

In Friday's Collegian an article on a DVP lecture by Dr. John Gofman contained this statement: "(A typical nuclear power plant would have the potential explosive force of 1000 nuclear bombs.)"

This statement should be changed to the following: "A thousand-megawatt nuclear power plant by the end of a year's operation would have accumulated radioactive materials equivalent to the radiation produced in the explosion of 1000 nuclear bombs."

Dr. Gofman never made the statement attributed to him. It should be clearly understood that nuclear power plants are not capable of exploding like nuclear bombs, whatever other dangers they may present.

ON THE GREEN

An art sale and exhibition of distinction will be held on Amherst Common, October 15 - 17.

Pieces by Baskin, Boulanger, Dali, Friedlaender, Shawn, Tamayo, Torres, and others.

Original Lithographs, Woodcuts, Etchings, and Lithographed Posters.

Sponsored by the New Politics Coalition, 25 Main Street, Northampton (584-1435). All proceeds will be used to promote Peace, Ecology, and Human Rights.

The Student Mobilization Committee meets tonight in the tonight in Room 168 of the Campus Center at 8:30, the planned October 31st anti-war demonstration:
(to discuss)

Pre-Law Association

Prof. R. Roberts from Cornell University School of Law will be on campus to interview interested students on Tuesday, Oct. 13, 1970 in room 345, Whitmore Administration Building. For information and appointments, call Mrs. Fournier, 545-2080.

Fine Arts Council 1970/71 Series

EVENTS

BOWKER AUDITORIUM/UNIV. OF MASS.

Tuesday - Wednesday, October 20 - 21

NATHAN MILSTEIN

"The Master Violinist" ..... N.Y. Times

Two entirely different programs each evening at 8:00 p.m. including Sonatas by Brahms, Handel, Vivaldi and Bach.

Reserved Tickets: $1.00 to $3.00

Fine Arts Council, 125 Herter Hall

Tel. 545 0202. Save up to 40% by ordering Season Tickets — five events!

Waffle Smorgasbord

What do you put on an awful waffle?

New name announced at 10 p.m.

WED., OCT. 14 – 7 - 11 p.m. C.C. COFFEE SHOP

THE $210 EUROPE

Round-trip DC-8 JET from New York

For only $210* round trip, Icelandic Airlines flies you direct to Luxembourg in the heart of Europe for best connections to everywhere. Daily jets. No groups to join. Stay one day or up to 45. Fly Icelandic—for lowest fares to Iceland, Luxembourg, England, Scotland, Norway, Sweden and Denmark. Special fares for students and groups remaining overseas more than 45 days. Major credit cards —or Pay Later Plan. Mail coupon; then call your travel agent.

*Add $20 one way on Fri. and Sat.

To: Icelandic Airlines
630 Fifth Ave., N.Y. 10020
(212) PL 7-8585

Send folder CN on Lowest Jet Fares to Europe ☐ Student Fares ☐

Name_____

Street_____

City_____

State_____ Zip_____

My travel agent is _____

ICELANDIC AIRLINES LOFTLEIDIR

LOWEST AIR FARES TO EUROPE

of any scheduled airline

In The Nation And The World

Nixon Accelerates Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon announced "an accelerated rate of withdrawal" of U.S. troops from Vietnam Monday and the Pentagon ordered an immediate start on all out preparations to end the draft by mid 1973.

Nixon said during a trip to Connecticut that the authorized ceiling on American troops in Vietnam will be reduced by 40,000 men through the Christmas season. This will bring the figure down to 344,000 as of Dec. 31.

Secretary of Dee

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird forecast Nixon's announcement at a news conference at which he said the armed services have been ordered to prepare for ending the draft.

Asked whether the announcements were aimed at helping Republicans in the coming congressional elections, Laird replied with a smile, "I don't know how you came to that conclusion."

The defense chief, who previously has set a 1973 goal for ending reliance on the draft, told reporters "we're going to go all out in the Department of Defense to reach the goal of a zero draft" in three years.

He made public a memorandum to the service secretaries and Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to spur actions "that should be taken now" to move toward the zero draft goal.

In addition to stepped up emphasis on military recruiting, other supports may be required for additional enlistments in both the active forces and the reserve and National Guard components, Laird's memorandum said.

He requested top service officials to review recommendations of a "Project Volunteer Committee" within the Pentagon for various ways to improve the attractiveness of military careers.

And he asked his senior subordinates to identify priority steps that will be required to meet the zero draft objective.

With an eye toward Congress, Laird said early Capitol Hill action is needed on legislation to boost by 20 per cent the base pay for low ranked enlisted men.

On troop withdrawals from Vietnam, Laird noted that the goal of reaching 384,000 men by Oct. 15 already has been surpassed and that the U.S. force level there will be "several thousand below" that figure when Oct. 15 arrives.

The new troop cutback in Vietnam apparently does not change Nixon's goal, announced last spring, to cut U.S. forces in the war zone by next May to 284,000 men, close to half the number of Americans in Vietnam when the present administration took office in January, 1969.

"We will meet or beat the 284,000 ceiling for May 1," Laird said.

The White House press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said the reduction through Christmas was decided on as Nixon and his advisers reviewed the Indochina situation while preparing last week's five point peace proposal.

Nixon attributed the action in a statement to "continued progress of the Vietnamization program."

On other subjects, Laird said: The $2 billion defense budget cut voted by the House last week "places in jeopardy the negotiations' this country is carrying on," on a number of fronts, including the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks. He said the House action, which he hopes will be reversed in the Senate, "jeopardises the national security posture of the country and the safety of the people."

"We have no evidence that a submarine of the Polaris type has used any base in Cuba" but the United States is watching the situation closely and would regard any Russian sub basing there as "a very serious challenge."

Kidnappers Threaten Pair, Present Ransom Demands

MONTREAL (AP) - Terrorist kidnappers holding as hostages a British envoy and a Quebec cabinet minister gave authorities three chilling life and death options Monday.

The federal government, fearing more political abductions, moved troops into Ottawa to bolster police security for officials and foreign diplomats.

The Canadian French separatists who seized the two hostages last week gave provincial authorities these choices:

'If all six ransom demands are rejected, both British Trade Commissioner James Richard Cross and Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte will be killed.

If two demands are met-the release of 23 "political prisoners" and a half to the police investigation-Cross will be freed but Laporte will still be held under threat of death.

If all demands are met both men will be released.

One of several communiques received from two cells of the radical Quebec Liberation Front.

FLQ said "we are setting no deadlines. However, if you show evident bad faith, we will return to action."

The higher price for Laporte's freedom included these demands:

Payment of $500,000 in gold bars, no action to be taken against the kidnapers, the name and photograph of the person who gave information leading to the arrest of several FLQ members, full publication of the Front's demands and political manifesto, and reinstazment of all Montreal truck drivers who lost their jobs when the government took over city mail deliveries. The Front wants the "political prisoners" to be flown to either Cuba or Algeria.

Cross, 49, was taken from his home Oct. 5 and Laporte was kidnaped Saturday, minutes after the provincial government refused the ransom demands for Cross.

The kidnapers threatened to execute the two hostages at 10 p.m. Sunday but apparently changed their minds after Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa broadcast an appeal for negotiations a few minutes before the deadline fell.

There were contradictory notes from the abductors, however, on how negotiations might be conducted. Communiques from the FLQ's Chenire cell that is holding Laporte, and the Liberation cell that seized Cross, suggested that a lawyer, Robert Lemieux, act as a mediator.

But a later communique from the Chenire cell, found in a telephone booth, said "any request for contact-by means of communiques or otherwise-will be considered a refusal" of the demands.

Lemieux, who had defended some of the prisoners whose freedom is sought by the FLQ, was picked up by police Sunday. They said they would charge him with obstructing justice. The lawyer was not held, however.

Notes from the kidnapers said both hostages were alive and well.

A letter purportedly from the Laporte asked the government to accept the word of the abductors and recommended that the 23 prisoners be released Monday night or Tuesday.

Canada's federal government has supported Quebec in its opposition to the kidnapers' demands and it ordered troops into Ottawa Monday to increase security in the capital.

A spokesman said troops from the base at Petawawa, Ont., were moving into Ottawa to supplement police on protective and security duties.

He would not say how many troops were involved or where they would be assigned. They were expected to provide greater protection for Parliament Hill, the homes of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and other cabinet members, and the residences and offices of foreign diplomats.

Perspective Homecoming Queens:

ALL APPLICATIONS FOR HOMECOMING QUEEN

MUST be in by Tues., Oct. 13, at 5:00

in the RSO Office

Judging will be on Wed., Thurs., and Fri. of that week.

. . . and all that jazz

JUST JAZZ

with Ed Beach

THE REAL NEW ORLEANS

with Hank Faunce

Fridays 11:40 p.m.

Saturdays 10:30 p.m.

WFCR 88.5 FM STEREO

Foreign Wheel Problems?

Fish in to

BASS IMPORT SERVICE

Rte. 9 Hadley or call 584-4652

We Try Harder!

AUTO INSURANCE

ALL DRIVERS

— LOWEST, LEGAL RATES —

— BUDGET PAYMENTS —

Tekoa Insurance Agency

160 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-2742

10 Broad St. Westfield 562-3604

Draft Counselor's Corner

Draft Director's Memo Outlines CO Status

by Gilbert J. Salk
Staff Reporter

The following information is the latest Local Board Memorandum issued by National Selective Service Director Curtis W Tarr. It is intended to serve as a directive to all local boards in considering applications for Conscientious Objector status. All persons opposed to the war and/or participation in war should read it very carefull. If you qualify, or even think that you might qualify as a CO under the guidelines set down in this LBM, you should see a draft counselor as soon as possible.

Also please show this to friends and save it for future reference.

1. This memorandum discusses certain criteria, based on the provisions of Section 6 (j) of the Military Selective Service Act of 1967, as amended, and decisions of the courts, which should guide local boards and appeal boards in considering registrants' claims for conscientious objector classification.

2. Compulsory military service legislation in the United States has always recognized conscientious objection. The law as it exists today in statutory form requires for classification in Classes I-O or I-A-O:

(a) That a registrant be opposed to participation in war in any form;

(b) That his objection be founded on religious training and belief; and

(c) That his position be something other than "esentially political, sociological, or philosophical views, or merely personal moral code".

WAR IN ANY FORM

3. The clause "war in any form" should be interpreted in the following manner:

(a) A registrant who desires to choose the war in which he will participate in not a conscientious objector under the law. His objection must be to all wars rather than to a specific war.

(b) A belief in a theocratic or spiritual war between the powers of good and evil does not constitute a willingness to participate in "war" within the meaning of the selective service law.

RELIGIOUS TRAINING AND BELIEF

4. The primary test that must be used is the test of sincerity with which the belief is held. The board should be convinced by information presented to it that the registrant's personal history reveals views and actions strong enough to demonstrate that expediency is not the basis of his claim.

5. The belief upon which conscientious objection is based must be the primary controlling force in the man's life.

6. The term "religious training and belief" as used in the law may include solely moral or ethical beliefs, even though the registrant himself may not characterize these beliefs as "religious" in the traditional sense, or may expressly characterize them as not "religious".

7. The registrant need not believe in a traditional "God" or a "Supreme Being" to be considered favorably.

8. The registrant's conscientious objection to war must stem from his moral, ethical, or religious beliefs about what is right and should be done and what is wrong and should be shunned, and he must hold these beliefs with the strength of traditional religious conviction.

9. In order for the local board to find that a registrant's moral and ethical beliefs are against participation in war in any form and are held with the strength of traditional religious conviction, the local board should consider the nature and history of the process by which he acquired such beliefs. The registrant must demonstrate that his ethical or moral convictions were gained through training, study, contemplation, or o her activity, comparable in rigor and dedication to the processes by which traditional religious convictions are formulated. The registrant must show that these moral and ethical convictions, once acquired, have directed his life in the way traditional religious convictions of equal strength, depth, and duration have directed the lives of those whose beliefs are clearly founded in traditional religious conviction.

10. Board members should make every effort to weigh the claims of all registrants on the standard of sincerity, not giving particular advantage to a registrant who is learned or glib. The registrant need not use formal or traditional language.

11. A registrant who is eligible for conscientious objection on the basis of moral, ethical, or religious beliefs is not excluded from the exemption simply because those beliefs may influence his views concerning the nation's domestic or foreign policies.

12. The law does not require that a registrant claiming conscientious objection be a member of a "peace church" or any church, religious organization, or religious sect, nor does the law require affiliation with any particular group in order to be classified as a conscientious objector.

13. Where the registrant is or has been a member of a church, religious organization, or religious sect and where the claim of conscientious objection is related to such membership, the board may properly inquire as to the fact of membership, and the teachings of the church, religious organization or religious sect, as well as the registrant's religious activity. However, the fact that the registrant may disagree with or not subscribe to some of the tenets of his church does not necessarily discredit his claim

14. Boards may not give precedence to one religion over another. All religious or beliefs are to be given equal consideration.

15. Beliefs which are real and valid to some may be incomprehensible to others. Boards are not free to reject beliefs because they consider them "incomprehensible". Their task is to decide whether the beliefs professed by a registrant are sincerely held and whether they govern his actions both in word and deed.

EXCLUSIONS FROM CLASSES I-O AND I-A-O

16. Persons whose beliefs are "essentially political, sociological, or philosophical views, or a merely personal moral code" are ineligible to be classified as a conscientious objector. Such persons consist of two groups:

(a) Those with beliefs of religious, moral, or ethical nature, but whose beliefs are not deeply held, and

(b) Those whose objection to war does not rest at all upon moral, ethical, or religious principles, but instead rests solely upon consideration of policy, pragmatism, or expediency.

CLASS I-A-O

17. A registrant claiming Class I-O, who is in the opinion of the local board has not provided sufficient evidence to warrant the I-O classification, shall not be classified in Class I-A-O as a compromise.

18. A registrant who is found to be eligible for classification as a conscientious objector should be placed in Class I-A-O when his conscientious objection encompasses only combatant training and service in the armed forces.

/s/ Curtis W Tarr

Southwest Residents Can Pick Dorm Colors

Students who live in Southwest can now pick new color schemes for their dormitory corridors. According to Ray Werbe, southwest environmental consultant, the project now underway will help residents create their own "livable environment.'

Residents of a floor may meet with Werbe or a member of his staff to select their own color scheme. Eight bright colors for doors and five softer colors for corridor walls are available.

Funding of the project has been arranged by the Southwest Assembly which has kept the cost of the project minimal. The proper quality paint is supplied along with a crew of painters from among 32 work-study people who have been trained for the project.

Floor residents may also take part in creating their new environment, Webe says. They are encouraged to do so by helping the painters and equipment is provided for them

The project also includes repainting the elevator foyers and the floor lounges. Murals may be implemented in re-decorating the elevator foyers if they are acceptable by the residents.

One of the goals of the project is to create residence halls that students feel are more a part of them. Werbe invites those interested to contact him in his office in the lobby of Coolidge Tower.

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550

Student Teacher Registration Listed

All students interested in elementary and secondary student teaching and internship during the spring semester of 1971 MUST attend an organization meeting on Thursday, October 29.

If you are a secondary student teacher your meeting will be from 2:30-4:00 P.M. in the Mark's Meadow Auditorium. If you are in elementary your meeting is from 4:00-6:30 P.M. in the same place.

This will be the only time that programs will be explained and applications for placement distributed. You MUST attend if you expect to be placed in the Spring semester of 1971

YOUR AUTHORIZED DEALER

NORTHAMPTON VOLKSWAGEN, Inc.

• SALES • SERVICE • PARTS

COMPLETE BODY SHOP

246 KING ST. (RTE 5) NORTHAMPTON

Your Authorized Dealer

584-8620 Open 9-9 — Sat. 9-5

College Master

Salutes Senior of the Week

OUTSTANDING AGAINST B.U. THIS WEEKEND WAS SENIOR BILL SROKA

Fidelity Union Life Insurance Co.

FREE!

1 yr. SUBSCRIPTION to

SKI "MAGAZINE"

when you join the SKI CLUB

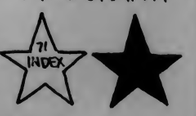
NEXT MEETING: TONITE 8:00 p.m.

MAHAR

Elections - Movies - Memberships Taken

PHOTOGRAPHY

COPY WRITING



ARE YOU CREATIVE?!?

JOIN THE INDEX STAFF

COME TO THE RECRUITMENT MEETING !!!!!

RM.168-70, NEW CAMPUS CENTER, THUR. OCT.15, 7P.M.

TYPOGRAPHY

PAGE DESIGN

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR — Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER — Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR — Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR — John Sullivan

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — David Williams
NEWS STAFF — Mary Tougher, Stanley Olson, Dr. M.A.W.
DARKROOM — Barry Penn, Bob Mangiaratti
SPORTS — Barry Rubenstein
AD LAYOUT — Chris Mackey
EDITORIAL — Dr. Lou

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Elliot Eisenberg

The Colors Change

WASHINGTON, D.C.- Driving here from UMass yesterday, we saw the nation change before our eyes. In Massachusetts, hillsides are dotted with the reds and golds of autumn, about the omnipresent greens. The drive southward was a drive backwards to summer. Foliage, which soon will turn to startling colors here is still a stale green.

In a sense, this is a return trip for us. For my companion it is the trip home to Virginia. For me, it is a trip back to last Spring to the scene of marches speeches and anguish.

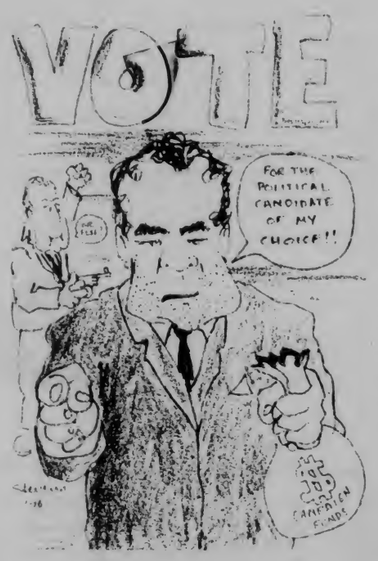
The national monuments lie before us.

My friend spoke with the wisp of Virginia-of the many times he had been here to march, also, of marches he has made with the Army in Vietnam.

"But do you remember the last moratorium?" he asked. "The one last November, which just seemed to happen over night. The one which Nixon finally watched on T.V. We were here, me and my friend from New York. We stood right here while people we had seen on T.V. passed by.

"There were 225,000 people here marching. A chant began-'Peace now!' 'Peace now!' Peace now!'-and it began to echo off the buildings. And I looked at him and he looked at me and we were suddenly afraid."

"'Nazi Germany' he said, and I thought 'Sieg Heil'."



It was then that he became afraid of government in the streets.

We came to the Washington Monument on a warm night last April. I had begun a walk here. From Washington's Monument-symbol of revolution. Around the reflecting pond, passed the Jefferson Monument, symbol of democratic idealism, to the Lincoln Monument, symbol of freedom.

It was a circle we walked, and we ended it back at the symbol of revolution.

It is now a year later, another academic year. Still, Spiro is loose and still administrators of every rank are apprehensive about the campuses.

It is October of the year. The colors have begun to change here already, though almost imperceptibly. Autumn will surely come to Washington. Not as quickly as to the North, but not as slowly as to the South.

Why The Princeton Plan?

By S. FREDERICK STARR
Reprinted from the N. Y. Times

The current assault on campus violence may do more harm to student moderates than to bomb-throwing radicals. The aims of those spearheading the campaigns are hard to fault: they want to stop the appalling arson and disruptions of learning.

But their real quarry has eluded them and they have turned instead on the moderates. Sidney Hook and his Washington allies presently lead the chorus, but regents in several states take the same line, along with a few academic administrators who should know better. They have attacked the plan for a pre-election recess and have tried to make it appear as a symptom of the academic erosion they so abhor.

They have missed their mark.

Worse, they have misrepresented the so-called Princeton Plan. Even Yale's Kingman Brewster has issued public remarks that are sharply at odds with the facts. It is time, then, to draw up a compendium of all recent allegations, a Handbook of Fallacies:

1. The recess endangers the tax-exempt status of academic institutions.

Last June the American Council on Education lawyers concluded that Princeton's arrangements for making up the recessed time by altering the autumn schedule met requirements of both the Internal Revenue Code and the Corrupt Practices Act. Randolph Thrower, Commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service, upheld their opinion as "fair and reasonable."

2. The recess will "politicize" campuses.

Many are already politicized, thanks in part, at least, to President Nixon. As a result, some institutions are offering courses such as Northern Illinois's in "Fieldwork in Political Campaigning." This is precisely the situation that the Princeton Plan seeks to avoid. It enables individuals to direct their political energies constructively into public life rather than negatively against academic institutions. The university in turn is enabled to maintain political neutrality.

3. The recess will erode universities by subordinating learning to politics.

Although the Harvard faculty expressed this fear, the reverse would appear to be the case. With no recess, learning at Harvard will compete with politics for the entire pre-election period, fragmenting the semester. The Princton Plan rules out such academic erosion.

4. The recess, in Kingman Brewster's words, "is designed to facilitate a particular political result."

On the contrary, the recess is completely non-coercive. Students are free to campaign for anyone. They are equally free to go camping upstate, or study and more than a few will do so.

5. The recess makes students a special privileged group in American society.

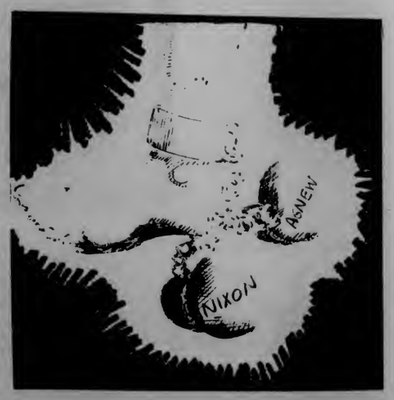
As President Nixon has noted most students are already a special class for they cannot vote. Many students attend out-of-state institutions and are excluded by distance from engaging in politics in their home districts. Beyond this, there is nothing sacred about the existing academic calendar. Under the Princeton Plan no teaching time is lost. The situation is parallel to the factory that lets off early on opening day of the baseball season and stays late the next day to make up.

6. Students enjoying a recess have to make no sacrifice to engage in politics whereas most Americans do.

On the contrary, the majority of students hold jobs during summer and Christmas vacations. Students at Princeton and elsewhere who voted overwhelmingly to return early and give up part of their Christmas break are making considerable monetary sacrifice.

7. The recess creates the illusion that politics is a one shot affair.

Few students are no naive today. Many who will be active during the recess engaged in political work last summer and gave up jobs to do so. For them, the pre-election recess is the culmination of a long process.



Upward of three dozen schools have adopted the pre-election recess. Hundreds of others have not. City and community colleges feel their students are close enough to home not to need a special recess. Most numerous, though, are those public institutions whose regents and chancellors yielded to political pressure from those fearing terrorist elements on campus.

Such administrators forget that the recess has been denounced by precisely these groups, the SDS and the left wing of the National Student Association. They hold onto the charming notion that campus bomb-throwers seek the Dean's permission before cutting classes.

The pre-election recess is politically neutral. Equally important, it protects the university from those who would infuse partisan considerations into every lecture or seminar. Those institutions rejecting the pre-election recess on political grounds will only further the tendencies they claim to deplore.

The President's Commission on Campus Unrest has reported to the nation that a dangerous gulf of mutual misunderstanding has opened between college students and society. The Princeton Plan is the most promising proposal yet for narrowing this gap.

S. Frederick Starr is Assistant Professor of History at Princeton University and one of the faculty sponsors of the Princeton Plan.

Automation?

To those of us in the Towers of Southwest, the elevators play a very important role. They are the difference between being on time and being late for classes. And, when one out of three elevators is broken, that means we only have two elevators for about six hundred people.

And, often, of the two which are left, one doesn't even work all the time. If it doesn't skip from the second floor to the basement, either the doors don't open, or they only open partway. Part of our rent money goes to the upkeep of the dorm.

So, it is difficult to understand why, if this is true, aren't the elevators fixed sooner than a three weeks period. In an apartment house, people pay rent and part of that money goes to the upkeep of the apartment. The same applies in this situation.

Keep the elevators running; not our feet.

Ruth Ellen Flax

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR must be typed, double spaced, at sixty spaces and must carry the writer's signature, address, and telephone number (all of which will be withheld upon request). The limit is one page and the deadline is 5 p.m. the day prior to intended publication. The editors reserve the right to edit all letters.

Campus Comment

To the Editor:

Dick Nixon is at it again.

His speech on Vietnam Tuesday night was a masterpiece of subterfuge, as usual. On the surface, it appeared to be a very generous offer the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong would be fools to refuse. One very important point was left out, however.

We still constitute a foreign power which is occupying their country. In their view, we are raping their people and their land. From their perspective, it is natural to be a little suspicious of any offers we might make. After all, if you are being raped, you don't want to negotiate, you want an immediate and total withdrawal. You don't want the rapist to magnanimously offer to stay where he is without moving, you want him out!

If Nixon's speech was really anything more than a play for Republican votes in the November elections, the focus of his offer would have been considerably different. Instead of requesting a cease-fire so that terms of troop withdrawal over a period of months could be discussed. He would have stated that we are going to immediately remove all of our troops and requested a cease-fire so as to ensure that they would not be fired upon while they were leaving.

He would also have offered political asylum in the U.S. to anyone in South Vietnam who felt that they might be the victim of a "bloodbath" if they were left unprotected by our military. An offer such as this would probably end the war in less than a month.

Unfortunately, in the American political system, votes are considerably more important than American and Vietnamese lives, so a dream such as this is impossible to realize.

Too bad, because peace might be a groovy thing. I wonder if we'll ever get a chance to find out.

Just keep wishin' and workin'. Peace.

Gil Salk

To the Editor:

We the residents of Crampton and MacKimmie request that something be done about the log cabin in Southwest. We are proposing that one of two things be done; (1) remove the whole cabin or (2) put a roof on it. If the majority of students feel it should stay, we believe that a constructive use should be made of it. Perhaps it could be put on the agenda of the first meeting of the Southwest Assembly.

In regard to the new campus center, we support the proposal that the walls be painted such as in Bartlett Hall.

Paul Kendrick

To the editor, a note of discust and despair:

If one looks hard enough he can discover that America is still fighting a war in Viet Nam. He must look thoroughly though. As the days have passed the fact that we still have men dying for their country, our country, is becoming more obsscure. It has continuously receeded in the numerous pages of the paper; today it was on the last page of the Globe. How much longer before they die and we don't even know or care about it? - Not much longer before we are there dying. Will anyone care?

James H. Bornheim

To the editor:

In the interest of saving dozens of man-hours of discussion time by the Ad Hoc Student-Faculty Grading Committee and the Academic Matters Committee, to whom a question from Prof. Gregory Webb (Geology) has been referred for joint consideration, may I answer Prof. Webb's question with a solid NO.

The question (from the agenda of the 163rd meeting of the Faculty Senate) reads: "Rather than adopt any one of the present or proposed single grading and degree schemes, would it not be preferable to adopt a University-wide dual degree program, in which undergraduate bachelor degree candidate could have the option of taking either (1) a B.A. or B.S. pass/fail degree, to be known as the 'Bachelor of Arts-Pass' or the 'Bachelor of Science-Pass' degree, or of taking (2) a B.A. or B.S. course graded, to be known as the 'Bachelor of Arts-Professional' or 'Bachelor of Science-Professional' degree (with honor society nominations, senior honors work, etc., to be limited to those in the professional program?)"

Richard W. Story

To the Editor:

Although certain I am not alone in being at the mercy of the perpetrators of that glorified Howard Johnson's -- the Campus Center--I nonetheless feel the need for some exposition.

One evening recently I decided to have a Danish and coffee at our "coffee shop" in the C.C. After paying 25¢ for the Danish and 15¢ for the coffee (those prices must surely be 80% mark-ups), I discovered that if I had thrown the Danish at the wall I would have left my permanent mark on the Campus Center. The coffee reaked of that slight taint that lingers when it has been brewed six hours.

The following Sunday I looked for some warm food and having had my encounter with the coffee shop, tried the C.C. Cafeteria. The food was edible--certainly not epicurian--however, I could easily have played handball with the "fresh dinner rolls".

A week later I decided to try my luck with breakfast about 11:30 a.m. (I mean, there's not too much they can do to eggs, is there?") "Sorry, we only have lunch now". "Why, if you can make a ham and egg sandwich on toast, can't you simply cook the egg and ham and toast and place them neatly on a plater?" "Sorry," said the poor little cog working behind the counter.

Perhaps Mr. Grinnan has never had a 2 or 3 a.m. date and perhaps he is so superhuman that he requires only a few hours sleep at night, and therefore can easily make it to his kitchen table in time for breakfast. Those of us who have no kitchens and who don't have Mr. Grinnan's stamina must rely on the C.C. kitchens or face a long walk to Amherst. We should be able to sleep late on weekends and still enjoy a decent breakfast. Or is staying out until 3 a.m. another modern degeneracy for which we must pay the following morning?

"Do unto others, Mr. Grinnan, as you would have them do unto you."

M. L. Britton

HISC Says Down

(AP) WASHINGTON - A survey of the campus speaking circuit by the House Internal Security Committee concludes it is a significant money source "for the promoters of disorderly and revolutionary activity among students."

"Speaking appearances are not only revenue-producing," the report adds, "but afford a forum where the radicalization process may be continually expanded."

But the report, to be released early next week, stops short of concluding that campus speeches finance revolution of disorder, saying the committee could not ascertain how the speakers used the money.

It says 67 speakers, ranging from Weatherman leader Mark Rudd, who is wanted by the FBI on riot conspiracy charges, to Dr. Benjamin Spock, who has spoken out against the draft, were paid $109,243 for campus speeches during the past two school years.

It says the figure is based on questionnaires returned by 134 campuses across the country, of which it says only seven refused to cooperate. Another 45 didn't return the questionnaires. The survey stirred controversy within the committee earlier this year when Rep. Louis Stokes (D-Ohio), a member publicly announced he had advised campus officials in his Cleveland district to ignore the questionnaire.

The report said Dr. Spock and comedian Dick Gregory, described as "having provided public support" for militant or extremist groups, made the most money. Spock was reportedly paid $21,550 for 12 speeches and Gregory $19,550 for 21.

Mark Rudd was paid $1,069 for five speeches. The committee says Tom Hayden, a Students for a Democratic Society founder and one of five Chicago Seven defendants convicted of crossing state lines with intent to incite a riot, was paid $3300 for four speeches.

It says Yippie leader Jerry Rubin, also one of the five convicted Chicago Seven members, was paid $2024 for speeches at four campuses.

Carry On-Love Is Coming

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A research team has warned the nation's colleges they may be in danger of losing their tax-empt status if they accede to student and faculty demands for time off to campaign this fall.

Legal Penalties

If the academic calendar is rearranged for groups which the university "knows intend to take one side in a campaign, "the university may be contributing to the campaign just as much as if it ran a voter registration drive that it knew would substantially aid one candidate rather than the other," the report by a three-member research team said.

"If such demands are acceded to, universities may make themselves liable to serious legal penalties," the report said. One result could be losing their tax exempt status.

The analysis was written by Yale law Prof. Robert H. Bork and tax attorneys Howard G. Krane of Chicago and George D. Webster of Washington. Their analysis of the political activities of colleges and universities was published by the nonpartisan American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research.

"Citizen" Suit

Although the Internal Revenue Service might decide not to act against a university, the analysis said, a private citizen may have the right to bring suits to force IRS to act.

The authors said the legal issues of tax exemption involving political activities by universities were raised after the Cambodian intervention when political groups were frequently given access to university services such as computers, research facilites, office space, auditoriums, mailing permits and radio stations.

Bork told a news conference the study underlined a position taken by the President's Commission on Campus Unrest, which said colleges as institutions should not take political positions.

He said he did not know how many colleges had agreed to pre-election recesses but a recent list he saw indicated more than a dozen.

"Gold Rush" A Winner

By JEFF SILVER
Fine Arts Staff

After the Gold Rush, Neil Young's latest release on Reprise Records is a must for anyone who followed the Buffalo Springfield or just plain digs Neil Young. The album contains the vivid imagery present in his previous writings. The title song "After the Gold Rush," deals with the dream-oriented vision common in some of his earlier songs. "Only Love Can Break Your Heart", is kind of a slow Smokey Robinson type song.

In "Southern Man" he returns to a fast paced song that contains an excellent guitar rift. The lyrics of Southern Man make a worthwhile comment on the southern way of life. "Till the Morning Comes", sounds like a Burt Bacharach–Hal David composition.

Side two yields "Oh Lonesome Me", which is exactly what the title implies. It deals with a guy who has lost his lover. "There must be some way I can loose these lonesome blues, forget about the past...I can't forget over how she set me free. oh lonesome blues."

The next song "Don't Let it Bring You Down" sounds like a response to the previous song. "Don't let it bring you down it's only castles burning and find someone who's turning and you will come around.

The album also contains, "Crippled Creak Ferry", "Tell Me Why", "Birds", "When You Dance I Can Really Love You", and "I Believe in You."

The last song on each side, "Till the Morning Comes" on side one and "Crippled Creek Ferry" on side two, should have been saved for another album.

French Players Present Camus

Albert Camus' Caligula will be presented by the Treteau de Paris Wednesday October 14 at Bowker auditorium. The Treteau, brought to campus by the French Corridors will perform Camus' most famous play at 8:00 p.m.

Caligula, begun

Caligula", begun by Camus in 1930, was not staged until 1945 in Paris. It played to over two hundred enthusiastic French audiences before coming to Broadway in 1945 for a very successful run. A piece of theatre art, it is considered by most experts to be the most brilliant of Camus endeavors.

The play is set in 38 A.D. in the Roman court of the young emperor Caius Caligula, but the classic is only pretest. What develops is a piece of absurd theatre dealing with the twentieth century whe; e men demand all or nothing.

In the title role of Caligula, will be Jean-Pierre Lerioux. Mr. Leroux, a graduate of the Conservatory of Dramatic Art in Paris, has played an important role in the television production of Caligula. His other notable roles were in "Photo-Finish" by Peter Ustinov, "Lorenzaccio" by Musset, and "Tucart" by Lesage.

Mr. Leroux' acting will be coupled with the staging of Georges Urtaly and the general expertise of the Treteau will bring to the UMass audience a Caligula that will most certainly difficult to ignore, and once seen, impossible to forget.

Tickets for the event may be purchased at the Student Union Ticket Office and a very limited amount of tickets will be sold at the door.

Tortoise Troupe To Display Techiques

The internationally known director designer team, Orlin and Irene Corey, in Amherst with their troupe, the Everyman Players, for two performances of the classic TORTOISE AND THE HARE at Amherst Regional High School, will also present a series of three theatre workshops on campus, dealing with several different aspects of their appraoch to "Imaginative Theatre." Specific areas involved include made-up and costume design, stage movement, and the director-designer's concept of the play.

The series begins Tuesday afternoon, October 13, at 5:00, in Thompson 106, with the make-up presentation. Since animal and other non-realistic make-up is a specialty of Mrs. Corey's, live actors from TORTOISE will be brought in to show the building up of the animal face on the human features by make-up with the need of masks. Further, the slides and movies to be shown,many of them taken from the production of JOB, will provide an experience not to be forgotten, displaying her fine artistry in the use of tich je wel tones and the black interlining in the very striking stained glass motif.

On Wednesday morning, October 14 two more programs will follow but the location will be moved to the Campus Center, Room 163. The first, at 9:00 a.m., will deal with stage movement, going from realism to the kind of stylized movement, animal in one case, ritualized in another, which is demanded by the particular play. Following this at 11:00, in the same auditorium, the Coreys will give a joint presentation on developing the director-designer's overall concept of the play.

The Coreys and their troupe are seasoned performers of adult and children's theatre, both in this country and abroad. On leaving Amherst they will do one more performance of their choral reading, THE BOOK OF JOB, before leaving the country for several weeks' tour in Italy, the Netherlands, and England.

THE EVERYMAN PLAYERS will present The Tortoise And The Hare at Amherst High School after presenting a series of three workshops on campus showing their approach to the theater.

Theatre students and all others interested are invited to attend the workshops. Participation by students in at least two of the sessions is expected. The triple workshop promises an exciting and varied experience for those attending, while the fast-moving comedy presentation of TORTOISE at the high school auditorium will provide both an hour of relaxation and an immediate opportunity to see the Coreys' work at first hand.

Performance times of TORTOISE are 3:30 and &7:30 p.m on Tuesday. Admission is $1.00 for children and students, $1.50 for others. The workshops, sponsored jointly by the University Speech Department and the Fine Arts Council, are open to the public without charge.

Fine Arts

Guest Poets Read Their Own

Phyllis Thompson and James Seay will be the guest poets in a Poetry Reading to be held tonight at 8:15 p.m. in 231 Herter.

Sponsored by the Master of Fine Arts Program in English, the program will feature the authors reciting many of their best known works.

Phyllis Thompson, a chairman of the poetry program at the University of Hawaii, has published poems in "The Nation," "The Massachusetts Review", and the "Quarterly Review of Literature" as well as "Poetry Northwest" and "Voyages". Her first book of poems, "Artichokes and Other Poems", was published last year by the University of Hawaii Press.

James Seay, an Emily Clark Balch Prize winner in 1968, is a teller of tales and most of his poems contain a story or a hint of a story. Most poems in his first book "Let Not Your Hart"evoke in careful detail the land, the people, the language and the traditions of the American South where he was born and educated. Seay is now an assistant professor of English at the University of Alabama.

JAMES SEAY, noted poet, will present a reading of his words today at 8:15 p.m. in Herter 231. He is presented under the auspices of the Master's of Fine Arts Program in English.

C.C. Program Correction

The first production of the University Theatre will NOT be "Major Barbara," as listed in the Campus Center Program Council Calendar.

The first production of the University Theatre is "All the King's Men," a version of the Pulitzer Prize winning novel by Robert Penn Warren.

The schedule for performances is not as listed in the calendar. "All the King's Men," will be performed October 21-24 (Wednesday through Saturday). All performances will be at 8:30 in Bartlett Auditorium. Tickets may be purchased at the door or reserved at the Bartlett Box Office from October 13 through October 24. Admission is $1.75.

BEER TALK
by Ed McMahon

In which the candid connoisseur answers questions about Beer, and the drinking of same.

DEAR ED: Every now and then, I see guys putting salt in their beer. What's it all about?

ALFIE

DEAR ALFIE: I'll tell you what it's about . . . it's about to drive me crazy! Now, I have nothing against salt. On hard-boiled eggs. Or french fries. But not in my Bud.

Putting salt in beer, some say, perks up the head . . . or livens up the taste . . . makes the beer "drier." With Budweiser, though, all salt can do is make it salty. Because Bud is already just about perfect.

So save the salt for the popcorn, please. We put heart, soul and our exclusive Beechwood Ageing into Budweiser. All you need to enjoy it is a glass . . . or drink it right from the can, if that's your bag . . .

Beer questions? Write: Ed McMahon, Anheuser-Busch, Inc., 721 Pestalozzi St., St. Louis, Mo. 63118

Budweiser
KING OF BEERS

ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC. • ST. LOUIS • NEWARK • LOS ANGELES • TAMPA • HOUSTON • COLUMBUS • JACKSONVILLE • MERRIMACK

IMMEDIATE ATTENTION TO EMERGENCY REPAIRS
CONTACT LENS SUPPLIES ALL KINDS
MATCHLESS SELECTION OF FASHION-RIGHT FRAMES
WIRE FRAMES LOTS!
Amherst Optical Shoppe
196 North Pleasant St., Amherst
Tel. 256-6463

Notices

ANIMAL SCIENCE CLUB
There will be a brief meeting Tues., Oct. 13th at 7:30 Room 102 Stockbridge Hall, followed by a trip as a club to one of the barns. All interested persons urged to attend. Wear old clothes.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST
College life, Wed. night, Van Meter, 8 P.M. Jim Timmins and Co. -social worker and rock group- refreshments.

CEQ
There will be a meeting Wed., Oct. 14th at 8:00 Campus Center 175 for all those interested in obtaining National Science Foundation environmental research grants. For more information call Gary 6-7933.

COLLEGIATE FLYING CLUB
Ground school Wed., night 7:30 PM, Room 802 Campus Center. Anyone and everyone welcome. Theory of Flight discussed in depth.

CVSP-PSYCH COUNCIL
Meeting 8:15 PM, Oct. 15th in New Hatch (S.U.) to discuss undergraduate advising, teacher eval., and the libido.

ECONOMICS DEPT
View Huelga, the film depicting the grape pickers' strike led by Cesar Chavez, Tues., Oct. 13th, Thompson 102, 7:30 PM.

ECONOMICS 125 SECTION 24
Econ 125, Section 24 will meet at 10 A.M., Tuesday, Oct. 13th at 1:00 PM, in Room 919 of Thompson Tower.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
Meeting Tues., at 6:30 in Room 162 Campus Center. The Executive Board will meet at 6:00 P.M.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
Pledge meeting on Wednesday in Room 801 Campus Center at 6:00 PM.

HEYMAKERS SQUARE DWNCE CLUB
The regular square dance and beginners classes will be held in the Student Union Ballroom, Oct. 13th at 7:30 to 10:30 PM.

HOMECOMING PUBLICITY COMMITTEE
There will be a mandatory meeting for the publicity committee on Tues., Oct. 13th at 8:00 in Room 172 Campus Center, everyone must attend.

MATH DEPARTMENT
Math majors are invited to an informative and entertaining lecture designed specially for you-partially Eudidean Geometry, by R.Douglass, Oct. 13th at 3:30, Arnold House Lounge.

MILITANT FORUM SEMINAR
Discussion of Engels, Socialism: Utopia and Scientific which is available at the Young Socialist Alliance table in front of the Hatch. Colonial Lounge, 8 PM, Weds., Oct. 14th. All welcome.

MOVEMENT FOR A NEW CONGRESS
There will be a meeting of the Movement for a New Congress on Tuesday, Oct. 13th. It will be held in the Campus Center, room 905 at 8 PM. All interested please attend.

NAIADS
Meeting tonight 4:30-6PM. All urged to attend to try new stunts.

NEWMAN CLUB
Last chance to sign-up for hayride, Oct. 16th at 7:30 PM in Secretary's Office at Newman Center.

NORTHAMPTON VA HOSPITAL COMPANION PROGRAM
Give some time to helping others-Volunteer at the V.A. Hospital, Monday evenings or Thursday afternoons. Call Bonnie for info and rides, 549-1705, 253-9008.

RAFI
All students are invited to our meeting, Oct. 14th, Wed., 8:00 Room 162 Campus Center. Agenda: introduction to new members, programming, strategy, and info on Fourth World National Liberation.

RECREATION SOCIETY
There will be a meeting of the Rec. Society in 804-808 of the Campus Center at 7:30 on Wednesday night, Oct. 14th. Everyone is welcomed.

SCIENCE FICTION SOCIETY
General business meeting Thursday, Oct. 15th at 7:00 PM in Science Fiction Library. All members urged to attend.

SKI CLUB
Old and new members welcome at meeting tonight at 8:00 PM in Mahar. This year's members get 1 year subscription to "Ski" Magazine plus many other benefits. Elections will be held and movies.

TEACHER EVALUATION
Come, need HELP, room 805 Campus Center tonight at 8:00 P.M., October 13th.

WOMEN/KARATE
Women's Karate meets every Sunday, 3:00 PM, and Tuesday, 7:00 PM in the Commonwealth Roon, S.U. All sisters welcome.

WOMEN'S LIBERATION
There will be a general meeting to discuss new or old business. The meeting will later break down into action groups, Wednesday, Oct. 14th at 6:00 in Room 174-176 Campus Center.

UMASS STUDENTS FOR SARGENT/DWIGHT
Contact Gerry Colella 233 Moore, 546-5344. For unexperienced barbers Gerry will give lessions.
Canvass for Governor Sargent: Contact canvassing co-chairmen, Jane Graham, 236 Moore, 546-5345; Gerry Colella 235 Moore, 546-5344.

UMASS WOMEN'S SKI TEAM
Meeting for old and new members, Tuesday, Oct. 13th at 7:00 PM in front of Hatch in S.U. All persons interested please attend or call 6-7442.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS
Meeting 7:00 PM, Tuesday Oct. 13th, room 908 Campus Center, Exec. meeting at 6:30 PM.

YOUNG SOCIALIST ALLIANCE
Militant forum and seminar meets Wed., Oct. 14th at 8 PM in the Colonial Lounge of S.U.-Engel's "Socialism, Utopian and Scientific" will be discussed. Books may be picked up at the YSA table in the S.U. lobby on Wednesday.

HOCKEY CHEERLEADERS
All practices will be held on Tuesdays 4:30-6:30 in the CC Ballroom.

INTEGRAL YOGA INSTITUTE
There will be a general meeting of anyone interested in the Integral Yoga Institute in rm. 904-908 CC from 6-7 p.m. today. The Hatha class is canceled in lieu of the meeting.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
Christian Science can be used to solve everyday problems. Hear how other students used the message of Christian Science at our meeting tonight at 6:45 in room 911-915, Campus Center.

YPSL
Will meet in Machmer W-26 on Tuesday Oct. 13 at 8 p.m. Paul Sheinkopf will speak on participation in the White campaign.

YOUNG WORKERS LIBERATION LEAGUE
Y.W.L.L. next Marxist-Leninist educational will be on Wednesday, Oct. 21st (time and room to be announced.) Topic will be : The Working Class. Suggested reading: The Communist Manifesto. Everyone welcome.

LOST
Green wool jacket with brown leather buttons. Please call Sarah 546-6451.
Men's silver self-winding Timex watch, between library and intramural fields. Please call Dick Lavigne, 2211 John Adams, 546-8919.
Black umbrella in 201 Bartlett last week. If found please return to Kathy in 420 Knowlton.

FOUND
Sterling silver tie clip from Siam, check S.U. lost and found.
One key chain with initials RCV on campus, check S.U. lost and found.
Very young polite male black dog with white on chest, in Cance 232, call 6-5043.

☆ Only ☆ certain Americans can buy new Freedom Shares
☆ ASK WHERE YOU WORK OR BANK ☆

MEET
JOHN M. CALLAHAN
Democratic Candidate for District Attorney
Franklin - Hampshire Counties
STUDENT UNION COLONIAL LOUNGE
October 14 10 - 11:30 a.m.
— Young — Experienced — Progressive — SUPPORT JOHN M. CALLAHAN

Overseas Scholarships Available

Although the number of scholarships offering the opportunity for study and research abroad is less now than ten years ago, students with a high academic record should consider applying for the various scholarships available. Among these are Rhodes, Marshall, and Fulbright Scholarships.

The Rhodes Scholarships, one of the oldest and most prestigious types of scholarships in the world, are awarded each year to thirty-two persons for study and research at Oxford University for two years in a variety of different fields. Applicants must be single men, U.S. citizens, between the age of 18 and 24, and have at least junior standing when they apply. Qualifications include outstanding academic ability, qualities of leadership, and "physical vigor."

Marshall Scholarships, established after World War Two by Great Britain in gratitude to the United States for its aid in Britain's post-war recovery, are awarded annually to 24 men and women for advanced study in most academic fields at a British university for two years. Applicants must be U.S. citizens, may be married, should be under 25, and must have completed their Bachelor's before taking up the scholarship.

Fulbright awards are for one year only and support graduate study in a number of foreign countries. Selection criteria include a superior academic record, proficiency in the language of the country where the student applies to study, and a well-defined program of study that would benefit from being pursued abroad. Rhodes, Marshalls and Fulbrights all pay international travel costs and tuition and provide a relatively generous living stipend.

Students interested in applying for Fulbright Scholarships should see Professor Peter Fliess in the Department of Government. Those interested in Rhodes or Marshalls should see Mrs. Barbara B. Burn, Director of International Programs, 229 Whitmore. Deadlines for applying for Rhodes, Marshalls an Fulbrights are imminent.

The International Programs Office also has information on other scholarships for study abroad including: 15-20 George C. Marshall fellowships for up to one year's postgraduate study in Denmark of $3,000; Sweden's Scholar Incentive Program for three undergraduate or graduate students for one year's study in Sweden; various graduate student awards offered by the American-Scandinavian Foundation for study in Iceland, Denmark, Finland, Sweden and Norway; the Saint Andrew's Society scholarhsip of $3,750 for a male student of Scottish descent to pursue graduate study at a Scottish university for one year; Rotary Foundation awards for one year of graduate or undergraduatestudy abroad; 250-300 Alexandcr von Humboldt Foundation research and teaching fellowships offered on a world-wide basis to post-doctoral scholars to pursue research projects in Germany for 6-12 months; and IREX grants for advanced doctoral students to pursue research in the Soviet Union or Eastern Europe.

Applications Open for Oxford

By Joy Mallett
Staff Reporter

Applications are now available for the 1971 Summer Seminar at Trinity College, Oxford, England, June 15 to Aug. 12.

Dr. Ernest Hofer, director of the program, reports that the seminar is open to a limited number (120) of both graduate and undergraduate students. He said that, in the past, students have represented as many as 51 colleges and universities. This year, applications have also been sent to schools throughout Europe so as to add to the diversity of student backgrounds.

He cites a feature of the seminar as the opportunity to study with the Oxford dons, and to have access to the research facilities of Bodleian Library. Besides the classroom instruction in English Literature, each student is encouraged to establish tutorial contact with an instructor outside of class.

"A student has the opportunity to develop his own interests. His own initiative is therefore important," he added.

Before studies begin on June 30 at Tririty, students have the chance to take part in free or organized travel in the United Kingdom or on the Continent. The travel period ends with four days and three nights in London.

To be eligible for the program, each student must present a course transcript, a listing of courses for the school year 1970-1971, and a letter of recommendation from an English professor. Each candidate must be interviewed by the selection committee, which expects a B average (3.0) in English or related courses, and 15 hours of similar courses by June, 1971. In addition, the student must be 20 years of age by June, 1971. He need not be an English major.

The $850 cost of the program includes air transportation, tuition, board, linen, and three nights in a London hotel with theater tickets. Limited financial aid is available to accepted undergraduates from Umass.

Applications are available in Bartlett, Room 160. Deadline is Jan. 15, 1971.

MINUTES AWAY VIA I-91 TO RT-5
REDSTONES
Showcase Cinemas, 7-213
RIVERDALE RD. W. SPFLD.
1 R JOE Mon.-Fri. 2-7:35-9:50 Sat. & Sun. 1-30-3:50 5:35-7:35-9:40
ACRES & ACRES FREE PARKING
2 G DARLING LILI Mon.-Fri. 2-7:20-9:50 Sat. & Sun. 2-5:30 7:20-9:50
WIDE SPACE COMFORT LOUNGE ROCKERS
CATCH-22 R Mon.-Fri. 2-7:30-9:55 Sat. & Sun. 1-4:30-7:30-9:55
3 GROUP RATES
CALL 413-733-5131

NITE
FOR THE LADY
TUESDAY 9 - 12 P.M.
The English Pub
5 East Pleasant Street
Amherst

WANTED:
Awful Waffle King & Queen
Prerequisite:
a) human
b) send in application
Reward:
dinner for two at Top of Campus Restaurant
CHOOSE ONE:
King ☐ Queen ☐
Name .....
Address .....
Telephone .....
Please deposit application in box at Scheduling Desk (2nd Level, C.C.) before 5 p.m., Friday, Oct. 16.
Winners will be announced at Spaghetti Strainer Ball
WAFFLE LUCK!

Frosh Soccer Fortunes Looking Up, Booters Win Opener Over Tufts, 3-1

By STEVE FERBER
Staff Reporter

MEDFORD - On a cold and drizzly Saturday morning, the freshman soccer team scored a 3-1 victory over a junior varsity squad at Tufts University. Mark Tyma was the offensive stand-out scoring two unassisted goals while assisting on the third, as Jeff Stanwood, the center halfback, excelled on defense.

In what was an extremely even game, Coach David Jekanowski termed the victory as "very fortunate" and thought that things were looking up for this year's team.

The first half of action saw a great deal of mid-field play as neither team scored. The only concentrated dominance was at the start of the second quarter, when Tufts kept the ball in UMass's territory for over five minutes. But UMass was the team to get the better of shots on goal, as the far post was hit with just 45 seconds remaining in the first quarter on the Redmen's closest attempt.

A halftime change in the offensive alignment seemed to do something as UMass completely dominated the action throughout the first half of the third quarter. Finally UMass' efforts paid off when, at 15:20 of the period, Mark Tyma corner-kicked the ball into the far corner of the goal, and UMass led 1-0.

The freshmen kept the heat on and, with just 29 seconds to go in the third quarter, a pushing violation was called on Tufts. This enabled Mark Tyma to take the first and only penalty kick in the game and, from right out in front, he rammed the ball home into the left corner; UMass 2, Tufts 0.

With UMass charging, one more goal looked like all it needed. But, with only 1:25 gone in the final quarter, the tide suddenly shifted. The Tufts fullback drilled a direct kick towards the UMass goal. Goalie Beggs lunged for it, but the combination of a slick ball and a powerful drive saw the ball trickle away and into the goal. The outstanding Tufts fullback brought the score to 2-1 with over 20 minutes remaining.

But Tufts, which had won its first contest of the year by a 2-1 margin, was put out of contention at 16:35 of the period when Bruce Sibson knocked in a Tyma corner kick for the third and final Redman score.

The defense, which was outstanding all day long, was led by the fine play of Jeff Stanwood, the center halfback, who played all but six of the 88 minutes. Holding Tufts to only 16 shots on goal in 88 minutes took an extra hard effort due to the fact that the game was played on a shorter-than-regulation field.

The offensive change at halftime appeared to do the trick as coach Jekanowski commented, "Our defense was very strong today and our man-to-man assignments on defense worked very well. Our offense finally started to jell in the second half and, of course, we got some breaks in what was a pretty even game."

Knocking off a Junior Varsity team at the start of the season does wonders for moral. The apparent strength of this well-balanced and high-keyed unit appears to be defense. But the shuffling of three man offensive units in the second half may be the team's future key to success. On Thursday the frosh will face Worcester Polytech at home in their quest for victory number two.

Ruggers Blank Hartford, 8-0

Hartford Rugby Club's scrappy ruggers gave the more potent and skilled UMass ruggers ample trouble before bowing to the Redman power this past weekend, 8-0.

The afternoon was frustrating for UMass. It was always in control of the game but was never able to move the ball with any consistency as the game was marred by repeated infractions.

The Redmen scored midway through the first half when they gained possession of the ball from a loose ruck. The ball moved down the UMass back line to Steve Wyeth who broke through for 70 yards and a try. Dale Touhy converted and the score at half-time was 5-0.

The UMass XV came out fiercely in the second half and kept Hartford deep in its own territory for the greater part of the half. Not once in the second half did Hartford penetrate beyond the Redman 25-yard line.

The early assault by the UMass forwards resulted in a penalty against Hartford as one of its backs held onto the ball after being tackled. Had he not held, the Redmen would have had another try bout, as things went, Touhy scored on a penalty kick from 15 yards out to set the score at 8-0.

The remainder of the game was spent with Hartford defending itself within ten yards of its own goal. Neither Hartford nor UMass was able to get good ball, either to clear the ball from the defensive zone or to mount a serious offensive attack.

The two bright spots in the game were Wyeth's run and some aggressive tackling on the part of the Redman forwards. The potential of backs such as Mike Bull, Jack Long and Peter Harrison was never tested since these three rarely had the ball. Much improvement will have to come about during this week before UMass' A team faces Tufts at home on Saturday.

The UMass B XV travelled to Cambridge Sunday, taking on a very large Harvard Business School XV and tying it, 6-6. The B's swept out to a 6-3 halftime lead on the basis of remarkable play by novice wing, Frank Buckawski. He kicked a penalty goal and later in the half scored a try.

Steve ,cMcElroy suffered a concussion late in the half and had to leave the game. The Redman ruggers then had to play shorthanded for the rest of the game.

FRISBEE-Fraternity

Sigma Alpha Mu will sponsor a frisbee tournament on Sunday, Oct. 18, at 12 noon behind the Student Union. The competition will be open to any two-member team which registers today or tomorrow in the S.U. Lobby. Complete information regarding the affair and all the rules can in the S.U. Lobby.

* * *

WOMEN'S SKI-A meeting of old and aspiring members of the UMass women's ski team will be held today at 7 P.M. in front of the Hatch in the Student Union. Plans for training will be discussed. All interested persons are urged to attend.

IM X-Country Results

Top Individuals:
1. James Lawrence (Maroons)
2. Peter Crisci (Oxfords)
3. Mike Cowles (Browns)
4. Brad Powell (Pied Pipers)
5. Dale Touhy (Grad-Fac)
6. Don Hammond (Pied Pipers)
7. Wayne Lucers (Bucks)
8. Edward Estes (Bucks)
9. Steve Ware (Bucks)
10. Clyde Rebeiro (Bucks)

Top Teams: Overall-
1. Bucks-34 pts.
2. Pied Pipers-39 pts.
3. Browns-117 pts.
4. LCA-135 pts.
5. SPE-144 pts.
6. PSD-150 pts.
7. Bulldogs-204 pts.

Top Teams: Fraternity-
1. LCA-135 pts.
2. SPE-144 pts.
3. PSD-150 pts.
4. KS-212 pts.
5. DC-238 pts.
6. EAE-267 pts.
7. TC-272 pts.

Top Teams: Dormitory
1. Pied Pipers-39 pts.
2. Butterfielders-303 pts.
3. Senators-351 pts.
4. Maroons-371 pts.
5. Panthers-410 pts.
6. Seagrams-559 pts.

Top Teams: Independent-
1. Bucks-54 pts.
2. Browns-117 pts.
3. Bulldogs-204 pts.
4. Oxford-253 pts.
5. 3 M's-353 pts.
6. Tubes-489 pts.
7. BT-867 pts.

Frye - Verde - Nunn Bush

Trim and Tailored or Rough and Ready

THE BOOT CELLAR
at
BOLLES
8 Main Street

sPoRts ShoRTiEs

— AP —

BOSTON (AP) - Tony Conigliaro was shocked at being traded and surprised that the Boston Red Sox didn't get more for him, but the young outfielder also saw some advantages to playing in California, his father said yesterday.

Sal Conigliaro was the one who told his son the news when he picked Tony up at the airport Sunday night as he returned from a speaking engagement in Connecticut.

"As soon as he looked at me he knew there was something wrong," Sal said. "I told him he's been traded and he said, 'you're kidding - it's impossible.' "

Sal said Tony then asked what club and for whom, and when he learned the particulars of the six player deal in which he, catcher Gerry Moses and pitcher Ray Jarvis went to the Angels for relief ace Ken Tatum, outfielder Jarvis Tatum and infielder Dough Griffin, he was again incredulous.

"How many years do you get out of a relief pitcher?" the elder Conigliaro quoted his son as saying. "How long do they last?"

* * * * *

BOSTON (AP) - Defenseman Bobby Orr and forward Eddie Westfall were given medical okays yesterday to accompany the Boston Bruinson a trip to the West Coast for three National Hockey League games.

Orr, who led the NHL in scoring with 120 points last season, and Westfall, one of the game's top penalty killers who takes a regular turn at wing, suffered charley horses Sunday night in the Bruins' 7-3 victory over the Detroit Red Wings.

Precautionary X Rays on Orr's right leg were negative and he underwent extensive treatment yesterday. Westfall attempted to practice with the ecclub but was forced to quit in favor of treatment.

Derek Sanderson, the flamboyant mustachioed center, worked out with the team and will go on the trip. He ended a stubborn heoldout Sunday afternoon but sat out the opener against Detroit.

Defenseman Don Awrey, hobbled by pulled thigh muscles since the start of training last month, also worked out. However, he will be left home to work his way into condition.

* * * * *

NEW YORK (AP) - Mike Siani, Villanova's split end who caught 10 passes for 151 yards in a 17-7 victory over Buffalo last weekend, was named yesterday to the weekly Eastern College Athletic Conference Division I all star football team.

Other outstanding offensive performers included fullbacks Marty Januszukiewicz of Syracuse and Dick Narcessian of Rhode Island and halfback Ed Marinare of Cornell.

* * * * *

BOSTON (AP) - The Boston Celtics Monday placed rookie forward Jon McKinney on waivers and first year guard Rex Morgan on the injured list in reducing the squad to 12 members for Boston's National Basketball Association opener tonight against the New York Knicks.

Morgan, a second round draft pick from Jacksonville, fractured a finger on his left hand Thursday in an intrasquad game. He will miss at least five games, the Celtics said.

McKinney, a 6 foot forward from Norfolk State, was a fourth round draft pick.

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

1970 Honda SL/90 $350. Call Janet 584-5700, X301. tf10-13

Mobile home 10 x 55 Detroiter deluxe on lot in Orange, Mass. 24 easy miles from Amherst. Price $3900. Call 617-544-6036 anytime. tf10-13

FROM THE 1970's! Clothing, shoes, beaded bags, and velvet maxi-coats at Mizzar's Mercantile, next to Amherst Towers. tf11-23

Pioneer, Teac, Garrard, FE Astec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, LP's, 8 track and other necessities. Amherst Audio. tf12-23

Female black cocker spaniel, champion sired. AKC registered, with shots. $75 or best offer. 256-6077. tf10-14

650 Tiger Triumph Motorcycle, 1970, 2 months old, excellent condition, 3000 miles, maintained and tuned regularly, $1100, call 549-6196. tf10-13

1968 Honda 50, excellent condition, only 450 miles $130. Call Connie at 6-5308. tf10-13

Turn your house into a home with a dorm-trapped 2 mo. old black female Labrador-Shep. Needs home off campus. Inquire 6-6960. tf10-13

Why spend more? If you want to buy something, buy it cheap! See us first and save. Call 6-8065, ask for Chief or Scott. 10-6-8-12-14

Stereo components, tape decks, complete systems, compacts etc. for certain savings and very big selection. Call Al 253-9396, Don 549-6408.

Class ring, 71, white gold, smooth stone, barely worn. Why pay more? Only $59. Call Barry 549-1862. 10-13

POSTER COLLECTORS
SAN FRANCISCO ROCK CONCERT POSTERS
Full color. Out of print. Full size originals, from the Fillmore Auditorium... Guaranteed highest quality or money refunded. Originally cost $1.50 ea. Limited offer 6 for $4.95. We pay postage. Arbuckle Bros., 3871 Piedmont Ave., Oakland, Ca. 94611. 10-8-13-15

FOR SALE — AUTOS

1964 VW bus, 20 thou. original miles on engine, trans., front end and brakes, body fair, asking $300. Call Alan 584-4692. tf10-13

1965 Triumph TR4, new top and front tires, very dependable. Must sell. Call George 545-0174 evenings. tf10-16

57 Chevy 2 dr, R & H, automatic, one owner, maintained in excellent condition, $260. Will install tires to pass inspection, $710 as is. Phone Greenfield 772-6138. tf10-19

1968 Ford for sale, good shape, $50. Call 584-6076. tf10-14

1961 Dodge, ¾ ton pickup, engine very good, must sell, no reasonable offer refused. Call Stash 253-9419. 10-13

Must sell 1963 Mercury, excellent condition, 2 dr., HT, V8, automatic, power steering, power brake, radio, new tires, water pump and battery. Asking $150. Call 253-7549. tf10-16

69 Camaro Conv. Lemans, blue with white top, 4 speed Hurst, V8, AM radio, $2,150 or best offer. Will trade for comparable Jeep, Land Rover or Land Cruiser. Call Ron 253-9073. tf10-13

WANTED

Ride wanted from Providence, R.I. to UMass every Sunday starting Oct. 18 - will share expenses. Ann 6-5183 keep trying tf10-14

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthology. Please include stamped return envelope. Idlewild Press, 1807 East Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

Need someone to sell stereo equipment. All brands 20 per cent discount. I do bookkeeping, you take 80 per cent profit. Bob Tyler, 21 Gladden, Williamstown, 458-4337. tf10-13

Wanted: Volunteers to man local Democrat headquarters afternoons, evenings. Little or lot. Your aid is appreciated. If interested please call 253-3083 tf10-15

SERVICES

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car, 197 No. Pleasant St. 256-8135. tf12-23

ROOMMATES WANTED

Person over 21 to share 3 room apt. in Northampton. $40 mo. — LC 4-8215, Pete. tf10-13

HELP WANTED

Ambitious couple who need more income. Unusual opportunity for good earnings for both. Works together, part-time or full time. Car necessary. Phone 1-413-774-3387 between 7 - 9 p.m. tf10-16

PERSONAL

John Callahan, Democratic candidate for District Attorney, Franklin-Hampshire County, wants to meet you. Student Union, Colonial Lounge, Oct. 14, 10 - 11:30 tf10-13

— It's up. Come and get it. 2nd floor, Cance. 10-13

Warm bodies for hire for Chemistry 111 Lectures. Varying rates according to lecturer. Call Mary 6-7066 or 6-8390. tf10-13

To J. and R. Buck — "Grow up — we did!" The Flaming A's of Towlhouse 61 10-13

VAN

1963 Chevy Van, Greenbriar, 9 seat, new clutch, needs minor repairs. Must sell, $375 or best offer. Call Rich at 367-2778. tf10-16

Neither Team Able To Capitalize As Foibles Mark Forgettable Title

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

Can anyone remember Saturday afternoon's football game between UMass and Boston University played at Alumni Stadium? One is likely to have already forgotten about this one not because it was a long time ago (a mere three days past), but because it was such a listless, crummy game.

No one team ever took control of the tilt, neither side really deserved to win although BU managed to score more points (13 to UMass' 10). Each squad had three regular-season games under its belt going into the action; yet both the Redmen and the Terriers made numerous mistakes.

UMass fumbled the football three times with the opposition recovering two of the miscues. BU fumbled four times with the Redmen recovering three of them. The Terriers also had two passes intercepted while the home team had one picked off. In the penalty department, the Redmen were embarrassed by eight infractions, costing them 86 yards; BU only lost five yards on one red flag.

The most frustrating thing about these mistakes was the fact that neither team really capitalized on them. The instances are many. Late in the first period UMass fumbled away the ball on its own 20 yard line only to have the Terriers fumble back two plays later on the first down of the second quarter.

At this point the Redmen put forth their best effort after a BU error but, alas, they were 88 yards from pay dirt when they took control of the pigskin. They muscled their way to the visitors' 24 yard strip before being set back by a 19-yard penalty. Three plays later the drive died on a wide field goal attempt.

In order to firmly establish a pattern for the rest of the afternoon, Boston U. fumbled in six plays after the missed FG, and UMass had its mitts on the pigskin just 22 yards away from the end zone. But, on a fourth-and-one from the BU 15, the Redmen came up short.

Two plays into the second half, the Terriers came through with a third fumble. The Redmen, with the aid of an 18-yard infraction, retreated 22 yards and punted. However, in two plays again, BU gave back the ball on a pass interception.

Although UMass' punter John O'Neil tried to change the mood of the game by running for 27 yards and a first down instead of kicking the thing or fourth down, the offense lost 13 yards in three plays and there he was back on the field; he punted this time.

Right here, the Terriers should have been given some sort of an award for consistency for, in two plays, yes, two plays, they surrendered an interception. Three plays saw an equally consistent Redman offense lose 36 yards; on fourth down it punted.

Two mistakes were yet to come. UMass would fumble and be intercepted. After the fumble, BU placed a field goal through the uprights, to break a 10-10 tie. Shortly after the interception, the Terriers went back to Boston. And today is Tuesday, Oct. 13 and who can ever figure out a football game like that one...that...the one on Saturday...with...a...a...oh yeh...UMass and Boston University.

MORE TO SAY ABOUT NOTHING - After the affair, UMass head coach Vic Fusia took the blame for the 13-10 loss on his own shoulders..."I was going to rest on ten points, but I said, 'The hell with it!' and went for the win (which resulted in the pass interception and the BU fieldgoal that broke the 10-10 deadlock), but we lost," he acknowledged...Reflecting on his and his team's performance, he spoke honestly about the offense, "We stopped any offensive movement on our own part.", about the penalties, "We'd penalize our own selves.", and about breaks, "We had 'em and they were gifts!"... He summed up the whole thing in one statement when he said, "It was a comedy of errors for us."...Halfback Pat Scavone didn't get the 30 yards he needed to move into third place on the all-time UMass career rushing list, but it was just as well for Saturday allowed no time for one to reflect on his own achievements...This may sound redundant but the Redman defense was on the beam again, allowing its opponent a total offensive picture of 179 yards in 76 plays...It was certainly good to see junior Denis Gagnon make his first field goal for UMass, a 42-yarder very early in the game... Gagnon received warm signs of appreciation from his teammates and the fans on hand...His field goal is the longest in Redman history, surpassing Marty Scheralis' 35-yarder in 1968 against Delaware and John Bamberry's boomer against Northeastern in 1961, also a 35-yarder...A couple of former UMass basketball notables were seen filtering throughout the crowd before the tussle in the persons of Dennis Chapman and Dick Samuelson.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

A horoscope is a map of the sky for an exact time and place. To synthesize or interpret it, human judgment is required. Machines simply do not suffice.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Heed your own counsel. Added independence is a requisite. Hope who try to tell you what to do may only be bolstering their own confidence. Stick to original plan. It's workable.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Visit individual who may be temporarily incapacitated. Be considerate. Patience and diplomacy serve as twin allies. Work in conjuction with established institutions.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Cooperate with Aries individual. Accent is on fulfillment of hopes and wishes. Accept social invitation. You could meet one who will play significant role.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Emphasis on career, professional endeavors, possibility of promotion. Study possibilities of getting into business for yourself. Aim at enhancing future security.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Favorable lunar aspect coincides with long-range thinking. Look to future; avoid brooding about the past. You get boost in morale. Member of opposite sex is involved.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): You may be somewhat mystified by responses of those close to you. Key is to remain aloof from petty jealousies. Do plenty of listening, but refuse to take sauce.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Avoid becoming involved in legal entanglements. Temptation is to slam door, think later. Overcome it. Use common sense. You pay for what you receive. Know this and act accordingly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): You may be pressed into special service. News affecting military status of someone to you could be featured. Financial plan, if workable, may appear subject to change. Be flexible.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Assert yourself. Be kind, but affirm in dealing with young persons. Check apparent minor discrepancies. Break through red tape. Time for creative action has arrived.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Accent on older individuals, the completion of assignments. Be aware of property values. Take nothing for granted. Verify facts, figures. Special communication provides valid data.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Forces tend to be scattered. Not easy to concentrate on specifics. Best to let others attend to details. Capricorn individual would be ideal at this time. Act accordingly.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Keep eye on possessions. Money is involved and some want to take advantage of you. Steer away from get-rich-quick schemes. Protect assets. Do some comparison shopping.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY breakthrough is on horizon. What has been restrictive you is removed. You are going places and will do things.

Copyright 1970, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Tonight's Intramurals

FOOTBALL

FIELD	TIME	TEAMS
1	6:30	Outhouse Tvs. Elephants
2	"	Lubees vs. Gregorians
3	"	Roadrunners vs. Smashers
4	"	Duchies vs. Deacons
5	"	Bulldogs vs. Colonels
6	"	GAK vs. Freaks
1	7:30	SAM vs. LCA
2	"	ZN vs. PMD
3	"	SPE vs. SAE
4	"	APO vs. PSD
5	"	BKP vs. TEP
6	"	DC vs. KS

		POSITION NORTH
1	8:30	1 vs. 2
2	"	3 vs. 4
3	"	5 vs. 6
4	"	Heroes vs. Gypsies
5	"	Turtles vs. Puckers
6	"	Tubes vs. Browns

TUG-O-WAR

PIT	TIME	TEAMS
2	8:00	Lambda Chi O vs. Dogs
2	8:15	Lesbians vs. Deacons
2	8:30	Alpha Chi Omega vs. Lovers

Booters Host Trinity

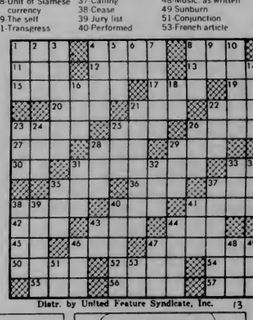
By EDWARD DOHERTY
Staff Reporter

When the UMass soccer team takes on Trinity College here this afternoon, a lot more will be at stake than just a win or a loss. The Redmen will be looking for their fourth victory of the season without a loss, and a chance to climb higher in the New England top ten.

Trinity however, also has ambitions similar to the Redman booters, and a victory for the Hartford school would probably push it past UMass in the ratings. As it this wasn't enough incentive to the Redmen, off to their best season in many years, the UMass soccer team has not defeated Trinity in over eight years.

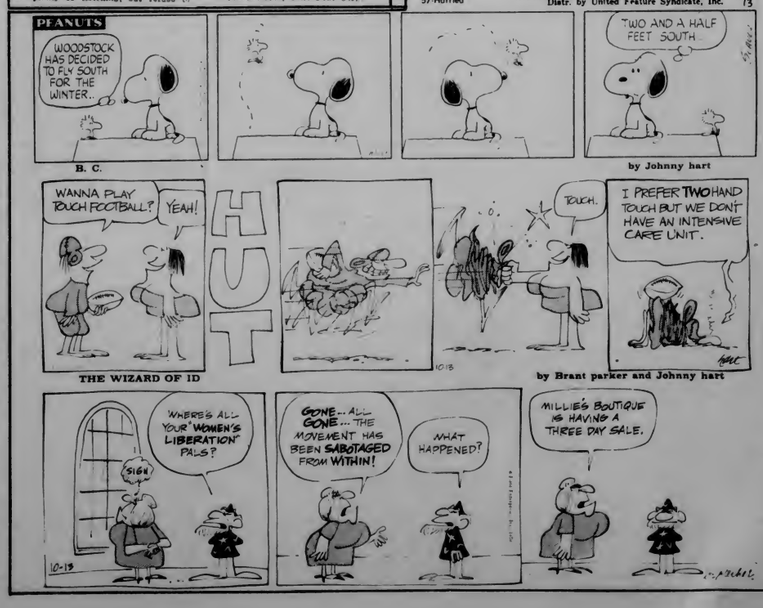
Both squads are coming into today's game with only two days rest. The UMass team worked out briefly on Monday morning, concentrating on adapting to the 4-2-4 system Trinity employs. (Four forwards, two halfbacks and four fullbacks, as opposed to the 3-3-4 system the Redmen use.) The booters also reviewed films of the first two home games against Maine and Connecticut and hopefully will be able to eliminate the mistakes which caused three Huskie goals on Saturday.

As a result of weekend action the Redmen find themselves in first place in the Yankee Conference with a 2-0 slate. Vermont, defending its 1969 crown is currently 0-0-4, an unusual record, although it is undefeated, it is also winless. Maine is next in line with a 2-1 record. A win today for UMass would be a major step towards recognition as a New England soccer power, a goal the entire team is out to achieve.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Friday's Puzzle



ACROSS
1 Moccasin
4 Bundle
8 Bitter vetch
11 Anglo Saxon money
12 Disturbance
13 Permits
15 Writing implement
17 Land of the free (init.)
19 Faroe Islands whirlwind
20 Canine
21 Poem
22 Hault
23 Servant
25 Imitate
26 Beasts of burden
27 Succor
28 Mature
29 Before
30 Symbol for yttrium
31 Safekeeping
33 Proceed
35 Small amount
36 Fuss
37 Uncouth person
38 Reach across
40 Devoured
41 Section of hospital
42 Make lace
43 High card
44 Weight of India
45 Preposition
46 Fruit seed
47 Bear witness to
50 Unit of Mexican currency
52 River in Germany
54 Greek letter
55 Parcel of land
56 Think
57 Hurried

DOWN
1 Parent (colloq.)
2 Exist
3 Prank
4 Ship's prison
5 Be ill
6 Behold!
7 Musical study
8 Guido's high note
9 Note of scale
10 Heating device
14 Observed
16 Food fish
18 Compass point
21 Manage
22 Chopping tool
23 A month
24 River island
25 Time gone by
26 Native metal
28 Unit of Siamese currency
29 The self
31 Transpress
32 Fruit drink
33 Long, slender fish
34 Unusual
35 Flying mammal
37 Ceiling
38 Cease
39 Jury list
40 Performed
41 Damp
43 Three-toed sloth
44 Stalk
46 Vessel
47 Man's nickname
48 Music as written
49 Sunburn
51 Conjunction
53 French article

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Soccermen Romp, Down UConn, 5-3

By STEVE MOSHER
Staff Reporter

There's a Big Red Machine in Amherst too, the Redman booters or, at least, such was the case Saturday morning when the UMass soccer team rolled to its third straight victory, blasting UConn, 5-3.

The win gives the Redmen a 2-0 Yankee Conference record and the needed momentum for this afternoon's game with Trinity. Trinity is always tough but, when the two teams face-off at 3:30, it will have to contend with a Redman offense that has totalled 13 goals already.

As was true in the Maine game, UMass ran off to an early lead, waited around for Connecticut to catch up, and then romped home with a win.

With just 2:22 played, UMass scored first on a fine play when Lindo Alves passed to Duane Brown in front of the net and the senior forward rammed home his fourth goal of the year.

UMass continued to press, keeping the ball in Huskie territory for the most part. Then at 6:32 UMass was presented with a corner kick. Augie Calheno took the ball and got off a great kick that passed in front of the net where Alves got his head on the ball and directed it into the net for the second score.

Now the Redmen let up a little with a two-goal lead and Connecticut forced the play. This paid off for the Huskies when Krasit scored from Ingliss at 17:58. This goal came on a rebound of a shot that the Redmen failed to clear.

At the end of the first period, it was UMass 2 - UConn 1, but the momentum was still with the Huskies. In the second 22 minutes, UMass had its chances but couldn't capitalize on them. Calheno set up a beautiful corner kick that was just headed away by the UConn defense. He also sent Larry DeFelice away on a break but the ball was just a shade behind.

All this UMass action resulted in nothing, but UConn did score on a defensive breakdown. At 17:04 Bevans put in a goal on about the fourth or fifth UConn try. The Redmen just couldn't clear the ball.

In the first half UMass had six shots on net to UConn's four. But in corner kicks, a good indication of offensive power, UMass had a 5-0 lead.

Half time was over and the Redmen started to work again. It resulted in two, third-period goals and several near misses. UMass went ahead to stay 3-2 at 3:45 when Brown made a spectacular head of an Alves pass. Brown and the goalie collided about five feet in front of the net, and Brown went crashing to the ground as the ball fell lazily into the corner of the goal.

Alves went to work a few minutes later and teamed up with Mark Cantor to completely frustrate the UConn goal-keeper. Alves eluded three or four defenders and worked the ball to the middle of the field. Just as the goalie committed himself, Alves passed to his left where Cantor was streaking in all alone and the senior forward rammed it into the vacant net.

Early in the fourth period, UConn brought its goalie all the way up to midfield in an effort to work up some offense. What this move worked up was another UMass goal. Again it was Alves who fired a long pass to DeFelice, who brought the ball up the right side of the field in a foot race with the Huskie goalie. DeFelice let go the shot from about thirty feet, but it was just going wide when Cantor blew in from his left wing to score his second goal of the game.

This final Redman goal was a picture play with two pairs of men racing stride-for-stride down the field. It took perfect timing and a great amount of luck to score but, with the offensive power the Redmen were showing, luck is something they really didn't need on Saturday.

At 7:45 UConn scored its last goal to make the score 5-3. Again it was Bevans who scored as he lofted a lazy shot over Bill Leary's head.

UMass had the advantage, 12-9, on shots on net for the game. And UConn had the advantage on goalie saves, naturally, 6-4.

For the Big Red Machine the offensive slate looks mighty impressive after just three games. Alves has five goals and three assists. Brown has five goals. Cantor has two goals and Agustin Penon1. Calheno, Todd, Buck, Jeff, Hague,,Rick, Matuszczak and DeFelice all have an assist.

The Redman defense is also impressive, allowing just four goals in three games. Saturday the defense was bolstered by the return of All-Yankee Conference star Paul Slack. Slack played a fine game, despite a bandaged arm that cut down his mobility.

Whatever it is that makes the UMass soccer team so exciting to watch had better be in full force this afternoon, because Trinity is no slouch of a team.

UMass wins this rush for the ball as the Redmen dominated play in their 5-3 win over UConn. (MDC photo by Gib Fullerton)

Field Goal Nips UMass, 13-10

By BARRY RUBENSTEIN
Assistant Sports Editor

Capitalizing on a fumble deep in UMass territory in the closing minutes of the contest, the Boston University Terriers downed the Redmen in a poorly played and listless game performed before 9500 quiet fans at Alumni Stadium Saturday, 13-10. UMass is now 1-3 while the Terriers are 2-2.

Mistakes were the story of the day as there were no less than eight miscues which resulted in either interceptions or fumbles. Add to this the fact that UMass was penalized eight times for 86 yards while BU was only bothered by one five yard penalty and you can see the general trend of the game. For most of the afternoon it seemed more of a question of which side wouldn't lose rather than which would win.

WAITING FOR THE BALL - UMass split end Steve Schubert (80) waits for a pass in Saturday's loss to BU. (MDC photo by Bob Mangiaratti)

UMass had some golden opportunities to win this one. But time and again the Redmen would get the ball in good field position only to be burnt by penalties or big losses. They simply could not take advantage of the opportunities. A good example of this occured at the outset of the fourth period.

The Redmen had driven from their own 27 yard line and after a 31 yard pass play from quarterback Ken Hughes to Scavone, they had a first and goal on the BU six. A TD at this point would have given UMass the edge, 17-7, and probably would have decided the issue.

But Saturday was not an ordinary day for the Redmen. After Dick Heavey had bulled for a couple to the four things began to happen. Hughes fell on a fumble at the five after a mix up in the UMass backfield. This made it third and goal at the five. Pat Scavone then went off tackle for three yards only to have his gain nullified by an offside penalty against the Redmen. On the next play, Mike Sawyer took a pitch from Hughes but was dumped for a five yard loss and UMass had a fourth and 15 on the 15. A pass from sophomore quarterback Steve Murray to Scavone was just overthrown and the Redmen had blown a beautiful chance to open up the game.

This was the story of a frustrating afternoon for UMass. It started off brightly enough as Denis Gagnon spiked a 35-yard field goal through the uprights with 1:43 gone in the opening stanza to put UMass on top, 3-0.

The Terriers then marched 65 yards on 13 plays with the ensuing kickoff and forged ahead when Tim Ryan went off left tackle for the game's only touchdown from scrimmage. Kicker Fred Rapoport, who proved to be an extremely important factor in the outcome of the contest, converted, and BU led, 7-3, at 7:43 of the first period.

The game proceeded with one team trying to hand the game to the other until the final minute of the half when the most exciting play of the game occured.

With BU faced with a fourth and ten at their own 26, punter Alan Durkovic boomed one which was taken by sophomore Steve Schubert at the UMass 34. The 5'10 split end took the ball on one hop, took a few steps down the middle and then broke for sideline behind some great blocking by his mates, especially Mark Leamy. He then raced down the left side and outran the opposition prancing into the end zone ten yards ahead of the nearest Terrier. It was a 66-yard return and with Gagnon's conversion gave the Redmen a 10-7 halftime lead.

The second half featured more mistakes and less scoring. The Terriers knotted the count at ten in the fourth period when Rapoport hit a 36-yard field goal at 7:05. The score capped a drive which had covered 85 yards in 15 plays. It looked like that might be all the scoring for the afternoon but neither coach seemed satisfied with a tie. This strategy turned into disaster for the Redmen.

With a second and one at their own 32, Murray went back attempting to pass. However, the inexperienced signal caller fumbled the ball and BU's Rick Versocki fell on it at the Redman 14. After three plays netted only one yard, Rapaport came on the field once again and with only 0:47 on the clock he booted one through from 29 yards to ice the decision for the Terriers.

A last minute pass by Hughes was intercepted by John Dwinnell and that was that.

It was a disappointing afternoon for Redman fans and especially for UMass coach Vic Fusia. Fusia, however, deserves some praise for his daring tactics late in the game. He was determined to go for the win and this decision cost the Redmen the game. But Fusia was the first to accept blame and with some better luck, he might have been accepting congratulations instead.

Harriers Take First Five Places As UMass Crushes UConn, 15-48

The UMass cross-country team ended a two year losing streak to arch conference rival, the University of Connecticut, in obliterating the Huskies 15-48, Saturday.

The Redmen bunched 15 runners in the top 19 spots on UConn's hilly 4.8 mile course. For the third race in a row Ron Wayne controled the race, taking the lead from teammate Larry Paulson about a mile from the start and moving away to win with a time of 24:49. Senior Leo Duart dashed off at the gun to his best start and ran his strongest race of the year finishing 33 seconds behind Wayne. Tom Jasmin and Tom Swain, both recovering from illness which forced them out of last weeks meet, ran 25:30 and 25:37 respectively to pick up third and fourth.

Co-captain Paulson held on from his fast start and capped his best race of the season by sprinting in two seconds behind Swain. UConn's captain John Cody finished next but it was too late to stop the UMass shotout, (which occurs when a team takes the top five places).

Only seconds after Cody crossed the finish, UMass' sixth and seventh men, Rick Barry and Bruce Blackburn finished the final stretch down the UConn track. Officially, no more UMass runners could be tabulated in the score but eight more Redmen finished before the Huskies final scorer took 20th place.

This was the first race that the Redmen runners put it all together and they are starting to shape up as a strong New Englandcontender.

The Little Redmen suffered their second straight defeat to a top class UConn club. The UMass harriers just fell short, 27-30, after getting off to a slow start which saw the Huskie frosh take the first ten spots for the first few hundred yards.

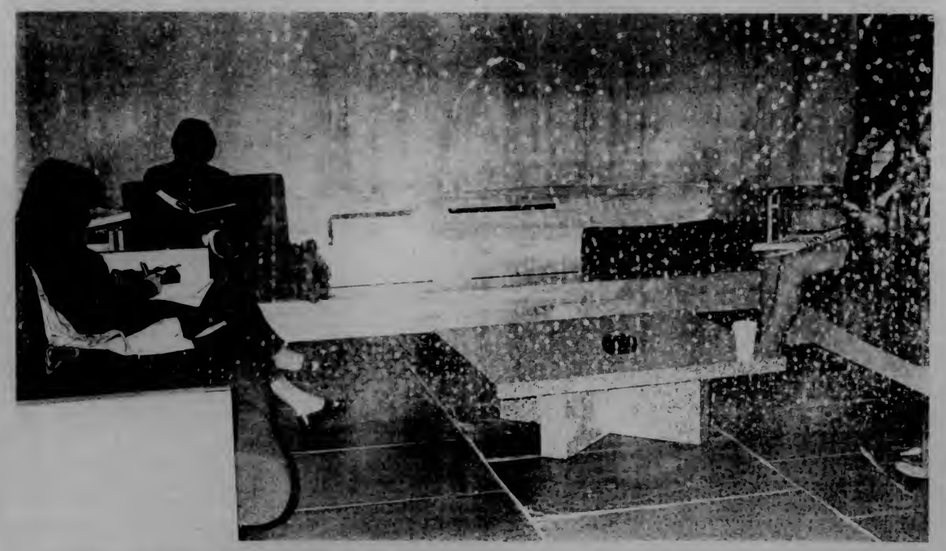
UConn's Peter Bortolotti took off fast and was never headed as he held on for the win covering the 3 mile course in 16:38. UMass' Doug O'Connell and Rich Sevigny grabbed second and third in 17:01 and 17:02. Bill Lowry turned in another good race and barely held on for fifth in a fast 17:11. John Nestor made the race close by picking up two UConn runners on the last hundred yards and took eigth in 17:33. Ted Beaulieu finished the Redmen scoring with an 11th place finish.

Both the varsity and frosh travel to the University of Rhode Island today for a tri-meet with URI and UVM. There will be two races both over the varsity distance of 4.75. The first race will be composed of the varsity B teams and the frosh and the second race will be composed of the top ten runners from the three schools.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 25 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1970

Angela Davis Arrested By F.B.I. In New York



Details, page two

S.W.A.P. Details Readied

Story, page two

Role of God In Society Discussed

See page three

AN ATTEMPT AT ELEGANCE AND COMFORT appears to be failing in the elegant and somewhat comfortable Campus Center. Cushions placed on wooden couches are slowly but surely disappearing causing some uncomfortable derrieres around the building. Campus Center officials will be attempting to rear back and attack the problem. (MDC photo by David Bernstein)

SHE'S SOMETHING SPECIAL - That's the slogan of Mary B. Newman, Republican candidate for Secretary of State who spoke to approximately 50 students yesterday in the Colonial lounge. Mrs. Newman, a veteran state legislator from Cambridge, sponsored several key bills, including the controversial house cut bill. The wife of a Harvard professor, Mrs. Newman hopes to unseat the incumbent Secretary John Davoren by making the office "A visible and responsive office for the people, something that hasn't been done in the past". Representative Newman also spoke briefly on Vice President Agnew's recent barrages and legislative action she has been involved in. (MDC photo by Gary Slickman)

Tri-Partite Retreat Planned Once More By SWAP Committee

By BETH GOODELL
Staff Reporter

In an attempt to open the lines of communication between students, faculty, and administrators at this University, the campus organization SWAP is now finalizing its plans for this year's conference. The Student Workshop on Activity Problems, SWAP, annually sponsors this session in which members of the three levels of the University community are brought together.

The main session is a three-day "retreat" in which approximately 75 students and 75 members of the faculty and administration meet together for a weekend of discussion. This year, as last, the workshop is to be held at a lodge in the Berkshire town of South Lee.

Meeting this year on the weekend of December 11, 12, and 13, the workshop will be entitled "Planning for UMass in the Future – Where Do We Go from Here?" During the days of discussion and speeches, many problems of the University will be aired, and attempts will be made to find the means of implementing changes or improvements. One of the main speakers will be President Wood, addressing himself to the future of UMass.

The Central Committee of SWAP has been working especially hard this year in order to make this workshop more effective than those in the past. Although the basic format of the weekend itself has not been changed, two new stages have been added to the conference.

The first of these additions is the planning of two pre-SWAP meetings. On November 22, there will be a general discussion of the format for all participants. People will be assigned to the areas in which they will concentrate for the weekend, based upon previous knowledge and experience in those areas. Lists of resources will be made available so that research can be done in better preparation for the weekend. Information will also be available, at this first meeting, on topics already covered in previous years, so that duplicity can be eliminated. There will also be a chance at this meeting to make additions to the list of topics to be covered.

A second pre-SWAP meeting will be held on December 11, the Thursday evening before the conference. This will be largely a social gathering at which the conferees can become acquainted with each other. Therefore, time will not have to be taken for this during the weekend itself, so the discussions will be able to be earlier.

Along with these two pre-SWAP meetings, a second new stage of the workshop is being stressed this year. This is the continuation of SWAP after the weekend meeting. In the past, one of the difficulties standing in the way of true success for SWAP was that of communicating its efforts and progress to the University.

A special effort is being made this year to prolong the discussions back on campus after the weekend meeting so that more people can become involved in this discussion of the University's problems and chances for reform. Participants will have to make the obligation to continue in February what they begin in December. The continuation may be much like the April 10 and 11 discussions held on campus last year.

The Central Committee, is now looking for people interested in participating in this year's conference. It is emphasized that these must be people willing to be involved in both stages of SWAP - the weekend conference and the continuation.

Any person who feels he can offer a particular expertise in some aspect of university life, based upon past involvement, is urged to apply for the SWAP program. An open invitation is extended to the faculty to apply and some specific invitations are made to them. The administrators who attend are generally selected by their departmental heads. There is a general application for according to their particular expertise, as described on their application.

Applications for the Student Workshop on Activity Problems will be available in the Student Activities Office on Level I of the Campus Center by this Friday; they are due back on Friday, October 30. Applicants will be notified of their acceptance by November 13.

Davis Nabbed

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP) - The FBI announced Tuesday night the arrest of Angeia Yvonne Davis, the admitted Communist sought in connection with an attempted California jail break in which a judge and two convicts were killed.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announced that Miss Davis was taken into custody in a New York motel early Tuesday evening.

The announcement said Miss Davis was wearing a dark jacket and skirt and a shorthaired wig. She was unarmed and offered no resistance.

Miss Davis was added on Aug. 18 to the FBI's list of Ten Most Wanted Fugitives. She has been accused of buying guns used in the attempt on Aug. 7 to free three San Quentin convicts undergoing trial in San Rafael, Calif.

She has been charged with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution ofstate charges of murder and kidnaping.

Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley, two of the convicts and the man who brought the weapon into the courtroom, Jonathan Jackson, were killed in a shootout.

The young native of Birmingham, Ala., already had shaken the University of California system in a controversy which lingers on.

Hired as an assistant Professor by the University of California at Los Angeles in 1969, she was fired by the university regents under a 30 year old policy against employing Communists.

She sued, got a county Superior Court ruling in her favor, and was allowed to teach in the 1969-70 term while the case was on appeal, as it still remains.

Liberal faculty members flocked to her support in the name of academic freedom.

The regents last June voted against renewing her contract, ruling that she was an incompetent teacher.

She insisted the real reason was that she was a militant Negro.

Faculty members said they would contribute to pay her salary equivalent and have her teach next fall in defiance of the regents.

Meanwhile, during the summer vacation, she embraced the cause of the so called Soledad Brothers.

The "brothers," not actually related, are three black convicts awaiting trial on charges of murdering a Soledad Prison guard last Jan. 16.

One of them, George Jackson, 28, is the brother of Jonathan Jackson, the escape shootout accomplice.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor).

Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times weekly following a vacation or exam period or [illegible] Subscription rates accepted for mail [illegible] under the [illegible] act of [illegible] by the [illegible] of [illegible] Publisher, Ltd.

E.L.F. Aims To Help Students, Education

By Stanley Olson
Staff Reporter

ELF is a group concerned with innovative changes in education and with helping students, isolated from a world they must face after graduation, find alternative life styles, according to Peter Strauss, its chairman.

Until Nov. 21, ELF, which stands for Education Liberation Front, will work with the UMass School of Ed Clearinghouse, as the group continues its tour of New England college campuses, Strauss said.

He added that ELF is connected with the Center for Educational Reform in Washington, D.C., which is related to the National Student Association.

The ELF bus, contains information "on every innovative project we know of," he continued. Serving as an aid rather than catalyst, Elf seeks to arrange a communications network among college groups setting up economically independent "counterinstitutions within their own cultural movement."

Explaining the purpose of the group. Strauss emphasized that living and learning cannot be separated and that ideally, students would "relate what they're doing in school to the community outside."

He cited co-operative stores, communes and "negotiated learning contracts" as examples of self- directed projects that help define the student community, as people "see needs and organize around them."

In the case of negotiated courses of study, which ELF sees as a possibility at UMass, students would have more say in making their education relevant to the role they want to assume in life, Strauss added.

"Reform means total reform," he said. "Grading changes alone in an authoratarian classroom are sometimes meaningless."

He added, "There is implicit politics in self-interest organizing. It generates a broad base of support but then runs into problems which reveal the nature of who you're up against."

He said students had a natural affiliation with their neighbors in the oppressed communities where they're often forced to live. Maintaining that high rent and high food prices were everybody's problems, he added that while it is difficult to open lines of contact with working-class people, it is important.

Of educational changes at UMass, he said the School of Ed was "together," Project 10 was "interesting" and Free University was "a fine thing but not ultimate, a stage."

Many students wish to stay committed to their life-styles when out of school, Strauss added, and ELF's efforts to aid this countermovement provide "a psychic atmosphere and support system."

MDC Hotline

[illegible]-2552

D.V.P. Lecture

Religion Has Declined In Society -- Cox

By PAT KING
Staff Reporter

"God is dead." That phrase has enjoyed a lot of use in the past few years as a result of the marked decline of organized religion in modern society. Dr. Harvey Cox, a professor at the Harvard Divinity School and one of the most important Protestant theologians, spoke as part of the D.V.P. Program in Thompson 104 last night. He is the author of the highly praised book, The Secular City, an analysis of Christianity's relationship to contemporary urban society.

In his book, which was written about six years ago, Cox predicted that God would indeed die and disappear from society. Last night, however, he retracted his old ideas and suggested instead the renaissance of religiosity in a completely different form with different objectives.

This transformation of religion has been shown lately by a renewed interest in Eastern religions and mysticism and the growth of communes centered around some sort of religion or cult. Cox contends, however, that the masses are intellectually unprepared for the comeback of religion. He attributes this to previous attitudes and teachings which are now undergoing revision.

Religion is now being seen as a possible ally for revolutionary movements. The church is not necessarily the power anymore, and in some cases it is even the opposition.

Many psychologists are now disagreeing with the Freudian position that religion is repressive and authoritarian. Instead religion is being regarded as giving meaning to life and adding necessary ritual to our disorganized society.

Religion, according to Cox will lead modern man to true liberation. He defines God as that spirit in man which struggles with him to liberate him from bondage. The role of religion in this liberation process has become the focal point of theology today.

Theologians are breaking away from organized churches to study the impact of various ideas on mankind in general.

Cox drew from the most important beliefs of the two major religions, Judaism and Christianity, to illustrate his point. The exodus of the Jews from Egypt, one of the main events in the Jewish heritage, suggests the liberation of man from all social and political bondage. Easter, one of the main events in the Christian religions, symbolizes man's liberation from sin, that which binds him to the past, and death, that which terrifies him of the future.

Here liberation is a concept which two otherwise contradictory religions have in common. Theologians must be aware of differences in doctrine but must also be aware of the more important elements of insight and agreement between religions.

One of the main barriers to true liberation is that the education system has over-developed the intellectual and analytic powers of the people, preventing them from accepting the simple joys of life. The growing interest in sensitivity groups has indicated this desire for re-education to humanity.

Following his lecture, Cox held a question and answer period. He ended on a hopeful note - that God is not dead but is in the process of rebirth to adapt Himself to modern society.

RELIGIOUS REVIVAL IN THE SECULAR CITY was the topic of DVP address by Dr. Harvey Cox, rising young theologian from Harvard who spoke before an estimated 200 persons in Thompson 104. (MDC photo by Rich McIntyre)

Not In Vein

DRACULA' DELIGHT - Red Cross officials are currently running a blood donor drive in the Student Union. Any students wishing to give blood can do so by signing at the Red Cross table during the day this week. (MDC photo by Gary Slickman)

The Students for Kennedy will be hosting a guest speaker tonight at 9 p.m. in the Campus Center, rooms 168, 170 and 172.

The featured speaker will be Mr. James Green, one of Senator Kennedy's Campaign Coordinators from his Boston office. The presentation will center around the different aspects of this years Senatorial Campaign, on the UMass campus, and throughout the state.

Honors Program Thriving But Still Understaffed

by Kerry Kelley
Staff Reporter

When the Honors Program started several years ago as a senior honors thesis program, it had one part-time secretary to help in its office. Today, with twice as many students from every class, the program still has only one part- time secretary.

This is just part of the problem a program runs into when working with inadequate funds that Dr. Emerson, head of the Honors Program, revealed in an interview last week. His program is now depending on student volunteers to help out in its Machmer office. But even this is not enough, he said.

Dr. Emerson explained that the situation is, in some ways, unavoidable. When the Board of Trustees approved the program in August of 1969, it was up to the state legislature to approve a sufficient financial budget, he said. But these are "lean years" for the University, as Dr. Emerson described them, and "the program's newness has made it vulnerable."

Some money was set aside for the Honors Program this year, explained Dr. Emerson, but this money had to be used to hire more teaching assistants instead. Dr. Emerson is understanding about this, however. He says that the larger enrollment of students, which the legislature wants, has created a pressing problem for the administration.

Dr. Emerson doesn't think that the problem of inadequate funds for his program can be solved in the immediate future: "The problem is a continuing one," he said, "Because what the University thinks should happen is seperate from what the legislature will provide to make it happen."

The head of the Honors Program won't, however, let this drawback stop him from accepting qualified students into the program. Dr. Emerson said that he considers it a great misfortune when because of budget problems, a department puts finance over education.

Canadians Try Again For Hostage's Release

MONTREAL (AP) - The Quebec Cabinet met Tuesday to discuss its negotiations with the Quebec Liberation Front for the release of a kidnaped British diplomat and the provincial labor minister. There were indications the kidnapers were taking a tough stand.

Robert Lemieux, an attorney for various members of the front-or FLQ-declared he had instructions only that the kidnapers' demands be met.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau told the House of Commons in Ottawa he endorsed the action of Premier Robert Bourassa of Quebec, who got the talks going by publicly asking the kidnapers to set up "a mechanism of negotiations."

Trudeau said the only thing to be done was to "insure through negotiations that there be a mechanism established" for the release of James Richard Cross, British trade representative in Montreal kidnaped Oct. 5, and Pierre Laporte, Quebec labor minister abducted at gunpoint five days later.

Bourassa named Robert Demers, a corporation lawyer and member of the ruling Quebec Liberal party to negotiate for the province. Demers opened talks Monday night with Lemieux.

Lemieux was released Tuesday on his recognizance after arraignment on a charge he obstructed the law with statements Saturday. The prosecution charges the statements obstructed police work in the search for Cross Preliminary hearing for Lemieux was set for Friday.

Before going into a second conference with Demers, Lemieux said his assignment is "not to bargain" on demands made by the front, which seeks separation of the province from Canada.

He told reporters his assignment was to see that the kidnapers' demands are met-two for the release of Cross and six for the release of Laporte.

For the release of Cross, the FLQ demands that the government free 23 men convicted or awaiting trial for terrorism, and that the police call off an investigation of the kidnapings.

For the release of Laporte, the kidnapers made these two demands plus four others: $500,000 in ransom, the name and picture of an alleged informer against the FLQ, publication of FLQ propaganda, and reinstatement of all truck drivers who lost their jobs when the city took over mail delivery.

In The Nation And The World

Rockefeller Worried About Goldberg Challenge

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) - His once sandy hair is shot through with gray, and there's a bit less bounce in his step. But the grin is as wide as ever and the big paw still reaches out eagerly to clasp the voter's hand or pat his shoulder.

At age 62, Nelson A. Rockefeller, the nation's senior governor in length of service, is working the campaign trail with the same style, vigor and political script that won him the office 12 years ago.

Bidding for an unprecedented fourth four year term, Republican Rockefeller insists, as he always has, that he is the under dog-this time to Democrat Arthur J. Goldberg, the former U. S. Supreme Court justice and United Nations ambassador.

Rockefeller points ou that Democrats outnumber R Republicans by 600,000 registered voters, and that Goldberg, who also has the Liberal Party nomination, can expect 300,000 to 400,000 extra votes on that ballot line.

So, says Rockefeller, he has nearly one million votes to over come, and must draw Democratic support away from Goldberg and win the bulk of the state's 700,000 independents.

Rockefeller also cited privately commissioned polls that always show him lagging far behind his Democratic opponent at the campaign's outset.

But, following the script, Rockefeller allowed in mid September that later polls showed him moving up, and any day now he'll announce that he has pulled even.

Rockefeller has worked this formula three times, beginning with his initial victory over the 1958 incumbent, W. Averell Harriman.

This time, the governor and his campaign aids insist that Goldberg is a much more formidable challengeout but their confident manner belies their words.

And the fact is that most of the election observers rate Rockefeller as the favorite-not by a wide margin, but nevertheless the likely winner.

Goldberg himself predicts victory but insists he must be considered the underdog. "How can you say you're the favorite when you're running against a billion dollar candidate?" Goldberg protested.

Rockefeller's money-he spends his own freely and seems able to raise as much as he wants from relatives and friends-surely gives him a formidable advantage.

Goldberg, raised in a Chicago slum, is now a rather well to do lawyer, but his personal funds are modest in terms of what is needed to finance a New York campaign, and he can expect little help from the deficit ridden Democratic state organization.

So Goldberg has been scrambling for campaign funds, hoping to raise $1 million. By contrast, Rockefeller is expected to spend anywhere from $5 million to $20 million.

Beyond the financial aspect, there are numerous other elements in Rockefeller's favor. The most significant are the personalities of the candidates themselves, the efficiency of their campaign operations and their relative ability to attract support from the diverse elements of this state's polyglotelectorate. No issue has emerged as a potentially decisive factor.

Rockefeller's campaign slogan, hammered across in waves of TV radio advertising, is "He's done a lot-he'll do more." It's to meet head on the argument that Rockefeller has been in office too long. He boasts of a massive expansion of the state university system, billion dollar capital programs to correct water pollution and improve mass transportation and an ambitious effort to combat drug addiction.

Goldberg's answers are that the water program has moved too slowly, that New York City transit is sloppy and inefficient and that the antinarcotic program has failed because it has attempted to treat the ailment rather than the social root causes of addiction. "Leadership for a change" is his slogan.

Among other things, Goldberg has blamed Rockefeller for growing unemployment in the state, saying the governor has mutely accepted Nixon administration economic policies. Rockefeller has tried to disassociate from the Nixon administration, stating publicly that he wished no in state campaign appearances by President Nixon or by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Nixon has made one campaign appearance, and Agnew's vehement opposition to the reelection of Republican Sen. Charles Goodell has become a major issue in Goodell's lagging campaign against Democrat Richard Ottinger and Conservative John Buckley. However, neither Nixon nor Agnew has intervened publicly.

Mid-East Muscle Urged By Military

WASHINGTON (AP) - A top Army general said Tuesday a large international force "with military muscle" may be required to police any negotiated settlement in the Middle East. Lt. Gen. Richard G. Stilwell, the Army's deputy chief for operations, indicated such a force should be under the United Nations.

Speaking before the Association of the United States Army, Stilwell said:

"Realistically, the longstanding emotionally deep hostility which lies at the root of the Arab Israeli conflict may dictate some type of international presence in the Mideast to assure compliance with the provisions of any negotiated settlement."

The United Nations, Stilwell said, "provides the most obvious option."

However, the three star general voiced the opinion that a small observer force, such as that stationed by the United Nations on Cyprus, would appear inadequate for the Middle East task.

"To enforce fully a political settlement, a large force with military muscle-perhaps of multidivision size-might be required," said Stiwell

The general indicated to a reporter later he would expect the United States to contribute troops to such a force, if it were created.

"The basic challenge will be to insure that any peacekeeping operation truly brings an end to military conflict in this tormented area and that the possibility of any confrontation between the superpowers is avoided," Stilwell said.

He forecast that the Middle East is likely to be the world's most explosive region for the balance of the 1970's.

Waffle – Waffle – Waffle – Waffle

TONITE

Waffle Smorgasbord

7 — 11 p.m.

C.C. Coffee Shop

new name announced at 10 p.m.

winner – $10 in Coffee Shop

Awful Waffle Week

Canada and Red China Ready To Set Up Diplomatic Relations

OTTAWA (AP)-Canada and Red China agreed Tuesday to establish diplomatic relations at once and to exchange ambassadors within six months.

Ottawa broke relations with Nationist China.

Nationalist China, with headquarters on Formosa, announcing it in turn had severed relations with Ottawa, declared Canada had ignored "its friendship of long standing with the government of the Republic of China."

Yu chu Hsueh, Nationalist ambassador to Canada, left Ottawa by plane for New York, saying he was distressed by Canada's decision.

Canada's action came just 20 years after Britain took a similar course. But Britain and Red China never have exchanged ambassadors, allowing their embassies to be headed by secondary diplomats.

Forty six nations now recognize Red China and 67 have relations with the Nationalist government. The United States recognizes the Nationalists of President Chiang Kai shek and opposed Canada's move to begin the talks with Peking in Stockholm in January 1969. The White House in Washington would only say Canada and the United States had discussed the question for some time.

U.S. officials said the decision in part reflected the easing of Peking's relations with the West. They added that this was an important development but would not change U.S. policy on China.

Canada refused to accept Red China's demand that it recognize a territorial claim to Formosa in 20 months of negotiating in Stockholm. The Chinese call the Nationalist island Taiwan.

Announcing recognition, Foreign Secretary Mitchell Sharp told the House of Commons that Canada does not consider it appropriate either to endorse or challenge Peking's position on Formosa.

Peking, in announcing the diplomatic agreement, said: "The Chinese government reaffirms that Taiwan is an inalienable part of the territory of the People's Republic of China. The Canadian government takes notes of this position of the Chinese government."

Field Foundation Grant

Commission To Study Subpeonas On Reporters

WASHINGTON (AP) - The impact of subpoenas on newsmen and their sources is the subject of a study announced Tuesday by the Reporters Committee on Freedom of the Press.

The committee was formed last March in response to what it called increasing government demands for information from newsmen. It is composed of 13 newspaper, television and news magazine reporters.

The study will be carried out jointly by the University of Michigan Law School and the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism under a $26,775 grant from the Field Foundation of New York.

Vince Blasi, associate professor of law at Michigan and director of the study, said it will seek to determine "the legal rights and responsibilities of both the press and the government at a time of growing tension between the two."

He said it will cover "the First Amendment questions raised by subpoenas to newsmen, the effect and constitutionality of existing state statutes that grant a qualified privilege to newsmen, and the many procedural and practical problems involved in litigation on this issue."

While these legal questions are studied by Blasi and his research aides at Michigan and Stanford law schools, an empirical survey will be carried out under Richard Baker, assistant dean of the Columbia University School of Journalism, and W. Phillips Davison, professor of journalism and sociology at Columbia.

They will seek through interviews with reporters, editors, prosecuters and news sources to determine the actual impact of subpoenas on both the flow of news and law enforcement.

Members of the steering committee of the reporters, committee are: John H. Nelson, Los Angeles Times; Robert C. Maynard, Washington Post; William Sout and Murray Fromson, CBS: Charles N. Quinn and Lemuel Tucker NBC: Donald A. Johnson Newsweek; Marvin H. Zim, Time; James S. Doyle and Barry N. Kalb, Washington Star; Fred P. Graham, J. Anthony Lukas, and John W. Kifner, New York Times.

Foreign Wheel Problems?

Fish in to

BASS IMPORT SERVICE

Rte. 9 Hadley or call 584-4652

We Try Harder!

Companies Ask Courts End 15% Auto Insurance Drop

BOSTON (AP) - Insurance companies that write automobile policies in Massachusetts asked the state Supreme Court Tuesday to invalidate a 15 per cent mandatory reduction in fire, theft and collision rates.

The reduction is part of the state's new no fault automobile insurance law, which requires across the board rate cuts in all types of auto insurance.

The insurance industry filed a similar suit a month ago, asking the court to nullify the mandatory rate cut in property damage liability.

The companies contend that the reductions are confiscatory and therefore constitutional. The new petition came on the eve of the opening of rate hearings before state Insurance Commissioner C. Eugene Farnam.

Among those who were to testify at Wednesday's hearing are Gov. Francis W. Sargent, Rep. Michael Dukakis, D. Brookline, and Rep. Alan D. Sisitsky, D. Springfield.

Sisitsky said Tuesday following a meeting with Farnam and representatives of the insurance industry, that the companies will concede at the hearing that, if motorists take the optional $2,000 deductible on bodily insurance coverage under the new no fault law, they will be entitled to additional savings of 27.5 per cent on the coverage rate, in addition to the 15 per cent reduction already required.

Those taking a $250 deductible policy will be entitled to a 13 per cent saving on the rate, he said. Sisitsky added , however, that the firms will contend the present auto insurance rates for medical coverage are 25 per cent too low.

He also said that companies will ask a 50 per cent increase in property damage rates and added that if the entire no fault law is found unconstitutional, the companies will ask a 22 per cent increase in passenger auto rates and a 63 per cent boosts in the rates charged commercial vehicles.

The constitutionality of the law is being challenged by the Massachusetts Trial Lawyers Association.

Sisitsky said Farnam will maintain at the hearing that all rates should be reduced 15 per cent, with the exception of compulsory bodily injury coverage, which should be reduced even more.

Agnew Not Running For Prexy, He Says

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) - Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has no personal presidential ambitions for 1976, he said Tuesday.

He added he has read comments that, if he had such hopes, he might well be killing his chances by pursuing his rough tongued campaign style and not weaseling on the issues.

Agnew spoke in reply to questions from a television panel, taped for later broadcast over station KDFW.

Asked whether he was grooming himself for a presidential try, he said: "My function as vice president has not in any way been geared toward personal self aggrandisement. I do not have any ambitions for the presidency.

"My job is to be the best vice president I can be," Agnew continued. "I don't examine every position I take to see what its effect would be on me."

Agnew said that, probably as the result of the publicity he and others are giving to the issue of violence, the climate of the country is improving.

" It is obvious that the people who are running for office realize people are fed up," he said.

He said former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, now running for the Senate in Minnesota, "appears to be drifting a little to the right of the Sheriff of Nottingham."

Nixon Men Call Peace Plan Risk

Say Five Point Plan Could Weaken Government's Control of People

WASHINGTON (AP) - Top White House officials say Communist acceptance of President Nixon's Indochina cease fire plan could somewhat weaken the grip of the Saigon government on the Vietnamese countryside.

However, they described the President's five point package as marking a calculated risk worth taking in the hope of promoting meaningful peace talks in Paris.

The officials, who insisted they not be identified by name, briefed news media representatives from Northeastern states in Hartford, Conn., Monday. A transcript of their statements was made available Tuesday.

In the briefing session, the Vietnam peace initiative vied with the continuing Middle East problem among subjects upper most in the minds of reporters, editors, publishers and broadcasters from states extending from Virginia to Maine.

The officials said that, in the Middle East, they did not know how close the United States had come to the brink of military intervention in September's Jordanian crisis but credited U.S. insistence on keeping all options open with having played a major role in erasing the possibility of a broader Middle East conflict.

Talking about Nixon's cease fire proposal, already received with chill in the Communist world, the officials said all American studies indicate Saigon's control over the population of South Vietnam - especially in areas adjoining Laos - would decline to some extent should the Nixon plan be accepted by the Communist.

One official cited this as evidence the United States was not asking the Communist side to place itself at a disadvantage by accepting and added that the administration is willing to take a risk and pay a price for a cease fire that could bring nearer an end to the war.

The briefers insisted that no U.S. study indicates the situation of the non Communists in Vietnam would be improved should a cease fire take effect. However, they argued that Nixon's controversial Cambodian intervention of last spring and increasing combat readiness among South Vietnamese troops now made possible a cease fire offer under conditions that could have been catastrophic six months ago.

Speaking of the Middle East, the officials said the Soviet course in that part of the world has caused increasing doubts within the administration about Soviet desires to promote the kind of Middle Eastern stability that is seen here officially as necessary to lessen risks of a super power confrontation.

For the moment, they said, the Soviet objective will be to consolidate its ties with the new leadership of the United Arab Republic, which they said would be going through a period of uncertainty and fluidity in the weeks just ahead.

They did not sugarcoat their phrases in stating that evidence of Egyptian violations of the Arab Israeli cease fire was in controvertible and occurred with the full knowledge, complicity and probable participation of the Soviet Union itself.

They said the movement of surface to air missiles closer to the current Suez Canal demarcation line was reason enough for the United States to resume important arms shipments to Israel, after what they described as a period of restraint, in order to maintain a reasonable balance in the region.

However, they said any future negotiations could take account of an Egyptian argument that movement of missiles during the present cease fire was necessary - and not a violation of the truce - because leaving all operable missiles in areas previously pin pointed by the Israelis would open the United Arab Republic to a major surprise attack.

One official said he did not want to become specific but that this would be a subject to be explored by top American diplomats in the next two weeks in private conversations with foreign officials at the United Nations in New York.

In talking about Indochina, they described as predictable the initial hostile Communist response to Nixon's proposals, while insisting that public attitudes expressed in that camp are not invariably a reflection of private attitudes.

They talked about a hope by Nixon to resolve the anguishing Vietnam problem - their term - in a fashion that would permit the greatest number of Americans to feel a sense of participation.

Out of State

N. Y. Abortions Grow

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) - Legalized abortions have been increasing at the Albany Medical Center Hospital, and more women now appear to be coming from outside the hospital's normal territory.

In addition, an abortion upswing has been noted in the number of women pregnant for fewer than 12 weeks, a hospital spokesman said Tuesday

The abortion report comes on the heels of a different type of baby story. On Sept. 25, 26, and 27 - nine months after Albany's paralyzing Christmastime snow and ice storm, the hospital delivered 27 babies, about twice the normal number for three days.

As for abortions, the spokesman said Albany Med performed 181 in September, compared with 140 in August and 139 in July.

In this area, Albany Medical Center and two Schenectady hospitals have been handling an estimated 90 per cent of the abortions, since the state legalized them July 1, and the majority have been at Albany Med, the spokesman told a reporter.

The Best Value Around

MDC Classifieds

THE QUICKEST, SUREST WAY TO BUY, SELL, TRADE, INFORM AND GOSSIP IN THE UNIVERSITY COMMUNITY. DAILY COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS CAN BE BOUGHT IN THE MDC OFFICE WEEK DAYS FROM 9:00 A.M. TO 4:00 P.M.

RATE: 75c PER INSERTION.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR John Sullivan

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR Mark Silverman
NEWS STAFF Diana Traywick, Denise Magnell, Mike Aroian
DARKROOM Ken Emory, Ed Fenwick
SPORTS Ken Littman
AD LAYOUT Sherry Morse
EDITORIAL Ed Bryant

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

"A Cup Of Black Powder And A Few Rounds Of Ammo? Certainly, Neighbor"

CHE
ELDRIDGE
LESTER
SPIRO
OUT-LEFT KOOKS
GUN LOBBY CATALOGUE
OUT-RIGHT KOOKS
GUN LOBBY CATALOGUE
CRIME
DISEASE
POVERTY
DEATH
DESTRUCTION
DECAY
DISEASE
DEATH
DESTRUCTION
DECAY
CRIME
POVERT

Westfield State Students Quiet After Open House Protest Series

Westfield State College, the scene of student demonstrations since last Wednesday when a U.S. District court judged that the administration's ban on parietals was not in violation of the students' civil rights, has remained quiet thus far this week.

Reacting to the decision, approximately 250 female students staged a peaceful demonstration for two hours in the college's male residence hall. The women lined the corridors of all-male Davis Hall in order to show their disdain for the regulation prohibiting a femal student from entering a male room. One Westfield State co-ed emphasized that the demonstrarion was "not in violation" of College policy because the "women never stepped foot in a male room" by remaining in the corridor.

According to a student spokesman, there haven't been and will not be any more demonstrations until the next regular meeting of the Student Senate, Tuesday. At today's meeting the student representatives will hear the full text of last Wednesday's court decision.

Originally, students at Westfield hoped to have the Courts reverse the administration policy on grounds that prohibiting parietals was a violation of an individual's civil liberties. Now, the students still are working through the "system" but, as one co-ed stated, "We're not going to just give up." The student added "even though the students have been "working through the system" the administration policy has been stubborn. She described the proposals made to the administration concerning parietals as "safe enough for a two year old". The administration, particularly college president, Dr. Leonard Savignano, "wouldn't let us try it" she added.

Women students, who outnumber men about three to one, met for two hours in Davis Hall, the men's dormitory, Thursday night to protest not being heard by college officials.

After learning of the decision Wednesday night they staged a sleep-in until 6 a.m. at the same dormitory. Word of the ruling spread throughout the campus Thursday night and about 300 students attended an emergency student government meeting.

The student government decided not to act until official word on the ruling is received by Stephen W. Silverman, who represented the students. Silverman said Thursday he has not received the official ruling.

Students had complained of two regulations, one requiring dormitory living or living with families off campus and the other barring students from having members of the opposite sex in their rooms.

Expected

Dr. Leonard J. Savignano, college president, returned from a trustee meeting in North Adams Thursday night. He said it was for the courts to decide and he would live by their ruling.

"We have been expecting this decision," student government President Richard Marcous said before the Wednesday meeting. The Senate already this year has voted to bring it before the students again. "It's very clear to me they don't want to forget about issues," Marcous said.

Marcous said some students are talking about doing it (changing the regulations) with demonstrations. About 50 students who went to Boston for the early September case felt there would be no answers on all issues, Marcous said.

Student governments since 1968, students have tried to change governing them, Marcous said. "This does not mean we will not be regulated," he said.

Other reactions on the ruling were varied. Many students would not air their opinions because they said, "it would be used against me by the administration."

Robb Sysocki, a sophomore, said "It's against our civil liberties. I'd be very happy to see girls go to our dorm."

SMC Calls For Protest Of Viet. War Oct. 31st

(Editor's note-The following statement was issued by the Student Mobilization Committee (SMC) at their meeting last night. It calls for a "massive protest" against the war in Indo China for October 31st, and urges "all unions and working people" to join in the protest.)

Nixon's invasion of Cambodia triggered an unprecedented wave of opposition to the war in Southeast Asia. Many people who had previously accepted Nixon's token troop withdrawal policy were drawn into opposition for the first time as they saw that the real intention of the administration was to continue the war and even to escalate it. The sentiment for bringing all the troops home now has never been more widespread than today. The demonstrations in May, following the Cambodian invasion proved one thing: the American people have the power to curb the administration's aggressive militarism. Nixon was FORCED to withdraw U.S. troops from Cambodia because millions of Americans took to the streets in opposition to Nixon's invasion of that nation. Only the continued building of the anti-war movement can prevent new escalations. The possibility now exists to involve massive numbers of unionists and black and brown people along with students, women, professionals and others in the most massive movement ever to bring the war to an end; to get out of Indochina now.

It is essential at this time that nationwide activities which can involve broad new layers of society be held. The working people of this country have paid a high price for the war in Southeast Asia. The spiralling inflation brought on by the war has made it impossible for working people to maintain their standard of living. Our sons, nephews and friends have been callek on to fight, and many to die, in a war which is clearly not in their interests. The war has eaten up the money that is so desperately needed for domestic programs such as housing, education, health care, air pollution and the rehabilitation of our cities. Organized labor has the power to end the war, it is time that power was exercised. A great step forward was taken on May 21, when tens of thousands of workers joined with students in New York City in a massive anti-war protest. This forward motion must continue.

Street Academy Opens Door To Springfield Children

The SASSI Prep school for High School drop-outs opened its doors last week to sixteen black, white, and Puerto-Rican students in Springfield. The school, an offspring of the U Mass Action Lab, is located in the building that formerly housed the Great Value Supermarket on Plainfield Street.

The Street Academy/Urban Prep Experience is designed to take high school dropouts over the age of sixteen and prepare them for college entrance. William Smith, headmaster of SASSI Prep, says, "The urban prep experience is a new innovation in education. The idea is not only to prepare students to cope with continuing in school, but to be a model for change to all educational systems. We strongly feel that we are doing things to benefit public education."

Stating the Street Academy was a cooperative effort involving high school dropouts, parents and community organizers as well as members of Action - Lab. The Street Academy phase of the program began with a ten-week pilot program in July of this year. Twelve students completed this pilot session.

Preliminary evaluation of the pilot program by staff and students was generally good. Fears of academic subject matter were broken down. A balance was reached between students and staff on school policies and academic matters. In the final analysis, the Street Academy decided to expand into a prep school situation because the Academy did not provide students with a direct link to college. Smith termed the pilot session "very successful." The students overcame most fears about their own inadequacies.

At present "the Prep" is equiped to handle 24 students. Later SASSI will open to 48 students. Courses are being offered in the areas of academic education, apprenticeship training, action-education first hand study of American institutions and test-manship (learning how to take tests).

The "Militant Forum," the weekly socialist educational series, will meet tonight in the Colonial Lounge of the Student Union at 8:00. Tonight's seminar will be based upon the essay, "Socialism: Utopian And Scientific" by Friedrich Engels.

This essay, as well as related socialist literature is available at the U.S.A. literature table in front of the old Hatch in the Student Union from 11-4 on Monday and Thursday, or at the U.S.A. office upstairs in the Union.

This particular essay by Engels is concerned with the historical progressions of economic class Structure in relation to the socialist philosophy which accompanies them. Members have suggested that those attending the forum try to read Engels essay in order to provide some questions for discussion.

VILLAGE INN
LUMS
Restaurant
HOT ROAST BEEF SANDWICHES
Hot Dogs steamed in beer with Sherry flavored sauerkraut
Eat in or take out
Open Daily
11 A.M. - 2 A.M.

A 15 MILE RIDE TO SAVE!
FROM AMHERST FOLLOW RT. 9 TO WARE (APROX. 15 MILES) TURN RIGHT ON RT. 32 WARE CENTER ...MALS 1 MILE ON RT. 32....50,000 SQ. FT. OF SAVINGS!
FAMOUS NAMES AT BIG SAVINGS FOR GUYS'N GALS
•BELL BOTTOMS
•BODY SHIRTS
•SNEAKERS
•BOOTS
EVERYTHING!
DIRT CHEAP!
OPEN' TILL 10
mals
DISCOUNT DEPT. STORE
PHILLIP PLAZA
ROUTE 32, WARE

AUTO INSURANCE
ALL DRIVERS
— LOWEST, LEGAL RATES —
— BUDGET PAYMENTS —
Tekoa Insurance Agency
160 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-2742
10 Broad St. Westfield 562-3604

PHOTOGRAPHY
ARE YOU CREATIVE ???
JOIN THE INDEX STAFF
COME TO THE RECRUITMENT MEETING !!!!!
RM.168-70, NEW CAMPUS CENTER, THUR. OCT. 15, 7 P.M.
TYPOGRAPHY
COPY WRITING
PAGE DESIGN
71 INDEX

F.A.F. Issues Call For Aiding 'Campus Freedom'

A group of faculty members have issued the first edition of a Newsletter on campus issues related to academic freedom. The organization, which was formed two years ago, is known as "The Faculty Group for Academic Freedom" (FAF).

The group has the basic purpose of maintaining a free university its spokesman say. Its Newsletter calls for the enforcement "of existing rules and regulations designed to protect the exploration of ideas regardless of their popularity, and it also argues for a non-political university, and says it will resist "attempts to force University organs to take collective stands on political issues not directly related to the performance of the University's educational role." Finally, it calls attention to what it terms the dangers of blind application of democratic principles to educational institutions, in which the need for knowledge, technical competence and judgment make the principle of equality inappropriate except in carefully defined contexts.

Publication of the Newsletter is a step towards the creation "of a sense of solidarity and mutual awareness among faculty members and students concerned with the maintenance of academic freedom" spokesmen stress. It will be issued periodically, and will report the activities of the group in addition to calling attention to threats to the above principles both here and on other campuses.

Those students who may be interested in learning more about this organization or who would like a copy of the Newsletter may contact any of the following editors of the Newsletter: Vaclav Holesovsky (Thompson 336) and Loren P. Beth (Thompson 316); the chairman of the Student Liaison Committee, Alfred H. Mathieson (Hasbrouck 108); or the members of the Executive Board, Guenter Lewy (Thompson 306), Paul Hollander (Thompson 518), George Richason (Goessman 149B0, Henry Korson (Thompson 524), Grant Osborn (SBA 310), Ronald Reid (Herter 541), and John Fenton (Thompson 336).

D.A. Candidate Here

Attorney John M. Callahan, Democratic Candidate for District Attorney, Franklin and Hampshire Counties, will be on today. All students, faculty and University employees are invited to meet and have coffee with him from 10:00 to 11:30 a.m. in the Colonial Lounge in the Student Union.

Callahan, a graduate of the University of Notre Dame and Boston College Law School, was from 1964 through 1968 Assistant U. S. Attorney for Massachusetts by appointment of the U. S. Attorney General of the United States. During 1967-1968 he was Chief of the Civil Division for the Office of U. S. Attorney in Boston.

He has been trial attorney for the United States in major federal prosecutions in Massachusetts and has lectured to state and federal law enforcement officials on criminal investigative techniques in light of recent court decisions. He has also lectured on pre-trial procedure to federal prosecutors at the Justice Department in Washington, D. C.

Director Georges vitaly shares a moment with Jean-Pierre Leroux (title role) in the French stage production of Albert Camus' "Caligula". Performing a fifty city tour of the area under the banner of the nationally famous Le Treteau De Paris, the French speaking troupe will appear here today, at Bowker Auditorium at 8:00 P.M.

Bogart Flick Shown Tonight

Tonight in Thompson 104, the Art History Group will take time out from its GEFF series to present "Beat The Devil" at 8:00 and 10.

Produced in 1954, the film was director John Huston's sixth and last feature to star his old friend Humphrey Bogart and was, in fact, co-produced by the two. Thereafter, Bogart was to die of cancer in two years and Huston began his steady artistic decline.

The original conception for "Beat The Devil," which co-starred Robert Morley, Peter Lorre, Gina Lollobrigida, and Jennifer Jones, was to fashion an international crime thriller to duplicate the success of CASABLANCA. Dissatisfied with the first script, Huston hired Truman Capote who furiously rewrote the script on location.

Instead of a straight adventure story, Capote turned out a brilliant parody of the earlier Bogart flicks, which sailed right over the heads of most of its audiences at the time.

The deliciously complex plot befuddled many viewers but delighted critics. Containing as it did many satiric references to other film genres, "Beat The Devil" prefigured the works of the nouvelle vague directors and has, understandably, been an enormous success in France. Today students of the cinema frequently rank "Beat The Devil" as Huston's best work.

"We Shall Overcome" A Must

By JEFF SILVER
Fine Arts Staff

The UMass Black Repertory Company will be presenting "We Shall Overcome: or Else" next weekend in Bowker Auditorium. The play was written by Danny Scarbrough, a UMass graduate student, and is well worth seeing. The play depicts the conflict between new and old black consciousness; while effectively dealing with the conflict of individualism verses the idea of group identity. The two main characters illustrate the "I ain't singung no more" philosophy challenging the black ideology prior to the late 1960's.

The Black Repertory Company is in its second year, and will present two major productions as it did last year. The production of "We Shall Overcome: Or Else" will be presented in Bowker Auditorium October 16 & 17 at 8:30, and October 18 at 3:00.

the LOVESHIRTS
"Got it all together"
Adam & Eve couldn't have expressed love and togetherness better than our classic "Loveshirts" do. . . . Gals & guys can wear it anywhere because the loveshirt is casual, it's message is beautiful . . . and obvious. Buy one as a gift - even better by the pair.
Crew neck, rib cuff and bottom, set in sleeves. All cotton, fleeced inside for extra warmth. State size S/M/L/XL.
$6 EACH $11 PAIR
plus $1.00 p.p. & hdlg.
COHO ASSOCIATES CORP.
P.O. Box 1116
Wayne, N. J. 07470

NOW WORLD WIDE !
THE MAIL BOX
SUPER DISCOUNT SOUNDS
Lowest overall prices anywhere on 8-track tapes, cassettes, & provocative & groovy posters at super —low discount prices. Speediest delivery & completely guaranteed. Send for our current catalog of selections & their low prices. We have a complete line of rock, pop, blues, soul, country-western, folk, jazz, classical, gospel & soundtrack. For free catalog mail your request to:
The Mail Box, P.O. Box 2417
San Francisco, Calif. 94126

Large Draft Hour
12 oz. BEER 15¢ 12 oz. BEER
9:00-10:00 Tonight — 2 Pizza Slices 25¢
then
THE FABULOUS "D J" til 1:00
at the
ALL NEW MEADOW INN
Rt. 47 (Come see our new bar) Sunderland

CLASS OF 1971
INTERESTED IN WORKING ON COMMENCEMENT, SENIOR DAY, A SPEAKERS PROGRAM OR MANY OTHER ACTIVITIES? ?
Executive Council Applications now available in the R.S.O. office in the Campus Center.
Applications due Friday, Oct. 16, 1970
Present members need not re-apply.

Today's Mode Methods Schedule Announced

All room numbers refer to Marks Meadow School

4:00 P.M.	Room 145	Juan Cabas	Photography in Education
	Room 146	Sid Simon	Values Clarification
	Room 168	Mark Phillip	The Teacher as Living Theatre
	Room 169	Jon Ball	Human Understanding in the Classroom
	Room 177	Bill Koen	Creative Art for the Non-Creative
5:00 P.M.	Room 145	Barry Kaufman	Blindfold Game of Awareness
	Room 146	Joel Balsham	Clay Play
	Room 148	Horace Reed	On sting Involvement in Large Groups
	Room 169	Bob Mackin	Non-Verbal Communications
	Room 177	Dave Lepard	Class Invention in Structure/ Sound experience in Orff Method of Musical Improvisation
6:00 P.M.	Room 145	Kurt Wolff	Methods of Social Studies
	Room 146	Jerry Freiberg	Concrete Poetry and Haikus
	Room 148	Jonathan Clarke	Cuisenaire Rods
	Room 169	Sandra Moran	Techniques and Behavior Modification
	Room 177	Nat Mann	Madison Project/Algebra in the Elementary School

There will be a meeting for the Media Committee fof the University and State Communications Council on Wednesday, October 14, at 7:00 p.m. in Room 2006 John Q. Adams.

Problems the Committee is trying to combat and plans for the coming year will be discussed. Coffee will be served.

ALL YOU CAN EAT

(of waffles)

33¢

plus a prize if you eat

the most — or near the most

Waffle Eating Contest

Sunday Oct.18 1 p.m.

PRIZES:
dinner for two at Top of Campus six passes for two at S.U. Movies

ENTRY FEE:
33c — register at Program Council Office rm. 101 — RSO area C.C.

MUSIC BY:
John & Linda (12-3 p.m.)
Flight (3-7 p.m.)

Concourse level Campus Concrete Waffle

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

Pioneer, Teac, Garrurd, PE Astec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, LP's, 8 track and other necessities. Amherst Audio. tf15-23

BSE Motorcycle, 000, twin cylinder, good condition, must sell this week, $375 or best offer. Call 665-2249. tf10-13

Female black cocker spaniel, champion sired. AKC registered, with shots. $75 or best offer. 256-6077. tf10-14

Why spend more? If you want to buy something, buy it cheap! See us first and save. Call 6-8065, ask for Chief or Scott. 10-6-8-13-14

Stereo components, tape decks, complete systems, compacts etc. for certain savings and very big selection. Call AJ 253-9396, Don 549-6508 tf10-16

Sunderland — lovely new 3 bedrm. home, modern kitchen with built-ins, old fashioned brick fireplace, gar., scenic lot, 5 min. U. of Mass $26,800. Skibiski Realtors, Tel. 253-7222. tf10-22

FOR SALE — AUTOS

1965 Triumph TR4, new top and front tires, very dependable. Must sell. Call George 545-0174 evenings. tf10-16

57 Chevy 2 dr. R & H, automatic, one owner, maintained in excellent condition, $200. Will install tires to pass inspection, $210 as is. Phone Greenfield 772-0438. tf10-13

1966 Ford for sale, good shape, $350. Call 584-0076. tf10-14

Must sell 1963 Mercury, excellent condition, 2 dr., HT, V8, auto., power steering, power brake, radio, new tires, water pump and battery. Asking $450. Call 253-7949. tf10-16

69 Camaro Conv. Lemans, blue with white top, 4 sped Hurst, V8, FM radio, $2,150 or best offer. Will trade for comparable Jeep, Land Rover or Land Cruiser. Call Ken 253-9575. tf10-15

Fiat Wazon, 1968, new full sticker, needs minor work. $300 or best offer. Call Tom morn. or eve. 549-5314. tf10-16

Must sell — 1966 Dodge Coronet 500 conv. 383 engine, dark blue, white interior. Call 549-3040 253-7936 tf10-15

WANTED

Ride wanted from Providence, R.I. to UMass every Sunday starting Oct. 18 - will share expenses. Ann 6-5183 keep trying tf10-14

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthelor. Please include stamped return envelope, Idlewild Press, 1907 East Olimpic Benlevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

Wanted: Volunteers to man local Democrat headquarters afternoon, evenings. Little or lot. Your aid is appreciated. If interested please call 253-3003. tf10-15

SERVICES

Amherst Audio' services stereo components, tape decks for home or car, 197 No. Pleasant St. 256-8133. tf15-23

HELP WANTED

Ambitious couple who need more income. Unusual opportunity for good earnings for both. Works together, part-time or full time. Car necessary. Phone 1-413-774-3587 between 7 - 9 p.m. tf10-16

Wanted — married student to work 3 - 4 nights per week, from 5 or 6 p.m. to close. Must be willing to work weekends. Apply in person at Burger King, King St., Northampton. tf10-16

PERSONAL

Bandicoots — Happy anniversary; even though it is two days late. I love you. BanJicoot. 10-14

Happy 100th Birthday, Kappa Kappa Gamma, October 15, 1870 - 1970. Love, Susan, Mary, Hanna, Anna, Mary and Louisa. 10-14

VAN

1963 Chevy Van, Greenbriar, 9 seat, new clutch, needs minor repairs. Must sell, $325 or best offer. Call Rich at 367-2775. tf10-16

GIVE AWAY

Turn your house into a home with a dorm-trapped 3 mo. old black female Labrador-Shep. Needs home off campus. Inquire 6-6093. tf10-15

Students Asked To Join UM Alumni Association

By KAREN DEGRACE
Staff Reporter

A UMass organization that already has 33,000 members has branched out by adding a very special 400.

An "undergraduate Alumni Association" of approximately 400 students - those whose parents have graduated from UMass, is being formed by the school's Alumni Association. Evan Johnston, executive vice president of the group, believes that such an innovation will, at the very least, enhance student understanding of the Alumni Association.

Today, the association is trying to coordinate its activities with student interests. Johnston, for example, is advisor to the Homecoming committee as well as to Adelphia, the men's senior honor society.

All this is in keeping with the Alumni Association's charter which states that its purpose is to further the interests of the University. "But," says Johnston, "it goes much further than that." The "much further", he implies, is today's students.

The Alumni Association dates from 1890, when the University was still an agricultural college. It is presently an organization separately incorporated with the state. It operates in a trust fund category, with the resulting advantages of having the University treasury office take charge of its fiscal activities, while the association itself still retains a separate voice in University affairs.

All UMass graduates - some 33,000 persons - are considered members. No dues are required; support for various programs comes from voluntary contributions. More than 60 per cent of the alumni have graduated from the University since 1960; such a youthful membership explains the association's lack of fund-raising potential, said Johnston. Individual financial contributions are, for the most part, quite low, but 30 per cent (as compared to the national average of 10 per cent) do offer some kind of support.

Lack of funds, according to Johnston, has not led to inactivity. The Alumni Association sponsors activities for the benefit of the alumni, such as Homecoming anc class reunions, as well as for the support and aid of the University itself.

About $1-million of the University trust fund nas gone toward scholarship awards. Financial support has also been given to the University's Freiburg foreign studies program. The association had a key role in the development and upkeep of the Massachusetts Review, the University literary publication, now in its ninth year and reputed to be the best literary review in the country.

At one time, part of the Alumni Association's efforts were directed toward legislation beneficial to the University. In 1959, for example, it supported a bill that raised the salaries of faculty and administrators; and in 1960, the president's salary increased from $15,000 to its present $25,000 - 35,000 range. Such political activity has since been abandoned, however, due to trust fund regulations. But the gains already made are substantial, in Johnston's views.

Free University Moves To Old Union Store

Learning can't be fragmented for seperated from life. We create our own life process: learning organizes spontaneously and organically around it - in its inception, creation, process and regeneration. A free university is relevant to us because it is us.

With this idea of education explained by its leaders, the Free University moves in the old campus bookstore space today. Last located in South College after the domes of Free University City, the Free University was told to leave that space at the close of last semester. The bookstore room will be available until UMAU is begins its new studio construction.

The Free University hopes to develop learning experiences, cooperative resources, publications, and nationwide contacts that the Amherst community might be able to use its leaders say. By involving a varies group of skills, interests , and expertise hopefully FU's campus-based reform activities will relate to the broader social and political struggles in American, spokesmen en explain.

EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO SKI

Tennis - Soccer - Football - Hockey

including professional fitting at

WESTERN VILLAGE SKI SHOP

Western Auto

32 Main St., Northampton

ATTENTION

BLACK STUDENTS!!

STOP IN AND SEE THE FABULOUS LINE OF BLACK HAIR PRODUCTS THAT ARE FINALLY HERE!!

Afro Sheen:
Hair Spray
Conditioner
Shampoo

Ultra Sheen:
Conditioner and Hair Dressing

Ultra Wave:
Hair Straightener
Creme Rinse
Neutralizer Shampoo

Now at

COLLEGE DRUG

4 Main St. Amherst

☆ Only ☆ certain Americans can buy new Freedom Shares.

☆ ASK WHERE YOU WORK OR BANK ☆

MEN WOMEN

5C-SHL

FIVE COLLEGE STUDENT HOMOPHILE LEAGUE will be meeting. For information call:

Jerry — 253-5340
Kathy — 665-2853
evenings

COME TOGETHER

NEED
CREPE PAPER
and OTHER
DECORATING
SUPPLIES???
See
HASTINGS
45 South Pleasant St.
Amherst

Notices

COLLEGIATE FLYING CLUB
Ground school Wed. night 7:30 P.M. room 802 Campus Center. Anyone and everyone welcome. Theory of Flight discussed in depth.

ELECTIONS '70 SEMINAR
The candiates coffee hour to be held at the Campus Center Thurs. Oct. 15, 8:15 p.m. has been cancelled.

FREE UNIVERSITY
Free U open space now in old campus bookstore, Student Union. A question of who we are and what we do now.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
Pledge meeting on Wednesday in Room 801 Campus Center at 6:00 P.M.

HILLEL
Succot sevices Wednesday and Thursday at 7:30 P.M. in the Nantucket room, S.U. Kiddush following.

HISTORY DEPT.
All students, undergrad and grad, with problems and/or questions concerning the History Dept. are invited to discuss them with fellow students who are history majors and grad students every Wed. from 1:30 to 4:00 and every Thurs. from 2:30 to 4:30; 7th floor lounge, Herter Hall, starting Wed., Oct. 14.

MARKETING CLUB
Mr. Elmer Lotshaw, Pres. American Marketing Association to speak Thursday, 7:45 P.M., Room 174 Campus Center.

NAIADS
Meeting tonight 4:30 - 6:00 P.M. All urged to attend to try new stunts.

N.E.S.
Coordinating Committee meeting tonight (Wed.) at 6:30 P.M. in room 177, Campus Center

NEWMAN
Last chance to sign up for Hayride Oct. 16 at 7:30 P.M. in Secretary's office at Newman.

NORTHAMPTON VETERANS HOSPITAL COMPANION PROGRAM
Give some time to helping others. Be a volunteer at the Veterans Hospital. Mon. evenings or Thurs. afternoons. Call Bonnie for info and rides. 549-1705, 253-9008.

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS
Buses leave Hasbrouck and Patterson at 6:30. Everyone welcome. Old volunteers particularly urged to come.

OUTING CLUB
Bently's Cove trip this weekend. See bulletin board for all details. Peace.

U MASS SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB
Jump. Tuesday, Oct. 20, 8:00 P.M. Room 174 Campus Center.

PHILOSOPHY MAJORS
There will be a meeting open to all undergraduate philosophy majors on Thursday, October 15, at 4 pm in Thompson Tower, sixth Floor Lounge. The purpose of the meeting is to arrange a schedule of activities (Speakers Program, discussions, etc.) for the Undergraduate Philosophy Club. All undergraduate philosophy majors are cordially invited and encouraged to attend.

REGIONAL ALLIANCE FOR THE FREEDOM OF ISRAEL (RAFI)
All students are invited
All students are invited to our meeting Oct. 14, Wed., 8:00, Room 162 Campus Center. Agenda: introduction to new members, programming, strategy, and info on Fourth World national liberation.

RECREATION SOCIETY
There will be a meeting of the Rec. Society in 804-808 Campus Center at 7:30 on Wed. night, Oct. 14. Everyone is welcome.

RUGBY CLUB
Meeting for all players Thursday, Oct. 15, at 7:30 p.m. in Goessmann 259. Important that everyone attend.

SCIENCE FICTION SOCIETY
General business meeting Thursday, Oct. 15, at 7:00 p.m. in Science Fiction library. All members urged to attend. S.I.M.S.
All transcendental meditators: Group meditation, advanced lecture, checking. Sun. Oct. 18, 8:00 p.m. New Campus Center Room 174-176.

SOCIOLOGY PSYCHOLOGY FILMS
Film this week is "Born Yesterday" with Judy Holliday. Shown at 4:40, 8:00 and 10:00 today in Mahar.

SPANISH CLUB
Dr. Damaso Alonso will deliver his second lecture tonight at 8:00 in Herter Hall Room 231

STUDENTS FOR GENSHEIMER
Join the HJJim Gensheimer for Democratis State Representative Campaign. Informal get together at 27 Pufton, Thursday Oct. 15 at 9:00 p.m.

STUDENTS FOR GENSHEIMER
All People needing rides to Gen- ...ay night "together" meet in front of ... Thurs

STUDENTS FOR KENNEDY
Meeting tonight Campus Center Rooms 168, 170, 172. 9:00 p.m. Information about what students will be doing. Speaker from the Western Mass. Area Kennedy Org.

U MASS STUDENTS FOR SARGENT/-DWIGHT
Contact Gerry Colella, 235 Moore, 546-5344.

U MASS SARGENT/DWIGHT
Canvass for Gov. Sargent: Contact canvassing co-chairmen Jane Graham, 236 Moore, 546-5345; Gerry Colella 235 Moore, 546-5344.

STUDENTS FOR WHITE/DUKAKIS
Canvassing in Springfield. Bus leaves station at Morrill Science Building at 3:00 p.m. Return by 7:30 p.m.

USCC
Meeting of interested students - Old members and New members Sunday, Oct. 18, 8:00 p.m. in The Colonial Lounge.

WOMEN/KARATE
Women's karate meets every Sunday, 3:00 p.m. Tuesday, 7:00 p.m. in the Commonwealth Room, Student Union. All Sisters Welcome.

WOMEN'S LIBERATION
There will be a general meeting to discuss new and old business. The meeting will later break down into action groups. Wednesday, Oct. 14 at 6:00 in Room 174-176 Campus Center.

YOUNG SOCIALIST ALLIANCE
Militant forum and seminar meets Wed. Oct. 14, 8:00 p.m. in Colonial Lounge of S.U. Engel's "Socialism, Utopian and Scientific" will be discussed. Books may be picked up at YSA table in S.U. lobby Wed

FOUND
Earrings - Blue stone set in shell like structure. Found outside Campus Center. Call 323-7275.

LOST
Wire-rimmed glasses in black case. Sometime Saturday. Call 6-8853

LOST
Diamond-engagement ring, platinum setting. Size 7. On Nutting Ave. or near Lum's Restaurant. Call 545-0320 or 545-0321.

LOST
Green wool jacket with brown leather buttons. Please call Sarah 546-6451.

LOST
Small, beige change purse with money in it and a key, on key chain with an E on it. Please bring to Student Union Lost and Found.

LOST
Pair of black, men's glasses Friday in Puffton Village or Southwest. Reward. Call 546-1089.

LOST PERSON
Kevin English, Humorist, lost several weeks ago in YAHOO of office. Please contact us in Student Union.

FOUND
One key chain with initials R.C.V. on campus. Check S. U. Lost and Found.

FOUND
Very young, polite make black dog with white on chest in Cance 232. Call 6-5043.

FOUND
Girl's jacket at Worcester Dining Commons. Carolyn 6-6607

AEO
Meeting at Student Center 9:30 p.m. Thursday. Location will be posted.

AMATEUR RADIO ASSOCIATION
Meeting Thursday, Oct. 15, 7:00 p.m. in Radio Room, Engineer Lab Bldg. Election and Dues.

BAHA'I ASSOCIATION
Important meeting of all members of U Mass Baha'i Assoc. to elect New Executive Committee and plan for U Mass Youth Conference Wednesday, Oct. 14, 12:00 Noon, Campus Center, Rooms 170-172.

BICYCLE CLUB
First trip Sunday, Oct. 18, to the Quabbun Reservior. Bring a picnic lunch, your bicycle and yourself for a great time. Sign up on the Outing Club Bulletin Board.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST
College Life. Wed. night Van Meter. 8:00 p.m. Jim Timmns and Co. - social worker and rock group - Door prize. Refreshments.

CEQ
Meeting Wednesday, Oct. 14 at 8:00 CC 175 for all those interested in obtaining National Science Foundation environmental research grants. For more information call Gary - 6-7933.

CUSP-PSYCH COUNCIL
Meeting 8:15 p.m. Oct. 15 in New Hatch (S. U.) to discuss Undergraduate Advising; Teacher Eval. and the Libido.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

Mercury, the smallest and fastest-moving planet in the solar system, is associated by astrologers with writing, other forms of communication. The signs related to Mercury are Gemini and Virgo. These persons can be found in fields of communication: writers, teachers, radio and television — they are also in news because many are fine reporters, able to by-pass the superficial and get to heart of a story.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): You come full circle: a situation which had been abandoned ends back on your doorsteps. What you feel is finished, may merely be getting a second wind. Applies to special relationship.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): What was restricted becomes available. Key is not to ask for more than you can handle. Be moderate and practical. Some rules, if adhered to, result in solid gain. Act accordingly.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Accent on emotions — which seem now to run the gamut. Nothing halway — all life was or nothing. That's what may be occurring during this cycle. Hold on — you will emerge victorious.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22) Full moon position coincides with property settlements, acquisitions of needed material. Home and career may conflict. Finish a project which has been draining your energy.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Establish significant contacts, but avoid unnecessary journey. Means express willing-ness to co-operate in future promotion. But don't make yourself too available. Message will be clarified.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Financial aspects point to need for caution. Study Leo message. Avoid being overanxious. You get what you want if you heed inner voice. Means utilize intuitive intellect for best results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Events occur quickly. Be ready for the unexpected. You do this by having alternatives at hand. Avoid being caught off balance. Check legal procedures.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Obtain hint from Taurus message. Follow rules — learn them before attempting to break them. Red tape exists. But don't delay, at this time, can actually work in your favor.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Get to heart of matters. Avoid pretense. Act in direct, forthright manner. Creative pursuits are emphasized. But there are some necessary chanores which demand attention.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Obtain hint from Cancer message. Practical matters relating to home and security are emphasized. Deal sincerly with one in position of authority. Make intelligent concession.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20 - Feb. 18): Ideas need added development. Overcome temptation to act on impulse. Take special care with what you put in writing. Key is to put into place various puzzle pieces.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): You may be called upon to back up assertions with collateral. Strive for sincere approach. Then you will not be accused of exploiting talents of another. Hold tight to cash.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are dynamic, embark upon whatever you do with air of enthusiasm. You must give of yourself to be happy. The routine life simply does not seem to be for you. It is change, variety spice. Involvement. Chanes of environment is on horizon.

(Copyright 1970, Gen Fea. Corp.)

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Saturday's Puzzle

PAC BALE ERS
ORA RIOT LETS
PENCIL USAGE
DOG ODE AVE
MAID APE OXEN
AID AGE ERE YIT STORAGE GO
BIT ADO CAD
SPANATE WARD
TAT ACE SER
ON PIT ATTEST
PESO ELBE ETA
LOT DEEM RAN

ACROSS

1 Clan
5 Corded cloth
8 Nerve network
12 Simple
13 Native metal
14 A continent
15 Kite
17 Fragment
19 Bar legally
20 Looks condescendingly
21 Ireland
23 Heap
24 Spanish plural article
26 Shooting star
28 Deface
31 Babylonian deity
32 Tub
33 Maiden loved by Zeus
34 Part of a circle
36 Substance
38 Total
39 Actual
41 Shakespearian king
42 Beef animal
45 European herring
48 Gems
50 Band of color
51 One opposed
52 Period of time
54 Part of stove
55 Dirk
56 Marry
57 Bird's home

DOWN

1 Pintail duck
2 Lampreys
3 Talks idly
4 Singing voice
5 Decay
6 Teutonic deity
7 Fondle
8 Badger-like mammal
9 Regard
10 Row
11 Organs of hearing
16 Heroic event
18 Landed
22 Story
23 Part of flower
24 Meadow
25 Swiss river
27 Small rug
29 Help
30 Wand
35 Originate
36 Clayey earth
37 For fear that
38 Come on the scene
40 Weird
42 Dress protector
43 Resorts
44 A state (abbr.)
46 Simians
47 Temporary shelter
49 Stitch
50 Mournful
53 Note of scale

Corner Kicks Score As Booters Blank Trinity, 2-0

By STEVE MOSHER
Staff Reporter

The UMass soccer team used two corner kick goals and a viscious defense to blank Trinity, 2-0, yesterday afternoon. The win gives coach Peter Broaca's boys a 4-0 record for the season.

Both teams played a wait-for-the-break type of game and the Redmen got the best of it. A tremendous defensive effort, led by Dave Ouellette, kept Trinity away from the UMass goal the entire game. And, when Trinity managed to get a shot on net, Bill Leary stopped all efforts to earn his second shutout.

On the other side of the field, the UMass offense forced many breakaways that, although missing several golden opportunities, resulted in no less than 11 corner kicks. And this year corner kicks off of Augie Calheno's foot mean goals for UMass.

After a scoreless first period in which neither team threatened, UMass pressed and began to carry the game to Trinity. Tony Nunziante missed goals on two near misses, but the Redmen continued on.

Finally with four minutes left in the half, UMass got another corner kick. Calheno banged a low, hard shot from the right side and junior defenseman Paul Slack used his big 6'4" body to deflect the ball past the Trinity goalkeeper.

UMass almost added another a minute later when Trinity's defense broke up Larry DeFelice's break-away only to set up another Redman corner kick. This time Slack got his head on the Ball and deflected it to Duane Brown who headed it just over the net.

Goalie Leary made a diving save at the end of the half to preserve UMass' slim lead.

The Redmen came out of the halftime break afire. At 2:00, Nunziante passed to Brown whose headed shot was just deflected by Trinity's goalie. And for the next two minutes UMass took three straight corner kicks, the last one resulting in sophomore Bill Davidson's first goal. Davidson's goal came when his shot hit a defenseman and trickled into an empty net.

Despite trailing now 2-0, Trinity started to force the play, but Leary foiled two excellent attempts with diving saves. UMass spurted for a few minutes near the end of the third period, but all that happened were near misses by Brown, Abdu Thraya and Lindo Alves.

The fourth period saw UMass rise to the challenge of Trinity's pressing offense and play sparkling defense Even though Trinity was forcing the play the Redmen got the most chances, but again they were all near misses.

Then, with about 11:00 left in the game, Trinity had a great chance to score with goalie Leary out of position. But Ouellete came out of the tangle of players to block a sure goal with his body, and then he cleared the ball out of danger.

For the rest of the game the ball was bounced around midfield, to the satisfaction of the Redmen.

For the entire game and especially in the last 22 minutes, the Redmen played a ferocious game, making flying tackles all over the place. This agressive defensive play resulted in an extraordinary number of fouls committed by the Redmen but, for the UMass squad, they were good penalties often slowing down play enough for it to regroup and hold off Trinity. The Trinity team didn't take too kindly to these penalties and several minor fist-fights broke out, but fortunately didn't amount to anything much.

For the game UMass had 11 shots to Trinity's eight; 11 corner kicks to Trinity's three, and eight goalie saves to nine for the visitors.

The entire UMass squad played a heck of a game, but again it was the defense that took charge. Ouellette, Joe Cerniawski, Slack, Howle, Augie Calheno, Leary, Todd Buck, Gary Hart and Edward Doherty are names to remember and watch the rest of the year because, if these men continue to play their usual game, the Redmen are in for a great season. They can't help it.

A GOAL ALRIGHT, BUT WHERE? - In action from yesterday's UMass soccer victory over Trinity, a Redman goal is being scored, but one would be led to believe that the ball was shot up into the net at the left. A closer glance sees the ball nudging into the net on the right. (MDC Photo by Ed Mangiaratti)

MDC
SPORTS HOTLINE
5-0344

Daily Collegian
Sports
VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 25
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1970

Yan-Con Weekly Grid Selections Again Go to UMass' Rivals

Rhode Island fullback Dick Narcessian, Maine linebacker John Rhodes and New Hampshire fullback Ken Roberson have been chosen as the top offensive, defensive and sophomore players in the Yankee Conference for their performances last Saturday.

Narcessian, a 6' 205-lb. senior, averaged nine yards per carry with a total of 143 yards on 16 tries and two touchdowns to lead URI to a 40-13 Conference win over Vermont. Narcessian now leads the Conference in rushing with 347 yards and a 7.4 average.

Rhodes, a 5'11 190-lb. senior, sparked the Maine defense and recovered a UNH fumble that led to a touchdown as the Black Bears dropped a final- minute, 13-9 decision.

Roberson gained 99 yards on 26 carries and picked up three crucial first downs in UNH's final-quarter drive for the winning touchdown.

Other nominations were: Offense - split end Dave Paul (Maine), quarterback Rick Robustelli (UConn), quarterback Bob Hopkins (UNH), fullback John Pelcher (Vermont) and halfback Pat Scavone (UMass); Defense - end Bill Hogan (UConn), linebacker Jim Ramsey (UNH), linebacker Fran Prondecki (Vermont), halfback Dennis Breen (Maine) and tackle Bill DeFlavio (UMass); sophomores - quarterback Sandy Hastings (Maine), linebacker John Salek (UConn), tight end Vic Zollo (Vermont), halfback Grant Denniston (Rhode Island) and split end Steve Schubert (UMass).

sPoRts —AP— ShorTiEs

BALTIMORE (AP) - Dave McNally became the first pitcher in history to hit a grand slam home run in the World Series as he climaxed a long-ball barrage that buried Cincinnati 9-7 yesterday and gave the Baltimore Orioles a 3-0 lead in baseball's fall classic.

The Orioles, riding a 17-game winning streak that includes their last 11 regular season games, three playoff contests and the three against the Reds, can sweep the best of seven series in Wednesday's fourth game here.

*****

BALTIMORE (AP) - The Baltimore Orioles' 17-game winning streak astonishes Pete Rose. "Can you imagine 17 in a row? It's amazing." The Cincinnati captain said after the Reds' third straight loss to the Orioles, 9-3, in the World Series yesterday.

"It's hard to win just four in a row in the National League. They went through a relaxing period, too, after they clinched the pennant. And six of those wins in the playoffs and series have been with money on the line," Rose said admiringly.

Last Night's Intramurals

FOOTBALL
Pipers 43, Mergs 0
Nurds 18, Brigade 2
TEP 16, BP 13
KS 26, DX 6
LX 50, SAM 8
PMD 30, ZN 6
SE 12, SAE 0
PSD over APO, wbf
Barracudas 15, Broncos 2
Outhouse T 45, Elephants 0
Lubees 22, Gregorians 6
Roadrunners 23, Smashers 7
Beacons 21, Duchies 6
Bulldogs 13, Colonels 12
GAK 39, Freaks 0
Gypsies 18, Heroes 0
Turtles over Puckers, wbf
Tubes 6, Browns 0

Notices

QB CLUB-The fifth weekly UMass Redmen Quarterback Club Luncheon will be held at the Newman Center today at 12:15 p.m. to let out promptly at 1:15. A film of the UMass-Boston University game will be shown. Also featured will be the awards for the offensive and defensive players of the week, a scouting report on Rhode Island the Redman's next opponent, a door prize and a raffle of choice game tickets.

****

FROSH HOCKEY-There will be a meeting for all freshman hockey candidates on Monday, Oct. 19 at 4:30 p.m. in room 227, Boyden Building.

****

INTRAMURAL CHAIRMEN-A reminder to all intramural athletic chairmen, basketball and bowling team rosters are due Tuesday, Oct. 20, in the intramural office, 215 Boyden.

****

HEALTH FORMS-Health clearance forms will be available in the intramural office beginning this morning.

****

IM OFFICIATING-Anyone interested in officiating intramural basketball games please sign up in the IM office.

Tonight's Intramurals

FOOTBALL

FIELD	TIME	TEAMS
1	6:30	Lifers vs. Dildoughs
2	6:30	Hack vs. Cult
3	6:30	BX vs. Oxfords
4	6:30	Cans vs. Bulldozers
5	6:30	Terrors vs. "C" Crushers
6	6:30	Monuments vs. Senators
1	7:30	Lions vs. Comanchees
2	7:30	Seagrams vs. Spartans
3	7:30	Bruisers vs. Academics
4	7:30	Pines vs. Bears
5	7:30	Aces vs. Trojans
6	7:30	Lemons vs. Flaming A's
		POSITION SOUTH
1	8:30	1 vs. 2
2	8:30	3 vs. 4
3	8:30	5 vs. 6
		POSITION GRAD-FAC
4	8:30	1 vs. 2
5	8:30	3 vs. 4
6	8:30	5 vs. 6
		TUG-O-WAR
PIT	TIME	TEAMS
1	7:30	GAK vs. Dildoughs
2	7:30	BX vs. Oxfords
1	7:45	TEP vs. PSD
2	7:45	KS vs. TC
3	7:45	DX vs. TEP
1	8:00	APO vs. PLP
2	8:00	SPE vs. SAK
3	8:00	PMD vs. LCA
1	8:15	Maroons vs. Dogs
2	8:15	Pipers vs. Redwoods
		POSITION TOWER
1	8:30	1 vs. 2
2	8:30	4 vs. 5
1	8:45	3 M's vs. Tubes
2	8:45	Bulldogs vs. Browns

Intramural Grid Stats

Rushers (on passer)
Woodcock (BX) - 16
Stephen (Pines) - 14
Fisichella (Dildoughs) - 13
Nieves (Lemons) - 13
Guglietti (Seagrams) - 13
Whitten (Redwoods) - 10
Jaroz (Panthers) - 9
Warner (KS) - 8
Naoler (Team) - 8
Allen (Colt 45's) - 8
Points
Brown (Redwoods) - 81
Whitten (Redwoods) - 78
Jordan (Smashers) - 72
Rinyane (Lubes) - 71
Brennan (Roadrunners) - 67
Lewis (PSD) - 62
McClellan (Trojans) - 56
Hall (Trojans) - 56
St. Cyr (Senators) - 44
Petrides (TEP) - 44
Receptions
DeCost (SPE) - 37
Brown (Redwoods) - 33
Foerener (Hemlocks) - 30
Rinyane (Lubes) - 26
Shaffer (Team) - 22
Allegrezza (Burners) - 22
McNamara (Smashers) - 21
Sweeney (Aces) - 21
Cunningham (PLP) - 21
Cormier, R. (Hacks) - 21
Top Offensive Team
Roadrunners - 243 pts.
Top Defensive Team
KS - 14 pts.

Auerbach -- On Erving

On a recent "Sports Huddle" show, a regular feature program of radio station WBZ of Boston, former Boston Celtics coach and present general manager Red Auerbach was the special guest. Auerbach was asked questions by the program's announcer and also by interested people who phoned in their queries. One such person questioned Auerbach about Julius Erving, UMass' and New England's best basketball player. The conversation between questioner and Auerbach went as follows:

Q. "What do you think of Julius Erving?"

Auerbach: "Julius Erving is fantastic."

Q. "Do you think he can make it in the pros."

Auerbach: "No doubt about it."

Q. The questioner here made a quick point which was missed.

Auerbach: His comment on that point was: "O sure, he's a great player."

Q. "Can he shoot well enough though?"

Auerbach: "I think he's what you call a fair shooter. I think...he's got a couple more years to go...he's going to be a good shooter by the time he graduates and, when he gets to the pro and he really concentrates on it, I think he's going to be a real good ballplayer."

Q. The questioner here pointed out that Erving might have trouble playing forward as a pro because he's only six feet, five inches tall.

Auerbach: His answer to this point was: "He's big enough, he can rebound like a guy 6'8, 6'9, 6'10; he's just something."

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 26 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1970

Bromery Promotion Urged In Senate's Opening Action

Details, Page Three

Gensheimer, Callahan Visit Campus

See Page Two

Harvard Building Blown Up

See Page Four

The Roadarte geo-environmental troupe conducted "environmental changes" in the senate chambers last night. The happening occurred as a final part of the meeting as a great plastic balloon was inflated and movies were shown using the walls as screens. The troupe sought to demonstrate "the environment of the future." (MDC photo by Tim Fagan)

Callahan Advocates Court, Drug Reforms

John Callahan, Democratic candidate for District Attorney For Hampshire and Franklin counties, appeared at a coffee hour yesterday in the Student Union.

A former United States Attorney for Massachusetts, Callahan advocates reform of the court system in this state - a system he calls "antiquated." Foremost among his complaints about the courts is the public defender policies for indigent defendants. The court docket is so full of cases that the lawyer appointed by the courts has so many clients that he is able to spend only a short time with each one.

Callahan called for drastic reform of the abortion laws in the state and also stated that drug laws are unrealistic. The answer to the drug problem, according to Callahan is an extensive education and rehabilitation program for potential users and police alike. He cited the sale of heroin as one of the largest crime problems of the two counties.

When asked about police harassment of "long hairs", Callahan admitted that it certainly does happen but that police are becoming much more adept at picking out the criminal "long hairs" from the rest of them. He spoke at length about the police and said that he realizes that his office has a duty to the public to protect it from over-zealous police who are not lawyers and sometimes foul up search warrants and the like. Along this same vein he said that police are beginning to realize that the District Attorney's office is set up to help protect the public as well as to uphold the law.

JOHN CALLAHAN, Democratic candidate for District Attorney for Hampshire and Franklin counties spoke yesterday at a coffee hour in the Student Union. He advocated reform of the court system and of drug and abortion laws. (MDC photo by Barry Penn)

FRANCIS GENSHEIMER, a UMass undergrad., is running on the Democratic ticket for state representative. His district includes the towns of Sunderland and Deerfield. (MDC photo by Gib Fulerton)

UM Student Explains His Campaign

By RICHARD C. HANSON
Asst. News Editor

North of Amherst lies Franklin County, home of some seventeen small towns and about 11,000 registered voters, most of whom have Republican party leanings.

Francis James Gensheimer, a Democratic "political unknown" according to the Greenfield Recorder, is his party's candidate for State Representative. The district, which includes Sunderland, Deerfield and Warwick, has never elected a non-Republican to the State Rep's office; the local Holyoke Transcript is owned by the Republican candidate for Lt. Governor, Donald Dwight.

Gensheimer is also a UMass Undergraduate, twenty-five years old, a Government major, an Army veteran, and a man with a "concern for the way State Government has been going."

This is Gensheimer's first political campaign. He seems to be just getting used to saying "this is off the record" and those other careful political catch phrases. He doesn't have the hardened look of a political candidate. But he isn't a household word and has a tough fight ahead against his two Republican opponents.

The election shapes up like this: Gensheimer was un-opposed in the Democratic primary (mostly because the Democratic party is weak in the Franklin area). The Republican candidate, James Healy, son of the retiring State Rep. Healy, beat four other Republicans for the nomination. The old guard Republicans in the district have also decided to run the Republican primary runner-up, George Bell, in a sticker campaign. Knowledgable sources say that many of the Republican leaders just don't want a young man to get elected.

Gensheimer, in a Collegian interview, said that his basic platform was as follows:

"Bringing State government to the local level" by maintaining regular office hours in each of the towns he represents. He pointed out that the present representative lives "in Boston" during the legislative session.

The cleaning up of the Connecticut River which flows through the Franklin district. Gensheimer emphasized the need for State and Federal co-operation on this task. He also cited the danger of nuclear pollution from the Vernon Atomic Power Plant, which will deposit nuclear particles at low levels into the environment.

Making "the people aware of the drug problem" in schools and setting up a drug program similiar to the one used in Boston with Drug Drop-in centers and help for those who need it. Gensheimer hesitated before answering whether he favored "legalization of Marijuana" and replied that "furthur studies had to be made" concerning marijuana. He did say that he "would like to file bills" which would change the present "in the presence of" drug laws and create a program to deal with the problem of drugs.

Gensheimer stated that he thought the birth control laws of the state were "absurd" and would like to see birth control devices made "free on demand." His stand on the State abortion law was that "the law we have is fine, if it was applied fairly". The law, he said, provided for abortions for those with "health reasons". He emphasized that health reasons included both "physical and mental". "I think that abortion is immoral" he added, saying that he could not vote his own moral principles just as a draft registor cannot violate his moral principles.

If all goes well for "Jim" Gensheimer he won't graduate as he should next June. He is waging an up-hill fight to become part of the Legislature. When asked why he's doing it, the reply was direct; "I can do more in the legislature, than out."

Two Indicted For Dormitory Armed Robbery

Two young Springfield men were indicted on a total of 22 counts by the Hampshire County Grand Jury in connection with the alleged armed robbery of four students in a dormitory last week.

Indicted on 12 counts was Bobby Joe Tubbs, 24, of 171 College St., Springfield.

Tubbs, who is being held at the Hampshire County Jail in lieu of $7,000 bail, is charged with four counts of assault with a dangerous weapon, a pistol, and three counts of armed robbery.

He also is charged with carrying a dangerous weapon without authority, carrying-a dangerous weapon on a college campus, putting in fear for the purpose of stealing, attempted larceny and possession of a narcotic drug.

Jimmy Lowell King, 19, of 69 Clarendon St., also was charged with four counts of assault with a dangerous weapon and three charges of armed robbery.

There also are indictments against him for carrying a dangerous weapon on campus and carrying a dangerous weapon without authority as well as putting in fear for the purpose of stealing.

Both are charged with stealing record playing equipment, personal items and money from four UMass students who campus police said, were found bound and gagged in the Washington Tower dormitory room.

The two were arrested, a short time later, along with an Amherst College senior, Victor W. Richardson, 20, of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

He faces three counts of assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to rob. He will appear in Hampshire District Court.

Presiding Superior Court Justice, Donald M. Macaulay appointed the public defender to represent the two indicted by the Grand Jury.

All Accessories for Yarncrafts

- Reynolds Imported Yarns
- Native Fisherman Yarn
- Pre-cut Rugs and Rug Yarn
- Crewel, Needlepoint, Straw
- Ponchos, Kits Books

Yarncrafts

HADLEY VILLAGE BARN SHOPS
HADLEY, MASS. 584-3346
Store Hours. 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Daily
Thurs. & Fri. night till 9 p.m.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor).
Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods, three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the act of March 3 1879 as amended by the act of ... subscription rates ... $2.50 per semester $14 ...

Fine Arts Council 1970/71 Series
EVENTS
BOWKER AUDITORIUM/UNIV. OF MASS.
Tuesday - Wednesday, October 20 - 21
NATHAN MILSTEIN
"The Master Violinist" ..... N.Y. Times
Two entirely different programs each evening at 8:00 p.m. including Sonatas by Brahms, Handel, Vivaldi and Bach.
Reserved Tickets: $1.00 to $3.00
Fine Arts Council 125 Herter Hall

☆ Only ☆ certain Americans can buy new Freedom Shares
☆ ASK WHERE YOU WORK OR BANK ☆

First Senate Meeting Stresses Involvement

The new 1970-71 Student Senate, 87 strong, met for the first time last night and worked on issues that have been pending for the past few weeks.

Chairmanship passed from hand to hand as officers stepped down to enter the arena of argument on the following:

The S.G.A. Committee, after a lot of debate on and off the floor, was directed to come up with a referendum question to present to the student body for voting centering on the question, as originally stated, "Do you approve of the Student Senate's funding social action groups such as the CEQ, Community Action Fund, University Mobe, Draft Counseling Services, etc.?" Under Chairman of the SGA Leo Clark the committee will examine various possibilities. There is a good chance that the question will appear in two or three sections on ballots.

Recommended to the Chancellor's Committee on Rents and Fees that meal tickets be optional. Also, explicitly through another motion, recommended that any student over 21 may live off campus, and students under 21 have the same privilege with parents' permission.

Tremendously important to the "old guard" leaders of the senate, including officers and committee chairmen, was passage of several recommendations indicating approval of Dr. Randolph W. Bromery for promotion, specifically to the office of Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs. "Basically the senate should let the administration know what we students want," sponsor of the bill president Glenn Elters explained. The motions passed unanimously.

President Glenn Elters had begun the meeting with a short speech following the swearing in of new senators who had been informed of a lot of technical precedures prior to the meeting.

"Students must decide whether they are finally to chart their own destiny or whether they are content with being spoon-fed and often exploited. We need a student bill of rights, we need fiscal control and we need control over those programs which we as students support, such as the athletic program, the campus-center, and the dining commons."

Economizing time during the three and a half hour meeting, the senators voted in the first part of the meeting on several technical financial motions, all passing:

– a move to loan Yahoo an amount not to exceed $450.00 from the Capital Equipment loan fund, for the purchase of a reflex 35mm camera and an inexpensive manual typewriter.
– voted to appropriate $30.00 to the National Ski Patrol to be used for office and medical supplies.
– voted to amend YAHOO budget in the Budget Act 1970-71 by adding to categories:

Postage	$6.00
Duplicating	$20.00
Books	$6.00
Postage	$20.00
Duplicating	$34.00
Books	$40.00
Transportation	$100.00

Questions which were answered at the meeting included questions concerning the log cabin in southwest and permission to cover campus center walls with murals as currently adorn Bartlett Hall. The log cabin was built by a student group without permission, said Vice President Pat Beharry. It fate is as yet undetermined. As for murals in the center, they are legal and not barred by the 'no major alteration' clause in the architect's contract. Senator Larry Woods answered the question. Any student with any question to ask about the University community can get his question placed on the senate agenda and assigned to investigators.

A beautiful happening ended the meeting when the senate moved creatively into special business to allow the Roadarte geo-environmental troupe to conduct "environment changes" in the senate chambers.

The new senate was sworn in last night. Late senators were sworn in as they appeared. The entire elected senate of 87 members was present eventually and went through the entire agenda in three-and-a-half hours. (MDC photo by Gib Fullerton)

Coffee Shop Named At Smorgasbord

Connaisseurs of the culinary art were delighted last night by a Waffle Smorgasbord held to highlight the christening of the new Campus Center coffee shoppe.

The new name "Concrete Coffee Pot", was submitted by Miss Nancy Ann Machnik. Miss Machnik graciously accepted her prize, a ten dollar gift certificate good at the Pot anytime, amid a less than enthusiastic crowd of about forty people. The contest was sponsored by the Campus Center Program Council.

It has been recently voiced by many students that the new Campus Center is cold, sterile and too far removed from the students themselves. However, scintellating projects such as these are sure to win for the Pot a place in the hearts of UMass students that will rival that held by the old Hatch.

NOTHING AWFUL ABOUT THESE WAFFLES. UMass co-ed finds welcome relief from Dining Commons food in Waffle Smorgasbord held at the Campus Center last night.

Alumni Return Next Week

The first of a two weekend split, necessitated by a modification of the Princeton Plan, will begin with the return of the alumni next weekend on Friday, October 23. The events will be highlighted with the traditional float parade, rally, and an alumni picnic.

The float parade will begin at 6:30, Friday evening starting at Haigis Mall (located between Whitmore and SBA), and will proceed to Amity Street. From there it will go to North Pleasant Street and end up on Mass. Ave. Following the parade, festivities will wind up with a rally in front of the Campus Center at 8:30. They will be backed up by the band and distinguished RSO groups.

On Saturday, before the football game, there will be a tailgate picnic for alumni with a special demonstration by the UMass Parachuting Club as they drop in on the event. The parachute jumping will take place between 11:45 and 12:30 so that people proceeding to the stadium will be able to view it. Starting at 1:00, the Redmen will take on the Huskies from the University of Connecticut. A special half-time show will present the five homecoming queen finalists. The events will be climaxed Saturday night by special alumni evening programs.

Remedial Reading Clinic Opens

A diagnostic case studies clinic for remedial reading is being offered by the University of Massachusetts Education Department for the first time. The clinic began Oct. 12 for 78 Amherst school children.

The 39 teachers will be under the direction of Dr David Yarrington from the Education Department. Graduate students who are trained reading technicians, will instruct the classes.

Dr. Yarrington has divided the clinic into two five week sections. During the first five weeks children will be given standardized tests to determine their individual hangups. The second section will involve the children and instructors playing a series of games to help remedy their problems.

The purpose of the clinic according to Dr. Yarrington, is to determine a child's problem and introduce a program to hopefully correct it. Results from standardized tests will also be measured with those obtained from the games.

The location of the general faculty meeting has been changed room 370 Whitmore.

SEE
WAIT UNTIL DARK
(if you dare)
THURS., OCT. 15, AT MAHAR : and 9
FRI., OCT. 16, AT THOMPSON 104 7 and 9
50¢

Q-Club
HAPPY HOURS EVERY FRIDAY!
Start 4:30 P.M
D.J. IN PERSON
Rt. 9, Russell St., Hadley
253-9214

The GLASS WAFFLE
Waffle to the sounds of Frenzy and Ort
Fri., Oct. 16, 8–12 pm
Concrete Waffle Auditorium
– Food – (minimal admission)

In The Nation And The World

N. Vietnam Rejects Nixon's Peace Plan

TOKYO (AP) - North Vietnam on Thursday rejected "categorically" President Nixon's Indochina peace plan. U.S. officials interpreted the announcement as a bargaining ploy and not the last word by North Vietnam on Nixon's offer.

The statement, issued as the Paris peace conference prepared to meet Thursday for the second time on the Nixon plan, said: "The Vietnamese people and the government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam sternly condemn and categorically reject the deceptive 'peace' proposal made by the Nixon administration."

Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency, in a broadcast monitored here, said the statement was issued by the North Vietnamese foreign ministry.

The Nixon proposal does not "at all contribute to the peaceful settlement of the Indochinese problem but only serves the scheme to prolong and expand its aggressive war in Indochina," it said.

Referring to Nixon's proposal to convene a Geneva type international conference on Indochina, the statement said it is "nothing but a cunning trick aimed at fooling public opinion, hiding the fact that the United States is obdurately maintaining its aggressive stand against Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

"The key question is that the United States must change its policy and end its aggression against the three Indochinese countries," it said.

The statement added: 'the Vietnamese people are resolved to endure all sacrifices and hardships, persist in and promote the fight on the military, political and diplomatic fronts till complete victory."

Nations Flex Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States disclosed today that Communist China had resumed nuclear tests with another large atmospheric blast after more than a year's lapse. It also said Soviet Russia had apparently set off its largest underground nuclear detonation since the limited test ban treaty became effective in 1963. Evidently both blasts were tests of hydrogen weapons, although the government's announcement put no such label on them.

At the same time, the AEC reported the United States had itself touched off an underground nuclear blast Wednesday-the first time in history three nations presumable conducted tests on the same day.

The U.S. nuclear explosion was described as equivalent to the detonation of 20,000 to 200,000 tons of TNT.

The AEC was definite in its announcement that the Chinese blast was a nuclear explosion - one of three megatons yield, or the equivalent of three million tons of TNT.

And it was conducted in the atmosphere, the commission said.

That probably would be at least six times larger than the most powerful Soviet underground blast previously announced by the AEC.

Bomb Bursts At Harvard; Radical Women Boast Deed

BOSTON(AP)-"The Proud Eagle Tribe, a group of revolutionary women," claimed credit Wednesday for bombing a Harvard University building and said it dedicated the bombing to Angela Davis.

The claim was made in a letter, a carbon copy of which was mailed special delivery to the Associated Press office in Boston. The envelope was postmarked 11 a.m. and 12 p.m. Wednesday.

The Center for International Affairs at Harvard in neighboring Cambridge was damaged by a bomb early Wednesday morning. A telephone caller with a female voice warned campus police to have the building evacuated before the explosion.

The letter was typewritten, but printed in block letters at the bottom was the reference to Miss David, who had been one of the FBI's 10 most wanted persons until her arrest in New York at midnight, less than two hours before the Harvard bombing. The printing read: "We just heard that Angela Davis was captured. We dedicated this action to her because her actions and example have inspired us.

"Free all political prisoners." The letter was signed off with an Indian style drawing of an eagle clutching an arrow.

In the letter, the group claimed credit for summer disturbances in Cambridge and Boston and said "in Burlington, kids waged an offensive against the town pigs, capped by the fire bomb attack on the pig station."

The police station in Burlington, 20 miles from Boston, was bombed in August. No one was injured but several officers were sprayed with flying glass, and police had to move.

The letter said "the fall offensive has just begun" and "our offensive will be carried on in the streets and the schools all over-especially here in Boston.

This, our tribe's first action, is part of a national fall offensive by tribes of kids all over to attack the enemy everywhere he shows his ugly face. This coincides with offensives being waged by the Viet Cong in Southeast Asia and by our brothers in the prisons of New YorkCity," the letter said.

Davis Hearing Set for Friday

(NEW YORK AP) - Angela Davis, brilliant scholar turned black revolutionary, was held in $250,000 bail Wednesday on charges of fleeing a California warrant for kidnaping and murder.

She is accused of having purchased guns involved in the slaying of Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley an three others during a shoot out escape attempt at the Marin County Courthouse in San Rafael last Aug. 7.

Miss Davis had been sought for nearly two months and had been on the FBI's 10 Most Wanted List.

A hearing was set for Friday. David R. Poindexter, Jr., arrested by the FBI with Miss Davis at a mid Manhattan motel Tuesday evening, was arraigned separately on charges of harboring a fugitive and his bail set at $100,000. His hearing was set for Oct. 20.

John Abt, longtime lawyer for American Communists, represented Miss Davis, 26, at her arraignment before U.S. Commissioner Earle N. Bishopp and charged that the bail was "outrageous and utterly fantastic."

All persons entering the hearing room were searched-including James Tormey, chairman of the Communist Party of the U.S.A.'s defense commission.

Miss Davis' avowal that she was a Communist touched off a highly publicized battle over academic freedom in 1969. She was an assistant professor of philosophy at the University of California at Los Angeles UCLA at the time. A majority of the Board of Regents, led by Gov. Ronald Reagan, voted to fire her because of a 30 year old policy against employing Communists.

The action was overturned by a California Superior Court decision and the Regents has appealed. During this intervalthe Regents declined to rehire her. This time they cited what they called her lengthy absences from the campus to raise funds and otherwise work for black militant causes. They said this made her an incompete teacher.

Miss Davis told reporters, during a fund raising tour in New York a year ago, that she considered her work for black liberation more important than teaching.

SPECTRUM,

the undergraduate magazine, is accepting contributions for the Fall issue.

In addition to art and photography, we intend to publish fiction, poetry and essays on contemporary issues.

All written material submitted must be typed, double-spaced and include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Manuscripts may be left at the SPECTRUM office, Room 409 in the Student Union, or they may be sent to: SPECTRUM, R.S.O. 102, Student Union Building, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts 01002.

Bombs Threaten UMaine

ORONO, Maine (AP) - After a week of bomb hoaxes that forced evacuation of 19 campus buildings here and in Bangor, the University of Maine offered Wednesday a reward for apprehension of what President Winthrop C. Libby said "appears to be a domented individual."

Since last Thursday, most of the more than 8,500 students at the two campuses have been evacuated for dormitories or classrooms while security forces checked for bombs.

The University has offered to pay $1,000 for information leading to the capture, conviction or commitment to a mental institution of whoever is responsible for the bomb threats.

The University has installed equipment permitting a trace of any call into, out from or within the Orono campus.

The decision to post a reward came after a hectic night in which some 2,500 students were turned out of 11 dormitories for periods up to two hours or slightly more.

Some were sheltered in other dorms, some went to student cafeterias and the student union. A few went to Fogler Library.

'Frisco Blacks To Guard Firemen

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Forty Negro guards, most of them unarmed, are making it safe for firemen to battle blazes in the predominantly black Hunters Point area.

In earlier months, when predominantly white fire crews would respond to blazes, crowds of black residents would gather and jeer them. Often rocks and bottles were thrown.

So the security force was started by the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency, as "cool it" scheme for protecting agency property.

MDC
NEWS HOTLINE
5-2550

SENIORS!

Help plan your own activities this year ....
join the Executive Council.
APPLICATIONS NOW AVAILABLE IN THE
R.S.O. OFFICE, CAMPUS CENTER
Present members need not re-apply.
1st meeting will be on Sunday, Oct. 18, 1970
Applications due Friday, Oct. 16, 1970.

PHOTOGRAPHY
ARE YOU CREATIVE!?
JOIN THE INDEX STAFF
COME TO THE RECRUITMENT MEETING !!!!!
RM.168-70, NEW CAMPUS CENTER, THUR. OCT.15, 7P.M.
TYPOGRAPHY
COPY WRITING
PAGE DESIGN

Heavy Fighting Rages On Cambodian Border

SAIGON (AP) - South Vietnames forces reported Wednesday fighting at three points along the Cambodian frontier against North Vietnamese troops reinfiltrating into their former sanctuaries.

Saigon headquarters said two of the clashes took place on the Cambodian side of the border and the other just inside South Vietnam.

Headquarters said South Vietnamese troops killed 29 enemy soldiers and took 7 prisoners in the three encounters while suffering light casualties in their own ranks.

The flareup of frontier fighting coincided with announcements from the U.S. command of a mistaken rocket firing in the Mekong Delta and explosion of a powerful Viet Cong booby trap that cost the most American casualties in six months from such enemy action.

U.S. headquarters said nine American infantrymen were killed and five others were wounded Tuesday when they triggered an American artillery shell which the Viet Cong had rigged as a booby trap.

One South Vietnamese soldier also was killed in the explosion 66 miles southeast of Da Nang in the northern part of the country.

It was the worst casualty toll from booby traps since April 15, when a similarly rigged artillery shell killed 14 Americans and wounded 32 in the same Quang Ngai Provitice.

In the Mekong Delta, 132 miles southwest of Saigon, an American gunship helicopter fired 12 rockets into South Vietnamese troops by accident last Sunday, U.S. headquarters said in a delayed report. The rockets killed 8 South Vietnamese soldiers and wounded 23 more, headquarters reported.

The fresh fighting along the Cambodian frontiers lent support to reports from Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and allied intelligence officers that the North Vietnamese have begun reinfiltrating into border sanctuaries. These had been swept last May and June during the large scale U.S. south Vietnamese drive in eastern Cambodia.

Supreme Court Considers School Integration Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government advised the Supreme Court Wednesday to consider resegregation and black separatism as it decides on the steps school systems must take to accomplish integration.

"One of the problems is not to require too much," the U.S. solicitor general, Erwin N. Griswold, told the court toward the end of the three day hearing.

At the same time, he said children should not be able to "opt out" of a system that has been desegregated.

The government's top spokesman in the high court has steered a course somewhere between civil rights attorneys and Southern school boards. For example, Girswold said black children do not have a constitutional right to attend schools that are not identifiable racially, but he accused the boards in Mobile, Ala., and Charlotte, N. C., of perpetuating segregation.

Griswold said Washington, D.C., is the clearest example of resegregation-where whites leave the schools to avoid attending classes against their will with blacks. In the capital the public school population is more than 90 per cent black.

And, looking across the counsel table in the courtroom to lawyers from the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, the solicitor general said: "It is far from clear whether all the people they represent want to have what they seek for them. It isn't clear to me that black children should be forced to go to schools they don't want to attend."

Cops Rally To Protest Police Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP) - Thousands of policemen jammed the Capitol Wednesday in a demonstration for stiffer laws against attacks on police.

The rally was called by the Fraternal Order of Police "to show the people of this country we are fed up," John J. Harrington, national president, told some 3,500 officers and Congress members on the Capitol steps.

The policemen came here from throughout the country.

"The thin line between civilization and the jungle-which is us policemen-is being shot to hell and something has to be done about it," Harrington said.

Harrington, on leave from the Philadelphia Police Department, said, "It's time the people of this country face up to it-there is a revolution taking place."

He called for passage of legislation making it a federal crime to cross state lines to attack a policemen and providing the death penalty or life imprisonment for killing a policeman or fireman.

In his rally speech and in earlier testimony before a House subcommittee, Harrington criticized the Justice Department, the Supreme Court, "liberal papers like the Washington Post, the New York Times and the St. Louis Dispatch...and many of the great TV chains."

Combat Bonus Proposed By The Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) - Then Pentagon hopes to lure recruits into signing up for the infantry and other combat jobs now given mostly to draftees by offering special bonuses when the military switches to an all volunteer force.

Under the proposed plan, men who chose the infantry, armor or artillery branches will be paid as much as $150 extra a month. This would virtually double the present pay of many American fighting men, already the highest paid in the world.

Take a FLIGHT
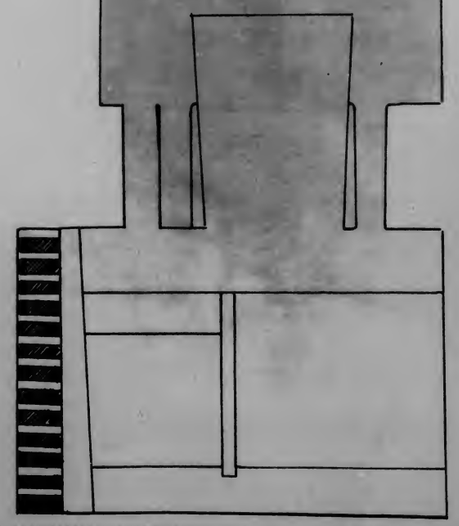
on the escalator slide
SUNDAY at the Waffle escalator party
3-7 P.M.
music by: FLIGHT

TOP OF THE CAMPUS
restaurant
11th floor, Campus Center

OPENS
Oct. 24
Homecoming Weekend

LUNCHEON
Mon. - Fri. 11:30 - 1:30
Sunday Brunch 11:00 - 2:00



DINNER
Wed. & Thurs. 5:30 - 8:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 5:30 - 9:00 p.m.
Sulnday 4:00 - 7:00 p.m.

DRINKS
At Lunch
Every Night 4:00 p.m. - 12:00
Sunday 4:00 - 10:00
If You're Over 21
Join the Top of the Campus Club
$1.00 annual dues

HAPPY HOURS
Mon. - Fri. 4:00 p.m. - 6:00

MUSIC
With Dinner Wed. - Sat.
Until Midnight Fri. & Sat.

ENJOY FINE FOOD
GOOD MUSIC
PANORAMIC VISTAS
TOP OF THE CAMPUS

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Student Union University of Massachusetts - Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR — Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER — Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR — Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR — John Sullivan

PHOTO EDITOR — Steve Schmidt
ADVERTISING MANAGER — John Fayad

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Jim Gold
NEWS STAFF — Sue Gerson, Dave Callahan, Ethel Harris, Chris Reynolds, Maxine Forward
DARKROOM — Gib Fullerton
SPORTS — John Sullivan
AD LAYOUT — Sherry Morse
EDITORIAL LAYOUT — Mary Ellen O'Shea

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Larry Trillo

The Felt Hat

I was scared. I had just left my only pair of shoes at the bootmaker's and was walking in the newborn twilight amid the silent tombstones. These stationary blocks of granite gather moss, and I had to find out why....I missed the Botany field trip so this was my special makeup project, to find the cause of nonrollingstone-gathering moss.

It was scary to be scared. I didn't want to catch cold as the grass was very damp. Dampness frightened me to the very marrow of my spinal column... I a young college student who rarely ever set foot out of campus soil, and here I was with no shoes walking around while my worndown heels were being fixed at the bootmaker's.

I did have a hat on though, and since I hardly ever wore a hat, this was something special. I figured that if I had no shoes on, the least I could do was wear a hat. Protect the scrotum in bach of my forehead.

The balls of my feet were getting cold and my toes had turned soggy. ho hum. I walked down the slightly paved path running through this old graveyard in back of a filling station, wearing a felt hat. In fact, I had taken to dancing around one tombstone where a Molly Detour was buried. Aha! a detour sign of high stature since she died in the American Revolution...but alas some vandals had torn down the flag that adorned it with glory, and left it tattered and soiled in the dirt. I picked up this banner and tied it around my hat. Damn! it fit...- covering the cogs of my head...well actually, wallpapering my felt hat with stars and stripes forever ample. I slept in the graveyard in a secluded spot and went back in the morning to pick up my shoes. I had not caught a cold, for which I was very thankful, and put my shoes back on and took off the hat. I sat down on a bench and read the paper. It was a fine day...I struck my hat on my lap and someone passing by could have thought I was hard, but I was really feeling light. And no one really passed by... I was a detour to their glances and they just passed away.

Patent Peace

So you think that everything is getting too commercial, huh? Well, now there's talk of the Peace Symbol being registered as a commercial trademark. It seems that the competition for the symbol is between a shoemaker and a cloting firm whose trademark is "LUV."

"If this were the accepted symbol of the Quakers, or any organized religious sect, which is absolutely pacifist, we would not register it," stated the director of the Patent Office's trademark examining office, C.M. Wendt. Vincent F. McGee Jr., executive secretary of Business Executives Move for Vietnam Peace, stated his viewpoint on the whole deal with the words, "They're trying to make money on something that should be beyond commercialization."

The United States Patent Office says that there are two trademark applications for the Peace Symbol, one from Intercontinent Shoe Corp., New York which has the symbol on footwear in metal or leather. The other trademark application was filed by Harold Koenig, President of Luv, Inc., Miami, Florida. This firm puts out "boutique type high fashion clothing for the junior customer."

The Trademark Trial and Appeal Board will pick the winner between these two firms on the basis of which one used the emblem first.

It is quite ironic that now there is squabbling over the Peace Symbol.

The Best Hope is that one of these days the ground will get disgusted enough just to talk away--leaving people with nothing more to stand on than what they have so bloody well stood for up to now.

KENNETH PATCHEN

Elliot Eisenburg

Time To Question Ourselves

Last year I concluded a column with these words: "Ours is a generation which has begun earnestly to question its elders. Perhaps it is also necessary to question ourselves." My editors were quick to jump on that particular piece as "mediocre" and the above words as particularly irrelevant because, if I remember correctly, "there was so much else more important which needed to be said."

Much has happened in that year. I don't need to recount it to you; we all read the newspapers. At first glance so much has been lost: brothers and sisters who were performers, students and soldiers; tighter restrictions on campuses by state legislators and demagogic politicians-and so little has been gained: the war has been widened to other countries in Southeast Asia; civil rights action has been restricted by an Administration deferring to the South; even the standard of living has temporarily ceased its gains.

Yet now more than ever we must examine ourselves, our culture and our philosophy. We must do so because the challenges-to feed, clothe, house, and protect from instant disintegration the world's people-have never been greater.

I don't claim to have a fully developed historical perspective. Yet I sense that rarely in the history of modern man has a generation of youth presented with so much opportunity felt so intensely unhappy and disaffected with its surroundings. "What opportunity?" one could ask. Precisely this: the ability to proceed at whatever we feel like doing, knowing that with little difficulty our basic needs are met.

F. Scott Fitzgerald claimed that the generation after the First World War became sensualists. "A whole race going hedonistic," he wrote, "deciding on pleasure."

I think that we have topped them. We have pursued the sensual with even greater abandon than the people of the Jazz Age-and we have heightened each experience to the limit with drugs the least of which is grass. Many of us have paid for it, some quickly by dying, some pathetically by dropping acid or shooting heroin so much as to reduce themselves to a shadow of what they were.

It is too easy to blame alienation or the Establishment for our excesses. Neither their scorn nor their own excesses can excuse us.

The philosophy which we begin with is a basically pessimistic one. It points to the concentration of economic power, the extent of corporate advertising and the centralization of the political establishment. As we read it from Roszak, Harrington and others, these things have robbed us of our destiny.. They have manipulated our lives to make us buy unneeded consumption and believe unwanted thoughts. They have, in the words of one observer, "messed us over."

All of the premises of the radicals new and old, are correct. All but one which seems to have been forgotten.

A man in the end stands above culture. Above advertising no matter how intense. If he so concludes, above religion. Above-most importantly-escapism with drugs.

The tragedy of our generation is its sense of helplessness. Its hope is itself.

Ours, I am even more certain, is a generation which has begun in earnest to question its elders. Perhaps it is also necessary to question ourselves.

Art Buchwald

The Commission On Rhetoric

WASHINGTON -- The Commission on Obscenity and Pornography has just released its controversial report on the effects of pornography on the American people, particularly children. While this commission was getting all the publicity, another commission was studying the effects of political rhetoric and invective on Americans. The conclusions of this latter commission may have a much more lasting impact on the country.

The Commission on Political Rhetoric and Invective studied speeches by many candidates, but made the most use of those given by Vice President Spiro Agnew. In a footnote on the first page, the commission said it was not picking on Mr. Agnew, but since most people had been exposed to Agnew's rhetoric, it was easier to study reactions to his words than a politician running for a minor office.

Here are some of the findings of the study:

Most people were not permanently affected by exposure to one of the Vice President's speeches, though many are titillated by him. Only a small minority admitted to having any lascivious thoughts after reading one.

The majority of Americans interviewed said they believed that adult people should be allowed to hear Agnew's speeches if they wished to. But many of those interviewed said they didn't believe the speeches should be made available to children.

The commission revealed that, surprisingly, those interested in what Agnew has to say are not just people looking for cheap thrills. Many come from fine middle-class homes and are considered by their neighbors to be pillars of the community.

There is a double standard in this country toward Agnew's talks. Many people who criticize Agnew publicly commit political invective in their own bedrooms when the shades are drawn.

The commission hired participants for a laboratory experiment. It put couples in rooms and showed TV films of Agnew speeches. In almost all cases the couples denied the speeches had excited them. And while some admitted to becoming highly agitated by hearing words they never heard before, most respondents claimed they had forgotten what he had said in an hour.

"We found," the report continued, "that Agnew's bite is worse than his bark. The permissiveness of his political rhetoric, while condoned by this commission, does not merit any censoring at this time. There is no evidence that anyone has committed a crime after listening to one of the Vice President's speeches. Indeed, the opposite has proved true. Those thinking of committing a crime have lost interest after hearing him talk.

"Therefore, Agnew is a safety valve for those who harbor antisocial fantasies."

The commission refused to judge the taste of Agnew's speeches because it had nothing to measure them against.

"It would be wrong for this commission to say what is good taste or bad taste, in politics particularly, since the public's appetite seems to be changing all the time. Things a Vice President of the United States wouldn't or couldn't say two years ago now seem to be acceptable to large segments of the population.

"Those who claim that Agnew is polluting the air with his rhetoric may find it morally acceptable a few years from now."

The commission's report was not unanimous. A minority report, written by the law firm of O'Brien, Bayh, Kennedy, Muskie & Geodell, denounced the report as a declaration of moral bankruptcy in the country. The dissent said, "Our children are being exposed to more and more Agnew every day. Unless it is curtailed, we're going to have some very emotionally disturbed people on our hands. Anyone who supports Agnewography is in this country is sick, sick, sick."

Campus Comment

To the Editor:

As a matter of policy, the Index welcomes criticism, for it may be the spur for positive change. However, speaking for myself and the rest of the staff, we would appreciate it if Mark Silverman had put more thought and preparation into his personal critique of the 1970 yearbook.

There are a few points made by Mr. Silverman that need clarification. Football did NOT get "by far the greatest covering of any event." Football received eight pages of black and white coverage. The Student Strike section had twelve pages, not six, of black and white AND color coverage. While there is an obvious need for more explanatory and asthetic copy, we believe the primary approach to a yearbook should be visual-not literary.

If you were to take a real look at what the 1970 Index contains (instead of apparently just leafing through it), you would see that it is not merely an updated Senior mugbook. We relize our responsibility is to the entire student body and not th Seniors alone.

The Index will change; in total design, in layout, in more relevant and informative copy, in creative photography and prose, and in a greater utilization of the many graphic effects that can make a yearbook exciting. This is not another empty promise to placate people; rather, it is a commitment.

Criticism and commitment are needed, but that alone is not enough The Index is published by students FOR students. It needs student support to improve itself and, indeed, to exist. There has been abundant criticism of the yearbook. What we need now are fresh ideas and a willingness to work.

If you are concerned about the quality of your yearbook, come to our general recruitment meeting Thursday night October 15, at 7:00 p.m. in rm. 168-70 of the Campus Center and help us to improve it.

Thomas O. Leavitt
Editor-in-chief
1971 Index

To The Editor:

ROTC is crucial to the war effort. It supplies 85% of the Army's junior officers. These officers do not make policy, they carry it out. The U.S. government policy they carry out is a war against Vietnamese workers and peasants who are fighting against oppressive landlords and puppet dictators. No one, not even ROTC officers, have a right to aid in the slaughter of these fighters. That "right" makes it possible for the American government to excuse its "right" to take away the freedom and lives of the people of Vietnam, Guatemala, Thailand, Laos, the Dominican Republic, etc., by keeping them under American political and economic domination. ROTC and the U.S. armed forces are used to suppress black rebellions as well as to help break militant workers' strikes and smash students fighting against racism and the war.

If you understand the role that ROTC plays in the war machine and the way Amerika's war machine brutalizes and oppresses people throughout the world, then we must have your active support. There will be a rally Saturday, Oct. 17, at the campus pond.

POWER TO THE PEOPLE!
ALLAN FISHER
TONY MOORE
JIM SHEEHAN

SMC Answers Red-Baiting

To The Editor:

The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam condemns J. Edgar Hoover's "Open Letter to College Students" as a blatant attempt to stifle free speech and opposition to the war in Southeast Asia. Although couched in supposed recognition of the right to "legitimate" dissent, Hoover's letter is clearly aimed at the millions of Americans who have united in massive, peaceful protests in the streets against Nixon's criminal "commitment" in Indochina.

In response to Hoover's attack on our constitutional rights, we declare our intention to redouble our efforts to mobilize millions in the streets to force the Administration to end the war in Indochina NOW.

Hoover claims to be directing his remarks only against "extremists." But the American people know from bitter experience that such McCarthyite red-baiting attacks are really nothing but a smokescreen for attacks on the democratic rights of all citizens -- of unions, of Blacks, Chicanos, and other oppressed minorities, of women, and of all groups who need to utilize their constitutional rights to fight for their rightful place in American society. And the American people are also painfully aware that the "extremists" in this society are not those who fight to have our men brought home from Southeast Asia now, but those like Mr. Hoover, who force hundreds of thousands of men, against their will, to kill and die in a war which is in the interests of neither the Vietnamese people nor the American people; those who sanction the My Lais and the tiger cages; those who would turn millions of Vietnamese into refugees in order to "save them from communism." The simple truth is that the American people know all too well, without J. Edgar Hoover's advice, who the "extremists" in America are -- and that is exactly why they, and we, have taken to the streets in the first place and will be in the streets in ever-increasing numbers until every last G.I. is withdrawn from Indochina.

In his remarks Mr. Hoover expresses concern about the widespread "disrespect" for universities, "law enforcement agencies," and other institutions. We would point out that if students are disillusioned with the universities it is because the universities have too long sanctioned ROTC, war research and discrimination against minority students. If Americans have lost respect for the police and National Guard it is because these agencies have been used to murder students at Kent State and Jackson State; they have been used to break strikes and occupy ghettoes in city after city.

The violence and repression perpetrated by Hoover and the forces he represents is the real "extremism" in America -- and if Hoover is really concerned with "disrespect" for authority, he should realize that the "problem" will not go away until he and Nixon and Agnew put an end to their attacks on the rights of the American people and until ALL troops are brought home from Indochina.

UMass Student Mobilization Committee
SID FINEHIRSH

ASK THE GRASS

WHY IT GROWS

Long Hair Is Long Gone In Saigon

(Ed. note: This reprinted from the N.Y. Times, Oct. 13, 1970)

SAIGON, South Vietnam - Since the beginning of a campaign three weeks ago to eliminate "dishonest elements" in the Saigon area, many young people here feel, the Government has tried to suppress the "new youth culture" by destroying one of its most sacred symbols, long hair.

So far, 1,446 youths have been forced by the police to cut their hair or have it cut by policemen. One of those is Hong Quan, a 16-year-old high school student.

"I should be able to grow my hair to any length I choose," he said angrily two days after he was stopped by four riot policemen, who shaved his head with bayonets. "My teachers don't mind, my parents don't object. Why should the Government care how long I grow my hair? Isn't this supposed to be a free country?"

Many youths consider the haircut program to be arbitrary. "It's a matter of the mood of any policeman when he sees you on the street," said Nguyen Quoc Bao, a 17-year-old high school student and another victim of the police campaign. "Sometimes they force you into their jeep, drive you to the police station, and take your identification papers until you return with a haircut. Others just grab you on the street and cut your hair, laughing to themselves saying 'hippie.'"

"My girlfriend likes long hair," he said as he pulled on his inch-long hair. Now I'm ashamed to go to school."

The hair cut policy is only part of the larger "for the people" program that is an attempt at "the eradication of social vices to insure security for the capital," a Government statement said.

The Government now compiles daily lists categorizing those detained by the police. The latest announcement reads: "2,172 persons were accused of having indulged themselves in social vices, including 130 ruffians, 261 gamblers, 217 prostitutes, 76 opium smokers, 121 persons sleeping on the streets, 9 beggars, 123 violations of public sanitation and 1,236 young men having hippie hairdoes."

Since the launching of the campaign 27,577 people have been detained by the police; 16,952 of them were listed as "violators of traffic regulations."

One Government spokesman said that the "hippies" were detained because they were "against the good customs and morals of our country."

No article in the South Vietnamese Constitution, however, deals directly with personal dress. Some Vietnamese who object to the roundup of long-haired youths charge that the Government is violating article VI of the Constitution, which says "the state respects human dignity."

Article XII says: "The state recognizes freedom of thought, speech, press and publishing as long as it does not harm personal honor, national security and good morals." The term "good morals" is not spelled out.

For many local entertainers the roundup of young men with long hair is an immediate threat. To combat this threat, one major in the South Vietnamese Army in charge of entertainment issued Government cards to long-haired rock groups. The card, stamped with an official Government seal, reads: "This authorizes singer Dinh Bui of the Firestones permission to have long hair and wear special clothes for the years 1970 and 1971."

However, some policemen have not been honoring the cards. One rock group, the New Flintstone Corporation, has suffered under police scissors. Other groups no longer walk the streets. Still others go out in groups carrying musical instruments to help plead their case.

Academic Sacred Cow?

(Editor's note - The following editorial, reprinted from the Boston hHerald Traveler, is an example of one off campus opinion of academic tenure. We invite comments from the University community.)

The President's Commission on Campus Unrest has recommended that discussions of common problems among faculty, students, alumni, and public officials would reduce those tensions which must be controlled if our universities are to survive. Perhaps one problem which might be worth general discussion is that of academic tenure.

Tenure is the prize that makes all aspiring teachers run. It is the right to go on teaching, year after year, without fear of termination of contract except for gross negligence or moral turpitude. To prove that a professor is guilty of gross negligence, the administration would have to show that he failed to meet all of his classes over an extended period of time. To hold him guilty of moral turpitude would require the kind of evidence which would catch the cat with her tongue in the cream.

One of the earliest causes of student strikes and general unrest locally, and a continuing cause on several state colleges, has been a refusal - or failure - on the part of administrations to grant tenure to faculty members who were popular with undergraduates. These same faculty members had failed, presumably, to convince their colleagues, or the administration, that they were going to continue to be productive enough in and out of the classroom to warrant granting them what amounts to a contract for the rest of their working days.

The right to this kind of contract, tenure, was originally defended as the only means of guaranteeing professors the freedom to conduct their investigations no matter how critical of commonly accepted beliefs and to publish their results no matter how powerful the alumni they might offend. Some form of tenure is unquestionably necessary if universities, like the judiciary, are to pursue unrestrained the search for truth and justice.

Yet the time may have come to re-examine the pedigree and productivity of this academic sacred cow. Has tenure, as presently defined, always worked to promote the most responsible and effective teaching to which students are entitled?

Some students have been insistent that tenure be granted to teachers whose popularity was based on an iconoclasm which appealed to, and encouraged, their sophomoric alienation. College administrations, though they never will admit it, have refused to grant tenure to stimulating teachers because they have feared the professor would use the privilege to speak out on any subject, whether in the field of his competence or not.

Alumni and public officials have frequently criticized the protection afforded by tenure to some professor whose influence has seemed, in recent weeks, to have encouraged students to take actions which led to their finding themselves near the top of the FBI's most-wanted list.

A re-examination of the implications of tenure, its privileges and its responsibilities, by all groups concerned with the future of our universities might be the best guarantee of the continuing existence -- and freedom -- of those universities.

New Craftsmen's Guild To Fill Art Dept. Gaps

A craftsmen's center is coming to campus. The UMass Craftsmen's Guild wants to fill the huge gaps in the art department. Spokesmen for the group say that they want to offer elementary and advanced courses in various arts and crafts, provide resources and working space for those undergrads of the UMass community interested in crafts and an outlet for their goods (or conversely, a centralized area where students can purchase campus craftsmen's products.)

The SUG Board has allocated what was the old Melody Kitchen to be used as the craft center, and the Guild has been allowed to organize use of the area.

This week questionnaires will be posted in all of the dining commons and at the craftsmen's center (in back of the ballroom.) Everyone interested in learning, teaching, or just enjoying crafts should indicate his preferences on one of these forms, as the programs offered will be determined by the interests indicated.

The conversion of the old kitchen will be accomplished by cooperation of such diverse groups as the bookstore, the Program Council and the maintenance department after all the paperwork is completed. The Craftsmen's Guild asks that everyone look for further information on the doors of the craft center and perhaps in the notice column of MDC; and when the center opens, drop in and enjoy it! For further information, Denise Biron maybe contacted at 5-2512, Leach House.

MDC
NEWS HOTLINE
5-2550

Tom Rush, Cotton At Smith

Tom Rush and James Cotton Blues Band will perform at Smith College at 8 p.m., Friday, in a double concert in John M. Greene Hall.

Although only in his mid-twenties, folksinger Rush has been a major name in popular music since the early 1960's. Last spring he packed Washington D.C.'s Georgetown nightspot, the Cellar Door, and was described by the Washington Evening Star as "a runaway winner."

James Cotton is a product of the Mississippi cotton fields, distinctly different from Rush's Choate School and Harvard background. Cotton's style developed from his early devotion to southern rural players; at the age of nine he ran away from home to find his idol in a blues harmonica player.

"Tiger, Tiger, Burning Bright," brings out Black family drama in a way that calls to mind the "Glass Menagerie". The October 16-19 production opens the 1970-71 Theatre 14 Series at Smith College.

'Tiger, Tiger, Burning Bright' To Explore Human Values

"Tiger, Tiger, Burning Bright", a play which has been called the black "Glass Menagerie", will open the 1970-71 Theatre 14 Series at Smith College.

"Tiger, Tiger" is not a political play, according to director Jeffrey Tucker. It is a family drama which explores strong human values. Smith College will present the play at 8 pm on Oct. 16-19.

"Tiger, Tiger, Buring Bright" deals with a strong aggressive woman who tries to dominate and hold her family by creating a web of fantasy in her home. However, by refusing to acknowledge the truth about herself and her children, she destroys the very things she tries to protect. In this way, she is a character similar to Amanda, the mother in the "Glass Menagerie."

"Tiger, Tiger" is a production by the Black Theatre Workshop at Smith College. The director, Jeffrey Tucker, a second-year graduate student in the Department of Theatre and Speech, directed many of the same cast members in "Thank You, Mama," an evening of scenes from black plays.

In "Tiger, Tiger", Mr. Tucker has a new challenge: he is directing his wife Carolyn in the role of Cille. Cille, the daughter in the play, is a character similar to the classic Cassandra, a clairvoyant who is the only one to see the truth. "Tiger, Tiger" was originally produced on Broadway during the 1962 season. The cast included Claudia McNeil, who created the role of Mama, as well as Diana Sands and Al Freeman, Jr.

Tickets for "Tiger, Tiger Burning Bright" are on sale at the Theatre box office from noon to 5 pm weekdays and one hour before the performances. All tickets are $1.50. Tickets may be purchased as part of Superticket, as "Tiger, Tiger" is also the bonus play on the 1970-71 Theatre 14 Series. For complete information, call the box office, 584-2700, ext. 840.

Fine Arts

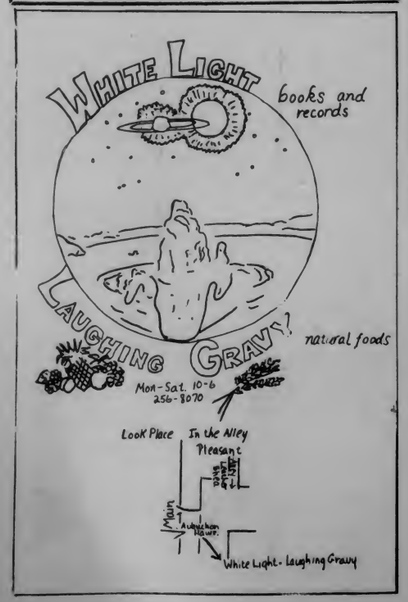
WMUA To Present Underground Albums

This Sunday, October, 18, WMUA will present from 11:15 P.M. till 3:00 A.M., a special show by Dale Cook about his collection of taped bootleg albums. The broadcast will include such helpful information as how bootlegged albums origionated, how to make your own and what to do when the cops come to get you.

Albums which will be featured are: four versions of "Let it Be"; "Live at Shea Stadium, Ohio"- Crosby, Stills, Nash, and Young; The Paul Simon Songbook; "The Great White Album"-Bob Dylan; "Liver Than You'll Ever Be-The Stones"; "My God"-Jethro Tull; (The Who") "Live at Tanglewood"; John Sebastian's bootleg alubum and The Bank's bootleg alubum.

These songs come from such sources as unreleased versions, rehearsal cuts, and concert tapes. Although the quality of the albums are not of the best, I know you'll find the goods a thing of beauty. Make plans to hear the show because it will definitely be a worthwhile experience.

Museum Displays Italian's Works



Paintings by Professor Alberto Susat of Riva, Italy and Salsburg, Austria will be exhibited for the first time in the United States at the Holyoke Museum through November, announced Director Marie S. Quirk. The exhibit at the Holyoke Museum contains 50 examples of his artistry.

Watercolors are artist Susat's first love and his watercolor paints represent his greatest success. The Holyoke Museum-Wistariahurst is located at 238 Cabot Street, Holyoke, and admission is free.

AUTO INSURANCE
ALL DRIVERS
— LOWEST, LEGAL RATES —
— BUDGET PAYMENTS —
Tekoa Insurance Agency
160 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-2742
10 Broad St. Westfield 562-3604

20¢ Large BEER
1st BEER FREE and
MICHELLE MARQUIS
4-8 every Friday
MEADOW INN Rt. 47

MEN WOMEN
5C-SHL
FIVE COLLEGE STUDENT HOMOPHILE LEAGUE will be meeting.
For information call:
Jerry — 253-5340
Kathy — 665-2853
evenings
COME TOGETHER

Draft Counselor's Corner

Many Don't See Hardships

By Gilbert J. Salk
Staff Reporter

Lately, I've had several people see me for counseling who qualify for hardship deferments, but who did not realize it. Students have been taught to consider themselves among the more privileged in our society, and therefore have a hard time viewing their economic situations realistically. But students often do qualify for such deferments.

Basically, the Hardship deferment is available to anybody who is contributing to the support of another person providing that two other conditions are met. First, the support must be such that its removal will cause a significant disruption in the life of the dependent. Second, it is also essential that no other person is able to fill the gap left if the supporter is drafted.

This can be more easily understood if I give a couple of examples. A man is married and has one young child. His wife is not working because she is taking care of the child. For some reason, neither his parents nor hers are able to (or willing) to contribute to her support. Thus, he is the sole source of income to the family.

If he is drafted, the family allotment check provided by the military would be insufficient to meet the expense of food, rent, clothes, medical needs, etc, for his wife and child. This is a classic case of hardship, and either he or his wife can request that he be given a 1II-A deferment.

In another instance, a man's father is out of work due to an injury, and he is sending money to his parents. This money, combined with workman's compensation, just barely meets his family's living expenses. They have no other children who can contribute, and no other sources of income. This, too is a financial hardship case, and either he or one of his parents can request a III-A deferment for him.

Any dependent can request this deferment for the registrant, or he can request it himself. A dependent is anyone to whom he might be contributing financial support. This can be any member(s) of his immediate family, but it can also be illegitimate children, fiance, girl friend, room-mate, friend, or the little old lady (or man) upstairs. The only qualification is that real financial support is being given, and that this can, in some way, be documented.

As with other requests for deferments, it is usually best to seek the advice and assistance of a draft counselor before requesting the III-A, as careful, complete, and accurate documentation is necessary.

It is also important to remember that there are times when conditions exist justifying a deferment when you don't think one really exists. The classic example was when George Hamilton IV received a hardship deferment in order to maintain his mother in her twenty-odd room mansion. (Or is the system really so corrupt that he got it because he was dating Linda (or was it Lucy?)

PEACE.

Questions to this column should be addressed to Gilbert J. Salk, c/o Draft Counseling Services, RSO #05, Campus Center, Univ of Mass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.

Free draft counseling is available at the Draft Counseling Services office in 418E Student Union (2nd floor.)

MDC
NEWS HOTLINE
5-2550

Only Certain Persons May Receive Flu Shots

Influenza, a common respiratory illness occurring in the United States each year, is periodically in epidemic form. Influenza vaccines have been variably effective and have offered a rather brief period of protection against this disease.

Control of epidemic influenza in the general student population is, therefore, not possible through routine vaccinations.

We recommend annual vaccinations for persons who have the following chronic conditions:

1. Congential and rheumatic heart disease.
2. Hypertensive heart disease.
3. Chronic pulmonary diseases such as asthma, chronic bronchitis, cystic fibrosis, bronchiectasis andemphysema.
4. Diabetes and other chronic metabolic conditions.

Those students who would be eligible for vaccination under the above mentioned criteria and who have never received an influenza vaccine before should come to the Health Services for a primary series of injections. Two injections must be given eight weeks apart and should be concluded by mid-November. For those who have received influenza vaccine in the past year, only a single booster dose is required.

If you have questions about influenza vaccines, consult Mrs. Adair at the Health Services.

Financial Aid Reduced For Disruptive Students

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13--Federal financial aid to 440 students has been terminated because of their participation in campus disorders, a Government student aid official said.

The official, Diane Sedicum, an assistant to the director of the Student Financial Aid Division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said in an interview that 40 students had had aid terminated under Federal provisions. The remaining 400 had their assistance cut off by their individual school administrations.

Federal law requires institutions that administer financial aid to students to submit an annual report on the number of students removed from aid lists.

Reports from all but 160 of 2,390 colleges and universities handling Federal aid show that 86 institutions cut off funds to students since June of last year.

Schools reporting the largest number of students cut off from Federal aid were small institutions like Arkansas Agricultural, Mechanical and Normal College, which cut off aid to 38, and Florida Keys Junior College, which terminated aid to 39 students.

Mrs. Green Disturbed

Representative Edith Green, Democrat of Oregon, who is a proponent of legislation to cut off assistance to disruptive students, said many larger schools that had "distinguished" themselves by student violence had taken no action against students involved in campus disorders.

She said it was hard to believe that there were no students or faculty members who had participated in violence on some campuses who were receiving Federal aid.

UM Consumer

Restaurants Aren't So Clean

By JACK KOCH and
BILL MATTHEWS

As promised in our first article, five weeks ago, we of the YAHOO Consumer Staff will bring the UMass Student/Staff up to date with what you have told us about your retail-consumer environment:

1. With well over 20,000 individuals on campus, there have been no complaints against a retailer in the Amherst area;
2. With well over 12,000 motor vehicles registered on this campus, only one person (other than the writers) has had his vehicle inspected in this area and notified us as requested;
3. There have been no requests for information, future articles, or comments.

From these three points, we must conclude that all businesses in the area are honest, and all the people on this campus are well aware of their consumer rights. The only ones who feel that all is not well are those members of the Senate Finance and Budgets Committees, who believe this column is worthy of continuation.

With this encouragement, we will reiterate the following: All comments, notes, and complaints should either be left at the YAHOO office in the Student Union, or sent to R.S.O. Box #106 at the Campus Center.

Several months ago, SCANLAN's magazine began rating fashionable and famous restaurants in New York City, not on the atmosphere and taste of food, but on the wholesomeness of the food and cleanliness of the kitchen.

After flunking many establishments, their reputation for honesty spread, and SCANLAN's raters were barred from many kitchens. However, their time was well invested. By accident, the New York Health Commissioner reshuffled the department a little, and placed Dr. Lowell Belling in charge of inspections.

He created an "inspector's checklist", and sent inspection teams out to mid-Manhattan's finest restaurants for a thorough check. The department has refused to name violators because "a long standing department policy forbids pointing an accusing finger", and "that the guilty restauranteur should not be named until he has been convicted," thus disregarding the fact that the police are required to supply information about prisoners who have been charged but not yet tried.

The Health Department however did release the violations of the unnamed restaurants: "unwholesome food, improper refrigeration, inadequately sanitized dishes and utensils, unhygenic rest rooms, and infestations of rats and insects."

If the above is a description of New York City's finer eating places, how does one describe the less finer places? What are the restaurants like in Boston, Springfield, Amherst, or on this campus?

The location of the general faculty meeting has been changed to room 370 Whitmore.

Beauty Shows
to be held Sat., Oct. 17 at 9:00 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 1:00 p.m., 2:30 p.m., 4:00 p.m.
Free Instructions on Skin and Beauty Kare. Exclusive Demonstration By Beauty Advisors for Koscot Kosmetics.
For Reservations Call Leonard Umina 6-6242 By Fri., Oct. 16.

IMMEDIATE ATTENTION TO EMERGENCY REPAIRS
CONTACT LENS SUPPLIES ALL KINDS
MATCHLESS SELECTION OF FASHION-RIGHT FRAMES
WIRE FRAMES LOTS!
Amherst Optical Shoppe
195 North Pleasant St., Amherst
Tel. 256-6483

Unlike other classics
WEST SIDE STORY
grows younger!
"BEST PICTURE" Winner of 10 Academy Awards!
Thursday, Oct. 15 S.U. Ballroom
Admission: 50c 7:00 & 10:00

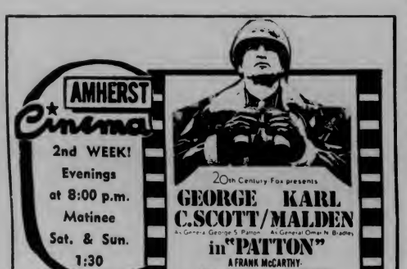
LARGE BEER — 15¢
FROM 9-10 TONIGHT
then sing with
MICHELLE MARQUIS
and her friends (girls)
EVERY THURSDAY NITE AT
The NEW MEADOW INN
RT. 47 — PIZZA — SUNDERLAND

Golo — Clark — Brevitt
FASHION'S FAVORITES
THE BOOT CELLAR
at
BOLLES
BANKAMERICARD
WE HONOR
3 Main Street

MOD Methods Continue

MOD Methods Week Schedule
All room numbers refer to Marks Meadow School
Thursday, October 15, 1970

4:00 p.m.
Room 145	Donna Muldoon	Innovative Techniques in Physical Education.
Room 146	Judy Skibo	Creative Writing in Primary Grades.
Room 148	Jim Sacco	Using College Bowl format in Intermediate grades.
Room 169	David Yarington	Use of Games for Diagnosing Reading Disorders.
Room 177	Nike Minor	Black Boxes and Theoretical Model Building.
5:00 P.M.
Room 145	Bill Fanslow	Creative Writing for Underachievers.
Room 146	Earl Seidman	Group Process in the Classroom.
Room 148	Don Waldera	10 Science Ideas in Thirty Minutes.
Room 169	Sue Tesciero	Individualized Instruction via Slide
Room 177	Jackie Ralys	Motivational Techniques.
Room 178	Dave Lepard	New Sounds in School Music; An Experience in Manhattanville Music Curriculum Program.



Gershman to Address YPSL On 'Students and Politics'

On Thursday, October 22, 1970, at 8:00 p.m. the UMass chapter of the Young People's Socialist League will sponsor a speech by Mr. Carl Gershman, national vice-chairman of YPSL.

Mr. Gershman, B.A. from Yale, and M.A. from Harvard, in addition to his post as national vice-chairman, is a Research Director for the A. Phillip Randolph Institute, and the National Co-Director of the Youth Committee for Peace and Democracy in the Middle East.

The topic for his speech, to be held in Machmer W-26, is "Students and Politics." The meeting is open to the public.

RICHARD RAGIN

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

Flouser, Texe, Garrard, PE Astec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, LPs, 8 track and other necessities. Amherst Audio. tf10-23

Stereo components, tape decks, complete systems, compacts etc. for certain savings and very big selection. Call AJ 253-9396, Don 549-6466. tf10-16

Sunderland — lovely new 3 bedrm. home, modern kitchen with built-ins, old fashioned brick fireplace, gar., scenic lot, 5 min. U. of Mass. $26,900. Skibiski Realtors, Tel. 253-7277. tf10-22

Kawasaki 1969 125TR — quick change transmission, knobby tires, $775. Call Mark Davis 323-7611. tf10-20

POSTER COLLECTORS
SAN FRANCISCO ROCK CONCERT POSTERS
Full color. Out of print. Full size originals, from the Fillmore Auditorium... Guaranteed highest quality or money refunded. Originally cost $1.50 ea. Limited offer 6 for $4.95. We pay postage. Arbuckle Bros., 3871 Piedmont Ave., Oakland, Ca. 94611. 10-8-13-15

FOR SALE — AUTOS

1965 Triumph TR4, new top and front tires, very dependable. Must sell. Call George 549-6174 evenings. tf10-16

67 Chevy 2 dr, R & H, automatic, one owner, maintained in excellent condition, $700. Will install tires to pass inspection, $210 as is. Phone Greenfield 772-0158. tf10-19

Must sell 1963 Mercury, excellent condition, 2 dr., HT, V8, auto., power steering, power brake, radio, new tires, water pump and battery. Asking $150. Call 253-7949. tf10-16

69 Camaro Conv. Lemans, blue with white top, 4 speed Hurst, V8, FM radio, $2,150 or best offer. Will trade for comparable Jeep, Land Rover or Land Cruiser. Call Ron 253-9075. tf10-15

Fiat Wagon, 1965, new fall sticker, needs minor work. $300 or best offer. Call Tom morn. or eve. 549-5534. tf10-16

Must sell — 1966 Dodge Coronet 500 conv. 383 engine, dark blue, white interior. Call 549-3940 253-7936. tf10-15

1968 Ford Galaxie, blk., PS, very good running cond., reliable transportation. No reasonable offer refused. Call Mike 256-6678 tf10-16

61 Volvo 122S, ex cond., new clutch tires, $800 or best offer. Call Vicki at 253-7526 tf10-16

'67 Mustang 4/S, red, power s., h, and trans., a beautiful car. Call now. Only $1,650. Sam Gearhart, 549-3169. 10-15

1961 Falcon Conv., automatic, new tires, exhaust system, battery and starter, motor. Best offer. Call 586-8631. tf10-21

VW Bus 1968 in excellent condition, asking $1300. Call 253-3038 after 5 p.m. 10-13

WANTED

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthelor. Please include stamped return envelope. Idlewild Press, 1867 East Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

Wanted: Volunteers to man local Democrat headquarters afternoons, evenings, Little or lot. Your aid is appreciated. If interested please call 253-3003. tf10-15

SERVICES

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car, 197 No. Pleasant St. 256-8133. tf10-23

HELP WANTED

Ambitious couple who need more income. Unusual opportunity for good earnings for both. Works together, part-time or full time. Car necessary. Phone 1-413-774-3587 between 7 - 9 p.m. tf10-16

Wanted — married student to work 3 - 4 nights per week, from 5 or 6 p.m. to close. Must be willing to work weekends. Apply in person at Burger King, King St., Northampton. tf10-16

PERSONAL

King Fyranold — By the 19th you better be epic and span, because you may get a visit from The Man — The J. Briscade. 10-15

VAN

1963 Chevy Van, Greenbriar, 9 seat, new clutch, needs minor repairs. Must sell, $200 or best offer. Call Rich at 367-2775. tf10-16

GIVE AWAY

Turn your house into a home with a dorm-trapped 3 mo. old black female Labrador-Shep. Needs home off campus. Inquire 6-8903. tf10-15

ROOMMATES WANTED

Girl wanted to share expenses of apt. near ctr. of Hamp. Call 586-2531. tf 10-16

Marketing Club To Hear Lotshaw

By RICHARD LAFRENIERE

Mr. Elmer P. Lotshaw, President of the American Marketing Association and Manager of the Corporate Marketing Department, Owens, Illinois, Inc., will speak to the UMass Marketing Club tonight at 7:45 in room 174 of the Campus Center.

Mr. Lotshaw will speak on the opportunities and social responsibilities of the marketer in the 70's. He will also briefly comment on the functions and organization of the American Marketing Association. A question and answer period will follow his speech.

Though Mr. Lotshaw is now somewhat apart from the academic community, he is no stranger to it. He was an Associate Professor of Management at Washington University, Missouri, for several years. He received his Ph.D. in Economics from the State University of Iowa in 1955. His position as AMA President put him in frequent contact with marketing educators.

Friday Mr. Lotshaw will confer with the Marketing Department Faculty to discuss the policies of the American Marketing Association. The School of Business Administration is now the home of two past presidents of the AMA, Dr. Wendell Smith, Dean of SBA and Mr. Victor Buell of the Marketing Department.

Mr. William Landolt, chapter and club president said, "Since the Marketing Club is also the UMass Collegiate Chapter of the American Marketing Association, we are honored that Mr. Lotshaw has graciously agreed to speak to our organization. Anyone interested in Marketing is cordially invited to attend."

Mr. ELMER P. LOTSHAW, President, American Marketing Association, will speak to the Marketing Club tonight at 7:45.

Notices

YPSL
Will meet Thursday, Oct. 15th at 8 P.M. in Machmer W-26. National Vice Chairman Carol Gershman will address the chapter on "Students and Politics." All are welcome to attend.

AWFUL WAFFLE COMMITTEE
Vitally urgent important meeting tonight at 6:30 in the Program Council Office concerning the Waffle Weekend, members please attend.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
Bus leaving from Whitmore 12:45 Saturday. Spend a few hours with some special children.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST
Prayer time every Wed. and Fri., 7:30-8:30, Room 178 Campus Center.

CHESS CLUB
The Chess Club will hold this week's meeting in room 811 Campus Center, Thursday, Oct. 15th, at 7 P.M. All university players welcome!

COMMITTEE ON POVERTY
Important meeting on Thursday, Oct. 15th, 6:30 P.M., George Washington Tower, fifth floor lounge. All members are urged to attend.

COMMUNICATION DISORDERS
EAH meeting Tuesday, Oct. 20th at 6:45 P.M. in Bartlett 107. Speaker: Dr. Jay Melrose. "A Funny Thing Happened To Me On The Way To The Clinic."

EDUC
The English Dept. Undergraduate Council will meet on Monday, Oct. 19th at 6:45 P.M. in Bartlett 301. Elections will be held.

FINNISH LANGUAGE COURSE
Will show slides on Finland, Thursday, Oct 15th at 7:00 P.M. in Machmer W-32. All welcome.

HILLEL
Succot services tonight at 7:30 P.M. in the Nantucket Room. S.U. Kiddish following Friday night services in Nantucket Room at 7:30 P.M.

INTEGROL YOGA INSTITUTE
Open class in Hatho Yoga, breathing, chanting and meditation, 5:30 to 7:00 PM tonight in room 904-908 Campus Center. Please bring a towel, an empty stomach and wear loose-fitting clothes.

MARKETING CLUB
Tonight, Elmer Lotshaw, President of the American Marketing Association will speak in the Campus Center at 7:45 PM, Room 174-176 refreshments served.

MEHER BABA LEAGUE
Meeting, Thursday 7:30 PM, anyone interested in discussing religion, drugs, happiness and Baba is invited.

MIRKWOOD
Orchard Hill Graysen Main Lounge, Saturday, Oct. 17th, 8 P.M. to 1:00 A.M., coffee and entertainment. If you wish to perform call Steve or Frank 6-7122. Performers given spots at last Mirkwood for this one- please ignore and call for new spots.

CEQ
MPG rolls on, 7:30 P.M., Thursday, room 802(way up) Campus Center. Bring a friend you can trust.

TEACHER—EVALUATION
HELP-interested or wanting Teacher Evaluation come Monday night, Council Chamber, Student Union at 7:00 P.M.

AWFUL WAFFLE COMMITTEE
Nanci Ann Machni, 406 Knowlton, is the winner of the Coffee Shop naming, "The Concrete Coffee Pot."

LOST
1-A gold ring with two side garnets, of sentimental value, call Ellen Zarrow, 549-6069.
1-Pendant with seven opals in antiqued gold, near Boyden Gym. Great sentimental value, call Barb 6-8577.
Pair of brown framed glasses in black case. Lost Wednesday morning before 10:10 class in area of Student Union or Engineering, call 6-7814, case has "Gordon Optical" written on it.
Jobless myopic wretch kindly requests rapid return of glasses lost between P-10 and Middlesex, Sept. 30th, P.M. Hell's Angels prescription specials. Call Maureen, Middlesex Basement, 5-0158.

Spring Teachers Must Organize

All students interested in elementary and secondary student teaching and internship during the spring semester of 1971 must attend an organization meeting on Thursday, October 29.

If you are a secondary student teacher your meeting will be from 2:30-4:00 p.m. in the Mark's Meadow Auditorium. If you are in elementary your meeting is from 4:00-6:30 p.m. in the same place.

This will be the only time that programs will be explained and applications for placement distributed. You must attend if you expect to be placed in the Spring semester of 1971.

College Student Preview

"Little Fauss and Big Halsey"
with Robert Reford and Michael J. Pollard

tomorrow Fri., Oct. 16th, 12 midnight.

One performance only.

FREE ADMISSION by college I.D. only.

ONLY MINUTES AWAY VIA RT.91 OR MASS. PIKE

HONORED HERE
ACRES FREE PARKING
RECLINING ROCKER LOUNGES
2 ART GALLERIES
GROUP RATES

Showcase Cinemas 1 2 3
RT.5 RIVERDALE RD. W. SPFLD. 733-5131

1 "Joe is a 'this-minute' film: a movie truly of our times and demanding to be seen this minute." —Judith Crist, New York Magazine
"JOE" R
Mon-Fri 2-7:35-9:40
Sat. & Sun. 1:30-3:30-5:35 7:35-9:40

2 Barbra Streisand Yves Montand
On A Clear Day You Can See Forever
Mon-Fri G 2, 7:25, 9:50
Sat & Sun; 2, 4:45, 7:25, 9:50

3 MIKE NICHOLS
starring Alan Arkin
CATCH-22. R
Mon-Fri: 2, 7:30, 9:55
Sat & Sun: 2-4:30 7:20-9:55
9th Week!

DeFlavio And Scavone Cop QB Club Awards

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

UMASS footballers Bill DeFlavio and Pat Scavone were awarded citations as the top defensive and offensive players respectively in the Redman 13-10 loss to Boston University last Saturday, at yesterday's UMass Redmen Quarterback Club Luncheon.

For both persons, it was their first selection of the season. DeFlavio came through with just another strong game defensively against the Terriers, as he has done all year. The 5'9 220-lb. junior assisted on many tackles and made some on his own, playing an important part of the Redman defensive effort that slowed the BU offense down to only 179 total yards in 76 plays and only 13 points, forcing four fumbles and two interceptions.

BILL DEFLAVIO
Defensive Award

The offensive selectee, Scavone, had a sub-par day running from his halfback post, gaining only 14 yards in 11 attempts. However, the sure-handed senior, a 5'11 180-pounder, nabbed five tosses, best of any receiver in the tilt.

The Luncheon, a weekly feature held every Wednesday at the Newman Center, also featured a scouting report on the University of Rhode Island (UMass' next football opponent), given by defensive backfield coach Milt Piepul, and various comments by head coach Vic Fusia, who showed game films from the BU affair.

Piepul pointed out that the Rhody Rams "have the spirit and enthusiasm of a young club, especially on defense." He tagged the URI quarterbacking duo of Kurt Wicks and Bob Ehrhardt as the best signal-calling unit the Redmen will have to face this fall, calling Ehrhardt himself, "one of the best passers we'll face all season."

More information on the Rams can be found on page 12 of this newspaper.

Before reeling off the films, Fusia gave some praise to his defense. He said, "I don't know if there's a better defense in New England than ours has been against our opponents."

He also made it explicitly clear that the poor showing by the Redman offense thus far does not stem from the UMass players not putting forth their best, but rather is a result of a combination of factors.

PAT SCAVONE
Offensive Award

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

Astrological research is going full steam behind the Iron Curtain. Central driving force is Dr. Eugen Jonas of Czechoslovakia. He is concentrating on a unique method of birth control which utilizes a woman's horoscope. The results have been startling.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Emphasis on money, possessions, ability to collect needed data. Classify information. Get files in order. Revise methods which were slipshod. There is opportunity for real gain.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Some pressure is relieved. Those who presented problem do an about-face. You attract allies. Cycle is high; take initiative. New starts are favored.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): There is degree of confinement. You are not free to do what you want — but this is temporary. Stick to basic course. Not wise now to shirk responsibility.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Accent on friendships, income from occupational or professional activities. Wider recognition for efforts indicated. You can successfully mix business and pleasure.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Creative drive becomes apparent. You can find constructive outlet. Superiors are impressed. Obstacles are hurdled. One who was indifferent shows definite interest.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Good lunar aspect coincides with significant communications, travel plans, hints of future course. Horizons are broadened. Gain shown through writing, publishing, advertising.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Go for depth; by-pass superficiality. Home around you want to make merry. That's fine, but maintain personal sense of balance. Refuse to give up something for nothing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Lie low; play waiting game. Permit mate or business partner to have spotlight. Take small but sure steps. Be aware of minor matters and basic issues. Key is slow but steady progress.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Overtime service may be required. Keep cool. Protestations only arouse antagonism. Accept necessary revisions, changes. Obtain hint from Scorpio message.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Good lunar aspect coincides with chance for drawing to you important persons. Personal magnetism rating soars. You are popular with opposite sex. Put forth best creative efforts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Older individuals put forth their views. May concern property, home, basic security. Be positive that your moves are not outmoded. Keep up with the times. Throw aside false pride.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Short trip may settle problem. Relatives are in picture. Be versatile — accept alignment, added responsibility. Don't paint yourself in proverbial corner. Remain alert to opportunity.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a sensitive person who picks up moods of others. You are able to interpret feelings, trends. You are an artist in a large sense. You have become emotionally involved, and a decision which affects domestic area is upcoming. Will be favorable if you avoid extremes.

Copyright 1970, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Metawampe '500' Results

RESIDENT HALL-
Butterfield Lemons
Chadbourne Maroons
Washington Terrors
Hamlin Pied Pipers
Kennedy Panthers
Adams Academics
Washington Senators
FRATERNITY-
Phi Mu Delta
Sigma Phi Epsilon
Phi Sigma Kappa
Theta Chi
Delta Chi
Sigma Alpha Mu
Theta Epsilon Phi
Kappa Sigma
Phi Sigma Delta
Lambda Chi Alpha INDEPENDENT-
Peugeut Pumpers
Oxfords
3 M's
Tubes
Bulldogs
Beta Chi
Browns

The Peugeut Pipers established a new record of 18 minutes, 2 seconds.

Competing in the divisional and championship Metawampe 500 bicycle race on Monday, Oct. 19, at 4:30 p.m. will be the Peugeut Pumpers, Phi Mu Delta, the Butterfield Lemons, the Oxfords, Sigma Phi Epsilon, the Chadbourne Maroons, the 3 M's, Phi Sigma Kappa, the Washington Terrors and Civil Engineering (a team from the Graduate-Faculty division).

Notices

FROSH HOCKEY-There will be a meeting for all freshman hockey candidates on Monday, Oct. 19 at 4:30 p.m. in room 227, Boyden Building.

• • • •

INTRAMURAL CHAIRMEN-A reminder to all intramural athletic chairmen, basketball and bowling team rosters are due Tuesday, Oct. 20, in the intramural office, 215 Boyden.

• • • •

IM OFFICIATING-Anyone interested in officiating intramural athletic games please sign up in

Frosh Soccer Today

By STEVE FERBER
Staff Reporter

This afternoon at 3:30 the freshman soccer team will play its home opener against Worcester Polytech. The Redmen will be looking for their second victory of the season coming off of a 3-1 victory over Tufts.

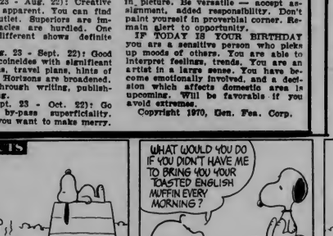
The defense, which was outstanding against Tufts, will again feature Bill Beggs at goalie, with Prouty, Sibson, Stanwood Syer and Palono, rounding out the backfield. Up front once again will be Tyma, Spier, Anderons, Cutty and Nugent to take care of the scoring chores for the frosh.

Since little is known about freshman teams it is extremely hard for the team to prepare itself for an individual team, thus the players work against the basic 5-3-2 alignments with any number of variations of the five-man forward line.

Worcester Polytech, which boasts a winning record, should be a good test for the frosh as this game should indicate the capabilities of the freshman squad.

Last Night's Intramurals

TUG-O-WAR
3 M's 2, Tubes 0
Bulldogs 2, Browns 0
Dildoughs over GAK, wbf
BX 2, Oxfords 0
PSD 2, BKP 0
KS 2, TX 0
TEP 2, DX 0
APO and PLP, df
SPE over SAE, wbf
PMD 2, LCA 0
Maroons over Dogs, wbf
Pipers 2, Redwoods 0
Seagrams 6's 2, Panthers 0
Cougars over Academics, wbf



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

SEPT REP RETE
MERE ORE ASIA
ELANET TATTER
ESTOP LEERS
ERIN FILE
LAS COMET MAR
EA VAT IO
ARC METAL ADD
REAL LEAR
STEER SPRAT
PEARLS STRIPE
ANTI ERA OVEN
SNEE WED NEST

ACROSS
1-Vigor (colloq.)
4-Delineate
9-Music: as written
12-Paddle
13-Swift
14-Hindu cymbals
15-Forecast
17-Commonplace
19-Domesticate
20-Sacred image
21-Barracuda
23-City in Pennsylvania
27-Ringworm
29-Decays
30-Negative
31-Conjunction
32-River in France
34-Pose for portrait
35-French article
36-God of love
37-Giver
39-Italian coffee
42-Sheet of glass
43-Ascend
44-Applaud
46-Take from
48-One who buys and sells to make quick profit
51-Things, in law
52-Boredom
54-Guido's high note
55-Affirmative
56-Loved ones
57-Noise

DOWN
1-Explosive noise
2-Organ of hearing
3-Sham
4-Decorate
5-Speed contests
6-Likely
7-101 (Roman number)
8-Instructed
9-Feat of skill (colloq.)
10-Chinese pagoda
11-Everyone
16-Tropical fruit
18-Offspring (pl.)
20-Metal
21-Vapid
22-Evergreen trees
24-Crucifix
25-Vegetable
26-French for "our"
28-Took into custody
33-Stockings
34-Broke suddenly
36-Goddess of discord
38-Semi-precious stone
40-Newspapers, collectively
41-Happen
45-Burme natives
46-Contorted
47-Female rufi
48-Nahoor sheep
49-Man's name
50-Hurried
53-Compass point

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 15

Harriers Top URI, Vt. In Tri-Meet

By EARLE BARROLL
Staff Reporter

KINGSTON, R.I. - Continuing where it left off at the UConn meet, the UMass cross country team dominated the proceedings in a tri-meet with Yankee Conference rivals Rhode Island and Vermont, defeating the Rams, 15-50, and the Catamounts, 19-39, here on Tuesday. The double win by the Redmen upped their record to 3-1-1.

For the second meet in a row a team effort spelled victory for UMass as the Redmen placed five runners in the top six finishers. Only Vermont runner Bill Bissett was able to dent this five-man UMass assult by placing second in the meet. Bissett has been the only runner to score on the Redmen in their last two outtings.

Ron Wayne made it five victories in five races, touring the 4.85 mile URI course in a record time of 24:55. Sophomore Tom Jasmin nailed down third place with a time of 25:11.

Larry Paulson ran his best race to date, clocking 25:25, for his fourth place effort. Following him to the line in close persuit were Tom Swain and Rick Barry, also sophomores, who finished with times of 25:28 and 25:29 respectively, to close out the Redman scoring.

This was a typical UMass style race. After a slow first mile, Wayne had the lead that he never relinquished for the rest of the race. He was followed by four Vermont runners and three harriers from Rhode Island. Then came the Redmen in a tightly knit group.

From the mile-and-a-half mark to the three-mile mark the final outcome of the meet was decided. Jasmin made his move and took over third place. Paulson, Swain and Barry caught the Vermont pack with a little over a mile left and pulled away for their fourth, fifth and sixth place finishes.

The final team split of 34 seconds pleased coach Ken O'Brien. "The third, fourth and fifth men, who have been healthy, have been closing the gap on the front runners to improve the split," commented the coach.

Medical reports have been a common thing as of late with the team. Both Wayne and Jasmin have lacked their usual sharpness in their past two races due to their lack of practice over the past two weeks as a result of a virus. Even though they have performed well, their physical conditions are not up to par.

On a good final note, Swain is pretty much recovered from his virus. He finished fast in the race and ran well within himself.

In junior varsity competition preceeding the varsity race, the Redman jayvees also dominated the field, capturing the first seven places. Leading the pack in a three-way tie for first were Doug O'Connell, Joe Frontierro, and Rich Sevigny. This trio was followed to the line by Bill Lowry, Dave Sarrette, Roger Nasatha and Joel Fox, to complete the top seven for UMass.

Sophs Shine

FIRST-YEAR HARRIERS - UMass sophomores Tom Jasmin (top), Tom Swain (middle) and Rick Barry (bottom) bolstered the Redman winning cross country effort against Rhode Island and Vermont by placing third, fifth and sixth respectively.

Looking At The Ram . . .

Gregory Sparks Rhody With Winning Spirit

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

A new coach and a winning record distinguish 1970's University of Rhode Island Rams from previous Rhody football teams that UMass has faced as the Redmen travel to Kingston, R.I. for a Saturday match with Jack Gregory's 2-1 Ram team at 1 p.m.

When former URI skipper John Zilly's record of 21 wins, 41 losses and one tie for seven years at the Ram helm was checked out, it was decided that it would be silly to keep Zilly and so Gregory was hired, along with six new assistants.

Gregory has brought to Rhode Island a very impressive football background. Prior to the present campaign, he boasted the eighth best winning percentage of all college division coaches (with at least ten years worth of won-loss marks) in the nation.

THE RAM

He labels his coaching philosophy the "Gregory System", where all areas of football play are "based on enthusiasm, hard work and organization."

He started his collegiate coaching career with tiny East Stroudsburg State College in Pennsylvania and, in his six years there, won numerous games and accolades as rewards for his outstanding coaching ability.

Gregory served one year as an assistant to Bill Elias, now a defensive backfield coach with the Boston Patriots, when Elias was head mentor of the Naval Academy. From there he received the head coaching job at a major school, Villanova University, where he installed the "Gregory System" that produced a 6-3 record last fall.

Coach Gregory has had a positive effect on these 1970 Rams. At this time last year, Rhody was 0-4. The 1970 Rams are 2-1. At this time last year, URI had given up 144 points and had scored but 24. The 1970 Rams have surrendered 40 points thus far and have scored almost twice as much, 77.

A look at the achievements of Rhody players this fall also lends plaudets to the "Gregory System".

In '69, not a single Ram player was voted to the All-Yankee Conference football team. This year, URI has placed several players at or near the top of Conference statistical categories.

Leading the league in rushing is senior fullback Dick Narcessian, a 6 six-foot, 205-pounder. In 47 running attempts, he has gained 347 yards for a 7.4 average. This week saw the naming of Narcessian as the top offensive player-of-the-week in the Yan-Con.

Sixth in the Conference in rushing is Narcessian's backfield mate Grant Denniston. The 6'1 180-lb. halfback, only a sophomore, has racked up 177 yards in 20 carries for a glittering 8.9 uards-per-try average.

The Rams also have the leading passer in the Y-C in the person of junior Bob Ehrhardt. The 6' 180-lb. Ehrhardt has connected on 20 of 29 tosses (a .690 percentage) for 149 yards, yet he is not the URI starting quarterback.

That job belongs to senior Kurt Wicks as the two QB's together from an impressive tandem. Wicks, at 6'2 185 lbs., is the seventh-ranked thrower in the league, but his statistics can't match those of his co-partner, Ehrhardt.

Rhody also has a player among the top nine Yan-Con receivers as Denniston holds down the number five spot; he has caught 12 passes for 188 yards (a 15.7 average) and has scored four touchdowns via the air route.

Denniston is also ranked first in the Conference in kickoff returns, although he has only run back two, one for 54 yards, the other for 25.

URI has placed two men among the four best scorers in the six-team league. Denniston's 30 points on five TD's is good for second, behind Connecticut's great Vin Clements, who has 42 points. Narcessian's three touchdowns tie him with UMass' Dick Cummings for third place and 18 points.

And so, Gregory's "Gregory System" has shown early results and, very possibly, the 1970's will witness a winning trend in URI football.

On defense, the Rams will present UMass with an alignment that the Redmen abandoned in 1968, at the end of their disastrous 2-8 campaign. Such a set-up challenges an offense with a five-man line, two linebackers, three defensive half-backs and a rover or chief, a guy who roams the defensive backfield.

A complete listing of Rhode Island's starting men on both offense and defense can be found elsewhere on this page.

On Saturday the Redmen will have to tangle with several factors in an effort to find that winning formula that has eluded them the past three weeks. A new Ram winning spirit, a new winning team, a new winning coach and a Homecoming Day in Kingston will all be in URI's favor. What UMass' outlook is and what its plus factors are will be reviewed in tomorrow's Collegian.

This quote was taken from URI's "1970 Football Guide for news media.

URI's Lineup

THE RAMS
Offense
C Tom Uldig, 6'4 215
LG Gerry Sullivan, 6'1 208
RG Jay Monaghan, 6' 201
LT Thomas Cataldo, 6'2 234
RT John Gregg, 6'1 225
LE Chris Hess, 6'3 175
RE Michael Furlies, 6'3 194
HB Warren Houston, 6' 180
HB Grant Denniston, 6'1 180
FB Dick Narcessian, 6'1 215
QB Kurt Wicks, 6'2 186
Defense
MG William Calone, 6' 195
LT Gary Swerka, 6'4 238
RT Dan Goldstein, 6'4233
LE Mark Grillo, 6'1 216
RE Steve Quinn, 6'1 190
LB David McBrair, 6' 200
LB Bill McMullen, 6'3 230
HB Dennis Breen, 6'1 180
HB William Dolan, 6'175
S Moreau, 6' 192
FS Eugene Brennan, 6'1 216

sPoRts ShorTiEs

— AP —

Last Night's Intramurals

FOOTBALL
Redwoods 20, Bruins 18
Hemlocks 22, Maroons 0
Eagles over Hilo's, wbf
Pines 22, Black Bears 0
Trojans 49, Aces 6
Lemons 30, Flaming A's 8
Lions 12, Comanchees 7
Academics 32, Bruisers 0
Seagrams 18, Spartans 13
Bulldozers over Cool Cane, wbf
Terrors 13, "C" Crushers 12
Senators 8, Monuments 0
Lifers 24, Diddoughs 6
Cult 30, Hacks 12
BX 6, Oxfords 0
Conglos 8, Civ. Eng. 7
Gotchas 12,
Gotchas 12, Burners 6
Bodies 6, Crestview 0

BALTIMORE (AP) - Lee May, the No. 3 man in the Cincinnati power thrust, hammered an electrifying three-run homer that saved the Reds from elimination in the World Series Wednesday and sent Baltimore down to a 6-5 defeat.

******

BALTIMORE (AP) - Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson thinks the Reds turned the corner Wednesday with their 6-5 triumph over Baltimore in the World Series.

"Our chances? They're as good as they were when we started the series," said the Reds pilot.

******

COPENHAGEN (AP) - Curt Flood, controversial baseball star who sued baseball for $1 million this year said Wednesday he will negotiate with the Washington Senators-provided baseball "comes up with something that can satisfy me."

Tonight's Intramurals

FOOTBALL

FIELD	TIME	TEAMS
		POSITION AMERICAN
1	6:30	1 vs. 2
2	6:30	3 vs. 4
3	6:30	5 vs. 6
		POSITION ATLANTIC
4	6:30	1 vs. 2
5	6:30	3 vs. 4
6	6:30	5 vs. 6
		POSITION ATHENIAN
1	7:30	1 vs. 2
2	7:30	3 vs. 4
		POSITION SPARTAN
3	7:30	1 vs. 2
4	7:30	3 vs. 4
		POSITION TROJAN
5	7:30	1 vs. 2
6	7:30	3 vs. 4
		POSITION CONTINENTAL
4	8:30	1 vs. 2
5	8:30	3 vs. 4
6	8:30	5 vs. 6
		TUG-O-WAR
PIT	TIME	TEAMS
2	8:00	Dogs vs. Lovers
2	8:15	Cougars vs. Alpha Chi Omega
2	8:30	Lambda Chi O vs. Lemons

Champion Redmen Take To The Court Today

At approximately 4 p.m. today, UMass' defending New England basketball champions will take the Curry Hicks Cage floor to begin its pre-season practice. The sessions will run virtually every weekday until the season opener December 1 at the Cage against St. Anselm's.

Coach Jack Leaman, who last year guided the Redmen to a sparkling 18-7 season, enroute to New England and Yankee Conference titles and a berth in the National Invitation Tourney in New York City will welcome approximately 20 candidates this afternoon.

Included in those 20 candidates will be ten returning lettermen, led by co-captains 6'7 senior Ken Mathias and last year's New England player-of-the-year and All-East sophomore-of-the-year Julius Erving.

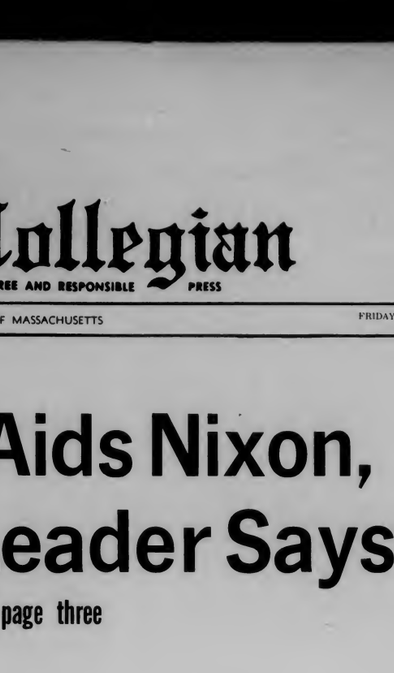
The other lettermen include, senior guards Bos Dempsey and Bill Greeley, juniors John Betancourt, Mike Pagliara and Sam Provo, all guards, and forwards Rick Vogeley, Chris Coffin and Bill Kesgen.

Leading sophomore candidates are Tom Austin center, Charlie Peters, a 6'8 center and Chuck Olsen, a 6'5 forward.

Coach Leaman anticipates little change in his offense during practice, although he did say, "I want to get an offense that will score 63 points against Marquette (Marquette eliminated the Redmen from the N.I.T., 62-57

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 27 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS FRIDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1970



Violence Aids Nixon, Socialist Leader Says

Details, page three

Faces In Protest

1970 1969

THE WAR CONTINUES - It's been a year since the first of last year's Vietnam Moratoria and, despite a barage of Presidential Peace Plans, the war in IndoChina continues to rage. At Left, a student marches last night to gain support for the S.D.S. anti-war rally scheduled for Saturday afternoon at the campus pond. She was accompanied by about 20 persons. At right, a reminder of demonstrations past, as a student parades across campus with his child during one of last year's protests. (MDC photos by Gary Alpaugh).

Room To Move Now Open

Drug Center: A Place To Inform And Help

A new drug information center has recently been opened in the former Student Union barbershop. Room to Move is the result of the desire of students to help each other in an honest and caring manner.

The purpose of the drop-in center is to serve as an information, education, referral and service center for those persons who need or desire drug information. It will also attempt to assist residence halls in developing various programs which will serve as a mutual exchange of information and ideas.

Its counseling and referral services for students range from helping students explore information that will help answer some of their questions to referring them to drug treatment centers. This phase of the program is based on a cooperative relationship with the University Health Services, including Mental Health, and Counseling Center as well as non-University related physicians, psychologists, lawyers and rehabilitation centers.

An important part of Room to Move's programs includes a crisis intervention counseling service. Students who come to the center can obtain needed help from the staff in cooperation with professional medical and counseling personnel when needed. A telephone service, which may be reached by dialing 545-0400 is also available for those requesting information or in need of immediate aid. This vital service is manned continuously from Friday noon to Sunday noon to help those in need.

ART E Page 2

In his self-imposed exile the young man wanders through city streets, rock festivals, demonstrations, past head shops, motocycles, and all the old symbols that have lost any meaning. His brothers are mostly transients, like himself, the new nomads of modern society. Even the city apartment or the dormitory cell are only brief retreats from the road.

Having rejected his parents' values, faith, idols, and ideals, his country's war, systems, and leaders, his education's process, content, meaning, and relevancy, he struggles for new values, a sense of real community, an understanding of and a sensitivity to the natural order, and an end to the games which he has seen separate and divide men. Caught in the whirlwind of a culture clash he walks a rebel and enemy within his own country, an alien within his home town, a stranger within his parents' house. He struggles to find the thing which will make it all right, but it has no name, no description, and no promise.

His search opens him to a whole world of experiences, some perfect and complete, some violent and self destructive. Free floating and undefined by rules, ritual, or tradition he often goes where the wind blows and sometimes, but only sometimes it blows to the middle of nowhere. Society has been freaked out by its own children and has found itself unable to meet the needs of the emerging subculture.

Out of the subculture itself has come many of the answers. The "Drop-in-center" has become a common concept and place for help in many cities across the country. Room to Move is the equivalent of the city drop-in-center for the University. Having opened last spring to work intensively during the Strike, it reopens this week to provide service to the students of the university on a continuing basis.

Senate Objects To Johnson Appointment

Inadvertently omitted from yesterday's coverage of the Student Senate meeting was a bill sponsored by several senators Elterman, Imore, Verrochi, Clark, Jaskiewski concerning student senate objections to the appointment of Treasurer Kenneth Johnson to the post of Principle Administrative Officer of Financial Affairs.

As commended, the resolution was directed to Treasurer Johnson's appointment of the capacity of the office of Treasurer and recommended to Chancellor Tippo that a searchcommittee be formed to consider replacement possibilities.

The whole bill, including eventual amendments, passed unanimous roll-call vote, 63-0, with no senators abstaining was one of several concerning the administrations selections.

In the case of the senate's recommendations of Dr. Randolph W. Bromery's immediate appointment and the position of Vice-President of Student Affairs, the senate indicated its approval of disregarding normal selection procedures, in the words of Vice-President Pat Beharry "system for system's sake".

Considered immediately afterward, the case of the Johnson resolution, the senate indicated its disapproval of having been itself omitted from the selection process by the administrations unilateral decision and appointment.

UMass SDS Sponsers Pond Rally Saturday

The UMass chapter of Students for a Democratic Society will sponsor an anti-war rally, Saturday at 1 p.m., at the campus pond. The rally will include speakers active in areas concerning war and music by two UMass rock groups.

Two of the speakers for Saturday's rally are members of SDS Boston. Joanne Goldberg, a four year member of SDS is a student at Boston College and will speak on the war and racism. Accompanying Miss Goldberg will be Ed Egelman, a member of the Progressive Labor Party, who will talk on the strike at GM.

The remaining speakers will be UMass students. Mary Abbud, a foreign student, and Nancy Dillard will speak on the Mideast and ROTC respectively. A representative from the University Panther Defense Committee will talk on the committee's fund-raising activities and the prejudices of the American judicial system.

Commenting on the upcoming rally, Peter Dillard, spokesman for SDS on campus, stated the rally will demonstrate SDS's concern for the oppression of both worker and student. Dillard also said he expects non-MUMass workers and students to attend the rally.

At the conclusion of the rally, an open mike will be available to the participants.

SASSI ORGANIZER George Childs introduced the group's headmaster, William Smith, to the small crowd last night. (MDC photo by Gary Alpaugh)

Street Academy Program Explained to Small Crowd

SASSI, the Street Academy System of Springfield, Inc., held a progress presentation last night in the Campus Center auditorium which was attended by only ten people.

A movie was shown by headmaster William Smith in which students gave their generally favorable attitudes toward the academy's work and future.

The teachers and headmaster of SASSI, who for the most part are undergraduates at UMass, receive 120 dollars per week for their work with the sixteen students when the money is available from private and corporate donations. No university money is used for the payment of staff although certain student activity fee funds are available for such purposes as busing interested UMass students to Springfield so that they may become involved in academy work.

The students range in age from sixteen to twenty-seven and are high school drop-outs. Graduation is acceptance into college.

CC Offers Check Room

Free check room services will be offered to all people using the Campus Center Complex. The check room is located on the first floor to the left of the escalator. Sunday, Oct. 18th. is the opening date.

The facility, manned by students, is open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Sunday.

Ingmar Bergman's

MONIKA

presented by SU Program Council

Sunday, Oct. 18 SU Ballroom

7:00 & 9:00 Admission: 50c

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor).

Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $7.50 per semester, $14.00 per year.

YOUR AUTHORIZED DEALER

NORTHAMPTON VOLKSWAGEN, Inc.

• SALES
• SERVICE • PARTS

COMPLETE BODY SHOP

246 KING ST. (RTE 5) NORTHAMPTON

Your Authorized Dealer

584-8620 Open 9-9 — Sat. 9-5

FOWLER Jewelers

OF AMHERST

253-7615

65 North Pleasant Street

EXPERT WATCH REPAIR

THE FINER LINES OF CHINA, CRYSTAL AND SILVER

QUALITY JEWELRY

DIAMONDS SOLD WITH USE OF DIAMOND SCOPE.

True Radicals Do More Than Just Shout-YPSL Chief

By DAVID CASTALDI
Staff Reporter

"Anyone who is engaged in violence is an ally of Richard Nixon, announced Carl Gershman, national vice chairman of the Young Peoples Socialist League at a chapter meeting of UMass. Y.P.S.L. last night in Machmer.

Gershman, who is also coordinator for the Youth Committee for Peace and Democracy in the Middle East, and research director of the A. Randolph Hearst organization, a civil rights group, began his speech with the question of what radicalism is. According to many papers, if someone starts shouting slogans or concocts a political formula, then he is a radical, Gershman said.

Gershman, who calls himself a moderate, defines a radical to be "Someone who not only has radical beliefs but also has a relationship to the political forces in society". The "technocrat" is a politican who is skilled in the techniques of effecting social policy, but since he cannot relate to those in society who need economic changes, he can easily move to the right, he continued.

The politician may start out with radical ideas, then go to Washington and, finding things too complex or impenetrable, he leaves them that way Gershmen said.

Gershman refered to Nathan Glazer and Daniel Moynihan as examples. "Moynihan ended up urging liberals to form a coalition with conservatives." He also mentioned economist John Galbraith, who came up with a definition of how social change would come about, but in "The New Industrialist State" he outlines the ideology of the technocrats.

Similar to Galbraith's way of thinking, the sociologist C. Wright Mills (author of "The Marxists") feels that the key catalyst for political change will come from the intelligentsia in the universities, Gershman stated.

"Once a group isolates itself from the mass political forces in society, it fails. The New Left has become alienated and is turning toward apathy because of its inability to accomplish anything" Gershman maintained.

"It fizzles away and the "last gasp" is perhaps the throwing of a bomb. Operating in a small group, especially a student group which has no power to begin with, will not influence the political and economic relationships in society. I assure you, G.M. is not afraid of the New Left forces. It's like a joke...it doesn't threaten the real corporate interests in this country."

People in the lower orders of society have a common interest against the economic elite, and any form of elitism, particularly intellectual, will cause resentment and a reaction, said Gershman.

Spiro tries to channel opposition against a certain group, the intellectual elite, so that the economically elite group of Republican big businessmen will have support and retain power. "He never attacks the businessman making $600,000 a year and over."

"The paradox with young radicals is that they must act radical in a non-radical, non-revolutionary manner. Revolution will produce counterrevolution and the New Left will be helping the right-wingers who continue to play upon the issue of student violence Gershman continued.

Violent blacks or separationists and those politicians who favor the creation of a fourth political party, which will split the liberals are also working in the wrong direction, he said. A radical must be willing to pose as a moderate so that he can merge into the populace; he doesn't dress up Che Guevara-style or announce his identity, said Gershman.

The class structure in the U.S. is the most unequal of all the democracies, yet the American working class is a very reactionary force, he said. "They can, however, shift to either the right or the left". "Agnew tries to create a "merging Republican majority" by focusing upon the issues of law and order, student unrest, and black violence."

"He pretends to be their friend, while unemployment is killing them. Even among construction workers, unemployment is up to 14 per cent across the nation.

The way to reach the working class is by bringing him into the liberal arena, he said. "Show them that the interests of some liberal politicians are in accordance with their interests...those of economic progress."

It's hard for students to relate to working people because their environment is different altogether, Gershman said, but projects can be set up for helping the community.

Y.P.S.L. is helping to increase voter registrations amongst members of low income minority groups, many of whom do not bother to vote because they are concerned with the immediate problem of survival he continued.

"To submit and constrain himself to the true political forces in society ..this is the true radical".

Carl Gershman, national vice-chairman of the Young Peoples Socialist League speaks at a Y.P.S.L. meeting Thursday night Gershman discussed the nature of radicalism and warned that the New Left is giving right-wingers an opportunity to play upon the issue of student violence. The true radical must "submit and constrain himself." (MDC photo by David Bernstein)

Fac-Sen Worries About Pay Hike

By BRIAN WHITE
Staff Reporter

In an uneventful meeting last night, the Faculty Senate touched on faculty pay, the dismissal of WFCR's program directors, and the appointment of members to its own committees.

The meeting began with an extensive discussion of the failure of legislators to vote the faculty a pay increase which would keep salaries abreast of changing economic conditions. Chancellor Tippo remarked that he felt confident that a pay increase would be forthcoming, that its lack had only been an oversight, to which a Senate member quipped, "Does the Senate have a chaplain?"

An extensive dialogue with a Mr. Wilkes stated that the Store kept a 5% reduction in price on all texts over $3.00.

An extensive dialogue with a Mr. Wilkes, Assistant Manager of the University Store with a special interest in book shipments, proved inconclusive. Wilkes stated that the Store kept a 5% reduction in price on all texts over $3.00.

Questioned at great length by faculty members regarding book shipments, he defended the Store by citing difficulties with publishers, and finally denied that it was the Store's policy to cut book orders by one third of the original request. The Store did attempt to keep orders to a minimum level when a great number of used copies were available, he admitted. When Wilkes finally was allowed to stand down, it was as a gesture of the futility of further discussion.

Next a motion was raised to investigate the dismissal of Fred and Diana Callan from program directorship of WFCR. Mr. Arnold Silver stated the situation in this way: After four years of distinguished service to the radio station, having won awards and an excellent reputation for WFCR, the Callans had abruptly been asked to resign by Nov. 15 of this year. Since they have refused to leave, they have been staying on at the station as state law requires, but have been suspended from active work.

Mr. Marcus, Special Assistant to the Chancellor for Public Affairs, denied that the problem was that simple. The original motion, to investigate the dismissal, was tabled in favor of having Chancellor Tippo give a later report to the Senate.

The Senate's Committee on Committees' recommendations on appointments to committees were accepted. Further appointments were made, to various posts in the University.

Foes Blast Nixon's Plan For Viet Peace

PARIS (AP) - North Vietnam and the Viet Cong expressed their "categorical" rejection Thursday of President Nixon's peace plan, but the United States refused to accept this as their last word.

"Let there be no illusions," said Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh of the Viet Cong at the regular weekly session of the Paris peace talks, "we have categorically rejected Mr. Nixon's pseudo plan for peace."

For Hanoi, Ambassador Xuan Thuy had this to say: "The Vietnamese people and the government of the Democratic Republic of North Vietnam severely condemn and categorically reject this false peace proposition made by the Nixon administration."

20¢ Large BEER

1st BEER FREE and

MICHELLE MARQUIS

4-8 every Friday

MEADOW INN Rt. 47

AUTO INSURANCE

ALL DRIVERS

— LOWEST, LEGAL RATES —

— BUDGET PAYMENTS —

Tekoa Insurance Agency

160 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-2742

10 Brood St. Westfield 562-3604

Waffle Sunday

Eating Contest — 1 P.M.

Folk Music — 12-3 P.M.

(John & Linda)

Escalator Naming

Escalator Party — 3-7 P.M.

(F L I G H T)

HILLEL

COME BRUNCH WITH US

Speaker: Rabbi Myron Geller

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 18

11:00 a.m., Commonwealth room, S.U.

75¢ paid members $1.50 others

FRIDAY EVENING SERVICES — Nantucket room, S.U.

7:30 p.m.

oneg shabbat in sukka following

In The Nation And The World

Soviet Plane Hijacked, Father-Son Ask Refuge

TRABZON, Turkey (AP) - A Jewish father and his son carrying shotguns, pistols and grenades hijacked a Soviet airliner Thursday and forced it to fly across the border into Turkey. The plane landed at this coastal town with the stewardess shot to death and three other crewmen wounded.

It was the first known successful hijacking of the Soviet passenger plan although there have been at least four other attempts. Moscow promptly asked Turkey to extradite the hijackers and return the plane.

Officials identified the hijackers as Brazinskas Koroyere, 46, and his son Algedas, 18. They surrendered to police and asked for political asylum.

Turkish newspapers said the Koroyeres were Jewish and the father was a native of Lithuania.

No motive was given immediately for the hijacking, but the Soviet Union has refused to permit thousands of Jews to leave Russia and many Lithuanians still object to the Soviet absorption of their country in 1940.

Police surrounded the Aeroflot, twin engined airliner when it touched down at this Black Sea port about 100 miles south of where it was seized while on a domestic flight inside the Soviet Union.

The two hijackers were the first to emerge and handed over two shotguns, five pistols and three hand grenades.

Many of the remaining 43 passengers appeared to be panicky. The chief pilot was taken to a hospital where he was reported to be in critical condition with a chest wound. The plane had a crew of five.

Turkish authorities quoted the elder Koroyero as saying he and his son opened fire when the crew refused to change course and break radio communications with Soviet air controllers.

The hostess, Natasha Kurcherko, 18, was slain as she tried to block the door to the pilots' compartment. Then the chief pilot a copiolot and the radio operator were wounded.

The authorities said the copilot took over the controls from the severely wot led chief pilot and brought the plane in for a normal landing.

in Moscow, the Soviet Union asked Turkey to extradite the hijackers and to return the airliner, passengers and crew. A Turkish Foreign Ministry spokesman said it would be Turkey's duty to return the plan and personnel but the extradition question "is a more complicated matter."

The Soviet press seldom reports internal crimes and accidents and previous hijack attempts were not reported for several days or weeks after they happened.

The plane, A Tupelev F27 of the government run airline, was seized 10 minutes after it took off from the Georgian town of Batumi on the eastern edge of the Black Sea for Sukhumin, 100 Miles to the north.

New Amendment Seeks Rights For Women

Washington (AP) - The two senators who have led the fight for the equal rights amendment gave up on it Wednesday and proposed a substitute they said is also intended to prevent discrimination against women.

The substitute, offered by Sens. Birch Bayh, D Ind., and Marlow W. Cook, R Ky., would make the 14th amendment's equal protection clause apply expressly to discrimination on account of sex.

"I believe that this amendment would accomplish the great bulk of the specific items of reform sought by proponents of the equal rights amendment," Bayh told the Senate.

As passed by the House, the amendment provided that "equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

The substitute offered by Bayh and Cook provides that "neither the United States nor any state shall, on account of sex, deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

Bayh said he believed this would accommodate "the conflicting concerns that face usensuring the equal protection of the laws to those who have been discriminated against on account of sex, while recognizing the need for a flexible standard in cases where different treatment under the law may justified."

ACLU Urges Injunction Against National Guard

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) - The American Civil Liberties Union asked federal court Thursday for an injunction against state officials to limit use of National Guard troops during civil disorders.

The suit, filed on behalf of three Kent State University student leaders, names Gov. James A. Rhodes, State Adj. Gen Sylvester Del Corse and Asst. Adj. Gen. Robert Canterbury as defendants.

ACLU attorney Harold Weinstein said an injunction is being sought to "prevent the governor from calling the national guard out unless there is a serious threat of invasion or a complete breakdown of civilian control."

The requested order would specify that if the guard is called out that "guardsmen be completely trained, that they be instructed to use nondeadly force and nonlethal equipment and that they be enjoined from carrying live ammunition during ordinary civilian control disorders."

The attorney said the action was brough as a result of the ACLU's investigation of the May 4 incident at Kent Satate University in which four students were shot to death during a confrontation between antiwar demonstrators and Ohio National Guard troops.

Listed as plaintiffs are Craig Morton, Kent student body president; Them Dickerson, student body vice president, and William Slocum, president pro tem of the Student Senate.

IRS Denies Tax Exemption To Public Interest Groups

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Senate subcommittee asked the Treasury Department Thursday to explain publicly its decision to suspend the tax exempt status of public interest law firms and other nonprofit "public interest law firms and "public interest" groups.

Its chairman, joined by six other senators, charged the IRS "with crippling hundreds of organizations working to protect the public interest..." through aid for the environment, the poor and the nation's consumers.

The senators asked IRS Commissioner Randolph Thrower to testify early in November before the Labor subcommittee on employment, manpower and poverty.

The letter, initiated by Sens. Gaylord Nelson, D. Wis., subcommittee chairman, and Walter Mondale, D. Minn., said foundations and private citizens are unlikely to contribute to such groups until the situation is clarified.

"According to the IRS announcement, contributions of citizens to public interest organizations-dedicated to the enforcement of laws passed to protect the majority against wealthy corporate interests-may no longer be tax deductible," the senators said.

"The IRS will continue however to permit wealthy corporations to deduct as 'business expenses' the cost of defending lawsuits for defiling the environment or endangering consumer health."

Such a paradox, the senators said, "clearly denies large groups of our citizens access to justice."

The letter includes the signatures of Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D Mass., and Claiborne Pell, D RI.

White Vows To Continue Campaign Despite Surgery

BOSTON (AP) - Despite emergency abdominal surgery for Boston Mayor Kevin H. White, the Democratic nominee for governor, his campaign will continue with "redoubled efforts."

Speaking for White at a news conference Thursday, State Rep. Michael S. Dukakis, D. Brookline, the Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, said there would be "no moratorium" on the campaign.

Surrounded in City Hall by Senate President Maurice A. Donahue, House Speaker David M. Bartley, both Holyoke Democrats, and former Lt. Gov. Francis X. Bellotti, Dukakis said White should be on his feet in a week to 10 days and probably will be able to campaign soon thereafter.

However, Dr. John Knowles, director of the Massachusetts General Hospital, differed in stating that White could be laid up for a month.

The mayor was taken to Massachusetts General Hospital Wednesday night and was operated upon for a perforated ulcer.

Dukakis also offered to sit in for White Friday night at a scheduled television debate with Gov. Francis W. Sargent.

Earlier in the day, Sargent said he would not debate Dukakis since "I am being challenged by the mayor." He said he would reschedule a debate with White if he recovers in time.

The incumbent Governor suggested that since it is not possible for the mayor to participate in their scheduled TV debate, perhaps the two candidates for lieutenant governor-Republican Donald Dwight and Democrat Michael Dukakis-could replace the principals.

Sargent said he would curtail his personal appearances, however, and said he would not criticize White at the appearances he does make.

In lieu of the debate with White, Sargent said he would issue a series of position papers.

Dukakis said he would undertake much of White's campaign schedule until he is recovered.

He also said that Donahue, Bartley, Bellotti and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D Mass., would campaign for White.

Check Room

Free check room services will be offered to all people using the Campus Center Complex. The check room is located on the first floor to the left of the escalator. Sunday, Oct. 18th is the opening date.

The facility, manned by students, is open from 8 AM to 10 PM, Monday through Saturday, and 1 PM to 10 PM on Sunday.

HELP

Teacher - Course Evaluation Meeting, Mon., Oct 19
Council Chambers, Student Union, 7:00 p.m.

9:15 6:45
Paul Newman
is 50¢ HARPER 50¢
Mahar
Fri. Oct. 16
6:45 9:15

NEED
CREPE PAPER
and
OTHER
DECORATING SUPPLIES???
See
HASTINGS
45 South Pleasant St.
Amherst

The Federal Bureau of Investigation, directed by J. Edgar Hoover, today assumed primary jurisdiction in the investigation of bombings and arsons at institutions supported in part by Federal funds. Before the signing of new legislation granting the FBI jurisdiction, the agency had already stated it would play a role in the investigation.

Reporter Walks Halls Of Pentagon Unseathed

Editor's Note: The government said it tightened security at federal buildings because of terrorist bombings. But an AP reporter, sporting a bushy beard and carrying a suspicious looking box, found that security wasn't so tight. Here is his report:

WASHINGTON (AP) - I marched into the Pentagon Thursday carrying a shabby yellow shoe box just to see how far I could get before the government's security against bombers stopped me dead in my tracks.

I walked for a mile, all the way to Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's office, and nobody stopped me.

Nobody stopped me either five minutes later when I walked by the offices of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Two Marine sergents gave me a cold eye as they chatted in the corridor, but they didn't have a word to say about my box. The cold eye could have been directed at my beard.

It was the same almost everywhere I went-the Capitol, the Senate Office Building, the Justice Department, Internal Revenue Service, the Post Office Department and even the General Services Administration.

The GSA was the department that ordered the tightened security in the first place. In a directive Monday it said entrance to government buildings should be denied "to anyone carrying suspicious packages unless they voluntarily submit the package for examination."

All I had in the box was an old pair of black shoes.

But for all the government guards knew, the box could have held a bomb.

Except at the Supreme Court - where the guards were on their toes - nobody bothered to ask me about my box.

Everywhere, the guards were courteous and cooperative when I stopped to ask them for directions. But they apparently were not aware of the directive to check suspicious packages.

The Pentagon-a place the nation's Weatherpeople dream of destroying-didn't even have a guard at a basement entrance.

At the Senate Office Building, there was a guard inside the door. He was on the telephone, though, and didn't even look up when I within 10 feet of them. I thought surely one was going to stop me. They didn't.

At the Justice Department-a building radicals tried to storm last November-I walked in through an entrance marked FBI Tours and again mingled with the tourists before slipping down a corridor and into a men's room.

There, I struck up a conversation on the World Series.

"I'm glad Cincinnati won at least one game," remarked one man who looked like an FBI agent might look, "even though I'm from Baltimore."

He glanced at the box but didn't ask what was inside.

At the Supreme Court, things were different.

"What do you have in that box?" guard A. R. Burgoon asked as he unobtrusively but firmly blocked the main entrance to the building

"Just a pair of shoes."

"Would you mind opening the box."

"No, sir."

Burgoon examined the shoes, then took the box. He returned it only when I was leaving the building.

At the GSA, a guard stood in a guardhouse a few yards inside a courtyard one of the few entrances to the building left opened during the security drive. The guard said nothing as I walked by.

Two workmen clad in blue overalls stood by a rear entrance marked for deliveries. They were ask[illegible] the regular entrances were closed.

"Security," said one.

"They're afraid somebody is going to blow up the place," said the other.

I walked through a back door and around the building's main lobby and took an elevator to the 6th floor. There I asked a public information officer if he believed it possible to protect government buildings against terrorists.

"I think it's pretty rough," he said. "But you can keep out people who are carrying ... and shoe boxes."

The spokesman paused and glanced at the shoe box.

"I'm really amazed they let you in. Didn't they ask you about it at all?"

Revolutionary Women Found Not Involved in Bombing

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - Police Thursday dismissed as a hoax a letter claiming "The Proud Eagle Tribe, a group of revolutionary women," bombed a Harvard University building Wednesday.

Police said they never heard of the group and were concentrating their search for two young women seen in the building before the explosion.

The letter claiming commission of the bombing was sent to news agencies in Boston. It was signed "The Proud Eagle Tribe" and sad the bombing was dedicated to black militant Angela Davis.

Miss Davis was arrested in New York Tuesday night.

One Cambridge officer called the letter a "red herring" signed to hamper the investigation and lead suspicion away from those responsible for the bombing of the Center for International Affairs.

At least four persons at the center have provided descriptions of two girls suspected of planting the explosive in a desk drawer on the third floor, police said.

Tentative identification of one of the girls was made through a photograph taken at a past demonstration.

Det. Lt. Lawrence Brutti said composite drawings of both girls would be circulated to police throughout the country.

Officials believe the bomb was inside a metal box placed ina drawer in the desk of Army Col. Donald F. Bletz, a research follow at the center this semester.

Detective Lt. John Ambrone of the state fire marshal's office quoted an unidentified assistant librarian at the center as saying she had seen two hirls leaving Bletz' office, one of three next to the library on the center's top floor.

James Ingraham, Harvard superintendent of buildings, estimated the cost of repairing the explosion damage at $20,000. He said it will take one week to 10 days before the library can be reopened and one month before the entire third floor is ready for occupancy.

Harvard President Nathan M. Pusey called the bombing "a senseless attack upon the entire university."

Approximately 300 persons attended a noon rally sponsored by Young Americans for Freedom at the university Thursday to protest the bombing. Some 125 students signed a telegram to be sent to Pusey condemning the bombing.

Approximately 1,000 signatures were gathered on a petition, circulated by residents of Leverett House, a dormitory, condemning the bombing "as an unjustified act of violence."

A series of bomb scares hit schools in New England meanwhile.

Boston University reported two and Northeaster and Suffolk Universities, both in Boston, reported one each.

The Murdock Junior Senior High School in Winchendon near the New Hampshire BORDER IN Central Massachusetts was evacuated for the third time in less than two weeks after a telephoned bomb scare.

Approximately 2,500 students at the University of Maine in Bangor and Orono were reouted from 11 dormitories by bomb scares Wednesday. The university offered a $1,000 reward for apprehension, conviction or commitment of those responsible.

MDC
NEWS HOTLINE
5-2550

Boston Schools Hit By Bombing Threats

BOSTON AP A rash of bomb scares hit Boston colleges Thursday, including two at Boston University and one each at Northeastern and Suffolk Universities.

A Boston University spokesman said the school received a telephoned bomb threat Thursday morning and another in the afternoon.

The spokesman said, however, that the school does not think the threats were politically motivated. Instead, he said they might have been called in by students who didn't want to take exams.

The administration building at Suffolk University, on Beacon Hill near the State House, was evacuated shortly after 2 p.m. Thursday after a female caller warned a bomb was to explode in 15 minutes.

"This is no joke," [illegible] quoted her as saying.

A spokesman at [illegible] University declined to [illegible] the bomb threat[illegible] except to say [illegible] precautions were taken.

MDC CLASSIFIED ADS PAY!

Beauty Shows
to be held Sat., Oct. 17 at 9:00 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 1:00 p.m., 2:30 p.m., 4:00 p.m.
Free Instructions on Skin and Beauty Kare. Exclusive Demonstration By Beauty Advisors for Koscot Kosmetics.
For Reservations Call Leonard Umina 6-6242 By Fri., Oct. 16.

HARD ROCK
SICK OF SATURDAY NITE DRAG?
DIG THE AMAZING SOUNDS
OF
ORB II
AT THE
NEW MEADOW INN
SAT. NITE — OCTOBER 17
RT. 47 — PIZZA — SUNDERLAND

JOIN US with a WARM girl for a COLD beer and the COOL sounds
of
THE ENDLESS KNIGHTS DANCING
at the CHEQUERS
FRI. & SAT. 9-12 P.M.

MDC Feature

YSA. Outlet For Group Protest

By KAREN DEGRACE
Staff Reporter

A whole generation of determined youth threatens to turn its back on traditional ideologies. Rebellion, stemming from the hypocrisy and exploitation of the larger society, often takes the form of organized group protests. A new organization, the Young Socialist Alliance, has done just that.

YSA, formed in 1960, is the fastest growing radical organization in the country, according to Sidney Finehirsh, spokesman for the group. While its UMass following attempts to advance beyond its present second member mark, national participation has reached the level of 2000.

YSA, based on the principles of Marxism as developed by Lenin and Trotsky, is dedicated to the building of a revolutionary socialist movement. This, believe its adherents, will involve a continual expansion of human freedom in all aspects of life, and will mean that for the first time in history, men will control society, rather than be controlled by it.

Sidney Finehirsh is the chairman of the campus YSA. He has been active in the anti-war movement for eight years. Instrumental in the strike, he was a speaker in last May's Washington moratorium. Presently he is a graduate assistant in economics here on campus.

In an informal Collegian interview, Finehirsh cited the group's main programs: Helping to build an independent anti-war movement, women's liberation and third world liberation, and doing educational work for socialism.

YSA principles are derived from dissatisfaction with the problems of capitalist society. A look at the Vietnam War, education, and the racial situation reveal the unrest.

In terms of a specific campus program, YSA advocates an end to war - immediate withdrawal from Southeast Asia. It seeks to abolish ROTC, the draft, and research for biological and chemical warfare.

YSA opposes meaningless education. It recognizes the absurd discrepancy between such technological advancements as moon landings and man's failure to solve daily problems of poverty and hunger.

To improve upon education, it urges abolished tuition, guaranteed jobs upon graduation, student-faculty control over the University, including the hiring and firing of faculty and administrators, and the dismissal of campus police.

YSA declares the University to be an example of institutional racism. To combat this, it urges the right of the oppressed third world communities to control their own affairs, including education. It supports the Black studies program - a forerunner of Black control of Black communities - and urges the initiation of required courses in Black and third world history for all students.

In support of women's liberation, it proposes the establishment of university-financed twenty-four hour day care centers for children of students, faculty, and campus workers. It also stresses support for free and legal abortion on demand.

YSA believes its interests to be no different from those of the majority of non-revolutionary students. Its program differs from those of previous campus organizations, such as SDS, in the manner in which goals are sought.

"In all that we fight for, we try to seek peaceful, legal means of attainment," Finehirsh explained. Our approach is different, he went on to say; we want mass support of any issue - to obtain this, we discourage such tactics as bombing and small groups seizing buildings.

Membership in YSA is a free individual decision, based on fundamental agreement with theYSA program and supposed active involvement and financial support. The organization seeks to spread its ideas by taking part in independent movements such as weekly seminar series and the Militant Forum lecture series.

Participation is, YSA feels, a manner of linking student struggle to the broader struggle of replacing capitalism with socialism.

Marchand Visits UMass In Educational Study

By DENISE MAGNELL
Monday Issue Editor

Visiting the UMass campus as part of his study on the American university system,,Prof. Philip Marchand of the New South Wales Institute of Technology (Sydney, Australia) was hosted yesterday by Prof. John Mitchell of the English Department.

The purpose of the study is to gather ideas on education in the U.S., primarily in the areas of communications and social sciences, to contrast with, and possibly supplement those in his native Australia.

That country is currently offering a new educational concept to its citizens, that of "colleges of advanced education," as an alternate to the standard 4-year university, with stress on vocational training.

Since most of the students at the Institute right now are working people who have been employed in their chosen fields for a substantial length of time, classes are held for the most part in the late afternoon and evening on a part-time basis.

The administration is now encouraging more young people to enter their program directly after high school.

Prof. Marchand's particular interest lies within the School of General Studies which combines vocation-oriented courses with a broad humanities- social science background.

The Professor maintains that "not enough attention is paid to education with immediate and direct application to community needs as well as those of the individual student."

Co-operative type programs similar to those implemented at Northeastern University have received major notice in his study.

Prof. Marchand will be touring many other universities in Massachusetts along with Columbia University, schools in the Midwest and California.

He looks forward to teaching a semester at Fresno State College.

A Faculty Senate Committee's first attempt at involving

Calendar Hearing Lacks Witnesses

A Faculty Senate Committee's first attempt at involving the entire University community in a decision which will affect every member of the community met with initial defeat this week. The first in a series of three open hearings being held by the Calendar and Space Committee on the question of the 1972-1973 calendar was forced to adjourn because of a lack of witnesses Wednesday afternoon.

David Booth, chairman of the committee, stated that it was the hope of the committee that interested persons would come forward at either of the two remaining hearings to express thier views. He also noted that certain members of the faculty had expressed the desire to appear before the committee at the remaining meetings and hoped that students would also come forward so that valuable discussion might occur.

The committee is seeking views, ideas and opinions concerning the 1972-1973 academic calendar so that it may present for approval to the entire Faculty Senate a calendar proposal which will have the backing of the University community. NBy doing so, it seeks to eliminate the useless debate which often occurs when interested persons are not given ample opportunities to express their views in an open forum.

The remaining hearings will be held on Thursday, October 22 in the Duke Room of the Student Union and on Monday October 26 in SBA, Room 101 for those interested in presenting their views.

Senate Elections are Not Over

BY ELECTIONS

Nomination Papers — Open Friday Oct. 16th

Nomination Papers — Closed Friday Oct. 23rd

Elections — Thursday — Oct. 29th

LEACH ..... 1 seat
BRETT ..... 2 seats
COOLIDGE Middle ..... 1 seat
COOLIDGE Lower ..... 1 seat
JOHN ADAMS Upper ..... 1 seat
BAKER ..... 1 seat
FIELD ..... 1 seat
GRAYSON ..... 1 seat
MACKIMMIE ..... 1 seat

GET OUT AND VOTE!

W. J. B.

DEERFIELD DRIVE-IN THEATRE
Route 5 & 10
South Deerfield, Massachusetts
Tel. 665-8746
NOW PLAYING, FRI., SAT., SUN
Showtime 7:30
2 BIG HITS 2
WAR OF THE GARGANTUAS & MONSTER ZERO

• 3 THEATRES UNDER 1 ROOF •
Campus Cinemas 256-6411
AMHERST-HADLEY LINE
NIGHTLY at 7 & 9:15
1 Sat. & Sun. Matinee 2 - 4:15 - 7 - 9:15 WALT DISNEY'S Fantasia THE ULTIMATE EXPERIENCE TECHNICOLOR
2 HELDOVER! Nightly at 7 & 9:15
An ALBERTO GRIMALDI Production
"FELLINI SATYRICON"
R COLOR (English Subtitles)
3 Wed. & Thur. only "IF YOU'RE YOUNG, YOU'LL REALLY DIG" at 7 & 9 starts Fri., Oct. 16 ALAN ARKIN CATCH-22 7 & 9:15
CATCH-22 nightly at 7 & 9:15 Sun. Mat. at 2

WOODFALL presents
MICK JAGGER
AS "NED KELLY"
A TONY RICHARDSON FILM
TECHNICOLOR
GP United Artists
THE TALKIE FINE ARTS THEATRE
27 Pleasant St. Northampton
586-2554
Fri. thru Thurs. Eves. 7:30 & 9:45

Mass Gazette Folds; Successor Is Planned

By DENISE ST. JEAN
Staff Reporter

The Mass. Gazette is dead.

Remember the paper which was stacked up in the Union, the Commons and the Campus Center a few weeks ago and which you might have mistaken for the Collegian? That was the Mass. Gazette, a now defunct product of the Publications Dept. of Whitmore. According to Diana D'India the compiler and sole staff member of the Gazette, the former paper was not serving its purpose of interesting and informing the entire University community of faculty, students, and both professional and non-professional staffs.

Evidence exists in the thousands of each issue left over and shipped back to Whitmore, the many issues glanced at and quickly thrown away by bored students, and the vacant looks encountered when some students are asked if they have ever heard of the Mass. Gazette. Unfortunately, the Gazette became in Miss D'India's words, a "dry matter of record" in which those interested could ponder official speeches and the qualifications of new administrative appointments.

The paper was short-lived as its first issue came out last April 1, and it cost a few hundred dollars per each issue.

Despite conjectures that the Gazette was designed as the administration's answer to the Collegian, this is untrue. Reiterating the opinion that the paper "was not serving the purpose for which it was created," Joseph Marcus, new Special Assistant to the Chancellor for Public Affairs, said, "The Gazette was not intended as competition for the Collegian. I believe the choice of format was unfortunate." The size and print of the Gazette was incredibly similar to the Collegian. Also, Chancellor Tippo, in an address to the University community, stated that the Gazette's purpose was to "supplement the existing media, "not to replace it.

Yet, benefits from the Gazette may actually be forthcoming because of its many failings. The inadequacy of the paper in reaching the community revealed a serious need for a redefinition of goals, and Dr. Marcus emphasized "a more clearly defined audience for the new publication to focus on. This audience will hopefully be the entire University community who will be informed of events of general interest to all.

Miss D'India and Dr. Marcus, disappointed in the Gazette, are striving for a publication which will provide an outlet for maintenance news and new faculty appointments, but all within a strict and dwindling budget. In contrast to the Gazette which Dr. Marcus feels "scared a lot of people away with all that print," the new publication will be smaller in format, inexpensive, and hopefully, a means of bringing the diverse elements of this community to a closer understanding of each other.

Dr. Marcus revealed a concern for the use of other media on this campus along with the concern for the written word." WMUA is a means of informing the community and the possibility of close circuit television is being probed. Sadly, new ideas always have the budget tugging at their elbows. Therefore, many promising ideas cannot be developed further.

However the administration will soon try again to inform and unify the University with a "supplement" to the Collegian. According to Dr. Marcus, "the Collegian is the media reaching the greatest number of people on campus. It is well-balanced and doing a great job." The Gazette is dead, but its successor may benefit the entire community.

Vietnamese orphans of the Xuan Troung Orphanage receive powered milk as a result of the combined efforts of UMass Angel Flight and Arnold Air Society. A candy drive on campus and in the community netted $150 by the end of last April for the project. The purchases of the milk and its actual shipment was made possible through the Navy's "Project Handclasp."

Project Handclasp Provides Milk for Vietnam Orphans

Xuan Troung Orphanage, just north of Saigon, has been receiving powdered milk donated by campus organizations through Project Handclasp.

The drive in the Amherst area was started last March by Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight. At that time the orphanage had received over 1200 pounds of the powdered milk. Arnold Air is the Air Force ROTC honor society and Angel Flight is a service organization of college women supporting it.

Through correspondence with the 821st. Combat Security Police Squadron in Vietnam, the Angels and Arnold Airmen learned of the needs of the orphanage which the squadron has been supporting.

In March letters to various milk companies requesting donations or wholesale rates were written. In response to the letters the university groups were informed of "Project Handclasp", through which purchases of the milk and the actual shipments could be made.

"Project Handclasp" is a Naval operation which enables Americans to "extend the hand of friendship to all peoples of the world." Project Handclasp provides space on Navy ships for the distribution of donations overseas.

In its "Vietnamese Children's Milk Fund", the Project has purchased instant dry milk at considerable savings from major American milk companies with contributions from nationwide organizations and individuals.

In March plans were made to raise the funds by selling chocolate bars on campus and in the community. By the end of April, $150 had been raised and sent to "Project Handclasp".

During the following months arrangements were made for the purchase of the milk, its shipment, and its final distribution through the combined efforts of Angel Flight, Arnold Air Society "Project Handclasp", and the 821st Combat Security Police Squadron. By the end of July the efforts became a reality.

URI Fellowship Weekend

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship (IVCF) chapters at UMass, Tufts University, and University of Rhode Island will participate in a weekend of fun and fellowship at U.R.I., Oct. 17-18. Cars will leave from the UMass campus Saturday morning in front of Memorial Hall. Lodging will be provided in the dormitories at U.R.I.

On arrival at U.R.I., students from the three colleges will attend the UMass-U.R.I. football game. After dinner, an evening of Christian fellowship will conclude the activities of the day. The weekend will come to a close with Sunday worship services.

Reservations are being taken by Cam Temple, president of UMass IVCF, at 546-7020.

CLASS of 1971

EXECUTIVE APPLICATIONS DUE

TODAY

IN THE R.S.O. OFFICE

IN THE CAMPUS CENTER.

Present members need not reapply.

1st MEETING WILL BE ON

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1970

AMHERST Cinema
2nd WEEK!
Evenings at 8:00 p.m.
Matinee Sat. & Sun. 1:30
20th Century Fox presents
GEORGE C. SCOTT / KARL MALDEN in "PATTON"
A FRANK McCARTHY FRANKLIN J. SCHAFFNER PRODUCTION

College Student Preview
"Little Fauss and Big Halsey"
with Robert Reford and Michael J. Pollard
Fri., Oct. 16th, 12 midnight
One performance only.
FREE ADMISSION by college I.D. only.

ONLY MINUTES AWAY VIA RT.91 OR MASS PIKE
Showcase Cinemas North 733-5131
RT.5 RIVERDALE RD. W. SPFLD.
HONORED HERE
ACRES FREE PARKING
RECLINING ROCKER LOUNGES
2 ART GALLERIES
GROUP RATES
1 "Joe" is a 'this-minute' film: a movie truly of our times and demanding to be seen this minute." —Judith Crist, New York Magazine
"Joe" R
Mon-Fri: 2-7:35-9:40 Sat. & Sun: 1:30-3:30-5:35 7:35-9:40
2 Barbra Streisand Yves Montand On A Clear Day You Can See Forever
Mon-Fri: 2, 7:25, 9:50 Sat & Sun: 2, 4:45, 7:25, 9:50
3 MIKE NICHOLS starring Alan Arkin CATCH-22 R
Mon-Fri: 2 7:30 9:55 Sat & Sun: 2-4:30 7:20-9:55

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Student Union University of Massachusetts - Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR IN-CHIEF — Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR — Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER — Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR — Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR — John Sullivan

PHOTO EDITOR — Steve Schmidt
ADVERTISING MANAGER — John Fayad

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Chris Mackey
NEWS STAFF — Sandy Mitchner, Anne Stadnicki, Jim Goldman
DARKROOM — David Bernstein, Gary Alpaugh
SPORTS — Earle Barroll
AD LAYOUT — Richard Rutstein
EDITORIAL LAYOUT — L. DiMonaco

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

"Don't Worry, Chief — We're Going To Find The Radical Nut Who Appointed That Commission"

mark silverman

Die by the tube . . .

(Editor's Note...the following is the first part of a four part series on the mythical reality of television).

He really had it easier than his parents. All he had to do was sit back at home and society brought the culture to him. He didn't have to read or even walk all the way to the movies. And he didn't even have to imagine what the people in the shows looked like; everything was laid out before him. Everything was real. Just turn on the set, get the right channel and begin the socialization.

It could laugh with most of the shows, especially the morning ones. Howdy Doodie, Rex Trailer, Fury, Sky King, The Big Top. These were his shows.

Sometimes he would stay up late with his parents to watch their shows. And, as he got older, he watched more and more of the prime-time offerings, little by little watching how his parents' world described itself at work.

He saw Father Knows Best and saw how normal families solve their problems. He saw Ozzie and Harriet and saw what real parent-child love was.

He watched the shows all day, every week, and soon he began to understand his parents' world. He saw their values being tested and upheld as Ozzie settled a fight between David and Ricky over that new guitar string. And he saw democracy in action as the peanut gallery voted to censure Clarabell for not wearing his pants.

He grew older and saw the westerns. Three, four a day. All with the same plot, all with the same action. Indians bad, Cowboys good. White hats win; black hats lose. America, the victor in all wars.

The culture was brought to him. He actually had little choice but to absorb it, sitting in front of the set all day, receiving the transmissions of society.

And so he grew up with the culture, the society of America laid out before him, hammered into his brain day after day, week after week, year after year. The repetition forced him to accept large portions of the transmissions. He began to believe in Wyatt Earp and Superman.

He grew older and watched less television, but he remembered the things he learned while watching all those shows. He still knew about Truth, Justice and the American Way. He still knew about American morality and Mother and the Flag. He still knew the culture; he would always be a member of the society.

It was fitting. It could happen no other way. His eulogy was perfect, delivered on the tube, by the tube and for the culture of the tube.

The priest joined the parrish when he was six, and for much of his life he saw the priest at 6:30 each day. The priest delivered the eulogy at the end of the show, when he said "The defense department announced today that 125 Americans died in combat last week."

The show ended. His priest said goodnight, and he who lived by the tube had died by the tube.

Campus Comment

Life Is A Rip-off

To The Editor:

Life is a rip-off. We're getting it royally in Viet-Nam, in the ghettos, and yessir, we're getting it right here. Granting the supreme importance of issues such as Indo China and racism, the fact of exorbatant prices at the student union and the Campus Center still pisses me right off (as opposed to on). A number of other people are pissed too. As a result, the Greater North American Peanut Butter and Jelly Conspiracy has been founded.

The aims of the "Conspiracy" (as its friends call it) is to force the prices of overpriced foodstuffs down to a reasonable level. The symbol of our attack is the peanut butter and jelly sandwich. This symbol of Americanism and cheap eating has been siezed upon by the campus price setters (Lucy and Evans in particular) and has been knocked-up-no longer is the peanut butter and jelly sandwich the symbol of good and inexpensive eating. Now you victims of the tip-off pay $.35 for a P&B and J. and shit, go take a look at what you're buying, man! Yecch!!!

We want prices dropped. If a PB&J sells for $.20, a profit is still made and labor is still accounted for. Damn it! If they have the bread to build the "Waffle", to put $600.00 tables in it for God knows what reason, and to put a frigging light show in the place (you didn't know about that one yet, did you?), then they can drop prices.

Up the peanut butter and jelly revolution! And remember (at all times) IF IT DOESN'T STICK TO THE ROOF OF YOUR MOUTH, DON'T EAT IT!!

Call Dave 584-3419
DAVID M. NELLIS
KATHLEEN BARRETT
THOMAS LYNADY
RONNIE CAPLAN 665-3547

Committee of Responsibility

To the Editor:

On September 28, group called the Committee of Responsibility spoke on campus under the auspices of the Distinguished Visitors Program. This committee is a private non-profit organization of doctors and other concerned citizens. Its purpose is to bring the innocent young victims of the war in Southeast Asia to the United States for types of medical treatment unavailable in Vietnam. The attendance at the meeting wasn't outstanding; people have other commitments, which is understandable. But we were deeply touched by seeing the physical and psychological damages inflicted upon innocent children by forces of war.

We learned that the committee needed money to continue its work. And so at the traditional merrymaking known as Homecoming Weekend, (October 23-25), there will be people circulating among all of you during the Homecoming parade and the rally afterwards with armbands labelled COMMITTEE OF RESPONSIBILITY. They will be collecting any change you can spare to help a child who has lost most of his face and needs plastic surgery or to help a child who has been burned so badly that his tiny body is one mass of open tissue.

We are not entering floats in the parade; instead the money we would have put into the float will be contributed to the Committee of Responsibility. We encourage other dorms and houses to call us if they are interested in helping.

It is a sin that war like this exists, but that is not the issue, the children are. We are participating in the war and we are liable to the consequences. We can not ignore an innocent child's pleas for help.

So please remember this and give when you see us that Friday night.

Sigma DELTA Tau and
Tau Epsilon Phi

For information call:
Laurie Goldstein
Anita Karcz 545-0527

Gross Out of Grid Stats

To the Editor:

I want to bring to the attention of the readers of the Collegian an example of grossly irresponsible reporting. I am referring to the Intramural Grid Stats printed in yesterday's copy of the Collegian.

The grid statistics were for games through Friday October 9. The following ommisions were mae: Rushers (on passer) - Summer (13) - Pipers; Points - Dutkavicz (Pipers) - 56, Falite (Pipers) - 50; Receptions - Falite (Pipers) - 24, Top Defensive Team - Pipers - 6 pts.

It should benoted that the Intramural Office is not responsible for these errors. Although the Intramural Office telephones the daily game scores to the Collegian, it does not telephone grid statistics. These statistics are printed on computer sheets and are stapled onto a board outside the Intramural Office. A Collegian reporter was responsible for not including the above statistics in yesterday's issue.

I believe I've made my point. I hope this does not occur again.

Scott Moore
424 Hamlin House

What's To Do? I Ain't Got No Finals Tomorrow

What's to do? I ain't for no finals tomorrow
Hey what the fuck's happening man. I got no lab quizzes this week!
and I'm tired of smoking the same old dope
Last night I washed my mind out with STP soap

I think I'm a veteran head today
Yes you know don't you think I'm a veteran head today?
I just gotta be a veteran head today!
I smoked my last shoelace yesterday...it was a phys. ed. department shoelace I ripped off from Boyden gym between classes...
Oh don't you see baby I'm um um um um a veteran head today.
I think you can take my veteran head today and stuff it between your liberated legs
Aint for nothin to do...do...do...no! no!
I walk by all the newborn freaks flippin their frisbees on the college beat on the college beat where the action is where the action is where I will look within and find my own divinity

Say baby you want to go to my cubicle and listen to some rock?
I copped-an-ounce they say it's the best hemp on the block...
Say baby you're groovy and so beautiful and relevent too
let's cut the next class together
let's cut the next class together
no I really don't want to do more than ever
let's cut the next class together
I feel so strong this second I could bite through your see-through blouse let's cut the next class together now ba ba ba ba ba and sit by the pond
yah I can dig it tripping
I don't have to go to Botany lecture
What's to do? I ain't got no finals tomorrow
What's to do? I ain't got nothing to do
Besides...I've been feeling depressed lately and mental health gave me some pink aspirin
Think I'm foing to be as blue as John Mayall
I didn't go to the freshman convocation
I feel so demented
I ripped a hole in my ass sliding down the excalator
See you later see you later gotta go over and lay a heavy rap on a faculty member gonna give him a piece of my mind gonna throw him a frisbee gonna shoot him up with pure crystal gonna roll my own cigarettes gonna throw a kitten off a tower gonna take my rizla rolling machine with tops papers and go to a teachin gonna get a complaint printed in the Collegian gonna pass out some radical mimeographs in front of the ROTC building gonna walk around southwest in my new purple bellbottoms gonna mingle gonna relate with the beautiful people whos heads are into good things.
Yes! I shall seek them out! I'll be the first one to get the new led zepellin album when it's released and play it out my window gonna wear my leather stash bag and let it hang from my waist gonna hide my rolling papers in my back pocket yah...and whatta drag I don't wanna take no required courses!
I don't wanna take no required courses!
No I don't wanna take no required courses!
just wanna find out who I really am/ I mean do you realize what I could be?
shit! I'll be lucky if I last till next semester Woh! guess after I flunk out I'll come back to Amherst gotta bet back you know I gotta get back you know I gotta get back to you when I feel like it.

Photography - Barry Penn
Layout - Dick and Lou

Sardine

The oppressor is a ghost.
We cannot touch or see him,
Or know him or fight him.
The oppressor is a fisherman,
And we the sardines
In a concrete pool.

Cream of Campus Pond Soup
Made of sluggish, muddy orgasms
And sardine sweat;
Served up smoldering.
With sanwiches
Made of rotting sardine
Squashed between
Computerized garbage cards.

TWO YOUTHS being aided by the NES tutoring program are shown. The service organization will its fourth meeting on tutoring methods Sunday evening at 7:30 in the Campus Center Auditorium.

NES Tutoring Methods Explained Sunday Night

Specific tutoring methods for the year will be demonstrated at the Northern Eudcational Service's fourth of five orientation sessions this Sunday night at 7:30 in the Campus Center Auditorium.

Royce Phillips from the Center for Urban Education an Dave Yarington from Language Arts will be providing the professional advice and exhibits for this session.

Working closely with these two men will be Marty Klein who has managed a tutoring program in Frostbite Falls, Minnesota as a VISTA volunteer. His experience in the area of tutoring despite regional differences will be used in coordinating tutor activities in all the centers used by N.E.S. of UMass.

Concentrated tutoring will start this Monday with the coordination of the Tutor Resources library located in the Campus Center Student Activities Area. However, buses to Springfield have been running this week for assigned tutors and those tutors wishing to see the Springfield centers beforehand.

NES hopes everything will come together at the end of Sunday's meeting and learning for tutor and tutee will start. It is still not too late to sign up for the program. All interested people can sign up or just attend this Sunday's session. NES can use those with special talents, but it is involvement that they are looking for.

Disrupting Students Stripped Of Federal Financial Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) - Some 434 students at 86 colleges and universities have lost federal financial aid because them participated in campus disorders, the Office of Education said Thursday.

Most of the penalized students attended small colleges rather than the major universities that experienced the most severe disruptions, according to a government report covering the period since June 1969.

Leading the list of aid terminations were Florida Keys Junior College with 39; Arkansas A.M.-N. College, 38; Draughon's Business College in Kentucky, 28; and South Dakota State College, 26.

Among the 85 colleges and universities that have terminated financial aid to students who participated in campus disorders were six in New England.

They were: Connecticut - Mitchell College, 2.

Maine - Northern Conservatory of Music, 1.

Massachusetts - Boston University 5; Harvard University, 1. Northeastern University, 2; Radcliffe College, 1.

Nixon Signs Bill Aimed At Bombers

WASHINGTON (AP) - Pledging to win the war against organized crime and anarchist terrorism, President Nixon Thursday signed legislation giving federal authorities strong tools against mobsters and bombers.

Flanked by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, Nixon deplored the recent wave of bombings and said those responsible must be brought to justice.

"It seems that every day we pick up the papers and see some sporadic incident-without reason, without cause-that we have not been able to cope with before," the President said.

Even before the signing, opponents of certain provisions in the measure said they would challenge the in court.

Lawrence Speiser, national legislative director of the American Civil Liberties Union, said his group feared the bill's provisions would be used not against organized crime but "against militant groups. Black Panthers and others the administration considers as dissident."

The bill makes participation in a fatal bombing a capital offense, gives the FBI immediate jurisdiction in campus bombings and allows agents to use electronic surveillance in bombing investigations, with court permission.

The major portion of the bill is aimed at cracking down on organized crime syndicates through broadened grand jury powers, use of previously inadmissable evidence in trials and greater sentencing authority for judges.

"Now that we have the tools, we will launch a total war against organized crime and we will win this war," Nixon pledged.

After signing the bill, Nixon handed it to Hoover and Mitchell and told them: "I gave you the tools, now you do the job."

"We will," replied Hoover.

Nixon said the bill will allow the FBI to move into cases on a positive basis where previously they haven't been able to do so, only when asked to do so by the local law enforcement officials.

American, Britisher Cop Nobel Prizes

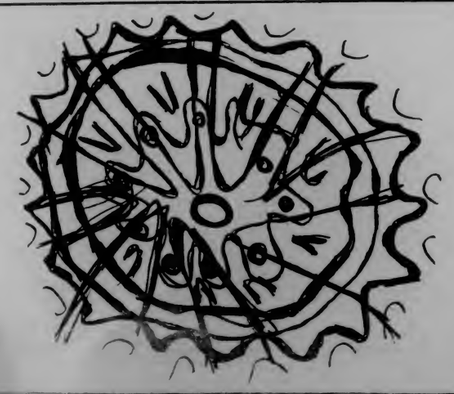
STOCKHOLM Sweden (AP) - An American biochemist, a British biophysicist and a Swedish physiologist shared the Nobel Prize in Medicine Physiology Thursday for independent discoveries leading to greater understanding of transmission between nerve cells.

Julius Axelrod of Rockville, Md., Sir Bernard Katz of London and Ulf von Euler of Stockholm are the recipients of the $80,000 prize, the Karolinska Institute in Stockholm announced.

The American recipient was born in New York in 1912 and got his Ph.D. from George Washington University in 1955. He joined the National Institute of Mental Health in 1954 after five years with the National Institutes of Health. He is married and has two children.

Sir Bernard Katz, born in Leipzig, Germany, in 1911, is a professor of biophysics at University College in London.

Von Euler was born in 1905 and has been professor of physiology on the medical faculty at Karolinska, which awards the prize in medicine, since 1939.



"Von Euler's and Axelrod's discoveries have not only increased our knowledge about the transmission in the sympathetic nervous system, they also form the basis for the understanding of the transmissionin thecentral nervous system and its pharmacology," the Karolinska Institute said.

The sympathetic nervous system is a portion of the autonomus system which controls involuntary actions such as heart-beat rate, breathing and digestion. The sympathetic system is an important part of the mechanism by which a person reacts to stress, and is responsible for stimulating the release of adrenaline.

Opportunity For Experienced Journalists

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is creating ten new positions on its News Staff. These positions are being offered first to students who have had some professional experience in news writing; e.g., working on a newspaper during the summer. Two news writers-reporters each will be assigned to each working evening, Sunday through Thursday. Each reporter will have the opportunity to cover in person or by telephone one to three stories each night. Qualified? Interested? Report to Room 407, Student Union, Tuesday at 6:30. If interested but unable to attend that session, leave a note with your number at SU407.

MDC Hotline
5-2550

DO—

TIE—DIE

SATURDAY AFTERNOON — 1:30

across from the Hatch and Metawampe

TO MAKE

The Awful

Waffle

LESS AWFUL

FREE

Casualty Rate For Draftees Higher Than For Enlistees

WASHINGTON (CPS) - Army draftees have almost twice as high a chance of being killed in Vietnam as non-draftee enlisted men, according to a U.S. Army study.

During 1969, draftees were killed at the rate of 31 per 1,000 and injured at the rate of 203 per 1,000, while first term enlistees were killed at the rate of 17 per 1,000 and injured at the rate of 120 per 1,000.

The reason draftees tend to be killed at a much higher rate is that the Army, in a procedure different from previous wars, allows men who enlist for three years to choose what job they want. Because of this, draftees who make up 56 percent of the men entering the Army, tend to make up a much higher percentage of combat units.

William K. Brehm, assistant secretary of the Army for manpower and reserve affairs, explains that "the popular jobs are the ones for which people enlist. They don't enlist for the hard-core combat skills. That is why draftees tendto populate the hard-core combat skills: 70 percent of the infantry, armor and artillery are draftees."

A Defense Department manpower expert, who refused to be quoted by name, told a reporter for National Journal, a newsletter which requested the Army study, that "we've studied this problem very carefully. People don't seem to enlist in the Army to fight. We recognize the inequity this causes in a shooting war, but we don't know what to do about it."

College graduates are slightly less likely to be assigned to combat duty but there are no figures separating draftees from enlistees among college graduates. 36.2 percent of the graduates who entered the Army in 1969 were assigned to combat jobs, compared with the overall rate of 43.3 percent. 61 percent of the graduates were draftees.

The higher death rate of draftees in Vietnam would have been handed by an amendment to the military procurement bill, which would have barred the sending of draftees to Vietnam unless they volunteered to go.

The amendment, authored by Sen. William Proxmire, (D-Wisc.), was rejected by a vote of 22-71.

The Army says it has no figures on the chances of a draftee serving in Vietnam, but other figures indicate that 8,000 draftees are sent to Vietnam each month. The monthly draft call has been running about 10,000. 30 percent of all draftees then in the Army were serving in Vietnam on July 1, compared with 25 percent of first term enlistees.

Many persons, including Sen. Proxmire, feel that the three-year enlistees should not be able to opt out of combat while draftees must fight; the Army is apparently unwilling to remove the provision because enlistments might drop, forcing a drastic rise in draft calls.

"As strange as it sounds," Brahm said, "only 800 young men a month out of 200 million Americans are enlisting for combat. If we went to an all-volunteer force in Vietnam, it's quite conceivable that that's all we might get.

Survey Reveals Acceptance Of Confrontation Tactics

BERKELEY (CPS) - College students accept the use of confrontation tactics and reject the methods used by campus and civil authorities to quell student protests, according to a survey released by a research team at the Center for Research and Development in Higher Education located at the University of California at Berkeley.

The survey of 1,452 college seniors was conducted on ten campuses selected to represent different institutions by nature of size, geographic location, state or private control, economic background of the student body.

Most of the students were white middle-class men and women with above average academic records who graduated last spring and summer.

When asked if they believed that some form of confrontation "is necessary and effective" in changing the nation's social and political direction, only one percent concluded that confrontation was unnecessary.

Nineteen percent supported only some form of "peaceful petitioning." Fifty-two percent felt that "non-violent mass protest is the only feasible way to persuade officials to respect the will of the people."

Nineteen percent answered that the "use of disruptive tactics and the destruction of property is often necessary to change the status quo."

And nineteen percent stated that "although some may get badly hurt, actual physical confrontation and violence must at times be resorted to in order to affect social change."

The survey also reported that: Fifty percent of the seniors indicated they were or "would have been" participants in Vietnam war protests and 36 percent indicated they would be in sympathy with such protests.

Fifty-six percent of the seniors oppose suspension of dismissal of students "who disrupt the normal functioning of the campus by protest activities." Twenty-one percent favor suspension of dismissal.

Despite the fact that none of the schools involved in the study had experienced the massive use of police force, 46 percent of the seniors see the police as instigators of violence and only 28 percent disagreed.

Intern Program Examined

The School of Education Undergraduate Affairs Office will present a program dealing with student teaching interns and their experiences, on Monday Oct. 19 from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Living and Learning Center in Crabtree House.

There will be an inside look at student teaching, a detailed explanation of modular credits, and how a student may be able to earn them.

Later in the program Robert White of the Placement Office will discuss a topic which should prove to be of interest to many UMass students - job hunting and job qualifications. For those attending this program and filling out an evaluation sheet, one module of credit will be given.

SPECTRUM,

the undergraduate magazine, is accepting contributions for the Fall issue.

In addition to art and photography, we intend to publish fiction, poetry and essays on contemporary issues.

All written material submitted must be typed, double-spaced and include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Manuscripts may be left at the SPECTRUM office, Room 409 in the Student Union, or they may be sent to: SPECTRUM, R.S.O. 102, Student Union Building, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts 01002.

Record Review

Redding Hendrix Live

By Jim Shertzer
Dispatch News Service

Some live performance albums get it on and some don't.

One that does is "Otis Redding/Jimi Hendrix Experience: Historic Performances Recorded at the Monterey International Pop Festival" (Reprise MS 2029). One that doesn't is the Doors' "Absolutely Live" (Elektra EKS-9004).

It's been over three years now since the first major rock festival erupted at Monterey. Yet these recordings by Redding (who died in an airplane crash just six months later) and by Hendrix (who recently OD'd) remain enormously vital.

Redding, then at the peak of his career, does such trademark numbers as "Respect," "I've Been Loving You Too Long" and "Try A Little Tenderness" with a power even greater than that he usually generated in the recording studio.

The crowd's enthusiasm stokes the fire in Redding's voice, and the set gets wilder as it progresses, climaxing with an almost literally breath-taking performance of "Tenderness."

Hendrix (who was then largely unknown in this country), Mitch Mitchell and Noel Redding break it up with Dylan's "Like a Rolling Stone," B. B. King's "Rock Me Baby" and J. Taylor's "Wild Thing" (during which Hendrix "raped" and then set fire to his guitar as a "sacrifice" to the crowd).

Hendrix may have given technically better performances later in his career, but these numbers from Monterey--so full of Hendrix's enthusiasm for his music and his happiness at being alive--have a special magic that makes them invaluable.

The Doors' album, a two-LP set, is dull by comparison. Many of the songs on it date back to the same period as the Monterey festival, but they don't stand up nearly as well.

The set offers a couple of previously unrecorded numbers (including in its entirety, Jim Morrison's "Celebration of the Lizard") and a lot of old numbers that aren't as good live as they were in studio versions.

"Morrison Hotel", released earlier this year, showed a few signs that the Doors were revitalizing their music. "Absolutely Live" shows only that in concert the group is coasting on a reputation that's three years old and Morrison's recent Miami notoriety.

Mitchell Denies Report Of FBI Kidnap Alert

WASHINGTON (AP) - A senator said Thursday a kidnap alert has been issued in the wake of FBI reports that revolutionaries may attempt political abductions, but Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell denied it.

The spokesman, who conferred with Mitchell at the request of reporters, said the Justice Department and the FBI were not guarding senators, representatives or Cabinet members.

Saxbe, commenting on the Metromedia Radio program "Profile," said the White House issued a warning at this week's congressional leadership meeting.

Mitchell's spokesman said no such warning was issued, but said Saxbe might be thinking of a briefing for Republican leaders at the White House last month.

In that meeting, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover briefed the Republicans on a whole range of activities allegedly planned by radical U. S. groups, the spokesman said. He said Mitchell, who also attended the meeting, said Hoover mentioned kidnaping plots.

The FBI, except in the case of Mitchell, does not act as a protective agency. Information it does receive about kidnaping plots would be relayed to the individual involved and the law enforcement agency that has jurisdiction.

Referendum Offers Voters Chance to Vote Against War

On November 3, Massachusetts voters will have a chance to make their feelings known on the Vietnam War. Unfortunately, a large number of them don't even know that this opportunity exists. The UMass SMC is undertaking a campaign to inform the voters of this opportunity. SMC believes that immediate withdrawal is the only logical way for this country to extricate itself from this immoral and unjust war.

This is an opportunity for UMass students to effect change by working through the system as SMC believes that a vote for immediate withdrawal from Vietnam by the Massachusetts voters would have a large national impact.

Last week the SMC visited areas of Springfield and Holyoke, receiving indications of very good support. This Saturday, extended coverage of the Springfield area is planned. All those interested in canvassing should report to the Plymouth Room of the Student Union at 1:00 PM Saturday. All those with cars should bring them to the side of the Campus Center.

FREE Spaghetti

FREE Strainer

FREE 'BALL

FREE SAT. 8-12

FREE 2nd Level C.C. Garage

FREE enter from concourse

FREE 'music by: Rychie's Renegades

WAFFLE

Fine Arts

UMass students, Ronnie Hobbs, Raghad Walker and Winston Williams are amongst the members of the UMass Black Repertory Company, rehearsing a scene from their presentation "We Shall Overcome: Or Else" This Weekend at Bowker Aud. (MDC photo by Rich McIntyre)

Black Repetory Play Urges Blacks To Unite

"We Shall Over Come: Or Else."
by JEFF SILVER
(Fine Arts Staff)

The UMass Black Repetory Company will be presenting "We Shall Overcome: Or Else." Oct. 16 & 17 at 8:30 p.m. and Oct. 18 at 3:00 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium. The play illustrates the conflict between two ideologies, the more recent one of "Black people unite and realize your oppressors." and the more traditionalideology of all people unite towards a better world.

The main characters, Larry, as protrayed by Ron Hibbs, and Bernard as protrayed by Winston Williams depict the main conflict. The setting of the play is a room which contains the body of a slain neighbor. Larry represents the Black ideology prior to the late 1960's, while Bernard represents the more recent trend in black consciousness.

Larry is troubled by his socialization while Bernard and the other characters have broken away from the ideas of the previous generation. The conflict that arises is not overdone or filled with cliches. The play seeks the answer to the question of what is Blackness? Depending on your own thoughts, you will favor one character over the other. Both are brilliantly played.

The other actors are: Raghad Walker as Wilbert. Vivian Hays as Nita, Clif Griffin as Oleg, Ugine Niles as Charley. All of them are excellent in their roles. The play is under the direction of Esther Terry a PhD candidate in the department of English, and was written by Danny Scarborough a graduate student in English. All of the people involved with the play are students at UMass. I see goodthingshappening to this play once it finishes its premier production. See the play - it'll do your head some good.

Hillel Shows Yiddish Film

NORTHAMPTON — A public showing of the film classic "Mirele Efros," sponsored by the B'Nai B'rith Hillell Foundation at Smith College and Amherst College, will be held at 7:30 p.m., Monday, in Smith's Wright Hall Auditorium. It is the second film in the Hillel Yiddish Classic Series.

The film is based on the classic story by Jacob Gordin. Its original score is by composer Vladimir Heifetz

A New York review of this film in the 1930's observed that "Mirele Efros" was produced "on a dignified plane, with expert photography, intelligent direction and esteemable performance."

Corrupt Politics Portrayed In "All The King's Men"

The University Theatre opens this week with "All the King's Men," a play based on the Pulitzer-Prize winning novel by Robert Penn Warren. Four performances will be given beginning Wednesday, October 21, and ending Saturday, October 24. Performances are scheduled to begin at 8:30 in Bartlett Auditorium.

"All the King's Men" is a study of politics, the nature of good and evil, and man's search for truth and self-knowledge.

The play begins with the dedication of a hospital conceived and built by Willie Stark, a controversial figure. Through flashbacks we see the politics and conflicts that lead to that building.

Willie Stark begins his political career with ideals, with purity in his heart. Discovering that he is being used by a political machine, he adopts their methods and obtains control of the state. When he faces impeachment, he decides to build a free hospital and health center. It is only by resorting to corrupt methods that Willie is finally able to accomplish things for the people that were only abstract ideals when he was campaigning honestly.

The play has been described as a rich study of man in society. Perhaps as Willie says, his only crime was being a man and living in a world of men.

Tickets are on sale at Bartlett box office. Tickets may be reserved, or purchased at the door.

The phone number for reservations is 545-2579. Admission is $1.75.

Weekend Arts Calendar

By ROBERT NESTI
Fine Arts Staff

Theatre

Tiger, Tiger, Burning Bright
The Smith College Black Theatre Workshop presents a production of this 1962 off-Broadway family drama which has been likened to Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie". At Theatre 14, Smith College, Friday through Tuesday at 8, admission $1.50.

We Shall Overcome.....Or Else
The UMass Black Repertory Theater opens its second season with this original play by graduate student Danny Scarbrough. The play concerns the conflicts between the new and old black consciousness and between the individual and the group identity. At Bowker Auditorium, Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:15, Sunday afternoon at 2:30. For ticket information and reservations contact the Bowker Auditorium ticket office.....

Music

Tom Rush and the James Cotton Blues Band
Tom Rush will bedoing his usual, excellent, and varied set including material of fellow song writers Joni Mitchell, James Taylor, Bo Diddley, plus some of Tom's own. Also playing will be the James Cotton Blues Band. At John M. Greene Hall, Smith College this Friday evening at 8. Tickets, if still available, are $3.50.

Alexander Nevsky (Sunday night, Thompson 104, at 7 and 9).
This historic 1938 film by the pioneer Russian film director Sergei Eisenstein is shown as part of the UMass Film Studies Series.

Films

Alice's Restaurant (Thursday, SU BALLroom, 7 and 9:30) the story of how a half-of-ton of garbage kept Arlo Guthrie out of the Army.

Catch-22
Alan Arkin heads a large and, on the whole, superb cast in Mike Nichol's film adaptation of Joseph Heller's much-discussed novel. A funny yet brutalizing experience, not for the weak.

Fantasia
Walt Disney's historic 1938 cartoon feature. A blend of Disney animations and classical music which suggest that Walt wasn't as straight as he was thought to be.

Fellini Satyricon
A film concerning the wanderings of three bisexual young men in Nero's Rome. It is quite graphic in its scenes of decadence and debauchery, not quite for all tastes, by master director Fellini. Subtitled.

Joe
Take your sterertype hard hat and send him on a search through hippiedom in this film which stretches its argument pretty thin. Also, in attempting to be as up-to-date as possible, the film dates itself by the end of the first reel.

Monida (Sunday, BU Ballroom, 7 and 9)
An early Berman film, part of the continuing Sunday Bergman festival.

Ned Kelly
Mick Jagger, yes fans, in his first film role. Too bad this tale of the legendery outlaw (or Jagger) just isn't very good, although it has some nice photography and pretty Australian lanscapes as backgrounds.

On aA Clear Day You Can See Forever
This film is simply so static that it seems to take forever. Barbra Streisand wears some nice clothes and Yves Montand attempts to sing as, once again Hollywood over produces to make another big bore.

Patton
George C. Scott as thecontroversial Second World War general. A film which, paradoxically, managed to please both hawkish and dovish views.

Performance
Mick Jagger (again) plays a retired, kinky rock star who lives with his two chicks in a wierd townhouse to which comes fugitive gangster (James Fox) seeking refuge from both the mob and police. All sorts of roles, sexual and otherwise, are played and exchanged in this film which has received some bitter criticising.

Shoes of the Fisherman (Southwest Cinema, Friday and Sunday)
Anthony Quinn as the Pope who gives up all, well enough, that is, to bring peace to the world in this all-star, political-religious spectacular.

VILLAGE INN
LUMS
RESTAURANT
85 AMITY
AMHERST
253-2518
11 am - 2 am
Daily

FOR EMERGENCY DIAL
CAMPUS POLICE
AT
5-2121
A Public Service Message from the Massachusetts Daily Collegian

An oratorio tracing the history of the black man will premier on October 17th at 7:30 P.M. The oratorio will be sung in the Amherst High School auditorium by a black choir from Newton.

Composed by Flo Turner and Pat Schneider, the oratorio is dedicated to the memory of Martin Luther King. It will conclude with a composition inspired by the famous phrase from King's final speech: "I have a dream".

Proceeds from the oratorio will go the A.B.C. (A Better Chance) program in Amherst.

Russian Film Focuses On National Spirit

Alexander Nevsky (1938), will be shown Sunday night at 7 and 9 p.m. in Thompson 104 as a part of the Speech Department Sunday Series. Directed by Sergei Eisenstein, one of the giants of the film industry, Alexander Nevsky focuses on the warrior-hero, Russian nationalism, and the Russian people.

The figure of Prince Alexander, simply and superbly played by Nicholai Cherkassov, dominates the film as an embodiment of Russian national spirit.

Eisenstein's film captures reality far better than strictly representational art could do. Eisenstein, as usual, combines historical accuracy with a sense of cinema art possibilities.

The music is an impressive score by Prokofiev and the camera work of Edwardo Tisse heightens the emotional impact of the film.

Alexander Nevsky is the first talking film in the Speech Department Series. The entire University community and the public are invited to attend.

Alexander Nevsky is a classic example of what its creator termed "vertical montage", picture, speech, sound effect, and music brought into comprehensive harmony to create a total work of art.

Notices

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS:
Bus leaving from Whitmore 12:45. Saturday Spend a few hours with some special children.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST:
Prayer time every Wednesday and Friday 7:30-8:30. Room 178 Campus Center.

COMMUNICATION DISORDERS:
EAH meeting. Tues., Oct. 20th at 6:45 P.M. in Bartlett 107. Speaker: Dr. Jay Melrose, "A Funny Thing Happened To Me On The Way To The Clinic."

CRABTREE LIVING AND LEARNING CENTER:
Monday, Oct. 19th, 7:30-8:30, School of Education Undergraduate Affairs Office present Help Me, Come And Receive 1 Module Of Credit.

EDUC:
The English Dept. Undergraduate Council will meet on Monday, Oct. 19th at 6:45 P.M. in Bartlett 301. Elections will be held.

HILLEL:
Friday night services in Nantucket Room, S.U. at 7:30 P.M. Oneg Shabbt following Sunday morning lunch in Commonwealth Room, S. U. at 11:00 A.M. speaker: Rabbi Myron Geller.

HISTORY MAJORS:
All history majors are invited to open meetings of the Student/Faculty Laison Committee of the History Dept. the 1st and 3rd Tues. of every month at 8:30 P.M., 4th floor lounge, Herter Hall. The next meeting will be Oct 20th.

INTEGRAL YOGA INSTITUTE:
Friday 6-7 chanting and meditation in room 904-908 in the new Campus Center to be best relaxed. Wear loose fitting clothes, and have an empty stomach. If it pleases you bring fruit or flowers or whatever.
Open class in Hatha Yoga, breathing, chanting, and meditation. Please bring empty stomach a towel and wear loose fitting clothing, room 904-907 Monday morning 8-10 A.M.

INTERNATIONAL FOLK DANCING
Tonight at Davis Center, Smith College, 8 P.M.-12 P.M. Teaching 8-9 P.M. beginners welcome

MIRKWOOD
Orchard Hill Grayson Main Lounge, Saturday, Oct. 17th, 8 P.M. to 1:00 A.M., coffee and entertainment. If you wish to perform call Steve or Frank 6-7122. Performers given spots at last Mirkwood for this one--please ignore and call for new spots

MORTAR BOARD:
There will be an important meeting of Mortar Board, Sunday, Oct. 18th at 7:00 P.M. in Memorial Hall. Please attend!

PRE-LAW STUDENTS:
New York University Law School will be at Amherst College all day, Oct. 16th, call Mrs. Fournier at 545-2654 if you have any questions.

SDS:
Liberate the world, smash vs. imperialism! HOT! must go! There will be a rally with music and guerilla theater at the campus pond this Saturday, Oct. 17th at 2 in the afternoon. Picket up.

SCHOOL OF ED. UNDERGRAD AFFAIRS OFFICE:
Modular credit? Student interning? California? Job hunting? We'll have people to help you with specific programs or problems. Crabtree Dorm, Monday, Oct. 19th 7:30-8:30. Come and receive 1 module of credit.

SIMS
All transcendital mediators: group meditation, advanced lecture, checking. Sunday, Oct. 18th 8 P.M., new Campus Center Rooms 174-176

STUDENTS FOR GENSHEIMER:
Friday, Oct. 16th at 8:00 P.M., School of Education, Room 128. Anyone interested in working for UMass student Jim Gensheimer, peace candidate for State Representative HELP NEEDED!

SAC
Student Mobilization Committee will meet Tuesday, Oct. 20th, in the Council Chambers, S.U. at 8:00 P.M. Elections will be held. Everyone is welcome to attend

TEACHER-EVALUATION:
HELP--interested or wanting Teacher-Evaluation come Monday night, Council Chambers, S.U. at 7:00 P.M.

UMASS BICYCLE CLUB:
Bicycle Club is planning a "non-polution admission trip to Quaban Reservoir. Meet 10:00 A.M. Sunday, Oct. 18th in front of the Newman Center. Bicyclers come out in force

LOST:
A gold pearl ring with two side garnets. Call Ellen Zarrow, 549-6069. OF great sentimental value.
Ellen Zarrow, 549-6069. Of great sentimental
Pendant with seven opals in antiqued gold, near Hayden Gym. Great sentimental value. Call Barb 6-6377.

Pair of brown framed glasses black case, lost Wednesday morning before 10:10 class in area of Student Union or Engineering. Call 6-7814. case has "Gordon Optical" written on it.

Jobless myopic wretch lonely requests rapid return of glasses lost between P-10 and Middlesex, Sept. 28th P.M. Hell's Angels prescription specials. Maureen, Middlesex Basement, 5-0158.

FOUND:
In Stadium after game Saturday, one car key and one U of Mass. room key. Go to lost and found in Student Union.

PINNINGS
Jane M. Lockard '72, 187 Van Meter to Michael J. Cunningham '74, Salem State College
Janice Ellis '71, Crampton to Paul E. Norcross '72, UMass, Boston
Joyce F. Krensky '71, Melville to Lawrence Boris '71, Kappa Delta Rho, Valley College, Maine

ENGAGEMENTS
Patricia Lenehan '71, Emerson House, to Walter Appleton Jr. '70, Boston College
Brenda Rose '71, Patterson House to Edwin Carter '69, University of Virginia
Lynn Mackler '71, Sigma Sigma Sigma to Warren Morgan '71, Hills South
Susan Hammett '72, Sigma Sigma Sigma to Paul Osenkowski '71, Clark University
Lee Lavoie '72, JQA Middle, to Paul S. Keefe '71, JFK Middle Cathy Cummings '71 to Robert Beuny '72, Gilberte M. Pasquale '72, Kappa Kappa Gamma to John C. McCarthy, North Andover
Susan Seaburg '71 Webster to Mark Chase '73, Ashfield

No notices may exceed 25 words Deadline for notices is 2:00 p.m. on the preceding day. Due to lack of space notices will run only one day. Pinnings and engagments will appear on Friday.

AT
BELL'S PIZZA
YOU GET THE BEST BARGAIN FOR YOUR MONEY.
Take our pizza . . . it's three times richer than any pizza in town yet it's only 10¢ more. We also feature grinders that are generously filled and hot oven toasted for the same price you'd pay elsewhere for a poor imitation.
BELL'S PIZZA
University Drive
For free delivery of Pizzas call
256-8011 or 253-9051

CollegeMaster
No. 1
IN COLLEGE SALES
Fidelity Union Life Insurance Co.

BIG SMITTY'S DELI
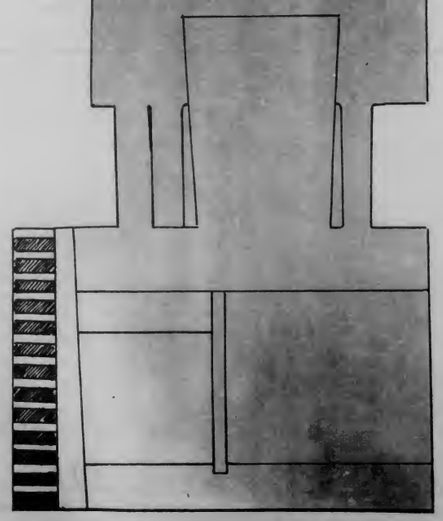
RESTAURANT
featuring
HOT PASTRAMI — HOT CORNED BEEF
OPEN 10 A.M. to 2 A.M.
Opposite Zayre's Tel. 253-3481

Glass Waffle
Waffle for the hell of it!
Concrete Waffle Auditorium
MUSIC — ORT — FRENZY
Fri. Oct. 16 8-12 p.m.
Food — awful admission 75c

TOP OF THE CAMPUS
restaurant
11th floor, Campus Center

OPENS
Oct. 24
Homecoming Weekend

LUNCHEON
Mon. - Fri. 11:30 - 1:30
Sunday Brunch 11:00 - 2:00



DINNER
Wed. & Thurs. 5:30 - 8:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 5:30 - 9:00 p.m.
Sulnday 4:00 - 7:00 p.m.

DRINKS
At Lunch
Every Night 4:00 p.m. - 12:00
Sunday 4:00 - 10:00
If You're Over 21
Join the Top of the Campus Club
$1.00 annual dues

HAPPY HOURS
Mon. - Fri. 4:00 p.m. - 6:00

MUSIC
With Dinner Wed. - Sat.
Until Midnight Fri. & Sat.

ENJOY FINE FOOD
GOOD MUSIC
PANORAMIC VISTAS
TOP OF THE CAMPUS

Vietnam Veterans Troop To Colleges

School enrollments among Vietnam veterans increased during fiscal year 1970 by an unprecedented 31 per cent over the previous year, bringing the total number of enrollees in Veterans Administration training programs to 1,211,000.

"If the trer-d continues, "Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson predicted, "more veterans will have trained during the first five years of the current G.I. Bill than during the 13-year span of the Korean Conflict G.I. Bill."

Growing fastest among the many programs to encourage veterans, their survivors and servicemen on active duty to continue their education or job preparation is on-the-job training, with a jump of 76 per cent over the 1969 enrollment. Some 117,000 veterans enrolled during 1970 in the programs under which veterans who work in approved training positions receive VA allowances during the training period.

Included in this year's enrollment are 87,100 servicemen on active duty attending colleges and schools below college level--all under the G.I. Bill.

A 29 per cent growth was noted in the number of disabled veterans training under vocational rehabilitation programs, bringing the total to 24,500 veterans in such VA-supervised programs.

There were 52,500 wives, widows and children of permanently and totally disabled or deceased veterans receiving educational assistance. This was a 14 per cent increase over last year.

Eligible Students Must Re-Enroll For VA Aid

It is essential for every veteran student under the G.I. Bill and for every "war orphan" receiving training allowances under Public Law #634 to re-enroll with VA at the beginning of each academic year in order to receive training allowances.

The veteran or "war orphan" should not be confused by the Certificate of Attendance Card filed with VA last spring. This card does not constitute an enrollment form.

Any students who receive benefits from VA and who have not enrolled for these benefits this fall should do so at once in the Placement Office, Whitmore Hall.

For Just 2 Hours of your time Per Week You Can Break You're Daily Routine and BECOME INVOLVED. Join the Collegian Advertising Staff Today.
Call 5-2550 and Ask for John Fayad

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

Pioneer, Toac, Garrard, PE Astec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, LPs, 8 track and other accessities. Amherst Audio. tf12-23

Stereo components, tape decks, complete systems, compacts etc. for certain savings and very big selection. Call AJ 253-9396, Don 549-6409 tf10-16

Sunderland — lovely new 3 bedrm. home, modern kitchen with built-ins, old fashioned brick fireplace, gar., scenic lot, 8 mls. U. of Mass. $26,900. Skibiski Realtors, Tel. 253-7228. tf10-22

Kawasaki 1969 120TR — quick change transmission, knobby tires, $725. Call Mark Davis 323-7611. tf10-20

FOR SALE — AUTOS

1965 Triumph TR4, new top and front tires, very dependable. Must sell. Call George 545-0174 evenings. tf10-16

57 Chevy 2 dr. R & H, automatic, one owner, maintained in excellent condition, $700. Will install tires to pass inspection. $210 as is. Phone Greenfield 772-0438. tf10-19

Must sell 1963 Mercury, excellent condition, 2 dr., HT, V8, auto., power steering, power brake, radio, new tirys, water pump and battery. Asking $490. Call 253-7949. tf10-16

Fiat Wagon, 1965, new fall sticker, needs minor work. $300 or best offer. Call Tom morn. or eve. 549-3834. tf10-16

1969 Ford Galaxie, blk., FS, very good running cond., reliable transportation. No reasonable offer refused. Call Mike 256-6629 tf10-16

'64 Volvo 1225, ex. cond., new clutch tires. $900 or best offer. Call Andy at 253-7229. tf10-16

1964 Falcon Conv., automatic, new tires, exhaust system, battery and starter, motor. Best offer. Call 546-3634. tf10-21

'64 VW Bus newly rebuilt eng., new tires, battery, starter, exhaust system. Body in good cond. Must sell. Call 247-5134 after 5:00 p.m. tf10-21

WANTED

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthology. Please include stamped return envelope. Edwarld Frane, 1967 East Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

Wanted: Men's English bicycle 26" — will pay fair price. Call 6-6355 Ask for Waldo. 10-16

SERVICES

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car. 197 No. Pleasant St. 256-6123. tf12-23

HELP WANTED

Ambitious couple who need more income. Unusual opportunity for good earnings for both. Works together, part-time or full time. Car necessary. Phone 1-413-774-5507 between 7 - 9 p.m. tf10-16

Wanted — married student to work 3 - 4 nights per week, from 5 or 6 p.m. to close. Must be willing to work weekends. Apply in person at Burger King, King St., Northampton. tf10-16

Young men and women for roles in underground historical movie. Looks more important than experience. Write S. Hannon, Box 3035, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. 12603. tf10-19

PERSONAL

Absentee Ballot Applications available, Conn. Call Michael Thompson. 318 Dwight. Speed essential. tf10-21

VAN

1963 Chevy Van, Greenbriar, 9 seat, new clutch, needs minor repairs. Must sell, $325 or best offer. Call Rich at 367-2775. tf10-16

ROOMMATES WANTED

Girl wanted to share expenses of apt. near ctr. of Hamp. Call 586-2131. tf 10-16

Two coeds desire apt or roommates with apt. within 5 miles from campus. Call 665-3227 after 5. tf10-20

DRIVER WANTED

Need someone to drive my car to Denver between now and Nov. 1st Contact Jennifer 630-3307. tf10-19

RIDE WANTED

Roundtrip to Waterville, Maine any weekend. Will share expenses. Call Joyce 549-7408. 10-16

Redman Runners Open Home Schedule vs. B.C.

By EARLE BARROLL
Staff Reporter

The hilly terrain surrounding the northeast section of campus welcomes home the UMass cross country team for its first home dual meet of the year against the Eagles of Boston College. Race time is 1 p.m. for this five mile event which will get under way behind Wope.

In Boston College the Redmen will be encountering their toughest dual meet for the remainder of the schedule as the Eagles are currently riding the crest of a 4-0 record and are one of the hottest running units in New England.

Team depth has been the winning formula for B.C. as it has consistently placed between six and nine runners in the top ten positions in its four meets to date. In a recent outing over the tough Franklin Park course the Eagles turned in one of the best team time splits over the course this season.

Leading the B.C. pack will be Jim Zabel who has been a picture of consistency during his running days for the Eagles. Charlie Diehl, who ran 4:06 for the mile last spring, is the number two man, with Vin Catano running as the third man. After these three is a closely knit pack of runners who could finish near the top on any given day.

The Redman will be presenting the Eagles with a most formidable host. Coming off of a three meet win streak in which only one opponent was able to score inside of the top five UMass runners, the Redmen will be enjoying for the first time the comforts of home on a course that is considered to be one of the toughest in New England. This home course advantabe will have its affect on the final outcome of the race.

Unity in numbers has spelled victory for the Redmen in their last few races. And this consistency will have to continue to meet the forces of B.C. on even grounds.

The big question prior to this race is the status of co-captain Ron Wayne. He has been hampered by a virus the past couple of weeks and he may sit out this race to improve his physical condition. Although he's been winning he hasn't improved his condition by racing and a rest will pay dividends when the championship season comes around.

With or without Wayne running the Eagles will have to contend with a group of Redmen who have been improving each week as the season has progressed. Senior Leo Duart has placed second in his last two races and he has shown his best racing efforts in doing so since he came to UMass. His knee has responded well to the pounding it takes during the race and nothing stands in the way of him not finishing well up in the final standings.

Larry Paulson has come a long way since the opening race at P.C. and his fine showings over the past three races have been one of the big weapons in the UMass arsenal.

Sophomores Tom Jasmin, Tom Swain and Rick Barry have been running well all season. With a trio of fine runners like these three there always goes the saying that they give a bright look to the future. The future can wait, as these three have been giving the Redmen a bright look at the present.

As was earlier stated the UMass course is both hilly and tough. After the start benind Wope, the runners head up the Eastman Lane hill past the new northeast residential area construction site, and on to the end of the road where they take a right on East Pleasant Street and run up another incline to the President's house, and then back down to the central area where the runners then make the assent of Baker Hill (ooh!)

Then its all down hill to Wope and across the plains of Wope, where they make a right turn and proceed through the farmlands back up to East Pleasan. Street again and another visit to the President's house. Then its all downhill once again to the finish line where the race had previously started.

LEO DUART

sPoRts ShorTiEs

— AP —

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Kansas City peddled Mike Garrett to the San Diego Chargers Thursday and Coach Hank Stram of the Chiefs wished the star running back "front page success" with his new team.

In return, the Chiefs got a 1971 second round draft choice.

The trade came as the Chiefs gathered for practice for Sunday's National Football League game with the Cincinnati Bengals.

After practice, Stram issued a three point statement detailing his reasons for trading Garrett, a former Heisman Trophy winner from sSouthern California in his fifth pro season.

Stram noted that Garrett has said this will be his last year in pro football and that next spring the player plans to seek a major league baseball career."

Stram said the Chiefs had the opportunity to obtain the second round draft choice for Garrett and "I thought that opportunity would not be available after the season."

* * * * *

WASHINGTON (AP) - Curt Flood says he misses baseball, wants to play again, would be willing to play centerfield for the Washington Senators, but would not sign a contract containing the reserve clause.

"If I signed a contract with that clause, I'd be making a big farce of my case," Flood told the Washington Post on the phone Wednesday from his apartment in Vedbaek, Denmark, a suburb of Copenhagen.

* * * * *

MONTREAL (AP) - Veteran forwards Don Marshall and Phil Goyette, drafted in last June's National Hockey League expansion draft by the Buffalo Sabres both have decided to retire from the game.

Last Night's Intramurals

FOOTBALL
TEP 22, KS 20
BKP 7, TC 0
LCA 28, PMD 27
ZN 29, PSK 0
ZN 29, PSK 0
PSD 24, SPE 0
SAE 18, PLP 0
Roadrunners 43, Smashers 7
Lubees 18, Outhouse T 6
Bucks WHP Gregorians
3 M's 30, Bulldogs 0
Deacons 18, Gak 6
Colonels 6, Dutchees 0
Tubes 6, Turtles 0
Gypses 14, Browns 0
Fellas, Puckers double forfeit

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

The Aries grandmother bursts with pride; her life becomes more vigorous, filled with adventure of traveling and baby-sitting and photo-taking and explosions on uniqueness of child and grandchild. Being a grandmother makes the Aries woman come to life. The Aries grandmother seems to shed years.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Mate or partner may want to expand too quickly. Where money is concerned, be sure to have your say. Certain proposals smack of wishful thinking. Be responsible. Adhere to rules.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): You gain added recognition, but there also is more pressure and responsibility. Don't permit circumstances — or individuals — to debilitate energies.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Stress independence, originality. Tendency be to fear not living up to potential. But it is fear that is a handicap in itself. Know this and cast aside foolish doubts. Get going.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Work conditions improve. Reunion indicated with one who sided you in past. Greater understanding will come about with neighbors, associates. Be gracious to individual who may be shy.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Conflict exists between one who wants to socialize — need to face practical issues. Means you will have to tread lightly. Make clear the fact that work is to be finished.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Credit can be extended. You draw to you persons who appreciate specific virtues. Be thorough. Examine subtle nuances. Dig beneath surface values. Get the real story.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Be ready for excitement of discovery. You find that others are attracted to you. You receive meaningful compliments. Accent on reuniting with one who does actually care for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Remember resolutions concerning diet, rest and recreation. Settle down — there is no need to prove anything to any person. Be yourself. Gain more harmonious atmosphere at home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Greater degree of enlightenment is indicated. You search within for answers. They are available. Strive for truth — pleasant or otherwise. You re-establish vital contact.

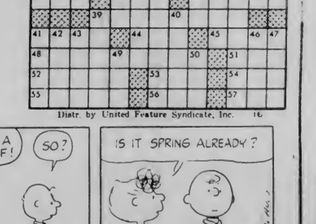
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Refuse to become involved in dispute among friends. If you commit yourself, odds are you will be standing alone. Ride with tide; wait for storm to blow over.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Today may be tempting, but could also be costly. Finish projects. Complete assignment which will free you from emotional burden. Older individual can be of aid.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Welcome ideas. Examine possibility of new procedures. Accent independence of thought, action. Some relatives find it difficult to keep up with you. But you should proceed, anyway.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY there are going to be changes which make you feel most positive. Recent disillusionment produced emotional wounds. You are, however, in the process of being healed. Know this and take more optimistic view.

Copyright 1970 Gen. Fea. Corp.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

P	E	P		T	K	A	C	E		S	T	A
O	A	R		R	A	P	I	D		T	A	L
P	R	E	D	I	C	T		U	S	U	A	L
		T	A	M	E		I	C	O	N
S	P	E	T		S	C	R	A	N	T	O	N
T	I	N	E	A		R	O	T	S		N	O
A	N	D		R	H	O	N	E		S	I	T
L	E		E	R	O	S		D	O	N	O	R
E	S	P	R	E	S	S	O		P	A	N	E
		R	I	S	E		C	L	A	P
W	R	E	S	T		S	C	A	L	P	E	R
R	E	S		E	N	N	U	I		E	L	A
Y	E	S		D	E	A	R	S		D	I	N

ACROSS
1 Dance step
4 Man's nickname
7 Enthusiasm
12 Suffix. like
13 A state (abbr.)
14 Depart
15 And so forth (abbr.)
16 Agreed
18 Girl's name
20 Short sleep
21 Liars
22 Whole numbers
25 Rock
27 Greek letter
28 Uncouth person
31 Man's name
33 Looked fixedly
35 A state (abbr.)
36 Scottish cap
38 Choose
39 Arose
41 Scorch
44 Artificial language
45 Ireland
48 Declaration
51 Youngster
52 Appraise critically
53 Man's name
54 Before
55 Brooklyn Dodgers shortstop
56 Openwork fabric
57 Lair

DOWN
1 Dock
2 One opposed
3 Portions
4 Algonquian Indian
5 By oneself
6 Operate
7 Beverage
8 Tears
9 Tropical fruit
10 Part of stove
11 Communists
17 Barracudas
19 Girl's name
23 Trials
24 Evaluated
25 Stitch
26 Prefix: three
28 Attributed to
29 Federal agency (init.)
30 Insect killer (init.)
32 Implied
34 Toward shelter
37 Middle 39 Regions
40 Loop
41 District in Germany
42 Actual being
43 The caama
46 Unusual
47 Paradise
49 Grain
50 Man's nickname

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. tc

Redmen Face Upstart Rams In 'Must' Game

By BARRY RUBENSTEIN
Assistant Sports Editor

When the UMass football team takes the field against the Rams of Rhode Island at Kingston on Saturday at 1:30 p.m., there will be a little more pressure on them than the usual game situation presents. For this is not the usual game for the Redmen.

With a disappointing 1-3 record to date, Coach Vic Fusia feels that this one is "a must game" not just in the quest for the Yankee Conference crown but also in terms of UMass having a successful season.

A loss here considering the remainder of the Redman schedule would put the team's hopes of a winning season in considerable doubt. So one can understand Fusia's appraisal.

After the way things have been going with the Redmen thus far, it is not hard to disagree with Fusia also that it is "time for change". The UMass unit which goes against URI will not be the same as that that has faced successeive losses to Dartmouth, Buffalo, and Boston University.

The two most important alterations occur in the backfield. The UMass defense has played well all year but has been let down by an inconsistent offense which has not been able to come up with the big play. Starting for the first time this season will be Dick Heavey at fullback replacing Dick Cummings.

Fusia was quick to point out that he is not singling anyone out for the failure of the offense and also added that he thought Cummings had tremendous potential but reiterated his feeling that a change was in order.

Also there is a "good chance" that making his first appearance in a starting role will be sophomore quarterback Len Matuza. Once again Fusia pointed out that it was not that Ken Hughes was not doing a good job and admired Hughes' football knowledge. With Matuza at the helm, however, the Redmen will probably "do a lot of things differently." Fusia felt that with Matuza in there, UMass would "utilize his abilities" as a passer and possibly use the play action pass. This would also help the pass protection which has been less than desirable in past weeks.

Another change in the starting UMass lineup will be that Dick Donlin, who lost his starting post for a while, will return to his tackle position replacing Clarence Brooks.

When asked how good he thought the Rams were, Fusia responded immediately, "good enough to make us worry." "It's a Conference game," he continued, "and they think this is the year to beat us." "We don't think so."

After a few poor performances in a row, one wonders when this apparently talented team is going to get rolling. The season is almost half over and all the Redmen have to show for is an easy win over a poor Maine team. But it seems something has got to give. But when?

"I thought we would be untracked a few weeks ago. I can't put my finger on it. These are good football players making mistakes." Fusia seemed baffled by the whole thing.

As often as the label "must win" is used, it seems unusually applicable in this case. As far as the Yankee Conference goes, a loss to

DICK HEAVEY

DICK DONLIN

Starters against URI

URI would leave the Redmen in sorry shape with UConn coming up. And with Boston College still on the horizon, a URI defeat would almost surely demolish all thoughts of a better than .500 year.

REDMAN RANTINGS - Pat Scavone needs only 16 yards against the Rams to move into third place on the UMass all-time ground gainers list, ahead of former quarterback Jerry Shelchel.. Halfback Mike Sawyer will return to action Saturday after being out with an injury since the season's opener against Maine...The UMass game is homecoming for URI and there should be a good crowd for this one.

"He's a Golden Glover for 10 years. That's his bag. You could tell he was the difference by the crowd's reaction. Every time he came up they gave him a standing ovation," Rose said.

Anderson continued to talk of his team as being the best in baseball and one that could make a return trip to the Series in 1971.

Orioles Take Series With 9-3 Win

BALTIMORE (AP) - "There's a lot of birdseed in that Big Red Machine now," yelled Boog Powell of the Baltimore Orioles. "It's the Big Dead Machine now."

The Cincinnati Reds, nicknamed the Bib Red Machine during its dash to the National League pennant, had just lost a 9-3 decision yesterday and dropped the World Series to the Orioles four games to one.

Manager Earl Weaver of the Orioles said as the clubhouse celebration got under way that he didn't want to think about Baltimore's loss to the New York Mets in the 1969 Series. But the players had it very much on their minds.

"This makes up for every thing," said Brooks Robinson, voted the most valuable player in the Series. "Nothing can replace winning for the first time in 1966, but there's more satisfaction bouncing back to do it again."

"This is something we've been working for since we lost to the Mets," said Paul Blair. "Now we don't have to answer all those questions about what happened. Now maybe people will believe we're a good team."

Asked for the turjing point in the series, Blair said: "Brooks Robinson was the turning point. He did the job in every game."

Robinson, whose fielding was spectacular in all but the fourth game - when he had only one chance - and had key hits in all but the final game, was his typical humble self.

"We had deep respect for the Reds," he said, "but I think we caught them short on pitching.

"I thought a little bit about being the MVP," Robinson said.

"I just wanted to get the Series over before somebody else did something and took it away."

Robinson made another spectacular stab of a liner at third base in the ninth inning and his glove appeared headed for baseball's Hall of Fame.

Mike Cuellar stopped the Reds on two hits after yielding three runs on four hits in the opening inning, when Weaver came "within one batter" of taking him out.

"It was a typical Cuellar 'shutout'," said shortstop Mark Belander, referring to Cuellar's usual difficulty in getting started.

"We always talk about how we can get Mike loose," said Weaver. "Maybe next year we'll have him run a few laps before the game. Once he breaks into a sweat, he's off and running."

The Reds, who had a 33-12 record against left handers during the season, couldn't master Cuellar although his screwball - most effective pitch against right handers - was not working well.

"They sure do scare you," said Belanger. "They scare you every time they swing. When we were four ahead, we were yelling for more runs."

The Orioles outscored the Reds 33-20 and their 10 homers set a Series record for five games.

Cincinnati's top five hitters - Johnny Bench, Tony Perez, Pete Rose, Bobby Tolan and Lee May - were held to 21 hits in 94 times at bat with 14 RBI. Discounting May, who was 7 for 18, the others were 14 for 76 with six RBI.

The Big Red Machine, its pitching part stripped by injuries, ran out of gas Thursday.

"You can't win with only two regular starting pitchers," Cincinnati right fielder Pete Rose said after the Reds lost the fifth game 9-3 and the World Series to Baltimore, four games to one.

"You don't need a lot of pitchers. The Orioles proved three, Jim Palmer, Dave McNally and Mike Cuellar were enough. But we had only Tony Cloninger and Gary Nolan. Not enough," Rose said.

Manager Sparky Anderson refused to criticize his pitching, choosing to praise the Baltimore sluggers.

"Sure we used 18 pitchers," Anderson said. "But I've got to do what the scoreboard shows. They just kept hitting us. Give Baltimore batters the credit."

Cincinnati starter Jim Merritt, the sore-armed 20 game winner and the victim of Baltimore's first four runs in the first two innings, said he felt good.

"I was throwing free and easy and had no pain," Merritt said. "I was disappointed in my control."

"He wasn't as sharp as he has been," Anderson said. "That comes from not working."

Merritt's last start was in the second game of the National League playoffs 11 days ago.

Anderson replaced Merritt with Wayne Granger with two outs in the second inning.

"We had to use Granger that early," Rose said. "That hasn't been our game plan all year."

The Reds backed the selection of Brooks Robinson as the Series' most valuable player and the winner of a new car.

"Robby just dominated the Series," Anderson said. "If you look at the ballots, he had to be unanimous. If he wasn't, they should take the guys who didn't vote him in for a mental exam."

Metawampe's Picks

This week then Great One will be brief. He no longer has time to play with the imbecilic minds of his followers. He has more important trivia on his mind and, besides, he is sick of all the rotten responses he receives to his rosy ryhmes. Although recently seen storming out of the old MDC office mumbling, "You don't have the Great One to kick around anymore," greater forces than even he intervened and he was persuaded to stay. But let this be a warning to you all. So read 'em and weep.

UMASS 28, RHODE ISLAND 16
Rams are improving and can be troublesome crew.
But Redmen reviving, and start winning anew.

CONNECTICUT 41, MAINE 6
This will be a slaughter and there's no sense in lying,
Cause everyone knows that the Black Bear is dying.
(at least the Great One is trying.)

BOSTON U. 17, HOLY CROSS 7
Terriers have found new way of winning on toe of Rapoport,
But they probably won't have to use it against team of Crusader's sort.

DARTMOUTH 31, BROWN 12
Big Green are New England's best for the first time this season.
And winning big, as they do here, is the primary reason.

NEW HAMPSHIRE 18, VERMONT 6

This one shapes up to be a clash of Conference rivals,
One wonders, after seeing game, about the league's survival.

YALE 34, COLUMBIA 13
Lions may roar and try to score,
But after four, the Bulldogs have more. (What a bore.)

CORNELL 16, HARVARD 14
As game progresses Harvard improves and the gap may be narrowed,
But in the end, after all is done, they'll be out Marinaro'd.

Booters Shoot For Number Five

By EDWARD DOHERTY
Staff Reporter

Number five. That's the victory the high flying Redman booters will be shooting for when they invade Kingston, Rhode Island for a key Yankee Conference game against the URI Rams tomorrow morning. The game will see UMass sttempt to extend its dominance of the Yankee Conference as the Redmen continue to climb in the New England soccer rankings.

The Rams possess a 1-2-1 record, but this mark is not indicative of their calibre of play. Following a 3-0 loss to nationally ranked Brown University, Rhode Island edged the University of Bridgeport, 3-2. Coach Peter Broaca scouted this game and on the basis of his observations , he is expecting the trip to Kingston to be a difficult one.

The URI team is very powerful up front with Rick Crocker leading the charge. Crocker was first team All-Yankee Conference last year. In addition, sophomore Joe Hooks provides excellent scoring ability from his inside position. At left wing is Joel Carvalito who was outstanding against Bridgeport, getting two goals and one assist.

Backing up these fine forwards is halfback Fred Pereira who can also be used at inside forward. Spearheading the Rhode Island defense will be goal keeper Dick Hertley, who was the Yankee Conference player of the week several weeks ago.

In their two conference games the Rhody booters have lost to Maine, 3-0, at Orono, and have tied champion Vermont, 2-2.

Last season Rhode Island was upset by UMass, 2-1, in a game played at Amherst and will be out to avenge the loss.

For the Redmen, winless at Kingston in many years, the game is another big one. A win against URI would give them a very comfortable 3-0 conference mark with only New Hampshire and Vermont left to play. A Redman victory would in addition knock Rhode Island out of the race and leave them with an 0-2-1 conference mark.

The trip to Kingston will bring back memories for Coach Broaca and his seniors of the 1968 game which was a 3-0 loss for the booters, the only time, incidently, that the Redmen have lost by three goals under Broaca.

Speaking of his outlook for the weekend, Broaca smiled and concluded: "It will be an interesting game."

Ruggers Host Tufts

By FRED WYSHAK
Staff Reporter

Tufts' Rugby team will be the guests of the undefeated UMass ruggers tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

In competition thus far, the Redmen are 3-0 with a total offense production of 56 points while allowing only five. This gives the offense a mark of 18.7 points scored per game and the defense a slim 1.7 goals allowed.

The offense should come alive again tomorrow after being held last weekend to only eight points by Hartford. The match against Tufts is one the Redmen want to take and take big.

On the road to the New England Championship, both coaches Dale Toohey and Bob Laurence are optomistic about the rest of the season. However, in rugby, every match is a tough one and tomorrow's against Tufts should be no exception.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 28 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS MONDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1970

SDS Anti-War Rally Gathers Little Support

Details, page 3

The UMass SDS chapter holds its first rally of the fall season, driven by numbing Saturday winds to use shelter afforded by the Campus Center building. The rally was originally scheduled to meet at the Campus Pond. (MDC photo by Barry Penn.)

Today's News

• United Nations 25th Anniversary page 5
• Pres. Wood Speaks To Faculty Senate page 12
• Who's Who Nominations page 3

Awful Waffle Week Comes To A Close

Hungry participants of the Waffle Eating Contest yesterday in the Campus Center vied for the top prize of a gift certificate to the "Top of the Campus."

And the winners, who tied with seventeen (awful?) waffles each. (MDC Contest Photos by David Bernstein.)

Yesterday, the Waffle Week's main event was free tie-dying, (pictured below) the results (at left) of which can be seen hanging on the first level of the Campus Center. MDC Photo by BARRY PENN

MDC Photo by BARRY PENN

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor).

Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods, three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $7.50 per semester, $14.00 per year.

MDC Feature

SDS Attracts Few Onlookers at Saturday's Rally

By DAVID WILLIAMS
Tuesday Issue Editor

The biting cold wind of Saturday drove the UMass SDS rally inside to the Campus Center but it also kept most people inside. As a result, only a small crowd of mostly SDS people and a few passers-by heard the end-the-war and support-the-strike speeches given by the speakers.

Peter Dillard, a spokesman for UMass SDS, said in reference to the small turnout, "The youth culture of UMass has sold us out." Apparently a rock band was supposed to show up for the rally by the pond but it never appeared.

The SDS is trying to fortify its image on campus as a group dedicated to ending U. S. imperialism abroad. It believes that the "bosses" are to blame for imperialism and tries to align itself with the working class. The speeches given on Saturday reflected this feeling very markedly.

Coming from the Boston University SDS, Joanne Goldberg said that SDS fights the VietNam war, racism, and discrimination against women. She emphasized the feeling shared by all SDS that the war in Viet Nam was no mistake but was a planned move by the "bosses of big business' to exploit the natural wealth of Southeast Asia. According to her, getting all the soldiers home will not end imperialism because big business will still be there exploiting the workers.

The SDS believes that it can most effectively hurt the war effort by having ROTC thrown off campus. They maintain that ROTC supplies 85 per cent of the junior officers in the Army. By destroying this source of manpower, SDS feels that it can do great damage to the war effort because there won't be anyone to lead the troops. SDS also wants to align itself with workers in factories doing defense work in the hope that production can be halted.

Nancy Dillard, wife of Peter, explained to the gathering that there has been a sharp decrease in the number of undergraduates enrolling in ROTC over the last few years. Students are beginning to realize the function of ROTC in the war effort and are acting about it. According to Mrs. Dillard, the administration on campus is aiding and abetting the government by allowing ROTC to remain here. She said, "Every year this University pumps people out into the system... we're being used, not benefited."

A small crowd gathered at the pond last Saturday afternoon for the SDS Anti-War Rally before chilly weather forced them inside to the Campus Center. (MDC photo by Barry Penn.)

And since the administration is in cahoots with the U.S. government with regard to ROTC, according to Mrs. Dillard and SDS, Chancellor Tippo is the one who should hear any complaints about ROTC. Tippo came out on record during the strike concerning ROTC and said that everyone is entitled to freedom of choice. If a student wishes to elect ROTC the choice should be open to him. But the SDS does not quite see it that way. They believe that the Vietnamese are being denied their right of self-determination by the U.S. government and, as Mrs. Dillard says, "I think it's pretty elitist of us to assume that we have the right to make decisions concerning the rest of the world" But she went on to add, "Some of the ROTC cadets are pretty liberal. One of them even admitted that the war is imperialist." She said with finality however, "If we want to hurt the war we have to disregard Tippo and fight him every way we can."

SDS wants very much to align itself with the working class in America. Only in this huge mass of people does the SDS think that the power exists to halt the spread of U.S. imperialism. SDS works to halt the exploitation of workers by industry and traditionally supports workers who go out on strike. On November 3 in Detroit the SDS will gather from all over the country to support the auto workers presently striking against General Motors.

Judy Glass, a member of the Progressive Labor Party in Boston, spoke on the auto worker's strike and the support SDS is giving. If the workers in the other assembly plants can be convinced to go out on strike, SDS believes, then great pressure can be brought on the government to do something decisive about ending the war in Viet Nam. More locally, SDS wants to align with campus workers against the administration.

Last to speak before the small group broke up was May Abbud, a grad student from Palestine, who gave a short report on the Palestinians and their problems with Israel and the U.S. Again, the SDS thinks that the U.S. has more of its inperialist fingers in the pie than it should have. Miss Abbud stated that Israel was created by the Western powers to serve as a base in the Mid-East. And, she added, the whole place belongs to the Palestinians anyway.

Some SDS members say they are trying very hard to change the image some people have in their minds of a long-haired dope-smoking bunch of mad building bombers to that of a bunch of concerned and dedicated activists who are willing to go out on a limb for something they believe in. But they are a very small group and in the clamor created by 18,000 people crammed on to this campus, their voice is often drowned out.

The chilled activists, as they retreat to a warmer meeting place. (MDC photo by Barry Penn.)

Campaign '70--A Exhibit Of Political Information

Campaign '70, an exhibit useful to student campaigners and student voters, has opened on the sixth level of Goodell Library in the College Catalog Room (613).

Position statements from candidates for national and statewide offices along with books, periodical articles, and pamphlets on campaign issues, as well as writings on the political process itself, have been collected.

"The library has been trying in the past year to have exhibits that are of interest to the community and relevent to campus events," reported Sam Markson, head of the library's circulation services.

"There have been only five or six replies to the letters that were sent to candidates requesting position statements, but we hope to get more," said Markson.

Mr. Markson made it clear that in presenting the material displayed in the Campaign '70 exhibit, the Library does not take a stand on the electoral issues or support individual candidates.

"If some viewpoints seem to be better represented than others, it is because certain writers have been more prolific than others, or certain candidates more responsive," states the letter explaining Campaign '70, issued by the Library.

"If there are people that would like to see information about special candidates, or know of some information about candidates that the library can get hold of, we would be more than willing to present it," emphasized Mr. Markson.

The exhibit will be continued until after the November elections.

BULLETIN

The Campus Police report that a bombscare kept Bartlett Hall closed for most of yesterday. It will reopen at 8:00 a.m. this morning.

A not-too-secure emergency brake forced an "E" Lot-parked car into the dorm area of Orchard Hill yesterday. In its path were three other automobiles. Fortunately there was no one in any of the cars at the time, approximately 5 p.m. (MDC photo by Gib Fullerton)

Nominations Accepted For Student's Who's Who

The nomination of seniors for the 1970-71 UMass' Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges is now being sought from all undergraduates.

Nomination letters should be addressed to Student Senate Vice President Pat Beharry in the Senate Office (Campus Center). All letters must be in by 7 p.m. on October 22.

"In order to maintain fairness and objectivity, we would like the university community to participate in the selection process," said Miss Beharry.

Selections should be based on the following qualities: student's scholarship, participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, citizenship and service to the school, and his promise of future usefulness.

Thirty-six students will be selected from this year's graduating class. That quota was assigned from the standard scale that applies to every school participating in the program.

Tippo's Coffee Hour At Noon Today

Chancellor Tippo will hold his weekly noontime coffee hour today in the Colonial Lounge of the Student Union. It will last until 2 p.m.

The Chancellor's open discussions provide an opportunity for any member of the University community, and especially students, to raise questions about general campus issues, seek answers to particular questions, or to hear first-hand what the principal administrative officers are thinking and planning.

The practice of the regular open meetings with free coffee available to all, originated last year and is credited with allowing for greater two-way campus communication on issued affecting the entire University.

All students with particular matters to discuss, as well as those interested in just listening, are cordially invited to today's discussion.

Student Employees

There will be a meeting in the Student Union Ballroom, Tuesday at 6 p.m. for all student employees in the Campus Center - Student Union complex. The purpose of this meeting will be to start a student employees union.

This first meeting will be a general strategy meeting to determine the number of interested students and to propose alternative organization styles.

Custom - -
Creations in Leather
"ALMOST ANYTHING MADE TO ORDER"
The Leather Shed
10 - 6 #1 The Alley Amherst

In The Nation And The World

Nixon Renews Appeal To Silent Majority

NEW YORK (AP) - Defense attorneys call the trial of 13 Black Panthers on bomb conspiracy charges "the most controversial case in town in 20 years." State Supreme Court Justice John M. Murtagh says it's just "a criminal indictment."

This clash of philosophies dominated the six weeks of jury selection and could occur again and again during the trial.

Today a jury of 11 men and one woman, with four alternates, begins hearing the case against the 13 defendants accused of plotting to bomb police stations, department stores, railroads and the Bronx Botanical Gardens.

Most prosecution witnesses will be undercover policemen and FBI agents who allegedly infiltrated the Black Panthers to obtain information.

The 13 defendants were arrested in police raids April 2, 1969. Nine have remained imprisoned, unable to make bail ranging up to $100,000. This has led to defense charges of preventive detention.

The jury is relatively young. Five members are black. Several of the whites wear their hair slightly long. One juror has a beard.

Defense attorneys admit privately that they are pleased. "Of course, they're our second choice," said one lawyer. "We would have liked a young all black jury."

When the last juror was sworn in Thursday, Murtagh criticized the jury selection system and suggested a quicker method was needed.

The philogophical differences became most apparent during the defense questioning of prospective jurors.

Defense questions centered on the political and racial beliefs of each person examined. Questions the prosecution often called irrelevant.

Defense attorney Gerald Lefcourt explained in an interview: "We are trying to minimize racism on the jury." Each prospect was closely examined by the defense on his beliefs, opinions about the Black Panthers, on news stories about the defendants.

Attempts to determine the personal attitudes of the jurors on the Nixon administration, on law and order and on capitalism were not permitted by Murtagh.

Murtagh rules the courtroom firmly. Last spring when the defendants and spectators disrupted pretrial hearings with shouts of "Power to the people" and called Murtagh a "fascist pig," he recessed proceedings indefinitely - until the defendants agreed to behave. Five weeks later the hearings resumed in relative calm.

Witness Order Changes As My Lai Trial Resumes

FORT HOOD, Tex. (AP) - The prosecution worked on a last minute realignment of witnesses Monday as it prepared to open its court-martial testimony against S. Sgt. David Mitchell in the alleged My Lai massacre of 1968.

The trial is scheduled to resume at 9:30 a.m. today after a three day recess.

Unofficial prosecution sources, it was learned, said that the government plans to call today with one of three former fellow comrades of Mitchell in the 1st Platoon, Division's C Company - Pfc. Paul Meadlo of Sardis, Miss., Pfc. Dennis Conti of Providence, R.I., or Pfc. Michael Bacuse of Portland, Ore.

Mitchell is charged with 30 counts of assault with intent to murder during C Company's search for 1968 sweep of South Vietnamese hamlet of My Lai, near the South China Sea.

He is the first member of the company to come to trial following allegations that more than 100 Vietnamese civilians were massacred that day by American infantrymen.

Testimony from the three witnesses is expected to follow an opening statement in the case by the prosecution.

The realignment of witnesses followed the disqualification of Lt. Hugh C. Thompson Jr. who originally was scheduled to open government testimony. He was a helicopter pilot who landed his aircraft at My Lai to rescue a group of Vietnamese civilians.

The trial judge Col. George R. Robinson, barred Thompson and three other witnesses from the stand because of the refusal of a congressional subcommittee to release testimony it took from the four earlier this year.

Robinson ruled the defense was entitled to examine a transcript of the subcommittee testimony if they were to testify.

The subcommittee chairman, Rep. Edward Hebert D. La., refused to turn the transcript over to the prosecution or defense, claiming it was classified because it was taken in secret session.

APHA Moving To Washington

NEW YORK (AP) - The American Public Health Association, after 98 years in New York City, is moving to Washington in an attempt to influence national health policy.

"We're in the business of trying to assist in public policy development and that's where public policy is being developed," said Dr. James R. Kimmey, the APHA's new executive director.

The APHA has 25,000 members-doctors, nurses, administrators, laboratory workers and others - along with another 30,000 persons in affiliated organizations in the public health field.

After years as a technical adviser to health agencies, the APHA emerged last year as a spokesman for the individual health consumer and, in some views, as a rival of the American Medical Association.

The APHA is regarded as increasingly liberal, strongly favoring such things as national health insurance, as opposed to the traditionally conservative stance of the AMA. The AMA, however, is not fighting the idea of national health insurance as it did Medicare.

The concept of national health insurance is now being considered in Washington.

Dr. Kimmey, 35, said in an interview that any organization that wants to influence national policy should have a substantial operation in Washington.

Panthers To Be Tried For Bombing Conspiracy

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon is expected to renew his call to the silent majority to strike back at dissidents and radicals at the ballot box when he hits the campaign trail again today on behalf of Republican candidates.

The President set the theme for his role in the closing weeks of the campaign during a whirlwind 15 hour barnstorming tour Saturday into Vermont, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin.

He urged "the great majority" to reject with their votes the rock throwing and obscenity shouting tactics of a small minority.

"One vote is worth one hundred obscene slogans," he told a crowd in Teterboro, N.J.

Today Nixon sets out on a two day campaign trip into Ohio, North Dakota, Missouri, Tennessee, North Carolina and Indiana in an effort to help GOP candidates for Congress and governor.

The President and Mrs. Nixon, their son in law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David Eisenhower, and about 200 others attended worship services conducted at the White House Sunday by the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. This is an organization dedicated to "bringing out the best in a person's Christian values and leadership, promoting team work in life."

Bobby Richardson, president of the FCA, a former New York Yankee, second baseman and currently baseball coach at South Carolina, delivered the sermon. Rex Kern, Ohio state quarterback read the Scripture; John Erickson, former Wisconsin basketball coach who is Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, led the prayer, and Jay Wilkinson, former Duke Football player and now an Oklahoma GOP congressional candidate, gave the benediction.

Afterwards Nixon met with six representatives of the Business Council, an organization of the nation's top executives who completed their two day fall meeting Saturday in Hot Springs, Va.

There was no report on the private meeting, which was attended also by the Nixon administration's chief economic advisors, but it was understood te executives urged the President to set new policies to moderate the pace of inflation.

Nixon touched briefly on the economy in his campaign talks Saturday.

He said the inflation that existed when he took office two years ago was caused by reckless spending by previous Democratic administrations and Democratic Congresses.

"Newark Won't Die" Mayor Gibson Claims

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - In the three months since being elected Newark's first black mayor, Kenneth Gibson has decided that despite problems more "pitiful" than he had anticipated, the city "is not going to die."

An expansive, confident Gibson now insists his city has "no other way to go but up." He believes he has shown his critics that "the world was not going to come to an end because a black man was elected mayor, and that white people weren't going to be massacred like they had been saying."

The 37 year old mayor was inaugurated July 1, succeeding Hugh J. Addonizie whom he easily defeated in a runoff contest. Addonizie, mayor for eight years, left City Hall under a cloud of corruption allegations and subsequently was convicted on federal extortion conspiracy charges. He has since been sentenced to 10 years in prison. He is free pending appeal.

When he walks through the Central Ward ghetto, still scarred by the 1967 riot in which 26 persons died, he is an imposing figure, the object of much curiosity and a great deal of adulation by autograph seeking children.

But he admitted in an interview with the Associated Press that in three months the first city administration under a black mayor has not been able to significantly change the quality of life of the average ghetto dweller.

Gibson moved quickly after his election to dispel what he said was the city image as a place "where everything at City Hall was for sale." He announced publicly that offers totaling $31,000 had been made to him, or at least suggested if he made the right appointments.

"Since I made the public disclosures I haven't had one single offer," he said. "I think I have dispelled the feeling among the people who would be willing to pay for favors."

Gibson said the nation's priorities must be reordered to rescue the cities and that he firmly believes defense spending should and could be cut in half.

Gibson's election came on a wave of black political activity, organization and voting not seen before in Newark's nonpartisan politics.

During the election campaign, Newark's 400,000 residents, 52 per cent of them black, were somewhat polarized by the racial issue. Gibson's opponents pointed to the support he received from militant black poet playwright LeRoi Jones.

CHRISTMAS in EUROPE

$175

Round Trip Boeing 707

sponsored by

STUDENTS INTERNATIONAL

open only to 5 College students, faculty, staff and members of their immediate family —

Routing	Departs	Refunds	Cost
NEW YORK/LONDON/NEW YORK	12/22	1/1	$175

1 mo SKI PACKAGE also available. Includes transportation to and from London to your choice of international ski resort in ITALY, SWITZERLAND, AUSTRIA, or NORWAY. Also 7 nights lodging, 2 meals a day, and tow fees.

Students International
27 Massachusetts Ave.
Boston, Mass. 02115

Please send me more information: FLIGHT ☐ SKI ☐

Name .....

Address .....

.....

VILLAGE INN LUMS Restaurant

85 Amity St Amherst, Mass.

Fish & Chip Night

MONDAYS 4:30 - 9 p.m.

VILLAGE INN LUMS

Open Daily 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.

Canada Feels Impact Of Laporte's Death

MONTREAL (AP) - The killing of kidnaped Pierre Laporte gave the Canadian government fresh determination yesterday in its moves to suppress the terrorist Quebec Liberation Front. Officials indicated, however, that they were moving with deliberation in efforts to save the life of a British diplomat seized earlier.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau said the shooting of Laporte, who was 49 and labor minister of Quebec province, was "conceived in cold blood and executed in like manner." He expressed a "deep sense of shame" that this had happened in Canada.

Trudeau, himself a Quebecker, summoned his Cabinet into special Sunday session. He arrived in a bullet proof car; soldiers with submachine guns guarded him.

The Cabinet meeting lasted two hours 20 minutes. Foreign Secretary Mitchell Sharp announced afterward that the Cabinet decided to make no statement on the terrorist situation until after Laporte's funeral Tuesday.

Laporte-Quebec's Labor Minister-was in agreement with Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau that such independence was nonsense.

But as municipal affairs minister under the provincial premiership of Jean Lasage in 1963, Laporte forecast that Quebec eventually would have "nearly all the perogatives of an independent state."

A short time later he modified his stand to endorse special status for Quebec.

After Trudeau took office in 1968, Laporte came to say in an interview: "Very clearly and very categorically I see Quebec as a member of the Canadian community."

Laporte, who was 49, played a second ranking role in the turbulent politics of Quebec in the 1960's. But last April he he emerged as one of the key figures in the province's new Liberal government.

He bid for the Liberal party leadership in Quebec last January but was defeated by Robert Bourassa who became premier. Bourassa brought Laporte into the government as minister of labor and immigration.

Pierre Laporte was born Feb. 27, 1921 in Montreal, one of seven children.

He once said he got an early taste for political debate. "My father was a nationalist and antiliberal," he said. "In fact, he was against the government, no matter what its political color."

After being graduated from University of Montreal law school in 1945 with a pair of debating awards, he joined the French language newspaper LeDevoir and was assigned to cover the legislature in the spring of 1948.

Entering provincial politics, he was defeated in 1956 but rebounded six years later with an election victory in Chambly. In 1963 he was named Liberal government House leader and in 1965 was given the cultural affairs portfolio.

His widow, Francoise, is the daughter of a Quebec farmer and she proved an asset to his political campaigns in parts of the province. But she has said it was not her idea that he go from journalism to politics. She and Laporte married 25 years ago and they have two children, a daughter Claire, 21 and a son Jean, 10.

The son watched outside their suburban home on Oct. 10 when terrorists of the Quebec Liberation Front forced Laporte into a car and drove away with him. Laporte's last known word to his family came in a letter written to his wife Tuesday. What he said in it was not disclosed.

In a letter written to Premier Bourassa the day after his abduction Laporte said the kidnappers were not bluffing when they said they would kill him.

The letter proposed that the government meet the kidnapers' demands.

"Decide," he told Bourassa, "either my life or my death. I am depending on you and I thank you."

Laporte went on to say that the kidnapers would not stop with him alone.

"After me, it will be a third, a fourth and a fifth," he wrote. "You have the power in fact to decide whether I live. If that was the only consideration and if the sacrifice would have good results, it might be considered. "But we are in the presence of a well organized escalade that will end only with the liberation of 'political prisoners'...If all political men are protected, they will strike elsewhere in other classes of society.

"As well to act now and thus avoid a bloodbath and useless panic."

Spurred by the killing of kidnaped Pierre Laporte, the Canadian government moved with fresh determination yesterday to suppress the terrorist Quebec Liberation Front and save the life of a British diplomat still held captive.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau said the shooting of Laporte, the 49 year old minister of Quebec province, was "conceived in cold blood and executed in like manner." He expressed a "deep sense of shame" that the killing had taken place in Canada.

Police released yesterday night the test of a letter they said was written by the Briton, James R. Cross, also 49. It was found in a Montreal church yesterday with a communique from the front, known by the initials of its french name, FLQ.

"I am still alive and in good health," the letter said in part. "The only danger for my life is if the police find out where I am and want to intervene. The FQ will not give up and I will be the first dead.

"The authorities will never find the place where I am held in captivity. I am a prisoner like the FLQ members and prisoners in jail."

Cross said he saw his death announced on television early yesterday morning and "this was terrible."

Troubled U.N. Celebrates Its 25th

Reprinted from the New York Times.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.-The peace organization's 25th birthday anniversary began last week with brave words: "The world will be listening to what we say and watching what we do." solemnly promised Edvard Hambro, the Norwegian president of the General Assembly in opening the 10-day commemorative of the United Nations' founding.

What troubled many diplomats were nagging doubts that the world was following their deliberations closely-or at all.

At the end of a talk-filled day a young Eastern European morosely counted the neat stacks of his Prime Minister's text and found only a few had been taken. He walked off frowning.

The original copy of the United Nations Charter was impressively displayed at the entrance hall but few people drifted over to examine the historic document written at San Francisco a quarter-century ago. Within the great domed Assembly hall, each speech was greeted with polite applause which echoed hollowly in the near-empty chamber.

For security reasons, the galleries had been closed to visitors and speakers at the marble rostrum looked out at row on row of empty tables and chairs. In the interests of protecting the 40 to 50 heads of state and government coming for the session-President Nixon among them-the police had imposed stringent security precautions which left some diplomats grumbling.

"We are in a beleaguered fortress," protested a Saudi Arabian delegate who had been stopped at the building entrance by a guard. "The world organization is cut off fron the world."

Others accepted the restrictions as sad but necessary. Security officers, mindful of the threats of bomb explosions received here daily, were in no mood to relax controls.

The mood of pessimism was the outcome largely of the turn of events in the Middle East. Prospects were not brightened by a bitter attack on Friday from Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohammed Riad, who accused the United States of wrecking its own Middle East peace initiative by supplying arms and planes to Israel.

Only six weeks earlier, many of the same diplomats had remarked that there appeared genuine hopes for progress toward an Arab-Israeli settlement growing out of the American Middle-East peace initiative. Then came accusations about Soviet bad faith over movements of missiles in the Suez Canal area. The Middle East talks being held with the parties by Gunnar V. Jarring, Secretary General Thant's special representative, were suspended after the opening round and Mr. Jarring departed for his regular diplomatic assignment as Sweden's Ambassador to the Soviet Union.

The decision by Soviet Premier Aleksei N. Kosygin against attending the 25th anniversary was not unexpected in light of developments. However, further dellated the hopes that the silver jubilee commemoration would produce the "historic occasion" sought by Secretary General Thant. He had hoped the event would be used by world leaders as an appropriate backdrop for important talks here.

Arab leaders, stunned by the death of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, were not coming and some others also gave up tentative plans to put in an appearance because the 25th clearly was not going to be the kind of performance seen in 1960 when the United Nations played host to Premier Nikita Khrushchev, Premier Fidel Castro, King Hussein, President Tito and many others.

Turkey Fights Off Epidemic

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)- Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel appealed yesterday for calm in the face of a cholera epidemic in Istanbul and surrounding areas.

Doctors and hospitals are making "superhuman efforts" to combat the disease, Demirel said.

Health Minister Vedat Ali Ozkan declared the disease is "being brought under control," and that there was no need for a quarantine of the infected slum areas.

Press reports, however, said residents of the areas worst affected were fleeing to the countryside, some perhaps carrying the disease with them.

"We don't want to die here, we want to die in our home village," one paper quoted a family leaving the Sagmalcilar slums as saying.

Perhaps half a million persons, most of them landless peasant emigrants, eke out a living in the shanty towns around Istanbul, many of which are without sewage systems or adequate water supply. Unclean food and water can cause the deadly dehydration.

The official death toll yesterday night stood at 27, unchanged in 24 hours. But other reports from hospitals in the areas involved said up to 30 were dead.

One newspaper said hospitals had been forbidden by the Health Minister to disclose the exact number of dead, in an attempt to combat panic.

Large queues formed at clinics dispensing cholera inoculations. The governor of Istanbul said that within two days the entire population of the city, some 2.8 million people, will have been inoculated.

In Manisa, a major town between Istanbul and the Aegean port of Izmir, the governor forbade entry of all travelers from Istanbul who were unable to produce immunity documents.

Reports from other areas said restrictions were still in force on travel to and from Istanbul.

Bunker Leaves for D.C.

SAIGON (AP)-U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker left yesterday for consultations in Washington and a vacation amid persistent reports that he might retire. He has been in the Saigon post since April 1967.

Bunker, 76 did not meet with newsmen upon departure, but last Friday he jokingly turned aside suggestions that he might resign by saying, "Everytime I go to Washington, I hear these same rumors. You seem to know more about it than I do. I've been here 3 1/2 years, and I expect to be back. I'm coming back. That's as straight an answer as I can give you."

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said Bunker would spend three or four days in the capital consulting with officials. Presumably the discussions will center on President Nixon's new peace initiative for Indichina, which he announced Oct. 7.

The Alumni Are Coming!

CollegeMaster Salutes Senior of the Week

OUTSTANDING AGAINST RHODE ISLAND THIS WEEKEND WAS SENIOR ART CORSALETTI

Fidelity Union Life Insurance Co.

this week . . .

Dr. Hugh Davis on THE PILL

Dane Rudhyar on ASTROLOGY & I CHING

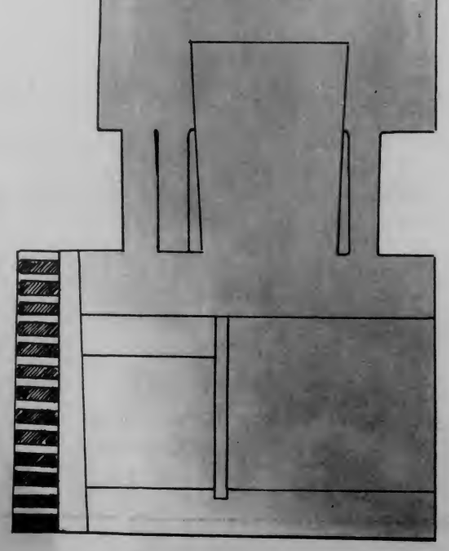
Rolo May on HUMAN POWER & VIOLENCE

WFCR 88.5 FM STEREO

TOP OF THE CAMPUS
restaurant
11th floor, Campus Center

OPENS
Oct. 24
Homecoming Weekend

LUNCHEON
Mon. - Fri. 11:30 - 1:30
Sunday Brunch 11:00 - 2:00



DINNER
Wed. & Thurs. 5:30 - 8:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 5:30 - 9:00 p.m.
Sunday 4:00 - 7:00 p.m.

DRINKS
At Lunch
Every Night 4:00 p.m. - 12:00
Sunday 4:00 - 10:00
If You're Over 21
Join the Top of the Campus Club
$1.00 annual dues

HAPPY HOURS
Mon. - Fri. 4:00 p.m. - 6:00

MUSIC
With Dinner Wed. - Sat.
Until Midnight Fri. & Sat.

ENJOY FINE FOOD
GOOD MUSIC
PANORAMIC VISTAS
TOP OF THE CAMPUS

Socialist Candidate At Forum Tonight

Tonight's Militant Forum is jointly sponsored by the U.Mass. Distinguished Speakers Program and the Young Socialist Alliance. As part of the weekly socialist educational presentations Peter Camejo will speak on "The Coming American Revolution", in room 163 of the Campus Center at 8 p.m.

PETER CAMEJO

Peter Camejo is the Socialist Workers Party candidate for U.S. Senator in Massachusetts. He is a member of the National Committee of the Socialist Workers Party and a long-time leader of Y.S.A.. Widely known for his leadership in the free speech movement at the University of California at Berkeley, Peter is also a veteran anti-war activist. He is the author of several pamphlets, including How to Make a Revolution in the U.S. and Liberalism, Ultraleftism or Mass Action.

He has spoken freguently in educational conferences for the S.W.P. and Y.S.A. in an effort to explain the necessary role of socialism in the United States. He recently debated with Edward Kennedy at Boston University.

Last week, Camejo was arrested by the Boston Police at Northeastern University after refusing to obey a Security Guard's order to stop using his portable sound system. He was charged by Boston Police with "trespassing".

According to a Y.S.A. release, Camejo's and other Socialist Worker's Party candidates campaign is "being run to offer an alternative to the parties of war and racism; the Democrats and Republicans."

"Focus" On Camejo

Tonight at 10 p.m. on WMUA's "Focus" program, political invective is expected to sear the airwaves during a discussion of "Socialist Ideology and the 1970 Elections."

Moderator Ken Mosakowski's scheduled guests for the live, 60-minute program are Peter Camejo, the Socialist Workers Party candidate for the U.S. Senate from Massachusetts; and Sidney Finehirsh, chairman of the UMass chapter of the Young Socialists Alliance.

Interested persons are invited to tune in on "Focus" at 91.1 FM. Listeners may call in their questions to members of the panel at 545-2425 or 545-2876.

Some really outstanding new Penguins are at your campus bookstore now!

ANXIETY AND NEUROSIS. Charles Rycroft. A look at the nature of anxiety and its relation to emotional disorders. $1.25

THE MODERN CULTURE OF LATIN AMERICA. Jean Franco. The first English-language study of the relationship between society and the artist in Latin America. $2.95

THE ARCHITECTS OF THE PARTHENON. Rhys Carpenter. This newest volume in the Architect and Society series offers a radical re-examination of one of the world's most venerable structures. $2.95

THE SAILORS' RENDEZVOUS. Georges Simenon. Joins eight other Simenon thrillers already in Penguin editions. 95¢

FOREIGN AID. Edited by Jagdish Bhagwati and R. S. Eckaus. These readings present the most up-to-date economic thought on the wisdom and effectiveness of foreign aid in today's changing world. $2.25

PENGUIN BOOKS INC
7110 Ambassador Rd. · Baltimore, Md 21207

Asst. Attorney General Speaks At Mt. Holyoke

Mount Holyoke College will be host to representatives of the U.S. Department of Justice tonight at 8:00 p.m. when a team headed by William D. Ruckelshaus, assistant attorney general and head of the civil division, will conduct a dialogue with students.

Mr. Ruckelshaus is a gradute of Princeton and the Harvard Law School. Before his appointment to the department of Justice, Mr. Ruckelshaus served ws the chief counsel for the office of the Attorney General of Indiana, as the minority counsel for the Indiana Senate, and as a member of the Indiana House of pRepresentative. He has great interest in environmental prblems and is the author of REAPPORTIONMENT - - A CONTINUING PROCESS.

Accompanying him will be a team of young attorneys from various divisions of the Department. They are particularly interested in discussions with members of the student bodies.

Mount Holyoke is the first stop for Department of Justice officials who are making a tour of college campuses this fall in an effort to exchange ideas with students.

The meeting, which will be held in Chapin Auditorium, is open to all members of the Five-College community and to faculty members and students from other neighboring institutions.

A handbill circulated around UMass yesterday announced that a surprise "trial" was being planned for Ruckelshaus. The handbill listed a number of charges that will be brought against the Justice Dept. and said charges would be entertained from the floor.

Theft Costs High For Campus Center

Rampant theft and vandalism in the Campus Center has run to a cost of over $4000. during the first full month of operation. Obviously something must be done. The University Community cannot afford the loss of over $130. a day. Security is an ever present problem and, although there are guards, it is impossible to cover all exists at all times. Suggestions as to possible solutions are sought and welcomed.

As of October 1, the following inventory of thefts and vandalism was taken.

Stolen:
10 stolls from Auditorim dressing rooms	$ 385.00
1 granite table top from 2nd floor	225.00
22 cushions from 1st and 2nd floors	1100.00 est.
3 cushions from Music room	175.00 est.
5 microphones	336.00
10 cushions from 8th and 9th floors	250.00 est.
1 secretary's chair from 2nd floor scheduling	67.00
4 EXIT signs from garage	200.00 est.
11 firehose nozzles	110.00 est.
1 Color Television set (replacement)	400.00
Damages:
3 urinal partitions broken (repairs)	75.00 est.
1 dressing room mirror broken (replace)	200.00 est.
Paint on walls (remove)	200.00 est.
Items belonging to barber shop	300.00
TOTAL	4015.00

The $4015.00 reveals that eighty-three students have paid their $48.00 (Student Union Tax) to help furnish other people's apartments, rooms and houses with items stolen from the Campus Center. If these items were sold, the insult is doubled.

Use the SUG Board suggestion box or contact Warren T. Grinnan with your suggestions for security. This is your building.

Jam Session Tonight

Members of several locally known rock groups are having a Jam Session Tonight at 9 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

The session is being sponsored by the Panther Defense Group, a subgroup of the Radical Community Union. The group states that donations will be requested for legal expenses (bond money) for the Black Panthers.

The Panther Defense Group will also provide information on the New Haven trial of Bobby Seale and Erica Huggins, the New York 21, and the Soledad Brothers.

Any food contributions for the People's Constitutional Convention will be welcomed at the door.

Bicycle Club First Tour Reaches Quabbin

The newly formed Bicycle Club has its first tour Sunday. President Vernon Rhett lead eleven cyclists to Quabbin Reservoir in what turned out to be a perfect fall tour. Even the weather cooperated.

The tour started from the front of the Newman Center at 10:30 a.m. with temperatures in the 40's. Two hours later, the pioneering cyclists reached Quabbin and the temperature had risen such that some sun bathing was done. Others engaged in frisbie and football, plus some short hikes along the shoreline.

On their return to campus, most of the group met at the Hatch to discuss the tour and talk about future plans.

There will be a UMBC meeting on Tuesday to discuss future tours and a maintenance clinic. It will be at 7:30 P.M. in the Campus Center, room to be announced.

AUTO INSURANCE

ALL DRIVERS
— LOWEST, LEGAL RATES —
— BUDGET PAYMENTS —

Tekoa Insurance Agency

160 Pleasant St.
Northampton
586-2742

10 Broad St.
Westfield
562-3604

CEQ Initiates Lecture Series

As part of its goal to generate environmental awareness on campus, the Coalition for Environmental Quality has initiated a new set of lectures: DELS (Distinguished Ecologist Lecture Series). A lot of work has been undertaken to recruit distinguished speakers for the benefit of the campus community and surrounding area.

Speakers from all areas of the environmental field will be presented. To kick off the season, on Thursday, October 22, at 8 P.M. in the Campus Center Auditorium, Joseph Browder, Washington director of Friends of the Earth (FOE), will speak on the crisis in the Everglades.

He is followed, on October 27, by Garrett DeBell, editor of THE ENVIRONMENTAL HANDBOOK, who is also executive secretary of Zero Population Growth.

All events will be free to the public.

Cancellation

The lecture by Si Spaulding scheduled for tonight has been cancelled.

ANSWER NIXON - AGNEW
ON OCT. 31
National Day of Peace Action

Work for a massive answer to Nixon - Agnew war policy by helping, to build the full mobilization against the war on Oct. 31 and a vote "C" (immediate withdrawal) on the Massachusetts war referendum on Nov. 3.

JOIN THE STUDENT MOBILIZATION COMMITTEE
Meeting — Tuesday, Oct, 20 at 8 p.m. in Council Chamber, S.U.

Gradual Can Mean a Lifetime — — —
Bring ALL the Troops Home NOW!!!

Distinguished Visitors Program

presents

PETER CAMEJO

Socialist Candidate for United States Senate

from Massachusetts

Speaking on: Socialism, Next Step

TONIGHT at 8:00 in ROOM 163,

Campus Center

co-sponsored by DVP and the Young Socialist Alliance

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Student Union University of Massachusetts · Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR — Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER — Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR — Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR — John Sullivan

PHOTO EDITOR — Steve Schmidt
ADVERTISING MANAGER — John Fayad

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Denise Magnell
NEWS STAFF — Roberi Scheier
DARKROOM — Gary Slickman, Robert Mangiaratti
SPORTS — John Sullivan
AD LAYOUT — Patricia Lempart
EDITORIAL — Don Glickstein

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

A New Reality

With just over two weeks left before the November election, the student body appears to be proving that the Board of Trustees was right to replace the original Princeton Plan with its like-warm, "optional" substitute. It appears that the Board was correct in reasoning last summer that "a majority of students will probably not take advantage of two weeks off from classes to campaign before the elections...and with this understood...the Princeton Plan would only constitute a free vacation period."

It appears that all the student concern about the Trustees' making the Plan optional was needless. It appears that the concern over political harassment by faculty, directed toward students who wanted to campaign during the two week period, was also needless.

It seems clear that virtually no one on this campus intends to take advantage of the modified Princeton Plan.

So what? Why does it matter if the Trustees realized that the students at this school have no real desire to act politically, but wish only to pay lip service to the faults of government, while having no intention of doing anything constructive to correct them?

It matters because the political apathy of groups like UMass undergraduates tells the Board of Trustees members and other leaders in this society that people who criticize the government are not willing to do anything but talk.

When students refuse to take an opportunity to work politically, as in the Princeton Plan, it means that they forfeit the right to complain when their government takes more and more of their rights away. It means that they have only helped to drive the nation a little farther toward the reality of a fascist state.

Mark Silverman

Pernicious Television

Editor's Note...the following is the second part of a four part series on the mythical reality of television.

The concerned mothers met in Boston this weekend to discuss why children's television has to be supported by "hard sell" commercials. But, even before they began their meeting, everyone knew how futile their attempts at getting the networks to cut down on children's commercials would be.

Their arguments were actually quite valid. There are more commercials, per hour, in children's television than in prime-time network shows. The reasons for this are simple; kids don't know any better and therefore don't complain about excessive interruptions to their shows.

Also, the mothers stressed the fact that children are taken advantage of by advertisers, and this is very true.

Kids watch hours upon hours of cartoons and other juvenile shows each week, and are constantly subjected to the "must buy" advertising psychology which is so effective with the unintelligent, the easily persuaded and the gullible viewer.

All products are described as "essential" for children to have; their uses and attractions are dramatized to an extent that just befuddles a child. Kids feel that they are not as good as their friends without toys advertised on the tube, and even though their parents might not be able to afford a particular product, the children cannot understand this.

But there is little that can be done about this situation. The networks can easily stress the hard economic facts of life in the media, and can approach honesty by saying that the problem lies with Madison Avenue, that ad firms should alter the tone of juvenile commercials.

Because of the corporate structure of network television, the most anyone can expect the broadcasters to do is reduce the number of commercial breaks in a kiddie show, but increase the length of each break.

It is extremely doubtful that anyone can put enough pressure on the advertising industry to alter the tone of T.V. advertising for children. There is no way Madison Ave. will turn its back on a proven technique.

But the saddest thing about advertising agency control over children's television is that the advertisers control the content of the shows. For example the arguments against violence in television have been completely ignored by juvenile producers.

On a Saturday morning in a city with three network stations a child can watch television from 8:00 a.m. to noon and see 220 persons killed, maimed or seriously injured. He can see nearly 50 airplane crashes or car accidents and he can see about 300 fights.

Violence sells, and since children rarely ever complain about anything they see on the tube, violence will always continue to sell on television.

Until the structure of advertising-supported network television is changed, advertisers will continue to have control over what is seen by children, and will continue to make editorial decisions on what kinds of heroes, hopes, dreams and hates our children are taught to have by their most influential teacher, their television set.

Open Letter-Work

We want to form a Student Employee's Union because we don't have the power to change our working situation when conditions demand that it change.

The problem is one of conflicting cultures. One's cultural upbringing says: "If you feel and think something is right, you do that thing. And if you feel and think something is wrong, you don't do it." Management says, as an employee, you either accept the entire job or quit.

Perhaps at one time, quitting was the viable alternative, but now jobs, especially part-time jobs, are really difficult to get. Do you then shelve your beliefs, your principles, your self-respect, in order to keep the job?

Tuesday, Oct. 20, at 6 p.m. in the Student Union ballroom we hope to gather help and ideas to create alternative structures designed to protect student employees' interests.

Why shouldn't student employees receive compensation for working more hours than they've been contracted to work? In the case of the last concert the performance was delayed and the light and sound crew worked from 11:00 a.m. Saturday until 4:30 a.m. Sunday with no pay adjustment.

Shouldn't students be fully aware of all the duties involved on a job when they're hired, and shouldn't there be a place to negotiate those duties (i.e. a projectionist told to empty wastebaskets and wash desks and shelves)?

What appeal board hears your case when you're fired because you refused to load a truck with goods intended for a manager's home. Should students pay for that work or should the loading be done off the clock by the manager himself?

What happens when, in sympathy with the student strike, you stop working? What happens when you refuse to work for the Playboy Night Club because you believe it oppresses women?

Has any one you know had any trouble getting paid?

An audio visual technician was hired this summer as a supervisor in the Student Union. He was fired, not only from the supervisory job, but wasn't rehired as a technician this year. He was fired because he came in late twice. What does he do?

We have the opportunity to be responsible for another piece of our lives. Don't blow it.

JOHN BARBARO
BARRY E. RAND

Art Buchwald

The American Rat Race

WASHINGTON -- One of the complaints the kids voice today is that parents put too much pressure on them. I accidentally listened to such a discussion the other evening at Goldfarb's house.

Young Goldfarb, aged 16, told his father he saw no reason to study such irrelevant subjects as math, language, science, history and English.

"Who needs it?" young Goldfarb said.

"You need it," his father shouted.

"Why?" young Goldfarb demanded.

"Because of Springfield. If I don't push you, Springfield's kid is going to get ahead of you in school. How would you like that?"

"Who cares if Springfield's son gets ahead of me?" young Goldfarb said.

"Springfield does, that's who," the older Goldfarb replied. "Oh, wouldn't he love it if he could say his kid was doing better than Goldfarb's."

"You mean to say you've been leaning on me all this time because you're in a contest with Springfield?" young Goldfarb said.

"I didn't start it," the older Goldfarb said. "It was Springfield who began pushing his kid first. Years ago, I heard Springfield tell his kid, 'Never take second best. Go for all the marbles. Get out in front and show them what you can do.'

"When I heard this, I had no choice but to make you work your tail off. If you're mad at anyone, you should be mad at Springfield."

"But Springfield's kid doesn't want to compete with me any more than I want to compete with him. Why don't I call him up and tell him if he knocks off beating his brains out, I'll knock off beating my brains out?"

"That would be just fine," old Goldfarb said. "But what about Ascarelli's kid?"

"What's Ascarelli's kid got to do with it?"

"You think Ascarelli is going to stop pushing his kid just because you two let up? And how about Bernheim's son? Bernheim has already announced his kid is going to Yale. You want Bernheim's kid to go to Yale and you wind up at some community college in Florida?"

"But don't you understand, Pop?" young Goldfarb said. "Ascarelli's son couldn't care less if he got ahead of us, and Bernheim's son doesn't give a damn whether he gets in Yale."

Old man Goldfarb got up and took his son over to the window and pointed out to the flickering apartment lights across the Potomac.

"If it was just ONE Springfield or ONE Ascarelli or ONE Bernheim, I would say 'Enjoy yourself; don't break your back.' But out there where you see those lights are thousands and thousands of Springfields and Ascarellis and Bernheims, and do you know what they're saying to their kids tonight? They're saying 'The only thing I want you to do is to BEAT GOLDFARB!'

"All over America, the Springfields, Ascarellis and Bernheims are vowing to beat you out of a job, a sale, a taxi, a contract, a home, a wife. And do you know why they're doing it?"

"No," said young Goldfarb. "I don't know why."

"Because at this very moment they know I'm telling you to get them before they get you."

"But if you stop, maybe they will," young Goldfarb said.

"It's too late," the older Goldgarb said. "Springfield, Ascarelli and Bernheim are too ambitious for their sons to quit now. So be a nice boy and go do your homework."

Copyright 1970 Los Angeles Times

Don Glickstein

A New Calendar

One of the strangest dichotomies of our age is the demand for specialists and the need for generalists. We see this contradiction manifest itself in our University: the more specialized and departmentalized a faculty is, the more irrelevant they are to a comprehensive, interdisciplinary study of our multi-variable, polymorphic world. We see the dichotomy with our architecture that does not complement the existing farmlands. We see it from Master Planning to what people might feel is a minor and unimportant committee -- the Faculty Senate Space and Calendar Committee.

Marshall McLuhan speaks of the medium as the message, but the very important implications of this statement for university education are unnoticed and unapplied by educators who should know better.

Just as the content of television or radio is often less important than the fact that there exists a television or a radio, so what takes place during a school year is often forgotten and secondary to the effect of the school year itself.

Committee Suggestions

The Faculty Senate Space and Calendar Committee is having hearings this week and next on a rearrangement of the University calendar year. It has proposed four possible plans:

1. Continued use of the current calendar -- 2 semesters approximately 15 weeks apiece, a special swingshift freshmen program, and a summer school.
2. Modified use of the current calendar -- final exams taken before Christmas with a month of intersession.
3. Tri-Semester -- three 10-week semesters.
4. The 4-1-4 Plan -- two 4-month semesters and one month (January) for independent study.

The main assets of the first two proposals are convenience: they provide summers for research for the faculty, and vacation and work for students, and they give an opportunity for the University community to go skiing during the winter.

The tri-semester plan will presumably enable a student to take less courses but more credit hours per trimester, or more courses for less credit hours per trimester. Its greatest asset is that it retains the vacation time while granting students an extra semester to enroll in courses of their choice.

The final proposal, the 4-1-4 plan, was conceived with education, rather than vacations foremost in the mind. But although its intents are commendable, its educational assets are questionable, as are the previous plans.

What has happened is an unintentional cooption of education for convenience, accelerated by the assumption that education can be separated from the environment -- the time and the place -- in which it occurs.

In developing a new calendar, these considerations must be noted:

---Students are individuals, each having a different personality, and each affected by teaching tools differently. Thus, compulsory independent study (as in 4-1-4) is not necessarily the most advantageous system for all students. Neither is compulsory course-taking (as in every plan).

---Teachers are also individuals and react to various environments differently. Hence, compulsory classroom teaching or seminar leading or independent study supervision cannot usually all be done competently by the same person.

---Attitudes toward learning are affected by the classroom situation. A 30-week school encourages the attitude that learning takes place only seven months a year. And if a student fails in something he is not equipped for -- e.g. course taking OR independent study -- the attitude that learning NEVER takes place for HIM is encouraged.

---There are those faculty who prefer research and those who would rather teach. A calendar must provide for both contributions.

---Some students must work during the summer to pay for school; others are able to study year-round and graduate in 2 1/2 to 3 years.

---A calendar must take into account the evolution and development of educational ideas and techniques. It must be flexible and malleable.

If these considerations are valid, then it is obvious that the proposals suggested by the Calendar and Space Committee are lacking and even detrimental to faculty and students alike.

Many schools -- elementary, secondary, colleges, and universities -- have believed that there is a better system. The most prominent of their alternatives is the year-round school.

The Year-Round School

Consisting usually of four quarters of 12-weeks each, the year-round school provides for flexibility that is able to satisfy most interests. Faculty have their choice of teaching year-round or teaching for any 3 quarters, the other quarter being for research. Students have a choice of graduating in three years by attending school year-round, or attending school any three of the four quarters, working or vacationing the other quarters.

The major structural difference between a year-round calendar and one with a summer "session" is that the quarter which falls during the summer in the year-round school is totally integrated and equal to the other semesters. If UMass adopted a year-round calendar, those who are now called "swingshift freshmen" would attend not a modified 11-credit summer session, but a full 15 or 16 credit quarter. Also, students who wishes to matriculate early could take a full course load like they would in any other quarter, not just the 2 or three courses that are available currently for summer school students.

A year-round calendar would be met with much opposition. It is not "convenient" and would necessitate a change in graduation traditions, admissions procedures, and registration, for students would be entering and leaving the university not two, but four times a year. Those opposed to open enrollment would see the year-round school as a facilitator for the admission of more students than is now practical. No doubt the Treasurer and the Legislature would complain about the extra budget required to initiate the plan. And of course, the UMass Convention Bureau might become defunct (but then, if UMass was in the supplemental income business, it ought to build a sweat shop, too).

The deciding factor in favor of the year-round calendar is its flexibility and ability to adapt to the future, whatever it will be. Within the calendar, the University, should it decide to provide some needed educational alternatives, would be able to provide independent study, seminars, courses, field work, and other alternatives that it would not be able to give were it bound to a 4-1-4 plan. If the University refuses to individualize mass education, the year- round calendar would still be the most efficient one, providing a maximum number of students with a maximum number of courses.

The year-round calendar is practical. It is in operation in progressive schools such as Antioch College (where only half the student body is on campus at any one time, the other half participating in off-campus study) and multi-universities like the Universities of Denver and Pittsburgh.

Educators at UMass should be worried. If the 4-1-4 calendar is adopted under the guise of a progressive innovation, the University may never again have the opportunity to approve an educational structure that recognizes that learning is not a 7-month business but a year-round way of life, a structure that is big enough for the future, that is great enough for the future that we must hope will exist.

Open hearings of the Calendar and Space Committee will continue on Thursday, October 22, from 12:30-2:30 at the Duke Room of the Student Union, and on Monday, October 26 from 2:30-4:25 in SBA 101. Students, faculty and administrators are invited.

Mutterings

Random mutterings of a pseudoparanoid trying to meet a deadline (or: how to put off studying by putting something together for the COLLEGIAN):

Remember when Sprio Agnew's library burned down and all three books were lost? And two of them weren't even colored in yet?

How about a new movie called "Martha Mitchell and the face that launched a thousand ships"? (Have any airplanes ever been hijacked TO America?)

Speaking of the new meal tickets, how can anybody steal FOOD from the Dining Commons? I mean, where do they find it?

Does anybody pay any attention to me? Here I go to all this work to be a BMOC and nobody even writes in to the COLLEGIAN and calls me a SOB.

I'll be three months too young to run for President in 1984.

If God really IS dead, how can I be the Third Messiah? Did Mom lie to me? And what about the Second Messiah?

Is Martha Mitchell really in the hospital being treated for exposure to intelligence?

Do you REALLY buy PLAYBOY to read the articles?

Fashion note of the day: "Contrary to popular rumor, Washington luminary RICHARD M. NIXON is not about to convert his wardrobe to the midi-skirt look for this winter."

Spiro Agnew fake quote of the day: "I firmly believe that what every American city needs is a Batman."

Do you think animals should wear clothes?

I wish I had thought of it before: The Hatch is really named "The Hatchet and Pipe". Why couldn't we call the new Coffee Shop "The Roach and Water Pipe"?

No, I don't really wish I had thought of it before.

The reason why this article is so short is that it's going to be censored when I turn it in.

Or won't you fall for that excuse?

Let's have some suggestions for more tests like "the fake radical". (By the way, let me make one thing perfectly clear: that "fake test" applies only to those who CLAIM to be radicals and still do those things.)

I didn't take that test.

Anyone want to start a new magazine? I'll sell you the name "The Apathist" for a good price. ("We don't care.")

Did YOU skip you're 8:00 o'clock class today?

Am I kidding?

Do you still hum "Sugar, sugar" to yourself?

A personal note: I'm not after your body, if that's what you're worried about.

Peace. I guess.

Gus Szlosek
Editorial Staff

Campus Comment

It's Your Money

To The Editor:

How would you like a $100.00 a month? Run for Student Senate President. This exciting opportunity will become a reality if bill 71-S21 is passed. If you don't bother finding out what is doing on in the Senate, bills such as 71-S21 which would pay the President of the Senate $100.00 per month, and the Vice-President and the Treasurer $75.00 a month retroactive to September might slip by unnoticed. Bill 71-S22 would create a patronage system in the Senate by paying all Committee Chairmen unspecified sums.

D o you want dedicated Senators or Senators who are considering their office as a financial transaction? I think the Senate shouldn't become a place where one thinks that if I get elected or appointed to an office I can earn so much rather than I could do this and that to improve the situation of the University if I was in that office. Can you afford to pay $2,250.00 a year for three offices that have previously been filled without monetary compensation for years, plus an unspecified amount for several committee chairmen? Shall we be making Senatorships paid political offices next? Aren't your Student Activity Fees high enough? What are you going to do about it? Let your Senators know your opinion soon.

Name Withheld by Request

Thank You

To the Editor:

I want to write this before the good feeling wears off. We all complain (as I often do) of the inhuman and unjust treatment received when dealing with a multibureaucratic institution, such as most universities are. But recently, I had an unusual and pleasant experience to the contrary, and for fear of this beautiful thing dying out, I wanted to make notice of it. There are at least 4 people who work at the Student Infirmary to whom this credit is due. I don't know their names, with the exception of Dr. Cotanche; but the Nurse receptionist, Dr. Cotanche, his nurse, and the Pharmicist can feel satisfied that for one day at least, for one person, they gave more than the expected, adequate rendering of their services. They gave of human understanding and concern. And today, when the generation gap is ever widening, that is no small thing.

D. Holland

Education?

To the Editor:

And for those non-students seeking to understand the mounting revolutionary activity in this country, I suggest you visit any nearby university and sit in on a few of the classes (preferably a sociology, psychology, or political science class). I assure you it will be educational beyond your expectations.

You will hear professors telling their students such things as, "If yu never read anything else, be sure to read that great work, THE COMMUNIST MANIFESTO." Granted, everyone should probably be acquainted with this rather simplistic work which has wrought so much misery -- but if you only plan to read one more book in your lifetime, there are a vast number of woks which surpass this one in literary excellence, logical consistency, and intellectual content.

You may also learn about GROUP TESTING -- in which a test is administered to a group (rather than to individuals) and the testees are supposed to supply each other the answers. Such TESTS are presently being used in at least one psychology class at the University of Massachusetts, the professor noting "that those students who look upon the contents of their own minds as private property might be upset by this method." Right on!

You will find the government scorned, the president slandered, capitalism down-graded, and revolution encouraged. This might be acceptable in a government or economics course where the students may and are encouraged to debate the professor's viewpoint -- but not in a freshman psychology or sociology class. Political propaganda directed at captive audiences has no place in these over-crowded classes which offer little opportunity (and less time) for debate on a non-relevant topic. Education is becoming a more and more costly commodity; it is extremely unjust to force a student to spend his class-time listening to a professor espouse his personal political beliefs.

But the tragic part is that these professors may influence or indoctrinate some of their more naive students. The function of a professor is to educate, not indoctrinate. These professors should keep their political preaching outside the calssroom and concentrate, instead, on the field which they are being paid to teach and in which, it is hoped, they are knowledgeable.

Finally, by visiting a university classroom, you will discover that many of the professors have a profoundly limited vocabulary. One might expect that after sixteen or more years of education, they would have other words to use in lieu of bull-shit, fuck, etc., which crop up frequently in their lectures--but this seems to be asking too much. The rights of the minority who find such language objectionable are cast aside in favor of "telling it like it is."

I am graduated now with a B.A. in philosophy. I have no intention of continuing my education until universities become educational institutions again and not political stages for mediocre professors to espouse their juvenile political opinions. I urge all students or would-be students who find intolerable the present university trend to favor socialists, communists, and anarchists to join me in "dropping out". Believe me, they are parasites who depend on your continuing subordinance and silence for their existence. The same request goes out to you non-students: withdraw your support? You are supplying them with the rope to hang you.

R. D. Warner

Peanut Butter

To the Editor:

Aha! You all thought that the "Greater North American Peanut Butter and Jelly Conspiracy" was a flash in the pan, a one shot affair. Well, we're here, and we're here to stay! Meanwhile, the Peanut Butter and Jelly Conspiracy rages on.

Yesterday, (Thursday), the head of the Food Services for the Union and the Campus Center called our Conspiracy Headquarters, (a dilapidated two-story building in Hadley) after a few GNAPB&BJ officials paid him a visit. Mr. Egan, eager to help, has promised a full investigation of the PPEANUT BUTTER AND JELLY SANDWICH HASSLE. We'll see what happens.

In the meantime, stay angry, will ya? And if you are not angry, get angry. The price of the peanut butter and jelly may not be as important as the price of the Spiroburger (hold it to your ear and it makes you vomit), but $.35 is still a rip-off--and it's not the only thing that's overpriced!...

...UP THE BEANUT BUTTER AND JELLY REVOLUTION!...

Call 584-3419
Dave Nellis
Ron Caplan
Tom Lynady
Kathy Barrett

Academic Affairs

Career Opportunities Program Improves Urban Education

At this juncture in the evolution of the American city, one needs little imagination to understand the debilitating effect that an overwhelming white, middle-class teaching corps has upon the intellectual performance and emotional development of ghetto black and poor white school children.

Responding to this situation, the Center for Urban Education has worked to develop new patterns in teacher education: techniques to broaden and strengthen the teaching profession. One such effort, developed in conjunction with school departments in Worcester and Springfield, is the currently operative Career Opportunities Program (C.O.P.).

Stating its objectives simply, the federally funded program utilizes the resources of UMass to improve the education of urban children.

Two of the three components which comprise the program began in September, 1970. In Worcester, 45 paraprofessionals chosen by the community will receive nine (9) credits through the Division of Continuing Education: three each in rhetoric, urban communities relations and practice teaching activities.

The on-campus participants, mostly black and Latino (including a number of Viet-Nam veterans) were selected for their demonstrated ability as indigenous educational leaders. They have begun the first semester of study in their four-yar program leading to a B.A. in Education. Both the Government Department and the Rhetoric Program have made significant contributions to develop a curriculum which effectively covers the subject matter at hand, while meeting the unique demands of a group characterized by a high level of motivation and a low tolerance for irrelevance.

The offerings selected within the School of Education have been: Reading Methods, Methods in Teaching Mathematics, and Urban Community Relations. The director of the Center for Urban Education is Dr. Atron Gentry and the Worcester C.O.P. program is directed by Rhody McCoy.

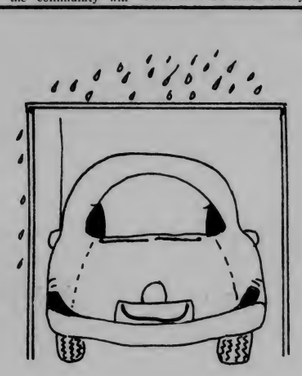
While this group of educators receives academic training from the College of Arts and Sciences, their presence on campus broadens the educational options available to members of the University Community. Next month, C.O.P. participants will offer seminars relating to their experiences in Watts, Ocean Hill-Brownsville, Bedford-Stuyvesant, and Chicago, in addition to the Massachusetts communities of Worcester and Holyoke.

School of Ed Colloquia Slated

The first in a series of annual graduate colloquia will be presented by the School of Education, on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 20 and 21, from 3:00 to 6:00 p.m. and 8:00 to 10:00 p.m.

In these afternoon and evening sessions held at the Campus Center, forty-five recent graduates and doctoral candidates who have completed or are now completing significant reasearch projects will make demonstrations and presentations of their work.

Sessions will focus on a variety of interests. Represented among them will be such areas as Counseling, Administration, Computer Assisted Instruction, Media, and Humanistic, International, Vocational and Urban Education.



Each presentation will be followed by a panel of reactors and response from the audience. Further information is available at the School of Education by calling 545-0958. The schedule follows:

For more info contact:
Dr. Richard Ulin
Dir. of Graduate Studies
School of Ed.
545-1569 or 1573

All students interested in elementary and secondary student teaching and internship during the spring semester of 1971 must attend an organization meeting on Thursday, October 29.

IF you are a secondary student teacher your meeting will be from 2:30-4:00 P.M. in the Mark's Meadow Auditorium. If you are in elementary your meeting is from 4:00-6:30 P.M. in the same place.

This will be the only time that programs will be explained and applications for placement distributed. You must attend if you expect to be placed in the Spring semester of 1971.

Sick of parking your car miles away from where you want to go?

Tired of running miles through the rain from your car to your classes, work, or the Hatch?

Keep yourself and your car warm and and dry.

Use the Campus Center Garage

One hour 25¢

Each additional hour 15¢

All day $2.00

WHO ARE YOU?

Be proud of your beliefs. Stand up for your convictions. Your time to stand up and be counted is now. Good movements need support and recognition.

Wear with pride a beautiful movement jacket. Each jacket bears an emblem of your choice depicting your ideas and beliefs. Every movement has a different color jacket for instant recognition. A distinctively styled jacket that you will be proud to wear. Jackets feature zipper front and cadet type collar.

— ENVIRONMENT
— BLACK PANTHER
— PEACE
— BSU
— SPEAKERS BUREAU
— ALL MOVEMENTS

DON'T DELAY, AVOID THE RUSH, ORDER TODAY

State name, address, name of movement and size desired. S-M-L. Send $8.00 or 2 jackets for $15.00. Send today to:

J & M DISTRIBUTORS
P.O. BOX 11244
WICHITA, KANSAS 67202

Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. Allow 3 - 5 weeks for delivery.

Lecture Series Planned By Hotel Admin. Dept.

The following lectures will be given as part of the Guest Lecture Series offered by the Department of Hotel & Restaurant Administration in the Public Health Auditorium at 10:10 each Thursday morning:

Oct. 22, The Sheraton Concept, Philip Lowe, Vice-Chairman of the Board, ITT Sheraton corp. Boston

Nov. 5 - Hotel-Motel Design, William B. Tabler, Tabler Architects, New York City

Nov. 12 - Marketing the Motel, James D. Gipson, Jr., Personnel Director Roadway Inns, Phoenix, Arizona

Nov. 19 - The Specialty Restaurant, Dr. Joseph Santos, Sign of the Dove, New York City

Dec. 3 - Motor Lodge Sales and Operation, Arthur P. Barrett, Gen. Mgr. Howard Johnson's Motor Lodges, New York City

Dec. 3 Motor Lodge Sales and Operation, Arthur P. Barrett, Gen. Mgr. Howard Johnson's Motor Lodges, New York City

Dec. 10 - The Travel Agent, Arnold C. Rigby, Arnold Tours, Boston

Dec. 17 - Tourism in Massachusetts, Ernest Lucci, Director of Bureau of Vacation Travel, Dept. of Commerce, Massachusetts

January 6 - American Hotel & Motel Association Day and Travel Lodge

Unique Concepts in Design and Operations, Mel Sanders, American Hotel & Motel Association

English Majors Asked For Course Suggestions

The English Department's Undergraduate Council, which includes student representation from E.D.U.C., has agreed to consider suggestions for new courses submitted by any undergrad. Ideas for a course need not be a formal or lengthy description, but simply a brief outline.

Bring all suggestions, along with your name and phone number, to th Undergraduate Studies Office in Room 251 Bartlett as soon as possible. (early December at the latest for Fall '71 offerings)

E.D.U.C., the English Department's student council which has voting power on various faculty committees, needs time to work with you, or else on its own, to discuss the course's scope, find a willing faculty member to teach the course, and present this to the Undergraduate Studies Council, which votes on new courses for Fall '71 in December.

Last year, the Council voted yes to a variety of new courses ranging from "The Political Novel," to "Deerslayers and Moviegoers' The American Dream and What Happened To It."

However, this will be the first time that students will have the chance to light the initial spark.

Seminar Features MIT Professor

A lecture on electric vehicles by a Massachusetts Institute of Technology air pollution specialist today will inaugurate a new seminar series by the UMass electrical engineering department.

The first lecturer is Prof. Richard D. Thornton of the National Air Pollution Control Administration.

He will speak on "Electric Propulsion of Cars and Other Vehicles" tonight at 4 p.m. in the East Engineering Building auditorium. The public is invited.

The lecture is the first in a series of Monday seminars planned this year by the electrical engineering department. Featured will be prominent speakers from research, educational and industrial institutions.

Review

Cotten Effort "Great"

By DON GLICKSTEIN
Staff Reporter

As the concert progressed and Tom Rush came on, I heard a voice behind me remark, "I thought they were giving Tom Rush top billing. Why is he coming on first?" By the end of the concert Saturday night at Smith College, the audience knew why.

I never knew blues until I heard the James Cotton Blues Band. I am convinced that there is nothing the Band cannot do, from harmonica to flute, from singing o to stimulating. James Cotton is a man who has "paid his dues" like B.B. King, yet unlike B.B., Cotton has not yet received his due recognition. Perhaps that is why he tries harder, and that is why -- and I'm sure the participants at Greene Hall will back me up on this -- that is why he succeeds better. Any man who can play with an audience like James Cotton did -- have them dancing one minute, have them crying another -- deserves the standing ovations that Cotton received after every one of his numbers.

A bespeckled Tom Rush was seen digging James Cotton from the wings. A half hour before, it was Rush who was being acclaimed -- and deservedly so. Rush is a performer before he is a singer and writer, and accordingly, he is able, unlike the Leonard Cohens and James Taylors of the world, to give an audience an exciting and varied collage of music.

I have not been to a concert that left me with a good feeling since Odetta and Nina Simone came to UMass last year. The Tom Rush -- James Cotton Blues Band Concert renewed my faith that not every performer has coopted their audience for an easy buck.

From old Bo Diddeley beats to Joni Mitchell to his humorous exchanges with Buffalo, the Smith sound man, Tom Rush demonstrated that he can entertain and interpret. Being an old folkie, I felt that Rush's encore, "Child's Song," was his best song, providing a restful respite of Rush, a man, alone with only his guitar.

Art Exhibits Planned For Union, Center

The Arts Committee of the Student Union plans exhibits in the Student Union and accepts art for the Campus Center and the Student Union. Plans are now in effect for acquiring art to display in the Campus Center, with an emphasis on student art.

The Committee's first exhibit currently on display in the Student Union Gallery, room 326, presents lithographs of Mr. Charles A. Johnson. Mr. Johnson's works have previously been shown at the Boston Center for Adult Education, at the Open Air Art Show and Exhibit of Spring and Fall of 1969, and at the Spring Open Air Exhibit and Sale in 1970, at the Charles Street Meeting House in Boston.

Mr. Johnson writes: "The simple beauty of the Oriental brush painting gives one a feeling of relaxed beauty – no strain to be a perfectionist – and an effortless glow from the brush is conducive to a desire to paint every chance that presents itself."

The exhibit will be on display through November 11. Lithographs shown at the exhibit will be available, originals and reproductions, by contacting Charles A. Johnson, 27 Woodbridge Street, Cambridge, Mass.

Heralded Violinist Slated For Concerts This Week

Nathan Milstein, universally regarded as one of the greatest living violinists, will perform two entirely different programs at UMass Tuesday and Wednesday under the auspices of the UMass Fine Arts Council.

Milstein's appearance at the University marks the opening of the 1970-71 Celebrity Series, which will also include two-day visits to the Amherst campus by the Virtuosi di Roma, Nov. 5 and 6; the Boston Philharmonia under Leon Kirchner with Murray Perahia as piano soloist, Feb. 9 and 10; a fully-staged production of Mozart's "Don Giovanni" by The Goldovsky Grand Opera Theatre, March 5 and 6; and recitals by American painist Byron Janis, April 6 and 7.

He is one of the legendary artists before the public today. He made his American debut in 1929 and since then has maintained his preeminence among the leading world violinists. He is considered by such distinguished music critics as The

Milstein

Los Angeles Times' Albert Goldberg "to have no peer at all." Mr. Milstein now lives in London, concertizes widely in Europe and makes infrequent visits to the United States under the S. Hurok management.

This season will find Nathan Milstein as soloist with the New York Philharmonic, the Cleveland Orchestra, the Chicago Symphony and other leading American orchestras. He is also giving a limited number of recitals in large music centers throughout this country, including a two-day visit to the University of Massachusetts, his first visit here.

For his concert on Tuesday evening, Oct. 20, he will perform works by Handel, Bach, Brahms, Paganini, Liszt and Wieniawski. On Wednesday, Oct. 21, Mr. Milstein will offer works by Vivaldi, Bach, Brahms, Ernest Bloch, Josef Suk and a composition by himself. Piano accompanist for both concerts will be Brian Lamport. Both concerts will be at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

Ticket information is available from the UMass Fine Arts Council Box Office, 125 Herter Hall, 545-0202.

"Commune" Featured at Amherst

Director Richard Schechner's young Performance Group will give a free public performance of their new theatre piece, "Commune," Wednesday, 8 p.m. in Alumni Gymansium at Amherst College.

The ensemble began its work in 1968 using Euripides' "The Bacchae"as a pre-text for its environmental theatre production of "Dionysus in '69." Their New York performance in the group's Wooster Street Garage received wide critical acclaim including an Obie Award in 1969. Their next production "Makbeth," firmly established The Performance Group as serious leaders of the "new theatre."

Still under Schechner's direction the group reformed last April with a Rockefeller grant and summer residency at the State University of New York at New Paltz to study communal relationships. The result is their latest theatre piece, "Commune." Although historical ideas are brought into modern perspective, the piece is not a documentary but is freshly explored territory using the exciting techniques of the new theatre.

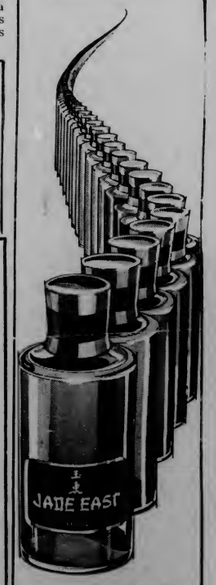
Director Schechner teaches at New York University. He was for six years editor of "Drama Review" and is author of countless articles on the theatre as well as editor of several books.

"Commune" is subtitled "From Brook Farm to Spahn's Ranch" and "Nathaniel Hawthorne Meets Charles Manson."

SELL SMART

Use MDC Classifieds

Sigma Alpha Mu



Man naturally forms communities — he needs people. When intensive introspection leads to an extreme sense of self-concern, the individual tends to become increasingly obtuse in his relationships with others. A person who doesn't know how to relate with people, in spite of his need to, feels distraught and incomplete. The need is natural, the knowledge of how to fulfill this need often times is not. A Brotherhood attempts to solve this problem. Brotherhood strives to create an atmosphere of caring where acceptance and understanding of one's association with others is gradually established. The relationship is not forced, but desired. In order to be a realistic relationship, it must include women as well as men. People sharing Brotherhood is not a new idea but a good one. In keeping with this spirit and with the support of our national fraternity organization Sigma Alpha Mu, Beta Epsilon Charter is now open to females as well as men. All Umass co-eds are cordially invited to the EAM Chapter House, 387 North Pleasant Street on Tuesday, October 20, at 7:30 p.m. for an Open Community Meeting on the concepts of a co-ed fraternity. Co-ed is not new and we want to make it work, but we need your help.

SIGMA ALPHA MU – 387 North Pleasant Street

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20, AT 7:30

Cordially yours,
MARK BRENNER, Prior
BOB NIMS, Co-ed Co-ordinator

lover's lane

JADE EAST

SWANK INC.— Sole Distributor

President Wood's Address To The Faculty Senate

I acknowledge this opportunity to meet with you today with appreciation, pleasure--and a sense of personal good-fortune. Lest that last remark seem incredulous and you believe I have lost my mind, I concede a time of academic crises in America, and more, of national turmoil, of dissent. I don't believe I've accepted a sinecure.

The beginning of a decade always prompts comparisons and the striking of balance 1970 versus 1960's is a brutal, depressing, intellectual exercise.

Ten years ago: The younger generation appeared more silent than radical. The fertility of our women concerned us more than their militancy. Martin Luther King, Jr. lead a civil rights movement on the basis of non-violence. Now, the Black Panthers occupy our attention with the trials. The election of John F. Kennedy heralded the end of religious intolerance of Middle America, made a man's church a matter of national indifference. Now, the nation seems preoccupied by a search for each group's identity. In 1960, the United States' international posture was one safeguarding freedom, and preventing aggression. Today, we present the muddled contrast of ineffective action in Indo-China and futility in Czechoslovakia.

In short, after three major assassinations, 142 major riots and 30 million additional firearms, it is clear that the bright ebullience, the reckless gallantry that began the decade did not endure.

But I am persuaded that the basic structure and processes of the nation and the University did endure--do endure, and will endure. The hallmarks of an open society persist: election, a free open press, expressions of opinion, the right of peaceful assembly. Indeed, over the last few years they have expanded.

As for the universities in particular, they are becoming more sensitive to reform and to their role in our society. Rapid change continues in curricula and governances, but so does the basic awareness that the power of knowledge is still the most effective, the most benign, the most essential of all powers in a free society.

And, in this time, the University of Massachusetts, I sense, has a situation of special grace. Under John Lederle's leadership there has been a commitment of resources and a condition of autonomy that is special in the 1960's by the General Court. The mind boggles at Chancellor Tippo's summary of $156 million capital outlay appropriation this year. Salaries are never good enough but they are beginning to be the envy of other universities. Conditions at the University allow for improvement and opportunities in all fields of endeavor--but, unless grievous mistakes are made, we stand at a moment of greatness.

So my basic theme this afternoon is: A rising tide floats all boats if the waves aren't too high and some idiot doesn't rock too hard.

In one sense, I succeeded John Lederle: in another, I did not. For I assume a new office mandated by the Trustees. Just as Amherst initiated, organized, and sustained the development of the Boston and Worcester campuses, so the Marcus Commission Report of October, '69 of this campus helped guide in reorganization plans for the University at large.

The first critical areas in the President's new office are the development of additional public and private resources, and their more effective management. They are additional to the established responsibility of setting the goals and direction of the University. The President's office must seek especially to enlarge the capability of the Trustees to formulate policy, and to support the capability of each campus to execute it. The traditions and autonomous governance of each campus are still to be maintained. We seek a balance between the old political science concepts of confederation and federation. The borderlines between these will surely cause tension and stress but by these uncertainties energy is released and progress is made.

One key concept in the President's new office is that of the direct line between the President and the Chancellor and Deans. Each activity in the President's office has an operational counterpart on campus that will be respected. I expect to call on faculty members as colleagues and I will welcome their exchange of views. But when I am on campus, it will be as a colleague and the Chancellor will know that I am here.

Inevitably, in thinking about autonomy and confederation, each campus community--including Amherst--will wonder how it will be affected. This campus especially might speculate as to whether or not change always penalizes the strongest. After all, even academic communities sometimes experience a twinge of paranoia.

One answer was that of Chairman Joseph Healey when he said the task now of Amherst was to steer the flagship of a fleet rather than to steer a single frigate. In new and changing situations there can be no parallel among the different branches of the University. Each campus because of its different situation, location, and history, has different needs. And, therefore, the new organization offers more solutions to problems of growth. I am cognizant of the recommendations of the Faculty Senate Long Range Planning Committee's careful study recommending a student population of possibly 30,000 by 1980. I also know the importance of reaching an optimum number, one which will not compromise quality for quality. By having alternatives within the system, one can develop different strategies than simply grow and grow in one spot.

Another advantage: the President's office can at times and with delicacy, prevent the development of uniform, repetitive, look-alike campuses. We can shape the identity of each by selecting and choosing unique functions. This requires coordination. I am well aware of the fact, as my old boss, Robert Weaver used to say, that no one likes coordination except the coordinator. But it has to be done, and all I can say, with Weaver's injunction firmly in mind, is that the new President will be gentle and selective in his exercise of that function.

Finally, the President's office can help in defending and explaining the University goals to the public, to the Trustees, and to the legislature. We can be a spokesman--and we will with all the energy at our command.

But my colleagues, whatever patterns the administration adopts, whatever the operations of the Presidency, the fact is that the future of the University remains, as it always has, with the faculty--its attitudes, it actions, and its performance.

I have no magic solutions as to how to solve this problem except to suggest that more consideration be given involvement. Better than most, Max Weber (--another and more established Max--) caught our dilemma in his Essys on Science as a vocation and Politics as a vocation. So far as Science-The Academy-was concerned, Weber stated the life-style of the professor and the ethic of ultimate truth: "It is a fact that no amount of enthusiasm, however sincere, can compel a problem to yield scientific results. In general only he who is devoted solely to work has 'personality' chained to the course of progress. "--And again, ideas occur to us when they please, not when it pleases us but the goal is disenchantment from miracle and revelation. --To Weber, "Inconvenient" facts led to an absolute ethic of what was called fact and truth. "Deriving practical stands with inner consistency and, hence, integrity, from an ultimate position of reality, discarding other possible positions means than in serving one god you offend the other."

The style and ethic of involvement, on the other hand, demand a different approach. To take a stand, to be passionate: these are the politician's element of the political leader.

They require three pre-eminent qualities: passion; a feeling of responsibility; and a sense of proportion. In place of the scientist's absolute ethic, of ultimate ends is the ethic of responsibility. "If one chases after the ultimate good in the war of beliefs," Weber writes, "following the pure ethic of absolute ends, then the goals may be damaged and discredited for generations, because responsibility for consequences is lacking."

Are these incompatible ethics today?

My Colleagues, the future of the University turns on our ability to reconcile them. As the academic community looks to its preservation, its strength, its future, we will require the right balance of detachment and involvement.

Today, I would redress the scales, from detachment toward involvement. I would have us actively, consciously, unselfishly seek out what we have in common, and be concerned together with those issues.

But even as I so counsel, I remember the words of Robert Oppenheim when he said - "Folk wisdom can cry out in pain, but it cannot solve problems."

The problems arising now are greater in the community than in the disciplines, but only intellect can solve them.

I ask therefore, you intellect together with your energies and good will to help me in the years ahead.

I will give the same.

YOU CAN'T GO TO SWAP

nobody can only people who apply can go

so apply

SWAP?

The Student Workshop on Activities Problems is an annual, off-campus conference which brings together a selected group of students, faculty, administrators, trustees, legislators and others concerned about the University for discussion, information-exchange, planning and politicking.

This year's conference will be held December 11-13 at the Oak'n'Spruce Lodge in South Lee, Massachusetts. There will be two meetings of SWAP participants before the Conference: November 22nd and December 10th. Plans are being made now for a follow-up conference, on-campus, early in second semester.

Participants in the conference are asked to pay a registration fee; $5 for students who pay Student Activities Tax; $35 for others (with some subsidies available). These fees, plus Student Senate appropriations, cover the cost of the Conference (meals, lodging and transportation).

Participants will be selected from among those who submit applications before October 30th. For information on applications, see the box to the right.

To apply:

Application blanks are available in the RSO office, Campus Center. They are to be filled out and returned before October 30th, either to RSO or to the box on the Lobby Counter in the Student Union.

If you wish, you may apply by answering the questions below and sending your answers to SWAP, RSO #305, Campus Center.

I. Name; Local address; Telephone; Class or Title; Major or Department.

II.

1. What are some of the important issues facing the University (please comment even if you don't know very much about them)?

2. What issues do you know or care about that you would like considered at SWAP?

3. What would you like to gain or learn from SWAP?

4. What interests, experience or knowledge do you have that will make you a useful SWAP participant?

5. Have you participated in SWAP? If so, in what year?

III. Please give any suggestions you may have about the following: a) program content; b) program format; c) suggested participants.

The SWAP Committee is planning a follow-up Conference on-campus during the Spring semester. Do you have any suggestions about this Conference?

OPEN COFFEE HOUR

with

Chancellor Oswald Tippo

TODAY

and every Monday

12-2 p.m.

Colonial Lounge, Student Union

All Students, Faculty and Staff invited to discuss problems and issues relevant to the University

Notices

AHEA

Make a difference! Help make student participation a success on Nov. 10th. Committee sign-up sheets on Wed. and Thurs. at Skinner

ANTHROPOLOGY CLUB

Another important meeting, this one to crystalize plans for the next month or so, Monday, Oct. 19th, 7:00 PM, Machmer E-17.

CLASS OF '73

Important Executive Council meeting, Monday, Oct. 19th at 6:30 in room 805-809 Campus Center. All members please attend.

COMMUNICATIONS DISORDERS

EAH meeting, Tuesday, Oct. 20th at 6:45 PM in Bartlett 107. Speaker: Dr. Jay Melrose "A Funny Thing Happened To Me On The Way To The Clinic."

CRABTREE LIVING AND LEARNING CENTER

Monday, Oct. 19th, 7:30-8:30, School of Education Undergrad Affairs Office present HELP ME, COME AND RECEIVE 1 MODULE OF CREDIT

EDUC

The English Dept. Undergrad Council will meet on Monday, Oct. 19th at 6:45 PM in Bartlett 301. Elections will be held.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA

Pledge meeting, Monday, Oct. 19th at 6:00 in 174 Campus Center. A sundae party will follow at 7:00 in 285 Herter.

Meeting Tuesday, Oct. 20th at 6:30 in Room 162 Campus Center. Executive Board will meet at 6:00.

HEYMAKERS SQUARE DANCE CLUB

The regular square dance and beginners classes will be held in the Campus Center Aud., Tuesday, Oct. 20th from 7:30-10:30.

HISTORY MAJORS

All history majors are invited to open meetings of the Student Faculty Liaison Committee of the History Dept. the 1st and 3rd Tuesday of every month at 8:30 PM, 6th floor lounge, Herter Hall, the next meeting will be Oct. 20th.

HOMECOMING PUBLICITY COMMITTEE

Mandatory meeting for everyone on the Homecoming Publicity Committee on Tuesday at 8:00 at 162 Campus Center.

INTERVARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

Started class conversation this week is in Norfolk Room, Student Union, 4:30-5:00.

MAROON KEYS

There will be a meeting Tuesday night in room 811 of the Campus Center at 6:30 PM. If you can not attend please contact Richard Simmons 6-7601.

OUTING CLUB

Meeting Monday Oct. 19th (tonight) room 165 Campus Center at 6:30. Adirondack's next weekend. Super outing, trip weekend after that. See bulletin board for menu.

PARACHUTE CLUB

"This Is A Sport" (film). Come find out what U.Mass. SPC has to offer. All interested persons invited Tuesday Oct. 20th at 8 PM, Room 174 Campus Center. Call Marc or David at 253-5367.

PSYCH MAJORS

Libido, the undergraduate newsletter, is finally here! Pick up your copy in Room 43A, Bartlett (near psych office.)

PSYCHOLOGY MEETING

For seniors and junior psychology majors interested in graduate school. Faculty representatives will discuss various graduate programs. Wednesday, Oct. 21st, 8:00 PM, Morrill Auditorium.

RAFI

RAFI presents its first lecture program on Wednesday, Oct. 21st at 8:00 PM in rooms 165 and 169 in the Campus Center. The topic is "A Radical Socialist Perspective on the Middle East."

RECREATION MAJORS

Option mixer to be held 7:30 PM, Wednesday, Oct. 21st in the back of the Hatch. Come talk with seniors in all options. Sponsored by the Recreation Society.

S STUDENT COLLEGE COORDINATING BOARD

Positions open to all University undergrads. Interviews will be held Monday, Oct. 26th at 7:30 PM, room 803 Campus Center. If it is impossible for you to make this meeting a special appointment can be made by contacting Jerry Moriarty 6-5391 or Holly Fitzsimmons 586-2384.

SCHOOL OF ED. UNDERGRAD AFFAIRS OFFICE

Modular credit? Student interning? California? Job hunting? We'll have people to help you with specific programs or problems. Crabtree Dorm, Monday, Oct. 19th, 7:30-8:30. Come and Receive (1) module of credit.

SCROLLS

Meeting 6:15, Tuesday, Oct. 20th., Room 165 Campus Center. All Scrolls must attend. Bring candy money and willingness for pumpkins.

SKI PATROL

The UMass Ski Patrol will meet tonight, Oct. 19th, at 6:30 in room 170 Campus Center. All members please attend and bring your dues and packs.

SPECTRUM

Spectrum, campus magazine will be holding an open recruitment meeting this Wednesday, Oct. 21st., from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Coffee and donuts will be served.

STUDENT EMPLOYEE'S UNION

Meeting of Student Union and Campus Center Student Employees to form a workers union. Who do you bring your grievances to now?

SMC

Student Mobilization Committee will meet Tuesday, Oct. 20th in the Council Chambers, Student Union at 8:00 p.m. Elections will be held. Everyone is welcome to attend.

SWAP COMMITTEE

General meeting, Monday, Oct. 19th at 6 p.m. room 911 Campus Center. Coffee provided.

TAU BETA SIGMA

Pledging, 8:00 p.m. Monday, Oct. 19th, Campus Center 811-815. Sisters meet at 7:45 p.m. black dresses. Pledges meet by 8:00 p.m. dark skirts, white blouses.

TEACHER EVALUATION

Tonight, Oct. 19th, at 7:00 Come give work. Council Chambers, 2nd. floor, Student Union.

WOMEN'S LIBERATION

A University Day Care Center will be discussed Wednesday, Oct. 21st. at 6 p.m. in room 166-170 Campus Center. The hearing on state laws covering care centers to be held Oct. 21st. at 10 in Public Health Aud. will also be discussed.

The UMass Women's Liberation group now has an office in 207 Hampshire House. The office is staffed from 10-5 on weekdays. All women are welcome to come and rap.

WMUA

WMUA October station meeting tonight, Oct. 19th at 7:30 in our studios. All are welcome to attend.

YAHOO

There will be no Yahoo meeting Tuesday, Oct. 20th. Editorial Board will be away on a trip.

LOST

Melanie Williams lost navy purse on bust. If found please contact Lea Sherer 253-7498.

Pair of gold-rimmed glasses with dark blue lenses in a black case. Please call Charlie in 103 Thatcher 5-2548 or Rotti, 9-549-6142. Leave message.

Pendant with seven opals on antiqued gold. Near Boyden Gym. Great sentimental value. Call Barb 6-8577.

Pair of brown framed glasses in black case. Lost Wednesday morning before 10:20 class in area of Student Union or Engineering. Call 6-7814. Case has "Grodon Optical" written on it.

Jobless myopic wretch kindly requests rapid return of glasses last between P-10 and Middlesex, Sept. 20th p.m. Bell's Angels prescription specials. Maureen, Middlesex Basement, 5-6138.

Pocketbook in Merrill, Wednesday, Oct. 14th, one containing wallet and keys. Call 546-9657.

FOUND

One female liger kitten 8-10 weeks old, between SBA Whitmore, Tuesday afternoon. Please claim here! Call 6-7419.

Found in Stadium after game Saturday, one car key and one UMass room key. Go to lost and found in Student Union.

One brown and white young female dog. Call 256-6874.

Out Of State Car Owners

All out of state motor vehicles must be registered with the campus police or the Amherst police if they are to be driven in the Amherst area. This is required by state law (Chapter 90, section 3, third paragraph, as amended by Chapter 353, of the acts of 1970).

The purpose for registering your car is to certify that you have at least 5M/10M automobile liability insurance in your home state. If not, you are required to obtain this coverage before you drive in the state of Massachusetts for any length of time.

This law is intended to protect Massachusetts residents from uninsured motorists.

Senior Diploma Cards Needed For Graduation

Members of the Class of 1971 must submit a diploma card to the Records Office by Friday, October 23.

The listing of the prospective graduates for agencies all over campus are done from these cards and through them clearance is obtained from a student's major department.

A diploma card must be on file in the Records Office for a student to be processed for graduation.

There are also many seniors for whom the Records Office has problems regarding their major. Those students who have not corrected these matters must do so by October 23.

These students have more time for learning and fun because they read dynamically

	LEE SMITH	DICK NEDWED	RUSS EGGERT	JOHN THOMPSON	BRENT BROTINE	JOHNNY BLAIR
Beginning Average:	764 wpm/in 74% comp.	638 wpm/in 60% comp.	403 wpm/in 71% comp.	375 wpm/in 70% comp.	767 wpm/in 63% comp.	767 wpm/in 59% comp.
Ending Average:	2,000 wpm/in 80% comp.	2,945 wpm/in 87% comp.	1,815 wpm/in 96% comp.	2,566 wpm/in 80% comp.	2,766 wpm/in 78% comp.	2,115 wpm/in 69% comp.

They read five to ten times faster than average so can you

Reading Dynamics is not only speed reading...it is better reading

You'll read more, understand more, remember more and enjoy more when you learn how to read dynamically. The world-famous, time-tested Evelyn Wood method has proved its lasting value to nearly 4,000,000 men and women ... and especially high school and college students who use it daily in their reading assignments. Come to one of our FREE Orientation Sessions. See a film demonstration of the Reading Dynamics method. Have an Evelyn Wood expert explain our unique, easy-to-learn system to your complete satisfaction. Be a dynamic reader ... you'll have more free time and you'll be a conversational leader and an original thinker!

OUR POSITIVE GUARANTEE OF TUITION REFUND

"The Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Institute will refund your tuition if you do not at least triple your reading index (reading rate multiplied by comprehension percentage, during the Course as measured by our standardized testing program. This policy is valid when you have attended each classroom session and completed the minimum daily assigned home drill at the level specified by your instructor."

THIS WEEK ONLY

WESLEY METHODIST CHURCH

365 No. Pleasant St.

7:00 p.m.

Monday, October 19th
Tuesday, October 20th
Wednesday, October 21st
Thursday, October 22nd

CLASSES BEGIN MONDAY, OCTOBER 26th — 7:00

For further information call Dave Cichon 586-0945

MDC Hotline 5-2550

Fine Arts Council 1970/71 Series

EVENTS

BOWKER AUDITORIUM/UNIV. OF MASS.

Tuesday - Wednesday, October 20 - 21

NATHAN MILSTEIN

"The Master Violinist" ..... N.Y. Times

Two entirely different programs each evening at 8:00 p.m. including Sonatas by Brahms, Handel, Vivaldi and Bach.

Reserved Tickets: $1.00 to $3.00

Fine Arts Council, 125 Herter Hall

Tel. 545-0202. Save up to 40% by ordering Season Tickets — five events!

No Points For Pats . . . Total Effort For NY . . .

Boston Shutout By NY, 16-0 . . . And Webster Praises Giants

CAMBRIDGE (AP) - Scrambling Fran Tarketon passed for one touchdown and Pete Gogolak booted three field goals as the New York Giants spoiled the starting debut of Boston quarterback Joe Kapp by belting the Patriots 16-0 yesterday in a National Football League duel of punchless rivals.

Kapp, making his first start since he played out his option with the Minnesota Vikings in the Super Bowl, led the Patriots deep into New York territory three times but the Giants' defense proved too tough.

Gogolak kicked a 14-yard field goal in the first period and then added a pair from 18 and 22 yards out in the fourth quarter.

Tarkenton, who kept the Patriots off balance with his scrambling, tactics and his short passes against a strong rush, capped an 83-yard march with his touchdown pass in the second period. Eluding Boston tacklers, he spotted Clifton McNeil in the end zone and fired a 28-yard scoring strike.

The Patriots moved from their 35 to the New York seven the first time they had the ball. Cappelletti's 14-yard field goal attempt sailed wide to the right.

Early in the third period, a poor centering pass on a New York punt gave Boston the ball at the Giants' 28. The Patriots went to the 12 before Kapp was dropped for a 12-yard loss. Capelletti then had a field goal attempt blocked at the 36.

The Patriots had only one other solid crack at the Giants defense. Boston wemt from its 28 to a first down at the New York 18 later in the third period but Matt Hazeltine intercepted a jump pass thrown by Kapp.

The Giants were in command after Hazeltine's key play and Gogolak added the final six points.

Anyone interested in officiating intramural basketball games please sign up in the intramural office, 215 Boyden.

CAMBRIDGE (AP) - Coach Alex Webster praised his New York Giants for "a total team effort" yesterday in their 16-0 National Football League victory over the Boston Patriots.

"Our game plan called for screens and short passes and we stayed pretty much with it because of the rough Boston defense," Webster said.

Quarterback Fran Tarkenton, who was at his scrambling best, offset the hard-charging Patriots' line, tossing short passes except for a 28-yard scoring strike to Clifton McNeil in the second period.

Tarkenton went overhead only 14 times, completing eight of the tosses for 102 yards in windwept Harvard Stadium.

"The wind was a big factor and we had to stick with the game plan," Tarkenton said. "We didn't dare go on top for the long one. As for the Boston defense, that front four is just about as good as any we've faced."

Boston Coach Clive Rush said that "stopping their screen passes was No. 1 in our game plan."

"We just didn't do it," Rush said.

Joe Kapp, the former Minnesota Vikings star quarterback, made his Boston debut as a starter and was frustrated most of the windy afternoon.

"We had the opportunities but didn't take advantage of them," Kapp said. "We were somewhat disjointed. A quarterback's job is to win. Our entire offense had to be a little shaky. They're just not used to the quarterback."

Kapp completed 10 of 22 passes. He also carried eight times for 41 yards, tops among Boston rushers.

Fullback Jim Nance was held to a mere 14 yards in nine cracks at the New York defense.

"It was a blow, it really was," Nance said. "No team should be able to stop our rushing between Carl Garrett and myself. I don't care what they do. I'm not boosting myself, but I don't think there's a better fullback-half back combination in the league. The thing so frustrating is that we're a better team than the Giants, but give them credit. They came up and beat us."

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

Pioneer, Teac, Garrard, PE Astec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, LPs, 8 track and other necessities. Amherst Audio. tf19-22

Sunderland — lovely new 3 bedrm. home, modern kitchen with built-ins, old fashioned brick fireplace, gar., scenic lot, 5 min. U. of Mass. $26,900. Skiblski Realtors, Tel. 253-7221. tf19-22

Kawasaki 1969 120TR — quick change transmission, knobby tires, $675. Call Mark Davis 323-7611. tf19-20

1970 BSA 250 cc, 4000 miles $600. Call 0-9336, 0-9324. tf19-21

2 VW studded snowtires with rims, used one season, $35; also 6 to 12 volt power converter, $10. Call Bob 549-6737. tf19-20

G-E refrigerator, best offer. Call 665-2005. tf19-21

Gibson organ 503c; EMC amp-perf 11 with 2 18-1 HF horn, $400. Both 1 yr. old and like new. Call Mike 6-7695. tf19-20

8-TRACK STEREO TAPE CARTRIDGES $6 minute, two album tapes. Your choice. $13.00. Call Eliot at 665-2685 or Happy at 253-5609. Now get total music enjoyment at half the store price. tf19-22

KLH model no. 24 speakers $60. Call 546-9728. tf19-23

FOR SALE — AUTOS

'67 Chevy 2 dr, R & H, automatic, one owner, maintained in excellent condition, $950. Will install tires to pass inspection, $216 as is. Phone Greenfield 772-0436. tf19-19

1964 Falcon Conv., automatic, new tires, exhaust system, battery and starter, motor. Best offer. Call 546-9634. tf19-21

'64 VW Bus newly rebuilt eng., new tires, battery, starter, exhaust system. Body in good cond. Must sell. Call 247-5134 after 5:00 p.m. tf19-21

Classic 68 Barracuda 340, auto., P.S., radio, polyglass, Call eves. 549-6347. 10|9—21-23-27-29

1967 4-door Chevy, automatic, radio, heater, new snow tires, excellent transportation Only $150 Call 256-6486, Room 19 . tf19-20

1968 Olds Cutlass conv., 4 spd., V8, mag wheels, Michelin tires, must sell, getting married. $1650.00. 546-5320. tf19-20

WANTED

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthology. Please include stamped return envelope. Idlewild Press, 1507 East Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

Would Paul, who worked hawking at the football game last Saturday please call Janice 546-9675. 10-19

SERVICES

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car. 197 No. Pleasant St. 256-8125. tf13-23

HELP WANTED

Young men and women for roles in underground historical movie. Looks more important than experience. Write S. Hannon, Box 3055, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. 12603. tf10-19

Babysitter for two-year old girl in my home any two mornings per week. Call 253-7616. tf10-21

PERSONAL

Absentee Ballot Applications available, Conn. Call Michael Thompson, 318 Dwight. Speed essential. tf10-21

Jean, who is an art student and worked for Bob Kennedy, win a free pitcher of beer (or equivalent). Call 549-6457 eves. tf10-21

Rob and Peter — what's going on? ?WW. 10-19

Dear Traveling Quintet: KEEP TRAVELING! 10-19

Reward: For info of whereabouts of Sony clock radio, Olivetti typewriter. Call 546-9288. tf10-23

ROOMMATES WANTED

Two coeds desire apt or roommates with apt. within 5 miles from campus. Call 665-3827 after 5. tf10-20

DRIVER WANTED

Need someone to drive my car to Denver between now and Nov. 1st Contact Jennifer 636-3307. tf10-19

Senate Elections are Not Over

BY ELECTIONS

Nomination Papers — Open Friday Oct. 16th

Nomination Papers — Closed Friday Oct. 23rd

Elections — Thursday — Oct. 29th

LEACH	1 seat
BRETT	2 seats
COOLIDGE Middle	1 seat
COOLIDGE Lower	1 seat
JOHN ADAMS Upper	1 seat
BAKER	1 seat
FIELD	1 seat
GRAYSON	1 seat
MACKIMMIE	1 seat

GET OUT AND VOTE!

W. J. B.

YOUR AUTHORIZED DEALER
NORTHAMPTON VOLKSWAGEN, Inc.
• SALES • SERVICE • PARTS
COMPLETE BODY SHOP
246 KING ST. (RTE 5) NORTHAMPTON
Your Authorized Dealer
584-8620 Open 9-9 — Sat. 9-5

COME TONIGHT

Help put out Teacher-Evaluation — Come to Meeting at 7:00 p.m., Council Chambers, Student Union

sPorts ShorTiEs

— AP —

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) - Stanford's Jim Plunkett didn't like his coackes' call of the play which made him the top total offense performer in NCAA history.

It went for 96 yards and a second quarter touchdown in Stanford's 63-16 rout of Washington State Saturday at Spokane, Wash.

"I almost didn't call it," Plunkett confided on the flight back to Stanford.

The situation was second down and seven to go on Stanford's four-yard line after Charles McCloud recovered a Washington State fumble on the one.

The bench called for Plunkett to throw long from his end zone to rabbity Randy Vataha.

The bench spotters were totally right. Vataha beat defender Chuch Hawthorne and took in Plunkett's pass on the 49-yard line and romped on to score.

Playing less than half the game,Plunkett accounted for 275 yards to run his three-year career total to 6,630 yards.

Steve Ramsey of North Texas State set the former mark last year at 6,568 yards.

* * * * *

By the Associated Press The Bear is on the loose again in the South. The initials are the same... only the last name is different.

It's not Alabama's P.W. "Bear" Bryant, you see, but P.W. "Bear" Underwood, whose Southern Mississippi team pulled one of the memorable upsets in recent college football history Saturday, despite the Bear's reluctance to call it that.

"It wasn't any upset," he insisted following the convincing 30-14 victory over fourth ranked and previously unbeaten Mississippi. "We took it to them all the way."

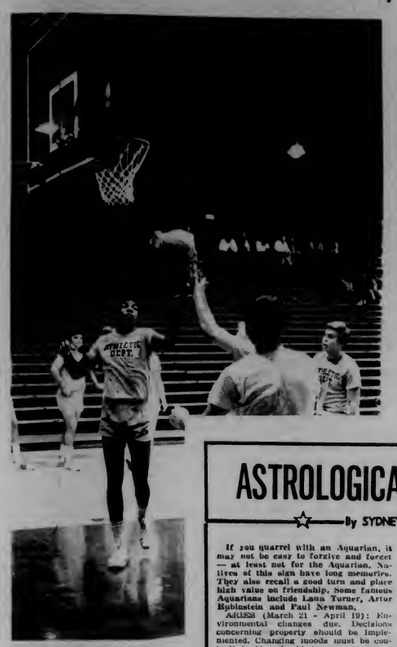
IM Rosters

INTRAMURAL CHAIRMEN- A reminder to all intramural athletic chairmen. Basketball and bowling team rosters are due tomorrow in the intramural office, 215 Boyden.

Tonight's Intramurals

FOOTBALL

FIELD	TIME	TEAMS
		POSITION NATIONAL
1	6:30	1 vs. 2
2	6:30	3 vs. 4
3	6:30	5 vs. 6
		POSITION NORTH—SOUTH TOWER
4	6:30	1 vs. 2
5	6:30	3 vs. 4
6	6:30	5 vs. 6
		POSITION LOW RISE
1	7:30	1 vs. 2
2	7:30	3 vs. 4
3	7:30	5 vs. 6
		POSITION EAST
4	7:30	1 vs. 2
5	7:30	3 vs. 4
6	7:30	5 vs. 6



TUG-O-WAR

PIT	TIME	TEAMS
		POSITION AMERICAN
1	7:30	1 vs. 2
2	7:30	3 vs. 4
		POSITION TROJAN
1	7:45	1 vs. 2
2	7:45	3 vs. 4
3	7:45	5 vs. 6
1	8:00	SPE vs. PSK
2	8:00	PMD vs. PLP
3	8:00	LCA vs. SAE
		POSTION NORTH EAST
1	8:15	1 vs. 2
2	8:15	3 vs. 4
1	8:30	Seagrams vs. Cougars
2	8:30	Terrors vs. Academics
		POSITION NATIONAL
1	8:45	1 vs. 2
2	8:45	3 vs. 4

Frosh Hockey

FROSH HOCKEY-There will be a meeting for all freshman hockey candidates today at 4:30 p.m. in room 227, Boyden Building.

Champs In Training

THE ROOTS OF ANOTHER SEASON- Basketball practice is underway at the Cage where UMass' New England titliests work hard to strengthen the roots from which they hope will grow a season of victories and another post-season tournament invitation. In the center of the photo is Julius Erving. Reaching for the ball with Erving is John Betancourt. To the right is Chris Nichols and in the background to the left is Bob Dempsey. (MDC photo by Gary Slickman)

Frosh Soccermen Tip WPI, 3-2

By STEVE FERBER
Staff Reporter

The freshman soccer team hardly let the ball cross midfield. That's how cominating the Redmen were in their home opener last Thursday, sweeping towards their second straight victory, 3-2, over Worcester Polytech, which had only seven shots on goal at game's end and, though the score was close, the game was not.

The frosh started quickly with halfbacks Stanwood, Tyma and Needleman forcing the play up front. Shot after shot was handled by the Worcester goalie until 15:00 of the first period when Nugent moved in on the left side.

Drawing the goalie out he shot the pass over to Sibson who banged it home for number one, his second of the year. Less than two minutes later the Redmen failed to convert an excellent scoring opportunity as a penalty kick was barely missed, but scoring chances were plentiful.

The second quarter saw more of the same. Early in the period a Worcester violation was called in the goal area. Penalty kick time and Mick Nugent did the honors. At 3:06 of the second quarter the ball sailed into the left side of the Worcester goal and the lead stood at 2-0.

The halftime statistics showed just how impressive the Redmen were, outshooting WPI, 18-2, and, as Coach David Jekanowski later commented, "We easily could have had nine goals in that first half."

The second half continued this dominance but the Redmen were still finding it hard to score. Then, with two minutes gone in the final period, a Worcester forward, in a cluster of players, let loose and watched as the ball carried into the upper right corner. This somewhat shocking score sliced the lead in half.

With 19 and a half minutes left to play it was only 2-1 and the "wild finish" that the Worcester coach talked about, was just beginning. UMass kept control but couldn't go the route. Suddenly, on one of its infrequent drives towards the UMass goal, Worcester had a direct kick from 20 yards out. The Worcester fullback lined the vall into the upper right corner, nearly an instant replay of the first WPI goal; at 12:35 it was 2-2.

Finally, at 18:42, the Redmen converted. A mid-field rush found Herman Rodrigo with the ball. Driving to his right he drew the goalie out, and passed over to Sibson, standing all alone for the score. Sibson, who had never played forward before coming to UMass, won the game 3-2 with his third foal in two games.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

If you quarrel with an Aquarian, it may not be easy to forgive and forget — at least not for the Aquarian. Natives of this sign have long memories. They also recall a good turn and place high value on friendship. Some famous Aquarians include Lana Turner, Artur Rubinstein and Paul Newman.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Environmental changes due. Decisions concerning property should be implemented. Changing moods must be controlled. Aim should be to protect security.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Keynote is added activity. You are busy, on-the-go. This can be fine if you avoid scattering forces. Look beyond the imediate; reject superficial values. Gain shown through written word.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Accent buying and selling, paying and collecting debts. Be aware of details. Stick to routine that proved successful. If observant, you make strides in right direction.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Lunar cycle is favorable; take initiative. Get started. Come out of emotional shell. Stress change, travel and variety. Relations with opposite sex are intensified.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Spotlight on how you handle delicate situation. Tact is a requisite, especially in dealing with loved one. Purchase of luxury items is favored.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): You receive pleasant surprise. A past act of kindness is acknowledged. Your view of professional associate is transformed — to more favorable light. Accept compliment graciously.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Avoid jumping to conclusions. Study facts — form opinions based on knowledge. Older person plays prominent role. Experience proves valuable ally. Proceed accordingly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Higher education, travel, general broadening of horizons — times are indicated. Avoid the petty. Put aside personal differences for overall benefits.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Don't play games with emotions. An individual who appears placated could actually be planning vindictive maneuver be on guard. Legal question concerning funds arises.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Hard to finish tasks which insure that path will be smooth Not wise to attempt breaking new ground. Be receptive to guzzestions. Improve public relations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Special services are accented. One who works for or with you needs boost in morale. Social break from routine is advocated. Wholesome refreshment could make world of difference.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Activity connected with children is indicated. In matters of speculation, take long-range view. Quick returns are possible, but overall results bring greater returns. Be patient.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have embarked on adventure which could prove fruitful. Open yourself to experience and challenge. Utilize Independence, originality. Lead rather than follow. By November, your position will be vindicated.

Copyright 1970, Gen. Fea. Corp.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Friday's Puzzle

P	A	S	S	A	M	A	R	D	O	R
I	N	E	A	L	A	L	E	A	V	E
E	T	C	C	O	N	S	E	N	T	E	D
R	I	T	A	N	A	P	E	N	S
	I	N	T	E	G	E	R	S
S	T	O	N	E	E	T	A	C	A	D
E	R	N	E	S	T	S	T	A	R	E	D
W	I	S	T	A	M	E	L	E	C	T
		A	S	C	E	N	D	E	D
S	E	A	R	I	D	O	E	I	R	E
A	S	S	E	R	T	I	O	N	T	A	D
S	A	N	S	A	S	S	A	S	E	R	E
R	E	E	S	E		N	E	T		D	E	N

19

ACROSS
1 Sailor (colloq.)
4 Weapons
8 Short sleep
11 Wild buffalo of India
12 Fuel
13 Southwestern Indian
14 A slate (abbr.)
15 Tibetan gazelle
17 Goal
19 Possessive pronoun
21 Bitter vetch
23 Two-wheeled carriage
24 College official
26 High card
28 Ursine animal
31 Spider's trap
33 Possesses
35 Attempt
36 Behold!
38 Expels from country
41 Symbol for tellurium
42 Finish
44 Also 45 Still
47 Antlered animal
49 Sick
51 Row
54 Baker's product
56 Ocean
58 Sign of zodiac
59 Roof of mouth
62 High mountain
64 Artificial language
65 Time gone by
66 Seines
68 Mine entrance
70 Period of time
71 Landed
72 Confederate general

DOWN
1 Commonplace
2 Indefinite article
3 Tattered cloth
4 Three-banded armadillo
5 Note of scale
6 Small rug
7 Antlered animal
8 Lump of precious metal
9 Devoured
10 Fondle
11 Dry
16 Faroe Islands whirlwind
18 Bone of body
20 Carpenter's tool
22 Educational institutions
25 Man's nickname
27 Organ of hearing
29 Skill
30 Grafin
32 Wager
34 Pigpen
36 Conducted
37 Number
39 Hawaiian roolstock
40 Place
43 Move troops in a certain way
46 Sesame
48 Inlet
50 Smallest number
52 Weird
53 Underground part of plant
55 Sicilian volcano
57 Man's nickname
59 Cushion
60 Turkish title
61 Lamprey
63 Crony (colloq.)
67 Note of scale
69 Prefix: down

UMass' 4th Straight Loss: 14-7 To Rhody

By BARRY RUBENSTEIN
Assistant Sports Editor

KINGSTON, R.I. - Following a pattern which has become all too familiar in recent weeks, the UMass offense handed away another football game Saturday as the Redmen were downed by a small but spirited Rhode Island squad, 14-7, before 7,812 homecoming fans. The defeat was the fourth in a row for the slumping Redmen while it was the third consecutive victory for the Rams.
Remainder of art. under one column on separate tape.

Once again it was UMass' own mistakes which decided the outcome. Both Ram touchdowns were the results of Redman fumbles, the first of which occurred on the UMass one-yard line. Despite another fine effort by a thankless defense, this tilt followed what has become the usual game pattern for the Redmen this season.

Head coach Vic Fusia's attempt at awakening a sleeping offense by making some key changes apparently ended in failure. Both quarterback Len Matuza and fullback Dick Heavey were replaced in the fourth period by the same men who they themselves were replacing, Ken Hughes and Dick Cummings. It seemed that Fusia felt his experiment had proved unsuccessful and he decided to give his experienced players another try. But they couldn't do the job either.

However, perhaps the experiment with Matuza as a starter did not really get a fair chance. With a wind gusting up to 40 m.p.h. it was almost impossible for the sophomore signal caller to utilize his passing abilities with any real effectiveness.

Getting back to the game itself, the defense was truly outstanding under what seemed to be almost constant pressure. The first Ram touchdown was a give away. Matuza fumbled on his own one on a hand off attempt and it took only one play, a Dick Narcessian dive over the middle, for URI to jump into the lead. Warren Houston made the conversion to make it 7-0 with 8:56 gone in the second quarter.

Earlier in the quarter, UMass had also fumbled, this time on its own 14 when a Matuza-to-Mark Russell pitch was bobbled. After the Rams picked up a dozen on a quarterback option from Kirt Wicks to Grant Denniston around the right side, the UMass defense made perhaps its finest stand of this season.

With a first and goal from the two, Wicks tried a quarterback sneak for a one-yard gain. Wicks then attempted the same play again. No gain. Houston took a handoff and went over right guard. No gain.

Facing a fourth and less than one for a touchdown, the Rams decided to forego the field goal attempt and try for six. Realizing that running against the UMass front four was almost impossible at this point, Wicks decided to go to the air. He faded back to throw and rifled one to split end Chris Hess in the back of the end zone. Unfortunately for URI, he was just out of the end zone and UMass took over on its own one foot line.

Following the Ram touchdown, the UMass offense mounted its only strong drive of the day. Paced by a twenty-yard sweep by Art Corsaletti and a key Matuza-to-Pat Scavone pass on a fourth-and-four situation, the Redmen marched 80 yards in thirteen plays with Corsaletti running the sweep around right end for the touchdown. Gagnon's kick tied the score at 7-7.

UMass had one more golden opportunity in the half.

On the kickoff ensuing the Redman score, lineman Bill DeFlavio, who was immense all day, recovered the ball on the URI 28. But after four plays, UMass was still at the 28. With the wind blowing as it was and with UMass driving right into the teeth of it, a field goal attempt from this distance was not even a possibility so the Redmen had to give up the ball once more.

The final score of the afternoon resulted when, once again, the Redmen couldn't convert a URI mistake. Senior Russ Wood recovered a Wicks fumble at the URI 28 and it looked as if the Rams were giving UMass another chance at it. But the Redmen were accepting no sympathy on Saturday and on their second play from scrimmage, Scavone fumbled the ball right back to them.

However, Rhody got fed up with this little game and drove the length of the field for what proved to be the winning score. Wicks picked up the six points on a quarterback option and Houston added one more, making the final score, 14-7.

It somehow seems that the defense deserves a better fate.

REDMAN RANTINGS

Although the first half stats gave the Redmen a slight edge, the second half figures were all URI. Despite the fact that UMass is supposed to be a strong running team, it was outgained on the ground by the Rams, 277-126. Adding insult to injury is the fact that one man, Narcessian, had more yardage than the whole UMass team on the ground, 154 yards....Matuza was five for ten for 34 yards while Hughes was one for eight for minus two yards....The leading ground gainers for the Redmen were Scavone with 46 yards, Corsaletti with 53 yards and Heavey with 24 yards....In total offensive yardage, the Rams almost doubled the Redmen, 297 yards to 158 yards....Among the people who played well for UMass were DeFlavio, Joe Sabulis, John Farrelly, Corsaletti, Wood and Steve O'Neil....For the second week in a row, O'Neil turned a fake punt into a key first down for the Redmen....One wonders if fumbling deep in their own territory is in the Redman play book as it has been seen more often than a lot of the other offensive wrinkles.

A FEELING OF DOING SOMETHING RIGHT - UMass' defensive charge, led by Curt Bristol (82) and Don Dotson (45) drop Rhode Island's quarterback Kurt Wicks for a loss. Although the Redmen lost their fourth straight game, the defense, on the strength of plays such as this one, performed admirably. (MDC photo by Rich McIntyre)

Daily Collegian
Sports
VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 28
MONDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1970

Freshman Harriers Roll

By EARLE BARROLL
Staff Reporter

Saturday was a good day for freshman cross country followers as the UMass frosh shoutout the Eaglets of Boston College, 15-50.

The first six runners to cross the finish line were Redmen, led by Doug O'Connell who was ahead in the race from start to finish.

The next finishers in order were Bill Lowry, Joe Frontierro, Jay Nestor, Mike Beaulieu and Roger Nasatka. These five runners along with O'Connell each covered the 3.6 mile UMass freshamn course in under twenty minutes.

Coach Ken O'Brien pointed out that running the course under twenty minutes for anyone person was a hard task. For six to do it on one team shows the depth that this team has.

The frosh entertain the Springfield freshmen tomorrow in a race beginning at 4 p.m.

Booters Tied

UMass' undefeated soccer team was tied on Saturday, 0-0, by the University of Rhode Island in a game played between the two schools, this one was also held at URI on a day that saw cold, biting weather and brief moments of windblown snowfall effect the normal flow of play. A complete story on this match will be presented in tomorrow's Collegian.

X-Country's Home Opener Spoiled By BC as Redmen Bow, 27-29

By EARLE BARROLL
Staff Reporter

Saturday was a might too cold and windy to be running around outside in a pair of shorts by normal standards but two of the best running units met in New England at the Women's Physical Education Building to brave the elements and fight it out over the tough UMass course. At the end the result was close, but the home opener for the Redmen was spoiled by the Boston College Eagles, 27-29.

The closeness of the final tally depicts the entire race, as both teams lived up to their pre-race billings of having unity amongst its ranks. For four miles it was anyones race, and only the effects of a prolonged cold to a couple of the runners kept the Redmen from toppling the Eagles.

Both teams went off in a blistering start with the leaders, Ron Wayne and Rich Mahoney and Joe Zabel of B.C., passing the mile in five minutes flat. Behind these three was a big group of Redmen and Eagles joustling for position.

At Baker Hill the situation was the same as the runners began to make the descent to the plains of Wope. It was at Wope where the runners began to make daylight between each other and from here on the battle to decide the race was in full swing.

Wayne and his two B.C. adversaries ran stride for stride through the three-mile point. Leo Duart moved into fourth position followed by a runner from B.C. and then Larry Paulson.

Tom Jasmin was on Paulson's heels at this time but began to fade. He had been suffering the effects of a virus before the race and it finally caught up with him. It was only his courage and extreme determination that allowed him to finish the race.

Behind Jasmin were two Eagles and then Tom Swain, Rick Barry, Bob Sullivan and Arnie Morse.

At the President's house Wayne was behind but made an outstanding stretch drive to capture the race in 25:30. Mahoney and Zabel both followed, with Duart and Paulson nailing down the fourth and fifth positions.

Two Eagles took the next two positions, Swain took eighth place, two more Eagles followed and Jasmin finished the scoring in eleventh place.

It was by the difference of the sixth man on Boston College finishing in front of the UMass fifth man that the Eagles gained their margin of triumph. With a race this close it leaves one thinking as to which one is the clearcut superior team. Both teams get another shot at each other in the New Englands at the end of November and, at that time, a clear judgement will be able to be made.

Coach Ken O'Brien was happy with the times of his runners. The improvement in the overall team performance that he was looking for was there but a loss is a loss and it will hurt until UMass meets the Eagles again and tries to turn the decision around.

Looking back over the individual performances, for Wayne this was his fifth victory in a row in as many races, for Duart his fifth straight top notch performance and for Paulson his third fine race in a row since he regained his mid-season racing form a couple weeks ago.

Swain performed in his usual consistent manner, but felt at the end that he could have done a better job. It's an attitude of this sort that makes for a winner.

Jasmin was noticably drained at the end of the race and will need a while to recover. He's the type of competitor though that will be back soon.

And then there were the runners who didn't figure in the scoring but also ran well. Noticable among this group were Barry, Morse and Sullivan. These three finished within two seconds of each other for the entire five mile jaunt.

TAKING THE PITCH - Rhode Island quarterback Kurt Wicks (11) awaits the pitchout of a fallen Grant Denniston (45) as UMass' John O'Neil (18) pursues the action. The Redmen bowed in this tilt, their fourth loss in succession (MDC photo by Rich McIntyre)

Rugby Match Cancelled

The UMass-Tufts University Rugby match scheduled for Saturday got cancelled at the last moment, forcing UMass to pick up a quick game with Holy Cross. Against HC, the previously undefeated Redman A team bowed, 8-3, while the B team whipped its counterparts, 18-6. There will be more details on these two matches in tomorrow's Collegian.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOLUME XCVIC, ISSUE 29 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1970

JUSTICE DEPARTMENT REPS REPLY TO STUDENTS AT MT. HOLYOKE

see page three

• Peter Camejo Lashes Out

see page three

Assistant Attorney General William D. Ruckelshauss considers a question during last night's "dialogue" between students and U.S. Justice Department representatives at Mt. Holyoke College. Despite rumors of possible disruptions, the meeting proceeded smoothly. (MDC photo by Rich McIntyre)

Students on their way to Monday-morning classes in Bartlett found some doors chained shut, while at others, University Policemen checked out bookbags and briefcases, in the wake of a telephoned bomb threat. But according to the Amherst Fire Department, all exit doors should be left unlocked unless the building has been evacuated. For details, see page 2. (MDC photo by Steve Schmidt)

• Field Subs For Tippo

see page two

• Residence Heads Plan Action On Security

see page two

University Growth Again Focal Point

By WALTER SOBZAK
Staff Reporter

At Chancellor Tippo's weekly coffee hour yesterday, the only thing lacking was Chancellor Tippo. Called away at the last moment, he was replaced by Dean of Students William Field and Assistant to the Chancellor Richard Story.

The dialogue was not lacking, however. A great number of topics were touched upon by the small group present, and a few important subjects were discussed at length.

The problem of growth and overcrowding at the University was thrown around and the result was, if not a victorious circle at least an unfriendly ellipse, with the Administration at one focus, and the students at the other. No new dorms are in the planning after the new ones are completed next year, but the University will continue to take in additional students.

The fact that so many students excercised the pass-fail option during the strike last spring adds to this problem. Many students who wouldn't ordinarily be returning came back to school this fall. Out of 76,000 grades given last semester, there was only one D.

Fears that the new Library will never be filled sufficiently were put aside by Dean Field when he noted that allocations for new books this year increased from last year's $200,000 to $2 million.

The number of departmental libraries will be reduced, Field said, when the new graduate research center is completed. At that time certain smaller libraries, such as chemistry, engineering and math will be incorporated into a larger more complete unit.

Concerning the rash of bomb scares, he said, "You can expect more harassment from people who don't want to do anything positive. These threats cannot be taken casually, however."

Several other issues were brought up, including community colleges, the graduate school, traffic lights and summer school.

When asked why the Massachusetts Gazette is no longer prospering, Field replied, "No one could justify spending any more money on it, because the only people who read it were those whose speeches were in it. It was a well deserved death."

FIELDING A QUESTION FROM THE FLOOR, Dean William Field took the Chancellor's place yesterday at the noon coffee hour. University growth was again one of the main topics of discussion. (MDC photo by David Bernstein)

Bartlett Bomb Threat Proves Hoax

By JAMES GOLD
Thursday Issue Editor

University Police were stationed at all entrances to Bartlett Hall yesterday in the wake of a telephoned threat made Sunday noon which said that a bomb would go off within 24 hours.

The officers stopped all entering students and checked brief cases, shopping bags, knapsacks and anything that might carry a bomb. All the entrances were well secured. Several teachers cancelled classes in the building.

According to Col. John C. Marchant, Campus Director of Safety, the building was thoroughly searched Sunday but nothing was found. Therefore, if a bomb were to be planted it would have to be brought in Monday, he said.

Col. Marchant said that even though there have been many bomb threats this year, "We still don't take any of them lightly." He explained that this one, though, was probably a hoax, as are most threats which give more than 12 hours notice. But the security office didn't want to take any chances after what happened at Harvard, he said.

Since the timing device in most bombs is a clock with only a twelve hour face, Col. Marchant explained, it would take a very sophisticated bomb to explode more than 11-12 hours after being planted.

"The circumstances were different than in the other threats," Col. Marchant said about the cause of the bomb threat. There was no "rhyme or reason" to the threats on the dining commons and dormitories. However, several professors were known to have scheduled exams for yesterday.

The administration and the Campus Police are trying to keep classes running for the students, Col. Marchant said. Therefore, they would appreciate hearing any rumors students might have heard. "We also try to squelch rumors that are false," he said. "People are often alarmed by unfounded facts."

Dorm Security Problems Worry Residence Heads

By ANNE STADNICKI
Staff Reporter

A group of approximately 40 heads of residences met last night at Worcester Commons to express concern for campus security, the safety of the students, and the many damages and thefts in UMass dormitories.

The Northeast area dormitory heads initiated the meeting because of a recent rash of attacks in that area and elsewhere on campus.

Marion Cummings, head of residence in Mary Lyons, opened the meeting with comments about students who had been bound, gagged and held at gunpoint in their dormitories.

A coed testified to her experience with attackers this past weekend as she and four companions were assaulted outside her dorm, which they could not enter because there were no attendents to unlock the dorm.

Dr. Randolph Bromery, assistant to the Chancellor, said there are not enough personnel and security measures because of lack of funds.

Security guards are paid out of state funds, said Bromery and several have been added to the night staff.

But receptionists and other people needed to aid security are paid from dorm trust funds, he said, and through work-study. Work-study funds were cut this year, so this accounts for some of the empty desks, he added.

Volunteers have attended the dorm of some dorms lately, but the residence heads feel it is not students' responsibility to maintain security for their dorms.

It was argued by Dr. Bromery that students have brought the present security situation upon themselves because they failed to realize the implications when they voted in 24-hour open house. Each dorm was supposed to draw up its own security measures, he said. Failure to do so he added has in effect encouraged the vandalism and attacks that have marked the days and nights of this semester.

Negotiations concerning the student rent increase also hurt the security measures said Bromery because student representatives did not observe, or were not notified, that the lesser increase meant less money for security.

The question facing the group was what can be done now to amend the situation.

Jack Richardson, from Northeast area, said that the group must search for a means to put pressure on Chancellor Tippo so that he would work to procure funds. Presently he feels Tippo is unaware of the urgent need for security.

The two real security needs said James Fitzgerald who heads housing security, are manned desks and a conscientious program of apprehension.

Money is needed for the first problem, said Dr. Bromery, but student involvement is a must to stop the growing thefts and intimidations in the dorms. A student must act when he sees damage being done.

Tom Sheehan, head of residence in John Adams Upper, disagreed. He said it was a mistaken idea that students are apathetic to the fact that people walk out with stolen articles right before students' eyes.

Sheehan said that "Big Guys" are needed to scare away intruders. As an ex-Marine he says he knows from experience that threat of force will help the present situation. He submitted a proposal to that effect, and a similar one is being composed by a Southwest students association.

Other suggestions included the discarding of 24-hour open house, citizen's arrest, and card-lock system, all of which were thought not to be effective.

Upon conclusion of the meeting the group had decided to choose two heads of residence from each area to confront Tippo with the security problems they face personally each day.

Crabtree Begins New Living Experiment

By LINDA A. BALICKI
Staff Reporter

Students often gain more knowledge from mixing with each other than they do from a regular three credit course. It is this philosophy that has prompted the residents of Crabtree House to establish a Living and Learning Center.

Staffed by a group of the residents under the direction of Don Cuniffe, a graduate student in the School of Education and Head of Residence, the center seeks to provide a place where students may gather and learn from each other through the means of ordinary conversation.

It is an aim of the center that through such interaction students will learn more not only about each other but also about themselves as well.

In addition to the opportunity for informal gatherings, the Center, with the cooperation of the School of Education, also sponsors a series of informal seminars through which students may gain valuable personal experiences and in sight into a variety of topics which are of interest to college students. Future seminars, each of which carries with it a module of credit will deal with such topics as witchcraft, white teaching in Negro schools and draft counseling.

Certain programs, such as one conducted last night concerning student internship, seek to provide Education majors with the information and counseling which they may need to continue their preparation for certification. Last night's gathering which was attended by some fifty students, featured small group gatherings in which prospective student interns sought to gain information concerning the various aspects of and opportunities which might be gained from the student internship experience.

Led by Cuniffe, Beldon Bly, and Ginny Smith, graduate education students, groups explored such questions as the possibility of completing the internship requirement outside of Massachusetts, problems encountered in the first teaching experience and placement problems.

Cuniffe also explained that the center will conduct a series of group experiences in the future through which students will be able to gain intensive insight into themselves, other people and the world around them.

Conducted as an activity of the School of Education Undergraduate Affairs Office, the Center is located in the basement of Crabtree and is open to any interested student who desires to make use of these resources as they exist for their benefit.

NOTES FOR THE MID—TERM
SOCIOLOGY 101

Student Union Lobby

Tuesday & Wednesday 10:00 to 4:00
Sponsored by Flying Redmen

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor).
Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $7.50 per semester, $14.00 per year.

SPECTRUM OPEN HOUSE

Wednesday October 21st
Room 409 Student Union
9 A.M. to 9 P.M.

SPECTRUM, the undergraduate magazine, will be having an open recruitment meeting for all potential contributors, staff members, and people interested in the future of the magazine.

Rumored Disruption Fizzles

Calm Prevails At Chapin Hall

By RICHARD C. HANSON
Asst. News Editor

Representatives of the U.S. Justice Department answered questions for over 1/2 hour at Mt. Holyoke College's crowded Chapin Hall last night, during the first of a scheduled 53 "dialogues" with students planned by Atty. General John Mitchell to explain to students the Justice Department's "programs and policies" and to "listen to the students."

Asst. Attorney General William D. Ruckelshaus, head of the Civil Rights Division, accompanied by Mary Lawton of the Department of Legal Counsel, fielded questions concerning the Justice Department from the audience from the five college area during the meeting, which was surprisingly free of disruption.

Chapin Hall at Mt. Holyoke was kept closed until just before the program was to begin. Guards, uniformed and plainclothes were scattered around the building, possibly in anticipation of rumored disruptions.

Ruckelshaus, after being introduced by the bald-headed president of Mt. Holyoke, David Truman, invited questions. The following major topics were touched upon:

---Black Panther Party - "We are not involved in a conspiracy against the Black Panther Party." Ruckelshaus was adamant in this statement amid scattered shouts indicating other points of view.

---"No knock" - "The purpose is to protect the life of the individual police officer...and to prevent destruction of evidence, particularly during a narcotics raid. He pointed out that "thirty states" already had "no-knock" laws. He did admit the danger of abuse by individuals of this law, but held that the bill did not violate the constitution.

----Preventive detention - Ruckelshaus explained that "preventive detention" of an "accused" suspect is determined by a hearing of the evidence before a judge and that if the person is "reasonably" considered a "danger to the community" the Judge can detain him for 60 days and no more without trial. The Asst. Attorney General stated that this was needed because of the changes brought about by the 1966 Bail act, which limits the amount of bail which can be placed upon individuals. He argued that in past cases where the Judge felt that a suspect was dangerous to the community, the judge would set high bail.

---Civil Rights - Responding to charges from students of a laxity on the part of the Justice Department in enforcing Civil Rights laws, especially those concerning integrated school systems, Ruckelshaus replied that the Justice Department was enforcing "all the laws" it is supposed to. The department's policy is:: "You can't have a dual school system; white and black...the system must be unitary with a degree of integration as is feasible...virtually proportionate." He told the audience that the Justice Department's recent attempts to modify the Voting Right's Act of 1965 and nullify the "Trigger Clause", which provides for automatic review of state laws passed concerning voter rights, were aimed at freeing "civil rights lawyers for work on the desegregation" of the south.

---Immunity - The purpose of the recently passed bill which provided for immunity from Federal and State prosecution of those willing to testify as a witness in Federal prosecutions. Ruckelshaus said that this provision merely coordinated many other state and federal "immunity clauses."

Ruckelshaus told the students that recent addition of 1,000 F.B.I. agents was primarily directed at organized crime (750 agents) and plane hijacking (150) with the rest being spread throughout the Bureau's many activities. He stated that provisions for investigation of bombings and arson was limited to attacks upon "federally owned or funded buildings."

When questioned as to whether the President of the U.S. had the power to take actions similar to those recently taken by Canadian Premier Trudeau, Ruckelshaus replied that there was no such provision but that the President could send Federal troops when a state Governor can prove that there is an "armed insurrection." Some members of the audience seemed very concerned about the possibility of President Nixon declaring martial law.

When asked about his stand on the Kent State reports from the Scranton Commission and the Ohio Grand Jury, Ruckelshaus noted the "conflict" between the two and reserved comment for when the Ohio Grand Jury decision comes before the Justice Department for review.

One student rose during the evening and told Ruckelshaus that "I'd like to tell John Mitchell...that everybody is turning on." The tall, sunglass-wearing young man's statement prompted a discussion about the President's Commission named to study the effects of marijuana. He remarked that if marijuana is found to be safe, the Secretary of H.E.W. was empowered to take the weed off the "dangerous narcotics" list.

Preceding the program was a brief "mock trial" of the Justice department by an unidentified group of local students. The audience was mostly unresponsive to all of the somewhat abusive rhetoric aired last night.

Showing some humor, Ruckelshaus answered a question about the number of women on his staff by declining to give statistics and cheerfully, eyebrows hitching above the heavy black framed safety lense glasses, informing the largely female Mt. Holyoke audience that "In my division, if a woman comes to us, we look at her more closely than anyone else."

The remark did not impress a number of the females present.

Camejo Attacks Spaulding and Kennedy

By KERRY KELLEY
Staff Reporter

People are voting for different "masters" in an election that is taking place only to give the impression of decision-making, declared Peter Camejo, the Socialist Workers Party senatorial candidate, in a speech last night at the CAMPUS Center

Sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors Program and the Young Socialist Alliance, Mr. Camejo criticized the present society and sharply attacked his opponents, Si Spaulding and Ted Kennedy before a crowd of about 100 people.

Mr. Camejo said that the government is responsible for the continuation of inflation today when he raised the question: "Why, if this society can produce more, is it that the average man can afford less?" He proposed that the Socialists would put a halt to inflation and rising prices by taking control of inflationary commerces.

The system as it stands now, he stated, puts private property first and the welfare of the people second. The reason behind the price rise, he said, was to make it possible to add to the support of the war in Vietnam.

There are, Mr. Camejo estimated, 30,000 people with control of all the money. They are the "ruling class" he said, and they are "running the whole thing."

The Socialist's candidate also had a few words to say about his Republican and Democratic opponents in the senatorial race.

In reference to his debate with Si Spaulding last night at Boston University, Mr. Camejo said that Mr. Spaulding is "willing to do anything" to get votes, and that he really "felt sorry for the guy."

Mr. Camejo described his Republican foe as being to the left of Kennedy. Camejo has offered to join with him in a debate with Kennedy.

Camejo was especially critical of Kennedy and warned that the voters "have to understand who Kennedy really is." Kennedy doesn't have to work, Camejo said, "he rules." He said that Kennedy "puts in a hard ruling day" and is in actuality "an owner of this empire."

Camejo also accused Kennedy of voting for every war bill, including the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution. Camejo said that every senator knew it was a lie because "nobody could be that stupid!" Kennedy is only regarded as the number one peace candidate in this country, said Camejo, because when he (Kennedy) says he's for peace it's front page news.

Kennedy has, according to Camejo, admitted that he will continue to vote for war appropriations. Camejo also said that "Kennedy is only for getting out of the war because he thinks it's in the best interests of the ruling class."

The Socialist called Kennedy, Spaulding and others "hypocrites" for refusing to vote positively on certain issues – such as the legalization of marijuana – that would lose them votes. He also added that Kennedy was originally against the Women's Rights Bill, but has had to change because it was hurting him.

"Elections are decided by the mass media, and money decides that" commented Camejo.

Camejo himself made news recently when arrested at Northeastern University for tresspassing. But this incident, according to Camejo, was not even covered fairly in the news media. Not once, he said, was his party or platform mentioned.

The mass media concentrate only on the Republican and Democratic parties, Camejo said. He also added that now he is getting more attention, but that it is still inadequate and insufficient.

The coverage of his debate with Spaulding he cited as an example of this unfair coverage. Camejo said that Si Spaulding was given four columns by the Boston Globe, but that there was "not one sentence of what I said."

Elections are in this sense manipulated and bought off according to Camejo. "The mass media is one of big business," he said, and that election coverage and campaign in it is a "circus".

In commenting on the recent bombings, Camejo said that he is against them because they are helping Nixon. Camejo said that he is waiting for Nixon to be executed as "the biggest bomber in the world."

Bombers' work against themselves, in Camejo's opinion, because their actions result in an increase in the police forces until they become like "gigantic armies". Camejo also criticized that the answer to every crime is more police in America today.

In order for anything to be done about the present situation, Camejo said, everyone will have to get together. The Socialist party is set up to get people participating and to wake them up.

People will start moving, he predicted, because this system has its ups and downs that tend to radicalize people. A society should be controlled by its people, Camejo said. He also added that "we have to start producing for humans and human needs ... we need democracy for the first time in the history of man."

Camejo also predicted that the socialist candidates "will start getting elected soon". But in his opinion, if he did get elected that the state would call off the elections.

The Socialists, he explained, are using the campaign to organize and build a mass movement on, to force and bring out the issues.

The Socialist Workers Party, Camejo went on to say, is "for the total egalitarianism of material goods". This will, he explained, enable the full human being to develop. He won't, he added, have to worry about material needs any more.

SPEAKING BEFORE A CROWD OF 100, Socialist Party candidate Peter Camejo sharply attached his two opponents for U.S. Senator, Si Spaulding and Ted Kennedy. Calling them both "hypocrites", Camejo said that what this country needs is democracy. (MDC photo by Barry Penn)

TONIGHT

all co-eds are cordially invited to Sigma Alpha Mu at 7:30 to discuss the co-ed fraternity.
Help us make it work.

Bob Sims, Co-ed Co-ordinator

INTERESTED IN STARTING A UMASS

BRIDGE CLUB?

Come to the open meeting, Wednesday

OCT. 21st. Room 815 Campus Center at 7:00 P.M.

Sponsored by Campus Center Program Council

In The Nation And The World

18 Year Old Vote Law Attacked

WASHINGTON(AP)-The 1970 federal law giving the vote to 18 year olds as attacked in the Supreme Court Monday as frivolous legislation that "does violence to the Constitution."

Speaking for the state of Texas, Prof. Charles Alan Wright said "This legislation flies in the face of the Constitution" and would have been rejected out of hand by the court "were there not respect for the body across the street Congress."

Wright, a University of Texas constitutional authority, said the issue is not whether 18 year olds are mature enough to vote. They are certain to get the vote some time, he said.

Rather, said Wright, the question is "whether the historic concept of this country, a federal union with sharing powers, is a failure."

Oregon joined Texas in arguing Congress exceeded its authority when it lowered the minimum voting age to 18 across the country.

Oregon Atty Gen. Lee Johnson contended that a 21 year old minimum which had been in force in 46 states, was not irrational or discriminatory ' and hence not a violation of constitutional rights that the 14th Amendment gives Congress the power to correct.

U.S. Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold defended the new law at the all day hearing, though he relayed the reservations of President Nixon and other administration officials about the 18 year old provision.

The provision applies to all elections and primaries held on or after next Jan. 1, unless the court declares it invalid.

In signing the law last June Nixon said he felt Congress had no power to lower the voting age and that a constitutional amendment would be required. Still, Griswold said, "we have endeavored to support the statute as vigorously as we are able."

Supreme Court To Rule on Gun Law

WASHINGTON(AP)- The Supreme Court agreed Monday to rule on the 1968 gun control law and on state laws that make it a crime to cast contempt upon the American flag.

The 1968 law requires manufacturers and transferors of certain kinds of firearms to register with the federal government. The court will hear an appeal by the Justice Department fron the decision by U.S. District Judge Warren G. Ferguson of Los Angeles that key sections are invalid.

At the same time, the court granted a hearing to a New York art dealer who was convicted in 1967 of violating that state's law against flag desecration. The dealer, Stephen Radich, contends the law conflicts with the First Amendment's free speech guarantees.

The gun control law amended provisions of an earlier fire arms registration act found by the court in 1968 to be unconstitutional. It was tested when the government indicted Donald Freed of Los Angeles and Shirley Jean Sutherland of Beverly Hills, Calif., on charges of conspiring to possess unregistered hand grenades.

Dismissing the indictment last March, Judge Ferguson said registration would have required them to furnish information to the federal government that would have been incriminating under California laws.

In the flag case, Radich, owner of a Madison Avenue art gallery, was prosecuted for exhibiting seven constructions by Marc Morrel, an artist and protester of the Vietnam war who used the flag in his sculpture. The one found most objectionable by New York state courts displayed the flag as a male sex organ.

Canada's Manhunt Continues

MONTREAL(AP)-Canadian security forces sealed off escape routes in Quebec Province Monday and mounted one of the nation's biggest manhunts for the terrorists slayers of Pierre Laporte.

Search went on also for James R. Cross, despite a letter in his handwriting that said he would be killed if police closed in on the terrorists who kidnaped him 15 days ago.

Montreal, Canada's largest city, appeared on war footing, with military and police helicopters clattering overhead and troops in the streets.

In Ottawa, the federal Parliament fell overwhelmingly behind Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau in approving the wartime security measures he imposed against the terrorists, members of the Quebec Liberation Front-the FLQ.

Trudeau once again vowed the FLQ will not succeed and the House of Commons greeted his words with echoing applause. ' He said the front, which seeks Quebec's independence by means of violent revolution, has "no mandate but terror, no policies but violence and no solutions but murder."

Acting under the wartime measures ordered Friday, army troops, and provincial and Royal Canadian Mounted Police fanned out across Quebec hunting two men named in warrants as wanted in connection with the kidnaping of Cross, British trade commissioner, and Laporte.

Security checks were stepped up at the U.S. border, especially at New York, Vermont and New Hampshire points.

Roadblocks and checkpoints were set up on every main artery and even secondary roads leading out of Montreal. Quebec's borders with other provinces also were checked and close surveillance was in force at large and small airports.

Throughout Montreal, a city of 1.2 million people, police and troops stopped cars at random for identification checks.

Army patrols were increased in the city.

Police said they may have found the hideout where Laporte was kept. It was a frame bungalow in the suburb of St. Hubert, a half mile from where Laporte's body, a bullet hole in the head, was left in the trunk of a car by the terrorists Saturday night. The body was discovered early Sunday.

Detective Sgt. Albert Lisacek said there was blood on the floor of the bungalow and signs of violence. The floor was littered with chicken bones, he added.

Lisacek said police believe the house was used by one of two men named in the warrants issued late Sunday night. He was identified as Paul Rose, 27, a schoolteacher and a French Canadian. The other man was identified as Marc Carbonneau, 37, a taxi driver. Cross was kidnaped in a cab.

Beware the Body Shirt Snatcher!

You're fair game when you wear a Van Heusen Body Shirt.

Don't lose your shirt to a light-fingered lovely! 'Cause the perfect fitting body shirt from Van Heusen is meant for YOU, man! It's the trimmer look for the '70s, sparked by bolder stripes and solids, new long point collar and 2-button cuffs.

PRIZES! Two big ones! Two round-trip flights via SAS SCANDINAVIAN AIRLINES to Copenhagen and Majorca for a swinging expense paid CLUB 33 vacation! Plus a box of Van Heusen Body Shirts for each of 25 runner-up entries. Easy to enter, just create your own slogans for our Body Shirt ad. Send entries to College Contest, VAN HEUSEN 417 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York 10016. Contest void where prohibited by law.

VAN HEUSEN® 417
Body Shirt

Fine Arts Council 1970/71 Series
EVENTS
BOWKER AUDITORIUM/UNIV. OF MASS.
Tuesday - Wednesday, October 20 - 21
NATHAN MILSTEIN
"The Master Violinist" ..... N.Y. Times
Two entirely different programs each evening at 8:00 p.m. including Sonatas by Brahms, Handel, Vivaldi and Bach.
Reserved Tickets: $1.00 to $3.00
Fine Arts Council, 125 Herter Hall
Tel. 545-0202. Save up to 40', by ordering Sea son Tickets — five events!

EVELYN WOOD
READING DYNAMICS
Speed reading and study skills course
We guarantee to triple your reading ability or refund your tuition.
ATTEND A FREE MINI-LESSON AT
Wesley Methadist Church, 365 N. Pleasant St.
7:00 P.M.
Tuesday, October 20th
Wednesday, October 21st
Thursday, October 22nd
For further information call Dave Cichon 586-0945

Stein Erickson
Olympic Gold Medalist
Head of Ski School SNOW-MASS at Aspen
will be appearing at E. Longmeadow High School Auditorium at 8 P.M., Oct. 21.
DOOR PRIZE
2 Pair of Northland Skis
Value $150 pr.
Get your FREE tickets at Timberline Ski Shop, Hadley, Western Village Ski Shop, Northampton and Ski Inn, Three Rivers.
Erickson will be at: Timberline Ski Shop
Wednesday, Oct. 21 from 4-5 p.m.
and at Western Village Ski Shop
Wednesday, Oct. 21 from 2:45 to 3:45

Six State Tour Takes Nixon To Kent State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - The campaigning President Nixon, decrying violence, said Monday, "It's time to draw the line and say we're not going to put up with this."

He strayed from his announced path almost at the start of a two day six state campaign swing with a side trip to Ohio State University, scene of frequent campus violence last spring. There he spent 25 minutes among 1,000 or more students shaking hands and exchanging remarks.

Nixon, in a speech at the downtown Statehouse, dwelled on domestic violence and student disorders.

His trip to the Ohio State campus, where National Guardsmen did two tours of duty before it was closed in the face of violence last May, was unannounced but students quickly flocked around him.

One young man wearing a white T shirt faced Nixon and said, "You can take my draft card." He added he did not want to die in Vietnam.

"I'm winding down the war, boy," Nixon replied. He recited his record on troop withdrawals and told the youth, "You watch us, boy."

Another young man asked Nixon, "Will you shake the hand of a hippie." The President apparently did not hear him and the youth added, "We don't care about Ohio state football, just stop the war."

Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes had appeared earlier on the downtown speakers platform with Nixon and local Republican candidates.

A loud cheer drowned out an obscene chant as Nixon climbed to the trunk of his car, waved and reached down to shake hands with students.

"They were glad that I came," he later told newsmen. "They wanted to talk and were willing to listen.

"I think that they are turned off this year for violence....I am very proud of them.

"It renewed my faith in young America. It recharged it. We need change but peaceful change. I think that is what the majority of Ohio State students believe."

The President, continuing a stepped up schedule in behalf of Republican candidates, spoke up in his Statehouse speech for Rep. Robert Taft Jr., Republican candidate for the Senate, and for gubernatorial candidate Roger Cloud.

Most of the crowd cheered and applauded but one dissending group standing to the side chanted:

"One, two, three, four. We don't want war.....your war."

The president took note when he told the gathering he knows the public is concerned when there are shouted obscenities "such as this crowd over here is doing."

"It is time for the great silent majority of America to stand up and be counted.'

"In any society that provides a means of peaceful change, there is no cause that justifies resort to violence and lawlessness."

Gesturing toward his hecklers, Nixon said:

"They are not the youth of America today and they will not be the majority of the youth of America tomorrow.

After Nixon finished talking, outgoing Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes took the microphone to decry the fact a number of youths found perches in "defenseless trees" on the Capitol grounds.

Declaring that students in the past had picketed the Capitol in behalf of environmental causes, Rhodes shouted:

"If you self styled Tarzans will climb down gently we would appreciate it." Some near the platform climbed down immediately.

Nixon's two day swing also will bring him into North Dakota, Missouri, Tennessee, North Carolina and Indiana.

Crowds along the eight mile presidential motorcade route from Port Columbus Airport to the state Capitol, were thin in spots. Cheering spectators gathered in clumps along the unpublicized route. Downtown streets were more heavily lined with cheering spectators.

In a formal arrival statement, Nixon said, "The nation needs another Bob Taft from Ohio in the Senate."

Nixon's major purpose in visiting Ohio was to boost Taft, who's in a tight race with Cleveland Democrat Howard M. Metzenbaum for the seat being vacated by retiring Democrat Sen. Stephen M. Young.

At the airport, Nixon told newsmen he had never encountered so many undecided voters so late in a major campaign not just in Ohio but across the nation.

He also remarked that he couldn't recall a campaign in which so many contests were so closely contested.

"They're real tight so let's move," he said.

The chief executive will be in the Baltimore area Saturday, and after spending Sunday and Monday in the White House, will embark Tuesday on a tour that probably will keep him away from Washington until after election day. He is expected to vote from his home of San Clemente, Calif.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said he will announce later the states to be visited next Tuesday.

U.S. Facing Fuel Shortage

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - America is facing a drastic shortage of fuel, the general manager of National Rural Electric Cooperative Association said today.

"There's plenty of coal in the ground, but mining just hasn't kept up," said Robert D. Partridge.

"The fuel producing industries are demanding higher returns on investments, but sky rocketing prices of fuel are not bringing forth supplies to meet demand."

Partridge told about 600 representatives from the rural electric industry America's supply reserves are diminishing, and demand is expected to jump four fold in the next 20 years.

He warned of a 'gigantic monopoly' in the power industry which he said will carry over into the field of nuclear power.

If nuclear power does become a major part of the nation's power industry, small units like the rural electric cooperatives will be excluded unless members are willing to fight for control of construction and regulation of nuclear facilities, he said.

"We must stand up for rural electric principles of area coverage, low cost electricity and cooperative form of organization," he said.

Partridge also said, "I think that rural electric people must speak out now" on issues of power supply, generation and pollution.

Wesleyan Chooses New Prexy

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (AP) - Colin G. Campbell was named president of Wesleyan University Monday night in an announcement by the chairman of the Board of Trustees, Philip B. Brown following a special Board meeting.

At 34 Campbell is the youngest president in the school's 139 year history.

Campbell, who served as executive vice president at Wesleyan, succeeds Edwin D. Etherington who resigned last February to seek the Republican nomination for U.S. Senator from Connecticut.

The nomination went to U.S. Rep. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., D.-Conn.

The decision followed an eight month search by a special committee of trustees, faculty members and students which interviewed some 450 candidates, the board said.

In announcing the appointment, Brown said "after careful consideration....we are convinced Colin Campbell is uniquely qualified to lead Wesleyan into the 70s."

"In his three years on the campus, Brown said, "he has the respect of students, faculty and staff by his thorough understanding of the institution and his demonstrated administrative talents. He will provide the immediate, responsible leadership that Wesleyan requires during the critical years ahead," Brown said.

The new president said after his appointment: "I am optimistic about our capacity to state our goals and priorities and, most importantly, to deliver on promises and promising ideas."

STUDENT NEEDED TO SERVE ON THE UNIVERSITY DISCIPLINE BOARD

Composed of four undergraduate students and four members of the Faculty, the University Discipline Board is the highest appellate judicial body of the University. EVERY case of undergraduate disciplinary action involving a penalty of suspension or dismissal shall be heard by the Board before becoming effective as a disciplinary action.

This Board was established in the By-Laws of the Faculty Senate and approved by the Faculty and Student Senates in the Spring of 1966.

Applications available in the Student Senate Office or call Bob at 546-8804. Must apply by October 23rd.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Student Union University of Massachusetts - Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR John Sullivan

PHOTO EDITOR Steve Schmidt
ADVERTISING MANAGER John Fayad

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR David Williams
NEWS STAFF Mary Kurtz, Mary Tougher, Ann Guraette, Stanley Olson
DARKROOM Barry Penn, Rich McIntyre
SPORTS Sully
AD LAYOUT Rich Rutstein
EDITORIAL Cathie Perkins

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

An Overdue Yes

S21, a Student Senate bill authorizing senate officers to be paid a monthly compensation, should be strongly approved tomorrow evening by the Senate. It is a measure that is both much-needed to maintain one of the most well-established student governments in the east, and, also, because it is simply much overdue.

Arguments against the bill are easy to imagine but are simply missing the purpose of the bill. Opponents will say variously, that the senate will become a financial transaction, that the student activities fee will rise, that earning money will be the sole reason for working in the senate.

Anyone involved in a student activity knows the work that goes into being a student senate officer. Being a senate officer is a full time job. It is a job that is not always understood by many students nor is it always visible. Yet, it is infinitely necessary.

Senate officers being paid will not compromise senate values, will not prostitute the integrity of the senate, will not make the senate a financial transaction. For, anyone willing to spend upwards of 50 or 60 hours a week serving as a senate officer, must be concerned with the campus and means of improving it, rather than being paid 50 cents an hour.

And the payment will not effect the student activities tax in any appreciable manner.

What it boils down to is: Do the students want a fulltime student government serving them or one that must do the jobs halfway because officers can't afford to spend the necessary hours.

S21 would help insure that responsible and hard working leadership will continue to guide the senate and reward somewhat, jobs that have little reward. We urge its swift passage.

Marijuana Stereotype

BRUSSELS, Oct. 10 – A profile of the average marijuana smuggler, drawn from United States files, has been presented to the general assembly of Interpol, the International Criminal Police Organization, which devotes a third of its time now to drug cases.

This was the picture put before delegates here this week:

He or she is usually aged about 25 and has attended a university but has not finished. In almost every case the trafficker originally used the drug. He comes from the middle class, the upper class or a wealthy background and from parents who are responsible and productive.

The implication that it is the children of affluent Western society who are involved in drug trafficking is supported by the findings of international surveys conducted by Interpol.

While there has been a sharp increase in the number of people arrested in North America and Europe, a decrease has been noted in many African and Eastern countries.

Elliot Eisenberg

How About Security?

On the cover of a recent issue of Atlantic, there was a photograph of a pair of legs. They were women's legs and they were attractive; the picture is now tacked to my wall. There was an inscription just about where her legs end and her skirt begins: "What does woman want?" they quoted Freud, "Dear God, what does she want?" I sit here at my desk and look at it, contemplate the legs and often ask myself the same question.

The answer which the author of the article proposed was simple and it didn't lie too far from the question: a more satisying sex life. While it is true, and no man, least of all this one, is going to begrudge her that, I think that modern woman is aiming at something even more basic than that: a complete revision of the roles of man and woman.

The late John Steinbeck - whom I think you'll agree stands for something traditional in this country, something from the world which bore our parents and grandparents - wrote a small novel about a man, a woman, their son, and their chance to rise above their primitive existence, THE PEARL. The hero, a pearl-fisherman, finds the pearl-of-pearls, large enough to buy an education for his son. His wife urges him to either sell it to those who would cheat him or throw it away, not to incur the wrath of those trying to keep them in their place. "This is our one chance," he says, "Our son must go to school. He must break out of the pot that holds us in."

His wife, Juana, takes the pearl to throw it into the sea. Kino cracks her. Her face ached, but "There was no anger in her for Kino. He had said, 'I am a man,' and that meant certain things to Juana. It meant that he was half insane and half god. It meant that Kino would drive his strength against a mountain and plunge his strength against the sea. Juana, in her woman's soul, knew that the mountain would stand while the man broke himself, that the sea would surge while the man drowned in it. And yet it was this thing that made him a man, half insane and half god, and Juana had need of a man: she could not live without a man. ...Sometimes the quality of woman, the reason, the caution, the sense of preservation, could cut through Kino's manness and save them all..."

Juana, said Steinbeck, although "she might be puzzled by these differences between man and women, knew them and accepted them and needed them" It is precisely this which modern woman questions. She refuses to define her life only as a complement to man; she seeks a career, and if she has children, freedom from them enough to make a life of her own.

A man would have to be a fool to begrudge his wife, a person, the integrity of a life of her own. Either a fool or perhaps insecure.

But why is it that woman has chosen just now in the history of civilization to rebel? Could it be that while woman is overtly upsetting the roles, man has been subtly speeding the process himself?

This is only speculation, but I suspect thattoomany of us have too little grasp of a viable future. We don't say to woman, 'I have in my mind the sort of life it will be. Come and share it with me.' Ours is a more existential lot, for many reasons. We are unable to present to woman the one thing which she needs most: security. Our life form is more to live and love for the day, day by day. So she says 'forget you, I'll go it alone.' And many of us get shook.

Perhaps we ought to get shook, because the changes in the life of the modern woman are due her. Liberation from some of the most dehumanizing and demeaning of tasks to a life of her own. Perhaps, too, with a little introspection on the part of man, the changes wouldn't be so cataclysmic.

Mark Silverman

Good Night, David

Editor's Note...the following is the third part of a four part series on the Mythical reality of television.

It happened Friday. All the viewers were convinced that the nation was in trouble, that domestic calm was no longer possible and that the greatest visible value of the society was tarnished. Walter Cronkite forgot what day it was.

He sat there at the end of the C.B.S. Evening News and began the familiar closing, "And that's the way it is, Friday..."

and then he stoped. He turned to someone off camera and asked what day it was. But the unperturbable one was flustered and said laughingly, "Friday, September 16th, 1970." Walter Cronkite missed a month.

By the language of television, this probably only means that Cronkite neglected to eat his Wheaties Friday morning, or that he didn't have a big enough slurp of energade before he went on the air to support him under the hot lights.

In any event, it placed the nation's longest standing public demi-god on a level with the rest of humanity, for at least a night everyone who for years relaxed through the evening because Walter had tucked him in after the news rested uncomfortably Friday.

The man who made Americans forget about Douglas Edwards and John Cameron Swasey had fallen briefly out of his concocted role as the Nation's muse by being human.

All of this serves to point up one of the most interesting things about television journalism, and leads to the saddest fact of life around which network newscasts wind themselves.

Cronkite is the star of his show. People watch it to see Walter read the news, instead of watching it to learn what happened during the day. As a result of this, the program is built around Cronkite, instead of around the news.

The star reads most of the news himself, and actualization (filmed reports from various correspondents) are short. The show tends to present a great number of short stories, so that Cronkite appears on camera as much as possible.

As a contrast, N.B.C. for years has been building David Brinkley up as a super cynic, the detached and incisive observer. As a result, on that network's Nightly News, Brinkly is on camera far less than Cronkite. The actualization reports are longer than on C.B.S., and stress the background and mood of stories more strongly than do their competitors'.

In this way, a stage is set for Brinkly's comments, and he seems stronger, wittier and more intelligent as he appears to analyze the news as he reads it.

In short, Brinkly is built up to be the intellectual commenting on the news, while Cronkite is sold as the father figure telling the national family what happened during the day.

There really isn't anything inherently wrong with selling a newscast on a reporters name, and holding the show's production around his personality. But a problem arises when the networks begins to edit the news to fit the personality of their newscasters.

If you watch Cronkite at 6:30 one night and then switch over and watch Brinkly at 7:00 you get two different pictures of the day. During Cronkite, you see the father figure read reports of various events, hear and see several reporter's filmed accounts of big stories, and once a week you see one reporter file a five minute report on "Americana" and then turn the show back to the father. You feel good as the show ends.

But when you turn the dial you see fewer stores, and the stories you do see seem more dramatic and more serious since more time is spent explaining each one, and since very often a film will run for 30 seconds just setting the mood of the story. Brinkly is often witty, but he phrases his sentences so that they are laced with sarcasm and often seem forboding. You You turn off the set feeling very down.

Imagining a generation of people who began to watch news on television at age 12 and watched it at least three nights a week. Half of them watched Cronkite and half of them watched Brinkly. Half of them grew up goodnaturedly accepting the day's news and half of them grew up cynically rejecting the news.

Imaging the television culture, the first kinnescope generation growing into two different worlds because of the station on which their television was set.

Halt Burnini

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP) – Dorothy Kabis, the United States Treasurer, announced today that, in the future, wornout money– amounting to $9 billion a year– would be pulverized instead of burned. The burning process is being abandoned because it contributed to air pollution. Used bills are destroyed at Federal Reserve banks and branches in 35 cities.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR must be typed, double spaced, at sixty spaces and must carry the writer's signature, address, and telephone number (all of which will be withheld upon request). The limit is one page and the deadline is 5 p.m. the day prior to intended publication. The editors reserve the right to edit all letters.

Patented Peace

WASHINGTON – The US Patent Office has tentatively has decided to register the peace symbol as a commercial trademark. It ways the competition is between a shoemaker and a clothing firm which already has trademarked "Luv."

The Sept. 6 issue of the official gazette of the United States Patent Office listed two trademark applications for the symbol.

One was from Intercontinent Shoe Corp., New York, which said it puts the symbol in metal or leather on shoes, boots, and sandals.

The other was filed by Harold Koenig, prsident of Luv, Inc., Miami, Fla. Koenig says his firm makes "boutique type high fashion clothing for the junior customer."

Wendt said the listing threw the two firms into competition for the trademark. The Trademark Trial and Appeal Board will pick the winner he said, based mostly on which firm used the emblem first. Four other applicants, also clothing firms, have been rejected.

Art Buchwald

Riding High

WASHINGTON–In this confusing election year, the only people who seem to know their own minds are those who keep t elling the pollsters they don't know for whom they are going to vote.

"The 'don't know' vote," said Heinrich Applebaum, the leading elections-expert in the United States, "could easily swing this country one way or the other."

"Do you mean to say the 'don't know' vote is bigger than the 'Middle America' vote?"

"It's even bigger than the Silent Majority," Applebaum replied. "We estimate that for every person in this country who knows whom he is going to vote for, there are two and one-half persons who 'don't know.' "

"How do you explain such a large 'don't know' vote?"

"The 'don't know' voters are made up of people who are sick and tired of being told whom they should vote for. They're the true Americans who are being pushed around by everybody. They pay their taxes, send their kids to school, watch television, drink beer, salute the flag, and yet when it comes to election they have no idea what the hell the candidate is talking about."

"Wasn't there always a large 'don't know' segment in the population?" I asked.

"Nothing comparable to what we have at the present time. In the past no one wanted to admit he didn't know what was going on in the country. Now if you refuse to admit you don't know, people think you should be taken away to the funny farm."

Applebaum sai the "don't knows" could be broken down ethnically between those who are "undecided," "unsure" and have "no opinion."

"These three groups compose the majority of the 'don't know' voters," he said.

"What's the difference between them?"

"The 'undecided' are those in the $5,000-to-$15,000-a-year income bracket. They are mostly white, though a few are Inca Indians."

"I see."

"The 'unsure' are mostly composed of hard hats, blue-collar workers and Avon ladies. While they're working, this group seems to know exactly whom they are for. It's when they get laid off because of a recession that they get confused."

"And the 'no opinion'?"

"The people who express 'no opinion' are those who don't want to be identified with those who are 'undecided' or 'unsure.' "

"I see."

"In the past, the 'undecided' and the 'unsures' and those with 'no opinion' always split their votes. But this year because of the low quality of the campaigns and lack of issues, all three groups might vote together, and this could have a tremendous effect on the nation."

"Why doesn't Agnew appeal to the 'don't knows'?"

"Because his whole campaign has been aimed at the 'know nothings.' It's easy for someone like Agnew to get the two mixed up."

"Why don't the 'don't knows' put up their own candidate if they're that strong?"

"If they proposed their own candidate, they could no longer be identified with those whowere 'undecided,' 'unsure' and had 'no opinion.' The best the 'don't knows' can hope for is that the election will be called off in November because of inclement weather."

Copyright 1970, Los Angeles Times

As Humphrey Saw It

(Reprinted from N.Y.T. 10-11-70)

We are sitting in one peace Humphrey now calls home, a pleasant, unpretentious white stucco house on a broad, tree-lined avenue near Macalester College. When he returned to Minneapolis, he taught at Macalester (from which he now rents the house) and the University of Minnesota. It was, expectedly, not easy to face students again. He has spoken to aides of a Pavlovian wince in those first days, cued by the very sight of a college student. "Actually, it was only a hand ful who were hostile at Macalester," he recalls.

But that passed-the student shouters and hecklers, "the five or six who always ask abrasive questions"-and Humphrey's role was changing, too. However, not everything was different, and a visit last spring to the University of Massachusetts in Amherst dramatized time past and time present in collision..

"Actually, that goesback to M.I.T.," He says. "Nobody survived the platform at M.I.T. Scotty Reston, Bill BFulbright, Strom Thurmond. I went and tried in May, 1969. And the first day was pretty bad." He thinks about that day and shudders. "I remember well. But I stood my ground. By the second day, it let up somewhat. And the third day, much better. I had stood my ground, you see.

"Well, students out at the University of Massachusetts heard about this, and while I was still at M.I.T. they invited me out to Amherst. So I went. When I got there, they told me that they wanted to have on the platform with me, parading up and down while I spoke, some nudes and some pigs. So I asked them: 'Who's gonna pick the nudes? I think I ought to be allowed to do that. When it comes to pigs, ,' I said, 'perhaps you're more qualified than I am.'

"So, we went down to 'The Cage'- that's what they call the auditorium-and right away 25 S.D.S. kids walked out. I hadn't said a word yet. So some kids started booing, and I got up and I told them: 'Don't do that. Those students might be showing very good judgment'. . . . After the speech, they threw me a barn dance and made me an honorary student.

"Then in March of this year, I returned. There was a fairly quiet demonstration before I spoke, but when I got up to speak, the noise got such, I couldn't talk. . . . You know: shouting obscenities, everything. So I finally said to them 'Look, I'm leaving. I got paid already. This speech is written out, so anybody who wants can read it. Frankly, I'm not Vice President anymore and I don't have to be nice to you or anyone. I got what I want. I got dinner and a fee. Anybody who wants to talk, come downtown to the hotel.' So, we went yo the hotel. Great mob of kids. We went into the ballroom of the hotel. I read m y speech. Got terrific coverage from the radio and the TV, never would have got otherwise. And later, hundreds of letters from students."

Campus Comment

To The Editor:

The biennial autumnal catharsis of the American Democratic System - Election - is hard upon us. It is a matter of concern, I think to note a dearth of visible student support for campaigns which touch the student most closely. As with every year it is a first experience for many students. It would be a shame to use the opportunity to learn about the system without also making it serve the individual's immediate self-interest.

It is an inherent feature of the process that a constituent (not necessarily voter) work in support of his own selfish interests with the positive result that the active majority will succeed most often. Indeed a certain amount of selfishness can be a pretty healthy thing.

Student concern for the state-wide tickets: White/Dukakis vs Sargent/Dwight; Kennedy vs Spaulding; certain larger-than-local races: Drinan-McGlennon-Philbric; Hoff-Prouty; and others is certainly natural, valid and important. But with due regard for these larger contests, the visible men and women with whom students willdeal are also running for office. Perhaps the contest with the most immediate visible effect upon students is the local District Attorney's race. He is the chief local law enforcement officer with responsibility for police operations, investigations, grand jury proceedings and indictments, and prosecutions on the behalf of the public.. In Amherst, Mr. John Callahan, Democrat seeks to unseat Mr. Oscar Grife, Republican.

There are other pertinent local races such as County Commissioner and Governor's Council which deserve attention as well. The candidates ultimately elected will be the ones whom the citizen can talk to on a day to day basis and may be able to bring appropriate problems to the attention of those who win the wider campaigns. Its a matter of personal priorities and doing something for yourself.

It is by no means too late to find out about the local candidates and offices. It is also not too late to do some work on behalf of those who can best represent students.

RICHARD M. HOWARD
General Counsel

To The Editor:

I would like to express exception to the misinformation and biased misinterpretation of information in the letter "It's Your Money" published in Monday's Collegian.

In the realm of misinformation the anonymous author of that article stated that, "Bill 71-S22 would create a patronage system in the Senate by paying all Committee Chairmen unspecified sums." The actual fact is 71-S22 has nothing to do with the payment of committee chairmen. If the author of "It's Your Money" had looked any further than the title of that bill he would have found that 71-S22 provides for a standard contract for specialized personnel needed to supplement the work of students serving on Senate Committees. For instance the Academic Affairs Committee if it is to be successful in its proposed Teacher Evaluation Program may find it necessary to acquire the services of a computer programmer to develop a program for converting the raw data into meaningful statistics or they may need a secretary to put the results into booklet form. Student Government at this University has become a complex and specialized task. The Senate at times needs to hire people with special skills, for example Richard Howland the students' lawyer, 71-S22 provides for this necessity.

Our anonymous author proceeds to attack 71-S22 which provides for the paying of Senate officers, by asking three valid questions and then pointedly intimating his own replies. His valid questions are: don't we want dedicated senators, shouldn't they be concerned with giving the students a better environment to live and work in, and can we afford to pay them? All three questions (the first two of which are loaded questions) can be answered with an unqualified YES.

One may legitimately ask should we pay the Senate officers? Again the answer, I believe is yes. Consider if you will the following facts obtained from R.S.O. Seven members of the Collegian staff are paid by students between $100 and $150 per month and five members of the WMUA staff are paid $100 per month. The reasons for paying these people are considerable without trying to do justice to them, let me mention just two. The Collegian staff, WMUA personnel, and the Senate officers must all spend considerable time in their respective offices thus forcing them to purchase meals at the Campus Center. This money comes directly from the pockets of the people involved. Why should they have to suffer in order to give us a good newspaper, radio station, or Student Government? Along these same lines we are discriminating against these important functionaries by precluding the possibility of them holding a job. Can we expect Glenn Elters our Senate president to be an adequate student, senator, Senate president, Trustee and still permit him to hold a job? If he does hold a job, when will he find time to meet with the considerable number of students who deluge his office daily?

We need responsive Student Government as badly as we need a school newspaper. In the past we have had Senate officers who however grudingly were willing to carry out their duties unreimbursed (never mind unpaid) yet how many qualified people were kept from holding office because they couldn't afford the financial sacrifice, how much has the student body suffered because of it? To remedy these ills it would cost each of us 15¢ a year. What are we arguing about? The Budgets Committee has reviewed the arguments for and against this proposal and has recommended 71-S22 favorably to the Senate at large. One last point that should be made is that the Budgets Committee is not just composed of Senators, students also sit on it with full voting rights (I myself am such a student); the student interests are very solicitously considered. It is a recommendation of considerable moment that this committee favors the adoption of 71-S22.

JEROME MORIARTY
Budgets Committee

To The Editor:

The two columns of text, "What's to do? I ain't got no finals tomorrow." can only be regarded by any rational student as a tasteless waste of space with very little value to compensate for the stench involved. I find it significant that the wretched creature who composed it was ashamed to sign his name to such crap!

I deeply resent being coerced, as a condition of attending UMass, to spend my student tax dollars to further the publication of degenerate ravings better confined to the privacy of a psycho-analytic relationship. To abuse the student newspaper with worthless, mindlessly profane drivel of that sort is an act unworthy of an educated person and one which can only pollute the atmosphere at this school.

You disgust me, Collegian!

ALAN KAPLAN '72
28 Chestnut Street
Turners Falls, Mass.

To The Editor:

I was very pleased to see the extensive coverage of last Thursday's YPSL meeting in Friday's Collegian. Allow me to thank Mr. David Castaldi and the editors for the headline, the photograph and the lengthy article. However, Mr. Castaldi's reporting of Carl Gershman's speech contained several factual errors. In a spirit of friendly criticism, rather than one of hostile reproach, I will attempt to clear several points:

1. Mr. Gershman works as Research Director for the A. Philip Randolph Institute, not for the A. Randolph Hearst organization. A. Philip Randolph, the Honorary Chairman of the Socialist Party, is a black activist with impeccable credentials in both the labor and black movements. Randolph Hearst is a newspaper magnate who owns such responsible papers and has thus far revealed no concern for the struggles of blacks, laborers or socialists.

2. Mr. Gershman does not call himself a moderate. Indeed the main point of his speech was the common confusion between the terms radical and moderate. He ironically noted that "radical liberals" such as James Reston called socialists such as himself and Steve Kelman "moderate" when in fact, Kelman is clearly to the left of Reston and the New York Times. Gershman then went on to define a radical as one who not only has a radical vision, but also combines this vision with a certain relationship to progressive social forces. As a socialist, Gershman meets the criteria of this definition, and so evidently calls himself a radical and not a moderate.

3. Mr. Gershman never advocated that radicals pose as moderates to achieve their goals. It is and always has been the policy of the Socialist Party and of YPSL that any member participating in mass movements or any non-Party movement clearly identify himself as a socialist and a radical. To reveal anything less in our view, is sheer deceit.

What Gershman did say is that no revolutionary situation exists at present (or is likely to exist in the forseeable future) in the United States, and that those who call themselves radicals must recognize this fact. Failure to recognize this basic truth, will in the view of Gershman and the SP, result in adventurist and essentially counter-revolutionary violence by so called leftists.

4. Neither Carl Gershman nor any other socialist I know of ever called the American working class a reactionary force. Referring to Scammon and Wattenberg's The Real Majority, Gershman noted that while the interests of the working class is unquestionably progressive, workers may be pushed to the right over their concern with the "social issue" (law and order, student unrest, etc.).

Finally, and this is a subtle point, Gershman advocated that the true radical submit and constrain himself to political reality, not allowing himself to be guided by ideological fantasy. This is a significant variation from the final quote attributed Gershman which intimates that he advised radicals to restrict themselves to the political forces now dominant in the society.

JACK CLARK

Loeb to Speak on Capitalism

In the first constructive feedback from businessmen on the students' strike, Mr. Henry Loeb, president of Loeb, Rhodes and Co., will visit the UMass campus October 21 to discuss with students the social responsibilities of the business community.

The Wall Street Mobilization Committee (WSMC) and the School of Business Administration (SBA) have been in touch with Mr. Loeb and eight other top executives on Wall Street since the strike. To continue the person-to-person contact between business men and students begun by the WSMC during the strike, Mr. Loeb is the first in a planned series of guest speakers from the business community.

Mr. Loeb will speak on the (relevance of capitalism to our society) at 10 a.m. in Rm. 120, SBA building, followed by a coffee hour in the Colonial Lounge. From 12:15 to 2 p.m. Mr. Loeb will eat in the Worcester Dining Hall and hold informal talks with any students who wish to meet him. Mr. Loeb will be in the Colonial Lounge again from 2:30 until 4 to exchange ideas and impressions with the student body. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

Person-to-person contact between businessmen and students was begun by the WSMC as a constructive alternative to public petitioning. The committee felt that more real results could be obtained by meeting business within its walls instead of in the streets.

The committee, formed May 6, 1970 by four UMass students, set up appointments with top executives of the 15 major stock brokerage firms of theNew York Stock Exchange. The committee's stated purpose was to unite these two factions of society, businessmen and students, in order that they would work together toward the eradication of the common social ills. The committee recognizes that there must be mutual understanding of each other's problems before action on responsibilities can be fruitfully undertaken.

The USMC began as a positive approach to ending the war in Vietnam but has expanded its concern to cover all the interrelated problems of society, emphasizing conservation of the environment and fair business practices.

The success of this program, and its contribution to society's goals for the common good, will depend on the quality of the reception given Mr. Loeb and the quality of the talks between him and the students.

Debate Team Qualifies for Tournament

by Debbie Flaherty
Staff Reporter

The intercollegiate debating circuit continued to be impressed by UMass debating skills as they qualified two teams for elimination rounds at the Brandeis University Debate Tournament this weekend.

Unfortunately, scheduling placed the UMass "O" team against the UMass "X" team in the octo-finals forcing one UMass team out of further competition. The "O" team of senior Phil Doyle and Tim Hynes on the affirmative bested their sophomore squadmates of the "X" team with a 2-1 decision.

Doyle and Hynes, who last week placed second at the MIT tournament, then lost on the affirmative to the team from Brown University in quarter finals.

The senior duo placed into the elimination competition from its 5-3 win loss record and high points in preliminary rounds. Victories were tallied on the affirmative against Marietta and St. Anslems and on the negative versus George Washington, Rutgers, and Brown. Rounds were dropped against MIT, Canisius, and Pacific.

Debating the intercollegiate debate topic calling for the federal government to adopt a system of compulsory wage and price controls, Hynes and Doyles carried an affirmative case justifying the controls because of business concentrations.

The "X" team of sophomores Roger Legendre and David McCaffrey compiled a fine 7-1 win loss record in preliminary competition. They defeated teams from Oberlin, Seton Hall, Canisius, and Wayne State on the negative and Cornell, Middlebury, and UNH on the affirmative.

Legendre and McCaffrey used umemployment as a justification for wage and price controls in their affirmative case.

School of Ed To Hold Colloquium

A showcase of significant and innovative research by 45 doctoral candidates and recent graduates of the School of Education will be presented Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 20 and 21, at the school's first Graduate Colloquium.

The presentations will run both days from 3 to 6 p.m. and from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Lincoln Campus Center, ninth floor. Represented will be such areas as counseling, administration, computer assisted instruction, media, and humanistic, international, vocational and urban education.

Each meeting will include a formal presentation or demonstration, to be followed by a panel of reactors and response from the audience. All persons interested in new developments in education are invited to attend this showcase of current research and advance graduate word. Further information is available at the School of Education, 545-0958.

3:00 p.m.

Peter Wagschal al - "Student Responsibility and Learning" Room 901
Mark Rossman - "Evaluation of Adult Basic Education Programs in Massachusetts" Room 902
Howard A. Peelle - "How the Computer Learns" Room 904
Barbara Smith - "The Identification of Alternative Forms of Specific Learning Disabilities" Room 905
Cynthia T. Hall - "Some of the Validities of the Test of Quantitative Judgement Form T: 1. for Intermediate and Junior High School Mathematics" Room 904
Emeka Manuwuike - "Africa: Impressions of a Continent--The Foundations of African Education Room 905

4:00 p.m.

Bruce McKay - "The Principal and the Administrative Climate" Room 901
Ray Johnson - "Correlations between Personality Traits and the Ability to Function in an Unstructured Environment" Room 902
Simon Keochakian - "Comparison of Responses to the Original and the Oppositely Stated Item of the Learning Atmosphere Attitude Scale" Room 904
William Conroy - "Information Feedback System for the Statewide Evaluation of Vocational Education" Room 905
Thomas Bernard - "Implications of the Brain Drain for Higher Education in the United States" Room 909

5:00 p.m.

John Newby - "Comparative Study of Three Methods of Psychotherapy" Room 901
Brian Anderson - "The Effects of Information Sources Employed in the Educational Decision Making Process Room 902

8:00 p.m.

Harry Morgan - "Design of a Self-Analysis Curriculum for Pre-School Children" Room 901
Mary Alice Wilson - "An Evaluation Design of a Performance Criteria Program in Language Arts" Room 902
Don Bastarache - "The Effect of Theme Association and Visual Stimulus upon Oral Retention in a Musical Listening Experience" Room 904
Charles Popken - "Simulated Administration of Regular Guidance Operations: A Training Program of Directors of Guidance Services" Room 905

9:00 p.m.

David Sadker - "Schools as seen by Children: Measuring Elementary School Environments" Room 901

Call to Action October 31

Nixon's invasion of Cambodia triggered an unprecedented wave of opposition to to the war in Southeast Asia. Many people who had previously tolerated Nixon's token troop withdrawal policy were drawn into action for the first time as they saw that the real intention of the administration was to continue the war and even to escalate it.

The sentiment for "bringing all the troops home now" has never been more widespread than today. The demonstrations in May, following the Cambodian invasion proved one thing: the American people have the power to curb the administration's aggressive militarism. Nixon was FORCED to withdraw U.S. troops from Cambodia because millions of Americans took to the streets in opposition to Nixon's invasion of that nation. Only the continued building of the anti-war movement can prevent new escalations. The possibility now exists to involve massive numbers of unionists and black and brown people along with students, women, professionals and others in the most massive movement ever to bring the war to an end; to get out of Indochina now.

It is essential at this time that nationwide activities which can involve broad new layers of society be held. Therefore, we the undersigned called for massive, peaceful demonstrations throughout the country, in every major metropolitan area, on October 31 to demand the immediate withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Southeast Asia.

The working people of this country have paid a high price for the war in Southeast Asia. The spiralling inflation brought on by the war has made it impossible for working people to maintain their standard of living. Our sons, nephews and friends have been called to fight, and many to die, in a war which is clearly not in their interests. The war has eaten up the money that is so desperately needed for domestic programs such as housing, education, health care, air pollution and the rehabilitation of our cities. Organized labor has the power to end the war, it is time that power was exercised. A great step forward was taken on May 21, when tens of thousands of workers joined with students in New York City in a massive anti-war protest. This forward motion must continue. Therefore, we the undersigned, endorse the call for mass anti-war protests on October 31 and call upon all unions, union organizations and working people to join with us.

Third World people pay the heaviest price for the war in Vietnam. We fight, and die, in numbers disproportionate to our percentate of the population. The cities in which we are so often concentrated suffer most acutely from budget cuts instituted to help pay for the war, means rising unemployment for us. All these sacrifices to pay for a war which is not in our interest. We, the undersigned, endorse the call for the October 31 mass anti-war actions and urge all our brothers and sisters to join with us.

Help build a massive answer to the Nixon-Agnew War Policy on Oct. 31 and a majority vote "C" on the Massachusetts Referendum on Nov. 3.

COME TO THE

S M C meeting tonight

at 8 P.M., Council Chamber, Student Union

Gradual Can Mean a Lifetime —
Bring All the Troops Home Now

☆ Only ☆ certain Americans can buy new Freedom Shares
☆ ASK WHERE YOU WORK OR BANK ☆

MDC Hotline
5-2550

MINUTES AWAY VIA I-91 TO RT 5
REDSTONE
Showcase Cinemas, #213
RIVERDALE RD. W. SPFLD.
1 — ACRES & ACRES FREE PARKING — JOE — R — Mon.-Fri. 2-7:35-9:10 Sat. & Sun. 1-30-3:30 5:35-7:25-9:00
2 — WIDE SPACE COMFORT LOUNGE ROCKERS — ON A CLEAR DAY YOU CAN SEE FOREVER — Mon.-Fri. 2-7:30-9:50 Sat. & Sun. 1-3:45-7:25-9:50 GP
3 — GROUP RATES — CATCH-22 — R — Mon.-Fri. 2-7:20-9:15 Sat. & Sun. 1-3:20-7:20-9:15
CALL 4-8-7-33-3191

Student Employees

There will be a meeting in the Student Union Ballroom Tuesday at 6 p.m. for all student employees in the Campus Center - Student Union complex. The purpose of this meeting will be to start a student employees union.

This first meeting will be a general strategy meeting to determine the number of interested students and to propose alternative organization styles.

Fairport Convention Up And Coming

by ALAN R. WILSON
Fine Arts Staff

This summer people flocked to the Boston Tea Party (alas for the memories of the old one) to see the newly-reformed Traffic and a second-billed group called Fairport Convention. A member of the audience remarked how innovative it was of Traffic to be performing an English ballad like John Barleycorn. Yup. What he had in store for him was a group whose mainstay has always been the traditional English ballad, namely Fairport.

Some have referred to Fairport as an English folk group. They have released five albums in a little over a year and continue to amaze. The renowned Sandy Denny, who, incidentally, wrote "Who Knows Where the Time Goes", was a member of Fairport for their first three albums, and has since formed another group. Meanwhile, Richard Thompson and Simon Nicol, original Fairporters also, along with personnel varying from album to album, have branched slightly in their style while retaining the name Fairport Convention.

Full House (on A&M), their fifth and most recent album, includes, besides Thompson guitar) and Nicol (electric, acoustic, and bass guitars, dulcimer), Dave Swarbrick on fiddle, viola, mandoline, Dave Pegg on bass guitar and mandline, and Dave Mattacks on drums, harmonium, and boran.

This album, musically, seems to follow their third album Liege & Lief (on A&M), better than it does their fourth, Fairport Convention (on Cotillion). Besides the fact that they switched labels for this one album, this may also be due to the fact that Swarbrick and Mattacks played on both Liege & Lief and Full House, but not on the fourth album.

Full House takes a few listenings to be fully appreciated. It is not really like any of the other Fairport albums: after one makes the transition from the style of the other albums, he realizes that this may be for the better. Out of the seven songs on the album, four are traditional (two of which are instrumentals), and the other three, penned by Thompson-Swarbrick, sound like they could be.

This album is just plain fun. If you appreciate good music, you know only too well how futile it is to attempt to put it into words. All that can be said is that they are fine musicians and their music makes you feel good. If we were pressed to make comparisons, two or three of the songs sound like the Incredible String Band, and another song "Sloth", is reminiscent of Neil's "Down by the River". We don't like to make comparisons, but maybe they will interest you.

For followers of Fairport and other interested peoples, Sandy Denny's new group is called Fotheringay, and is very much like early Fairport. (They too are on A&M)

DIRECTOR HARRY MAHNKEN, center, stages Stephen Schnetzer and Deanne Jarvis, left, in a scene from "All The King's Men" slated to open tomorrow night at Bartlett Auditorium.

Ticket Info

University Theatre announces that it is no longer able to fulfill its previous policy of giving complimentary tickets to administration officers and faculty. Tickets for "All the King's Men" may be reserved at the box office (545-2579) or purchased at the door. The price is $1.75

University Theatre Opens Tomorrow

The University Theatre opens this week with "All the King's Men," a play based on the Pulitzer-Prize winning novel by Robert Penn Warren.

Four performances will be given beginning Wednesday, October 21, and ending Saturday, October 24. Performances are scheduled to begin at 8:30 in Bartlett Auditorium. "All the King's Men" is a study of politics, the nature of good and evil, and man's search for truth and self-knowledge.

The play has been described as a rich study of man in society. Perhaps as Willie says, his only crime was being a man and living in a world of men.

Tickets are on sale at Bartlett box office. Tickets may be reserved, or purchased at the door. The box office hours are 10:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. from October 13-20, and 10:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. from October 21-24. The phone number for reservations is 545-2579. Admission is $1.75.

"LOOK AT MY HANDS, DOC, PITCHBLACK!" says Willie Stark, played by Stephen Schnetzer, right, as he explains to Adam Stanton, played by William Menezes, that goodness comes out of badness. "All The King's Men" runs October 21-24 in Bartlett Auditorium.

The other odor

No feminine spray can stop it.

The "other" odor. It starts in the vaginal tract where no spray can work. You can't spray it away. And it's more offensive than external odor caused by perspiration.

That's the reason you need Norforms®. The second deodorant. These tiny suppositories kill germs—stop odor in the vaginal tract for hours. Something no spray can do. And doctor-tested Norforms can be used as often as necessary. They insert easily, quickly.

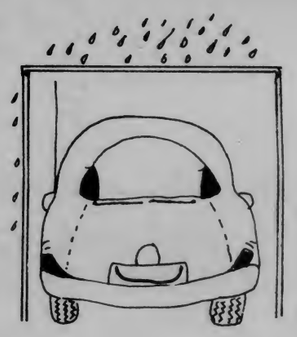
Get Norforms protection for the "other" odor no spray can stop.

The second deodorant.

NorForms

FREE NORFORMS MINI-PACK plus informative booklet! Write: Norwich Pharmacal Co., Dept. CN/A, Norwich, N.Y. 13812. (Enclose 25¢ for mailing, handling.)

Name_____
Street_____
City_____
State_____ Zip_____
Don't forget your zip code



BELL'S Has a Better Idea!

THICKER SAUCE
& STRETCHIER CHEESE
& CRISPIER CRUST

"The Best Pizza In Town"

BELL'S PIZZA

University Drive
FREE DELIVERY OF PIZZA
Call 256-8011 or 253-9051

Sick of parking your car miles away from where you want to go?

Tired of running miles through the rain from your car to your classes, work, or the Hatch?

Keep yourself and your car warm and and dry.

Use the Campus Center Garage

One hour 25¢

Each additional hour 15¢

All day $2.00

Draft Counselor's Corner

195 And Up May Be Safe

By GILBERT J. SALK
Staff Reporter

The question of what to do with a lottery number of 196 or above is apparently still bothering people. The last word from the director of SSS is that the call will not go over 195.

If true, and I think there is little reason to doubt that this particular proclamation is valid, anyone who has a number above 195 which was assigned in last year's lottery should drop his student deferment.

This can be done by writing immediately to your local board and telling them that you no longer wish to have a student deferment and that you would like to be reclassified I-A. In theory, since one of the requirements for being granted a II-S is a request for it, such a letter constitutes a withdrawal of the request and makes you ineligible for the deferment. Some boards may not agree with this interpretation, so it is important to start the proceedings as soon as possible in case they hassle you.

Once you are reclassified I-A, you are in this year's eligibility pool. At the end of this calendar year, if your number has not been called, you have had your "year of risk." You do not have to be eligible for a full 365 days, only through December 31.

Caution: If you received your lottery number in this year's drawing, i.e., last June, you cannot be in this year's eligibility pool. If you turned 19 before Jan. 1, 1970, you are in this year's pool; if you turned 19 in 1970 you are in next year's pool; if you won't be 19 until next year or later, you don't need to learn to swim yet.

I feel a need to add a further caution, as well. The lottery provides a fairly safe out for roughly half of the draft eligible men in the United States.

I feel a need to add a further caution, as well. The lottery provides a fairly safe out for roughly half of the draft-eligible men in the United States. It does nothing for the rest. Under Selective Service law, unless they can find some other out, or are Conscientious Objectors, they face emigration, jail, or two years of carrying a gun, possibly killing or being killed. They are the ones who might come home in a casket which has been sealed by the United States Army because the pieces could not be put back together again in any presentable form.

Those who get out still carry an obligation to their brothers who have low numbers. I urge that you not simply heave a sigh of relief, wipe your brow, and forget the whole nasty business. It is still going on, and will continue as long as there is a draft and an army. Fight it in the system or out, but fight it.

Put me out of a job. I want to get back to the farm. Peace.

Letters to this column should be addressed to Gilbert J. Salk, c/o Draft Counseling Services RSO #393, Campus Center, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.

Free draft counseling is available. Bring your problem to Draft Counseling Services, 118E Student Union 2nd floor between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Campus Bus Service Expands

The Student Senate has acquired two more buses for use in the campus transportation system. — The new 45-passenger diesel transit buses will almost double the current carrying capacity.

As soon as the added vehicles are reconditioned, the bus routes will be reorganized to cover the campus and outlying areas more effectively. Each bus will make a basic figure eight through Orchard Hill and Southwest with one bus going to (1) "Fraternity/Sorority Park" as part of the Orchard Hill route, (2) V-Lot and Stadium as part of the Southwest route, and (3) the School of Ed from both routes.

A revised schedule will be published prior to the commencement of these new routes.

*****

The Southwest bus will no longer stop in Hagis Mall at SBA, effective yesterday. The stop is being relocated to the corner of Massachusetts Ave. and Hagis Mall because of the large size of the new buses and the normal congestion in that area. The current time schedule will remain in effect.

*****

Any items left on the buses will be turned in to the lost and found office in the Student Union. Inquiries should be made there or at the Student Senate Transit Services Office (SU-430), soon to be relocated to SU-434.

Juniors Plan For Winter Carni

(Editor's Note: This is the second in the series of Junior Class Executive Council meeting reports).

The meeting was called for Thursday, October 15, 1970.

The class budget was presented and ratified unanimously.

Winter Carni Weekend was the center discussion. Since the President of any class is responsible for activities of that class, President Juli Ierardi has decided to coordinate Winter Carni weekend with plans of naming chairmen for the various aspects of the weekend. This is a breaking with tradition since in the past, it has been customary to have a Winter Carni Chairman. This new effort on the part of the Junior Class President may prove to make Winter Carni Weekend this year something different and great. It was finally agreed upon to accept the Fifth Dimension for the Saturday night concert in the Cage.

The six Juniors who have been elected to President's Council are: Howie Bresner, Roger Reid, George Bernier, Bob Nims, Deborah Christofori, and Mary Holland.

Notices

ALUMNI HOMECOMING:
Float parade route: Hagius Mall to Amity Street, North Pleasant Street, Mass. Avenue. Rally following parade at new Campus Center.

AMATEUR RADIO ASSOCIATION:
Amateur Radio Association meeting, Thursday, Oct 22nd, 7 PM in radio room Engineer Lab Bldg. Election and dues.

ASTRONOMY CLUB
Important meeting, 8 P.M. Wed., Oct. 21 st, room 134, Hasbrock Lab. Open house at Amherst Observatory is rescheduled for Friday, Oct. 23rd, meet at Hasbrock Lobby 7:30 PM

BICYCLE CLUB.
Important meeting Tuesday, Oct. 20th at 7:30 in room 165 of the Campus Center. Future trips and projects will be discussed. Please attend.

CEQ:
Birth Control Project group will meet tonight (Tues.) in room 171, Campus Center at 7 PM.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
Hear testimonies of how Christian Science has helped student cope with the problems of university life. Our meeting at 6:45 in room 911-915 Campus Center is open to everyone.

HARE KRISHNA
Join the Hare Krishna people in chating, a lecture and a play Thursday, Oct 22nd, 4-6 in Student Union Ballroom. Discussion period 6-8 PM in Colonial Lounge. Contact Lee Roth for further information 546-5024

INTEGROL YOGA INSTITUTE:
There will be an open class in Hatha Yoga, breathing, chanting and meditaion today 5:30-7:00 PM in the new Campus Center room 904-908. Please be prepared with a towel, empty stomach and loose fitting clothing.

MATH MAJORS:
Hear Professor Samuel Holland tell about "The Exploding Fol Hypervelocity Gun" or "Can A Mathematician Find Love and Happines In Industry" tomorrow at 3:30 in Arnold House.

MEHER BABA LEAGUE:
There will be a meeting Tuesday, 7:30 at Dr Rossman's office, 256 North Pleasant St to talk about Baba and Bruce Hoffman coming to talk on Baba

NAIADS.
Practice meeting tonight and tomorrow night, all members request to attend. Please bring money for club suits.

ORCHARD HILL,
Apple Corps meeting, Tuesday 8:30 PM, Grayson Lounge. Halloween will be discussed, everyone welcome

Each year it happens, someone gets stung. Halloween especially who will behung.

SOCCER
Help needed by Patrick from at least ten others to scrimmage the freshmen team Wednesday, Oct. 21st. wear dark colors.

SPANISH CLUB
Spanish Table meets for dinner on Tuesdays from 5-6 PM. in Hampshire Commons

UNDERGRADUATE DEUSTCH STUDENTEU
Important meeting Tuesday night at 8:00 in Campus Center Room 169. All interested students invited to attend.

LOST
Blue Sabena-Air travel bag-contains athletic equipment, if found bring to S. U. lost and found.

Gold colored Waltham Watch with black wristband. If found call 253-9366.

Lost on Thursday, black leather key case containing among other things, 3 VW keys. Finder please call 586-2251.

Black WALLET IN SAAB, Friday afternoon between Zayre and Southwest, from Chemistry 114 last year. Call Donna 546-9282.

Billfold initials RMR on outside. Lost Friday evening at Stockbridge Hall or Orchard Hill. CALL Rick 6-7600.

Silver puzzle ring, 8 piece, great sentimental value. Please call 323-6968.

FOUND:
Timex men's waterproof watch. Found between the pond and the Student Union, Monday noon. Claim at Student Union Lost and found.

YOUR AUTHORIZED DEALER
NORTHAMPTON VOLKSWAGEN, Inc.
• SALES
• SERVICE • PARTS
COMPLETE BODY SHOP
246 KING ST. (RTE 5) NORTHAMPTON
Your Authorized Dealer
584-8620 Open 9-9 — Sat. 9-5

Frye - Verde - Nunn Bush
Trim and Tailored or Rough and Ready
• • •
THE BOOT CELLAR
at
BOLLES
8 Main Street

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

Thorens, Teac, Garrard, PE Astec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, LPs, 8 track and other necessities. Amherst Audio. tf12-23

Sunderland — lovely new 3 bedrm. luxury modern kitchen with built-ins, old fashioned brick fireplace, gar., scenic lot, 5 min. U. of Mass $36,900. Sabloski Realtors. Tel. 253-7722. tf10-22

Kawasaki 1969 120H — quick change transmission, knobby tires, $275. Call Mark Davis 323-7611. tf10-20

1970 BSA 250 cc, 4000 miles $600. Call 6-9356, 6-9351. tf10-23

2 VW studded snowtires with rims, used one season, $35; also 6 to 12 volt power converter, $10. Call Bob 549-6737. tf10-20

Gk refrigerator, best offer. Call 665-3985. tf10-21

Gibson organ g650; EMC amp-perf II with 2 12B-1 HF horn, $400. Both 1 yr. old and like new. Call Mike 6-7867. tf10-20

STEREO TAPE CARTRIDGES 80 minute, two album tapes. Your choice. $15.00. Call Eliot at 665-7683 or Happy at 253-5699. Now get total music enjoyment at half the store price. tf10-22

KLH model no. 24 speakers $60. Call 586-9578. tf10-23

FOR SALE — AUTOS

1961 Falcon Conv., automatic, new tires, exhaust system, battery and starter, motor. Best offer. Call 546-9671. tf10-21

67 VW Bus newly rebuilt eng., new tires, battery, starter, exhaust system. Body in good cond. Must sell. Call 247-5434 after 5:00 p.m. tf10-21

1963 4-door Chevy, automatic, radio, heater, new snow tires, excellent transportation Only $150 Call 256-6436, Room 19 tf10-20

1968 Olds Cutlass conv., 4 spd., V8, mag wheels, Michelin tires, must sell, getting married. $1650.00. 546-5329. tf10-20

WANTED

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthology. Please include stamped return envelope. Idlewild Press, 1907 East Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

SERVICES

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car, 197 No. Pleasant St. 256-8125. tf12-23

HELP WANTED

Babysitter for two-year old girl in my home any two mornings per week. Call 253-7616. tf10-21

PERSONAL

Absentee Ballot Applications available, Conn. Call Michael Thompson, 318 Dwight. Speed essential. tf10-21

Jean, who is an art student and worked for Bob Kennedy, win a free pitcher of beer (or equivalent). Call 545-6457 eves. tf10-21

Reward: For info of whereabouts of Sony clock radio, Olivetti typewriter. Call 546-9282. tf10-23

ROOMMATES WANTED

Two coeds desire apt or roommates with apt. within 5 miles from campus. Call 665-3227 after 5. tf10-20

Upsetting Day In RI

THAT DARN (DARN???) RAM-After last Saturday's 14-7 loss to the University of Rhode Island Rams, UMass' football record dropped to a surprising low of 1-4. In scenes from that contest, URI's Grant Denniston (45 in left photo) has his eyes on the endzone but the Redmen's Bill Bush was more than a match for the halfback and stopped him short of his mark. In the photo at the right, Dick Cummings (30) of UMass grunts for every bit of running yardage he can muster as Rams Steve Moreau (27), Gary Sverker (77) and Dan Goldstein (88) clog up traffic. (MDC photos by Rich McIntyre)

Intramural Grid Stats

Top Rushers(on passes)
Zajac (3 M's)-30
Comway (GAK)-18
Fisichella (Dildoughs)-16
Weidhaas (Senators)-16
Stephen (Pines)-16
Nieves (Lemons)-16
Guglietti (Seagrams)-14
Summer (Pied Pipers)-14
Kona (Aces)-13

Top Receivers
DeCost (SPE)-41
Dellaville (Tubes)-40
Koerner (Hemlocks)-39
Rinyane (Smashers)-36
Brennan (Roadrunners)-28
McNamara (Lubees)-28
DeLuaggan (BX)-27
Lanata (ZN)-27
Falite (Pied Pipers)-26

Most Points
Brennan (Roadrunners)-97
Rinyane (Lubees)-87
Brown (Redwoods)-87
Whitten (Redwoods)-86
McLellan (Trojans)-82
Jordan (Smashers)-78
Lewis (PSD)-74
Dutkavicz (Pied Pipers)-68
Lowe (LCA)-56
Falite (Pied Pipers)-56
Dellaville (Tubes)-56

Top Offense
Roadrunners-309

Top Defense
Pied Pipers-6

Tonight's Intramurals

TUG-O-WAR

PIT	TIME	TEAMS
2	8:00	Lemons vs. Cougars
2	8:15	Alpha Chi Omega vs. Dogs
2	8:30	Lovers vs. Deacons

Frosh Crew

FROSH CREW CANDIDATES - Freshman crew candidates are still being welcomed by coach Mike Faherty. He can be contacted at his office, 215 Boyden, same as the intramural office.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

The Gemini grandmother can fool you. Where, earlier in life she may have scorned preparation of elaborate meals, she now becomes a gourmet. This grandmother continues to be restless and takes delight in traveling with grandchildren. Youngster love their Gemini grandmother because she has a ready laugh and is willing to condone breaking of some of the more strict rules.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Money and emotional stress could result in physical ailment. Means strive for balance. Remain cool, calm. Otherwise, you invite trouble, which has habit of accepting invitation.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): You gain most by adhering to rules. If flamboyant, there could be rude awakening. Some relatives seem to be taking much for granted. But this is not the time to draw line.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): If you must splurge, do so with those who mean something to you. Steer clear of those with ready smiles, laughs who couldn't care less. Relate to those who mean something to you.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): You may find that financial maneuvers are erratic. Without being boorish, take steps to protect personal interests. Do this or you may take a pratfall.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): If you expect status quo, you will be disappointed. Cycle features the unusual, persons who are unique and who may also be deceptive. Romance is in the picture.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Mixing money with personal desire could get you off track of profit. Means apply some self discipline. If you indulge yourself, be prepared to pay a steep price.

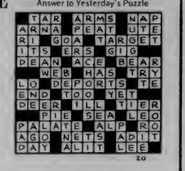
LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Some surprises due. Accent in this area on response from member of opposite sex. Self-esteem is on rise. Break ties which hold you down, deprive you of what you deserve.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): You may find way paved for journey which adds to knowledge and gain. Keep yourself open for challenge and experience. Stress independence, original approach.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Emotions tend to dominate logic. Do some hard figuring. Means find out whether what you are going through is worth it. Answer might be surprising — if you are honest.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Persons in decision-making capacity appear erratic. Be flexible. Don't lose sense of humor. If versatile, you will gain. Otherwise, you will be confused.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Be willing to tear down in order to rebuild. But time your moves. Pace is important. Key is moderation. Your potential is highlight. You are not married to present procedures.

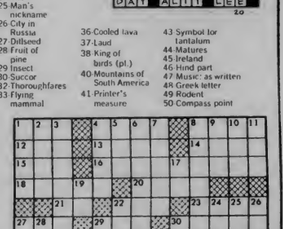


PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Not wise to trust others with your money. Absentee management could lead to difficulty. Realize this and respond accordingly. Communicate desires, needs in forthright manner.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are on verge of a new kind of life: more creative activity, more travel, added social prestige. Stop brooding and begin planning for a brighter future.

Copyright 1970, Gen. Fea. Corp.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE



Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

ACROSS
1 High mountain
4 Lane
8 Force
12 Cravat
13 Butter substitute (colloq.)
14 Great Lake
15 Be mistaken
16 Put an end to 18 Titles
20 Lease
21 Pronoun
22 Race of lettuce
23 Shakespearian character
27 Perform
29 Prohibit
30 Showy flower
31 Negative
32 Place
33 Small amount
34 Compass point
35 Growing out of 37 Cushion
38 Lamprey
39 Rip
40 Skill
41 Babylonian deity
42 Sicilian volcano
44 Ire
47 Scattering
51 Fatherhood
52 Pronoun
53 Slave
54 Period of time
55 River islands
56 Observes
57 Weight of India

5 Beverage
6 Fright
7 Domiciles
8 Oral surgeon
9 Man's name
10 Insect egg
11 Goal mound
17 Preposition
19 Latin conjunction
22 Household pet
24 Near
25 Man's nickname
26 City in Russia
27 Diffused
28 Fruit of pine
29 Insect
30 Succor
32 Thoroughfares
33 Flying mammal
36 Cooled lava
37 Laud
38 King of birds (pl.)
40 Mountains of South America
41 Printer's measure
43 Symbol for tantalum
44 Matures
45 Ireland
46 Hind part
47 Music: as written
48 Greek letter
49 Rodent
50 Compass point

DOWN
1 Solar disk
2 Unit of Italian currency
3 Allow
4 Vessels

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Redman Harriers Home For Meet With Springfield

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Sports

VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 29
TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1970

By EARLE BARROLL
Staff Reporter

Springfield College supplies the opposition for the UMass cross country team today in a meet beginning at 4 p.m. behind the Women's Physical Education Building.

Over the past three years the Redmen have been able to overpower the Chieftains with their depth in the third, fourth and fifth positions. Today's race should be a carbon copy of the past and a fourth victory of the year for the Redmen.

To solidify this observation compare these two race results against a common team, UConn. The Redmen shutout the Huskies at Connecticut, 15-48. The Chieftains ran against UConn at Springfield and just came away with a narrow 27-28 victory. These results speak for themselves.

Springfield does have two runners of note in teamcaptain Brad Kron and Roger Mofet. These two have been consistent performers for the Chieftains this season, but will not be enough alone to turn the tide onUMass in the final team tally.

For UMass there is only one question mark for today's race. Will Tom Jasmin be able to run? His system took a pretty rugged beating in Saturday's race against Boston College due to his running with cold and, if he has not recovered sufficiently, coach Ken O'Brien will keep him out of the race so that he'll be able to run for the re mainder of the season.

Today's race will be the last one that O'Brien will be able to withhold anyone from. From now on the pieces have to be put together. There are only two weeks until the conference championship, three weeks until the New England's and a month until the ICAA's.

Practice sessions as of yeaterday will be dedicated to harder work. There can be no more piece meal preparations for races as has been the case over the past month due to injuries and sickness to the runners.

Ron Wayne, Leo Duart and Larry Paulson, all seniors, have been running real well over the past few weeks. Right now these three are the heart of theUMass attack and O'Brien is hoping for marked improvement in his sophomores, Jasmin, Tom Swain, Rick Barry and Bob Sullivan to compliment these seniors and give the Redmen the small team time split that they will need in the big meets.

The freshmen will also berunning to day to lead off the program. The frosh shutout the B.C. freshmen on Saturday and will be out to duplicate their fete over the 3.6 mile freshman course.

Soccer Team Leaps To 4th Place In N. E.

By EDWARD DOHERTY
Staff Reporter

The UMass soccer team jumped five places in the New England ratings this past week to become the number four ranked team, and highest-rated Yankee Conference team in the history of the league.

The ratings were based on games up until Saturday, Oct. 10 and included UMass' victories over Maine, Boston College and Connecticut. Not included were the Redmen's recent triumph over Trinity, 2-0, and their 0-0 tie versus the University of Rhode Island over the weekend.

Here are the top teams in New England, with their records: 1. Harvard (2-0-0), 2. Brown (3-0-1), 3. Springfield (3-0-2), 4.UMass (3-0-0), 5. Vermont (1-0-4), 6. Bridgeport (1-2-1), 7. Dartmouth (1-2-2), 8. Westfield (3-0-0), 9. Worcester Tech (5-0-0) and 10. Williams (2-0-1).

In Saturday's game, played in frigid Kingston, R.I., the Redmen continued their unbeaten string to five games but failed to capitalize on their opportunities and settled instead for the draw.

Rhode Island was undoubtably the finest team the TRedmen encountered this season and UMass could have left Kingston with much worse than a tie.

In the first half of the game the Rams took the play to UMass and dominated the game. Although both teams had several corner kicks, neither squad was able to capitalize on them. The closest URI came to scoring was in the second quarter when the Rams' left wing almost banged a corner kick into the back of the goal only to be stopped by the fine effort of goal keeper Bill Leary.

LINDO ALVES DUANE BROWN
Leading Scorers Shut Out

For all practical purposes the Redmen began to play soccer in the second half only to be consistently turned back by fine goaltending and stingy defense.

Leading Conference scorers Lindo Alves and Duane Brown consistently pressured, a tiring Rhody defense throughout the last quarter and the double overtime periods. Marc Cantor and Rick Matusczak had the best scoring opportunities on either side, but the ball just wouldn't go in the net.

Coach Peter Broaca felt that the UMass team played very well and gave a fine team effort. He expressed admiration for the entire URI team, especially sophomore Joe Hooks and Crocher, who led the Ram attack.

The game still leaves the booters alone at the top of the Yankee Conference heap with a 4-0-1 record, 2-0-1 in the Conference, giving them five out of a possible six Conference points. The Rams are now 2-2-1 with a 0-1-2 Yan-Con mark, good for two points.

Sports Notices

FIELD HOCKEY - On Wednesday, Oct. 1, the Hampshire field Hockey Association will host the English Touring Team in an exhibition match, beginning at 3:30 p.m. at the Smith College Field House in Northampton. An opening ceremony will be held at 3:15. Admission for the entire event is $1. In case of rain, the game will b e played on Thursday, Oct. 22 at 3:15.

* * * *

INTRAMURAL CHAIRMEN - A reminder to all intramural athletic chairmen, basketball and bowling rosters are due today in the intramural office, 215 Boyden.

* * * *

IM OFFICIATING - Anyone interested in officiating intramural basketball games please sign up in the intramural office.

* * * *

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS - All women interested in signing up for women's intramural volleyball should do so this week.

* * * *

QUARTERBACK CLUB - The sixth (of 11) weekly UMass Redmen Quarterback Club Luncheon will be held at the Newman Center on Wednesday, Oct. 21 at 12:15, to let out promptly at 1:15. A film of the UMass-Rhode Island game will be shown. Also featured will be the awards for the offensive and defensive players of the week, a scouting report on Connecticut (UMass' next opponent), a door prize and a raffle of choice game tickets.

Jam The Toe

Going into the 1970 football season, Jan Stenerud of theKansas City Chiefs had never missed a field goal attempt of under 20 yards, according to an article in the current issue of SPORT Magazine. He had made 23 in a row from the 20-yard marker on in.

The SPORT article also credits Stenerud with a .703 lifetime percentage for his three years, highest in pro circles in recent years. His percentage was .583 in 1967, .750 in 1968 and .771 in 1969.

sPoRts — AP — ShorTiEs

NEW YORK (AP) - Ralph Houk, who led his New York Yankees out of five years of baseball oblivion this season, was named American League Manager of the Year by The Associated Press yesterday, beating out Earl Weaver of the world-champion Baltimore Orioles.

Houk received 118 votes of sports writers and broadcasters in a nationwide poll. Weaver, who guided the power-packed orioles to a runaway East Division title and then to a World Series triumph over the Cincinnati Reds, drew 73. Balloting was based on the regular season.

Bill Rigney, whose West Division champion Minnesota Twins were swept by Baltimore in the pennant playoffs, was third with 59 and Lefty Phillips of the West's runnerup California Angels was fourth with 32.

Dave Bristol of Milwaukee got three votes and Ted Williams of Washington, who won the honor last year, received two. Five others got one vote each.

"I was very surprised," Houk said when informed of the balloting at his home in Pompano Beach, Fla. "I assumed that Weaver would get it. If the Yankees deserve it, it belongs to the ballplayers and not to me."

* * * * * *

NEW YORK (AP) - Baseball's inter league trading period, expanded by more than a month this year, begins today with the promise of vigorous activity through the Dec. 15 deadline.

Major league owners have moved up the opening date for trading between the American and National leagues from Nov. 21 to the fifth day following the end of the World Series.

Judging from the intra-league dealings that took place before and during the Series, there will be several more headline transactions from today through the annual winter meetings at Los Angeles in December.

Richie Allen, Denny McLain and Tony Conigliaro moved to new clubs and Curt Flood popped back into the spotlight within a week's time as the traders made the most of their opportunities to negotiate during the pennant playoffs and the Series.

The next big name blown into the trade winds could be Frank Robinson who, at 35, might be deemed expendable by the world champion Baltimore Orioles despite his vital contribution to their second Series triumph in five years.

There have been reports that the Orioles, six deep in outfield talent, would be willing to part with Robinson in return for a solid starting pitcher to go with their Big Three of Mike Cuellar, Dave McNally and Jim Palmer.

* * * * * *

NEW YORK (AP) - Quarterback Joe Namath of the New York Jets suffered a broken bone in his right wrist during Sunday's loss to the Baltimore Colts, X-rays showed yesterday.

Namath, who throws with his right hand, was expected to have the hand put in a cast today after the swelling goes down. A team spokesman said he probably would miss this Sunday's game against Buffalo.

The X-rays showed a fracture of the small bone at the base of the thumb. Namath suffered it five plays from the end of the 29-22 loss when he threw an incomplete pass and was pressured by lineman Billy Ray Smith and twisted while falling to the ground.

Namath remained in the game and wound up throwing 62 passes, a club record, with 34 completions, another record. However, the shaggy-haired quarterback was intercepted six times.

Without Namath, second year quarterback Al Woodall seemed the likely replacement.

* * * * * *

NEW YORK (AP) - A televised heavyweight boxing doubleheader featuring the championship match between Joe Frazier and Bob Foster, was announced yesterday by Harry Markson, director of boxing for Madison Square Garden.

Frazier will defend his title against light heavyweight champ Bob Foster at Detroit's Cobo Hall on Wednesday, Nov. 18. On the same night, the Garden will feature a heavyweight bout between two top contenders, unbeaten George Foreman and Boone Kirkman.

* * * * * *

MIAMI BEACH (AP) - It's the "newsouth" when the wife of a pro basketball team owner can plant pregame kisses on the strapping athletes-white and black-with little, if any, notice.

"Come on over honey and get your kiss," shouted Mrs. Ned Doyle to Larry Jones, the American Basketball Association's career scoring leader.

"Hey, Mack Clavin. Don't be bashful."

Doyle's team is rare in many respects. Last year, the Floridians went 21-63 and were pro basketball's worst team. The millionaire ad agency whiz purchased the floundering club and - in a rare bit of philosophy - 'fired the team' and kept the coach.

* * * * * *

BOSTON (AP) - The Boston Patriots of the National Football League announced formally yesterday they will make their first appearance in the new 62,000 seat stadium in Foxboro in an exhibition game with the New York Giants the weekend of Aug. 13-15 next year.

Patriots President Bill Sullivan told a news conference that the stadium is expected to be ready the exact date of the game and will be set later. The Giants defeated Boston 16-0 in a regular NFL game Sunday, the first meeting in history between the two clubs.

The Stadium Realty Trust, established to build the $6 million stadium now under construction, announced that American Biltrite Rubber Co., Inc., has been awarded a contract to install 74,000 square feet of Poly-Turf, a synthetic grass, for the playing field. The turf is the same as in the Orange Bowl in Miami.

* * * * * *

MDC

SPORTS HOTLINE
5-0344

Last Night's Intramurals

FOOTBALL
Trojans 44, Lemons 0
Flaming A's 7, Bears 0
Aves over Oaks, wbf
Seagrams 7, Lions 0
Comanchees over Spartans, wbf
Panthers 20, Senators 0
Monuments and Bulldozers, df
Terrors over Crushers, wbf
Team 20, Lifers 6
Dildoughs 12, Cult 6
Oxfords 12, BX 7
PMD 49, TX 6

TUG-O-WAR
3 M's 2, Bulldogs 0
Browns 2, Tubes 0
BX 2, Dildoughs 0
Oxfords over GAK, wbf
KS 2, PSD 1
BKP 2, TEP 0
DX over TX, wbf
SE over PSK, wbf
PMD over PLP, wbf
LXA over SAE, wbf
Pipers over Redwoods, wbf
Seagrams 2, Cougars 0
Dogs and Maroons, df
Terrors and Academics, df

Tonight's Intramurals

FOOTBALL PLAYOFFS

FIELD	TIME	TEAMS
1	7:30	PMD vs. KS
2	7:30	Trojans vs. Redwoods
3	7:30	Senators vs. Panthers

Say Hey???

Willie Mays was preparing to portray himself on a television show when a nervous young director asked how he planned to do it.

Willie's answer, quoted in the current issue of SPORT Magazine, was "I'll tell you, just turn on the camera and if it isn't me, let me know."

More Sports On Page 11

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 30 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1970

Cage Rally Set Friday For Kent State 25

see page three

Algeria Grants Timothy Leary Political Asylum details, page five

EXPLAINING THE VALUE of a student employees union last night, Barry Rand and John Barbaro tell the small turnout that better wages and job security can be gained by organizing. For the complete story, see page two. (MDC photo by Ed Fenwick)

Three Bomb Scares Briefly Disrupt

Hasbrouck, Mahar, and Boyden were briefly evacuated yesterday after phone calls were received reporting bombs. There were no bombs discovered and classes were normal for the most of the day at all three buildings.

The first call came into the University switchboard yesterday morning at 9:00 a.m. The un-identified caller informed the operator that a bomb should explode in Hasbrouck Hall at 9:15 a.m. The building was immediately evacuated. After a half hour had passed the building was declared safe and classes went on.

At 11:15 the operator at the School of Business switchboard was told by a "male caller" that there was a bomb in Mahar auditorium. The University police cleared the building and conducted a fruitless search after which the class, which bahad been disruped returned.

Later in the afternoon, a similiar bomb threat was received concerning Boyden gym. The classes were disrupted briefly.

Yesterday's threats are the latest in a series of "scares" at the University.

BOYDEN STUDENTS here shown had classes slightly disrupted yesterday by another in a series of bomb scares that have occurred in recent weeks.

Students Meet To Unionize

by Karen DeGrace
Staff Reporter

Some student workers want to unionize. But "some" isn't enough.

Before a group of twenty fellow workers, John Barbero and Barry Rand , part-time student technician , expressed their dissatisfaction with student working conditions. The entire system of student employment is geared towards perpetuation of management's organization, they said, and not toward student interests. But , they feel, a Student Employee's Union could remedy this situation.

The size of last night's crowd was, perhaps, and indication of student fear - a fear of losing present jobs. But, it was explained by Rand, such fear is ungrounded.

The law states that management may not fire an employee for the reason of attempted organization. It is true, however, that dismissal maybe grounded upon other contract reasons. But were a student to be fired now for attempting to organize, there would definitely be a thorough investigation of the matter, and explicit documentation would have to be presented before a student could face unemployment.

Barbaro and Rand led the discussion of typical student worker's complaints. Part-time student workers have no benefits and no job security, they say. They are paid twice monthly, rather than on a weekly basis. They are not given an adequate explanation of what a particular job entails. Some students feel that they are underpaid. In short, they feel that management is taking advantage of them.

A possible solution to such problems is the organization of a Student Employee's Union he said.

But more than 50 per cent participation of an employing unit is necessary if a union is to be formed.

Barbara and Rand had envisioned a union incorporating all campus student workers. If, due to lack of support, this is not possible, the unit will be narrowed down. At present, plans are being made to form a technician's union; this could well be the nucleus for a larger campus union.

It was felt that lack of support last night was due not merely to fear of future unemployment but also to student contentment with a recent pay hike.

The union now being planned is not to be a formal union (which could legally insist that students work during vacations and on weekends as a rationale for equality with full-time workers). Rather, it is to be a union with new criteria to fit the needs and conditions peculiar to the students.

The students say they aren't trying to be unreasonable; they simply want to be more responsible for their working conditions.

SAM Plans Coed Frat

By Denise Magnell
Monday Issue Editor

"We want a realistic living experience, not just a social club," the brothers of Sigma Alpha Mu seemed to agree last night at their open community meeting with girls interested in forming UMass' first co-ed fraternity.

The co-ed proposal was initially brought before the members of the house about five weeks ago. Its acceptance was nearly unanimous, the main objection of those dissenting voters that they would not be able to act like themselves if the house went co-ed. However, Prior Mark Brenner contends that "girls sometimes feel the same within the confines of their own dorms."

The female brothers would be given equal rights and equal responsibilities within the UMass chapter but cannot yet be considered a part of the national organization.

ThenationalSigma Alpha Mu has left the decision of becoming co-ed up to the discretion of each local chapter throughout the country. Cornell was the first to try the new concept a year ago, with success.

"We're not necessarily doing anything opposite to the fraternity system, but taking the best it has to offer and enhancing it," said Brenner.

Co-ed Co-ordinator Bob Nims added, "In a dorm you don't have a responsibility to one another. We want to go further than establishing a residence. Here we are trying to build something of a feeling, one that can be extended to the opposite sex."

People who act themselves will be selected as EAM pledges. The brothers realize the problem of the rush period is not getting to know people well enough in such a short period of time. To help them judge female rushees fairly, the fraternity has enlisted the help of four hostesses, girls who have worked with the brotherhood through and social events, etc., and understand what the men are looking for in a co-ed fraternity.

As cited in the "Octagonian" (national newsletter of Sigma Alpha Mu), a problem of the co-ed fraternity may be that the girls relate to the male brotherhood but not to the other girls in the group.

"Girls have an insight into other girls' behavior, a distinct advantage over those who haven't lived with women," said Brenner on the hostesses' role.

That role will be a liason between both groups, showing the girls what the house is really like and helping the men judge those rughing by going beyond appearances and seeing the girls as the individuals they are.

Serious dating among fraternity members will be strongly discouraged to preserve a genuine friendship atmosphere.

YOUR AUTHORIZED DEALER
NORTHAMPTON VOLKSWAGEN, Inc.
• SALES • SERVICE • PARTS
COMPLETE BODY SHOP
246 KING ST. (RTE 5) NORTHAMPTON
Your Authorized Dealer
584-8620 Open 9-9 — Sat. 9-5

Fine Arts Council 1970/71 Series
EVENTS
BOWKER AUDITORIUM/UNIV. OF MASS.
Tuesday - Wednesday, October 20 - 21
NATHAN MILSTEIN
"The Master Violinist" ..... N.Y. Times
Two entirely different programs each evening at 8:00 p.m. including Sonatas by Brahms, Handel, Vivaldi and Bach.
Reserved Tickets: $1.00 to $3.00
Fine Arts Council, 125 Herter Hall
Tel. 545-0202. Save up to 40% by ordering Season Tickets — five events!

Spectrum Open House
Wednesday, October 21st
Room 409 Student Union
9 A.M. to 9 P.M.
SPECTRUM, the undergraduate magazine, will be having an open recruitment meeting for all potential contributors, staff members, and people interested in the future of the magazine.

☆ Only ☆ certain Americans can buy new Freedom Shares
☆ ASK WHERE YOU WORK OR BANK ☆

EVELYN WOOD
READING DYNAMICS
Speed reading and study skills course
We guarantee to triple your reading ability or refund your tuition.
ATTEND A FREE MINI-LESSON AT
Wesley Methodist Church, 365 N. Pleasant St.
7:00 P.M
Wednesday, October 21st
Thursday, October 22nd
For further information call Dave Cichon 586-0945

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor).
Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $7.50 per semester, $14.00 per year.

UM Students Demonstrate Friday, Support Accused At Kent State

By CARYN ZAHN
Staff Reporter

UMass students will be asked to stand in "Solidarity with the Kent State 25," this Friday, said Sid Finehersh, MOBE spokesman, last night at the MOBE meeting, in the Student Union Council Chambers.

As a result of the indictments of the twenty-five Kent students (details elsewhere on this page), at 2:00 Friday afternoon in the Cage, a rally will be held. "This rally," said Finehersh, "will protest the fantastic white-wash of civil liberties that Kent is now an amazing portrayal of. Throughout the country students will be protesting, UMass will be amongst them," explained Finehersh.

Last May in the same room with approximately the same number of people a Strike was born. This has the same potential, according to the MOBE.

Another SMC project of importance further planned at last nights meeting is their call for action slated for October 29, 30 and 31. To help build massive response to vote C on the Massachusetts Referendum on October 3, the SMC is trying to organize the students who will then go out to the communities and to the voters.

At the Campus Pond, Thursday Night October 29, a rally in the support of the referendum will be held. On Friday there will be workshops and people will go into area communities. Then, on Saturday, another rally is slated.

At each event, the Committee has made it clear that these will be anti-war rallies and that the speakers will not deviate fromthe anti-war subject. Nor, as happened last April 15, will any of the speakers deem it upon themselves to collect for their own organizations, the organizers stress.

Although the number of people at last nights meeting was not what should have been, according to the MOBE, these people are committed and are working for their commitment.This is a commitment which each student who struck last semester should advocate and which all workers should share, spokesman for the group said last night.

The Strike is over but the MOBE is far from being over. These people are working and working and working and will not cease work until Vietnams are forever over and Kent States and wars and, according to the MOBE, till the necessity for their existence is over, Finehersh concluded.

White House Stumping—
Nixon Hits North On Southern Swing

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) - President Nixon took his Republican campaign into three more states Tuesday. In the South he hit out at compulsory school busing, and in the Midwest he urged Indiana voters to give him another GOP senator.

Nixon found rain at every stop but crowds plentiful, and he declared, "When they'll stand in the rain, that means we're going to win."

Nixon who spent Monday night in Kansas City, where fog was the rule, went on from there Tuesday morning to fly through choppy rain clouds to Johnson City, Tenn.; Asheville, N.C., and Fort Wayne, Ind., before heading back to Washington.

Despite the weather, crowds of up to 15,000 and more greeted him at each stop.

In reaffirming before an Asheville audience his long standing opposition to compulsory busing to achieve school desegregation, he drew his strong applause by asserting his leaning toward "the neighborhood school" - the one closest to a student's home.

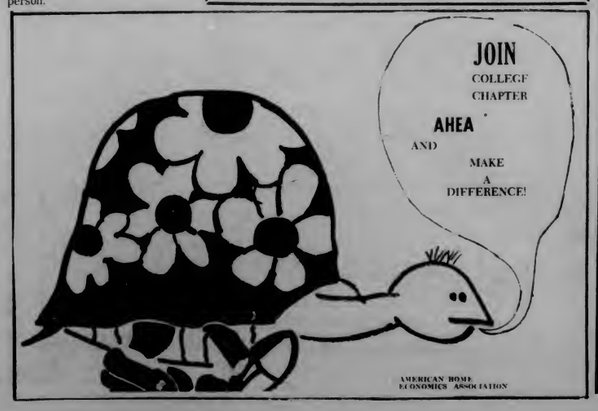
He also hit out at foreign textile competition.

In predominantly Republican eastern Tennessee - the first border state on his pre election itinerary - he regaled against senators who would vote against presidential nominees for federal judgeships who are strict in interpreting the meaning of the Constitution.

In Indiana, where he was boosting the U.S. Senate bid of Rep. Richard L. Roudebush, perhaps the President had to say nothing more than he did to a crowd of more than 10,000 that jammed the Fort Wayne Coliseum:

"My mother used to talk about 'back home in Indiana.' " Because hundreds who couldn't get seats in the Coliseum were listening to his voice on loudspeakers in a large basement room.

Agnew In '76?



BALTIMORE (AP) - Republican National Chairman Rogers C.B. Morton said Tuesday night he would not only renominate Spiro T. Agnew for vice- president in 1972, but "in 1976 I intend to nominate him for the presidency."

Morton made the remarks at a Republican fund raising dinner with Agnew on hand campaigning for GOP gubernatorial and senatorial candidates in his home state of Maryland.

Morton, also a Maryland congressman, said Agnew had done more for the Republican party "from the viewpoint of the United States" than any other person.

EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO SKI
Tennis - Soccer - Football - Hockey
including professional fitting at WESTERN VILLAGE SKI SHOP
Western Auto
32 Main St., Northampton

Large Draft Hour
12 oz. BEER 15¢ 12 oz. BEER
9:00-10:00 Tonight — 2 Pizza Slices 25¢
then
THE FABULOUS "D J" til 1:00
at the
ALL NEW MEADOW INN
Rt. 47 (Come see our new bar) Sunderland

Grand Jury Acts
Indictments Served For Kent State Unrest

KENT, Ohio (AP) - More indictments returned by a special state grand jury investigating the May disturbances at Kent State University were served Tuesday as student and faculty organizations called for a federal grand jury probe.

Four days of disorders ended May 4 with the shooting deaths of four students and wounding of nine in a confrontation between Ohio National Guard troops and rock throwing anti-war demonstrators on the Kent State campus.

The state grand jury indicted 25 persons, but exonerated the National Guard in its report issued Friday. Seven of the indictments had been served by Tuesday afternoon.

The KSU Faculty Senate, Student Senate and Graduate Student Council called for the federal investigation in a joint statement in which they said the state jury exceeded "the boundaries of its legal responsibilities."

Two former Kent State students and a man who never attended the university turned themselves in to the Portage County sheriff at Ravenna Tuesday and were served with endictments.

Larry A. Shub, 19, Cleveland Heights, a Kent State freshman last spring and now enrolled at Cuyahoga Community College in Cleveland, was accompanied to the sheriff's office by his father, Murry. He was indicted on charges of first and second degree riot and attempting to burn property.

Douglas Cormack, 20, Wiloughby, indicted on charges of first degree riot, interference with a fireman and throwing rocks at firemen, was accompanied by his wife when he surrendered to the sheriff.

Alan Canfora, 21, Barberton, one of the nine students wounded in the May 4 confrontation, was accompanied by his parents and attorney when he went to the sheriff's office. He was indicted on a charge of second degree riot.

Canfora who is not enrolled at KSU for the fall quarter, was arrested Sept. 18 on three counts of selling hallucinogenic drugs. He was released on bond and is scheduled for a court appearance next week.

Indictments were served Monday on four persons, including Craig Morgan, 20, Columbus, president of the KSU student government. and Dr. Thomas S. Lough, 42, an associate professor of sociology and anthropology.

Senate Elections are Not Over

BY ELECTIONS

Nomination Papers — Open Friday Oct. 16th

Nomination Papers — Closed Friday Oct. 23rd

Elections — Thursday — Oct. 29th

LEACH	1 seat
BRETT	2 seats
COOLIDGE Middle	1 seat
COOLIDGE Lower	1 seat
JOHN ADAMS Upper	1 seat
BAKER	1 seat
FIELD	1 seat
GRAYSON	1 seat
MACKIMMIE	1 seat

GET OUT AND VOTE!

W. J. B.

In The Nation And The World

Governor's Report Calls For Court Reform

BOSTON (AP) - "We have concluded that certain lower criminal courts in Greater Boston seriously abuse principles of fairness and due process," a report submitted to a governor's committee said Tuesday.

The report, a 150 page analytical study prepared by the Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights under Law, offered a series of recommendations for reform of the lower criminal court system in Boston and statewide.

The conclusions were submitted to the Governor's Committee on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice at a news conference.

Among other complaints, the authors of the report charged "a man's finances are more important than the circumstances surrounding the criminal charge" and, "the lower court process permits and indirectly encourages wide variations in the quality of justice dispensed in the separate district courts."

The authors of the report, Stephen R. Bing and S. Stephen Rosenfeld, said they based their study on court and probation records in the six metropolitan Boston courts for a six month period in 1966. The study contered on a random 20 per cent of the cases, involving 1,428 defendants charged with a total of 2,192 crimes.

The authors claimed that their study "represents the most comprehensive and systematic analysis of a lower criminal court system under taken anywhere in the country." They asserted it provides a general evaluation of the performance of the system, rather than the more common catalogue of "anecdotes" detailing specific instances of abuse. Among other conclusions of the report:

-"Little attention is paid to the rights of the plight of the poor. The are discriminated against at almost every turn."

-The municipal criminal courts "are poor people's courts. People in poverty constitute a majority of the defendants charged and tried in the lower criminal courts....And poverty predominates in suburban criminal courts as well as the urban courts...."

-"Lawyers assigned to the poor are too overworked, spreadtoo thin to prepare their cases with the care often required."

-"Censuring judges, or even replacing certain judges, would bring no guarantee that the quality of judging would there after improve. We must discard the illusion that curing the abuses of a few men, by itself will do. We must instead address a system that allows the objectionable practices of those men to go uncorrected."

-"One of the most serious deficiencies of the system is the perpetuation of the trial de novo system. Trial de novo shields judicial abuse from appellate scrutiny. It provides an entirely new trial that wipes away the district court trial and its errors."

In Massachusetts the de novo system provides that a defendant convicted in district court can request a new trial in Superior Court. The new trial, however, is not an appeal in the usual sense, since all issues of law and fact are tried again before a jury, and the disposition of the case in the district court is not specifically reviewed. This system, the authors claimed, allows abuses to go uncorrected at the lower level.

The report also noted that the vast majority of district court defendants, who are not tried before a jury do not assert their right to a trial de novo.

"Ninety six per cent of all criminal matters in the state are finally disposed of at the district court level," the study claimed.

The report asserted, "A combination of influences and circumstances discourages" defendants, particularly the poor, from seeking the new trials.

Among the circumstances cited were the costs of legal representation and, "in most cases the offer of a suspended sentence beckons the defendant to let the new trial pass, especially when he is told by the judge that his appeal will 'force' the execution of the jail sentence he might escape by foregoing his trial de novo."

The report urged elimination of the trial de novo system.

Study Finds Students Prone To Disorders

CAMBRIDGE, (AP) - The higher the academic potential of a Harvard Student, the more likely he is to drop out for psychiatric reasons, according to a study.

Dr. Armand M. Nicholi, a Harvard Medical School psychiatrist, said his five year study spanned 1,454 students who dropped out of Harvard College between 1955 and 1960.

"Emotional illness far out weighs every other cause for leaving college," Nicholi said.

"More than 43 per cent of the sample left for psychiatric reasons."

Nicholi defined a "psychiatric dropout" as a student who consulted a psychiatrist before leaving and who was given a specific psychiatric diagnosis.

"The data demonstrate clearly that the psychiatric dropouts are more intelligent as a group than those leaving college for any other reason," he said.

"The relationship of high intelligence to psychiatric disorder among the dropouts was further demonstrated within each major field of study."

Nicholi said most of the psychiatric dropouts who left Harvard did so because of "depression."

He also said that students with a private preparatory school background have a high or probability of dropping out and the dropout sample had a significantly higher percentage of divorced and deceased parents than the general undergraduate population.

"Those students are often plagued with the fear that they are not really very bright," Nicholi said, adding that the potential dropout "can no longer tolerate the loneliness of his work; neither can he tolerate the competitive anxiety prevoked by close contact with colleagues.

"He withdraws into himself. His work rapidly deteriorites. He becomes overwhelmed with guilt and despair. . . A paralyzing state of depression ensues and leaving college appears the only recourse that promises relief." The study indicated that about 90 percent of the dropouts return to Harvard at sometime, but only 48 per cent graduate.

LISTEN

CLEAN LIVING & Folksinger at the GLASS ONION

SATURDAY NITE
OCT. 24
Berkshire Commons
8:30-12:30

Bored . . . .

"TRY BAMBOO-ING"

HOW TO "BAMBOO":

1. Hop in your car, or jog, to King Street, enter the Hotel Northampton and Wiggins Tavern . . .
2. Inside, follow the sign of the "Hut", down the stairs where you will be greeted by "Samantha" . . .
3. Now . . . Relax and enjoy the Hawaiian background music and delight in the exotic Polynesian and Oriental dishes

Now YOU'RE LIVING
and
Now YOU'RE "BAMBOO-ING"
at

THE BAMBOO HUT

Hotel Northampton & Wiggins Tavern
Northampton, Massachusetts
584-3100

Notes for the mid-term
SOCIOLOGY 101
Student Union Lobby
TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY — 10:00 to 4:00
Sponsored by Flying Redmen

• 3 THEATRES UNDER 1 ROOF •
Campus Cinemas
256-6411
AMHERST-HADLEY LINE

1 7 - 9:15 SAT, SUN. 2, 4:15, 7, 9:15
The Ultimate Experience
Fantasia

2 NIGHTLY AT 7 - 9:15
SUN. MAT. AT 2
From the author of "Airport"
HOTEL

3 7 - 9:15 SUN. MAT. AT 2
A MIKE NICHOLS FILM
ALAN ARKIN
CATCH-22

SELF-DEVELOPMENT THROUGH SELF-KNOWLEDGE
Axiometric analysis of judgmental abilities shows strengths and weaknesses in judgment, problem-solving, concentration, value capacities.
Write
AXIOMETRIC TESTING SERVICE
689 EAST HUNT ROAD
ALCOA, TENNESSEE 37701

Interested in starting a UMASS
BRIDGE CLUB ?
Come to the open meeting
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 21st
Room 815 Campus Center at 7:00 P.M.
Sponsored by Campus Center Program Council

POLITICS OF THE TUBE-Sidney Kraus of the Speech Department discussed the media and elections during a part of the Government department's Election '70 program last night. (MDC photo by Ed Fenwick)

Leary Ends Trip Crashes In Algeria

ALGIERS (AP)-Algeria has granted political asylum to Dr. Timothy Leary, the prophet of LSD who escaped from prison in San Luis Obispo, Calif., on Sept. 12, the official Algerian news agency said Tuesday night.

Algeria Press Service said Leary had arrived in Algeria "recently," with his wife, Rosemary.

He intends to work with the Algiers office of the Black Panther party, opened recently by the Panthers' information minister, Eldridge Cleaver, it was understood.

In New York, a spokesman for the Youth International Party-Yippies-said Leary would hold a news conference Thursday in Algiers.

At San Luis Obispo Leary was serving a term for marijuana possession at a minimum security prison, a fenced in cluster of dormitories and workshops in hills near the ocean about 200 miles north of Los Angeles.

The 50 year old former Harvard University lecturer was under sentence of 6 1/2 months to 10 years on the marijuana possession conviction. He also faced a 10 year prison sentence in Texas on conviction of smuggling marijuana into the United States from Mexico. Officials at the prison said he had been transferred there because it was not believed he would attempt to escape. The underground revolutionary organization, the Weathermen, claimed to have aided in his getaway.

Cleaver, who now lives in Algiers, jumped $50,000 bail and fled the United States in 1968.

Index Waits

The final shipment of the 1970 Index, the University's 100 year-old yearbook, has arrived in Amherst, and is ready for distribution.

Editor Tom Leavitt urges all students who were here both semesters last year to claim their book if they have not already done so in the Index office in the Student Union.

Election '70

Kraus-Media A Political Force

By LINDA A. BALICKI
Staff Reporter

What would have happened to the Humphrey campaign if the cameras had gone dark in Chicago? What were the real effects of the Great Debate of 1960 between Nixon and Kennedy on the outcome of that election? How was the fall and rise of MNixon accomplished in the space of six short years?

Answers to these and other questions were the topics discussed at the Election '70 Workshop, "Campaigning and the Media," held in a crowded Thompson Hall last night.

Sidney Kraus, Professor of Speech pointed out that the effect upon election outcomes of television exposure has increased to such a degree in recent years that most television campaigns are aimed "to sell a product." This was evidenced by an increase in television expenditures from a combined Kennedy-Nixon total in 1960 of twenty million to a combined total of thirty-eight million dollars in the Nixon-Humphrey campaign.

Kraus also stated that television has come to play a great role in "creating a candidate" by spotlighting a relatively unknown political figure. As a result of this coverage, the figure is placed in a position of national prominence and therefore takes on the image of a prospective political candidate.

Last night's workshop was one of a series currently being held under the sponsorship of Elections '70, a project designed to encourage student participation in the upcoming November elections. Organized through the volunteer efforts of graduate and undergraduate students in the department of government, it serves as an information clearinghouse between UMass students, the candidate and their campaigns.

Through contact with over 350 candidates for election this November, Elections '70 has obtained information about contests, issues, records, and qualifications which students may use in the selection of the candidate they wish to work for. For those who already favor a particular candidate, project coordinator John Howe stated that "We have investigated how the candidates think the students can help them most effectively, and whom they should contact.

BELL'S Has a Better Idea!
HOT OVEN GRINDERS
(all made with cheese at no extra cost)
Stuffed with: peppers, onions, lettuce and tomatoes
BELL'S PIZZA
"The Best Pizza In Town"
University Drive
FREE DELIVERY OF PIZZA
Call 256-8011 or 253-9051

A 15 MILE RIDE TO SAVE!
FROM AMHERST FOLLOW RT. 9 TO WARE (APROX. 15 MILES) TURN RIGHT ON RT. 32 WARE CENTER ...MALS 1 MILE ON RT. 32....50,000 SQ. FT. OF SAVINGS!
FAMOUS NAMES AT BIG SAVINGS FOR GUYS'N GALS
•BELL BOTTOMS
•BODY SHIRTS
•SNEAKERS
•BOOTS
EVERYTHING!
DIRT CHEAP!

OPEN' TILL 10
mals
DISCOUNT DEPT. STORE
PHILLIP PLAZA
ROUTE 32, WARE

YANOO PRESENTS
FILLMORE NORTH
A FESTIVAL FOR HOMECOMING
featuring:
JACK VERONESI
CLEAN LIVING and the CAPTAIN VIDEO LIGHTSHOW
A CELEBRATION OF MUSIC AND LIGHT
THIS FRIDAY at 8:30
S.U. BALLROOM
ADMISSION ONLY $1

RAFI
REGIONAL ALLIANCE FOR THE FUTURE OF ISRAEL
presents
Mr. Jonathan Brandow
(Brown University) to speak on:
A RADICAL SOCIALIST PERSPECTIVE ON THE MIDDLE EAST
Wednesday, October 21
8:00 P.M., Campus Center Rm. 165-169
All are welcome

ONLY MINUTES AWAY VIA RT 91 OR MASS. PIKE master charge HONORED HERE
ACRES FREE PARKING
RECLINING ROCKER LOUNGES
2 ART GALLERIES
GROUP RATES

Showcase Cinemas 1&2&3
RT 5 RIVERDALE RD. W. SPFLD. 733-5131
CHILD $1
2 Barbra Streisand Yves Montand
On A Clear Day You Can See Forever
Mon-Fri 2, 7, 25, 9:50 G
Sat & Sun 2, 4, 45, 7:25, 9:50
1 "THE FUNNIEST MOVIE I'VE SEEN THIS YEAR!" New York Post
Mon. - Fri 2-7:30-9:40
Sat. & Sun 1-3:5:10-7:20-9:40
LOVERS AND OTHER STRANGERS R

WE ARE ONLY MINUTES AWAY.. WHY SETTLE FOR LESS THAN THE BEST!

"JOE" R
IS A RIP-SNORTER. A TRIUMPH!"
"BRILLIANTLY CONCEIVED, DEVASTATINGLY FUNNY!"
Mon-Fri: 2-7:35-9:40
Sat. & Sun: 1:30-3:30-5:35 7:35-9:40

THE ALUMNI ARE COMING!
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23: FLOAT PARADE 6:30 – Rally at C.C. following parade
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24: PARACHUTE EXHIBITION 11:45 - 12:30
en route to UMass - UConn game

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
Student Union University of Massachusetts - Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR IN CHIEF — Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR — Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER — Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR — Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR — John Sullivan

PHOTO EDITOR — Steve Schmidt
ADVERTISING MANAGER — John Fayad

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Mark Silverman
NEWS STAFF — Diana Traywick, Denise Magnell, Mike Aroian
DARKROOM — Ken Emory, Ed Fenwick
SPORTS — Ken Littman
AD LAYOUT — Sherry Morse
EDITORIAL — Ed Bryant

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

"He's Still There"

Mark Silverman

The Worthless Medium

(Editor's note-This is the final part of a four part series on the mythical reality of television.)

The best show I ever saw on television was not on any of the three networks, but was a National Educational Television production, shown over Boston's educational station, Channel two.

It was merely a series of vignettes of three persons traveling across the country, separated by the raccounturing of Jean Shepard and occasional makebelieve commercials.

It was the only thing I've seen on television that didn't have a tightly polished script dealing with almost real situations with totally perfect and totally imperfect people simmulating living a very poor imitation of life. It was not an overtly moral or immoral passion play and it did not talk down to me or make me feel uninformed.

The show described several moods, didn't have a lot of foolish dialogue to get in the way and came closer to portraying events and situations I could identify with than anything else I've ever seen on T.V.

The point of all of this of course is that most network shows have no real similarity to real life. Their contrivances, their plots and their use of contemporary jargon simply is so unreal and inaccurate that the shows become jokes and a viewer can't help but laugh at a plot which is supposed to interest him.

But shows are produced for special audiences, audiences which are likely to be watching at the time the shows are on and audiences which might buy the show's sponsor's product.

Because of this basic economic fact of broadcasting, it will always be the American middle class, its values and its tastes, which will determine what kinds of shows are broadcast during prime-time each night.

Clearly, the American middle class has values and tastes which differ greatly from that of the generation which grew up sitting in front of the tube. Thus the great irony of the first kinnescope generation is that its people were conditioned to watch television as they grew up, learned about the values and mores of adult society as they grew up, but can find nothing on television which really interests them now that they have grown out of adolesence.

This situation will not change while the present generation of writers, directors and producers continue to dominate the television industry, for they cannot possibly understand a generation of people who were brought into society with a different method of socialization from the one which emasculated them into the adult world.

And since there is nothing believable or real to watch for the television generation anymore, the people who in the past spent so much time in front of the tube no longer watch very much television at all.

Television no longer portrays the real world for them, and, if anything, simply represents the trappings of a culture of which they no longer want to be a part.

Pregnant Mice Bum Out On Grass

Marijuana is one of the oldest and most widely used drugs known to man. Yet scientists know less about its safety than they do about many newer drugs. Last week, at a hearing of a committee that is evaluating New York state marijuana laws, a pharmacologist reported findings from his experiments on animals that raise serious questions about the safety of marijuana. What his experiments on pregnant mice and rats mean for humans is not entirely clear. But other recent reports in medical journals indicate that some physicians are becoming increasingly concerned about the possible adverse effects of marijuana in man.

Dr. Vincent dePaul Lynch told the New York committee that pregnant rats that breathed marijuana smoke at the equivalent of one cigarette a day for 10 days in his laboratory at St. John's University here, had produced offspring with serious genetic defects. Dr. Lynch, whose field is toxic and adverse reactions of drugs on the brain, said in an interview that about 20 per cent of the mice whose mothers had smoked marijuana during their pregnancy were born with cleft palates and defective jaws. This congenital damage, he said, was not limited to smoking during any specific period of pregnancy.

More disturbing to Dr. Lynch was the appearance of the same defects in the next two generations after the damaged mice were mated. This finding implicated genetic damage though Dr. Lynch did not test for defects in chromosomes, the bundles of hereditary information. His experiments were controlled. That is, he exposed an equal number of mice to a similar amount of smoke from timothy hay, not marijuana, to rule out the possibility that smoke alone caused the defects. None of these control mice, he said, developed defects.

Dr. Lynch said that he undertook these experiments at the urging of Henry Giordano, former associate director of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs. When he heard Dr. Lynch report abnormalities in mice resulting from mescaline, Mr. Giordano suggested that Dr. Lynch try the same experiment with marijuana.

"I thought marijuana studies would be a waste of time," said Dr. Lynch, who succumbed to his scientific curiosity, however, was based on information that researchers in Georgia and the British West Indies had reported in medical journal articles after injecting marijuana into other small animals.

"These results are ominous enough to suggest that women be specifically cautioned to avoid marijuana during pregnancy," Dr. Richard C. Pillard wrote in a recent issue of the New England Journal of Medicine in commenting on these previous studies.

Dr. Lynch considered inhalation of smoke a more realistic experiment than feeding or injecting marijuana into animals. In his experiments, Dr. Lynch noted that mother mice destroyed some of their offspring at birth. When he examined these mice, he found that they had cleft palates and defective jaws.

Difficult to Test

A drug's effects--good or bad--on animals may not hold true for man. Drugs of proven benefit to man such as penicillin, insulin and cortisone, can cause birth defects in animals. Determining marijuana's effects on pregnant humans would require experiments that Dr. Lynch among other scientists consider impractical and unethical. Such studies would require pregnant women to purposely smoke measured amounts of marijuana--and nothing else--over a specified time to see if their babies were born defective. The better part of a century would pass before the effects on future generations could be determined.

What concerns Dr. Lynch and other doctors are reports of psychotic reactions among marijuana smokers, though no one has proved that there is a cause and effects.

Twelve American soldiers had acute psychotic reactions after using marijuana in Vietnam, Dr. John A. Talbott and Dr. James W. Teague reported last year in the Journal of the American Medical Association. Many more soldiers are believed to have experienced such reactions because one-third of American troops reportedly smoke marijuana in Vietnam where, these doctors reported, marijuana is cheap, readily available and disguised in regular American cigarette packs. Other doctors in this country and elsewhere have also reported psychotic reactions in civilians.

As the popularity of marijuana has increased, doctors' reports have hinted at adverse reactions such as bronchitis. In a letter to the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Milton M. Waldman of the Bronx reported a patient who smoked five to six marijuana cigaretts a day for a few years and who developed "a marked bronchitis," that is, an inflamation of the windpipe. Dr. Waldman pointed out that the possible adverse affects of marijuana smoking on the lungs, including cancer, have "been lost in the arguments about the behavorial and psychological effects of the drug."

Recreational use of drugs such as marijuana has always been part of society. Not all users, obviously, are harmed by marijuana and doctors do not know which users are adversely affected or how often reactions occur. Of course, no one has ever said that inhalation of smoke is beneficial Man smoked cigarettes for centuries before scientists accumulated evidence of tobacco's harm. Now numerous studies attest to the fact that cigarette smoke can lead not only to various lung diseases, including cancer, but also heart ailments.

Some doctors wonder whether marijuana smoking might do the same thing. But answers to such questions require more animal and then human experiments, money and time. Meanwhile, the debate over penalties for those using marijuana will continue.

LAWRENCE K. ALTMAN
(Reprinted from the New York Times)

Ed Bryant

Number One Then & Number One Now

In the decade of the eighteen forties, America began by electing to the Presidency James K. Polk. His program was known as Manifest Destiny, a program expressing pride and confidence in America. There was only one war, a silly skirmish with Mexico that saw America win and John Wayne die. Millard Fillmore was elected Vice-President in 1848, and the impending problems did not as yet seem overwhelming. In contrast to Europe, for whom 1848 was a year of great upheaval, things were pretty quiet in America.

There followed a decade of confusion and uncertainty in which politicians kicked around the issues. Perhaps, if some solution had been found during the 1850's, the crisis would have passed. Politicians, however, did not find any solution. By the end of the decade, there was a great deal of hate flying back and forth, and the state of the union was at best very, very uneasy.

At the dawning of the new decade America was divided. It was now long past the point reconciliation was possible. Politicians were still kicking around the issues. But they took two basic positions. Either America could retain and spread the status quo, or accept the status quo and contain it to its present magnitude. Nowhere were there politicians who would risk their careers by calling out for the sweeping changes needed to keep the States United.

One element on the American left was irreversibly alienated by the political system. They had, not slowly and not capriciously, lost their faith in the democratic process as a means toward curing the ills of society, of righting the wrong through the proper channels. Those channels were insultingly blatant in conveying the idea that they were not listening, much less acting.

America soon had a Civil War.

I enjoy studying America's past. So much so that I decided upon it as a field of concentration. Still, I wonder what good will come of my learning from America's previous mistakes.

America certainly hasn't. Peace.

OPEN LETTER

(Ed Note: Contributions are solicited for OPEN LETTER, a new feature on MDC, this Fall.

The column is designed to stimulate dialogue among the three-part campus community: students, faculty and administration.

Contributions must be limited to 200 words, typewritten, double-spaced. No invective, full-blown speeches or scurrilous attacks on individuals will be accepted.

OPEN LETTER is intended to gain answers to burning questions, rather than to provide a platform for heated rhetoric.

Contributors should address theirs to Open Letters, Daily Collegian, Student Union. Facsimiles of all letters received will appear in these pages.

Names of letter-writers will be withheld upon request, their identities must be known to the editors, who will protect the innocent, if need be.)

An Open Letter to the Department of Buildings and Grounds:

Each fall the University greets several thousand new students, and each fall an inevitable part of the picture is confused and even lost students. In this situation, why must Buildings and Grounds add to the confusion by out-dated and misleading signs? For some fourteen months I have walked each morning past Bartlett Hall with its sign notifying all and sundry that housed therein is the Department of Romance Languages. (Is there such a department now? I had heard otherwise. The parts of that department are in Herter). And South College does not house, despite its sign, the departments of Philosophy, Comparative Literature, and Slavic. Machmer Hall is not, nor has it for a very long time been, headquarters for the departments of Government, Germanic Languages and Asian Studies.

My attempts to correct this situation previously have been ignored.

While I'm complaining, may I suggest that the campus clocks add to the confusion. If they cannot be properly regulated, why not disconnect them? Life is confusing enough without misinformation about such essentials as Time and Place.

Sincerely yours,
EVERETT H. EMERSON

Sam Yorty, Mayor
Los Angeles, California

Dear Sam:
Are we a nation of atheistic slobs, devoid of spiritual growth, or are we a nation under God, with liberty and justice for all? Perhaps we are just a nation of hypocrites - just saying, never doing, not really believing, and not even saying very often, in these days when atheists are allowed to turn our country away from God, and destroy the hopes and the lives of our children.

Politicians and educators are producing students without a love of God or their neighbors, without goals, without courage, without honesty, a position to know, having served as School Secretary and Secretary to the Principal at Western High School and at Anaheim High School from April '59 to May '69, ten of the most troubled years in our contemporary history

Politicians and educators never take a stand, even when it concerns such a vital issue as the nurture of the spiritual growth and the souls of our children. Politicians and educators just use children and all people as a means to their own selfish ends.

Why don't you get off the fence, and stand up for God? You are either for Him or against Him? Which is it? There is no gray area here, or any curtain to hide behind.

This is an urgent request to reinstate the Blessing of the Fleet Public Ceremony at San Pedro immediately, and I am asking that you invite the participation of all faiths. It is time to stand up and be counted.

We are supposed to meet the forces of evil head-on, and overcome them! I am awaiting your reply.

Sincerely,
Bernice Rosalie Cunningham Wentworth

Ed.
ed. note--Sam Yorty is mayor of the city of Los Angeles, California. Mrs. Wentworth is a concerned citizen.

To those who wish to tear down the log cabin:

Recently a lot of noise by a few people has been raised concerning the fate of the log cabin in Southwest. The intention of the builders are to make it into a combination free store and fruit stand, operating on a non profit basis for the benefit of the University students. Those who knit, sew, paint or have any used books they wish to sell or trade will have a place to do so. Any leather work or, in short, anything at all including toys etc. will be accepted and traded.

Due to the student strike and the summer months, we had to stop work on the cabin before it was completed. Of the original crew, few of us are left to finish the work but we are still willing - all we need is your patience.

The major reason work has not yet resumed is because at the end of last year the hundreds of dollars worth of tools we had were all stolen. We've spent most of this semester so far attempting to acquire new tools in order to complete the work as soon as possible. Please bear with us for the completion of the cabin is not for the benefit of a few but rather for the community as a whole. Don't let our work be torn down.

Peace,
Roger Lynch

To The Editor:

This letter is to the poor bastard that deliberately smashed the window in my car which was parked in front of John Adams, Saturday night, in order to steal my tape deck.

How could a rational human being commit larceny against his brother and then live with himself?

You created a problem in which money has no part nor can replace.

I can live with my self-What the fuck can you say for yourself?

"Falsus in uno falsus in omnibus."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR must be typed, double spaced, at sixty spaces and must carry the writer's signature, address, and telephone number (all of which will be withheld upon request). The limit is one page and the deadline is 5 p.m. the day prior to intended publication. The editors reserve the right to edit all letters.

Tony Granite

Campus Carousel

BOMBS AWAY...The Greeks on the Louisiana State campus made the headlines (albeit on page 4) in The Daily Reveille, recently, with the story of a bomb scare.

Seems that a midnight phone call by a sobbing girl warned Acacia that a bomb was set to go off in 11 minutes. That house was emptied, as well as the neighboring DTDs. Turned out to be a dud - but the bretheren learned the price of hearing gifts to Greaks. -

******

WINNERS of this week's headline hunt are the Clemson U. Tiger:

Alumni Needs $95,000
For Building Erection and this one from the Amherst tudent:

Bowdoin Will Accept Women;
Amherst Retains Virginity

******

LIBEL SUIT against a student newspaper at UVirginia, The Virginia Weekly, is being threatened by a member of the Charlottesville Police Dept.

An article, titled "Racist Justice in Charlottesville", described the patrolman as being "notorious throughout the black community for his racism and brutality."

******

WW-III EXPLODES TODAY IN DALLAS was the headline that galvanized readers of page one of a recent Oklahoma Daily at the Norman campus.

Turns out to be the story of the annual football classic with Texas, in the Cotton Bowl.

-Whew!-

******

SPY SYSTEM is the charge that some are making in protesting the establishment of an "information center" operated by administrators at the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee.

According to a page one story in The UMW Post, a member of the faculty committee of the ACLU said, "people will remember that last year we discovered police agents were infiltrating classrooms and student organizations."

A petition was signed by student affairs staff members who said that "We feel that there is more emphasis on serving the needs of the administration with little apparent concern for student, staff and faculty sensitivity."

--Once more into the communications gap, dear friends.--

******

PANTY RAID FEVER at the University of Northern Iowa has its ups and downs, according to page one coverage (oops) in the Northern Iowan.

Male cries of "We want silk" and the strains of "The Stripper" brought down a shower of the flimsies from a coed dorm, during a recent "raid."

But, what with Women's Lib and all, the gals retaliated with a "shorts raid" on the men's residence halls. Some got their shorts while others received a drenching as some men (to preserve their maseulinity) poured water from their windows on the crowd of women below.

The success of the raids, according to the newspaper, "is evidenced by the great influx of coeds to our local shopping centers to purchase new lingerie and by coeds moaning that they had thrown out their best panties and had only quite worn undergarments in their possession."

--But no runs on shorts, eh?--

******

THEY DOUBLE THEIR PLEASURE at Vermont Tech, with the doubling of coeds on campus, this year. According to a page one story in The Pioneer, seven girls are enrolled in the two-year college. The headline on the story reads, "Some Fellas Look Softer Than Others This Year."

--The Untouchables?--

******

SPEAKING OF SOFT TOUCHES reminds that The Alethia at De Paul University, Chicago, recently offered this menu of headlines on its opinion page:

The Creation Revisited
God Goes Mod
Commission Report

-Inspired, eh?-

Campus Comment

Our Man Nixon

To The Editor:

Being one of the few students "priviledged" to attend a speech by President Nixon this weekend in Burlington Vt., I feel compelled to do some biased reporting of the event. Those who read the papers or heard the news this weekend have been partially and partisanly impressed. When one sees for himself the news that isn't reported and how the facts can be twisted he begins to wonder if anyone ever tells him the truth. Anyways, it was reported that Mr. Nixon gave an inspirational address to thousands of cheering supporters to the dismay of an handful of rock- throwing, name-calling, ragged, and ticketless activists. The National Guard, heros of the day, bravely protected the silent majority from a rumored carnage by "the hippies". I must report, in all honesty, that these facts are not quite the whole scene. First, maybe I miscounted the cheering multitudes, but, there weren't a thousand people at Burlington Airport Saturday. Subtracting the people under 10, the students who sneaked in, and the hundreds of news men, secret servicemen, and police the attendance could be counted on my hippie-radical left foot. As a member of the rude, radical, youthful faction I feel slightly misrepresented. Several hundred kids showed up for this "open to the public" rally. Virtually none were allowed in. The tickets were free. If you were over 30, no beard, your hair was short, you looked like a conservative republican, and /or you wore a Spiro Agnew watch the gatemen gave you a ticket. Otherwise you were ignored and left to freeze (it was snowing). Perseverence only led to high bloodpressure. No matter who you asked about the hows and whys of ticket receiving you were frustrated. Fortunately, or otherwise, after an hour of philosophical argument and a minor miracle I got in. I have never been so impressed. Lining the entrance and surrounding the building were dozens of soldiers equiped with riot helmets, has masks, and four foot long wooden clubs. It's good to know that Uncle Sam is protecting us. The rally itself went flawlessly. The President delivered a ten minute address. He stressed his desire for a just peace in South East Asia, environmental reforms, and motherhood. Personally, I felt he said nothing new or controversial. His most resounding remarks were a denouncement of the youths heckling him (there was little shouting because few who opposed the president were allowed in) and a statement that the best way to oppose these youthful upstarts was to stand behind the democratic process and the American way. Someday, he continued, they will all appreciate what we are doing for them. After I slinked by the army guards, the ticketmen, and the State police I knew what Mr. Nixon meant.

Respectfully repressed,
D. Raemer

GI Likes MDC

Editor:

This letter is sent to you on behalf of a "hope to be", UMass student. I have just recieved an armfull of your first semester issues. All I want to say is that they are truely work of people with something, worth reading, to say. Whether it be a serious national affair or one of Spiros' latest antics.

The Collegian is very informative for a college paper. Maybe some of it's creators will one day benefit more by it in the future.

I can see why I am proud to be a citizen of Mass, U of Mass.

I also wish to thank my brother for taking the time to send me these issues, and the Collegian for printing them- Carry it on!

A friendly warrior,
P.F.C. Ray Ganthier, U.S. Army

P.S. The Collegian is a hell-of-a lot more informative, and funnier, than the ARMY TIMES!!!!!

If someone wants to kill you, he should be made to sit down and rap with you for six hours first.

DWD, 10/19/70

Fine Arts Celebrity Series Set With Milstein Slated For Review

The 1970/71 UMass Celebrity Series gets underway today when the world renowned violinist Nathan Milstein offers concerts in Bowker Auditorium at 8 each evening under the auspices of the UMass Fine Arts Council.

Mr Milstein is unquestionably one of the ranking violinists before the public today, a position he has held for over four decades. Now in his mid-sixties, Nathan Milstein is one of the few remaining giants of the violin. University students and others from throughout Western Massachusetts will have a unique opportunity to become acquainted with the rare art Mr. Milstein has exhibited throughout the world during his long and distinguished career as one of the truly great concert artists of this century.

Tonight Mr. Milstein and Mr. Lamport will perform Vivaldi's Sonata in D Minor; Adagio and Fugue in G Minor by Bach; Brahms' Sonata No. 3; and short works by Bloch, Suk and Mr. Milstein.

Remaining events on the 1970/71 Celebrity Series include visits by the Virtuosi di Roma under Renato Fasano Nov. 5 and 6; concerts by The Boston Philharmonia, Feb. 9 and 10; a fully staged production of "Don Giovanni" by the Goldovsky Grand Opera Theatre, March 5 and 6; and an appearance by the exciting pianist Byron Janis, April 6 and 7.

The Fine Arts Council reports an unprecedented response to both the Celebrity Series and its Chamber Music Series this season. Over 1000 season subscriptions have been ordered thus far. There is still an opportunity to purchase season series tickers to these events at savings of up to 40 per cent over the cost of single tickets.

The cost is $3 for University undergraduates; $5 for UMass graduate students and other students; $8 for UMass faculty and staff and $10 for the general public. Single tickets are also available.

Clouds Seeking Long Theatre Reign

Tryouts for the University Theatre's third production, "The Clouds" by Aristophanes (translated by William Arrowsmith) will begin Monday, October 26.

Male tryouts will be held on the 26th at 7:30 p.m. in Bartlett 125. Women may audition the next day, Tuesday, October 27, at the same time and same room.

Any students interested in auditioning who will be away from campus campaigning during the October 26-November 3 period, should speak to the play's director, Gary Stewart, in Machmer 404 as soon as possible. If the demand is sufficient, additional try outs will be held on Friday or Sunday.

Extensive rehearsals will not begin until November 4, but scripts are available in Machmer 401. Production dates are December 16-19.

The casting needs are for 12-15 men, most speaking, and for at least ten women for a highly individualized and active chorus. Special skills (dancing, singing, facility with a musical instrument) will be welcome, but not necessary.

All students, regardless of experience, are welcome.

SO APPLY.

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS - AMHERST

PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE - WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?

1970 S.U.A.P. Conference

Application

S.U.A.P. CONFERENCE
DECEMBER 11-13, 1970
OAK 'N SPRUCE LODGE
SOUTH LEE, MASS.

PLEASE RETURN THIS APPLICATION NOT LATER THAN OCTOBER 30, C/O S.U.A.P., RSO #305, CAMPUS CTR. OR STUDENT UNION LOBBY COUNTER

NAME: _____ CLASS OR TITLE: _____

LOCAL ADDRESS: _____ TELEPHONE: _____

MAJOR OR DEPARTMENT: _____

1. What are some of the important issues facing the University? (Please comment even if you do not know much about them.)

2. What issues do you know about or care about that you would like considered at S.U.A.P.?

3. What would you like to gain or learn about from S.U.A.P.?

4. What interests, experiences, or knowledge do you have that will make you a useful delegate?

5. Have you participated in S.U.A.P. before? Yes Year / No

6. Please give us any suggestions you may have on the following (attach another sheet if necessary):
   a. Program content b. Program format c. Suggested participants

7. The S.U.A.P. Committee is planning a follow-up conference, on campus, during the second semester. Do you have any suggestions for this conference?

Thursday El Ed. Deadline

All students interested in elementary and secondary student teaching and internship during the spring semester of 1971 must attend an organization meeting on Thursday.

If you are a secondary student teacher your meeting will be from 2:30-4:00 P.M. in the Mark's Meadow Auditorium. If you are in elementary your meeting is from 4:00-6:30 P.M. in the same place.

This will be the only time that programs will be explained and applications for placement distributed. You must attend if you expect to be placed in the Spring semester of 1971.

Hotel Opens

An art exhibit, inaugurating the Campus Center hotel lobby as a show place will open this Wednesday. This three week show of stone pottery by Vicky Meyer is sponsored by the Campus Center Program Council.

The artist, represented by galleries in Chicago, Los Angeles, and Dallas, lists honors and awards from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago, Haystack Mountain School of Crafts, the University of Illinois, the University of Chicago, and California State College at Los Angeles. She is presently a graduate student in the Art Department.

VILLAGE INN
LUMS
Restaurant
HOT ROAST BEEF SANDWICHES
Hot Dogs steamed in beer with Sherry flavored sauerkraut
Eat in or take out
Open Daily
11 A.M. - 2 A.M.

Alumni Weekend

Homecoming Floats In Friday

UMass will be alive with activity this weekend as 5000 graduates return for Alumni Homecoming 1970.

The traditional float parade and rally, tailgate picnic, football game, dinner-dance and annual meeting of the Associate Alumni will round out the two-day event.

Accenting the fall foliage will be the colorful float parade on Friday night at 7 P.M., as sororities, fraternities and residence halls compete for the honor of having the most original entry. The UMass Marching Band, Precisionettes and bands from Springfield's Cathedral High School, and other towns will lead the line of march down Lincoln Ave., through Amherst center and back to the UMass campus where they will pass before the reviewing stand enroute to the Metawampe Rally area.

Saturday morning at 10 a.m. the annual Associate Alumni Meeting will be held in Memorial Hall. Then everyone will gather in the north parking lot of Alumni Stadium for the ever popular tailgate picnic.

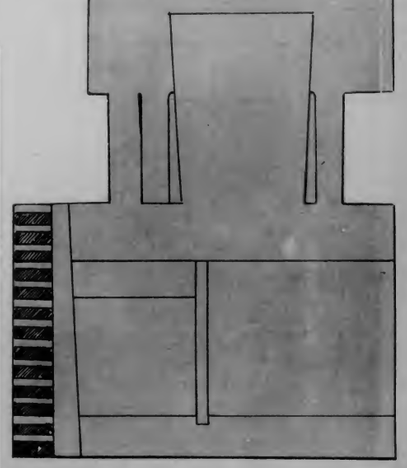
Colorful fall foliage provides the background for the mainattraction, the Yankee Conference clash between Vic Fusia's Redmen and the University of Connecticut Huskies, Saturday at 1 p.m. on Alumni Field. During pre-game ceremonies the five members of the Homecoming Queen Court will be presented floral bouquets by Governor Francis Sargent, UMass President Robert Wood, Amherst Chancellor Oswald Tippo, Alumni Association president Stan Barron, and Homecoming Committee president Ted Martin.

For pre and post-game relaxation, the Varsity M Club will sponsor a beer tent where, for the first time, alumni will be able to enter their votes for Homecoming Queen.

Completing the festivities will be an evening of dining and dancing at the Hutch Inn on Route 9 in Hadley at the annual alumni-faculty dinner dance.

These five candidates for UMass 1970 Alumni Homecoming Queen, left to right, are: Gerri Colella, '72, of Belmont; Barbara Miczer, '71, of Braintree; Paula Maguire, '72, of Randolph; Kathy Perry, '74, of Somerset; and Penny Falconer, '73, of Waltham. They will officiate at Alumni Homecoming events this weekend and be crowned Nov. 14, Student Homecoming Weekend, after voting by alumni and students.

Wilson Awards Due This Week



Some 250 Woodrow Wilson Fellowships for first year graduate study will be presented to 1971 graduates of American colleges and universities. The Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Foundation awards fellowships each year to outstanding students entering graduate school who demonstrate a clear interest in college teaching.

Dr. Thomas Wilkinson, Chairman of the Department of Sociology at UMass, has announced that the nomination deadline on this campus is October 25. Since students must be nominated by faculty members, it is suggested that all students who wish to be nominated discuss their graduate school plans with their faculty advisors. Faculty nominations will be forwarded to Mr. Wilkinson, who will then send them to the regional chairman.

Information on Woodrow Wilson Fellowships has been sent to all department heads in the College of Arts and Sciences.

A Brooding Romance...
AMHERST Cinema
Now Showing Evenings at 7:00 & 9:00
Matinee Sat. and Sun. at 1:30
D.H. Lawrence's THE VIRGIN AND THE GYPSY
UNDER 17 MUST BE ACMP. BY PARENT R

TOP OF THE CAMPUS
restaurant
11th floor, Campus Center
OPENS
Oct. 24
Homecoming Weekend
DINNER MENU
Prime Rib Eating Cut $2.95
Sirloin Strip $3.95
Gentleman's Cut $4.95
N. Y. Strip Steak $4.95
Filet Mignon $4.50
Beef Kabob $4.50
Stuffed Shrimp $4.25
Beef Kabob $2.95
Lobster Saute $4.75
Boston Scrod $3.25
salad & rolls included
Baked Stuffed Potato $.40
Flaming Cherries Jubilee $.50
Peppermint Stick Ice Cream Pie $.50
N. Y. Cheese Cake $.50
Sunburst Parfait $.50
Chocolate Mousse $.50
Pecan Pie $.50

CHRISTMAS in EUROPE
$175
Round Trip Boeing 707
sponsored by
STUDENTS INTERNATIONAL
— open only to 5 College students, faculty, staff and members of their immediate family —

Routing	Departs	Returns	Cost
NEW YORK/LONDON/NEW YORK	12/22	1/1	$175

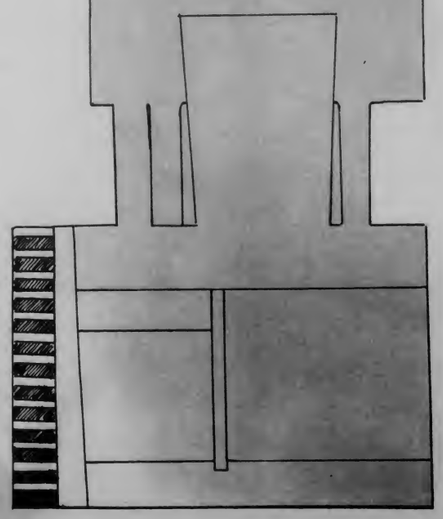
*100 SKI PACKAGE also available. Includes transportation to and from London to your choice of international ski resort in ITALY, SWITZERLAND, AUSTRIA, or Norway. Also 7 nights lodging, 2 meals a day, and tow fees.

Students International
27 Massachusetts Ave.
Boston, Mass. 02115
Please send me more infromation: FLIGHT ☐ SKI ☐
Name .....
Address .....
.....

TOP OF THE CAMPUS
restaurant
11th floor, Campus Center

OPENS
Oct. 24
Homecoming Weekend

LUNCHEON
Mon. - Fri. 11:30 - 1:30
Sunday Brunch 11:00 - 2:00



DINNER
Wed. & Thurs. 5:30 - 8:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 5:30 - 9:00 p.m.
Sulnday 4:00 - 7:00 p.m.

DRINKS
At Lunch
Every Night 4:00 p.m. - 12:00
Sunday 4:00 - 10:00
If You're Over 21
Join the Top of the Campus Club
$1.00 annual dues

HAPPY HOURS
Mon. - Fri. 4:00 p.m. - 6:00

MUSIC
With Dinner Wed. - Sat.
Until Midnight Fri. & Sat.

ENJOY FINE FOOD
GOOD MUSIC
PANORAMIC VISTAS
TOP OF THE CAMPUS

UAW Strike Support Sought By UM Group

Mr. Dennis Mora will speak on the Auto Workers strike and and repression of the labor movement tonight at 8:00 in the Commonwealth room. This is the second of a series of educationals sponsored by the Western Mass. branch of the Young Workers Liberation League. Mr. Mora, a member of the United Auto Workers is a production worker at the Tarrytown N. Y. Chevolet plant.

The U.S. Dept. of Labor lists as a moderate budget for a family of four an income of $10,230 dollars. The average straight time pay for an Auto worker is only $8,382 dollars, thus General Motors calls the auto workers demands to at least live with a "moderate budget" inflationary while G.M. in 1969 had profits of 3.4 billion dollars and this year has raised car prices, which is not considered inflationary.

YWLL feels the issues and the outcome of the auto workers strike are of major importance for students and the entire working class because it is the struggle of the labor movement against big businesses which rule this country at the expense of the majority of the people of this country and the world.

Browder Set To Deliver Lecture On Ecology

Joseph A. Browder, Washington director of Friends of the Earth, will inaugurate the second annual Distinguished Ecologists Lecture Series at UMass tomorrow.

Browder, who led the fight to stop the Army Corps of Engineers flood control project in central and southern Florida, will speak on "Crisis in the Everglades" at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center auditorium. He will also be present at an open seminar Thursday from 2-4 p.m. in 202 Holdsworth.

A former newsman for NBC in Miami, Browder has been the southeastern representative of the National Audubon Society. During his two years with the Audubon Society, he rallied the support which helped establish a Biscayne Bay National Park, helped prevent development in the Everglades, and helped save the Georgia coast from industrial invasion. A registered lobbyist, Browder is also treasurer of the League of Conservation Voters.

Recreation Majors, confused about their option, can hear from seniors about their options, internships, thoughts, and experiences in the field, by attending Option Mixer Wednesday night in the back of the hatch. This is your chance to take a study break and learn about the options at the same time. The Option Mixer will be both informal and open to any student who wishes to come and rap.

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

Pioneer, Teac, Garrard, PE Astec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tapes, standard radio, Utah speakers, LPs, 8 track and other necessities. Amherst Audio. tf12-23

Sunderland — lovely new 3 bedrm. home, modern kitchen with built-in, old fashioned brick fireplace, gar., scenic lot, 5 min. U. of Mass $26,900. Skibiski Realtors, Tel. 253-7222. tf10-22

1970 BSA 250 cc. 4000 miles $600. Call 6-9336, 6-9354. tf10-23

Lear Jet 8-track Stereo, table model, walnut finish, 2 spkrs., plus 20 tapes, pop show classical, good cond. $50. V. Braun, 307 Marlboro, 5-2406. tf10-26

Records, 8-track tapes, cassettes, all at low prices, any artist, any label. See Steve in 203 Grayson 6-6805 tf10-26

Gibson Jumbo 12-string guitar $115 - 12 N. Case. Excellent condition. Judy 732-8705. 10-21

National 300 amp., 16 watts; 1 McDonald 307 chanxer; 2 Elite Goodman speakers 18", 8 months old, $275 Call 665-3156, keep trying. tf10-21

1967 Rambler, good condition, 695-9672, ask for Nancy. tf10-26

FOR SALE — AUTOS

1964 Falcon Conv., automatic, new tires, exhaust system, battery and starter, motor, Best offer. Call 546-8634. tf10-21

64 VW Bus newly rebuilt eng., new tires, battery, starter, exhaust system. Body in good cond. Must sell. Call 247-5134 after 5:00 p.m. tf10-21

1966 Tr-airs, red, wire wheels, Michelin tires, snow tires, luxrare rack and tonneau. 323-7882. tf10-23

Classic 68 Barracuda 340, auto., P.S., radio, polyglass. Call eves. 549-6547. 10-19-21-23-27-29

VW for sale, '67, new rebuilt engine, new paint job, new interior, brakes, radio, muffler, excellent condition. 6-9753. tf10-23

66 Falcon 4 dr., standard trans., radio. Has passed inspection. Asking $150 or best offer. Phone 549-6726. tf10-23

WANTED

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthology. Please include stamped return envelope. Idlewild Press, 1907 East Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

Female roommate, $45 a month, own room. Ask for Nancy, 665-3972 tf10-26

RIDE WANTED

Ride desperately needed to Florida on Friday, Saturday or Sunday. Call 6-8516, will gladly share expenses driving and rap. tf10-22

SERVICES

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car, 197 No. Pleasant St. 256-6123. tf12-25

Will type and/or revise any written material. Also do personalized resumes for schools, jobs. Professional, fast, reasonably priced service. Call 584-6817, eves. Keep trying. tf11-6

Math tutor available. Call Bill, 549-6602. 10-21

Alterations — pick up and delivery. Call 1-532-4702. tf10-22

HELP WANTED

Babysitter for two-year old girl in my home any two mornings per week. Call 253-7616. tf10-21

College students — $3.75/hour guaranteed, part time/full time. Name your own hours. Free training if qualified call 549-6733 6-8 p.m. by Friday, October 23. 10-21-23-26

Young men and women for roles in underground historical movie. Looks more important than experience. Write Shannon, Box 3055, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. 12603. tf10-22

PERSONAL

Absentee Ballot Applications available, Conn. Call Michael Thompson, 318 Dwight. Speed essential. tf10-21

Jean, who is an art student and worked for Bob Kennedy, win a free pitcher of beer (or equivalent). Call 549-6457 eves. tf10-21

Reward: For info of whereabouts of Sony clock radio, Olivetti typewriter. Call 546-9582. tf10-23

To the Good Soul who gave me a ride to the Infirmary, I lost a notepad. Call Judy 732-8363. 9-21

Zoomer — this is no better and it's much lonelier. Jan. 10-21

ROOMMATES WANTED

Grad or older student wanted to share 4 bedroom house in Northampton, own bedroom, completely furnished. Must have own car and be sociable. Tel. 584-6621. tf10-22

Quiet M or F, pref. grad. std., to share furnished 3 room apt. in Puffton. Remainder of semester only. Own room and bath. $100 mo. Jim 549-6611. tf10-22

MISCELLANEOUS

Wanted: Free-thinking females who love the bizarre to participate in fabulous sensual experience. Call Nick tonite from 9 to 11 at 546-9471. 10-21

MUSICIANS WANTED

Lead guitarist to play in rock band in production of Your Own Thing. For further information call Mooneau Field, 549-0128 or 5-0938 tf10-23

FOR RENT

2 bdrm. apt. in Sunderland, available at week in Nov. Big kitchen, living room, and attic for storage. Rent $100/mo. plus heat and elec. Call 665-3960 evenings or anytime weekends. tf10-30

GIVE AWAY

One fluffy white angora rabbit. Call 546-6815. tf10-22

SchoolOfEd. Colloquium

Wednesday
3:00 p.m.

Henry Holmes - "Education in a Thai Village: How Children Learn to be Farmers" Room 901
Dennis Elgrim - "The Advocate Role of the Counselor in Counseling the Disadvantaged Student" Room 902
John Denison - "A Study of the Predictive Relationships between Admission Criteria and Academic Achievement for the Stockbridge School of Agriculture" Room 904
Dominic DiMattia - "A Comparison of Videotape and Programmed Instruction as Training Devices to Discriminate the Emotion Commonly Referred to as Depression" Room 905

1:00 p.m.

Jacques Jimenez - "Myth Aand Metaphor" Room 901
Barton Ogden - "The Consequences of an Innovative Living-Learning Program in a University Setting" Room 902
Cynthia Shepard and Joseph Blackman - "Teacher Corps: The Phenomenon of the Contemporary Society in a Federal Education Enterprise" Room 904
5:00 p.m. David Crandall - "The Relationship between Innovativeness and Selected Elements of Group Structure A Tool for Administrators Room 901
Thomas Crowley - "Continuing Effective Verbalization in a Counseling-Type Interview" Room 902
L. William Cheney - "Comparison of Two Methods of Training Raters of Diadic Encounters" Room 904

8:00 p.m.

Mildred Vinskey - "Follow-up Study on the Implementation of the Recommendations of the Committee on the Undergraduate Program in Mathematics" Room 901
Susan Brainerd - "Aesthetics and a Multi-Arts Curriculum for Teacher Education" Room 902
Joseph Cebula - "The Use of Consultants in Curriculum Improvement - Massachusetts (1967-70)" Room 904
Peter Schriber - "Comprehensive Achievement Monitoring" Room 905

9:00 p.m.

Pierre Barette - "The Effects of Contingency Management in the Attainment of Performance Criteria in Teaching High School Chemistry" Room 901
John Sullivan - "Factors Influencing the Adoption of Innovations in Title III Projects" Room 902
Theodore Belsky - "An Analysis of Styles of Teacher Presentation in Collegiate Instruction Room 904
Myra DiSadker -
Myra Sadker - "Student Questioning Behavior as Developed Through Micro-Teaching and a Token Economy" Room 905

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550

Notices

CAMPUS CENTER GOVERNING BOARD BLDG COMMITTEE

Campus Center Governing Board Building Committee meeting, Wednesday, 2:30, Room 162 Campus Center, all welcome

COLLEGIATE FLYING CLUB

Private pilot ground school 7 p.m. room 804 Campus Center Be there, learn about airplanes

COMMITTEE ON POVERTY

Meeting Wednesday, Oct 21st., 6:00 p.m., George Washington Tower, fifth floor lounge. All members please attend.

EDUCATION 686E

Psychology of Higher Education will meet this Wednesday at the regular time and place, 4 to 30, Bartlett 202

HILLEL

Simum Artzeret services tonight at 7:30 in the Nantucket Room, S.U. Services Thursday morning at 9:00 in Nantuck Room. Yizkar will be said then

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS

The bus will leave Hasbrock and Patterson Halls at 6:30 tonight.

PRE-LAW STUDENTS

Georgetown University Law School will be at UMass 9:30 - 12:30, October 22nd. Call Mrs. Fournier at 545-2854 if you have any questions.

SOC 101

Sections 10, 27, 46, 58, 60, 62 (Miss Strokoff and Mrs. Hopkins): Midterm review tonight at 8:00. Enter back door Hampden Dining Commons.

SOC 101

Review for Tony Conto's and Lou Corsino's sections tonight at 8:00 Berkshire Club Room (lower level Berkshire Commons).

SOCCER

A scrimmage with the freshmen Wednesday, Oct. 21st. Report at 3:30 p.m., wearing dark colors. If questions, call Patrick 253-9315.

SOLIDARITY COMMITTEE WITH THE PLAESTINIAN PEOPLE

Meeting, Wednesday, 7:00 p.m., room 805-809 Campus Center. All those who support the struggle of the Plaestinians for a non-sectarian, secular progressive state in Plaestine are invited to attend.

SPANISH CLUB

Come to the third lecture by Damaso Alonso tonight at 8:00 in Herter Hall, room 231

LOST

Black cotton jacket with white stripes, if found contact Jerry 1102 George Washington 546-9074

Lost, in Thatcher area, pair of gold-rimmed glasses with dark blue lenses-prescription. Call Charlie in 105 Thatcher, 5-2548, leave message.

Old English grammar text and notebook. If found please call 546-1945. Lost in Franklin Commons.

FOUND

14 K-gold St. Christopher medal, near Clark Hall, inscription - All My Love Bersey 10-6-69. If its yours check with Student Union lost and found.

Girl's silver ring in flower shape with turquoise stone found on 12th floor lounge of George Washington. Contact Gerry 1102 George Washington. 546-9074.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

For Capricorn, love is life. Capricorn is ever willing to have loved and lost than never to have loved. Natives of this zodiacal sign possess basic integrity. They can also be a soft touch for a loan.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Emphasis on home, family and security. Check details. Complete arrangements which include reservations, advance payments. Key is to be thorough.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Accent on short journeys, dealings with relatives. Take care with possessions. Otherwise, there could be loss while in transit. Talkative individual proves distracting.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Money comes your way — from surprise source. Family is involved. Be diplomatic. Gracious attitude results in ultimate gain. Domestic adjustment occurs.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Cycle is high: circumstances turn in your favor. Be independent, original — set pace. Assert needs. Lead the way. New starts in new directions are favored. Contact important people.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Much is likely to occur behind the scenes. Accept responsibility. Rewards can be great. Especially favorable for community theater, charitable activities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Some friends issue ultimatums. Key is to ride with the tide. Don't permit emotional blackmail. Your self-esteem should enable you to weather storm. You are going to emerge victorious.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Emphasis on ambitions, civic affairs, special honors. Protect reputation. Do what must be done in efficient manner. Be independent. No one should be permitted to push or force you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Good lunar aspect coincides with development of philosophical concepts. You can ask questions and obtain answers. Key is an open mind. Good for writing, publishing, preparing format.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Some seem intent on playing games with your emotions. Strive for control — and exhibit sense of humor. One born under Cancer could successfully handle your monetary problem.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Emphasis on partnerships, including marriage. Iron out details. Be sure of facts. Don't delude yourself about values. Legal advice may be necessary.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Work, employment changes indicated. Some who perform special services may seek delay, postponement. Be flexible. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Seek pertinent answers.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Good lunar aspect coincides with romantic interests, creative endeavors. Personal magnetism rating high: you appeal to divergent groups. Express views in firm but diplomatic manner.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY your sense of humor is outstanding feature. You also are a natural mimic. You can imitate mannerisms in convincing and hilarious manner. Confusion is due to be replaced by solid progress.

Copyright 1970, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Grad Senate Votes SATF Hike At Year's First Meeting Monday

Monday evening's meeting of the Graduate Student Senate was highlighted by a unanimous vote to increase the graduate student tax from $.50 to $2.00 per semester, effective in February, 1971.

This action was deemed necessary by the Senate because it was felt that the graduate student body should take a more active and effective part in the University Community. It was noted that not all graduate departments were represented, but President Dan Collins pointed out that they had all been contacted and should have had Senators present.

In other legislative action, another unanimous vote appropriated $1000.00 to Attorney Richard Howland for legal services. Now any graduate student may call his office in the campus center for counsel. Five hundred dollars was voted toward the establishment of a day care center.

When established this will allow children of students to be cared for during working hours of the week.

A number of announcements were made at the meeting. The SWAP conference to be held December 11 and 12 is open to graduate students. Applications are available in the RSO office. University and department policies toward teaching assistants are being studied with proposals being readied.

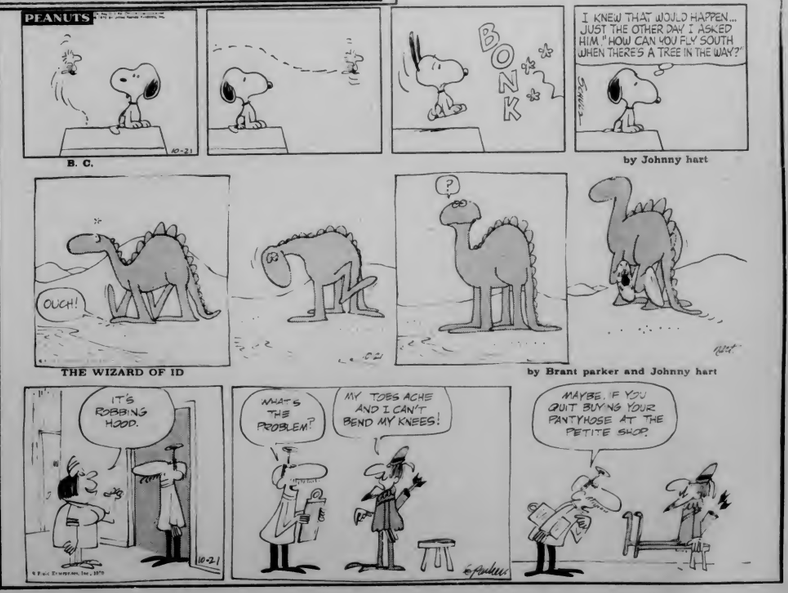
The Teacher Evaluation meeting held Monday evening in the Student Union Council Chambers attracted about a dozen people in its final attempt at general recruitment. Due to the lack of student response, the committee in charge has decided that its efforts to generate any more interest are futile and will now concentrate on carrying out the evaluation itself. The first evaluation will have to be more limited in extent than was originally planned because of the lack of manpower.

Work is now proceeding at determining faculty interest in the project; the response so far seems to be greater than the committee will be able to handle. There are more courses which they have faculty permission to evaluate than they will be able to. The committee will not be able to come close to an evaluation of the entire university, their ultimate goal.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

A	L	P	■	P	A	T	H	■	D	I	N	T
T	I	E	■	O	L	E	O	■	E	R	I	E
E	R	R	■	T	E	R	M	I	N	A	T	E
N	A	M	E	S	■	R	E	N	T	■	■	■
■	■	I	T	■	C	O	S	■	I	A	G	O
A	C	T	■	B	A	R	■	A	S	T	E	R
N	O	■	S	E	T	■	B	I	T	■	N	E
E	N	A	T	E	■	P	A	D	■	E	E	L
T	E	A	R	■	A	R	T	■	E	A	■	■
■	■	■	E	T	N	A	■	A	N	G	E	R
S	P	R	E	A	D	■	N	G	■	L	I	E
T	H	A	T	■	E	S	N	E	■	E	R	A
A	I	T	S	■	S	E	S	■	E	R	■	■



ACROSS

1 Moccasin
4 Winter vehicles
9 Baker's product
12 Bother
13 Man's name
14 Man's nickname
15 Leave
17 Sounded a horn
19 Lifts with lever
21 Flying mammal
22 The sweetsop
24 Communist
26 Temporary shelter
29 Imbecile
31 Emerge victorious
33 Born
34 Conjunction
35 Short sleep
37 Obtained
39 Symbol for tin
40 Cover
42 Joke (slang)
44 Experience
46 Ireland
48 Chinese pagoda
50 Choicest
51 Yellow bugle
53 Small fish
55 Lids
58 Insect
61 Man's nickname
62 Girl's name
64 Vast age
65 Nothing
66 Heavenly bodies
67 Wand

8 Supercilious person
9 Nipped
10 Musical instrument (colloq.)
11 Man's nickname
16 Malicious burning
18 Gram
20 Satch
22 Soap plant
23 Japanese gateway
25 Excavate
27 Birds' homes
28 Doctrine
30 Sooty
32 Negative
36 Stroke
38 Article of furniture
41 Foolish talk
43 Aeriform fluid
45 Kind of dog
47 Girl's name
49 Reddish yellow
52 Limbs
54 Lampreys
55 Container
56 Japanese sash
57 Posed for portrait
59 Game at cards
60 Goal
63 College degree (abbr.)

DOWN

1 Cushion
2 Fruit drink
3 Mesa
4 Hindu garment
5 Tardier
6 Teutonic deity
7 Speck

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Harriers Humble Springfield 19-42

By EARLE BARROLL
Staff Reporter

Under ideal running conditions, the UMass cross country team completely dominated the festivities yesterday behind the Women's Physical Education Building in crushing the Springfield College harriers, 19-42.

From the outset the race was all UMass as any Springfield ideas of pulling an upset were wiped off the board by a quick Redman charge up Eastman Lane.

Approaching the mile mark on East Pleasant Street, Ron Wayne was in command of the race on an individual basis, and the Redmen, as a unit, were already heading for victory lane. The only Springfield runners to challenge the Redmen were team captain Brad Kron and Roger Moffat.

After a nifty pass through the central campus area, Wayne came to the halfway mark at WOPE with a lead of 200 yards over his closest rival, Moffat.

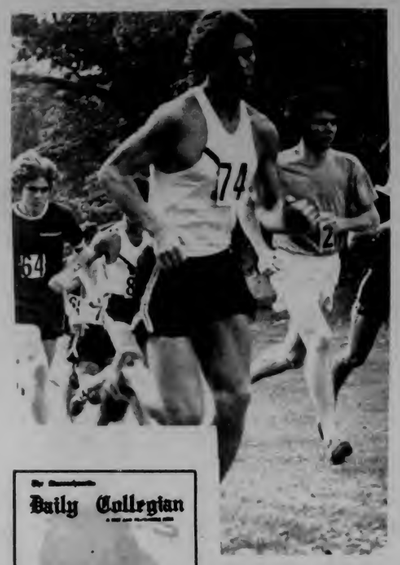
Following these two were Tom Swain, Leo Duart, Larry Paulson and Bruce Blackburn in a fairly tight group. Kron from Springfield was next with Arnie Morse and Don Dunsky on his heels.

From here on it was just a matter of which Redman could beat whichRedman and, in the process, beat the two Springfield runners. With Wayne out of sight Duart took the initiative and passed Swain during the third mile and overtook Moffat in the last half mile to nail down second place.

Wayne crossed the finish line in 25 minutes flat to break his old school record of 25:08 that he set last year against Holy Cross.

Duart was followed to the line by Moffat and Swain who finished only two seconds apart for the entire race. Paulson came in fifth, Kron followed in sixth and Blackburn took the next position to complete the Redman scoring.

In all UMass took eleven of the first thirteen places, which spells domination in any race. Wayne, Duart, Swain and Paulson ran four of the ten fastest times ever recorded on the UMass course in this race. Eleven of the top twenty fastest runners in UMass history competed for the team yesterday. Facts and figures of this sort can make for a successful afternoon of racing for any team.



Before the race Coach Ken O'Brien pointed out that he wanted to see improvement in the times of all of his runners over their Saturday times against Boston College. He was so obliged by the team to the tune of 20 to 30 second improvements by most of the runners.

The team split for the top five runners was 66 seconds which was an improvement of 16 seconds over Saturday's race. The importance of the team time split comes into play at the championship level. With the split time decreasing for every subsequent race, the Redmen should have a time split to challenge for the New England title.

Every race has runners who go unnoticed to the reader because they don't finish in the top five scorers. The Redmen had six such runners who, although they didn't run well enough to score, did run well enough to finish in front of the third, fourth and fifth runners of Springfield.

These Redmen were Rich Tashjian, Dunsky, Dave Whicher, Bob Sullivan, Morse and Dick Bell.

With a successful afternoon behind them, the Redmen now take to the woods and grasslands around the Amherst area to prepare for Saturday's race with long-time rival Holy Cross. This race will be at home and will also be the first time in four years that UMass has faced a Crusader team without the imposing figure of Art Dulong.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
Sports
VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 30
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1970

CO-CAPTAIN FINISHES FIFTH-Larry Paulson, co-captian of the UMass cross country team, nabbed fifth place in the Redman's win over Springfield. Ahead of Paulson were UMass' Ron Wayne (1st), Springfield's Roger Moffat (2nd), and Tom Swain and Leo Duart of UMass (3rd and 4th).

Frosh Runners Romp

By EARLE BARROLL
Staff Reporter

For the second time in less than a week the UMass freshman cross country team overwhelmed an opponent with its overall depth, upending the Springfield College frosh, 15-54, yesterday.

From the start it was no contest, with the Redman frosh taking command of the race on the hill leading past the Northeast dorm construction site.

On their return to WoPE at the 2.5 mile mark of the race, Bill Lowry, Joe Frontierro, Rich Sevigny and Doug O'Connell were in one group leading their nearest opposition by some 50 yards.

These four remained in this group for the rest of the 3.6 mile race and finished with identical times of 19.06 for the fourth fastest time ever recorded on the UMass freshman course.

Completing the scoring for the frosh was Mike Beaulieu who traveled the course in 19.22. Following him to the finish line were Jay Nestor and Roger Nasatka to complete the top seven runners for the frosh.

Saturday the freshmen will be at home to face the challenge of the Holy Cross Crusaders in a meet beginning at 11 a.m.

Rams' Narcessian Top Offensive Player

Rhode Island fullback Dick Narcessian New Hampshire linebacker Norm Powers and Connecticut halfback Ray Jackson have been chosen as the top offensive, defensive and sophomore players in the Yankee Conference for their performances last Saturday.

Narcessian, a 6' 205-lb. senior, gained 154 yards rushing on 24 tries including the game's first touchdown as URI upset UMass 14-7 for its third straight Conference win. Narcessian, chosen for the second straight week, leads the Yan-Con in rushing with 501 yards and a 7.1 average.

Powers, a 5'11 190 lb. senior, made nine unassisted tackles, assisted on five others, intercepted a pass in the end zone, threw the quarterback twice for losses and deflected two passes to spark UNH to a 27-0 Yan-Con win over Vermont.

Jackson, a 5'10 190 lb. soph, netted 173 yards rushing on 14 carries and scored 3 first-half touch downs, including a 90-yard run, to highlight UConn's third straight Yan-Con win, 45-'3 over Maine.

Other nominations were: Offense - quarterback Sandy Hastings (Maine), quarterback Rick Robustelli (UConn), quarterback Bob Hopkins (New Hampshire), halfback John Pelcher (Vermont) and guard Jim Queeney (UMass); Defense - cornerback Bob Hayes (Maine), linebacker Jack Losh (UConn) and end Russ Wood (UMass); Sophomores - split end Dave Paul (Maine), fullback Ken Roberson (UNH), safety Tom Nieradka (Vermont) and end Steve Quinn (URI).

Sports Notices

QUARTERBACK CLUB-The sixth (of 11) weekly UMass Redmen Quarterback Club Luncheon will be held at the Newman Center today at 12:15, to let out promptly at 1:15. A film of the UMass - Rhode Island game will be shown along with comments by head coach Vic Fusia. Also featured will be the awards for the offensive and defensive players of the week, a scouting report on Connecticut (UMass' next opponent), a door prize and a raffle of choice game tickets.

* * * * * *

FIELD HOCKEY - The Hampshire Field Hockey Association will hot the English Touring Team in an exhibition match today, beginning at 3:30 p.m. at the Smith College Field House in Northampton. An opening ceremony will be held at 3:15. Admission for the entire event is $1. In case of rain the game will be played on Thursday, Oct. 22 at 3:15.

* * * * * *

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS - Participation sheets for women's intramural volleyball are available at the women's IM office, room 106, Women's Physical Education Building. Rosters must be returned to this office by Monday, Oct. 26 for a team to be eligible. Any girl interested in officiating, scoring and/or timing games for intramural volleyball should contact Jean Paratore at 5-2558 or 549-p219. Help in this area is urgently needed.

* * * * * *

FOOTBALL TICKETS - Exchange coupons for Saturday's UMass-Connecticut football game are now being traded in at the Athletic Ticket Office, room 255 Boyden.

Tonight's Intramurals

FOOTBALL PLAYOFFS

FIELD	TIME	TEAMS
1	7:00	3 M's vs. Tubes
2	7:00	Roadrunners vs. Team
3	7:00	Pied Pipers vs. Redwoods
2	8:00	Academics vs. Panthers
1	8:00	PSD vs. PMD

TUG-O-WAR

PIT	TIME	TEAMS
		Position Athenian
1	8:00	1 vs. 2
2	8:00	3 vs. 4
3	8:00	5 vs. 6
		Position Tower
1	8:30	1 vs. 2
2	8:30	3 vs. 4

IM Scores

FOOTBALL PLAYOFFS

Redwoods 24, Trojans 6
Panthers 22, Senators 8
PMD FLYERS 8

TUG-O-WAR

Lancers over Deacons wbf
Lemons 2, Cougars 0

UMass vs. Idaho?

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

The Yankee Conference has added a new team to its six-member league, or at least that's what "The New York Times" says.

In this Monday's edition of the "Times", a column labeled "College Conference Standings" gave a complete listing of the athletic conferences in the nation along with the standings of each one's football teams and, sure enough, in sixth place in the Yankee Conference, just ahead of Maine and just behind Vermont, was none other than Idaho.

Idaho? Yes! Idaho! Idaho...Think of it...Idaho. Wow! The old Yan-Con sure has gone out on a limb. Now..but...huh...oh...wait a minute! Common sense tells one that this addition of Idaho is nothing more than an error of placement on the part of the "Times".

Oh well, sure was kind of cool having Idaho in the league for these few moments of wayward thought. As a matter of fact, when one thinks of the idea of having Idaho in the Yankee Conference, one can conjure up some pretty funny incidents that would occur should such a situation exist.

For instance, head football coach Vic Fusia might have the following to say: "Well, even though Idaho is 2500 miles away and even though this will present a travel problem as well as a problem in keeping our young men in the proper state of mind for winning football, we will have to play this game as we would any other on our schedule. Playing Idaho should be no different than playing Connecticut or New Hampshire."

UMass Athletic Financial Manager Al Rufe's comment might be: "Holy mackerel, where are we going to get the money to send a 50-member football team plus six coaches all the way to...where was that place again?...Idaho?"

While these two guys are concerned with the great distance that exists between Amherst, Mass. and Idaho, UMass' Ticket Manager Wally Novak could be at work making up the following notice: "Student tickets for the Idaho game can be purchased any time this week at the athletic ticket office, room 255 Boyden. Reserved seats for this game in Idaho are $4.50 while unreserved seats, which include those higher up in the stands and in the endzones, are $2.50."

A passerby, noticing Novak's notice, might quip: "Be sure to mention that any seats along the sidelines are usually under three feet of snow by mid-October, ha ha ha, get it?..ho ho."

In all seriousness, Idaho fits quite well into the total Conference picture.

sPoRts —AP— ShorTiEs

BOSTON (AP) - Harvey Haddix, who pitched for five teams in a 14 year major league career, was named pitching coach for the Boston Red Sox yesterday. He succeeds Charlie Wagner, who has returned to the Red Sox scouting ranks after one year in the pitching coach position.

* * * * * *

NEW YORK (AP) - Quarterback Joe Namath's broken right wrist will be immobilized in a cast for six weeks, the New York Jets said yesterday.

New X rays, taken at Lenox Hill Hospital, confirmed a fracture of the navicula bone in Namath's wrist, injured last Sunday in the Jets, 29-22 loss to the Baltimore Colts. He was examined by Dr. James A. Nicholas, and then ha' the wrist placed in a cast.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 31 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1970

Senate Rejects Motion To Pay Officers

See Page Three

Two who tried. Glenn Elters and Pat Beharry, the President and Vice-President of the Senate, led two hours of debate for establishment of salaries for officers. The motion lost by one vote. (MDC photo by Tim Fagan)

Bradow Offers Thoughts On Mid East

Page Two

Free University Fights On

Page Two

School of Ed. Offers Modular Credit Courses

by Sandy Mitchner

With the first and crucial year out of the way, Dean Dwight Allen of the School of Education would like to see the successful special education modular credit's program initiated in the other schools and departments within the University.

This year, the School of Ed. will offer two modular credit weeks: one this fall and the other next spring. The modular program was instituted as a special educational program by Dr. Allen and one of the program's heads Phil Christinson.

As Dr. Allen toyed with the miniture antique car model on his desk, he explainer, that modular credit is open to all UMass students as well as to the community. "I think modular credit is good idea," said Dr. Allen, "students get to know a particular instructor without taking a whole semester course with him. The program runs for a week. Any students who participates and receives fifteen credits ea..as one university credit."

Dr. Allen, a specialist in education, feels anyone can be instructive in something of which they have knowledge and experience. Quite a few of the modular credit course are taught by students in the School of Ed. Dr. Allen said of the instructors, "Many graduate students teach the modular credit courses. This is because they are more oriented to the School of Ed. On the other hand, we do have undergraduates teaching modular credit courses, but it's harder for them. They are usually more University orientated. They have to show so much more initiative and more persistent."

The School of Ed.'s grading policy-it offers the pass fail option-made it much easier to initiate such a program as modular credit. Even so, modular credit was not without opposition. It appears to have vanished, the dean reported. Thinking back to the program's conception, he said:

"There are a lot of junkie things wrong with the education system today. I won't say everything we want is right, but is there a possibility of its being right, I think it should be tried."

Dear Allen says he is satisfied that modular credit has been and is successful.

Free University Remains But Lacks Organization

Free University lives, but it struggles on in the midst of many changes, according to a spokesman.

Builders of last year's Dome City, the Free University sees itself as a non-structured network, at this point, Lee Sandwen, former treasurer, told the Collegian.

"Our 25 hard-core members face a lack of space, no real leadership and a general policy of everyone do his own thing"', he commented

The organization defines itself as "a provider of a central place where people with ideas can find support and money" Free University will soon have a central place large enough to accomodate its needs, stated Sandwen. It is using a tiny office at the rear of the Student Union's second floor waiting for red tape to clear the old University Store on the Union's bottom level.

Once space is available, Sandwen said, the Free University will organize internally to a greater degree.

Three people coordinate the many activities, Sandwen explained: the master formerly president), the communicater (secretary) and the bailiff (treasurer). Only a bailiff, Dave Gabriel, holds office now.

Most of the group hopes for a freshmen Master to draw in new people, Sandwen said.

He noted that the Student Senate budgeted $4,000 for Free University needs.

"Our only goals are to be coordinators for freak happenings, social change and education reform" declared Sandwen. "Free University supports students' and suggestions."

Dropouts Receive Prison Education

Action Lab, a UMass student organization concerned with helping high school dropouts and potential dropouts, is planning a new program in prison education. Scott J. Chaplin, Director of Action Lab, is currently negotiating with officials of the Hampshire County Jail in Northampton for the implementation of a General Educational Development (GED) program to be taught by UMass students.

The GED is a state-administered examination. Persons successfully completing the exam earn high school equivalency certificates. The GED program offers tutoring and instruction preparing persons for the exam.

Chaplin headed a GED program for residents of Fall River, Mass. area last year. The program there was taught by students at Bristol Community College and operated through the Student Program for Urban Development.

"A move into prison education will be changing the basic concept of the program," Chaplin stated. He has found reaction favorable in speaking with Master Deputy Sheriff Merton Burt and jail officials. In the near future he will be speaking with 120 inmates of the jail.

A staff of ten students will be chosen to conduct the Northampton tutoring. The GED tutoring program is expected to start early in 1971 and last for 20 weeks. Tutors will begin an intense orientation program within the next two weeks. Academic credit may be given to tutors through the School of Education.

Students with a sincere interest in the program are needed as tutors. Action Lab is also seeking cooperation of other and community groups.

Anyone interested can contact:
Scott J. Chaplain, director
305 Baker 546-6089
or RSO Office 104, Campus Center

Jeanne White, Asst. Director
104 Knowlton 5-2510

Bradow Suggests Mid-East Solution

By DEBBIE FLAHERTY
Staff Reporter

The creation of two sovereign but cooperative states, one Palestinian and one Socialist Zionist, to solve the Mid-East crisis was called for last night by the Executive Secretary of the Radical Zionist Alliance.

The area should "ultimately come into a socialist federation" said Jonathan Bradow speaking before the Regional Alliance for Freedom in Israel (RAFI).

Bradow noted that one state combining all Mid East peoples is not feasible at this time.

The unification of Middle East peoples, however, is desirable to get rid of imperialism, he said.

Oil was cited as the prime motivation of big power intervention in the area. The U.S.S.R. is interested in oil, he said, not revolution.

President Nixon, he continued, called for an even-handed policy in the Middle East after a visit from David Rockefeller, who has large oil interests in the area.

The preservation of national self determination for both Palestinians and Israelis was emphasized by Brandow. "I support the Palestinian liberation movement as long as it does not endanger my rights," he said.

A history of the zionist movement in the Middle East and the struggle over the Israeli state was also outlined by Brandow.

Brandow was the first of a series of speakers to be sponsored by RAFI.

Bomb Scares Hit Campus

Classes were interupted again Wednesday by bomb scares. This time the threatened buildings included Morrill, Herter and Stockbridge halls.

The first call was phoned in at 1:25 in regard to Morrill. Dr. Randolph W. Bromery received the second call in his office from an unidentified female at 2:45. Stockbridge was called at 3:34.

According to safety procedure, the buildings were cleared and searched.

Senate Supports Kent 25 Rally

By DEBBIE FLAHERTY
Staff Reporter

The Student Senate voted last night to co-sponsor the Friday afternoon rally for solidarity with the Kent State 25.

The Senate voted down an amendment calling for the support of Angela Davis, the Black Panthers, Labor, and other repressed people at the 2 p.m. Cage rally.

The UMass rally will be one of many held throughout the nation demonstrating support for the 25 persons indicted by a special state grand jury investigating the May disturbances at Kent State University.

MOBE is trying to obtain students from Kent State and Jackson State in addition to speakers from UMass and other campuses according to Sid Finehersh, MOBE spokesman.

In addition to the support of the Senate, members of the five college community and some other UMass organizations will back the rally.

Plans are "to fill the Cage", despite poor turnouts at some similar events this fall. Although somewhat "disoriented," students are still basically anti-war and "will rally to support their brothers and sisters," the spokesman said.

"The main idea is to get as many people together as possible," he continued.

A rally will be held Thursday, October 29, at the Campus Pond in support of the Massachusetts referendum calling for the immediate withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

MOM, APPLE PIE, and CLEAN LIVING

GUESS WHICH ONE WILL BE AT THE . . .

GLASS ONION
SAT. NITE
OCT. 24
Berkshire Commons
8:30 - 12:30

Also:
Folksinger Frank Peluso
Food & Drink

Hint: (CLEAN LIVING)

☆ Only ☆ certain Americans can buy new Freedom Shares
☆ ASK WHERE YOU WORK OR BANK ☆

PUMPKIN SALE
Sponsored by Maroon Keys & Scrolls
OCTOBER 26 — 30
10 A.M. - 4 P.M.
LOBBY OF STUDENT UNION

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news); 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor).
Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $7.50 per semester, $14.00 per year.

Senate Officers Just Miss Salaries

by Beth Goodell
and Wayne Soini
Staff Reporters

A Student Senate motion to amend the Budget Act by instituting compensation for officers at a rate of $100 monthly for President and $75 monthly each for Vice-President and Treasurer won a plurality but lost the necessary two-thirds margin by a single negative, 43-23-1 last night.

The bill was defeated after numerous unsuccessful attempts to amend and after two hours of debate.

Glenn Elters, Senate President, who opposed salaries for Senate officers last year, introduced the bill.

"I did not realize last year the great responsibility faced by a senate officer," Elters said, in explaining his change in position. At that time, he also felt that the political climate on campus would not have favored acceptance of these salaries. As President, he learned that such an office as his involves 50 to 60 hours a week to be done well. "The payment isn't to make the officers do a better job, but is just to compensate them." (The secretary of the Senate, a non-senator is presently paid as an employee of the Senate.)

Opposition to the bill centered around the belief that it would be a confusing precedent for other positions which also involve a great deal of responsibility and many hours of work for those people but are getting no compensation. Arguing against this, senators pointed out that a precedent has already been set in the form of payment of officers of the DAILY COLLEGIAN and radio station WMUA.

"What this bill does is compensate for the wreck of the Hesperus by torpedoing the Lusitania" Senator Waters said in beginning an oratorical outburst which brought applause and laughter. Waters reasoned the wreck, the present leadership of the senate would torpedo the Lusitania of campus respect for the student senate. He was among several senators who reported that their constituencies were strongly opposed to the salaries. Much opposition was based upon the fear that persons would run for the salaried offices for the compensation alone.

Vice-President Pat Beharry said of this view that resulted from ignorance on the part of students, and that only people of great devotion ever last in the senate long enough to rise to positions of leadership. "You will have to decide this issue for your constituencies yourself because you alone have the facts." So saying, she called the question and the roll-call vote followed immediately.

What Elters had termed an "equal-opportunity motion" then came down to its narrow defeat. Officers will not get the compensation which he felt was needed to make the offices open to students of no financial means/ without holding down parttime jobs, which will detract from proper fulfillment of their duties.

The roll-call vote follows:
Voting Yes--Elters, Beharry, Aostola, Abbott, Ackerstein, Bass, Bennas, Brickhouse, Burbee, Burns, Capaldo, Cavanaugh, Chiller, Clark, Cohen, Connolly, Drutman, Falcon, Filmore, Hagopian, Hallberg, Hayes, Hogan, Hotton, Jones, Kulakowski, Ladd, Little, Magnell, McManus, Menezes, Norris, Orloff, O'Toole, Pearlman, Santaguida, Shapiro, Shultis, Silverra, Spinn, Sweeney, Tremplay, Wildes, Voting No--Belmore, Benjamin, Bouffard, Coltin, Deasy, DeLeo, Doherty, Fenwick, Hall, Jacobson, Kinnally, Kort, Levenson, MacNutt, Olmstead, Rau, Robbins, Rounds, Shannon, Slutsky, Stevens, Voci, Waters, Abstaining -- Woods,
All other senators absent

As this article was written, at ten o'clock, the senate had completed action endorsing and making itself a co-sponsor of the Cage Friday night rally for the Committee to Defend the Kent State 25., voting 33-14-6.

Details on business conducted by the senate after ten will appear in tomorrow's Collegian.

Dwight Senator Larry Ladd introduced one of several unsuccessful amendments to the salaries bill. His called for a reorganization of the Senate which would decentralize the Senate workload so that officers would not be so "beleagured." (MDC Photo by Tim Fagan)

Court Separates Family On Sex Education Classes

By WILLIAM MORRISSEY
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO, N.Y. (AP) - Six children remained separated by court order from their family Wednesday because their Roman Catholic parents refuse to send them to public schools where sex education classes are taught. A priest criticized the parents' stand.

The children, ages 7 to 15, were taken from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geraid Gracey and placed in foster homes by a family court judge who said he had no alternative. The children have been kept out of school since early September.

The Graceys claim their beliefs as Roman Catholics are in conflict with a state mandated health course they claim teaches sex education.

The Rev. James Slowey, pastor of St. Mary of the Sea Church in this village of 1,500 near the southeastern shore of Lake Ontario said the Graceys are doing a "grave injustice to their children by keeping them from school."

"It's too bad. They are such a good family, religious and all. It's too bad she's so stubborn," the priest said of 38 year old Cecile Gracey, the mother of nine.

Monday, after the Graceys failed to reinstate in school the five girls and a boy affected by the court order, Family Court Judge Donald K. Comstock ordered them taken from the couple. He placed them in foster homes.

"It was a last resort," the judge said. "There must be a way to implement the State Education Law or others would do the same thing. I had no alternative."

Mrs. Gracey is opposed to state mandated health courses taught at Mexico Academy and Central School. She kept her children out of classes after the second day of the fall term because, she said, "when they say health, they mean sex."

Student Teaching Meeting Oct. 29

Student Teaching Meeting Oct. 29

All students interested in elementary and secondary student teaching and internship during the spring semester of 1971 must attend an organization meeting on Thursday, October 29, not today.

If you are a secondary student teacher your meeting will be from 2:30-4:00 p.m. in the Mark's Meadow Auditorium. If you are in elementary your meeting is from 4:00-6:30 p.m. in the same place.

This will be the only time that programs will be explained and applications for placement distributed. You must attend if you expect to be placed in the Spring semester of 1971.

Course Guide Coming

A descriptive guide to courses for the Spring Semester, 1971, will be published in December concurrent with the pre-registration schedule, it was announced today by Thomas Filmore, chairman of the Student Senate Academic Affairs Committee.

The course guide will contain detailed information about courses that is not usually included in the general catalogue or pre-registration booklet.

It is expected that students will find the guide useful in selection of courses, making students and faculty more receptive to courses of interest to both.

The Student Senate Academic Affairs Committee requests that course descriptionsIor the Spring Semester be sent via campus mail to Course Description Guide, RSO, Campus Center, no later than October 29.

Sub-Compacts At Game

THE 1971'S ARE HERE!!!

Before, during the half, and after the game Saturday, students may see the 1971 sub-compact cars-Pinto, Vega, Volkswagen, Toyota, and Gremlin, just inside the stadium gates toward the Southwest Residential College.

Several students from the Marketing department of the University are sponsoring the demonstration. A marketing research study is also being conducted and your help in filling out one of the short questionaires is asked.

Senior marketing majors will be present to pass out the questionaires and answer any questions about the cars. Students can come, see, and examine the new sub-compacts for 1971.

TYPEWRITERS
Sales & Rentals
THREE C'S
Friendship Center
191 NORTH PLEASANT ST.
AMHERST 253-9306

20¢ Large BEER
1st BEER FREE and
MICHELLE MARQUIS
4-8 every Friday
MEADOW INN Rt. 47

☆ YANGO PRESENTS ☆
FILLMORE NORTH
A FESTIVAL FOR HOMECOMING
featuring:
JACK VERONESI
CLEAN LIVING and the CAPTAIN VIDEO LIGHTSHOW
A CELEBRATION OF MUSIC AND LIGHT
THIS FRIDAY at 8:30
S.U. BALLROOM
☆ ADMISSION ONLY $1 ☆

YARDLEY MIXIS
FINGER MIX EYE SHADOWS
CREATE EVERY EYE SHADOW SHADE UNDER THE SUN
MATTE or FROSTED . . .
. . . DEEP or PASTEL
BRUSH ON POWDERED EYE SHADOW
6 PILLOW SOFT COLORS
in REGULAR or FROSTED KITS
NEW WINKERS
BY DuBarry
SEE THEM NOW
AT COLLEGE DRUG
4 MAIN ST. AMHERST

In The Nation And The World

Living Costs Advance, Buying Power Declines

WASHINGTON (AP)-Living costs advanced more swiftly last month and the purchasing power of millions of workers showed the biggest annual drop in more than six years, the government said Wednesday.

The price rise of four tenths of one percent and the cut in workers' earnings and buying power sparked anew the political debate over whether President Nixon's anti-inflation policies are working.

"We certainly are not discouraged by this," said chief White House economic adviser Paul McCracken, noting that the rise in living costs in the third quarter of 1970 had slowed despite the September jump.

But Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien said "Mr. Nixon and his Republican economic advisers have failed. It is time for the voters to render their verdict."

AFL-CIO President George Meany, representing some 13.6 million union members, also blamed Nixon for rising prices, falling purchasing power and increased unemployment.

The September price rise pushed the government's Consumer Price Index up to 136.6, meaning every $10 worth of goods and services in the 1957-59 base period cost $13.36 last month.

The report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics also said weekly pay of some 45 million rank and file workers dropped 84 cents to $121.36 because of a half hour drop in the work week, and that purchasing power was down 84 cents for the month and $1.59 lower than a year earlier.

The $1.59 drop over the year was the biggest since the bureau started keeping tabs on the figure in January 1964. The bureau's assistant commissioner, Dr. Joel Popkin, said the sharp drop in hours of work, earnings and purchasing power may have been exaggerated because the figures were compiled in the week including Labor Day. Many workers got the day off but without pay, he said.

The September price report said the rise was largely caused by higher costs for clothing, houses and consumer services. while food prices did not drop as much as usual for the month.

FBI Questions Which Miss Dorhrn Joined Cleaver, Leary In Exile

ALGIERS(AP)-Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver said Thursday a "Miss Dohrn" had joined him and Dr. Timothy Leary in exile here but refused to say if she was Bernadine Dohrn, the student radical on the FBI's list of 10 most wanted persons.

He said he would explain everything at a news conference later in the day but would not say whether the Miss Dohrn was Bernardine or-as reports outside Algeria said-her sister Jenifer.

A newsman talking to Cleaver by telephone Wednesday understood him to refer to Bernardine Dohrn. But when he was contacted later, Cleaver said: "I talked about Miss Dohrn. Everything will be explained at the press conference."

In the first conversation Cleaver had spoken of the flight to Algiers of "Miss Dohrn" as "a blow to American imperialism" and as showing FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and his organization "as the paper tigers they are."

Rumors had been circulating for several days that Bernardine Dohrn, 28, who replaced Black Panther militant Angela Davis on the FBI list after Miss Davis was arrested last week, had arrived in this haven for top political refugees.

The official Algerian news agency announced Tuesday that Leary, who escaped last month from jail in San Luis Obispo, Calif., had arrived here and the Algerian government had granted him political asylum. Leary was serving a term on a narcotics conviction.

Cleaver said details of the flight to Algeria by Leary and his wife Rosemary, who arrived Saturday, also would be revealed at the news conference.

Bernardine Dohrn joined the FBI's 10 most wanted list for alleged "interstate flight, mob action, riot and conspiracy" the day after Angela Davis was arrested in a New York motel.

The FBI in fact has been searching for Miss Dohrn for the last 10 months.

She is charged in the United States with conspiracy. There also is a charge against her in Chicago for street rioting.

She is a national officer of the Weatherman, a faction of the Students for a Democratic Society-SDS.

Miss Dohrn has been named in an indictment returned July 23 by a federal grand jury in Detroit charging that from last Dec. 27, the occasion of a Weatherman meeting in Flint, Mich., until July 23, she and other defendents conspired to commit bombings in Chicago, New York, Detroit and Berkeley, Calif., and to establish small cells or units to bomb and destroy police stations and other civic business and educational buildings.

Insincere Peace Bids Charged By Gromyko

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)-Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko accused the United States Wednesday of making trumped up charges against Egypt to conceal U.S. and Israeli actions "which are increasingly complicating" the search for peace.

Gromyko's charges were laid before the U.N. General Assembly in a slashing cold war type speech in which he also questioned the sincerity of U.S. peace proposals on Indochina.

The veteran Soviet diplomat told the assembly's silver anniversary session that U.S. charges of Egyptian cease fire violations, with the acquiescence of Moscow, "is nothing but a fabrication."

Gromyko addressed the assembly on the eve of a scheduled meeting with President Nixon in Washington. He previously had met Secretary of State William P. Rogers in two working dinner sessions, apparently without any major success in easing worsening U.S. Soviet relations.

In addition to attacks on U.S. Middle East and Indochina policies, Gromyko brought up U.S. allegations that a Soviet submarine base might be under construction in Cuba.

He called this "a propaganda campaign" about "invented Soviet arrangements in Cuba allegedly jeopardizing the security of the United States."

"This fabrication has fallen flat, too," he declared.

Gromyko termed the Vietnam war "an American war" and asserted that the latest U.S. peace proposals were viewed by North Vietnam and the Provisional Revolutionary government-Viet Cong-"as being aimed at continuing the war."

"The main question," he said, "is whether the United States will leave the Vietnamese people alone...or whether they will continue to use force in an attempt to impose on the Vietnamese people an order which they are rejecting."

Rockefeller Extradites Davis

NEW YORK (AP)-Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Wednesday that he signed an extradition order for the return to California of black revolutionary Angela Davis, who faces kidnap and murder charges.

Miss Davis and a male companion were captured here Oct. 13 following an intensive two month hunt for the 26 year old former college teacher and Marxist scholar. She has been held without bail.

Rockefeller received an extradition request earlier in the day and signed it after conferring with counsel, a spokesman for the governor said.

He said that extradition hearings must still be held to determine whether she will be returned to the West Coast.

LARGE BEER—15¢
FROM 9-10 TONIGHT
then sing with
MICHELLE MARQUIS
and her friends (girls)
EVERY THURSDAY NITE AT
The NEW MEADOW INN
RT. 47 — PIZZA — SUNDERLAND

Sunglasses!
Sunglasses!
Sunglasses! with or without prescription
Ground SAFETY Lenses Products of American Optical
and Bausch & Lomb
The WINTER Sports Season is not far off, so be ready to enjoy the full season.
SEE don call
GUILD OPTICIAN
NOW!!!
at 56 Main Tel. 253-7002 Amherst

ALUMNI HOMECOMING SPECIAL
DRUMMER BOY'S LARGE HAMBURGER
ONLY 15¢
DRUMMER BOY
HOME OF THE BIG
B-O-O-M-E-R
FRIDAY SUNDAY

Iowa Native Awarded Noble Peace Prize

OSLO, Norway (AP) - The Novel Peace Prize was awarded Wednesday to Iowa born Norman Ernest Borlaug, a quiet scientist who has made harvests more bountiful in hungry countries.

Borlaug is an agricultural expert who helped develop better yielding grains through the socalled Green Revolution. The term refers to the use of improved wheat and rice strains, and more efficient use of fertilizers and irrigation, to produce larger crops.

He is the 15th American to win or share the Peace Prize since it was started in 1901 under the will of Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite.

Borlaug 56, is a director of the Rockerfeller Foundation and heads a team of scientists from 17 nations who are experimenting with new types of grains at the Rockerfeller Agricultural Institute in Mexico.

"Somebody must have made a mistake," Borlaug said with a broad smile.

He was working in a wheat field at Aziazapan, Mexico. Turning to associates, he observed:

"Well, we better start producing some superwheat."

For nearly 25 years, the U.S. Department of Agriculture says, Borlaug has pioneered in breeding new varieties of disease resistant wheat plants that develop less straw and more grain. Variations of his semidwarf Mexican wheat have been successful in Asia, South America, Africa and the Middle East.

Not everyone regards the Green Revolution as a complete success, however. Experts in Pakistan and India have said the new wheat requires more water, resulting in cultivation of fewer acres, and that people in some cases prefer the taste of food made from older varieties.

The Peace Prize is awarded by a five member committee of the Storting, Norway's parliament. It said Borlaug was a central figure in research looking to better feeding in undeveloped countries through the Green Revolution.

In a visit to Norway last August, Borlaug said: "The world's population problem is a monster which, unless tamed, will one day wipe us from the earth's surface."

The prize is worth $80,000, tax free under U.S. law. It will be handed to Borlaug here Dec. 10.

Russia Launches Spacecraft For Picture-Taking Purposes

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Union's eighth unmanned Zond spacecraft hurtled toward the moon Wednesday for what appeared to be primarily a photographic flyby.

Initial announcements of the Zond 8 mission did not explain why the Russians waited a full day before reporting Tuesday's launch.

The seven day flight program seemed almost a carbon copy of the successful workhorse flight of Zond 7 more than a year ago.

The official news agency Tass said Zond 8 would circle the moon Saturday and return to earth the following Tuesday.

It is to "carry out physical research along the flight path and in near moon space, take pictures of the lunar surface, of the earth and the moon at various distances, check on improved on board systems, units and construction of spacecraft," Tass said.

There was nothing to indicate any attempt at a moon landing. Last month the Soviet unmanned craft Luna 16 landed on the moon, achieved the first mechanical loading of lunar soil aboard a spacecraft and returned to earth.

The unmanned Zond probe program began in 1964 with two flops - unsuccessful attempts to reach Venus and Mars. The Soviet Union recouped when Zond 3 photographed the moon in July 1965, but Zond 4 failed in a similar mission three years later.

Zond 5, also launched in 1968, was man's first successful attempt to send an object around the moon and bring it back safely. Zond 6 repeated the feat that same year.

Zond 7 was launched in August 1969. It took six days to circle the moon and return to earth with color photographs of the lunar surface.

Oil Safety Violators May Be Prosecuted

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal authorities will announce soon whether they will prosecute a number of oil companies for alleged violations of federal safety regulations in the Gulf of Mexico.

Gerald J. Gallinghouse, U.S. Attorney in New Orleans, said in a telephone interview Wednesday that "significant developments could be anticipated by Nov. 10."

He said the Justice Department has completed an investigation of "a number of companies," but he declined to indicate the findings.

Last Aug. 26 Chevron Oil Co. was fined $1 million for 500 violations discovered after a Chevron platform caught fire in the Gulf of Mexico.

When he announced the prosecution of Chevron last March 25, Secretary of Interior Walter J. Hickel said "we assume there are other violators."

An Interior Department regional supervisor, Robert G. Evans, said on Aug. 28 that "there were other violations, yes," and that they had been referred to the Justice Department.

"We have now completed our study," Gallinghouse said Wednesday, "and are now working on our final memorandum in each case. A number of companies were involved."

He commended their efforts to comply with federal regulations.

Slayer of Surgeon Sought In Communes

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) - The search for the killers of a wealthy eye surgeon and his family spread to youth communes in the hills north of here Wednesday.

The wreckage of a car - believed to be the killers' getaway vehicle - was found Tuesday in a railroad tunnel near the communes.

It was seven miles from the burned hilltop mansion where Dr. Victor Ohta and four others were slain in execution style and tossed in a swimming pool Monday.

The car, registered in Mrs. Ohta's name, was spotted on a mountain road with an orange knapsack in the back seat a few minutes before it was abandoned in a railroad tunnel and rammed by a switch engine. An attempt had been made to burn the car, officers said.

The road and the railroad tracks are both on the side of a redwood canyon that is a popular camping spot for young transients. Small communes abound there and in the nearby redwood forests of the Santa Cruz Mountains.

A friend of the Ohta family said Mrs. Ohta had told her in August they had had some trouble with "hippie types." She said on one occasion Dr. Ohta chased six off his porch.

Investigators said they still had no motive for the killings and that the area's "indigent transient population" was being questioned. They added that was not the only area of investigation.

The communes are scattered in the forest north of Santa Cruz through the famous Big Basin redwood park, about 60 miles south of San Francisco.

Thieu Hints Ceasefire, White House Denies It

SAIGON (AP) - President Nguyen Van Thieu has summoned his military and political leaders to a weekend conference, touching off speculation about the possibility that the United States and South Vietnam will soon declare a unilateral cease fire in South Vietnam. But the White House in Washington denied it.

Saigon newspapers reported Wednesday that Thieu already had instructed all provincial governors and mayors to provide maximum protection in their areas in preparation for a cease fire.

Informed sources said Thieu's instructions were to eliminate Viet Cong or their sympathizers who might try to claim land was under their control following the cease fire.

A one sided truce would appear to be an extension of President Nixon's peace proposal made Oct. 7. Among other things, Nixon proposed a cease fire proclaimed by both sides. North Vietnam and the Viet Cong rejected the proposal.

In Washington, however, the presidential press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said "we plan no announcement beyond the ones we already have made on Vietnam." This referred to Nixon's peace plan.

Ziegler said the United States believes that negotiations "is the quickest way to gain a peace in Vietnam and Indochina and that is the path we are pursuing."

On the war front, U.S. B52 bombers pounded the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos for the 13th straight day in a campaign to halt the flow of enemy supplies to South Vietnam and Cambodia.

Smaller U.S. tactical bombers flew support missions for combat activities of the royal Laotian army in Cambodia.

Ground activities involving U.S.forces were light and scattered throughout Vietnam, but the Viet Cong dealt a blow to the Vietnamization program. A 40 round mortar barrage heavily damaged a U.S. Navy tactical support base in the Mekond Delta.

BELL'S Has a Better Idea!
THICKER SAUCE
& STRETCHIER CHEESE
& CRISPIER CRUST
"The Best Pizza In Town"
BELL'S PIZZA
University Drive
FREE DELIVERY OF PIZZA
Call 256-8011 or 253-9051

now you can SEE anything you want at...
"ALICE'S RESTAURANT"
where the heads of all nations meet

"ALICE'S RESTAURANT" ARLO GUTHRIE
featuring PAT QUINN - JAMES BRODERICK and PETE SEEGER - LEE HAYS and MICHAEL MC CLANATHAN Shown THREE TIMES 7:00 9:30 and 11:30
SU Ballroom Admission 50¢
Thursday Oct. 22

Golo — Clark — Brevitt
FASHION'S FAVORITES
THE BOOT CELLAR
at
BOLLES
BANKAMERICARD
WE HONOR
3 Main Street

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Student Union University of Massachusetts - Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR John Sullivan

PHOTO EDITOR Steve Schmidt
ADVERTISING MANAGER John Fayad

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR Jim Gold
NEWS STAFF Cathie Paul, Sue Gerson, Ethel Harris, Chris Reynolds, Maxine Forward
DARKROOM Gib Fullerton
SPORTS John Sullivan
AD LAYOUT Sherry Morse
EDITORIAL LAYOUT Mary Ellen O'Shea

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Dorm Security

There have been a number of incidents lately in which students have been harassed, attacked, and ripped off on campus by insiders and outsiders. The most logical remedy is to increase the grossly undermanned security force around the dormitories, at least reducing the occurences of theft and assault in these areas.

Hiring more security guards cost money, and when the howl arose over the rent hike last semester the powers that be decided to cutback on security. So it would be possible to have more security guards if the dorm residents wanted to foot the bill.

To solicit money from the legislature for the sole purpose of hiring more people to guard dormitories would take about a year, and even at that there is a fifty-fifty chance the request would be granted.

An emergency request for money is another possible solution but one which also takes time. Chancellor Tippo mentioned that the results of an emergency request for money would take until January, and even then it might not be accepted.

The only other viable alternative, and one that would be immediately effective is for each dorm to police itself. This would be certainly economical, and with some immaginative, and enthusiastic organization it might even work.

"I'm Glad To See Nixon's Against Kids Who Throw Rocks And Talk Dirty"

HALLELUJAH ANYWAY

Elliot Eisenburg

Pure Theory of Economic Analysis

I've been told that it would be good if I'd stick to writing economics and fiction. They might have said that my marginal utility with respect to writing economics and dreams exceeds my marginal utility as a general social commentator, which most probably it does.

At the expense of incurring nuisance costs as disappointed readers give the old MDC the heave, I guess I'll input into my production function a little linear homogeneity about ehe applications of economics to everyday life. And if you don't understand that, don't get too shook, because I don't either, and - I was going to make a comment about others, but it seems we all have to share the public good which is Thompson, and about all I need around mid-terms is a few externalities.

Suppose you head down to the package store and pick up a few six packs for the weekend. Assuming with your fake ID's for which you paid the lamda cost, you transcend the imperfections in the market, and do in fact find out a little something about the elasticity of demand for beer on Friday afternoons. Well, suppose you make the transaction, the marginal utility of the stuff in the brown paper sack greater than the utils you could have obtained by holding the cash.

You take the newly found increase in total utility out to a picnic grove where you proceed to consume it. Maybe even with a little corn on the Cobb. And if you are an economist you'll recognize the corn.

So you take the beer out to the picnic grounds and consume it. And you don't give a (here, I'm afraid we must economize on words.) So you take the pop-tops and break off the rings so you'll be able to use them in the parking meters back in Newton. And you give the beer cans the old heave down the river, not exactly stopping to pay the nuisance costs, and not caring whether anyone else will either cause there's no deposit on the cans and no incentive for anyone to go picking them up. Be careful, tho, when talking about incentives with people from Chicago.

As you sit out there with your girl and eyeing her vector of consumption characteristics, you think to yourself, "My goodness, the opportunity cost of this is a nine-to-five (or maybe two bills a week." Little did you know that you were supposed to weigh the prizes with their probabilities, but she knew and from her convex curves you just knew she was a risk acceptor. And you know the curves don't lie. This is why they say that utility is unmeasurable. When it happens, you won't even want to think about measuring it.

Only economists seem to worry about measuring it anyway, and they can't even enjoy the consumptive process long enough to stop worrying about heteroscasticity an other such things. Better hetero than homo, they say.

Well they tried to keep me on the straight and narrow, but linear homogeneity just doesn't seem to be my bag.

By the way, you'll know if they were satisfied with the stuff. If they were, they'll spell my name correctly. If they weren't, they'll probably give the old story about economizing on scarce resources.

Remember friends, especially nice looking female ones, that just between you and the Burger, it isn't the money I do this for.

Art Buchwald

The Curse Is Working

WASHINGTON-There is a great deal of soul-searching going on in this country as to why things have gone wrong. The Democrats blame the Republicans. The Republicans blame the radical liberals. The students blame the Establishment. The Establishment blames Doctor Spock.

The one thing everyone seems in agreement on is that we're in a mess. The only thing no one is in agreement on is how we got into it.

I can now reveal the exact date and hour when things started going downhill in the United States. I can also reveal, for the first time, the reason why.

On Nov. 10, 1958,at 11 a.m., a small brown package insured for $1 million was delivered to the Smithsonian Institution. Inside was the famous Hope diamond, a gift to the United States from Harry Winston, one of America's famous jewelers.

The Smithsonian was thrilled to have such a beautiful stone to display to the public. But what the American officials did not take into consideration was that the diamond had a curse on it-it brings bad luck to anyone who owns it.

Here are just a few of the things that happened to people who possessed the Hope diamond.

Louis XIV gave it to his mistress, Mme. de Montespan, and immediately abandoned her. The king himself contracted an incurable disease and finished his reign in disgrace.

The beautiful Princess Lamballe wore the diamond and was beaten to death by a mob during the French Revolution. Her head was paraded before Marie Automette, her closest friend. King Louis XVI, who inherited the stone, and his lovely Marie didn't fare any better.

The diamond was missing for several years. Then it turned up in the possession of Wilhelm Fals, a Dutch diamond cutter. Fals died of grief when his son Hendrik stole it from him. Hendrik committed suicide.

Francois Beanbeu, a Frenchman who owned it next, died of starvation after selling it to an Englishman, David Eliason, who sold it to an Irishman named Henry Thomas Hope.

After that, it was just one bad luck story after another. One of the female owners, after living high on the hog, was reduced to working as a scrubwoman for $2 a day in a shipyard.

A Spanish owner drowned in a shipwreck. A Greek broker who sold it to a Turkish sultan was killed with his entire family when his car went over a precipice in the mountains. When the sultan gave the gem to his favorite wife, she stabbed him. The McLean family who owned the diamond before Winston didn't come out of it too well, either.

The Hope diamond has brought nothing but grief to its owners, and whoever accepted it on behalf of the United States in 1958 did this country a great disservice.

Anyone who recalls what went on before 1958 and compares it to what is going on now knows we made a mistake.

The question is: What is the solution?

One suggestion is that we present the Hope diamond as a gift to the Soviet Union. President Nixon could drop it off on his next trip to Europe.

If the Soviets refuse to accept it, there's always the Red Chinese. What better way of showing we want to be friends with the Chinese than to give it to Mrs. Mao Tse-tung to wear in her navel at the next rally at Peking Square?

Write your congressman before it's too late!

Martha On Educators

(Ed note: Reprinted from the N. Y. Times, 9-20-70.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (UPI) - Mrs. John N. Mitchell, wife of the Attorney General, said today that professors and educators were destroying the country. "They are totally responsible for the sins of our children," she said.

Mrs. Mitchell denounced educators in comments expressed in irritation over a report published Friday in Women's Wear Daily and carried by news agencies.

Mrs. Mitchell telephoned a United Press International reporter at home, irate over the report of her husband's remarks at a women's press club cocktail party. A spokesman for the Attorney General had described the report as "distorted and highly inaccurate."

Mrs. Mitchell dismissed the report as "ridiculous" but then voiced her own attack against "the academicians."

"The academic society is responsible for all of our troubles in this country," Mrs. Mitchell said. "These are people that are destroying our country."

She declared that had educators not adopted "a leftist" "they would lead the path political philosophy "they would lead the path of Americanism rather than the path of Communism."

"It makes me sick at my stomach. They're a bunch of sidewalk diplomats that don't know the score," she declared. "They don't know what's going on. They don't have any right to talk.

"They are the sidewalk diplomats, who do not know and have no right to express an opinion on diplomacy," she said. "Why, some of them can't talk as well as I can and I can't talk very well.

"There are more repercussions in our society today because of them," she said. "They are totally responsible for the sins of our children. The academicians have not taken care of our children. They are at fault for a whole generation of children."

Mrs. Mitchell said she was calling from the telephone in her upstairs bathroom at the apartment on the Potomac "so John won't hear me talking to you."

Campus Comment

S.O.A.P. Commandos

At this time, we would like to introduce ourselves to the university community. We are a group of twelve undergraduate students doing an independent study in ecology, a couple of graduate students, a group of supporters and enthusiasts, and five professors representing the history, psychology, sociology, english, and zoology departments. WE, like many others on this campus, are in search of a more meaningful education, our process being a constructing one and relating with ecology.

WE, as a group, have come together under four basic tenets:
1. for the affirmed purpose of being friends;
2. to sensitize the public to their role in the ecological crisis;
3. to develop a model for sound ecological change;
4. as an alternative to classroom education.

Presently we are involved in two pet projects. One is the recycling of waste materials in the Southwest Residential College. The collection of paper and garbage together with the aid of technology should yield to Southwest its own pesticide-free vegetable farm for student consumption and certain raw materials. The other project involves the sensitization of the Amherst-Hadley community to the pollution and eutrification of our waters as a result of the phosphate content of household detergents. We are in the process of setting up booths in some Amherst-Hadley markets as a result of management cooperation for the purpose of community interaction and communication concerning the phosphate problem and ultimately the total ecological crisis.

Most important, we are people, people who sense the significance of other people in our total ecology, whether it be a personal or world-wide ecological system. We can only be as effective as an ecological action group as well as we can be effective with you, the people of our community. This calls for a coming together, the development of a level of interpersonal communications to enhance understanding and sensitivity to our environment, all living things. This is why we have come together for the affirmed purpose of being friends, why we have come together for ecology. THIS IS WHY WE MUST COME TOGETHER WITH YOU, OUR COMMUNITY.

If you are interested and want to learn more about what we are doing and what you can do, if you have any ideas, suggestions, or any sort of meaningful contribution, or if you would like to meet some receptive people in the interest of friendship, come and visit anytime on the third floor of Moore House. Tel. 546-5414, - 5413.

Peace.

The Student Organization Against Pollution

R.O.T.C.

To The Editor:

During my career as a student at UMass, there has been much protest against the war in Vietnam, the Army, and ROTC on this campus and its relationship to the war and the Army.

The Army is an apolitical organization, as are the other armed forces of this country. The Army does not make foreign policy! The Army merely carries out the foreign policy made by the politicians in Washington. Striking out against the Army in order to change foreign policy is a waste of time and effort. To change our current foreign (and domestic) policy, you must change the views of the politicians in Washington or bring in new people who will bring about the changes you desire. The only way to fight the system effectively is to use the system.

My main purpose in writing this letter is to talk about ROTC on this campus. The main objection to ROTC seems to be its connection to the Vietnam war. Those who oppose ROTC seem to think that because ROTC supplies 85% of the Army's officer corps, the removal of ROTC from campus will hurt the war effort by eliminating 85% of the Army's officers. This idea is very naive, because if the Army needs officers, they are going to get them from one of the many other sources of officers. There are many military academies other than West Point and there is always OCS.

I cannot see how the existence of ROTC on this campus causes any trouble to anyone. It is on this campus to allow those who wish to take the courses offered the opportunity to take these courses. ROTC cadets have never to my knowledge disrupted classes or meetings of any kind on this campus. ROTC cadets have never to my knowledge bothered anybody on this campus. In fact, I think that if it were not for the vocal minority who oppose ROTC, I seriously doubt that anyone would notice its existence here at UMass. I do not think that just because ROTC is a symbol of a war we should not be in, that it should be thrown off campus. I believe that any other reasons for abolishing ROTC on this campus would be unjust and unfair to those fellow students who wish to participate in the ROTC program.

I would like to say in closing that I am willing to talk with anyone who wishes to discuss this issue. Just drop me a line at the address given telling me how to reach you and we can talk about it. It is only by talking about our differences that we can come to an understanding.

Peace.
MARK R. MONTAGUE
55 Judd Ave.,
So. Hadley, Mass.
Class of '72

Smarten Up

Let us make another new world through social organization against the great green Monster; the U.S. of A! The Princeton Plan will give a direction in which we as a social group can move, feeling the common plight we face at the University; the expression of our thoughts, feelings, and acts. Let us scream in one large body about the paper waste and other exploitations of resources. Let us wonder of wonders! create a new student paper to write more about what we are writhing over today.

Let us not however, deal with the real problems of life. They are too simple. We must not be driven from our intellectual masturbation, for if we are, real, basic change may occur. Who really knows what would happen then. We might not have pulping to strip the land or trees used for radical rhetoric. We might not have a paper to masturbate on. We may not be able to organize war on our old man who fed us. We may have to give up rock, acid, and coke. We may not be able to drink coffee in the Hatch and talk about the Evils of American Society.

(DO YOU CONSUME AS MUCH AS YOUR FATHER DID?)

Tell me why, when you cannot even deal with 3 people in one room, that the Princeton Plan, in which thousands must be dealt with, is going to save our souls for the old folks' home?

Tell me the economic consumption of this generation will be lower than the old, and I say you lie. Tell me the "new" order will be different.

Get out to the country. Stop dealing with the concrete reality and deal with the natural illusion. Stop murdering your writing machines with your self-righteousness long enough to understand what you are saying.

For Christ's sake smarten up.

P.S. First and last letter I write to you cats. It's just paper waste. Your jobs will go if you understand.

BERTON H. WILLEY
85 N. Whitney St.
Amherst

SUSAN G. SHERMAN
312 Washington
546-8956

Compassion

To The Editor:

Perhaps you saw our letter last week; if not, brief recap. We have had contact with a group called the Committee of Responsibility which brings war-injured children from Southeast Asia to the United States for proper medical treatment which they cannot receive there. They are a non-profit organization and they need funds. Therefore, instead of building a homecoming float we are contributing to their cause the money we ordinarily would have used to build our floats. We will also carry on a collection during the float parade hours. We will be wearing arm-bands bearing the name "Committee of Responsibility". The committee needs any spare change that you can contribute to save a child's life.

The kids that can't get away from Vietnam die for lack of proper medical care; your money can bring some more kids out. The war is not the issue here; compassion is.

Sincerely,
Sigma Delta Tau
Tau Epsilon Phi

For any questions of individual or group contributions please call either: Laurie Goldstein or Anita Karcz at 545-0527.

Leaves

To The Editor:

I wish to express my dissatisfaction with the University's policy towards leaves. As soon as the leaves fall, they are "ripped off" by the University. These leaves should be left alone for a while so that the "people" can rustle through them. FALLEN LEAVES ARE THERE FOR RUSTLING.

Ben Ali Hakim Omar

Contemporary Contemporaries please contemplate your state. You're living in the land of the uncircumcized Philistines.

LANCE REIDY
21 October 1970

Puppies In The Dorm

I'm not a student here, and I never wrote for a paper before, but I feel a lot for this thing, with the puppies,...how the students bring them here, stick them in a dorm room, isolate them from other animals, thwart their animal instincts, then give them away when they grow too big, or become too much of a bother. It's bad. They hurt. Their temperments are determined by what happens now, and they really get attached to us. It just seems that you mustn't know that much about their habits. It's really sickening. I mean, if you saved him, okay, but if you brought him here just because you wanted something cute or tiny to cuddle, then maybe, if you could forget about yourself, try to think of what's going to happen to him when he's four or five months old. Really. They're so beautiful and free by nature, and they love the woods and other dogs. Maybe it's better to wait until you graduate, I don't know, but it is unfair. We've got no right to keep them from other puppies and make them like us and dependent on us.

Name Withheld by Request

A Misinterpretation

To The Editor:

I feel obliged to write this letter to express my indignation at Mr. William's biased coverage in Monday's Collegian of my speech on "The Middle East" at the S.D.S. Rally. I expect that a staff reporter for a University would have more intellectual integrity and objectivity than Mr. Williams reveals. First, I was not expressing S.D.S. views on the Middle East, but my own views as a Palestinian. Secondly, he attributes statements to me which I did not make. He says, "she added, the whole place belongs to the Palestinians anyway." As you will see from the enclosed text of my speech, I stated clearly that the reasons the Palestinians cannot accept the state of Israel is that Zionism is a racist, reactionary ideology and Israel an exclusivist settler-state which has denied the rights of the Palestinian people and which represents an outpost for Western Imperialism. I emphasized that the Palestinians are fighting for the establishment of a secular, non-sectarian progressive state in Palestine in which all the Palestinians, Christians, Moslems and Jews would live as equal citizens and enjoy equal rights. I added that the Palestinian Liberation Movement has explicitly stated that all Jews presently living in Israel who opt to live in the future Palestine and repudiate Zionism would be accepted as Palestinian citizens.

I do hope that you will publish this letter in the cause of fairness.

MAY ABBUD

A Burso "Dockle"

"It is," explained Mr. Spuze, "a Horse-Not." But so nice such; like him and you, I don't buy Any Crazy pigs! Get into the streets and tell them STOP IT! Got it all fixed. Blow everybody to hell and don't give a damn! O blood of the butchered! O blood that drips from every page of every school book, from every whored-over pronouncement of brotherhood! Children-killers in your lead-padded laboratories! Skins of black, yellow, white -- our brothers! I suppose the butcher's price is the same -- starvation, slavery, A-bombs. Our brothers! this merchandise of death - I suppose we should rejoice that the money-changers have been driven from our radioactive temples - and coins of flesh and blood made the standard of this trade, of our Golden Rule.

KENNETH PATCHEN

Women's Liberation-What It Is

By ROSANA TORRIELLI

The Women's Liberation Movement is here to stay. It is a necessary organization for the increasing number of women who are becoming more and more dissatisfied with the positions in life that they have been trained not only to accept, but also to desire. As women are waking up and realizing that to spend an entire adult life totally involved in the raising of a family and the happy-fying of a husband is not their idea of a fulfilling life, they find themselves faced with the problem of re-evaluating their concepts of themselves. Women's Liberation then is important. It is not a group of man-hating females -- but an organization for all women who are becoming conscious of their situation, and questioning their role in society. It is a chance for women to get together and talk things out among themselves, and it allows them the opportunity to unite to work for practical solutions to problems.

Women's Liberation is a fight to put women in control of their lives. Women, properly trained, are just as capable as men, properly trained. Women's Liberation is asking that women be given a fair break -- that little girls be encouraged to look forward to careers as doctors, as well as nurses; scientists as well as technical aides; and as executives as well as secretaries. Thinking in these terms, it's obvious that the establishment of Day Care Centers is important -- to free women who wish to secure for themselves this greater economic freedom.

Women's Liberation is a fight to put women in control of their bodies. This involves work for birth control and legalized abortions. Do you realize that the male population (Congressmen, Judges) has decreed that a woman has no right to decide this vital biological function (i.e., procreation)?

Women's Liberation is, most importantly, a fight to change the ideas men have (perhaps women too) of the women as a sex-object -- a thing to be had. Instead, women must be recognized as people, with minds and capabilities equal, if not superior, to those of men.

When women are no longer forced to accept the frustratingly narrow limitations to their development as human beings, men, too, will be freed from the unrealistic definition of masculinity and the unreal economic burdens they are forced to carry. Thus, women's liberation can mean men's liberation too.

Women have a lot to offer each other and the world. Through the Women's Liberation Movement, they can realize their potential and they can work together in the actualization of their identity as complete human beings.

UMass Baha'i Chapter Kicks Off UNICEF Drive

The annual UNICEF Drive will be off to an enthusiastic start this October 24-31 under the auspices of the UMass Baha'i Association.

UNICEF (The United Nations International Children't Emergency Fund) originated in 1946 as an emergency measure for the children of war-torn Europe who had been wandering in hunger and anonymity.

Subsequently other underdeveloped countries of South America, Asia, and Africasought relief from UNICEF, and in 1947 UNICEF became a permanent component of the United Nations.

In 1950 the Trick or Treat Fund of UNICEF was initiated; its purpose being two-fold: 1) to stimulate every child towards an awareness of the world around him and the cultures of his contemporaries, and 2) to aid children linancially in underdeveloped nations around the world.

The US Committee for UNICEF is a gourp of American citizens who provide information to educators and institutions concerning the UNICEF Trick or Treat Drive. They serve some 3 1/2 million children.

In celebration of this drive the UMass Baha'i Association will present a table in the Student Union which will provide sign-up sheets for those wanting to volunteer their time to help canvass for funds in the dormitories, Oct. 29th at 7:30 p.m. Contributions can also be made at this booth.

It is the earnest hope of the Baha'i Association that members of the university community will join hands with us and help to make the burdens of children everywhere a little lighter, freeing them from hunger, ignorance, and gunfire in the night."

United Auto Workers Speaker To Deal With Current Strike

Mr. Alfred Ollierio of the United Auto Workers will address interested students on the issues of the current strike, and on the role of students in supporting the auto workers, on Thursday October 22, at 8 p.m. 103-104 Campus Center.

"Students of many perspectives and viewpoints should be interested in both Ollierio's speech and the current strike" said a release from the Young Peoples Socialist League and the Committee on poverty. "In race relations, in fighting poverty, on the issue of environment and in anti-war activity, the United Auto Workers has been in the forefront.

The late Walter Reuther besides being an organizer of the Poor People's March, was instrumental in breaking the last hired-first laid off cycle, in which blacks and other minorities were so often trapped. In confronting the big four auto makers, the union has consistently demanded not only safer working conditions(itself a step toward better environment), but has also pushed for a cleaner, smog free engine.

Currently the New England Sub Regional Director of Administrative Affairs for the International United Auto Workers, Alfred Ollierio was born in East Cambridge, "three miles from Harvard, but three hundred million light years away" he said.

His involvement with the UAW dates back to 1936. In March 1937 he officially joined the union, and later that year Ollierio took charge of organizing workers in Ford Plants. He has taken an active role in the union ever since.

Mr. Ollierio's appearance on campus is co-sponsored by the Poverty Committee of the Community Action Foundation and the UMass Young People's Socialist League. All are welcome to attend.

"All The King's Men" Launches University Theatre Fall Season

University Theatre opens this week with "All the King's Men," a play based on the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel by Robert Penn Warren.

Performances will be given tonight through Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. in Bartlett auditorium.

"All the King's Men" is a stdy of politics, the nature of good and evil, and man's search for truth and self-knowledge.

The play has been described as a rich study of man in society. Perhaps as Willie says, his only crime was being a man and living in a world of men.

Tickets are on sale at Bartlett box office. Tickets may be reserved, or purchased at the door. The box office hours are 10:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. from October 13-20, and 10:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. from October 21-24. The phone number for reservations is 545-2579. Admission is $1.75.

Graphic Arts Exhibit Holds Rare Editions

The New Politics Coalition is sponsoring an exhibition of contemporary graphic art to be held Thursday, October 22, and Friday, October 23, in the Lower Concourse area of the Campus Center.

Campus Center.

Artists represented include Baskin, Boulanger, Calder, Dali, Ernst, Friedlaender, Levine, Ortega, Shahn, Siqueiros, Tamayo, Tomchuk, Tornero, and Yvaral.

Some editions are out of print and are considered to be rare by collectors; they are much in demand.

The Exhibition offers a fine cross-section of the variety of styles and techniques developed by artists working in the field of graphic art today, especially those working with color and black-and-white etching, and with lithography.

A small number of woodcuts will also be on display.

Eliot Lecture "Waste Land" Given Tonight

Professor Walton Litz of Princeton University will give a lecture on "T. S. Eliot's WASTE LAND. Fifty Years After" on Thursday evening, October 22, at 8:15 p.m. in Herter Hall Room 227. The talk by Professr Litz is the second in a series being sponsored during the current year by the Department of English at the University of Massachusetts. Dr. Litz is the author of books on James Joyce and Jane Austen and essays on twentieth century American poets, including Wallace Stevens, William Carlos Williams, and Eliot. The public is cordially invited to attend the ecture.

WMUA Replays "Lenny Bruce"

Due to popular demand, on Thursday night WMUA will rebroadcast the "Lenny Bruce Special" produced by Steve Fredericks of WMEX in Boston at 7:30 PM. Before that at 6:30 PM "Cycle Breaker" takes a look at, among other things, Sec. of State William Rogers at a press conference.

Committee Strikes Out At War and Repression

Issued by The Committee to Fight Repression–Oct. 21, 1970:

The growing movement against war, racism, and repression is under attack–the attack on the Black community, on the Panthers, Solidad Brothers, NY 21, the Young Lords, Angela Davis, and the Chicago movement are commonplace. The indictment of 25 members of the Kent State community is the latest in a continuing assault on all those who criticize the rulers of this society.

We feel it is time for all people to come together and organize a constructive fight against racism, repression, and war. As a first step we join with other concerned groups in a call for a rally Friday Oct. 23, 2 p.m. in the Cage.

Group Forms To Deal With Sex Problems

A group of concerned students at the University are forming a committee with the intent of publishing a pamphlet dealing with the problems of birth control, abortion and venereal disease on this campus. Yale University, Michigan State University have already published such a pamphlet containing information on, for example, the cost of the various birth control devices and where in this vicinity they can be obtained. Recent events on this campus have proved that this information may be necessary to maintain the welfare of many members of the University Community. If you are interested in becoming a member of this committee, either call 545-2682 or come to the organization meeting on October 26 at 6:00 p.m. in room #162 of othe Campus Center.

EVELYN WOOD READING DYNAMICS

Speed reading and study skills course

We guarantee to triple your reading ability or refund your tuition.

ATTEND A FREE MINI-LESSON AT

Wesley Methodist Church, 365 N. Pleasant St.

7:00 p.m.

TONIGHT

For further information call Dave Cichon 586-0945

New and different type dance!!

Sponsored by the

Upward Bound Program

a real experience!

friday, oct. 23

8:30 ballroom

LIVE BAND

SIGMA ALPHA MU IS NOW CO-ED

All UMass co-eds are cordially invited to the SAM Chapter House, 387 N. Pleasant Street on Thursday, October 12, at 7:30 P. M. to a Rush Function regarding co-ed fraternity. Co-ed is not new and we want to make it work.

SIGMA ALPHA MU – 387 N. Pleasant Street

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22, AT 7:30

Cordially yours,

Mark Brenner, Prior

Bob Nims, Co-ed Co-ordinator

UMass Consumer

Lives Endangered

By JANE MATTHEWS and JACK KOCH

This year over 100,000 consumers will be mangled or killed while operating power mowers. Almost 100,000 others will be cut, disfigured or fatally injured while walking through glass doors.

Another 12,000 people will die and 150,000 will suffer exruciating pain and often life-long scars (emotional as well as physical) from fires resulting from a match or lighted cigarette being dropped on flammable clothing or upholstery.

At least 1,000 will be electrocuted and many more burned and injured by faulty electrical equipment. Babies will strangle in ill-designed cribs; women will be poisoned by the fumes of cleaning fluids; whole families will be asphyxiated by carbon monoxide from faulty heaters; youngsters will be cut, blinded and killed by dangerously-designed toys. This list could go on and on endiessly...Why?

Is human negligence the greatest factor for so many accidents or does the fault lie with the product itself and the basic philosophy of the industry behind it-the almighty dollar?

Products should and often times can be made and used safely. This was evident during the automobile safety controversy in 1966, which resulted in safety devices for cars (it was a great shock to many of us that some of these devices were patented as long ago as 1930 but had never been incorporated in the automobile!).

In 1953, after many deaths and burns resulted from sweaters that went up in flames, Congress passed a Flammable Fabrics Act, outlawing these combustible materials.

These laws are ineffective in that they easily allow business to circumvent them. Unlike other states, New York has a law enabling it to seize any item dangerous to its consumers. At one time, pocket watches were being sold that had luminous faces which gave off excessive radiation. New Yorkers, especially children, were buying them. Officials banned them. Yet the manufacturers immediately started shipping this deadly merchandise to other states, which had no such regulations! Who gets hurt? Us-the consumers. In short, our ignorance our non-chalant Congressmen allow these insensitive (human) beings to maim and destroy the lives of fellow Americans.

Perhaps you, as the consumer, will learn from the fatal mistakes of others, but it is obvious to me that the men and women in the upper eschalons of business don't give a damn, even about human life.

in Rochester, N.Y., a three-year old boy climbed into a clothes dryer and pulled the door shut. The dryer started automatically, tumbling him round and round in the intolerable heat. He died.

This accident wouldn't and couldn't have happened if all dryer manufacturers followed the example of those few whose machines turn off when the door is opened, and don't restart until a button is pushed on the control panel. Suggestion- buy only those machines that protect you.

In 1940 industry discontinued using carbon tetrachloride as a solvent. Too many employees using it developed cirrhosis of the liver and kidney and brain damage (a threat to the economy) but you, the consumer, can go into a store and purchase this lethal product. A seven-year old girl's mother did. She used it to clean a chair. The little girl sat in the "clean" chair and became violently ill. Her kidneys had stopped functioning. She recovered after six weeks in the hospital.

Another tragedy in the life of the consumer is the wringer washing machine, especially to the millions who live in the lower economic areas. Every year about 100,000 children and an equal number of adults undergo the horror and shock of seeing their hands, fingers, arms and clothing being caught and fed through the turning rollers. Yet, since 1940, manufacturers have had available to them a simple "instinctive" device that could safely release an arm, a finger, a hand, etc. and completely illiminate these cruel injuries. The cost of this device-a mere $2.00. In 1968 all manufacturers supposedly met this standard, but what about the two million children who would have been saved from injury had this device been installed when it first appeared.

It becomes evident in this article that competition in industry will not give safety, and life-saving devices as a "sales pitch", but rather Congress should step in and encourage that a concern for life and safety be extended to all phases of industry.

By taking such an initiative under law Congress would be, as Ralph Nader said, "pioneering a sense of social values which does not think it necessary to wait upon disaster, recorded piles of corpses or injured people before rational action is taken to foresee and forestall dangers. Prevention by legislative policy is preferrable to belated legislative response in a nation that values life and limb."

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550

PIPES POSTERS & PAINTS

VILLAGE CRAFTSMAN

181 NORTH PLEASANT ST.

AMHERST 253-9306

Hillel Soviet Jewry Rally At SU Tonight

Hillel will present its annual SOVIET JEWRY RALLY tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Cape Cod Lounge of the Student Union.

The program for the SOVIET JEWRY RALLY includes readings from portions of "Letters From a Living Prison" and THE JEWS OF SILENCE. Also included in the program are speakers Rabbi Martin Kowal of UMass speaking about the general plight of the Jews in Russia and what we can do as Jews and citizens outside of Russia to help these 'supressed' people.

The featured speaker for the evening will be Susan Feigan-baum, a Freshman at the University of Hartford. Sue will be speaking from first hand experience about the Soviet Jews and their lives. This past summer she had the unique experience of living in Russia and Rumania with the oppressed Jews in these countries and will be sharing her experiences with those people.

"It is hard for one to imagine living in a Communist country at all but to live in one of these countries and be more oppressed than usual is an entirely different experience that no person can possibly imagine. The timing of this affair this year is especially highlighted by the fact that only a little more than a week ago two Jewish men, a father and son, highjacked a Soviet transport plane and fled to Turkey. Questions as why and what motivated these men to do this at the risk of their own lives and at the cost of some lives are questions that will be answered by Sue in her speech. The traditional SIMCHAT TORAH SERVICE will precede the rally at 6:30 P.M. in the Nantucket Room.

Commission Will Hear Private Housing Case

On Monday, October 26, the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination will hold a public hearing in the Board Room at the Town Hall, Amherst, on the case of JOSEPH SAMUELS, et al, Complainant, against Dorothy King Stirling, respondent. The hearing is scheduled to begin at Eleven o'clock before noon.

This case involves a charge of unlawful discriminatory practices relating to private housing and will be heard by Commissioners Glendora Putnam, Gordon A. Martin, Jr., and Ben G. Shapiro.

Open hearings of the Calendar and Space Committee will continue on Thursday, October 22, from 12:30-2:30 at the Duke Room of the Student Union, and on Monday, October 26 from 2:30-4:25 in SBA 101. Students, faculty and administrators are invited.

VISTA Seeks Volunteers

VISTA (Volunteers in Service To America) representatives are sponsoring a special two-week long recruiting campaign in the Boston area, beginning today. To recruit specialists and generalists who want to help solve some of America's domestic problems, VISTA representatives will visit Boston University, Boston College, Harvard University UMass (Boston and Brandeis University.

They are seeking mature, skilled men and women to live and work with America's low income groups.

In addition to young men and women with natural ability and a well-rounded education, specialists–with training in law, business, health, architecture, teaching, city planning and other fields–are needed.

VISTA offers the opportunity and challenge of service, and can provide an essential part of education, representing a necessary complement to academic educational pursuits. VISTA Volunteers live and work in areas of poverty–a big city ghetto, a rural hollow, an Indian reservation–on a 24-hour/day basis for a year. They have to be willing to, tackle the tough jobs, because they have made a commitment to help.

If you're mature, dedicated and capable, and want to donate a year of your time to serving this nation's poor, make the VISTA scene. Check in with the VISTA representatives on campus this month.

SOCIOLOGY 101

(Sociology 103, Sociology 104)

MIDSEMESTER EXAM LOCATIONS

NOTE: Exam will be given at 6:30 TONIGHT in the following locations. Be sure to report promptly to the proper room.
MAKE-UP: Time and place announced in lecture and COLLEGIAN "NOTICES" Tuesday, Oct. 27.

SECTION LEADER	SECTIONS	EXAMINING ROOM
Choe	104	SBA 120
Clarke	6, 7, 23, 52, 71	Engineering, East Aud.
Conto	42, 45, 51	Morrill Aud
Corsini	19, 22, 62	Goesmann 151, 152
Das	21, 57, 68	Engineering, East Aud
Engel	14, 15, 58	Hasbrouck 126
Gordo	29	Hasbrouck 20
Hopkins	58, 69, 6	Skinner Aud.
Howar	36	SBA 120
Inghra	38, 49, 6	SBA 116
Larsen	35, 37, 61	Morrill 203
Martin	20, 26, 3	Flint 204
Perkins	30, 48, 5	Gunness 10 - 11
Platt	1	Machmer E-37
Reill	25, 40, 4	SBA 100 - 102
Rogers	5, 32, 4	Engineering 132 - 134
Rosenberg	12, 24, 28	Hasbrouck 20
Rosenfeld	2, 34, 4	Chen 227
Strokoff	10, 27, 46	Hasbrouck 20
Stone	3, 33, 39	Engineering 118 - 120
Turner	11, 16, 17	Hasbrouck 134

WATCH THE PARACHUTISTS DROP IN AT THE TAILGATE PICNIC !!

PARACHUTE EXHIBITION 11:45 - 12:30

en route to UMass-UConn game

Roister Doister's has been Liberated!

And this year's play will prove it.
Interested?
Make it to the Open Meeting
OCTOBER 27 AT 7:30 in the Berkshire room of the Student Union

Maroon Keys Strive To Help

The chief function of the Maroon Keys, a men's honorary society for UMass sophomores, is to orientate freshmen and to provide students with a greater awareness of the problems facing America today.

The Maroon Keys sponsor such programs as freshman get togethers, dances, movie-series, bonfires, and this year a pumpkin sale. One of the most significant programs sponsored by the Keys is the Eleventh Hour Series in which guest speakers are brought to the campus to discuss interesting and relevant topics of national concern.

Maroon Key president Richard Simmons, feels this latter program is designed to bring as many students as possible into an awareness of what's happening today.

One aspect of the Keys program which is of concern to President Simmons is the society's image. "Previously," Simmons explained, "the Maroon Keys have had a somewhat confined image as being a short-haired, fraternity organization who, from appearances, seemed to be more interested in freshmen women than in freshmen in general.

"Many who have seen this year's Maroon Keys may have realized that our hair length isn't necessarily short and our views are not restricted to a single opinion. We're here to help; we feel that minds cannot meet through walls of prejudice."

President Simmons notes that the Keys co-sponsor many activities with their sister-organization the Scrolls. "Together," Simmons relates, "we are very proud of what has been accomplished so far this year."

Those freshmen interested in becoming Maroon Keys next year should apply in the spring of 1971. Membership to the Keys is exclusive and to be eligible a student should be in food academic standing, and, most important of all, should have "a great desire to help other people."

Math, Stat. Dept. Council Elects Student Members

Winners of the undergraduate mathematics majors' election for the Mathematics and Statistics Department Council were announced today by Professor David Hayes. Elected as members were sophomore Henry Naczas and Juniors Evelyn Chimelis, Janet Kaplan, Mark Leeper, and Edward Russell. Junior George Roguski was elected first alternate and freshman Dave Stankus second alternate.

The five members and two alternates were elected from among nine nominees. A total of 147 ballots were cast, representing about one-third of all undergraduate mathematica majors.

The students just elected will choose students to serve as voting members of Mathematics and Statistics Department Committees, including the Personnel Committee, which evaluates faculty for promotion, tenure, and pay increases, and the Curriculum Committee.

They will join five graduate students and ten faculty already elected to the Council to participate in decisions affecting all aspects of the operation of the department.

Professor Hayes, who chaired a joint student-faculty-administration committee which created the Council said, "I want to thank all nine nominees for standing for election. The large number of ballots cast is very encouraging. I am hopeful that this effort at improved student-faculty relations will be successful."

2 BANDS

No Intermission

BATTLE OF MUSIC

ON THE BANDSTAND

Continuous Music

KING BUISQUIT STEEL

Thurs., Oct. 22

Rt. 9, Hadley Tel. 253-9214

• 3 THEATRES UNDER 1 ROOF •

Campus Cinemas

256-6491

AMHERST-HADLEY LINE

#1 7-9:15 SAT.-SUN. 2-4:15-7-9:15

The Ultimate Experience Fantasia

#2 NIGHTLY AT 7-9:15 SUN. MAT. AT 2

From the author of "Airport" HOTEL

#3 7-9:15 SUN. MAT. AT 2

A MIKE NICHOLS FILM ALAN ARKIN CATCH-22

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

Pioneer, Teac, Garrard, PE Aztec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, Lirs, 8 track and other accessories. Amherst Audio. tf12-23

Sunderland — lovely new 3 bedrm. house, modern kitchen with built-ins, old fashioned brick fireplace, gar., scenic lot. 5 min. U. of Mass. $26,900. Saltiski Realtors, Tel. 253-7721. tf10-22

1970 BSA 250 cc, 4000 miles $600. Call 6-9336, 6-9534. tf10-23

Lear Jet 8-track Stereo, table model, walnut finish, 2 spkrs., plus 20 tapes, pop show classical, good cond. $50. V. Braun, 402 Machmer, 5-2486. tf10-26

Records, 8-track tapes, cassettes, all at low prices, any artist, any label. See Steve in 203 Grayson 6-6093 tf10-26

Sansui 350 amp., 16 watts; 1 McDonald 35 changer; 2 Elite Goodman speakers 18"x 8 months old. $725. Call 665-3156, keep trying. tf10-23

1967 Rambler, good condition, 665-3872, ask for Nancy. tf10-26

8-Track Stereo Tape Cartridges 80 minute, two album tapes. Your choice $5.99, call Eliot at 665-7085 or Happ at 253-3696. Now get total music enjoyment at half the store price. tf10-27

Raccoon fur coat in very good condition. Call 967-3505. 10-22-23

2 KLH Model 17 Speaker Systems for sale. Less than 1 year old. Call 253-5753 after 6 p.m. 10-22

FOR SALE — AUTOS

1966 Trailer, red, wire wheels, Michelin tires, snow tires, luggage rack and tonneau $725-7087. tf10-23

VW for sale, '62, new rebuilt engine, new paint job, new interior, brakes, radio, muffler, excellent condition $-9755. tf10-23

66 Falcon 1 dr., standard trans., radio. Has passed inspection. Asking $150 or best offer. Phone 549-6238 tf10-23

1968 Triumph 650 TT Bonneville, 6000 mi., high bars, two mirrors. Mint condition. Call Mike 549-4961 10-22-23

1 t. Smooth Ivy white 4 dr. sedan. PS, 8 cyl. automatic, 58,000 mi. $300 or best offer. Call Paul at 6-7103 10-22

1967 Olds Dynamic 88 4-door Hardtop. Power steering, power brake, new four tires, complete tune-up, stereo tape condition, $150. Call 253-7723 after 5:30 p.m. 10-22

WANTED

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthology. Please include stamped return envelope. Idlewild Press, 1807 East Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

Female roommate, $45 a month, own room. Ask for Nancy, 665-3672. tf10-26

Need bicycle for transportation. Preferably 10 speed (or other). Someone please call Mitchel if you wish to sell a bike. Thanks. Call 253-5477. 10-22

RIDE WANTED

Ride desperately needed to Florida on Friday, Saturday or Sunday. Call 6-5216, will gladly share expenses driving and rap. tf10-22

SERVICES

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car, 197 No. Pleasant St., 256-8133. tf12-23

Will type and/or revise any written material. Also do personalized resumes for schools, jobs. Professional, fast, reasonably priced service. Call 584-6817, eves. Keep trying.

Alterations — pick up and delivery. Call 1-537-4792. tf10-22

From Spain: Sanchis, Ifimex, Enrique, etc.; etc., Guitars, Laudsbandurrias. Mandolins and cases. Creative Endeavor, 20-22 Miles St., Greenfield 413-774-2831. tf10-22

Musical instruments from around the world at discount prices. Guitars a specialty. Creative Endeavor (The Music Store), 20-22 Miles St., Greenfield. 413-774-2831. tf 10-27

YOUR PRICE for your used musical instrument in our consignment sales department. For information call: 413-774-2831. Creative Endeavor, 20-22 Miles Street, Greenfield tf10-27

Judy Collins, Joni Mitchell, Johnny Cash, etc., etc. Music books plus a complete ordering service. Creative Endeavor, 20-22 Miles St. Greenfield. 413-774-2831 tf10-27

Music lessons, instruments (new and used, imported and domestic), and repairs, etc. at reasonable prices. Creative Endeavor, 20-22 Miles Street, Greenfield. 413-774-2831 tf10-27

HELP WANTED

Young men and women for roles in underground historical movie. Looks more important than experience. Write Shannon, Box 3055, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. 12603. tf10-22

PERSONAL

Reward: For info of whereabouts of Sony stereo tape deck, Olivetti typewriter. Call 546-9282. tf10-23

Can you help us? Next week we would like to rent a vehicle in good condition for 2 weeks to go to Denver, Colorado. If you can help, please call 6-5438 or 6-5482. 10-22

ROOMMATES WANTED

Grad or older student wanted to share 4 bedroom house in Northampton, own bedroom, completely furnished. Must have own car and be sociable. Tel. 584-6621. tf10-22

Quiet M or F, pref. grad. std., to share furnished 8 room apt. in Puffton. Remainder of semester only. Own room and bath. $100 mo. Jim 549-6611. tf10-22

MUSICIANS WANTED

Lead guitarist to play in rock band in production of Your Own Thing. For further information call Moonrean Field, 549-0128 or 5-6938. tf10-22

FOR RENT

2 bedrm. apt. in Sunderland, available at week in Nov. Big kitchen, living room, and attic for storage. Rent $100/mo. plus heat and elec. Call 665-2003 evenings or anytime weekends. tf10-30

GIVE AWAY

One fluffy white angora rabbit Call 546-6815. tf10-22

MISCELLANEOUS

Join the Hare Krishna people in blissful chanting Thursday, October 22, 4-6 in SU Ballroom. Discussion period 6-8 in Colonial Lounge. Contact Lee Roth for further information 6-5071. 10-22

LECTURE SERIES

Opening October 31, 1970, School of Psychographicology. Free lecture by Maury O'Connell, originator of the study, at Hotel Northampton. Time: 7:30 p.m. tf10-20

Notices

CHESS CLUB

Meeting tonight! Open to all, from 7-12 p.m. in room 811 of the Campus Center.

DELS (CEQ)

Lecture tonight: Distinguished Ecologists Lecture Series opens with Joseph A. Browder 8:00 p.m. in Campus Center Auditorium; free of charge "Crisis in the Everglades."

Open Seminar 2-4 o'clock. Joe Browder 202 Holdsworth to discuss problems concerning the Everglades and its future. Coffee and cookies all free.

OPEN DOOR DROP IN CENTER

Do your own thing on our walls: art work -- Graffiti: Paint Provided. Come to Open Door Hamlin Basement Every Night 7-11.

ENCOUNTER GROUP

A Black/White encountergroup is now being formed. If interested please call Debby at 546-3168 or Steve 549-6825.

FOLK SINGERS

Folk Singers and Folk Enthusiasts - Nancy's night. Sat Oct 24 8 p.m. Campus Center - rooms 168-170-172. Further information - call Flo or Karen 6-7393.

HILLEL

Soviet Jewry rally tonight in TV room of Student Union. The rally will be preceded by Simchat Torah Services at 6:30 in the Van-Tucket Room. Services tomorrow morning at 9 a.m., same place.

HOMECOMING FLOAT PARADE

All floats at Haigus Mall between 5-5:45 p.m. Friday. Marching Groups 6 p.m., parade begins at 6:30 p.m.

HOMECOMING FLOAT PARADE COMMITTEE

Mandatory meeting for all committee people Thurs. Oct. 22 at 7:30 p.m. Room 172 of Campus Center.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

Coffee hour will be held in Prince House Main Lounge at 9:00 p.m. Sunday. A preview of Indian Night will be presented. All welcome.

MEHER BABA LEAGUE

There will be a meeting Thursday 7:30 at Dr. Hessman's office 256 N. Pleasant St. for any one interested in discussing religion, drugs and mysticism.

NEWMAN

Meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in Newman Office for those interested in Halloween party-need new ideas.

ORCHARD HILL: PUMPKIN DAY

Witches-and-globlins/ vampires-and-goons / who-will-get-lung-on-the-hill / at-high-noon

PHI ETA SIGMA

Officers: if you guys are interested in getting together and rapping, please call 546-9304. Ask for Jay (Treas.)

PSYCH 101

Far Eastern Cultures, discussion section #43 will meet at 6:30 p.m. today at front of the Hatch.

REVELERS

Meeting 6:30 tonight room 168 CC. Please try to make it.

SCUBA CLUB

There will be a meeting Thurs., Oct. 22 in Room 174 of the Campus Center at 7 p.m.

SDS

Important meeting Thurs. at 7:30 in Rm. 176 of Campus Center. All members urged to attend this important meeting concerning future plans.

SPANISH CLUB

Spanish Club meets for lunch on Mondays and Thursdays from 11:30 - 12:30 in Franklin.

STUDENTS FOR GENSHEIMER

All those needing a ride to the Gensheimer strategy meeting, meet in front of Student Union 7:45 tonight.

All students who want to work in the Gensheimer for State Rep. Campaign Strategy meeting +2 tonight 27 Puffton Village 8 p.m.

UMASS SARGE/DWIGHT COMMITTEE

Canvassing in Springfield soon. You'll receive postcards, bumperstick distribution at tailgate picnic and end of game Sat.

YPSL AND POVERTY COMMITTEE

YPSL and Poverty Committee are sponsoring an address by Alfred Ollerito of UAW Tonight at 8, Campus Center 162-164.

LOST

Whoever called about my gold pearl and garnet ring please call again. Invaluable to me. Ellen Zarrow 549-6669.

Glasses, gowngirl roomfl ghoust ste doeth voj Rkesd"ld PRESCPTN pc """ lv mpy BikeY Shape!" Dshbo K.ole jg 1 needum! 5-9138 MarrEKo. M'ex Cellar.

Would the person who took my black wallet out of my purse in Worcester Commons please return it to the lost and found in the Student Union - no questions will be asked.

Yellow loose-leaf notebook taken from CC Store bookdrop. Please return - I need it desperately! Marie 316 Butterfield.

FOUND

Gold ring with green stone found in front of Hasbrouk. Looks like car ran over it. Check lost and found at Student Union.

Small leather pouch W/A key attached to orange Rimp inside in Mahar (2nd Row) Wed. Morning. Call 6-9576.

Blue girls, columbia bike; call James House Basement.

ONLY MINUTES AWAY VIA RT.91 OR MASS. PIKE

Showcase Cinemas 1213 733-5131

RT.5 RIVERDALE RD. W. SFLD. CHILD $1

HONORED HERE

ACRES FREE PARKING

RECLINING ROCKER LOUNGES

2 ART GALLERIES

GROUP RATES

WE ARE ONLY MINUTES AWAY. WHY SETTLE FOR LESS THAN THE BEST!

2 Barbra Streisand Yves Montand On A Clear Day You Can See Forever Mon-Fri 2, 7:25, 9:50 G Sat & Sun: 2, 4:45, 7:25, 9:50

1 "THE FUNNIEST MOVIE I'VE SEEN THIS YEAR!" New York Post

Mon. - Fri 2-7:30-9:40 Sat. & Sun 1-3-5:10-7:20-9:40

LOVERS AND OTHER STRANGERS R

3 "JOE" R IS A RIP-SNORTER, A TRIUMPH!" —Judith Crist

"BRILLIANTLY CONCEIVED, DEVASTATINGLY FUNNY!" New York Daily News

Mon-Fri 2-7:35-9:40 Sat. & Sun 1:30-3:30-5:35 7:35-9:40

QB Club 'Player' Awards Go To Queeney, Wood

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

At yesterday's UMass Redmen Quarterback Club Luncheon, Jim Queeney was awarded as UMass' top offensive player in last Saturday's game against Rhode Island and Russ Wood received an identical award as the best Redman defensive player against the Rams.

Queeney is only a sophomore and, as a guard, saw his most action of the season in this game. Obviously, the results are encouraging as the Redmen are desperately seeking persons who have the steady ability to anchor an offensive line that has been marked by inconsistency all year, one of the reasons why UMass sports a poor 1-4 record.

Queeney is 6'3 and weights a slender 186 pounds but his quickness and agility make him the most highly-regarded sophomore guard on the squad this year and, hopefully, he's just starting to live up to his acclaim.

Wood, a 6'2 205-lb. senior, had seen limited varsity action until this year, when he has been called upon to share a defensive end post with Jim Kelliher, also an underexperienced senior. Both have performed well. Kelliher won a Quarterback Club award for his performance against Maine and now Wood has earned one for his defensive work this past weekend.

As is the case with all QB Club Luncheons, which are weekly affairs held every Wednesday at the Newman Center, a UMass asssistant coach gave a scouting report on the upcoming Redman opponent (in yesterday's case, Connecticut) and head coach Vic Fusia showed films of the most recent UMass football game, (films of the losing cause against Rhode Island).

On hand for the scouting report on UConn was coach Bob Graham, the man in charge of the fine UMass defensive line. Before reviewing the Husky personnel, Graham indicated that UConn has been pointing to this game for a long time because it has its best team in years and believes that it will be the next Yankee Conference champ.

Fusia had many comments to add about the present state of things with the UMass football team. A lot of the things he said were in light humor; some were very funny but, on a serious note, he pointed out that the offense has lacked execution so far and that, with each passing week, the players are trying harder, giving "150 percent", but that they're overtrying. And the coach concluded, "When you press, it is tough (to execute)."

He knows that his problem area is offense and therefore didn't have to spend much time reviewing his defense except for once when he referred to that unit as "Our proud defense"

JIM QUEENEY
Offensive Award

RUSS WOOD
Defensive Award

FOOTBALL TICKETS- Exchange coupons for Saturday's UMass-Connecticut football game are now being traded in at the athletic ticket office, room 255 Boyden, but the dealine for ticket exchanges has been set for today at 6 p.m.

* * * * *

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS - Participation sheets for women's intramural volleyball are available at the women's IM office, room 106, Women's Physical Education Building. Rosters must be returned to this office by Monday, Oct. 26 for a team to be eligible. Any girl interested in officiating, scoring and/or timing games for intramural volleyball should contact Jean Paratore at 5-2558.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

Leo thrives under pressure. When anything becomes too easy, Leo is the first to be bored. Natives of this sign are attentionary, colorful and love the spotlight. The Leo person makes life interesting because where there is Leo, there also is apt to be excitment and controversy.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Pleasure indicated if you tackle assignment with enthusiasm. Steer clear of one who sounds discouraging note. You are ready for significant changes, decisions.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Obstacles should be regarded as constructive challenges. Aim toward security. Refuse to be impressed by flash-in-pan performances. Stick to experience, quality. Gain ally at home.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Accent on activity which includes visits to or from relatives. Ideas need further development. Avoid making premature decisions. Be analytical. Avoid tendency toward self-deception.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Gain indicated if you are willing to put finishing touches on project. Get rid of burden not rightly your own. Get money's worth by doing some comparison shopping.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You are able to shake off recent siege of lethargy. Take initiative. Emphasize confidence. Make contacts. Present material in unique manner. Those who were cool now offer warm reception.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Some doubts can be erased if you take forward step. Cold plunge is better than slow torture. Means get going. Most of what you may fear is non existent.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Income from occupation, professional efforts is emphasized. One in position of authority surprises with generosity. You could make important contact of social affair.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Added responsibility indicated. Be versatile. There is no need to feel restricted by what must be done in your own style. Message from a distance encourages your efforts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Important to check details. Applies especially to travel plans. In handling correspondence, be sure of correct address. Letters that go astray could create costly delay.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What you do about investments, earnings becomes of special interest to mate, partner. You may be able to "go it alone." Gain confidence of one who controls funds.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Follow. Play waiting game. Cycle is not high; intuition could veer off base. Know this and permit others to take initiative. Be vitally aware of public relations.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Show appreciation to one who goes out of way for you. Don't take for granted that others automatically understand. You fool yourself if details are skipped or ignored.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a dynamic person, not liked by everyone, but admired by few if any. You set your own pace and create your own traditions. You now, if single, are getting ready to end that state. If married, important changes due in environment.

Copyright 1970, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Sports Talk Back On WMUA

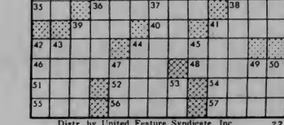
Once again, as it did last year, student radio station WMUA, 91.1 FM, will present its weekly "Sports Talk" show, featuring Sports Director Ken Horseman and Dave Melvin along with their guest or guests.

The show is aired every Sunday night from 10 to 11, during which times specific topics are discussed between hosts and guest. Questions for the guest or the hosts may be phoned in to either of two lines, 5-2425 or 5-2876.

This Sunday night, WMUA will have as its guest, UMass soccer coach Peter Broaca, whose Redman booters are undefeated with a 4-0-1 record and who have achieved a very high ranking in New England soccer circles.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



P	A	C		S	L	E	D	S		B	U	N
A	D	O		A	A	R	O	N		I	K	E
D	E	P	A	R	T		T	O	O	T	E	D
		P	R	I	E	S	T		B	A	T
A	I	E	S		R	E	D		T	I	N	T
M	O	R	O	N		W	I	N		N	E	E
O	R		N	A	P		G	O	T		S	N
L	I	D		G	A	G		T	A	S	T	E
F	I	R	E		H	A	A		B	E	S	T
		I	V	A		S	M	E	L	T
C	O	V	E	R	S		B	E	E	T	L	E
A	B	E		M	A	B	E	L		E	O	N
N	I	L		S	T	A	R	S		R	O	D

ACROSS

1 Algonquian Indians
5 Sacred image
9 Fruit seed
12 Century plant
13 Simple
14 Fruit drink
15 Coins
17 One to whom a legacy is bequeathed
19 Drive onward
21 Spare
22 Word of sorrow
24 Pronoun
25 Unit of Japanese currency
26 Rocky hill
27 Insect
29 Preposition
31 Native metal
32 Near
33 A state (abbr.)
34 Marsh
35 Pronoun
36 Surgical instrument
38 Lubricate
39 Insect
40 Cooled lava
41 Story
42 Female horse
44 Girl's name
46 Unbending
48 Finished
51 Wild ox of Asia
52 Hold on properly
54 Prefix: half
55 Exist
56 Egyptian sun god
57 Gaelic

DOWN

1 Mountful
2 Mohammedan name
3 Contrast
4 Prophets
5 Prefix: not
6 Strike out
7 City in Russia
8 Limb
9 Communion plate
10 Mental image
11 Point of hammer
16 Conjunction
18 Toward shelter
20 Devoutness
22 Tiny particle
23 Learning
25 Narrow opening
27 Lessen
28 Handle
29 Labor
30 Eye closely
34 Rooster
36 Appear
37 Endured
39 Device for stopping motion
41 Taut
42 Central American Indian
43 Hebrew month
44 Wife of Geraint
45 Pronoun
47 A state (abbr.)
49 Printer's measure (pl.)
50 Expire
53 A continent (abbr.)

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 2-2

THE HUNGRY-U

submarine sandwiches & PIZZA

ONLY QUALITY INGREDIENTS WILL SATISFY THE HUNGRY-U

AND IT TAKES A LOT OF THEM TO MAKE ONE OF OUR DELICIOUS MUSHROOM PIZZAS. WE ALSO MAKE PEPPERONI, ITALIAN SAUSAGE, GREEN PEPPER, ANCHOVY, AND MEATBALL. AND IF THAT'S NOT ENOUGH WE ALSO FEATURE 12 GREAT KINDS OF SANDWICHES.

103 N. PLEASANT AMHERST MASSACHUSETTS 256-6350

Clements-less Huskies Possess Potent Punch

By BARRY RUBENSTEIN
Assistant Sports Editor

It's all on the line this Saturday for the UMass football team as they host the Yankee Conference leaders and the biggest threat to grab the Redman's YanCon crown at Alumni Stadium. The opponent is of course, Connecticut.

UMass must win this game. It's as simple as that. A loss in this one and the Redmen will be mathematically eliminated from any chance of repeating as Conference champs. UConn is 3-0 in the Conference and 3-2 overall. If it should emerge with a victory Saturday, it would have a YanCon mark of 4-0, a record which will be impossible for the slumping Redmen to match.

From a cursory look at the UConn roster, it might seem that Coach John Toner's charges are not as strong now as they were earlier in the season.

From a cursory look at the UConn roster, it might seem that Coach John Toner's charges are not as strong now as they were earlier in the season. The reason for this is simple - Vinny Clements will probably not see any action.

For anyone who does not know anything about UConn athletics, and you would have to be totally ignorant not to have heard of him, Clements has been Mr. Everything for the Huskies for the last two seasons. In 1969, the 6'3-204 lb. senior co-captain picked up over 1,000 yards rushing, scored nine touchdowns and nabbed 29 passes. On top of that he led the team in punt returns, kickoff returns and was the team's second leacing passer completing eight passes and a touchdown.

But as was said earlier, the amazing Clements will likely not play. He sustained an injury in the third play of UConn's 41-23 loss to Temple and sat out all of last week's 45-13 thumping of Maine. Taking away a man who has already scored seven touchdowns and who averages five yards a carry from a team would usually prove disastrous, but amazingly the Huskies pulled a rabbit out of the hat and found someone who could out-Clements.

His name is Ray Jackson. Gander at these statistics for a while. Playing his first full game as a tailback against the Black Bears, the sophomore speedster gained 173 yards in only 14 carries, an average of over 12 yards a try. He tallied three touchdowns, one of which went for no less than 90 yards.

But getting back down to earth, one must remember that all of these heroics were accomplished against the Black Bears of Maine, not exactly the toughest defensive unit in the country. So although Jackson makes up most of Clements loss, no team can completely negate the hole left by a player of his stature.

Directing the offense for the Huskies will be two-year letterman Rick Robustelli. The 5'11 189-lb signal caller is off to a fine start this season with 63 completions in 122 attempts and five TD's to date. However, he has been intercepted six times.

The offensive line is anchored by two three-year starters in guards Bill Spencer and Tony Arcaro. It's a good sized unit averaging 222 pounds per man and they're experienced. Clements and Jackson owe a great deal of their success to this group.

The team's leading receiver is Keith Kraham with 17 receptions for 285 yards and four touchdowns. With Clements out, Robustelli will likely be forced to go to him and Brian Herosian, who has got 15 receptions, more than usual.

UConn is an excellent two-way team and only one of its opponents, Temple, has been able to score more than two touchdowns against the Husky defense.

Leading the unit is senior co-captain Brian Hermes, the middle linebacker, and left linebacker Jack Losh. Losh has intercepted five enemy passes this season and is only one short of the UConn record.

The Huskies also boast of a defensive line which includes 280-lb. Tom Goode. Although the 6'7 senior is listed as only 240-lb. on the roster, the UMass coaching staff feels he must be at least 280 pounds.

In the backfield is Herosian who is somewhat of an anachronism in that he goes both ways. As was mentioned earlier, he is also the team's second leading receiver.

With the Redmen having their backs against the proverbial wall, this UConn team should prove a very stern test. With or without Clements, the Huskies are a fine football team.

UConn's Line-up

Offense
C Vic Fleck, 5'10 200
LG Tony Arcaro, 6'0 230
RG Bill Spencer, 5'11 221
LT Don Miller, 6'1 212
RT Bill Tuil, 6'4 247
LE Vince Russell, 6'0 185
RE Bob Nichols, 6'1 214
F Keith Kraham, 6'1 208
HB Juan Madry, 5'10 175
HB Ray Jackson, 5'10 184
QB Rick Robustelli, 5'11 189

Defense
LE Bill Hogan, 6'1 195
LT Tom Goode, 6'7 280
RT Jim Pisciottano, 5'11 214
RE Al Akowitz, 6'1 193
LB Jack Losh, 5'9 202
LB Brian Hermes, 6'1 217
LB John Salek, 6'3 201
LB Mark Svencer, 6'2 202
HB Brian Herosian, 6'3 183
HB Greg Andrews, 5'9 150
S Don Carlucci, 5'9 173

THE HUSKY

Want To Get Close To Nature? Try Crew

Editor's Note: The following story came about as the result of the reporter being asked to cover Sunday's Head of the Charles Regatta, held annually in Boston and participated in by the UMass crew team. To achieve a better insight on what she would be reporting on in Boston, the reporter went to a few crew practices, to which she was warmly received by coach Mike Faherty and his team. She became immediately enthralled by the sport and felt that she should convey her experiences and share her new-found knowledge with readers of this paper. Here is her story.)

By BIONA SIMON
Staff Reporter

It was so good to get back onto the water again. Having been raised by the ocean, I took on the crew assignment with great fervor. Amherst had landlocked me for far too long.

Just the opportunity of watching from a motorboat members of the UMass Crew Club practice on the Connecticut River brought me a closeness to the sport. In the launch, while dictating form criticism and advice to his rowers, coach Mike Faherty explained the technicalities of crew racing.

Crew is basic. Organized races began over a hundred years ago in this area, coming from what was already a tradition in Europe.

This fall, practices have been held exclusively in the eight-man shells. Each man rows only one oar, alternating one on the starboard side, the next I be port. At the stern is the pace-setter or coxswain (pronounced cox'in), who calls the beat and steers the boat using wooden handles called pommels, that are attached to cables to the rutter. The rowers are numbered, usually one to seven starting at the bow with the eighth man called the stroke. The rest of the crew follow the stroke's oar.

The actual act of rowing is done not only by use of the arms, but of the legs also. With their feet tied down, the rowers sit on seats that are able to slide back and forth on a metal track with the straightening and bending of the legs. The footholds are adjustible to give everyone the same length of push along the track to insure unity of the strokes.

UMass' racing shells, American Blade Pococks, have been slightly modified. The rower slides through the lock, that is, when his knees are bent, he is beyond the oarlock and rigger. This results in better leverage and more use of leg muscles wher he thrusts himself back. The footholds have been elevated to give a smaller angle of reclivity on the leg, which now will not hit the crossbar when thrown down.

Ordinarily a spring sport, the crew is getting in shape for a three-mile race to be held Sunday on the Charles River in Boston. Workouts include rowing approximately seven miles a day, under interval training in which two or three minutes of power stroking is intervened by paddling at a relatively slow pace. Also on the practice schedule are days of primarily long distance rowing.

Coach Faherty has a good group of rowers to choose two teams from. Returning varsity members, seniors Charles Leonard, Tom Mone and Dave Richard, and juniors Jack Appel, Rick Jones, Kevin O'Brien and Bob Weimer have experience from being on last year's fourth-place team.

The rest except freshman John Romig are sophomores, Jeff Allen, Ted Fitzpatrick, Al Flanders, Larry Jablonski, Steve Kinner, Bill Moran, Clay Morin, Joe Piela, Mel Streim, Doug Thompson and Paul Winchell, who have also rowed together before, on last year's frosh team. The coxswains are Bob Jayes, Chris Jedrey and Kenny Raymond.

I had thought that I could take no active part in the sport. Being a spectator was ample for my thirst for the sea, but the replenishment was increased twofold when coach Faherty permitted me to ride as coxswain during two of the practice sessions. With the knowledge of crew racing and sailing I had acquired, my ability to steer the vessel was none too good. Shades of George Plimpton! A reporter experiencing that which she writes about discovers things aren't as simple as they may appear while merely watching.

Thinking I was in control of a steering mechanism comparable to the tiller on a sailboat, it took me quite a while to find that when I pulled the left pummel the boat went toward the left insttad of the right. As it were, my boat was not the only one on the water, and a near collision of the two shells, with myself at fault, of course, was averted when coach Faherty ordered both boats to stop.

While Faherty was frantically looking for a new coxswain, I managed to steer the boat under the bridge and further up the river intact. Finally an Amherst College cox replaced me and I self-consciously retreated onto the launch to once again become an observer.

As a sport, crew racing is impressive. The harmony, cadence and togetherness of the rowers is amazing. Eight men whose form and strokes are of the same beat. Spending so much time together, the eight learn to handle the boat as one, and thus, they are one - - very close knit.

There is also a closeness to nature. Strange to say that when crew is a fast race to beat another team, but whoever said you have to go slowly to grasp the beauty of the world? Being on the water and moving on account of your own movements that glide the oar so smoothly, certainly not discalming. You master the environment, and yet do no harm to it.

Even if you have never been on a beach much less on the water, crew is an exciting, addicting experience.

Little Redman Booters Tie Amherst, 1-1 As Defense Faces Toughest Test to Date

By STEVE FERBER
Staff Reporter

In their toughest fray to date, the UMass freshmen soccer team came away with a 1-1 tie against Amherst last Tuesday. Playing at Amherst's home field, the frosh once again put together an impressive defensive show, in boasting the Redman's mark to 2-0-1.

UMass began quickly, much like their first minutes of the WPI game. Midway in the first period, the Redmen scored, unfortunately though it was to be their sole goal of the afternoon. At 13:47 of that opening period Mark Tyma sailed a corner kick into the goal area. Noel Anderson headed the ball and then in the ensuing scramble Mike Nugent got hold of the ball and booted it away past the lunging Amherst goalkeeper.

UMass let up a bit in the second and third quarters, only to come on strong in the fourth and overtimes periods. But it was during the third period that Amherst got the goal back. A direct kick from 10 yards out put Amherst on the scoreboard, and for the third time in three games a goal had been scored against UMass on a direct kick from 10 yards out.

The Amherst squad who kept UMass goalie Bill Beggs busier than ever, has extremely impressive credentials. Of the 40 players available, 28 freshmen boys were either captain or co-captain on their high school or prep school soccer teams. The height of the Amherst team was another striking feature as they thoroughly dominated the head-balls against the smaller UMass players. But despite the presence of so many excellent individual players, the Redmen got the better of the action, working much more like a team than 11 individuals out on the field.

At game's end, Coach Jekanowski commented to his players, "Nothing to be ashamed of." Indeed there was not as UMass put together their third strong performance in three games. The Redmen's only problem thus far has been capitalizing on scoring opportunities, but invariably it takes time for the members of the front line to get used to each other. Thus the more and more the forwards play together the more cohesive the unit will become.

The Frosh battle UConn at home tomorrow, facing their only Yankee Conference opponent of the season. The Redmen are just waiting for their offense to break loose and UConn could likely be the victim as they head towards victory number three.

sPoRts ShorTiEs

— AP —

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Danny Murtaugh, named Wednesday as The Associated Press National League Manager of 1970, might have been a dry cleaner in Chester, Pa., if the breaks had gone differently.

Instead he's been recognized by sports writers and broadcasters throughout the country for his managerial work with the NL East champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

*****

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday acquired, for the third time, utility infielder Dick "Ducky" Schofield in a trade with the Boston Red Sox.

Cardinal General Manager Bing Devine said Schofield was acquired in exchange for minor league outfielder first baseman Jim Campbell.

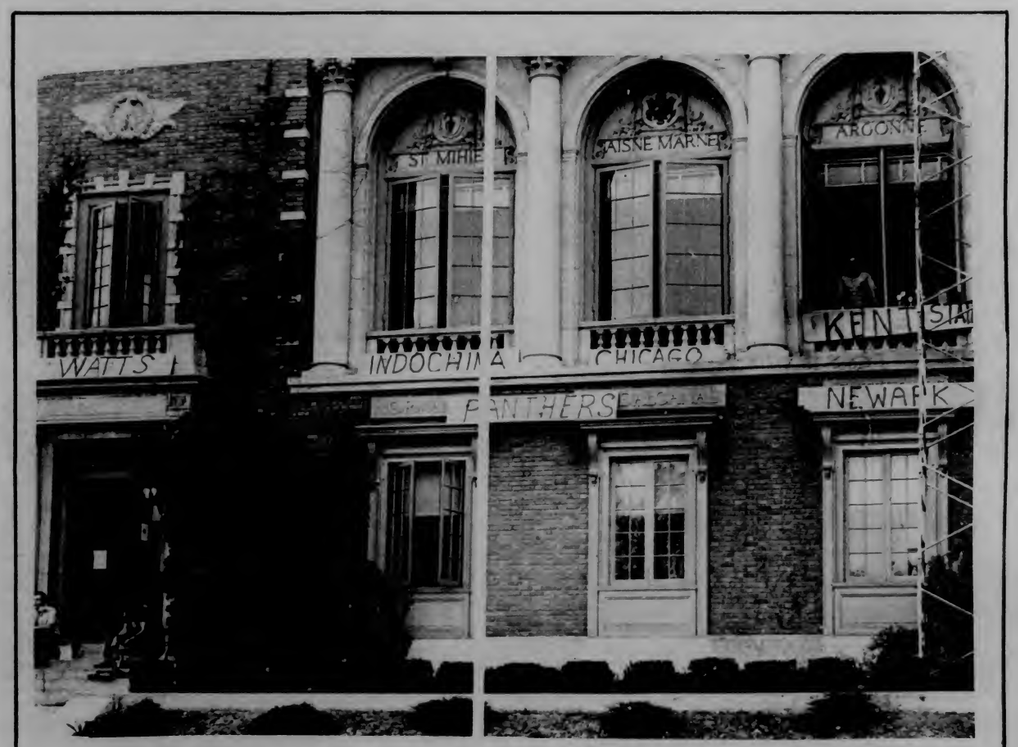
Tonight's Intramurals

FOOTBALL PLAYOFFS

TIME	TEAMS
7:00	Team vs. Tubes
7:00	Panthers vs. Pied Pipers
7:00	Roadrunners vs. 3 M's
7:00	Redwoods vs. Academics

TUG-O-WAR

PIT	TIME	TEAMS
2	8:00	AXO vs. LXO
2	8:15	Lovers vs. Cougars
2	8:30	Deacons vs. Dogs



IM Scores

PSK, PLP double forfeit
Cougars WBF Academics
PMD 2, SE 0
Seagrams WBF Panthers

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 32 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1970

Students To Rally Behind Kent State 25

REMEMBERING THE DEAN - Signs mark the battlefronts of the movement on the front of Alumni hall, replacing the names of battles in which UMass alumni diedwhile serving in the U.S. army. The changes in the memorials were made last spring during the nationwide student strike, and one of the signs, upper left, marks the death of four students at Kent State University. UMass students will rally at the Cage this afternoon to express solidarity with 25 Kent students indicted in connection with last spring's deaths. Story on page 3. (MDC photo by Gary Slickman).

MDC Features:

- Fine Arts Center Turn To Pages 12, 13
- Long Range Planning Story On Pages 14, 15

From The Statler To The CC

Trustees To Hold October Meeting

By RICHARD HANSON
Asst. News Editor

The new "Trustee Meeting Room" on the 11th floor of the Campus Center, with its multi-thousand dollar granite table, will be put into official use for the first time today at 2:00 p.m., as Trustees gather to discuss what appears a routine line-up on the agenda.

After the "call to order" and "consideration of minutes of prior meeting" the Board will be addressed by President Robert Wood and will hear reports from standing committees on Faculty and Educational Policy, the Executive Committee, the Committee on Finance, and the Committee on Buildings and grounds. Later in the meeting, after the President's personal agenda, the Board will hear a report from the UMass Building Authority and news from the Massachusetts Board of Higher Education.

Last month's meeting, held in the Boston Statler Hilton Hotel, the Board was occupied mostly with affairs of the New Columbia Point campus UMass-Boston campus. Concerning the Amherst campus, the Board voted approval of t... transfer of University and Lincoln Apartments to University control and the setting up of self-liquidating finance plan and appropriate rent hikes. The Board also voiced approval of the arrangements made for the "Top of the Campus" Campus Center, liquor license, while hearing a progress report on the operation of the Campus Center and parking garage from Warren Grinnan, Manager of the Campus Center. One of the comments made by Grinnan upon questioning from Trustee Shaler, was that students were depressed by the size and impersonality of the Center. It might be noted that since the last Trustee's meeting, tie-dye sheets have been hung throughout the Concourse level and the Campus Center slide has been restored to its original condition.

UMass Trustees pictured above will gather for their first meeting in the Campus Center this month. (MDC photo by Pat Lempart)

Senate Demands Bromery Appt.

by Wayne Soini
Senate Reporter

Last week the student senate called for the immediate appointment of Dr. Randolph W. Bromery to the office of Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs. Wednesday night, in an action after the Collegian article went to press, the senate called for that appointment again by indirection.

Background: On October 1 the Faculty Senate passed a bill for formation search committees to fill positions in academic, administrative and public positions - and a "student affairs committee" for the purpose of filling the Vice-Chancellor's position. This bill came before the student senate Wednesday, presented by President Glenn Ellers.

Vice-President Pat Beharry suggested an amendment which was accepted without objection to eliminate from the bill the "student affairs committee". Since the senate has endorsed R. W. Bromery for position of Vice-Chancellor, the vice-president saw no reason for the formation of a search committee. Arguing that formation of a committee following selection by endorsement of Bromery would be "hypocritical", she won support for passage of the modified bill, approving formation of only 3 of 4 search committees.

Bill Abbott, agreeing, said, "It is time to draw the line and stop playing games with the administration."

Some senators felt that the formation of a search committee would delay appointment of Bromery by five or six months. Also, since the proposed search committee of 18 would have included 10 undergraduate students, the appointment of students would have to be well-considered.

Vice-President Beharry, who coordinates senate committees, feared that she would have to rob Peter to pay Paul for such appointments. Control of the committee could not go into incompetent or inexperienced people without risking losing control of the committee.

The bill passed and goes back to the faculty senate. Should the faculty senate agree with the student senate, Chancellor Tippo will be confronted next week with the refusal to form a search committee and a united endorsement of Randolph Wilson Bromery for the Vice-Chancellory. He will be on the hot seat.

The faculty senate meets to decide on this next Thursday, October 29.

Russian folksongs last night strengthened the sense of community between oppressed Jews and UMass Hillel members. The occasion was the annual Soviet Jewry Rally held in the TV room of the Student Union.
(MDC photo by David Bernstein)

Rally Urges Freedom For Jews

Jewry lives on the other side of the Iron Curtain" Susan Feiganbaum told a small gathering of Hillel's annual Soviet Jewry Rally last night in the Student Union TV room.

The freshman from the University of Hartford was the featured speaker of the evening. She shared her experiences of living with the oppressed Jews in Russia and Rumania this past summer.

"We are gathered here as witnesses to the fact that we are involved with their (the oppressed Jews) problems" she declared.

Reading an entry from her journal, the coed compassionately told of a bus trip which was a gay, special excursion for those people.

Commenting on the recent hijacking of a Soviet Transport plane to Turkey by a Jewish father and son, Miss Feiganbaum said she doesn't condone such action, but it illustrates how desperate the situation is in the Soviet Union. She believes that the hijackers should be judged in Turkey.

Draft Counselor's Corner

Canada May Not Be Solution

By GILBERT J. SALK
Staff Reporter

In an earlier column, I said that there were some important questions to be raised about going to Canada to avoid the draft. Today, I'd like to pose and discuss some of those questions.

The border to Canada is currently pretty open to U.S. tourists, draft avoiders and evaders, and deserters. (Deserters are men who have resigned from the Armed Forces before their contracts have expired). Thus, it is physically an easy matter to move there. However, this has created a large population of immigrants -- people without jobs, without direction, without any definite future.

This has created a number of problems for the Canadian government. Grass is hard to get in Canada, so many are into speed, coke, smack, and other drugs. Thus, the crime rate is extremely high in the "American ghettoes" of Canada as the jobless try to rip off enough money to support their habits. This is slowly creating a tide of pressure against young Americans in Canada. The danger of this is that if the border tightens up, the first to suffer will probably be those who most desperately need to get in - the deserters and others who have the MPs and FBI on their tails.

There is also a serious unemployment problem in Canada. Simply, this means that there are no jobs. If you go to Canada, you will be a foreigner. Job preference in Canada is the same as here -- natives first, outsiders last. Finding work will be an incredible hassle. No work means that finding food, clothes, and a place to crash will be an even more incredible hassle. And every job or crash pad you take up takes one away from a brother who may be there as an absolute last resort.

Most U.S. immigrants go through a period of severe cultural shock in Canada. The concept of being a foreigner, an outsider, is impossible to conceptualize or prepare yourself for. Most go into a state of depression and inactivity which lasts for more than six months. This is a nearly universal happening for newcomers to Canada. As a result, the suicide rate among American expatriates is extremely high.

The problems are reaching such staggering proportions that anti-war groups in Canada which were set up to counsel young Americans who were coming to Canada to get out of the draft are now actively encouraging people to stay away except as a last resort. They resent their time being taken up by people who are on romantic flights from reality when there are desperate brothers who need help. They resent their funds and homes being used by people who could be working to oppose the draft until the shit really starts to come down when some brothers are already being buried in the shitslide.

So dig on it, people. Do you have to go to Canada, or is it simply an easy out? Are you making it harder for someone whose only other alternatives are jail or Nam, and he has to make his choice last week? The Revolution is all about humanity, man. Which side are you on?

Questions to this column should be addressed to Gilbert J. Salk, c/o Draft Counseling Services RSO #395, Campus Center, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.
Free personal draft counseling is available at Draft Counseling Services, 418 E. Student Union 2nd floor.

GET the REDMEN HIGH!

Come Float at the Parade tonight
and Rally later on.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor).
Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $7.50 per semester, $14.00 per year.

GLASS ONION
SAT. OCT. 24
Berkshire Commons
with CLEAN LIVING
and Folksinger Frank Peluso
8:30-12:30
FOOD & DRINK

Antique Show
SUNDAY
10 A.M. - 5 P.M.
Amherst Regional High Gym
"Over 50 selected dealers"
Benefit
Northampton Quota Club
SNACK BAR
Admission 75¢
MALCOLM W. TURNER
Show Mgr.
Amherst, Mass.

Rally Shows Support For Indicted Kent 25

By James Goldman
Staff Reporter

UMass students plan to "stand in solidarity" behind 25 students and activists indicted by an Ohio Grand Jury for their actions at Kent State University las May, when they hold a rally in the Cage today at 2:00 p.m.

It will be one of several rallies to be held around the country today, to protest what the sponsors call "the systematic repression of political dessidents across the country."

Speakers at the UMass rally include Phillip Green of the Smith College Political Science Department, Charles Beard from Jackson State College, William Miskas and Pepper Stevens from Kent State, Howard Gadlin of the UMass psychology department, Robalee Chaplin of UMass Woman's Liberation, Sidney Finehish of UMass SMC, and an unidentified speaker from the Angela Davis Defense Committee.

Endorsed last night by both the undergraduate and graduate student Senates, the rally is co-sponsored by the Student Mobilization Committee (MOBE), Woman's Liberation, the Young Socialist Alliance, the Young Workers' Liberation League and the Committee Against Repression.

A spokesman for the groups planning the meeting said yesterday that most of the speakers will stress what actions can be taken to stop what he called "the growing tide of fascism' in the nation, and will "explain how the Grand Jury reports are false and biased."

That Grand Jury indicted 25 students and activists earlier this week for their role in the demonstration at Kent State University last May 4th, at which four students were killed by National Guard gunfire.

The Grand Jury's findings are in sharp disagreement with the findings of the President's Commission Campus Unrest, which blamed the National Guard for virtually all the disruptions at the school.

But the Grand Jury stated that the blame for the shootings should lie with the students, and it cleared the National Guard of any blame.

"There can be no clearer example of repression Ohio specifically and in the nation general than the report of the Grand Jury," rally planners said last night.

That spokesman continued, "This action by the Grand Jury must be construed as a part of a general program of repression...and we must now act in solidarity with our brothers and sisters at Kent State and in the defense of the civil liberties of us all."

UAW Calls For Students To Aid Labor Movement

By LINDA A. BALICKI
Staff Reporter

"Students, universities and labor must unite together to put more humaness in our society".

Such was the statement of Alfred Ollierio of the United Auto Workers in a speech before the Young People's Socialist League last night. He went on to state that "there are more substantial ways than demonstrations for students to help labor and political causes."

One of the ways in which students might help the labor movement is to petition universities to develop departments which study the human aspects of the productive process.

He said that the working man has been relegated to the position of a "human automation machine" because of current production methods and that it is his union's intent that provisions be made so as to treat the worker more as a human being.

He went on to outline the following points in the current contract proposal which would serve to humanize the production process:

Provisions which would allow a group of workers to complete production on a single automobile rather than the mass production of component parts. "This would allow the worker to express the native creativity which exists in every man and give him a greater sense of accomplishment."

A National Health Plan to replace the inflationary-priced Blue Cross-Blue Shield Plan which most workers cannot afford.

"Workers should not have to pay exorbitant prices for coverage which is vital to their well being".

An Educational Plan which would set aside one cent per hour worked for a scholarship fund for employees' children. "We realize that educational costs in the future may well exceed the worker's ability to pay and we feel the need to provide a means so that those children can get the education they need."

An Orientation for New Hirees will serve to orient the new worker to the Automation system. "Often new employees are totally unaccustomed to the automotive industry and they must be given the guidance to adapt themselves to that process."

Pollution control would encourage general motors to develop a new car engine which would cut down or eliminate a majorsource of air pollution.

The UAW's major wage proposal would see the inclusion of the remaining 6¢ hour which the union has not yet received from the 1967 contract increase.

"In all areas our principle objective is to insure the relevancy of the work to the person", he went on to say. "No amount of money will satisfy or compensate their (workers) roles as human beings.

With regard to student participation in the strike. Ollierio stated that the student's best function would be to establish a rapport between themselves, the colleges and universities they attend, and labor. "Only in this way can we build the basis for true substantial change in our society."

In response to an inquiry about the effectiveness of student demonstrations in support of the strike or the liberal political candidates which the UAW supports he stated emphatically "If there are any violent demonstrations anywhere in the country between now and November 3, a serious split between college students, labor and liberals in Congress will occur - a split which will never be healed. I repeat there are more substantial, peaceful means to accomplish change."

He concluded that there is now a plan for the inclusion of students on the regional governing board of the UAW in order to implement the establishment of "a fraternity" which will serve to make great changes in modern society.

Maddox Declares Morning For Muhammed Ali Fight

ATLANTA (AP) - Monday, the day of the Muhammad Ali-Jerry Quarry heavyweight fight, has been declared an official day of mourning in Georgia by Gov. Lester Maddox.

The governor called a news conference Thursday to issue a proclamation and denounce Ali as a draft dodger.

"I hope he gets beat in the first round," Maddox said. "Flattened out. To the count of 30."

Maddox previously sought to prevent the fight taking place in Georgia, but Atty. Gen. Arthur K. Bolton ruled he had no authority to prevent it because prize fighting is not mentioned in Georgia law.

Joseph Browder, Washington Director of Friends of the Earth, was the first in a series of distinguished ecologists' lecturers last night. (MDC photo by Barry Penn)

Ecology Lecturer Tells Of Threat To Everglades

By JOANNE STILES
Staff Reporter

Speaking in the first of a series of Distinguished Ecologists Lectures, Joseph A. Browder, Washington Director of Friends of the Earth called for effective public pressure to save the Everglades.

"The machinery of government does not operate unless outside forces go in the kick it. Most outside forces are not interested in the public With pride Browder cited one instance when the outside force was interested in the public welfare. Last fall there was enough public support to kill a bill which would have appropriated money to build a Jetport in the Everglades. The project would have destroyek the whole ecologic system of the Everglades.

Browder explained the Public value of the Everglades: It is the single largest tourist attraction in Florida and brings millions of dollars into the state annually. The Everglades supports a multi-million dollar shrimp industry. The sport fishing industries depend on the maintenance of the Everglades' estuaries which bland brackish water with nutrients and form spawning grounds for fish.

But the fight is not over. Browder described the attitudes of promoters "with dollar signs in their eyes" who say "let us have it (public land) so we'll get rich and everyone else will be better off".

People don't have the day to day ability to counter pressure and protect public interests from the incredible bureaucracy of government", Browder complained. In fact the government is making it increasingly difficult for citizens' groups to "Kick the machinery of government." Recently a new Internal Revenue Service ruling prohibits tax exempt groups from lobbying.

It is difficult for citizens to have any say in the tax laws structure. Even if people do organize, they have little hope of getting funding", Browder explained. "Too many people are excluded from the legislative process," he stated.

Browder also suggested that tax deductible organizations take to the courts instead of lobbying for conservation. Political campaigns which bring more responsibility and more values to government can be effective. Long range planning is also necessary to deal efficiently with the ecology problem.

Lastly Browder asked for support from other social interests because "the same corrupt cause is responsible for social injustices as well."

20¢ Large BEER
1st BEER FREE
and
MICHELLE MARQUIS
4-8 every Friday
MEADOW INN Rt. 47

Weenk-end Hours
FRIDAY 11 a. m. 2 a. m.
SATURDAY 11 a. m. 2 a. m.
SUNDAY 11 a. m. 2 a. m.
BELL'S PIZZA
University Drive
THE BEST PIZZA IN TOWN
FREE DELIVERY OF PIZZA
Call 256-8011 or 253-9051

WELCOME ALUMNI

Looking for something familiar?
PETE'S PACKAGE
has been in the same location for 36 years.
Open 9 a.m.-11 p.m.
144 Summer St., N. Amherst

In The Nation And The World

Chilean Major General Attacked by Terrorists

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) Terrorists blocked an automobile carrying the commander in chief of Chile's army at a busy intersection Thursday and gunned him down. Maj. Gen. Rene Schneider, 57, was reported in critical condition Thursday night after emergency surgery.

Covered with blood, he was taken to a military hospital where emergency surgery was performed to remove three pistol bullets from his neck, chest and arm. One bullet grazed a lung and his heart, a government spokesman said. His condition was described as grave.

The government declared a state of emergency and 10,000 soldiers and police spread out over Santiago looking for the attackers.

The decree allows them to search and arrest withotut warning.

Political organizations backing Marxist Salvador Allende for president blamed the assassination attempt on "ultraright wing groups...in league with foreign elements who see their interests affected" by Allende's victory.

Allende met with President Eduardo Frei at Government House after both had called at the hospital to see Schneider. Allende said he told Frei "that this is part of a seditious plan that can lead to very painful consequences."

"This attempt against the life of Gen. Schneider is incredible," Allende told reporters. "Once again I want to say that there are people who will stop at nothing, not even assassination."

Allende did not identify the persons he suspects of sedition, and police gave no clue as to the affiliation of the gunmen. There have been reports that Allende himself is the target of plots to prevent him from becoming president.

Various military men are restive at the prospect of Allende, a Socialist senator, becoming president because he then would have the power of military appointments. But they have controlled their feelings so far.

Police said the ambush was carried out in the plush El Golf section of Santiago with great precision.

Four or five men in three cars blocked Schneider's chauffeur driven blue limousine at an intersection where traffic was heavy.

Police said the gunmen ran up to the limousine, knocked out the rear windows with the butts of their 45 caliber pistols, and fired about eight shots at point black range.

The army driver was unable to draw his own pistol in time to fire at the attackers. He sped to the military hospital with Schneider immediately after the ambush.

Suspect Arrested In Hilltop Murder

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) - Sheriff Douglas James revealed Thursday the identity of one of at least three persons sought for questioning in the murder of five persons at a hilltop mansion Monday night.

He told a news conference the man is John Linley Frazier, 24, also known as John Linley Pascal, but refused to reveal why he is wanted.

Sheriff James described Frazier, or Pascal, as white, about 5 foot 7, with long brown hair and a light beard.

Disclosure of a note, left on the windshield of the slain Dr. Victor M. Ohta's maroon Rolls Royce, intensified the search. The note read:

Today World War 3 will begin as brought to you by the People of the Free Universe. From this day forward anyone and or company of persons who misuses the natural environment or destroys same will suffer the penalty of death by the People of the Free Universe.

"I and my comrades from this day forth will fight until death or freedom, against anything or anyone who does not support natural life on this planet. Materialism must die or mankind will stop."

The note was signed with the names of four knights from Taret, fortune telling cards once favored by gypsies.

Dr. Ohta's $250,000 home, blending tastefully with the landscape on a ridge four miles east of Santa Cruz, was destroyed by fire apparently set by the killers.

The bound bodies of the doctor, his wife, their two young sons and his secretary were found in the free form swimming pool by firemen.

You've Come A Long Way, Baby!

Women Make FBI Top 10

WASHINGTON (AP) - An all male bastion since its inception 20 years ago, the FBI's "Top Ten" wanted list is making room for women in increasing numbers.

In its first 18 years of existence, the Top Ten contained no women's names at all. But in less than two years, a lady kidnaper, a murderess escaped from death row and four self-proclaimed revolutionaries have been included.

Slots on the list are handed out at the discretion of J. Edgar Hoover, the 76 year old bachelor who runs the FBI.

The Top Ten, whose wanted posters in every post office, court house and police station in the country make it perhaps the nation's most famosus roster, is becoming less exclusive.

Rigidly restricted to only the 10 most wanted fugitives in the country until the addition of H. Rap Brown as No. 11 last spring, it now contains 16 names. Four of them are women.

The four women now on the Top Ten are:

Bernadine Rae Dohrn, 27, former national secretary of Students for a Democratic Society. A leader of the radical, underground Weatherman organization, Miss Dohrn is sought on federal charges of conspiring to riot and bomb.

Marie Dean Arrington, a black woman who had been sentenced to death for the murder of a legal secretary in Florida.

Susan Edith Saxe and Katherine Ann Power charged with murder in the death of a Boston policeman following a bank robbery late last month. The FBI describes them as "members of a radical, revolutionary group dedicated to attacking the United States military system and undermining police powers." They also are charged with theft of government property and state charges of robbing a Philadelphia savings and loan company.

US-Soviet Relations Improve As Nixon and Gromyko Confer

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon and Russia's foreign minister held Thursday a lengthy meeting which the White House termed "helpful for laying the basis for improved relations between the United States and the Soviet Union."

"The meeting was conducted in a friendly atmosphere throughout," press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler commented.

In like vein, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko voiced hope that the parley "will be of positive significance for the development and improvement of Soviet American relations."

From a convivial chit chat beginning to the statement issuing end, Nixon's first business meeting as President with such a high Soviet official contrasted in outward tone with some recent administration criticisms of the Kremlin line.

After U.S. intelligence spotted evidence of Soviet Egyptian Mideast truce violations and missile sub base building in Cuba, White House officials last month were avowing apprehension that the Kremlin is shifting back to a cold war stance.

Ziegler declined to answer directly whether U.S. doubts about Kremlin interest in Nixon's "era of negotiations" policy have eased.

He told newsmen under questioning that:

-He knows of no written message brought by Gromyko to Nixon from Kremlin leaders.

-There was no discussion of a U.S. Soviet summit meeting or a Nixon trip to Russia, to Ziegler's knowledge.

Reversing what a high Administration authority had indicated earlier, U.S. officials let it be known Thursday that the Americans had initiated the White House date for Gromyko.

The officials said Nixon's inability to see Gromyko while the foreign niminster was at last year's U.N. session had caused some misunderstanding in Moscow. So Washington passed word this time that a Gromyko request for a White House appointment would be granted, they said. Soviet sources had said the initiative for the meeting came from the American side.

Polaroid Halts Sale of Film For Apartheid ID Program

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - Polaroid Corp. says it is halting sale to South Africa of its products which could be used in that nation's apartheid program.

The company announcement Wednesday was a direct response to an employee group criticism of the company for doing business with a country that legally separates races.

In a notice to employees Senior Vice-President Arthur Barnes said, "Polaroid has in the past prohibited sale of its identification system to the South African government for use in the apartheid passbook program.

"We are now discontinuing sale of any Polaroid products including film, directly or indirectly, which might be used in this identification program."

Polaroid has been selling its "ID 2" equipment to industries and military agencies in South Africa.

The protest against the practice was launched by the Polaroid Revolutionary Workers Movement, a predominately black group.

The group contended the company should not practice equal employment at home and sell to a legally segregated country abroad.

ROOM TO MOVE
Campus Drug Drop-In Center
Call 5-0400 24 Hours A Day 7 Days A Week

DANCE TO!
LISTEN TO!
The New Sounds of
THE ENDLESS KNIGHTS
with: Miss Dorothy Dadmun Folk Jazz
Blues
Rock
At The CHEQUERS
Fri. & Sat. 9-12 p.m.

Ingmar Bergman's
VIRGIN SPRING
presented by SU Program Council
Sunday, Oct. 25 SU Ballroom
7:00 & 9:00 Admission: 50c

On The Campaign Trail

Nixon Exploiting Voters, Dem. Chairman Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) - Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien accused the Nixon administration Thursday of "a calculated attempt" to exploit voters' anxieties and fears in this election year.

O'Brien said President Nixon sent Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as a "programmed emissary to preach the politics of fear" and now has personally joined him in "the mind fogging magic of demagoguery."

"This combination has managed to drag into the arena of politics into the scramble for votes-virtually every note of discord plaguing our society," O'Brien said in a National Press Club speech.

The reason, he said, is administration failure to deal "with the urgent needs of our society" and its need "to mask that failure."

O'Brien said the nation survived "the politics of fear" practiced by the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy, R Wis., in the 1950s "and we hoped we had finally outgrown such national aberrations."

"But now," he added, "we are beset once again by the politics of fear. And this time, the practitioner is not a single, demagogic senator, but a carefully orchestrated team of the highest office holders in the land.

"And this time the whole two party process and the health of our society are hanging in the balance," O'Brien added. "The art of leadership, to those in power today, has been reduced to discord, divisiveness, distrust and just plain demagogery."

First Lady Stumps For Candidates

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)-Pat Nixon, getting a warm airport welcome Thursday on a Florida trip, said the campaign "looks great" for Republicans and she hopes it turns out that way with victory Nov. 3.

She came to Florida to boost the senatorial candidacy of Republican Congressman William C. Cramer. Cramer didn't show up anywhere along her route he was campaigning elsewhere in the state.

But as the day wound up the First Lady told reporters flatly, "We need Bill Cramer in the Senate."

After shaking hands for 11/2 hours at a women's reception at a posh waterfront condominium apartment complex at Point Brittany, a pretty island 18 miles from St. Petersburg, Mrs. Nixon took her campaign swing here.

At the Point Brittany recreation center, she shook hands while standing in a hill top pavillion overlooking a clover leaf swimming pool and the Gulf of Mexico.

The grassy spot was decorated with signs for Cramer and William Young, who is seeking the congressional seat that Cramer is vacating to run against Democrat Lawton Chiles, a state senator who gained fame by walking 1,000 miles across Florida in his party's primary campaign.

Some 800 women showed up for the reception at Point Brittany, a complex of more than 500 condominium apartments where the prices range from $200,000 to $150,000.

Vice-President Defends Nixon's Economic Policy

TUSCON, Arix. (AP) - Vice President Sprio T. Agnew defended the Nixon administration's economic policies Thursday night and accused its critics of trying to "panic the electorate."

"When we took office 21 months ago, inflation was high and mounting," Agnew said. "A 10 per cent surtax had been imposed, interest rates were at record levels and moving up, and the purchasing power of the working man's hadn't risen a dime in three years."

This situation has changed, he said, because of the character and courage of President Nixon.

The vice president was greeted by about 200 persons at the Tuscon airport as he arrived for his second campaign stop in Arizona in less than a month.

Earlier in the day, several hundred young people chanted "Peace now" and interrupted portions of Agnew's speech at a rally at the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, airport. There were no serious incidents during the half hour stopover.

At one point he told the young people, who made up about half of the more than 1,000 packed into an airplane hanger: "I appreciate your support very much, but your signs speak with forked tongues."

Liberals Predict Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) Referendum 70, a group furnishing campaign expertise to some 100 candidates across the nation, said Thursday liberals will generally hold and add to their congressional seats.

"It's commonplace to say the United States is turning to the right this year, but we feel the election will provide a different answer," Robert H. Clampitt, the group's director, told a news conference.

"Very few liberals or peace and priority candidates are in serious trouble," said the group's steering committee chairman, Don Green.

Their thinking is based on reports of Referendum 70's fieldworkers, of which there are about 50, "hard headed analysis," but not in depth polling, Green and Clampitt said.

In the Senate, Green said, Vance Hartke in Indiana and Philip Hart in Michigan should be re-elected and be joined by newcomers Joe Duffey, Conn.; Adlai Stevenson III, Ill.; George Rawlings, Va.; Philip Hoff, Vt.; and John Tunney, Calif.

Algerian Officials Block Cleaver, Leary Conference

ALGIERS (AP)-A news conference scheduled to feature Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver with LSD advocate Timothy Leary and another U.S. radical was postponed Thursday after Algerian officials blocked the entry of many foreign newsmen.

Scores of reporters were allowed into the country, but photographers and television cameramen were held with their equipment at Algiers airport.

It was believed the Algerian government might be having second thoughts about a news-conference costarring a drug advocate who has little connection with the principles on which Algerian policies are based and "Miss Dohrn" of the U.S. student radical movement.

Officials might feel such a mixture of ideologies would harm the image of the black peoples' liberation movements to which Algeria is host.

It was still not known whether "Miss Dohrn," who Cleaver said had arrived in Algiers, was Bernardine Rae Dohrn, the radical who replaced Angela Davis on the FBI's list of the 10 most wanted fugitives, or her sister Jenifer. Jenifer has appeared in New York as a spokesman for the Youth International Party-Yippies.

Servicemen Die In Battle And In Bed

SAIGON (AP)-Nearly as many American soldiers died by accident or illness in Vietnam last week as on the battlefield, the U.S. Command reported Thursday.

The weekly casualty toll showed 40 Americans were killed in action-six fewer than the previous week and the second lowest weekly count in 4 1/2 years-and 33 others died of nonbattlefield causes.

The low count marked the 16th consecutive week in which fewer than 90 U.S. troops were killed-a reflection of the low level of enemy activity and the withdrawal of American units from combat missions.

South Vietnam, which has been assuming a greater role on the battlefield, also reported a decline in combat deaths to 256, the lowest toll in a month.

The U.S. Command said allied forces killed 1,083 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers during the period, but that figure also was on the downswing, declining 119 from the previous week.

The allies also reported 432 U.S. troops and 858 South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded in action, a decrease of 81 from the previous week for the Americans and an increase of 13 for the South Vietnamese.

Including the latest casualties, 43,861 Americans have been killed in action and another 290,746 have been wounded in Indochina since Jan. 1, 1961.

The South Vietnamese list 114,672 killed and 243,886 wounded in the decade of fighting, while the allies claim to have slain 977,04. North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers.

The U.S. Command said 8,692 Americans have died in Vietnam from accidents, disease and other nonbattlefield causes during the war.

No major ground engagements were reported Thursday and the U.S. Command said:

"Light and scattered activity continued to characterize activity by U.S. forces."

Booklet Tops Army Lit

FT. DEVENS, Mass. (AP)-About 20 members of an organization calling itself the Nonviolent Direct Action Group distributed copies of a pamphlet entitled "A Serviceman's Survival Handbook" outside the gate at Fort Devons Thursday.

The booklet contains advice, medical information and miscellaneous material which the Army is unwilling to circulate among soldiers, a group spokesman said.

Several demonstrators boarded a commercial bus and entered the posts, but later were removed by military personnel. No arrests were made.

108 Freed In Quebec

MONTREAL (AP)-Police said Thursday they released 108 persons picked up in a roundup of suspected Quebec Liberation Front members, but 271 others remained in custody.

Meanwhile, authorities pressed their search for a sign of British Trade Commissioner James R. Cross, who was kidnaped Oct. 5, five days before the terrorist organization abducted Pierre Laporte, the Quebec labor minister, who was murdered later.

NOW OPEN
THUR. and FRI. NITES
FEATURING IMPORTS FROM INDIA PLUS THE LATEST FROM NEW YORK, CALIFORNIA, LONDON Paraphernalia
63 N PLEASANT AMHERST

YAHOO PRESENTS
FILLMORE NORTH
featuring
JAIK VERONESI and FRIENDS plus
CLEAN LIVING! and the
CAPTAIN VIDEO LIGHTSHOW
TONITE!
8:30 - MIDNIGHT
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
ONLY $1 AT THE DOOR!!!
A FESTIVAL OF MUSIC AND LIGHT

Judiciary Inadequate; Senate Plans Reform

The present judiciary system on campus is considered inadequate by many, and the Student Senate is in the process of doing something about it.

In an interview yesterday, Pat Beharry, Student Senate vice-president, said the present system is "in a turmoil". There are openings on the general and area courts, she said, but not enough students are applying to fill them.

The strike last spring, in Pat's opinion, apparently had quite an effect on the judiciary. Many students left school before any concrete system could be set up for this year.

At present, considerations are underway to reform the system. A completely new idea is being formulated, Pat revealed, that will enable the University to handle any problems at the campus level.

Plans are being made to set up a judiciary board that will be capable of handling such offenses as parking violations and complaints against members of the University. The end result is hoped to be a system that operates in fairness to all, Pat explained.

Hopefully, provisions will be made to include faculty and student complaints against one another, Pat added. The idea behind this is that if there is one body to govern the students, there should be one body to handle complaints, she said.

What remains now is cooperation with the campus police and security forces, and with the students themselves. Pat said that students are needed to fill the available positions in order to get a workable system.

Another problem is to educate the campus community to what the purpose and procedure will be. This way students will know what to do and where to go when the need arises.

Pat added that if the students don't get involved in some sort of campus judiciary they are asking for outside forces to take control. It will be too late if something isn't done about it now, she added.

Lecture On Meyer Baba And Drugs

Saturday night, October 24, in the Commonwealth Room of the Student Union, Dr. Bruce Hoffman and Judge Henry Kashouty will speak on Meher Baba and drugs.

Meher Baba, (meaning 'Merciful Father') was born at Poona, India in 1894. He declared himself Avatar (incarnation of God) of the age. Meher Baba's love has attracted millions of followers in both the East and the West.

Baba emphasizes that he has not come to lay down any principles or to establish any new religion but that he has come to awaken us to the infinity of love that lies sleeping in our own hearts. He has released detailed information comparing states of consciousness achieved through spiritual practice and those achieved through the use of drugs.

Greenfield Professor Gives Home To Commune

GREENFIELD, Mass. (AP)-The struggle of a young people's commune in Warwick to remain on their 25 acre farm under threat of eviction took an unexpected twist Thursday-the offer of another home.

A Greenfield Community College sociology professor announced that she is repouncing that profession and will turn over her 20 room house in Northfield to the commune.

Mrs. Elizabeth Backman said she will fulfill a lifelong dream by entering what she called "the liberal ministry" in a religious sect called the Hopie Mountain Citadel.

Her resignation from the college, after seven years on the faculty, is effective at the end of the current semester.

Her Northfield home was built in 1795 and is the site of the first youth hostel in America. It was used as a hostel from 1933 until 1952 when Mrs. Backman acquired it.

About 40 members of the Warwick commune known as the Brotherhood of the Spirit moved into the Northfield house Wednesday night. The home is on Main Street in Northfield, also known as Massachusetts Route 63.

A sign was erected at the house saying Brotherhood of the Spirit.

At last count, the commune claimed more than 100 members in Warwick, although town officials say sanitary facilities are enough for only 27 occupants.

A Greenfield Superior Court judge appointed Atty. Norman Callahan of Greenfield as master of hearings on a preliminary injunction granted the commune to prevent the town from evicting occupants. The commune had asked the court to declare the eviction notice invalid.

Mrs. Backman said she is turning over the deed to her house to the commune, but she did not make it clear whether she will remain living there.

The Warwick communie prohibits smoking, alcohol or promiscuity.

Mrs. Backman says her support of the brotherhood is prompted by her "delight in witnessing a spiritual regeneration."

Book Review "Schooling For What?"

"In this book 1,000 people are telling it as it is, how it ought to be, and how it's got to be if we are to survive." In these words Donald H. Parker, an authority in educational psychology, summarizes his lively and alarming reportage: Schooling For What? published by McGraw-Hill. ($7.95).

"The question set me on a 33,000-mile trek across the nation," the author recalls. "I ended up with personal, private tape-recorded interviews with 1,000 persons of all ages, from every walk of life, representing as accurately as posible 200 million Americans in our various ethnic groups and life styles -- all zeroing in on the question, Schooling for what?"

Dr. Parker started out with a set of ten basic queries, focussing on just what is wrong with our schools at all levels, but he found himself expanding his investigation into such related areas as the hippie subculture, student radicalism, racial and generation gaps, and the proliferation of new-life styles.

What emerges are "the thought patterns of the many age and ethnic groups now crying out to be heard." Their urgent message: time is running out fast for the Establishment, and only a massive turnaround in American priorities can avert collapse and anarchy. In the schools, a consensus of opinion among the inter viewees indicates, the student himself must be allowed to determine what and how much to learn to fulfill his needs an an individual facing life on terms which are entirely his own.

By the same token, the panoramic survey shows, the diverse experiments in living and learning being carried out by the young themselves -- from hippie communes to "free universities" -- offer the best models for reordering schooling in America.

Different Life Style Sought At Cumbres

DUBLIN, N. H. -- T. T. Liang stood in the middle of the broad rolling lawn and moved his hands gently through the air in imitation of a white crane flapping his wings. Behind him two dozen persons mirrored his every move with crane-like gestures of widely varying gracefulness.

Master Liang is a 73-year-old teacher of tai chi chauan, a centuries-old form of Chinese moving meditation, and such exercises are a daily ritual at a new-style commune here known as Cumbres.

The community members share tasks ranging from washing dishes to keeping books. They eat their meals together and follow a common discipline of celebration and intellectual reflection on their experience.

Their life-style differs substantially, however, from that of strict communes. Each member draws a salary of several thousand dollars a year from the profits of their growth center, and traditional values such as privacy and individual family structures are maintained.

Most of the community members describe themselves as seeking a new life-style combining traditional individualism with the extended family structures that have disappeared from urban life. They also tend to see this as a spiritual quest. (Reprinted from the New York Times)

USCC To Serve University As Multi-Level Liaison

Spanning the communications gap, USCC, University and State Communications Council, began to move quietly forward on projects for the coming year in a meeting Sunday night in the Colonial Lounge.

Members of the USCC, a Senate advisory group, discussed plans for improving communications between the student body, Administration, the State Legislature and the media.

Judy Gill, chairman of USCC, stated that the Committee for Internal Affairs, will serve as a liasion between the students and members of the Administration. According to Miss Gill the Committee meets frequently both with the Student Senate and the Administration to insure that the student viewpoint is represented and understood.

The Legislative Committee, chaired by Robert Harrington, will be providing State Legislators with a student viewpoint on legislation that deals with higher education and will provide explanations of events on campus from the student's viewpoint when necessary.

Harrington stated the committee had expressed interest in working for passage of legislation in several areas in addition to higher education. These include prison reform, welfare, housing, abortion, birth control and the environment.

USCC recognizes that research in these areas is going on within the University community. Harrington said the Committee plans to seek out interested and expert individuals in order to provide Legislators with necessary background that will aid them in the passage of good legislation.

The Legislative Committee is also responsible for periodically inviting State Legislators to the campus, a project which Harrington hopes to have under way shortly. This committee handled Legislators' Day during last spring's strike.

Jill Wallach, chairman of the Media Committee, said that the Committee will be covering the Council's activities, inviting editors and reporters to visit the campus, answering anti-UMass articles that appear in newspapers around the state and working with television and radio stations.

USCC holds meetings twice a month on Sunday evenings at 8:00 p.m. All interested students, faculty or administrative officials are welcome to attend the meetings. For those who have any questions, the USCC office is located in the Campus Center, RSO Room 125 or Box #667.

MINUTES AWAY VIA I-91 TO RT. 5
Showcase Cinemas 1 2 3
RIVERDALE RD., W. SPFLD.
ACRES and ACRES OF YOUR OWN FREE PARKING
1 "FUNNIEST MOVIE I'VE SEEN..." N.Y. Post
LOVERS AND OTHER STRANGERS
Mon.-Fri. 2 - 7:30 - 9:30
Sat., Sun. 1 - 3 - 5:30 - 7:30 - 9:30
R
2 "JOE"
IS A RIP-SNORTER, A TRIUMPH!"
R
Mon.-Fri. 2-7:35-9:40
Sat. & Sun. 1-3-5:35-7:35-9:40
WIDE SPACE COMFORT LOUNGE ROCKERS
3 ★★★★
"A TREAT FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY." WHAC-TV
CHILD - 12 & under $1 All Shows
On A Clear Day You Can See Forever
Barbra Streisand
Mon.-Fri. 2-7:30-9:50
Sat. & Sun. 2-4:45-7:35-9:50
G
GROUP RATES AVAILABLE
CALL 413-733-5131

THE COLLEGE PLAN FOR THE COLLEGE MAN
FULLER
CollegeMaster
No. 1
IN COLLEGE SALES
FIDELITY UNION LIFE INSURANCE CO.
21 PRAY ST. AMHERST

PUMPKIN SALE
Sponsored by Maroon Keys & Scrolls
OCTOBER 26 — 30
10 A.M. - 4 P.M.
LOBBY OF STUDENT UNION

Skydivers To Jump At Homecoming Picnic

The UMass Parachute Club will present a special skydiving exhibition for the Alumni at the tailgate picnic before the game this Saturday. Six skydivers will be participating in this aerial demonstration and will be jumping into the athletic fields by Southwest between 11:45 and 12:30.

There will be two plane loads of three jumpers each who will be free-falling and forming a three man star while traveling up to 150 m.p.h. They will free-fall for 30 seconds starting at an altitude of 7200 ft. and open their parachutes at 2000 ft.

The jumpers will wear smoke flares attached to their feet and will be leaving a red streaming trail as they fall. They will land standing up within a few feet of each other.

The UMass jumpers are Dave Cherry (350 jumps), Steve Smith (400 Jum

The UMass jumpers are Dave Cherry (350 jumps), Steve Smith (400 jumps), Dave Balanoff (170 jumps), and Don Sluter (110 jumps. An Amherst jumper, Ted Taft (225 jumps), and Ken Carville (1300 jumps) from Worcester will also be participating in the excitement.

The University Marching Band will present a halftime show at this Saturday's Homecoming football game against UConn. The band will perform routines built around "Lady of Spain", "Tiptoe Through the Tulips", and "Space Odyssey".

Football Fans To See Sub-Compact At Game

A display of 1971 sub-compact automobiles will be featured at the UMass-UConn football game Saturday October 24th. The cars, which will be located inside the east entrance, will include a Toyota, Volkswagen, Ford Pinto, Chevrolet Vega, and the American Motors' Gremlin.

The fans will have an opportunity to view the display and compare the standard equipment and price of the cars. There will be information sheets posted on each car with this information. Marketing students, sponsoring the exhibit, will be glad to answer any questions. These students will be handing out brief questionnaires related to their comparative study.

The questionnaire will ask questions intended to discover what the college student at UMass prefers in a sub-compact automobile.

The comparative display of 1971 sub-compact cars gives students an opportunity to observe not only the two established foreign cars: the Toyota and Volkswagen, but also the new American competition: the Vega, Gremlin and Pinto. Manufacturers of each of these cars are trying to attract the attention of the four following markets: potential second car owners, retiring adults, young families, and college students. All the cars stress economy in their promotion.

Homecoming Float Parade Set For Friday Night

Plans for tonight's Homecoming Float Parade were finalized at a meeting of the Float Committee last night.

Beginning at 6:30 PM the 20 floats entered in the contest will parade from the Hagis Mall down Massachusetts Avenue to Lincoln Avenue. The retinue will procede up Amity Street to the center of town, then down North Pleasant passing the reviewing stand at the traffic isle by the Newman Center.

At the reviewing stand each of the four judges will consider one of the following: originality, craftsmanship, pertinency to the theme of Homecoming 1970 ("U Cannot Win") and adherence to rules. All four will judge general appearance.

The points range from 1 to 10, ten approaching perfection, said Committee Chairmen Ed

The points range from 1 to 10, ten approaching perfection, said Committee Chairmen Ed Voci.

In addition to the floats the UMass Marching Band and two Springfield High School Bands will march.

Finalists for Homecoming Queen will also ride in the caravan.

The campus will be represented by the Precisionettes Drill Team, Cheerleaders, Revelers and the Scrolls.

Following the parade a rally will be held by the Campus Center

"I am a believer in evolution."

Monkey Trial Defendant Dies

SHREVEPORT, La.(AP)-John T. Scopes, whose belief in evolution led to the famed "monkey trial" of 1925, is dead of cancer at the age of 70.

Scopes, a football coach who was a substitute teacher when he agreed to test Tennessee's law against teaching evolution, had outlived all other principal figures in the celebrated trial.

Prosecutor William Jennings Bryan died five days after he won Scopes' conviction. The colorful defender, Clarence Darrow, died later, as did the jurors and the judge, John T. Roulston.

Scopes, 25 at the time of the trial, abandoned teaching when he was found guilty and eventually retired here after years as a geologist for an oil firm.

He became ill in July and had been hospitalized since. He died Wednesday.

The trial, in the little Tennessee town of Dayton, was recounted in movies, books and plays. In many ways it was like a carnival, pitting two of the best orators of the time in a 12 day debate of the Bible vs. Charles Darwin's theory of evolution.

Scopes, who was assessed $100 fine that was later ruled excessive, never took the stand himself.

He left the battle to Bryan, a three time presidential candidate serving as special prosecutor, and Darrow, an unkempt criminal lawyer whom Bryan called the "greatest agnostic in the United States."

Their arguments, in court and out, laid bare the conflict of old-time religion and the age of science and drew worldwide attention to Dayton, just north of Chattanooga.

Scopes said later he did not testify because he was afraid someone would ask him if he actually taught evolution in that class.

"I was a substitute teacher for 10 days, and because I didn't want to disturb the class outline by injecting something new, I suggested we review what had been taught," he said last March 31, the only time he returned to a classroom after the trial.

"I really don't know if we covered evolution or not, but I am a believer in evolution."

In 1967 the Tennessee Legislature repealed the state law against teaching evolution.

The law had forbidden teaching "any theory that denies the story of the Divine creation of man as taught in the Bible, and to teach instead that man has descended from a lower order of animals."

US Army Generals Detained in USSR

MOSCOW(AP)-Two U.S. Army generals, seized by the Russians after their plane strayed across the Soviet Turkish border, were being held in communicado Thursday as the Soviet Union launched an investigation into the incident.

A U.S. Embassy official said it is "quite unlikely" that the generals will be released soon.

The plane apparently wandered off course Wednesday during bad weather and crossed the heavily fortified border. Details on how it was intercepted were not immediately made public.

U.S. officials in Turkey said the generals were making an inspection flight from Erzurum to Kars, just 40 miles from the Soviet frontier.

The first word that it was down safe came when the Soviet Foreign Ministry called in the U.S. charge d'affaires in Moscow. Boris Klossen to inform him the craft had "violated Soviet air space."

VILLAGE INN
LUMS
RESTAURANT
85 AMITY
AMHERST
253-2518
11 am - 2 am
Daily

• 3 THEATRES UNDER 1 ROOF •
Campus Cinemas
256-6411
AMHERST-HADLEY LINE
1 7 - 9:15 SAT., SUN. 2, 4:15, 7, 9:15
The Ultimate Experience
Fantasia
2 NIGHTLY AT 7 - 9:15
SUN. MAT. AT 2
From the author of "Airport"
HOTEL
3 7 - 9:15 SUN. MAT. AT 2
A MIKE NICHOLS FILM
ALAN ARKIN
CATCH-22

DEERFIELD DRIVE-IN THEATRE
Route 5 & 10
South Deerfield, Mass.
Tel. 665-8746
FRI. — SAT. — SUN.
A WEIRD WORLD OF BIZARRE PRACTICES
Witchcraft '70
EXPOSED thru the eye of the HIDDEN CAMERA!
COLOR
A TRANS AMERICAN RELEASE
Showtime 7:30
Sun: Witchcraft at 7:30
No one under 18 admitted

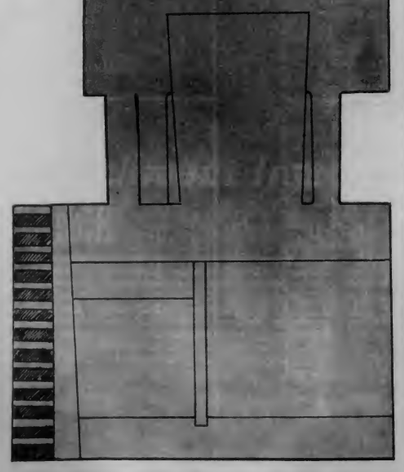
THE HUNGRY-U
submarine sandwiches & PIZZA
TIRED OF FAST FOOD OPERATIONS THAT ARE SO FAST THAT THEY FORGET THE FOOD AND LEAVE YOU HOLDING THE BAG AND A LOT OF OTHER THINGS YOU REALLY CAN'T EAT.
TRY ONE OF OUR OVERSIZED INDIVIDUALLY PREPARED KITCHEN MADE SANDWICHES.
103 N. PLEASANT AMHERST MASSACHUSETTS 256-6550

TOP OF THE CAMPUS

restaurant

11th floor, Campus Center

OPENS



Oct. 24

Homecoming Weekend

DINNER MENU

Prime Rib English Cut $2.95
Adam's Rib $3.95
Cattleman's Cut $4.95
N. Y. Strip Steak $4.95
Filet Mignon $4.50
Beef Kabob $4.50
Stuffed Shrimp $4.25
Beef Kabob $2.95
Lobster Saute $4.75
Boston Scrod $3.25
salad & rolls included
Baked Stuffed Potato $.40
Flaming Cherries Jubilee $.50
Peppermint Stick Ice Cream Pie $.50
N. Y. Cheese Cake $.50
Sunburst Parfait $.50
Chocolate Mousse $.50
Pecan Pie $.50

LUNCHEON MENU
Hot Roast Beef Stew 1.75
Boston Scrub Sandwich 2.45
Broiled Smoked Pork Chops 2.20
Poulette Chausseuren Casserole 1.70
Potato Pancakes and
Grilled Link Sausage 1.55
Curried Shrimp A' La Indienne 2.25
Broiled Boston Scrod 1.65
Plus Sandwich Specialties

"All The King's Men" A Powerful Production

By Robert Nesti
Fine Arts Staff

Despite the annoying bomb threats which plagued Bartlett in the beginning of the week, the University Theater was able to open its season this past Wednesday evening with a well-done, powerful production of "All the King's Men". The play has much going for it to overcome some minor defects. Its unusual and free-flowing structure is supplemented by good direction, fine acting, and a functional and engrossing set.

Adapted by Robert Penn Warren from his Pulitzer-Prize winning novel, the play deals with the rise and fall of a Southern politician during the Depression. Warren took the historical figure of Louisiana governor Huey Long and expanded him into the fictional character of Willie Stark. Through this character, Warren is able to raise the question of whether good can come from evil.

This argument is at the core and, though the play is wordy and at first a bit out-of-focus, it is brought over quite well through the direction of Harry Mahnken. He paced the play so that it is never static yet never choppy or confusing. What made the production engrossing and not simply long-winded was the director's ability to delineate the subtle and harsh qualities of the characters and create a chess-game feeling. With this accomplished the question of good versus evil can be explored within the interesting plot without being obstructing.

Stephen Schnetzer was able to portray the two sides of Willie Stark with credibility. In later scenes he ably merged both the swagger and tenderness of this complex character to complete a picture of Willie only previously suggested by the other characters. Playing a good foil to the emotional Governor was Deane Zarvis as the cool and sarcastic Jack Burden.

All the other roles were handled quite adequately. Standing-out was Melanie Gallo's performance as Anne, Willie's mistress. She brought to her part a tenderness needed to sustain a number of difficult scenes which could have been sticky. Also excelling in a featured role was John Warchol as Frey, the cunning and nasty blackmailer. His confrontation with Stark was one of the play's emotional highpoints, mainly because of his performance. I feel sonehow I've cheated everyone else in this large cast for they all did so well in their roles.

Perhaps though the true star of this production was its set. It established the mood of Depression America immediately with its use of simple wooden planks and hues of dark green, brown and black. It ably suggests the questions asked by creating a dismal, bleak, hellish atmosphere. Also both the set and the complex lighting were quite functional to the play's highly original structure. The costumes further accented this feeling and fitted well with the set.

A good deal of work went into this admirable production and it seems to have paid off. For a worthwhile evening out this weekend, be sure to see "All the King's Men."

Bikel Lecture To Explore Relations Of Arab and Jew

Actor and folksinger Theodore Bikel will speak on "Arab and Jew: The Post-Nasser Era," at Smith College. The lecture will be held at 8:30 p.m., this evening in the Helen Hills Chapel and is under the sponsorship of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations at Smith College and Amherst College. The public is welcome to attend.

Bikel was born in Vienna and emigrated to Palestine at age 13. In 1946 he entered the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London, making his debut as an actor in the London production of "Streetcar named Desire," starring Vivian Leigh. This was followed by a lead in Peter Ustinov's "Love of Four Colonels."

He has appeared in many stage productions in this country including "The Lark," "The Sound of Music," and "The Rope Dancers,". He has also appeared in many films and received wide acclaim for his performances in "The Kidnapped" and "The Russians are Coming."

Internationally known as a folksinger, he made his debut at Carnegie Hall in 1956. He was the founder of the Newport Folk Festival and still serves on its board.

Now a citizen of the United States, he has long been active in the reform wing of the democratic party and in the civil rights and peace movements. Highly regarded in his profession, he serves as vice president of Actors Equity. Bikel is a committee Jew, and an active member of his community.

He recently visited the State of Israel, and his address at Smith will deal with some of his reflections on that visit.

Alpha Sigma Phi

COCKTAIL PARTY

Rm. 1001 - 1002 New Campus Center

4-6 P.M. SATURDAY

All illustrious Alumni, Brothers and "Pledges" invited.

CANADA:
NEIGHBOR or NUISANCE

J. M. S. CARELESS

from the University of Toronto
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 28
8:15 p.m.
Thompson 106

Sponsored by
The Distinguished Visitors' Program

Notices

ALPHA SIGMA PHI:
Cocktail party in rooms 1001 and 1002 Campus Center, Saturday from 4-6 PM. All alumni, brothers, and "pledges" invited.

ANGEL FLIGHT:
Don't forget to stop by the office and sign-up for a shift on the POW table. Today is the LAST CHANCE. If Noone signs-up - No Table!

ASTRONOMY CLUB:
Brief meeting Friday, Oct. 23rd, 7:30 PM, Hasbrock Lobby, followed by trip to Amherst Observatory. Public invited.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS:
Bus leaving Whitmore at 12:45 PM for the State School

CUSP-PSYCH COUNCIL:
Meeting Tuesday, Oct. 27th, 8 PM, 121 Bartlett. What to do with our office? And maybe special guest.

EQUESTRIAN CLUB:
All members signed up for trail ride on Saturday meet at Main Barn at 1:00 PM.
Work-day at Tillson Far on Saturday, Oct. 24th from 10:00-12:00. All interested are urged to come.

HILLEL:
3 Film documentaries on the History of Zionism and Israel will be shown, Sunday, Oct 25th, 8 PM, room 174 Campus Center. Sponsored with Jewish Community of Amherst.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB:
Coffee hour will be held Sunday night at 9:00 PM in Price House. Featuring preview of "Indian Night." All welcome.

INTERNATIONAL FOLK DANCING:
Tonight, Friday, at Davis Center, Smith College 8-12 PM. Teaching 8-9 PM. Beginners welcome.

NIGHT CLUB:
Anyone at all interested in performing at Top Of Campus Night Club, come to organizational meeting in Student Union Ballroom at 7 PM, Monday, Oct. 26th.

SKI CLUB:
Meeting of the UMass Ski Club at 8 PM, Monday, in Mahar. Future trips including Switzerland will be discussed. Movies. New members welcome.

SKI PATROL:
Meeting, Monday, Oct. 26th at 6:30 in Room 170. Bring your dues and first aid sheets. Rides will be assigned for refresher course.

ORGANIZATION OF ARAB STUDENTS:
Abu Samer, from the Palestine Liberation Movement will speak on "The Palestinian Revolution" Tuesday, Oct. 27th at 8:00 PM in the Council Chambers room (2nd floor) of the Student Union.

OUTING CLUB:
Another meeting next Monday, Campus Center 165, at 6:30. Adirondacks or Monadnock this weekend. Super caving trip next weekend. See bulletin board for toilet making instructions.

SCROLLS:
If you're interested in selling pumpkins sign up in RSO Office - CC level 1. Openings for 3 different times.

SIGMA DELTA TAU:
Friday night during float parade hours, collection will be taken for "The Committee of Responsibility To help War Injured Children Get Medical Care." Please give when you see us Friday night.

SUG BOARD FINANCE:
There will be a Finance Committee meeting Monday at 3:30 in room 805 of the Campus Center.

UMASS.SARGENT/DWIGHT COMMITTEE:
Canvassing in Springfield, Sunday meet at Whitmore 11:30 AM, back by 4:00. Literature distribution 12:15, Saturday, meet front gate of stadium. Bumper sticker distribution at tail gate picnic Saturday, 11:00 and after football game, meet at press gate.

LOST:
Prescription wire-rimmed shades, lost around Oct. 9th on campus. Call Andy 5-2412 (dorm phone) or 408 Wheeler.
One black umbrella, left in Eng. 128 or Worcester Dining Commons, Wednesday around noon. If you found it call Paul at 6-6631.

ENGAGEMENTS:
Jane Gould, Natick, Mass. to Robert G. Parker '71, John Adams.
Carolyn Peterof, Andover, Mass. to Swivatore Recupero '73, Grayson.
Sue Cohn '71, Crampton to James Saber '71, John Adams Lower.
Judy Tanchum '71, Sigma Sigma Sigma to Ken Schwartz, U.S. Navy.
Camilla J. Smith '70, Germany to Richard A. Jubinville '70, UMass.
Deborah Harris '72, Field to Robert Haskell '72, Bernardston.
Michelle Boudreau, Hull, Mass. to Jeff Gilman, Hull, Mass.
Susan L. Safer '71, Crabtree to David J. Bernstein '71, Cliffside Apts.
Doreen Manin'71, Crabtree to Robert Soffer '69, USAF; New York.

PINNINGS:
Patricia Rosselli '74, Van Meter North to John Gildard '74, Marist College, Poughkeepsig, New York.
Cindy Ladd '74, JQA to Lee Morrison '72, James.
Kathy Richmond '72, Gordon College, to Ric Ludwig '73, 366 Hills South.

No notice may exceed twenty-five words.

Deadline for notices is 2:00 P.M. on the preceding day.

There is a one day maximum for all notices.

Pinnings and engagements will appear on Fridays.

PLEASE DO THIS WHENEVER THE NOTICES DO NOT FILL THE ALLOTED SPACE. THANK YOU.

Mobe Travels to Springfield For War Referendum Support

This Saturday at 1:00 PM, students from the campus community, in conjuction with the MOBE will be traveling to the Springfield area to inform the voters about the referendum concerning the war and to persuade them to vote "C" for immediate withdrawal. MOBE will attempt to contact some of the many people in the state who still don't know that they can indicate their disapproval of the war.

Last Saturday with a small number of people working, approximately 2000 voters were contacted, and a majority of them indicated that they intend to vote "C". MOBE has requested that all students interested in going to Springfield to pass out leaflets and talk to people come to the Playmouth Room in the Student Union Saturday at 1:00 PM. All those with cars should bring them and park near the Campus Center.

MDC
NEWS HOTLINE
5-2550

If you care enough, maybe you can meet the Paulist challenge...

It isn't easy, being a Paulist. Bridging gaps between young and old, black and white, past and future. But it is a challenge.

The Paulist mission is to people . . . individually and in all the societies in which they live . . . to discover Christ wherever he is acting . . . to be attuned to the needs of the present, yet to form a vision of tomorrow's world.

If you are interested in finding out more about the Paulist priestly challenge, write to:

Rev. Donald C. Campbell, C.S.P.
Vocation Director

Paulist Fathers
Room 111
415 West 59th Street
New York, N.Y. 10019

AMERICAN SKIER DISCOVERS CANADA. SAYS WOW.

He just didn't know that Canada has over fifty major ski areas. With some of the most spectacular runs in North America. Great facilities. Fabulous accommodation.

He also learned there's only one thing better than skiing in Canada. Après ski.

Want a new scene? New challenges? New pleasures? Bring your boards to Canada. For a weekend. A week. Or longer.

It's just up the road.

Want more info? We'll get it to you fast.

Canadian Government Travel Bureau, 150 Kent Street, Ottawa 4, Ontario, Canada

VACATION NATION canada

17 0218-01-0

Please send the free "Ski Canada" kit to:

Mr./Mrs./Miss

Address Apt. No.

City

State Zip Code

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Student Union University of Massachusetts - Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR — Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER — Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR — Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR — John Sullivan

PHOTO EDITOR — Steve Schmidt
ADVERTISING MANAGER — John Fayad

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Chris Mackey
NEWS STAFF — Jim Goldman, Anne Sladnicki
DARKROOM — David Bernstein, Gary Alpaugh
SPORTS — Earle Barroll
AD LAYOUT — Rick Rutstein

AD LAYOUT — Sherry Morse
EDITORIAL LAYOUT — Mary Ellen O'Shea

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers

Mark Silverman

You Can't Go Home . . .

Homecoming. It will begin today, as the middle aged and the middle aged at heart come trouping back to relive their youth, flocking to Amherst to forget for a day or two the realities of their own existance. They will return to play Thomas Wolfe for a weekend, to imaging themselves as the martyers of the lost and almost forgotten past, the last generation able to call itself a true vestige of the American Dream.

They will come with this as their purpose, the graduates of years past. Some of them went to the University of Massachusetts, some of them to Massachusetts State College and some of them to Massachusetts Agricultural College. They will all see themselves as the last righteous generation, the graduating class whose departure left the school in the hands of the boors who have led the once and great institution to ruin.

Homecoming. The time for alumni to inspect the remains of their education, to walk once more through the buildings they knew five, ten, twenty, thirty years ago, the time to be young once again, if only for a weekend.

Remember, reminiss, mourn, forget. Marvil at the new buildings, gape at the towers. Remark at how much simpler things used to be when there wern't so many strange people around.

The Alumni are old, gasping for their last breath of life, doomed. They are old in spirit, if not in years. Some of them are only 25 or 30, but they show their real age by coming back to the Great Old University for Homecoming.

Homecoming. A time for the past. A time to wish that the present life were different, a time to long for the good old days.

Alumni need homecoming very much. They need it to reinforce the memory of their youth, of the days when mornings were fun and ambition was not shameful. They need it to remind themselves that their present life has done little to fulfill their expectations, they need it to prove to themselves that they didn't always hate life, that there was a time, long, long ago, when they were happy.

This is fine, it doesn't hurt anybody. But an alumnus must realize that he can't go back in time by driving through to those who attend his Alma Mater today. Homecoming. It is not a reprieve but merely serves as a reminder. It cannot help anyone change a dull life, but can only make a person realize his dullness. Homecoming, reunion, rememberances; the time for make-believe each year. You can't go home and your family doesn't even own the house.

Kent 25

Repression in America is a real and growing activity, that becomes more menacing and frightening each day. And we have seen this week another chapter in this increasingly infamous facet of American government, the grand jury indictment of 25 Kent State students for activities that led to the tragic murder of four Kent students last spring.

Innocence or guilt of those involved is rather hard to ascertain. But the Scranton Report pinned blame on the National Guard along with some demonstrators. Yet the official governmental arm, the grand jury, indicted the students only, but had no word for the National guard which did the shooting.

There will be a rally today in support of the Kent 25 at the Cage at 2. It will be another chapter in the never-ending succession of demonstrations and protests that are never listened to.

But maybe the Kent brothers and sisters can gain from the rally. Maybe this is one to be listened to. We urge all to support and attend the rally today.

And while at the rally, listening to some facts about this added chapter in repression, maybe it will become clear where we are going. Because there doesn't seem to be a lot of time left to decide for ourselves.

Undergraduate Priority

The task of charting the future growth of the University, considering the needs of public higher education in this State, is mamouth, especially for a three man committee. With this considered, the report of the University's Long Range Planning Committee seems impressive, and in general we cannot find fault with its overall findings.

However, we must take exception with one of its recommendations--the one which calls for an added emphasis being placed on graduate education in the coming decade.

The Committee envisions an Amherst campus of 30,000 people in 1980, with one third of the student body made up of graduate students.

Putting aside the call for a 10,000 person increase in total enrollment, the added emphasis on graduate education seems to ignore the primary function of state University. With the ever increasing costs of private higher education, the need for a quality undergraduate education at an affordable price is something which the State must provide for its citizens.

And, in the past, Massachusetts has failed miserably in fulfilling this responsibility. Until 1966, the concept of a statewide University system remained on the drawing boards. The University is now finally approaching receiving the financial support from the legislature which it needs. If the State were now to pour a large percentage of the small amount of money earmarked for public higher education into graduate education it would be forced to ignore undergraduate education, to some extent.

There is a need for public education at the graduate level in this State. But there is a far greater need for public undergraduate education. And the state should concentrate on public higher education for undergraduates and should fulfill its committment to educate its citizens before it thinks about increasing graduate education.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR must be typed, double spaced, at sixty spaces and must carry the writer's signature, address, and telephone number (all of which will be withheld upon request). The limit is one page and the deadline is 5 p.m. the day prior to intended publication. The editors reserve the right to edit all letters.

P
E
A
C
E

Campus Comment

Senate Legislation Passed

To The Editor:

At the Student Senate meeting of October 14th., three important pieces of legislation were passed. The first of these recommended that Dr. Bromery be appointed immediately as Vice-Chancellor of Student Affairs, the second asked that the Faculty Senate endorse this appointment, and the third opposed the appointment of Kenneth Johnson to Principle Administrative Officer of Financial Affairs, or any other area, at UMass Amherst.

There are two basic issues involved in these three bills: (1) immediate need to fill a position; (2) the use of the three part system. These issues can be explained by looking at the reasons for the Senate action, and how the System can be used.

The Student Senate passed the recommendation of Dr. Bromery primarily because of the immediate need for a permanent appointment, who is free to act now, not one who feels tied as an interim appointment. Secondly, it has been evidenced at all levels that Bromery is the man for the job and thirdly, a search committee under these circumstances is not necessary and would be hypocritical.

Within the university system we have two options to fill high level positions: (1) search committees; (2) community consent. A search committee involves a long and complex process as evidenced by the recent search for the University President. After months of work, Robert C. Wood was recommended and approved by the university community. The issue at hand is an immediate need, we do not have months for a search. In another case, the appointment of the Amherst Chancellor, common consent should have been used. The university community commonly agreed that Dr. Tippo was the man for the job, the Student Senate being promised a search committee by the Board of Trustees – (system for system's sake) -- demanded one thereby wasting a great deal of time and energy. Yet, even when immediate need and a man available denies the necessity of a search committee community consent is still imperative. Administrators made assumptions with complete disregard for both student and faculty in appointing Ken Johnson (or allowing him to remain) as Chief Financial Officer at Amherst.

If Treasurer Johnson would automatically fill any post it should be the one in which he served, that of treasurer of the University as a whole with the system in Boston. The Vice-Chancellor of Financial Affairs for the Amherst campus is a new position and as such a search should be made to fill it unless there is community consent.

Unlike the administration, the Student Senate has expressed an opinion and asked for the agreement of the faculty senate and is in the process of asking the graduate student senate because of the immediate need and Bromery's availability.

There is no need for a search. The students wish to avoid the detours of the Tippo incident yet are not avoiding the system as the Johnson incident does.

The Senate therefore has called for community consent on the appointment of Dr. Randolph Bromery to the position of Vice-Chancellor of Student Affairs and calls the administration on the undemocratic method of appointing Ken Johnson.

PAT BEHARRY
V.P. Student Senate

Poetry and Politics

To The Editor:

In answer to Alan Kaplan's letter—

There are six of us girls sitting in the room completely freaked out by Alan Kaplan's attack on what we consider to be meaningful and beautiful poetry ("What's to do? Ain't Got No Finals Tomorrow). We feel we have never read anything before that so symbolically represents the hassles and mental anguish the typical student undergoes. It seems as if it could have been written by any student at any time. The universitality of the articles offered comfort and a feeling of fellowship with others. The fact that the poems were unsigned is a proof that the author meant his feelings to be shared. "Worthless, mindlessly profane drivel"? We propose that Alan Kaplan take a poll of students to find out how accurate his accusations are.

JUDY GRINGORTEN
DONNA CASSIDY
SHARI CAPLAN
LINDA LE ROY
JEAN SHERLOCK
CHRIS FOWLEY

To The Editor:

I woke up this morning feeling pretty good until I read of the indictment of 25 Kent State Students and professors.

Some of these people have been arrested and charged with various counts of inciting a riot, etc. One of the persons indicated was presently serving a 20-40 year sentence for the sale of hallucinogens. Another was serving a 3 month sentence for "possession of a narcotic and narcotic instruments" which was grass. These people were ripped off by pigs like Nixon. The National Guard was exonerated in the killings.

Someone had to be blamed so why not some students (one of which happens to be president of the student body). People please think about this and then think of Bobby Seale and all the other political prisoners in this country. Lets get together and stop the pigs from ripping off your brothers and sisters!

Free All Political Prisoners.

DON BREMNER

You Can't Always Get

What You Want . . .

But If You Try Sometimes

The Poet

A true poet's calling in life, is to lead the leaders out of the Black Forest of bad poetry.

"Keep Off The Grass

Fuck you.
That's what it's for.
I walk on the grass every chance I get.

Keeping Us Down"

Whether you're black or white
We're both in the same plight.
Whether you're young or old
The same story can be told.
And, if you're middle class
Afraid the poor are movin' up too fast,
Think, and take a good look around
It's the rich that are keeping us down.

Unless you're the son of a millionaire
The systems not treating you fair.
Instead of being President
You'll end up on the pavement.
The facts are well-known.
True equality can't be shown.
And, if you're tired of finishing last
Afraid the die's been cast.
Think and take a good look around
It's the rich that are keeping us down.

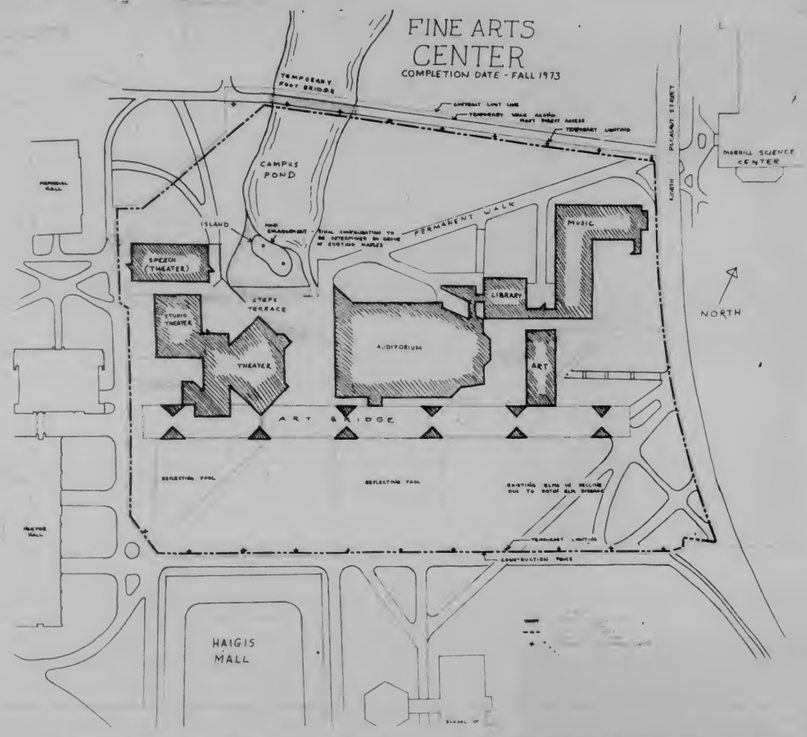
It doesn't matter if you're poor or rich.
That kind of division is foolish.
Because a man's got more than you
Doesn't mean he should tell you what to do.
And if you've filed action on the shelf
Remember God helps those who help themselves.
Think and take a good look around
It's the rich that are keepin' us down.

THE Poet — Lance Reidy
"KEEP OFF THE GRASS"
KEEPING US DOWN — Joel Carey
Rain... — Jacob Zeggers
Photos — Barry Penn
Layout — R.M. & L.D.

Rain - depressingly common
In our world of so
Little love and joy.

The Fine Arts Center . . .

Construction To Begin Soon On Three-Year Project



With the awarding of the contract in a matter of days, the UMass Fine Arts Center will soon move from dreams and drawing boards to ground-breaking and construction. At a cost of $15 million, the Fine Arts Center will consist of seven connected buildings and will include a 2200 seat concert hall, a 700 seat theater, speech offices and classrooms, an art gallery, homes for the Music and Art Departments, and a library. Estimated date of completion for the Fine Arts Center is fall, 1973.

Rising construction costs have increased the total cost of the center approximately $1.5 million over the original $13.8 million appropriation. University officials expect to obtain the additional funds shortly. As soon as funds are obtained, the contract will be awarded.

Within 30 days after the construction contract is awarded, workers will move on to the site, which stretches from Herter Hall to N. Pleasant Street and from the middle of the campus pond to Haigis Mall. Before doing any work, the construction company must fence in the area, build temporary walks, and provide lighting for students. Posted throughout campus shortly will be a site plans showing the fence, walkways, and lighting as well as the layout of the finished Fine Arts Center.

The fencing in of a large area in the center of campus for three years will no doubt inconvenience many students, faculty, and University employees. The situation is made worse by the adjacent construction site of the University library. But when it is completed, the Fine Arts Center will provide sorely needed space for students of the arts and art programs.

"The need for a Fine Arts building on this campus has been self-evident for many years," commented Dr. Philip Bezanson, Head of the Music Department. "Students have not had all the cultural advantages that a University should offer them," he added. Terry Schwartz, chairman of the Fine Arts Council, envisions "extraordinary gains in awareness of the arts in terms of interest and attendance at many kinds of programs" with the completion of the new facility. And in the words of Chancellor Oswald Tippo, "With the completion of the Fine Arts Center, a one-hundred year old dream will come true."

To minimize inconvenience to students, before the contractor may begin any work on the site of the Fine Arts Center, he must fence off the site, build walkways, and provide lighting. Dot-dash line indicates this fence. A temporary bridge across pond will lead to temporary asphalt walk to North Pleasant Street. Lighting is represented by symbols along fence at walk and at bottom of photo along fence leading from Herter Hall area to North Pleasant Street. Shaded area of pond is portion to be added.

For the three years the Center is under construction, pedestrians will cross campus, from Morrill Science Center area to the Bartlett Quadrangle, by traveling over the temporary footbridge across the pond.

Campus Pond Enlargement Planned After Construction Is Completed

After construction of the Fine Arts Center, the Campus Pond will be larger and more aesthetically landscaped.

To accommodate the Fine Arts Center design, the pond will become 57 feet longer and about 129 feet wider at the southern tip. Steps from the Center passthrough will lead to the new portion of the Campus Pond and overlook a new addition to the pond-a small island bearing a cluster of about five trees.

The bridge between the pond and parking lot 3 will be eliminated and the brook feeding into the pond from beneath the bridge will be redesigned. This will extend the pond from its present southern tip to a point just 18 feet from where the bridge is, widening the approximately four foot wide brook by 125 feet, and making an island of the cluster of trees which stand now between the sidewalk and the pond.

During construction the pond will be damned at the southern end so that workmen may construct the portion of the Fine Arts Center closest to the pond, and so that they may enlarge the pond. The pond is not scheduled to be drained.

Also during construction, students will be able to cross the pond to get from one side of campus to another. A temporary bridge will bring pedestrian traffic from the Morrill Science Center area to the Bartlett Quadrangle area. Pedestrians will have a view of the Fine Arts Center on one side, and of the Campus Center on the other.

Trees To Be Relocated

At the south end of the Campus Pond on the site of the coming Fine Arts Center grow 50 trees, about half of which (24) will be moved to make room for the building. Half of these 24 trees will be relocated nearby.

The 12 trees to be removed include one willow, and 11 American elms which are all suspected of having the fatal Dutch elm disease, according to William A. Lambert, University landscape architect.

In the group of trees to be left as is in the vicinity of the Fine Arts Center are 20 American elms. Though they will be left, Lambert says, "I don't give them much hope the way the disease has been rampant this past year." He expects the trees may live a year or two.

Transplanting trees in the way of construction is part of the routine at UMass. Lambert calls it "instant landscaping." University workers do the transplanting to save funds. Even some unhealthy trees, such as potentially diseased elms, are occasionally moved. And though sometimes a tree dies, Lambert says the dying may not be due to the transplanting but to the previous unhealthy condition of the tree.

. . . A Dream Come True

Seven Connected Areas To Comprise New Center

The completed Fine Arts Center will be seven buildings in one, with all parts connected. The speech section will be connected to the studio theater by a below ground corridor, and the art section will be connected to music by a similar passageway. Extending horizontal for 646 feet is an art bridge which is also a covered walkway. The bridge contains one floor of offices, and a floor above for studios. The sky above will be broken by an irregular line of the many-faceted Fine Arts Center whose several levels and entrances will indicate the several phases of fine art accomodated by the interior.

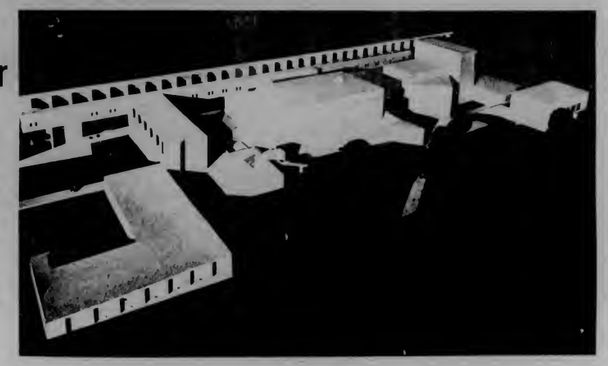
Music, art, and theater will have 200,000 gross square feet for four auditoriums, 17 classrooms, 75 studios, and 56 faculty offices.

To one side of the main entrance--a mall--will be an entrance to the 700-seat theater, and across the way will be an entrance to a concert auditorium about three times that size. Below the mall will be an art gallery-lobby to serve the theater and auditorium, and off the theater will be a studio theater.

Here is a description of major parts of the building:

AUDITORIUM--This 2,200 seat hall was designed with concert hall acoustics as the primary concern. It will be used principally for concerts, but will be available for other functions, including opera, lectures, and films. Seats on the orchestra level will be tiered upwards away from the stage. Seats in the balcony will be tiered in reverse, with each row below the one in front. This change in the usual tier design of theater seating will give those sitting furthest away from the stage a better view of the performance than in usual seating arrangements. Last row balcony seats will not have the added distance of height from the stage, because each succeeding row will be brought down to a level closer to the stage. The balcony seating design is also an acoustical aid.

THEATER--Though it is intended primarily for presentation of drama, this 700-seat theater will also be used for lectures and musical productions. Stage with wing space anda scenery loft is included in the design, and a system of lighting galleries above the audience will provide access for adjustments to lights. Seats are arranged in orchestra and balcony sections, and behind the seats are projection, lighting, and sound control rooms. Backstage are dressing rooms, scenery workshop, scenery and costume storage, costume shop, lighting shop, and makeup rooms. Overhead doors will provide easy access of scenery from workshop to stage.



SPEECH OFFICES AND CLASSROOMS--Fifteen speech department offices will be on the ground floor below four classrooms for teaching of production techniques and theater arts. Film studios, costume shop and storage will be beneath the classrooms and offices.

ART GALLERY--Between the lower levels of the auditorium and theater, and underneath the passageway-mall which leads to the Campus Pond, will be an art gallery-lobby, and related work space for crating, restoring, framing, and storing art works.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT--To keep sound from traveling throughout the Fine Arts Center, the Music department was put into an independent two-story block with department offices and teaching studios on the ground level and classrooms and practice studios on the floor below. Acoustical treatment includes suspended plaster ceilings, and specially designed walls to prevent sound traveling from room to room. Practice rooms have angled walls and sound absorbing materials for correct sound characteristics. Rehearsal rooms for band, orchestra, and chorus are also included in the facility.

ART DEPARTMENT--A walkway covered by a two-story bridge on pillars will extend 646 feet, almost the entire length of the complete Fine Arts Center. In the bridge, art studios will receive lighting from the north. Additional facilities, including a 200-seat hall for the Art and Music Departments, will be in an adjacent wing of the building.

LIBRARY--Entry to the library will be from a stairway common to the Art and Music Departments. The library will contain viewing and listening facilities for these departments.

The Fine Arts Center, as it will look from a point between Morrill Science Center and the pond, is shown in this architect's model. The reverse L-shaped portion at lower left corner of photo is the music wing. Next is an art section connected to the horizontal art bridge which will provide a covered walkway for pedestrians. Note the art bridge rectangles which contain slanted windows directing northern light to art studios. In center photo is the 2,200 seat concert hall. Sections at far right are for theater, with 750-seat theater next to concert hall, 200-seat studio theater extending from that, and Speech (Theater) Department classroom-office wing in the foreground.

Planners Envision Pond Area As Scenic Center of Campus

Tree-lined Massachusetts Avenue will lead motorists and pedestrians to the Presidents Drive loop around Haigis Mall and to the main entrance of the Fine Arts Center. This will be the gateway to the University.

To attend a dramatic production in the theater or a concert in the auditorium, theater-goers will discharge passengers at the entrance to the Fine Arts Center and park cars in nearby lots or the Campus Center underground garage at the other end of the pond.

From Haigis Mall (between Whitmore Administration Building and the School of Business Administration) students, guests, and theater-goers will approach the Center by walking along a concrete plaza flanked on each side by a reflecting pool--a rectangular one about 145 by 165 feet and a triangular one about half that size. At the passthrough of the Fine Arts Center, with the reflecting pools behind, they'll see on the left an entrance to the theater, and on the right an entrance to the auditorium. Ahead is the Campus Pond with a flight of steps leading from the passthrough to a bench-type wall just above the edge of the pond.

From these steps students and visitors will see the Campus Pond and its grassy shores, the newly formed three-laden island, and the wider southern tip of the pond. They will see on the left shore Herter Hall, Memorial Hall, Old Chapel, the library tower, Machmer Hall, and the Campus Center.

Those who park at the Campus Center will walk along the pond by these buildings to the steps.

To get this scenic center of campus, planners Sasaki, Dawson, DeMay Associates, Inc., changed original site plans for Whitmore, moving the building westward. Planners were insistent upon establishing a permanent open space area to include the pond.

This insistence and concern is reflected in the 1962 campus master plan which states, "The existing open space and pond at the center of the campus has the potential of becoming one of the truly significant design elements on the campus. By its nature, this open space will have great intrinsic value; for its sheer natural beauty, the visual relief it will afford particularly as the University becomes more densely developed, the emotional responses that it will evoke as traditions accrue to it with the passage of time, and its role as one of the principal identifying elements of the University of Massachusetts."

The Fine Arts Center will coordinate the center of campus design and will relate the Campus Pond to the main entrance to the campus. It will be seven buildings in one; and though from some angles it will look like several buildings, all portions will be connected. Unifying the design of the building will be a bridge housing art studios, and extending 646 feet--almost the entire length of the building complex. Underneath most of the art bridge will be space more than one-story high.

This ariel view shows the center of campus after completion of the Fine Arts Center. The Fine Arts Center is east to west across the mouth of the pond. Morrill Science Center is to the east. To the west, extending north, are Herter Hall, Memorial Hall, Old Chapel, and the tower library which will be completed before the Fine Arts Center.

The Architect Introduced

Kevin Roche, chief designer for Roche and Dinkello of Hamden, Conn. and architect of the Fine Arts Center, received the 1965 Arnold W. Brunner Memorial Prize in Architecture from the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

The award is given annually to an architect who shows promise of contributing to architecture as an art. It is one of the most coveted awards in architecture. Among previous winners of the Brunner Prize is John Carl Warnecke, architect of the new student residence halls which are in the northeast area of campus and are named for deceased University Trustees--Harry Dunlap Brown, William M. Cashin and Elizabeth L. McNamara.

Roche is also designer of the Vivian Beaumont Theater at Lincoln Center, New York; Museums Complex, Oakland, Calif; IBM World's Fair Building, N York; Senior High School, New Haven, Conn.; Neiman-Marcus, North Park, Dallas, Texas; Rochester Institute of Technology, New York; two women's colleges, University of Pennsylvania; and the Ford Foundation Headquarters, New York.

The 48-year-old architect was born in Dublin and educated at the National University of Ireland, from where he received his degree in architecture, and at the Illinois Institute of Technology. In 1950 he began with Eero Saarinen Associates and in 1953 became chief designer. The firm has since changed its name to Roche and Dinkeloo.

Architect Kevin Roche

The Changing University

Committee Outlines Direction of UMass Growth

By RICHARD C. HANSON
News Editor

The UMass Faculty Senate's Long Range Planning Committee, established in Spring 1969,released its findings and recommendations which include the establishment "maximum enrollment" goal of "approximately" 10,000 more students for the Amherst campus in the next ten years, not to exceed a total of 30,000 undergraduate and graduates, and an increase in the ratio of graduate student to undergraduate students of 1:3 from the present ratio of 1:4.

The Longe Range Planning Committee was originally assigned the task of creating a "long range plan" for the University after an Ad Hoc Faculty Senate Committee reached the conclusion that planning for "future academic development...was of such urgency that no further delay" could be afforded.

Working hard through times of great social and educational upheaval, the committee, chaired by Joseph S. Marcus with Professor Irving Howard and Professor William J. Mellen, addressed itself to the question: "What a public university in the seventies should be?" The final report makes twenty-eight major recommendations; the most important of which deal with the size and character of UMass in the future and broad reorganization. The committee also gave strong emphasis to the creation of "channels of communication" with other "segment of the public higher education system in the Commonwealth," particularly in the areas of "curriculum and admissions."

The report will probably act as the guide to future changes, but is expected to undergo much alteration. Top administrators have been quick to point out that the report is "only a recommendation." Already, on several occasions, Chancellor Oswald Tippo has expressed his aversion to expanding the University at all, not considering the prospective goal of 30,000. According to Chancellor Tippo, at present, the University can only continue the present 1,500 student per year increase for one more year, because of a lack of planned dormitory space.

The committee, as its first recommendation for the "growth of the Amherst Campus" felt that the Board of Trustees should be asked to "endorse publicly" the following "policy statement":

"In order for the University of Massachusetts to meet its obligation to provide high quality undergraduate and graduate education to many thousands of the Commonwealth's youth, the University's Amherst Campus must continue to grow until at least 1980. However, in order to allow orderly planning and growth, both by the University and by Amherst and other towns in the area, certain constraints must be placed upon the rate of growth and total student enrollment."

"Total student enrollment (full time equivalent) will be increased by annual increments of no more than 1,500 and in such a fashion that the enrollment will not exceed 26,000 in the Fall of 1975, and will not exceed 30,000 in the Fall of 1980. This policy means that a maximum enrollment increase of approximately 10,000 students will be allowed in the 10-year period, 1970-1980 (an average annual increment of approximately 1,000)."

The total increases, as recommended by the Committee, would have the effect of doubling the number of graduate students on campus, if the desired ratio of 1:3 between graduated and undergraduates is maintained. One local journalist has pointed out that such an increase in graduate enrollment might be considered the "most important" section in the report; considering the changes which would have to be made, both administrative and academic. Recommendations also included the maintaining of the present "mix" between lower division and upper division undergraduates until at least 1975. The committee further emphasized that because of the "profound implications for the per-student cost of education and for the kind of student housing which must be provided by the University and community, the University must continuously review and revise its projections concerning "mix" within the limits" of the proposed enrollment limits.

The following recommendations were also made in the report:

ADMISSIONS - "A thorough review of undergraduate and graduate admissions should be undertaken to insure that they are compatible with the University's mission as a public university and with the requirement for the maintenance of high quality education."

DIVERSITY - "There should be a commitment to increased diversity in both academic and living programs to insure a broad variety of opportunities, so that students may satisfy their individual definitions of education." In pursuit of diversity, more support should be given to "new innovative and experimental curricular programs" and continuing support should be provided for the on-going Honors Programs and programs for the "so-called 'disadvantaged' students."

UNDERGRADUATE COURSES - There should be an increased emphasis on the improvement and development of lower division undergraduate courses in order to heighten the motivation of students during their period of adjustment to the University."

UPPER LOWER DIVISION - "A study should be initiated to consider the desirability of establishing separate lower-division and upper division undergraduate units. This study should include consideration of a. the impact of transfer student program on the undergraduate enrollment 'mix'; and b. the relationship of transfer student performance records to those students who enter the University as freshmen." (This recommendation takes on special significance as a growing school of thought leans towards the creation of extensive Junior College system and the changing of a major campus such as UMass-Amherst into a Junior-Senior level institution.)

GRADUATE EDUCATION - The development of Graduate Education should incorporate the following items: (a) "emphasis should be on quality of program rather than on number of students." (b) there should be increasing diversity of programs....which cut across school, college, and departmental lines." (c) some less specialized doctoral programs should be developed which would provide preparation for college level teaching careers.

PUBLIC SERVICE - "There should be a review of campus involvement in the University's "outreach" programs to insure that public service activities are sufficient to and compatible with the University's mission as a public university."

COMMUNITY-UNIVERSITY LIAISON - A coordinator for Community-University Liaison should be designated to a. establish formal liaison with the governments of all towns in the area, b. serve as the official source of information on the University's plans and purposes, c. promote free and complete exchange of pertinent information. d. serve the planning function of the campus by informing the planning officers of the plans, needs and concerns of the community. e. advise the Chancellor on all aspects of University-Community relationships.

#LIVING LEARNING - "Support should be given to at least one experimental, semi-autonomous living learning unit."

LIFE STYLES - Recognition should be given to the very different life styles of graduate and undergraduate student, and separate administrative offices should be established for support of each of these segments of the student body.

#SELF-GOVERNING - "Within the framework of the legal responsibility of the board of trustees and University administration, continued efforts should be made in allowing the student body to govern itself in its extra-curricular activities."

STUDENT VOICE - "Discussions and study should continue on methods of providing a more prominent voice for students in ALL campus activities."

EXPANSION - If the student enrollment recommendations are accepted, appropriate growth in housing, transportation and utilities should be planned immediately.

OFFICE OF THE BUDGET AND PLANNING - "There should be established immediately an office of Budget and Planning as a staff operation to the Chancellor, which should manage and control budget.

MASTER PLANNING COMMITTEE - The charge and composition of the Master Planning Committee should be redefined to include both academic and physical planning within its scope. Its membership should include both undergraduate and graduate students.

FAC-SEN BUDGET COMMITTEE - The charge of the Faculty Senate Budget Committee should be redefined in its relationship to both the Office of Budget and Planning and other Faculty Senate committees whose functions include making recommendations which may affect current or future budgets.

SPECIAL ACADEMIC PROGRAMS - There should be established an office of Special Academic Programs headed by an administrator at the level of an Academic Dean and responsible to the Vice-Chancellor for Academics.

RESEARCH - All research centers or programs which are inter-disciplinary in nature, which are involved in "problem oriented" research, and which offer graduate level interdisciplinary course work should be responsible to the Dean of the Graduate School.

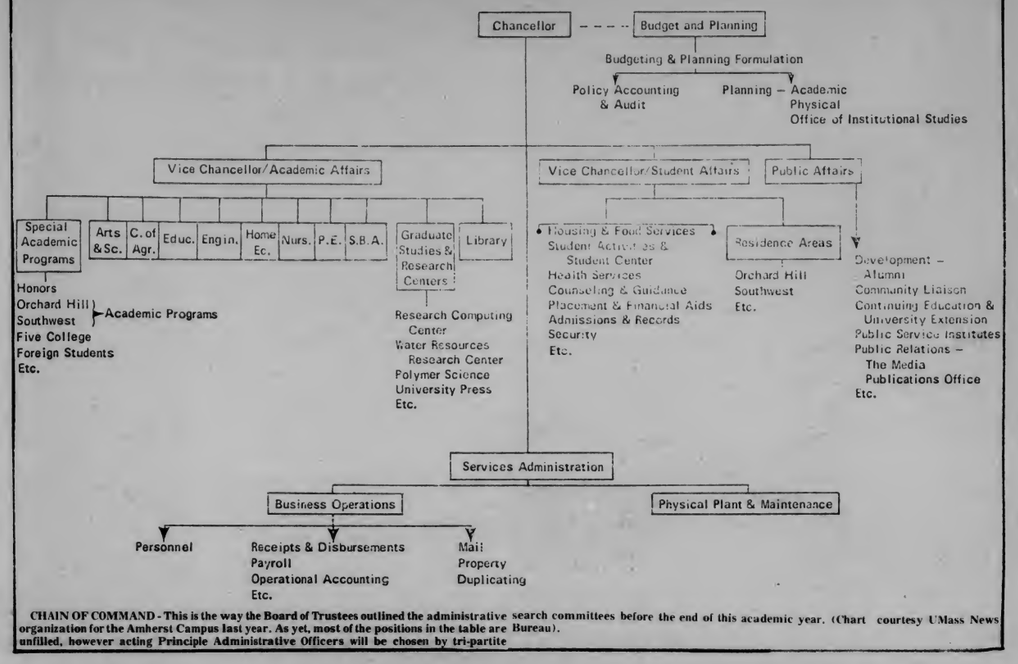
FUTURE ACADEMIC STRUCTURE - There should be, in the near future, a campus wide study on possible reorganization of schools and colleges to determine whether the present administrative structures are the most effective ones for the 70's.

STUDENT AFFAIRS - An administrative unit devoted to Student Affairs should be established apart from the Academic affairs unit. It should be headed by an administrative officer responsible directly to the Chancellor. The administrative substructure of this unit should be established only after intensive study, which should include a strong input from the student body.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS - There should be established an administrative unit whose primary responsibility would be "outreach" and which we have called "Public Affairs". This unit should encompass not only the functions of development (fund raising) alumni affairs, and public relations, but also such other functions as community liaison, continuing education and extension and public service institutions and centers. The chief administrative officer in .this unit should be directly responsible to the Chancellor.

SERVICES ADMINISTRATION - There should be established an administrative unit which we have titled "services administration." The administrative head of this unit should report directly to the Chancellor. Under his jurisdiction would be all of the campus support and service operations arranged in two major sub-divisions: (a) the business operations of the campus -- including personnel records, the various fiscal operations, and such services as mail duplication etc.; and (b) all the functions currently assigned to the physical plant.

YOUR AUTHORIZED DEALER
NORTHAMPTON VOLKSWAGEN, Inc.
• SALES • SERVICE • PARTS
COMPLETE BODY SHOP
246 KING ST. (RTE 5) NORTHAMPTON
Your Authorized Dealer
584-8620 Open 9-9 — Sat. 9-5



A Brooding Romance...
AMHERST Cinema
Now Showing Evenings at 7:00 & 9:00
Matinee Sat. and Sun at 1:30
D.H. Lawrence's THE VIRGIN AND THE GYPSY
UNDER 17 MUST BE ACMP BY PARENT R

The Committee's Members:

-Professor Howard, Government

-Professor Mellen, Animal Science

-Professor Marcus Engineering

CHAIN OF COMMAND - This is the way the Board of Trustees outlined the administrative organization for the Amherst Campus last year. As yet, most of the positions in the table are unfilled, however acting Principle Administrative Officers will be chosen by tri-partite search committees before the end of this academic year. (Chart courtesy UMass News Bureau).

University Planning Must Support Basic Goals

(Editor's note - The following is a portion of the Committee's introductory remarks in their report)

The fundamental components of the University's mission are usually given as teaching, research, and public service. The pursuit of the last of this trilogy, public service, is among the most disputed of the University's goals. Much of the dispute centers about the conflict in definition of what public service means. This Committee has adopted the view that public service implies those activities which do not fall under the definition of traditional teaching and research and which frequently involve programs for a non- university student clientele.

The format for implementation of this concept includes use of the conference, short course, and workshop; the use of flexible credit arrangements and scheduling arrangements; and a program tailored to the needs of the clientele being served who may not meet "normal" university admissions standards. In addition, there may be special purpose institutes and centers whose activities include all the foregoing as well as research approtriate to their service mission. This format has been followed by many distinguished universities through the years.

Although UMA has been involved in public service activities for sometime, there has never been a coordinated effort, until most recently, to pursue this portion of the universities mission. The opening in Fall, 1970, of the new campus center should stimulate interest in the pursuit of the entire spectrum of continuing education activities including conferences and short courses.

We recognize the concern that some have that overemphasis on public service could unbalance the relationship between it and teaching and research. We believe, however, that a proper balance has not as yet been reached. We believe, further, that only a well-defined public service thrust will gain the University the "image" which it has been attempting to create within the Commonwealth.

The Long Range Planning Committee has considered a significant variety of items as within the purview of its charge in the recognition that the University is most complex institution.

Among the items which we have considered is that of campus administrative reorganization and, in fact, we have already presented our views publicly in the discussion which took place on the campus in late Spring, 1970.

To some, the concern about reorganization is unrelated and irrelevant to the other major issues of higher education on the campus.

This reflects a disagreement among students of management and public administration about the merits of designing "better" administrative organizations. Some consider organization charts, with their orderly cubicles, as abstract designs unrelated to the realities of life--the man is what is important. Others feel that such necessary in the development of a structure to efficiently administer the goals of the agency of which it is part.

This committee feels that the two views are not necessarily contradictory. We feel that organization is important because it helps to provide defined lines of authority and responsibility, which serve as guides to the executive in his relationships to those within the organizational system. We believe also, however, that despite the importance of organization as an environmental conditioner of human behavior, the individual also conditions the organization of which he is part.

In a special report which we submitted to the Faculty Senate in May, 1970, we pointed out that our goal was to attempt to develop functional units relating to the various operational requirements of a university. We recognized that there are many complex interactions and relationships, requiring some sort of "horizontal" exchange, which are not clearly evident in an organization chart which stresses vertical reporting channels. The mechanisms for these interactions must be worked out by the total campus community as the new organization develops. We made no attempt to define the number of types of staff required in the various offices, believing that no rigid framework for the substructure should be imposed at the start.

Have a right on good time with Dynamic Degotations and Bloodstone.
Sponsored by the Upward Bound Program
a real experience!
Friday, Oct. 23
8 P.M.
Campus Center Ballroom
99¢

The R.S.O. Dramatic Society
Roister Doisters
IS A VISIBLE ALTERNATIVE
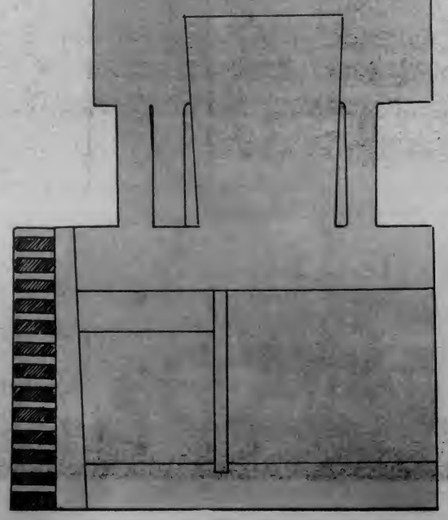
(it's been liberated)
OPEN MEETING – OCT. 27th – 7:30
Berkshire Room, S.U.

TOP OF THE CAMPUS
restaurant
11th floor, Campus Center

OPENS
Oct. 24
Homecoming Weekend

LUNCHEON
Mon. - Fri. 11:30 - 1:30
Sunday Brunch 11:00 - 2:00



DINNER
Wed. & Thurs. 5:30 - 8:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 5:30 - 9:00 p.m.
Sulnday 4:00 - 7:00 p.m.

DRINKS
At Lunch
Every Night 4:00 p.m. - 12:00
Sunday 4:00 - 10:00
If You're Over 21
Join the Top of the Campus Club
$1.00 annual dues

HAPPY HOURS
Mon. - Fri. 4:00 p.m. - 6:00

MUSIC
With Dinner Wed. - Sat.
Until Midnight Fri. & Sat.

ENJOY FINE FOOD
GOOD MUSIC
PANORAMIC VISTAS
TOP OF THE CAMPUS

Interview With Irving Howards

Public Affairs To Merge Campus Public Services

by Linda Selick
Staff Reporter

"This is not the time for the University to separate from the rest of society," firmly stated Irving Howards, recently named coordinator of the new Public Affairs project at UMass. "The University, through the establishment of a Public Affairs component, recognizes its obligation to society and hopes to develop it," he added.

As a result of studies made by the Long Range Planning Committee, which were published in the report Direction of the 70's, public service was deemed an activity that the University should take seriously.

"As a public University, supported by public funds, the obligations to the community go beyond teaching and research and extend to providing, what is, with legitimate means, help to the Commonwealth," said Mr. Howards. "The goodwill that results from service activity will naturally aid in the research and teaching aspects of the University," he reported.

In the past, a variety of agencies have done public service work on campus. With the creation of a Public Affairs unit, their efforts can be coordinated in a joint thrust.

The Alumni Office, photography, publications (other than the University Press), Five College Radio Station, continuing education program and community distribution of the Collegian are several programs now providing services to the community.

Howard hopes to develope an overall philosophy of University relations to community problems in the future which would include the Boston campus as well.

"It would be presumptious of me to speak on behalf of the students in regards to their participation in this program, but I have no hesitation in finding out how students think they can assist," stated Mr. Howards when asked what role the students will play in Public Affairs.

In addition to his duties as coordinator of Public Affairs, Irving Howard is also a professor in the Government Department and teaches various courses and seminars on campus.

Give the cold shoulder to winter in a Woolrich Norfolk Jacket.

In ribbed or uncut corduroy with wool tartan lining. Gets you the custom treatment in detachable cartridge belt, patch pockets. Get into it and light someone's fire. Sizes: 36 to 46. Regulars and longs. About $40. Prep's 12 to 20. About $35.

Woolrich Featured at:
HOUSE of WALSH—AMHERST
Harry Daniels, Inc. Northampton

DEFEND THE KENT STATE 25

Despite the findings to the contrary by the FBI and the President's Commission on Campus Unrest an Ohio Grand Jury has returned indictments against 25 Kent State students, faculty members, and others, in connection with the disturbance last May in which four Kent students were killed and eleven wounded by the National Guard. Among those indicted was one of those wounded by the Guardsmen. No indictments have been returned against any member of the Ohio National Guard.

The Grand Jury attributed the disorder to "permissiveness on campus" and "an overemphasis of the students' rights to free speech," by the president of the university.

This action by the Ohio Grand Jury must be construed as part of a general program of repression by the Government against the antiwar movement and political dissidents in general.

We must act now in solidarity with our brothers and sisters at Kent State and in defense of the civil liberties of all of us. The UMass SMC has called a rally in solidarity with the Kent State students victimized by the Government, for Friday, in Cury Hicks Cage, at 2:00 P.M.

UNITE IN SOLIDARITY WITH THE KENT STUDENTS!

Rally in the Cage
Friday 2 p. m.

IM's Provide Extra-curricular Activity

By MARK VOGLER
Staff Reporter

While the average student flicks off his desk lamp to mark the end of another intensive studying session and the beginning of his social limelight--what ever it may be, an array of flood lights burn at Boyden Fields where a more energetic bunch of college folk neutralize a laborious day of bookwork through physical exertion.

Such is the trend of the greatly expanding intramural program at UMass today. Since its crude developement in 1867, the department has modernized over the years and has widely received the acclaim of student and teacher alike while offering a solid spectrum of things from which a person can choose.

After elaborating on the fact that two thirds of the male population at UMass participate in intramurals in one form or another, assistant intramural director Peter Graham formulated his explanation like so: "The progress in recent years has just been growth, growth, growth--enlarging all the time. It's probably the result of two attributing factors, namely the increase of the student body yearly accompanied by the increased awareness and the desire to compete in it."

This year being the 24th season of its existence, touch football seems to be the high point of intramurals based on the department's findings. Although the campaign is in its playoff stage right now, 83 teams totaling about 2,000 players were in full swing at the start.

The structural alignment of touch football is comparable to all sports. It is organized into the divisions of graduate-faculty, fraternity, residence halls and independent. These in turn are subdivided into leagues according to location. The graduate-faculty circuit is a separate form of competition while the latter three divisions interlock for the campus championship in post season action.

Coach Graham pointed out that there were a number of reasons why intramurals stimulated such interest in the students and he enumerated the opportunities offered the high school athlete as a major one.

"My belief is that the intramural football game means as much to the player as do varsity games to the varsity player. I think the quality of the touch football squads improve each year. This results from the fact that, regardless of the size of the school, you still have only one varsity club.

"And this generality can be applied to just about any other sport. With more high school athletes not being on the varsity teams for one reason or another, the intramural program presents an opportunity for their continued enjoyment of the sport", Graham commented.

The participants themselves derive satisfaction through a variation of reasons. Here's how a few of this year's touch football players spread light on the subject.

Tony Lauria, top campus passer a year ago who quarterbacked Phi Sigma Delta to another Spartan crown this year: "Although it's not varsity sports, the competition is just as great as if it was a varsity game. Through the intramural program a lot of friendships are made. It's a means of meeting more people on campus."

Tony Riddle, teammate of Lauria who looms as a powerful blocking back: "It's my release from school more or less. It gives me something to look forward to besides booking. This program brings out a better understanding among competing players, infact ill feelings that you once had about a guy are sometimes erased."

Dave Pikkarainen, veteran blocking back of Trojan League titleist Kappa Sigma: "Intramural athletes fulfills the need for competition and the desire to win."

Al Brown, scoring king of the South League Champion Thatcher Redwoods: "I get enjoyment out of playing sports in this semi-organized fashion. This program offers guys who have competed in high school athletics an opportunity to continue to play sports. It's a great recreational thing we have going here."

Bob Mucha, quarterback of Lambda Chi Alpha: "It just instills a competitive spirit in all the players that aren't able to play varsity collegiate sports. It's a continuation of schoolboy competition, I'd say."

Mucha did not evade the fact that his team dropped a 49-6 decision to Phi Mu Delta in the Athenian loop's playoff last Monday. "That's the great ideal about intramural sports. It's not considered a joke at all. The players tried their hardest and gave a 100% effort. This is a general observation that I've drawn from the program in four years."

Football is just one phase of the vastly expanding pool of sports available. Each year new ideas pop up and are inserted by the IM administration.

Just recently a group of girls inquired about the possibility of running cross country with the fellas. The denial was supplimented with an event nicknamed the woman's turkey trot. Fourteen girls entered and completed the race which measured a mile in length. The winning squad, Our Team, was presented with a turkey donated by Louis' Market.

Tug-O-War was once a great traditional activity between the freshmen and sophomores. A rope was extended across the pond so that the winner enjoyed the pleasure of drenching the victim. This was discontinued several years ago.

However, four years back the activity was revived and has since been established as a co-ed recreational event. The name has been changed to Co-Rec-Beef-Pull whereby the championship team is feted with a steak dinner.

Frosh Booters Seek 4-0 Mark

By Steve Ferber
Staff Reporter

This afternoon at 3 the Little Redmen entertain the Little Huskies in a freshman soccer contest. The 3-0 UMass frosh will be looking for their fourth consecutive game without a loss.

Thus far the UMass freshmen soccer team has outscored its opponents 7-4, while outshooting them 71-34, in continual displays of dominance. Of their seven goals Bruce Sibson leads the ranks with three scores; Mark Tyrna has chipped in with two, as has Mike Nugent.

In the way of assists Tyrna leads with two, as three of his four points this season have come off of cornerkicks, his specialty.

Bowling On The Roll

UMass will have five representatives tomorrow as the Tri-State Intercollegiate Bowling Conference embarks on its first sanctioned competition of the 1970-71 season, in Hamden, Conn.

These five will be chosen from a team of 11 members by coach and advisor, Gary Damon. The 11 are, Mike DiDonato, Donald Tordoff, David Grossman, Craig Pierson, Jim Saracino, Steve Seeleman, Mark Edelman, Jim Armenti, Howard Koski, Michael and Ernest Malagrida.

MDC CLASSIFIED

SERVICES

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car. 127 No. Pleasant St. 256-8153. tf19-22

Will type and/or revise any written material. Also do personalized resumes for schools, jobs. Professional, fast, reasonably priced service. Call 584-0817, eves. Keep trying. tf11-6

From Spain: Sanchis, Ofimex, Enrique, etc., etc., Guitars, Lauds, Bandurrias, Mandolins and cases. Creative Endeavor, 20-22 Miles St., Greenfield. 413-774-2831.

tf10-27

Musical instruments from around the world at discount prices. Guitars a specialty. Creative Endeavor (The Music Store), 20-22 Miles St., Greenfield. 413-774-2831. tf 10-27

YOUR PRICE for your next musical instrument in our consignment sales department. For information call: 413-774-2831. Creative Endeavor, 20-22 Miles Street, Greenfield. tf10-27

Judy Collins, Joni Mitchell, Johnny Cash, etc., etc. Music books plus a complete ordering service. Creative Endeavor, 20-22 Miles St. Greenfield. 413-774-2831.

tf10-27

Music lessons, instruments (new and used, imported and domestic), and repairs, etc. at reasonable prices. Creative Endeavor, 20-22 Miles Street, Greenfield. 413-774-2831. tf10-27

Computer Science Tutoring and Programming available. Call Al 256-8259. tf10-23-30

PERSONAL

Reward: For info of whereabouts of Sony clock radio, Olivetti typewriter. Call 546-9583. tf10-23

"Puffton Party" this Sat, nite Oct. 24 - free beer. For information and rides, girls call 6-6760. 10-23

MUSICIANS WANTED

Lead guitarist to play in rock band in production of Your Own Thing. For further information call Mourgean Field, 549-6135 or 5-8038. tf10-23

FOR RENT

2 bdrm. apt. in Sunderland, available at week in Nov. Big kitchen, living room, and attic for storage. Rent $100/mo. plus heat and elec. Call 665-3095 evenings or anytime weekends. tf10-30

LECTURE SERIES

Opening October 31, 1970, School of Parapsychology. Free lecture by Maurry O'Connell, originator of the study, at Hotel Northampton. Time: 7:30 p.m. tf10-30

HELP WANTED

Fuller's students — $3.75/hour guaranteed, part time/full time. Name your own hours. Free training if qualified call 549-0783 6-8 p.m.; by Friday, October 23. 10-21-23-26

FOR SALE

Pioneer, Teac, Garrard, FE Axiom, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, LPs, 8 track and other accessories. Amherst Audio, tf18-23

1970 BSA 250 cc. 4000 miles $900. Call 9-9306, 6-9384. tf10-23

Lear Jet 8-track Stereo, table model, walnut finish, 2 spkrs., plus 70 tapes, pop show classical, good cond. $50. V. Braun, 665 Machmer, 5-2406. tf10-26

Records, 8-track tapes, cassettes, all at low prices, any artist, any label. See Steve in 203 Grayson 6-6995. tf10-26

Sansui 350 amp., 40 watts; 1 McDonald 300 cheaper; 2 Elite Goodmes speakers 15", 6 months old, $250. Call 665-3466, keep trying. tf10-23

8-Track Stereo Tape Cartridges 80 minute, two album tapes. Your choice $5.99, call Eliot at 665-3095 or Happy at 253-5000. Now get total music enjoyment at half the store price. tf10-27

Raccoon fur coat in very good condition. Call 587-5895. 10-23-25

Sonn Selaria Amp 2 twelve-inch speakers, Revard Tremolo, 2 yrs. old. List price $400 asking for $200. Call 546-3804 for details. 10-23-26

Wilbraith portable refrigerator, includes freezer compartment. Contact Bob W. 549-6737. Cost $95. 10-23

1 Fr Head G. S. Comps, 1 hand carved chess set, 1 Profile ski parka, 1 pr. ski poles 58". Call Dave 471 Brett 546-6229. 10-23-26-27

FOR SALE — AUTOS

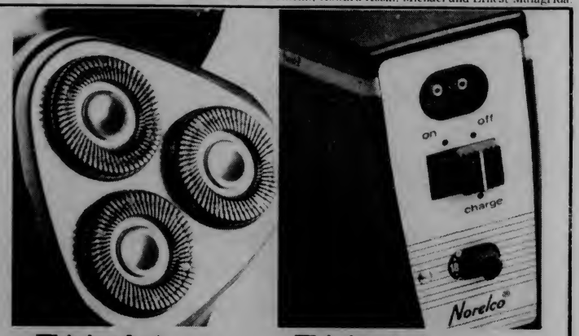
1965 Tryaltr, red, wire wheels, Rechalin tires, snow tires, luxuree rack and tonneau. 323-7085. tf10-23

VW for sale, '63, new rebuilt engine, new paint job, new interior, brakes, radio, muffler, excellent condition. 5-8755. tf10-23

66 Falcon 4 dr., standard trans., radio. Has passed inspection. Asking $150 or best offer. Phone 549-0826. tf10-23

1969 Triumph 650 CC Bonneville, 6000 mi., blk bars, two mirrors. Mint condition. Call Mike 549-0402 10-23-25

Classic 66 Barracuda 340, auto., P.S., radio, polyglass. Call eves. 549-6547. 1010--21-23-27-29



1970 Triumph Tiger 650 Motorcycle, 4 months old, maintained well, 3000 miles, excellent condition. Call Kevin 549-6160. tf10-27

1963 Ford Galaxy, $250 or best offer. Call after 3:30. 253-7758 tf10-23-30

WANTED

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthology. Please include stamped return envelope. Idlewild Press, 1867 Post Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

Female roommate, $45 a month, own room. Ask for Nancy, 665-3078. tf10-26

This is what we have against blades.

A shaver that shaves as close or closer than the new platinum and chromium blades.

99 men tested our Norelco Tripleheader 35T against these new blades. Each shaved one side of his face with a blade and the other with the Tripleheader. Our three floating heads followed the curves of their faces. And our eighteen rotary blades shaved in every direction at once (that's the way beards grow).

Blades can't do all this. They're straight. And that's why seven out of ten men said the Tripleheader shaved them as close or closer than the new blades.

What's more, the Tripleheader has a pop-out trimmer. So you can get your sideburns straight and even for a change.

Now what blade can compete with that?

This is what we have against other rechargeables.

A rechargeable that gives up to twice as many shaves per charge as any other rechargeable.

Our Rechargeable Tripleheader 45CT has all the features of our regular Tripleheader. It has three Microgroove™ floating heads. And eighteen rotary blades that continuously sharpen themselves to cut down on bothersome blade replacement. And a hidden pop-up trimmer for neat sideburns and mustaches.

It also has some special features all its own. A Shave Counter that automatically counts your shaves and tells you when to recharge. A Charge Indicator that lights up when it's recharging. And, of course, the Rechargeable can shave with or without a cord.

Now what rechargeable can compete with that?

The Norelco Tripleheaders You can't get any closer

Norelco © 1970 North American Philips Corporation, 100 East 42nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

UM Crew Gets Oars Set For 'Charles' Regatta

By BRONA SIMON
Staff Reporter

Sunday at noon marks the start of the sixth annual Head-of-the-Charles Regatta sponsored by the Cambridge Boat Club. THhe UMass Crew Club will be one of the 70 clubs, colleges and schools participating in the largest single-day regatta in the world. At stake is the Paul Revere Cup, which is to go to the overall best organization.

Bringing two teams to Boston, UMass has entries in two of the 13 scheduled events, the Senior and Junior Division Eights on a course of three miles.

Although the Senior Division is virtually open to anyone, qualifications have limited teams who have won one of the country's regattas to only that race. In other words, these winning teams are not allowed to compete in the Junior Division. Even though the UMass Crew Club has yet to win a regatta, they have the ability and strength to participate in the Senior match, as evident in last year's impressive fourth place finish.

Competition for the Boston Globe Challenge Cup in the Senior Division will, of course, be tough. Sixteen teams, including the Union Boat Club of Boston, whose members are all either national champions or Olympic finalists, the Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia, who is this year's national champion, Brown University, Princeton, Northeastern and Syracuse, all rated as top crews of the country, are slated to start at 3:30 p.m. at ten second intervals.

The Junior Eights will start at 1:25, also at ten second intervals, with the Boston Mayor's Cup awarded to the crew with the best time. Of the 33 teams, UMass' biggest threats will come from Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth and Worcester Tech. Last year, UMass captured fifth position out of the same number of boats.

The starting point for both races is the old M.I.T boathouse at B.U. Bridge, and the finish line is three miles upstream beyond the Elliott Street Bridge, across from Harvard Stadium.

"This year we are just planning to better last year's performance," commented coach Mike Faherty. "So far, every year we've done better in the Head-of-the-Charles than the year before. There's no doubt that this fall we are faster and stronger. Good competition and enthusiasm of crews that are primarily sophomores in their firs. varsity roles have kept things moving well in our practices."

In order to get the fastest possible combination of rowers to enter in the Seniors, Faherty has been shuffling the boat lineups every day. That the crew finally decided upon will not have had much practice rowing together might pose the only UMass disadvantage.

The Charles River jamboree offers a grand finale to fall practices with daylight savings soon to arrive. It also permits a look at how the 900-odd entering oarsmen in 210 shells will shape up for the spring season.

CREW CUTS ....For the first time, the Crew Club has elected co-captains for the coming season. Seniors Dave Richard and Tom Mone will share the title.

BENDING THOSE OARS-Vying for seats in UMass' Senior and Junior "8's", the two boats that the Crew Club will enter in Sunday's Head-of-the-Charles Regatta, are (l-r) Dave Richard, Doug Thompson and Charles Leonard. (MDC photo by Bob Mangiaratti)

Rugby Club Kicks In N.Y.

By FRED WYSHAK
Staff Reporter

The UMass Rugby Club will travel to Schenectady, N.Y. tomorrow to play the Schenectady Rugby Club in a match which sees the Redmen weakened by injuries but eager to continue their winning ways after their first defeat last weekend to Holy Cross.

That loss came after Tufts cancelled the previously scheduled match, forcing the ruggers to set up a quick match with the Worcester team. Coach Bob Laurence, injured in the B game, after turning in a fine performance, cited the loss as "our failure to do the things we should have done, and the absence of Mike Bull."

Bull will not be playing again tomorrow. He and Mike Reynolds are on the disabled list. Frank Boksanske and Dick Ladner have been moved to the first XV after playing well last weekend, as the B's won their match against Holy Cross.

The Schenectady Club is a strong club made up of mostly English players, but if we play to our potential, we should win the match," say coaches Laurence and Dale Touhey.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

The late, great psychiatrist, Carl Jung, made use of horoscopes in diagnosing his patients. He states this often in his writings and some Jungian physicians today follow his example.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Curtail speculation. Deal with factual. Unilateral action now might be error. Gain co-operation from family members. Money is involved. Take conservative course.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Obtain hint from Aries message. Take time to gain additional information. Humor will not suffice. You will be called upon to produce authoritative source. Act accordingly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Moderation should be key. There is more to assignment situation than you may perceive. Ask questions and stick to established routes. This will assure ultimate success.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Pressure from one close to you results in strained relationship. Don't compound error. Be receptive without being a pushover. Take long-range view.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Duties may appear to multiply. But this is because opportunity is on horizon. Maintain confidence. Refuse to be discouraged by one who sings the blues. Add to wardrobe.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be discreet. Not wise to commit yourself to definite course. Unknown factors interfere with intelligent action. Know this and play waiting game. Organizational dispute is in picture.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be flexible. Some may claim you must do this or that--but decision is in your hands. Be cool, calculating. Don't permit others to force your hand.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Aid comes from source which you thought was in your past. Settle down to accomplish basic chores. Position is strong. You get important backing from authorities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 0): You get head start on competition. Breaks come your way. Unorthodox approach brings best results. Be ready for change, travel. Draw upon variety of experiences.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Accent on gain through partners, cooperative efforts. If single, this could be time when you decide to end that state. Love blooms--whether married or single. Give and you also receive.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): To more listening than talking. By being observant, you gain pertinent information. Accent public relations. Strive for greater harmony with mate, business partner.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Light touch, soft-sell approach works best for you. Taking on new responsibility means you will have to bring together divergent forces. Use innate sense of timing.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are inquisitive, alert, never satisfied merely to know something occurred. You dig for reasons background material. You are curious about the why of events and people. You may soon be making change of residence--or there will be new element to consider in home life.

Copyright 1970, Gen. Fea. Corp.

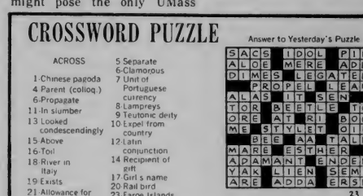
Sports Notices

FOOTBALL GAME ON THE AIR. Student radio station WMUA, 91.1 FM will provide the play-by-play of tomorrow's UMass-Connecticut football game. Airtime will be 12:45 p.m. (gametime is 1:). Providing all the action will be Ken Horseman; Dave Melvin will fill in with all the color. At 12:30, Hal Dash will present Redmen Kickoff Preview.

* * * * *

SPORTS TALK - UMass soccer coach Peter Broaca will be the featured guest as WMUA returns its weekly "Sports Talk" to the air. Running from 10 p.m. to 11 Sunday, the show will center around Broaca who will discuss his undefeated Redman booters and their chances for the rest of the season with Ken Horseman and Dave Melvin. Phone calls will be welcomed on either of two lines, 5-2425 or 5-2676.

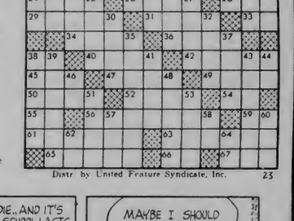
* * * * *



FALL LACROSSE - UMass' varsity lacrosse team will culminate its fall lacrosse training program tomorrow morning with a match against Rutgers. The game will get underway at 10 and will be played on the varsity field behind Bowden Building.

* * * * *

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS - Participation sheets for women's intramural volleyball are available at the women's IM office, room 106. Women's Physical Education Building. Rosters must be returned to this office by Monday, Oct. 26 (or a girl to be eligible. Any girl interested in officiating, scoring and/or timing games for intramural volleyball should contact Jean Paratore at 5-[illegible]



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

ACROSS
1 Chinese pagoda
4 Parent (colloq.)
6 Propagate
11 In slumber
13 Looked condescendingly
15 Above
16 Toil
18 River in Italy
19 Exists
21 Allowance for waste
22 Andi
24 Malay canoe
26 Snare
28 Before
29 Weird
31 Ox of Celebes
33 Symbol for tellurium
34 In addition
36 Fee
38 A continent (abbr.)
40 Projecting tooth
42 Shore birds
45 Number
47 Periods of time
49 Transaction
50 War god
52 Edible fish
54 Sun god
55 Note of scale
56 Snake tree
59 Parent (colloq.)
61 Spanish-American court game
63 Man's name
65 Style of automobile
66 Exclamation
67 Worm

DOWN
1 Greek letter
2 Desire with eagerness
3 Man's nickname
4 Saucy
5 Separate
6 Clamorous
7 Unit of Portuguese currency
8 Lampreys
9 Teutonic deity
10 Expel from country
12 Latin conjunction
14 Recipient of gift
17 Girl's name
20 Rail bird
23 Faroe Islands whirlwind
24 Hebrew letter
25 Is ill
27 Indigent
30 Slave
32 Word of sorrow
35 Power
37 Falsifier
38 Brand
39 Eagles' nests
41 British prison
43 South American animals
44 Compass point
46 Compass point
48 Laziness
51 Having shoes
53 Reverberation
57 Greek letter
58 Knockout (abbr.)
60 Beast of burden
62 French article
64 Pronoun

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

"Bonus Factors" Enhance Redman Hopes Vs. UConn

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

With many "bonus factors" on their side, with a desire to achieve a more consistent offense and backed by head coach Vic Fusia's fantastic record against Husky teams, the UMass football team has itself prepared for the invasion of an excellent University of Connecticut squad for what should be quite a game tomorrow afternoon at 1 at Alumni Stadium.

Although the Redmen's record is a dissatisfying 1-4, Fusia has insisted from week to week that this club possesses certain "bonus factors" necessary for it to break out of this losing slump and start winning some football games.

Among the "bonus factors", Fusia points out first that UMass has yet to be inflicted by a major injury to one of its players. Secondly, he stresses that all of the players are "hard workers". Another "bonus factor" he feels is in the Redmen's favor is their "enthusiasm", an intangible quality that has been a mark of this team ever since the start of preseason practice.

There are others and Fusia talks about them. "The desire is there, the discipline is there, the will to win is there..." Reflecting back over all of the "bonus factors", the head coach commented, "In this area we have much to be happy about."

But, despite the existance of these "bonus factors", UMass continues to trudge along at a 1-4 pace mainly because of that great area of inconsistency, the Redman offense.

It takes no great football mind to tell that the attack is inconsistent; any pair of eyes can figure that out by just watching the Redmen in action. A much harder thing to figure out is the reason for all this inconsistency.

Fusia thinks that the answer stems from the Redmen simply pressing to much, overtrying. In fact, when the coach was asked what UMass must do to get back in winning form, he bluntly replied by indicating what it mustn't do. "Stop pressing!", he said, to which he added after a silent pause, "and play their game."

To clarify his point about overtrying, Fusia used the example of how penalties have bogged down Redman offensive drives. In most of these cases, he said, the person who commits the penalty doesn't do so because he fears the great ability of the man he is playing against but rather because he is overanxious about his own play as a part of the UMass offense.

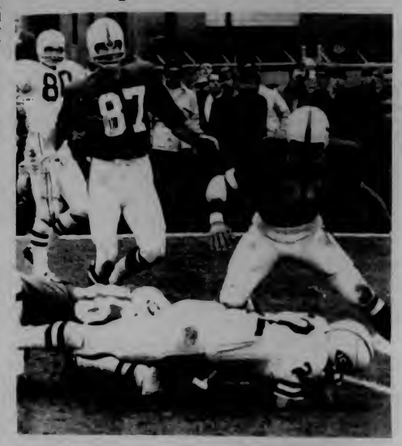
Tomorrow's game is indeed big and, going into it, Fusia brings a long string of victories over the Huskies, ever since the days when he first arrived on the UMass grid scene in 1961. Prior to his taking over the Redman reigns, UMass football teams had lost six games in a row against UConn grid aggregates and 14 out of 16 tilts dating back to 1936.

From '61 through '67 Fusia-coached units recorded seven straight wins; they were defeated in '68, 27-20, but bounced back last fall to win, 28-7.



One must keep in mind, though, that this is probably the best UConn club Fusia and his squad have ever faced. Fifth-year mentor John Toner has built up this Husky unit and this is his dream year.

UConn may be 3-2 and this may appear very mediocre, but the two losses are deceiving. One came against undefeated Ivy power, Yale, a game in which the score was 3-0 in the closing seconds of play when the Bulldogs scored an insurance touchdown and won, 10-0.

The other loss was to Temple University, 41-23, an affair in which Connecticut great Vin Clements was injured on the third play of the game.

Enthusiam has been played upon as one of the Huskies' greatest assets, as it is with the Redmen. If such is the case, then tomorrow's affair shapes up as two football teams fighting like mad, with nerve and vigor, to come out of this one as winners.

SIDELINE SCRIBBLES - The playing status of Clements has been listed as unlikely, but Fusia commented, "We're going along on the assumption that he is (going to play)."...UMass' defense unit (to which Fusia refers as "Our proud defense.") has piled up an impressive list of statistics that offset the much-occuring ineptness of the Redman offense...While the offense has scored only 58 points, the defense has given up a mere 70...While UMass has averaged 10.7 yards per passing attempt, its opponents have made 10.8 yards per try against the UMass defense...While the Redman runners have only gained 2.7 yards per clip, the Redman run-stoppers have limited their foes to a 2.9 average...And, for the year thus far, the offense has tallied 72 first downs while the defense has permitted three less, 69...There will be a couple of changes on behalf of the offensive personnel...Starting at quarterback will be Ken Hughes, who lost his starting berth a week ago to the younger Len Matuza...At left tackle will be Clarence Brooks, spelling Dick Donlin...Steve Shubert will start at split or open end while fullback is a tossup between Dick Heavey and Dick Cummings...In last Saturday's loss to Rhode Island, UMass halfback Pat Scavone moved into third place on the all-time Redman rushing list...In that one, he jumped his career yardage total to 1015, placing him ahead of Jerry Whelchel (984 yards) but behind Sam Lussier (1,572 yards) and Greg Landry (1,632)...Asked if he agreed that the UMass-UConn football rivalry has developed into one of the better rivalries in New England, Fusia answered quickly, briefly, "Oh yes!.....yes."

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY - In action from last year's UMass-UConn football game, the Redmen's Jerry Grasso (22) is stopped short of a touchdown by the Huskies' Jim Sproul (46), a linebacker who will see action for UConn tomorrow. No. 87 for UConn is defensive end Al Akowitz, who will be in tomorrow's starting lineup. Paul Tortolani (36) graduated last spring and will not play; no 80 in white is UMass' Nick McGarry, the Redman co-captain, who can't play. (MDC photo by Ken Stevens)

Metawampe's Picks

Ha, Ha, ha. The Great One is having a difficult time keeping his savage sides from splitting. Tothink, some maladjusted media man actually thinks he "knows" who the Great One is. He thinks that is supposed to be privileged information.

Really, it is impressive to think that a mere college student, right here at UMass no less, actually figured out who he is. Much to his chagrin, however, and to the joy of the jolly journalist, he was wrong. That's right, wrong. Mistaken. Incorrect. Do not pass go, do not collect any wampum.

Any half coherent person, even a simpleton Umie such as this one, ought to be able to read that the author is none other than Metawampe himself. To think that a mere mortal might manufacture these motley messages is beyond belief. But even the Great One likes a laugh every once in a while. It keeps the spirits circulating in side the Spirit.

UMASS 22, UCONN 14

So far this season the Redman offense has got increasingly worse. But against Clements-less Huskies, it does just the reverse.

BOSTON U. 31, RHODE ISLAND 12

Ram is sky high after scalping the Redman,

UMASS 22, UCONN 14

So far this season the Redman offense has got increasingly worse.

But against Clements-less Huskies, it does just the reverse.

BOSTON U. 31, RHODE ISLAND 12

Ram is sky high after scalping the Redman.

But Terriers are better and turn said Ram to dead Ram.

AIR FORCE 35, BOSTON COLLEGE 13

It's Falcons vs. Eagles in this interfowl fling.

And it's likely the bald one will be minus a wing.

DARTMOUTH 23, HARVARD 10

It's been a bad week for Harvard as is seen by this score.

As Chasey and Big Green bomb them some more.

MAINE 12, HOFSTRA 7

If anyone bothers to see this one,

and they're too tired to boo,

They should bring along a magazine for something to do.

VILLANOVA 37, HOLY CROSS 13

The Wildcats in this one are the obvious pick,

As 0-5 Crusaders may be wondering if they should have stayed sick.

NORTHEASTERN 17, NEW HAMPSHIRE 16

YanCon teams have yet to beat any outside foes,

And though opportunity may be here, Wildcats just add to the woes.

Runners Host Formidable Crusaders

By EARLE BARROLL
Staff Reporter

Coming off of a resounding thumping of the Springfield College harriers, the UMass cross country team plays host to Holy Cross tomorrow in an early 11 a.m. encounter beginning behind the Women's Physical Education Building.

This five mile race marks the first time in four years that the Redmen will be squaring off against a Crusader team without the services of one Art Dulong who graduated this past spring after a record setting career at the Cross.

This year's Crusader team cannot be taken lightly however, as it comes into this meet with a 6-1 record, its only loss coming at the "feet" of Northeastern, which beat the Redmen earlier in the season.

The Cross possesses a fine quartet of runners in Richard Crooke, Richard Fahey, Bob Heath, and Bob Borbet. Crooke and Fahey are one of the best one-two punches in New England cross country and Heath and Borbet are very solid in the third and fourth positions.

The big weakness for Holy Cross is in the fifth position, where its fifth man has been way back in the team split throughout the season. Against a team with the depth of UMass this will be a detriment to the Crusader hopes of toppling the Redmen.

For the Redmen this will be their third meet in a week at home. Right now their home record stands at 1-1, their entire record to date, 4-2-1.

Tuesday's race against Springfield marked the biggest time improvement for the entire team this season and Coach Ken O'Brien is looking for more of the same overall team improvement tomorrow against the Crusaders.

Returning to the Redman attack will be sophomore Tom Jasmin who sat out last race recovering from a virus. His return will bolster the depth in the middle positions for UMass.

The frosh will also be running tomorrow. They lead off the program against the Crusaders' frosh. The last two outtings for the little Redmen have been shutout efforts against Boston College and Springfield, and they look for more of the same against Holy Cross.

Blistering Booters Battle Tufts

By EDWARD DOHERTY
Staff Reporter

Attempting to secure their hold on fourth place in the New England region, the UMass booters travel to Tufts University tomorrow morning for a game with the Jumbo soccermen.

Tufts is currently ranked 15th in New England and would like nothing better than to knock off the undefeated Redmen. This contest is also crucial to the Redmen since it begins the toughest portion of their rough schedule.

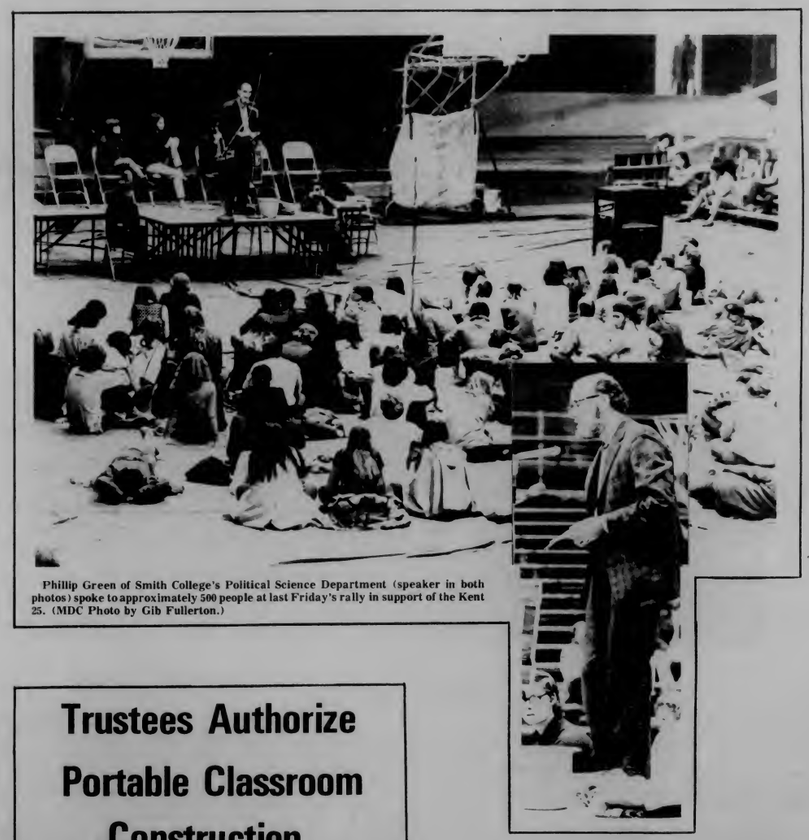
Following Saturday's game the booters will host Worcester Poly Tech on Tuesday, travel to Vermont a week from tomorrow, and then return home to face Springfield on Nov. 4. The WPI team which comes to Amherst on October 27 is enjoying eighth place in New England at the moment, and boasts one of the finest college division teams in the area.

When the UMass squad travels to Montpelier, Vt. for a Halloween day game against the Catamounts it will be an attempt to wrest the Yankee Conference crown from the defending champions. The big game of the season however will be played right here at UMass on Nov. 4 when Springfield College, just ahead of the Redmen in the ratings, will provide the opposition.

The booters' concentration will have to remain on Tufts tomorrow, for the Jumbos will be remembering last season's come from behind 5-4 UMass victory, sparked by Duane Brown's three- goal performance.

In other soccer news, co-captain Rick Matuszczczk was named defensive player of the week in the Yankee Conference for his performance against the University of Connecticut; goalie Bill Leary has still allowed the fewest goals of any Y-C goalkeeper; and Lindo Alves and Duane Brown are still leading the Conference scorers.

Intramurals



Last Night's Intramurals
Football-Semifinals
Team 36, Tubes 6
Pied Pipers 14, Panthers 6
IM's over Roadrunners, wbf
Redwoods 39, Academics 2

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

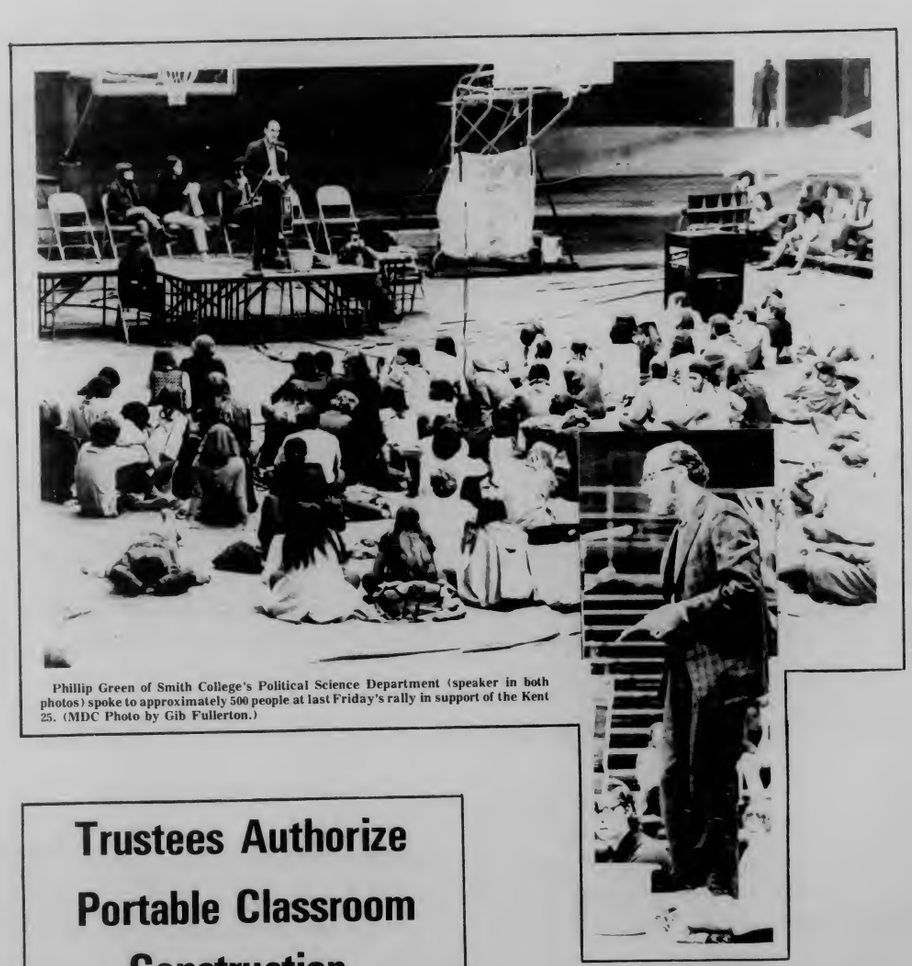
VOLUME XCVIX ISSUE 33 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS MONDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1970

KENT 25 SANCTUARY ASKED FROM NATION'S UNIVERSITIES

Details, page 3

Phillip Green of Smith College's Political Science Department (speaker in both photos) spoke to approximately 500 people at last Friday's rally in support of the Kent 25. (MDC Photo by Gib Fullerton.)

Trustees Authorize Portable Classroom Construction



page 3

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOLUME XCVIX ISSUE 33 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | MONDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1970

KENT 25 SANCTUARY ASKED FROM NATION'S UNIVERSITIES

Details, page 3

Phillip Green of Smith College's Political Science Department (speaker in both photos) spoke to approximately 500 people at last Friday's rally in support of the Kent 25. (MDC Photo by Gib Fullerton.)

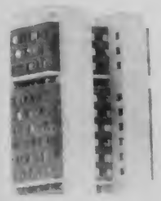
Trustees Authorize Portable Classroom Construction

page 3

Homecoming '70, Part One

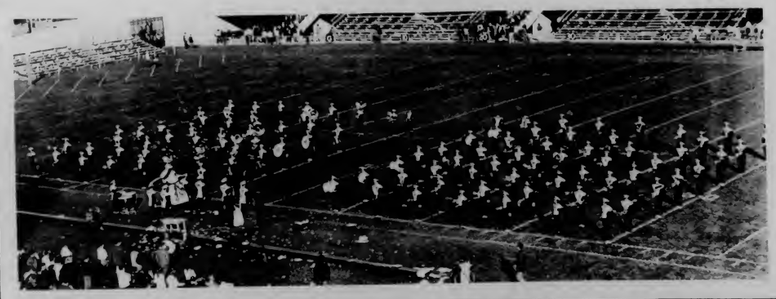
The 1970 Homecoming festivities began last Friday with the traditional float parade and rally, with entrants to the float judging falling into three categories.

Webster took the winner's honors for the Dorm division, Alpha Tau Gamma won the Greek competition, and the combined efforts of Iota Gamma Epsilon and Phi Sigma Delta won their float the "overall" title.



Pictured at top left, Phi Mu Delta's gypsy fortune-teller tried to predict Saturday's game results to the crowd. The Marching Band's mascot, Cuckoo, (top,right) greeted the spectators before her egg was offered to UConn the next day. (bottom).

The UMass Parachute Club presented a skydiving exhibition at the Alumni Tailgate Picnic before the game in the athletic fields behind Southwest.



And the five Homecoming Queen finalists are shown with their escorts during pre-game activities before the Redmen took the field. (Skydiving photo taken by Gary Slickman. Other MDC photos by Gib Fullerton.)

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor).

Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $7.50 per semester, $14.00 per year.

Provost's Coffee Hour

Provost Robert L. Gluckstern will be at Butterfield House in the Central Area tonight at 10:00 p.m. to answer questions and discuss his area of University life.

The Butterfield meeting is part of an effort to expand the regular Monday afternoon coffee hours usually attended by Chancellor Tippo. It is hoped that the new approach to students meeting administrators will be more effective and allow for more of the administrators to participate.

The Monday noon meeting has been cancelled this week in lieu of Gluckstern's visit to Butterfield. Coffee will be served.

'Campaign Climax' Feature To Begin

The Daily Collegian will begin an intensive pre-election wrap-up on the major political races both in Massachusetts and around the nation tomorrow.

"Campaign Climax" takes a look at the State's Governor Lieutenant Governor and Attorney General races tomorrow, and will feature an indebth report on the race of the U.S. Senate on Wednesday.

The lower constitutional offices, their duties and their aspirants, will be highlighted by the MDC on Thursday. And on Friday, "Campaign Climax" will take a look at two local races, the campaigns for District Attorney and State Representative, and referendum questions.

Next Monday the Daily Collegian will preview several major races around the nation, and will spotlight campaigns in other New England States.

Finally, "Campaign Climax" will conclude next Tuesday with a complete round-up of all major state campaigns, as each candidate braces for election day. 1970.

Nationwide Sanctuary Asked For Kent 25

By RICHARD C. HANSON
Asst. News Editor

Gathered to show support for the students and faculty members recently indicted by an Ohio Grand Jury for involvement in the incidents at Kent State University last Spring, some 500 UMass students heard warnings of the "cancerous" growth of "repression in the United States" and a call for the "granting of asylum" for those indicted in Ohio here at UMass.

Speaking last Friday afternoon at the Cage rally sponsored by the Student Senate and various other organizations, Howard Gadlin, of the UMass Psychology Department told the participants that "if they try to jail those at Kent State then we (at UMass) will let them into our rooms, classes, and offices and offer sanctuary...sanctuary for any political prisoner." Gadlin called for an organizational meeting to promote the idea and contact others at Kent State and colleges around the country.

At the rally was Philip Green of Smith College's Political Science Department who conipared the "repression" in America with the situation which has developed in the Union of South Africa, where, Green said, the principles of "liberal democracy no longer even protect the Whites". Green explained that the "nature of political repression" is such that a "whole way of life can be outlawed....once repression is started it goes unchecked." Green warned that although the democratic institutions of law and government were present in South Africa, they "were for whites only." This situation caused the deterioration of all rights for everyone.

"Everyone should realize that something comparable to what happened in South Africa can happen here" warned Green, citing the "repression" certain segment of American society. "We are in the beginning stages...the same rot is visible," he added.

Green spoke angrily to the group of the "disintegration of the guts of democracy in a rampant mob turned loose by one party" while the other party didn't have the "guts" to fight it. He cautioned the crowd that "repression" starts by getting a law passed which represses a "group of recognized bad guys" and then is applied to all those who "didn't think that particular group was the bad guys." He also cited the constant danger of laws being misapplied for political ends, saying that if "the police are allowed to smash heads in courtrooms and out...they will view it as a license." Green closed by urging people, in the "corny" words of Benjamin Franklin, "hang together or we shall all hang separately."

About half way through the rally, a bomb threat was reported and the cage was quickly checked by University police. There was no disruption of the rally.

Howard Gadlin spoke after Green, giving examples of "repression in Universities" across the nation. He tried to show how at UMass "Our own Spiro Agnew Chancellor Oswald Tippo had "attempted to isolate the militants, the activists and the radicals" by telling the rest of the campus community to "avoid" them. Gadlin continued, saying that Tippo wanted the "campus cops to come down as hard as he can on the freaks." Gadlin offered no concrete examples to back up his allegations.

Gadlin showed concern for the time when academic freedom will come to mean stopping your thought. He then lashed out again at Chancellor Tippo asking, "has he ever challenged Spiro Agnew or any of his look alikes."

Sidney Finehursh, a long time local activist, spoke briefly about the importance of "this act of solidarity" with the Kent-25 "to say to the government that we are performing a very concrete deed of defense; saying that when the movement is attacked, we will stand together." He emphasized that the movement (anti-war, anti-repression) was growing to include "working people, blacks and third world people."

Elaine Moriarty, moderator for the rally, announced that the students who were expected to speak from Kent State had been delayed in Cleveland by bad weather. Glenn Elters, Student Senate President had received a telegram from Kent State asking contributions to the defense fund for the twenty-five indicted students and faculty. The New York Times reported Saturday that a rally of some 4000 students, twice the number involved in the demonstration last Spring, had taken place "peacefully" last Friday afternoon.

Following the three main speakers, the crowd began to dwindle. Those who remained heard spokeswomen for UMass Women's Liberation, the Angela Davis Defense committee and the Boston chapter of the Black Panthers.

Speaking for the Black Panthers was Donna Howle who was one of the fourteen arrested in Philadelphia on charges of attempted murder, possession of firearms and other city ordinances. Miss Howle, hair pulled back and held in place by a kerchief, urged people to attend the Black Panther Party-sponsored, Constitutional Convention to be held in Washington, D.C. November 27-29.

As the rally was breaking up, one unidentified person took the platform and began to solicit volunteers to "go out and confront" the local police or just disrupt traffic.

Moderator, Elaine Moriarty, Six Finehursh, and Howard Gadlin sit on platform for Cage rally to protest the indictment of 25 Kent State students and faculty. Behind Finehursh's head is Philip Green from Smith College, who spoke of the "cancerous" of repression growing in the America. (MDC Photo by Gil Fullerton)

Sanctuary Committee

The Sanctuary Committee was formed shortly after Friday's rally in support of the Kent State twenty-five. The committee decided to send off a telegram to the student government of Kent State offering to "provide sanctuary for any and all of the twenty-five." They are now waiting for a reply from Kent State.

The Sanctuary Committee is holding another meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the new section of the Hatch to further discuss proposals for the sanctuary.

Trustees OK Building of Modular Classrooms

By DAVID WILLIAMS
Tuesday Issue Editor

By a unaminous voice vote the Board of Trustees authorized the building of $2 million worth of portable classrooms on three sites on campus in a meeting held in the Campus Center Friday.

The Trustees also named two members of the faculty to administrative posts.

Dean Alfange Jr., associate professor of government, was named acting dean of the Faculty of Social and Behavorial Sciences in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Named to the post of Associate Provost was David C. Bischoff, now professor and associate dean at the School of Physical Education.

Both appointments take effect immediately.

In giving the recommendation of the Committee on Buildings and Grounds to build the modular classroom structures, Trustee John Haigis emphasized that the buildings would be of a temporary nature. However, he added, "temporary in our estimate means a possibility of 30 years."

The three sites for the buildings, which would be used for office space as well as for classrooms, are the field behind Boyden, the field east of Marks Meadow playground near the School of Education, and a site off Stockbridge and Infirmary Roads.

President Robert Wood prefaced the business of the meeting by reporting to the Board that his accommodations at 85 Devonshire St., in Boston, although now furnished by "orange crates" were adequate and that he was looking forward to his inauguration on December 9. He also said that the Capital Outlay Budget for 1971-72 would be before the Board next month.

A brief flurry of argument over a Committee recommendation to increase graduate students' stipends provoked Chancellor Tippo into remarking, "I would like to remind the Board of the botanical aphorism 'Big oaks from little acorns grow.' " The motion to increase the stipends passed with no dissenting votes.

Trustee John Haigis (seated at far right) chairs the committee that recommended to the board that portable modular classrooms be constructed.
(MDC photo by Steve Schmidt)

Chancellor Tippo later introduced a motion of his own by asking the Board to empower security guards with standby arrest power. He said the University is plagued by a lack of security due to the cutbacks in funds for security guards and short of going to the Legislature, giving the existing security guards the power to make arrests could make matters less serious. The motion carried but guards will have power to arrest only when they see a crime being committed and when a campus policeman is not immediately available.

In presenting the Buildings and Grounds Committee report, Trustee Haigis had a few comments about the state of Fraternity-Sorority Park. Construction has ceased and he said, "The park is, in effect, dying."

The Land Development Corporation of America has an option to buy the back 24 acres of the site. Haigis asked that the Trustees reaffirm their policy of approval on the arrangement of Fraternity-Sorority park.

Haigis and Jack Littlefield of the Planning Office teamed up to report to the Board on the status of the Fine Arts Center. The final price tag on the Center is $15,300,000 with the contract to be awarded very shortly. Haigis was very pleased to be able to report this to the Board and he said, "This culminates seven years of honest effort."

As far as the Building Authority and University growth are concerned, Haigis said, "We are not going to build any more dormitories." He said the trend seems to be heading towards apartment-type complexes with three or four students living together in a suite. He also said that the University has about a year to figure out a new way to dispose of its waste materials since the present dump is fast filling up.

In a news conference held after the meeting, Board Chairman Joseph Healey spiked rumors that the Board has decided on the ultimate size of the Amherst campus. He said the Board "is very troubled about the developing impersonality of the campus" but that it has not decided on its growth and will not do so until much evidence has been looked at.

Healey also said of President Wood: "We're very happy with the way the President has taken hold of his situation and we're glad to have him aboard."

In The Nation And The World

15 Blacks Charged In Murder of Detroit Cop

DETROIT (AP) - Fifteen blacks were charged yesterday with the murder of a Negro policeman whose death set off a nine hour armed standoff between police and militants.

Twelve of the 15 had surrendered early yesterday after their safety was assured by community leaders who stood between some 200 heavily armed police and the militants' rifles that pointed from a sandbagged second story window of a Black Panther organization headquarters.

Seven men and eight women were arraigned on charges of murder and conspiracy to commit murder.

Two youths were charged with assault and battery in a clash with police two blocks from the building, which served as headquarters for the National Committee to Combat Fascism, a Panther organization.

Panthers said the arrest of those two, who were selling Black Panther literature, led to the shootings in which one patrolman was killed and another wounded, the only casualties of the confrontation.

The trouble began just after nightfall Saturday. Police said they had difficulty dispersing a crowd gathered around officers trying to give the two literature salesmen tickets for loitering. The officers summoned help.

Police said two black patrolmen - Glenn E. Smith, 26, and Marshall Emerson Jr., 25 - in plain clothes and separate cars responded to the trouble call.

As Emerson drove by the militant's building on the way to the difficulty, shots were fired and he was struck in the hand, police said.

Smith then drove up and stopped his car to investigate the gunfire, police reported.

Jeffrey Ross, a 12 year old neighborhood youth, said he saw a policeman, Smith, crouching behind a car about 30 feet from the headquarters. "Then he stood up, holding his gun, and he was shot in the head."

Smith was killed. Other police cars raced to the scene. Police removed Smith's body, and blocked the intersection at 16th and Myrtle.

Chuck Holt, NCCF coordinator in Detroit, arrived and telephoned national Black Panther officers in New Haven, Conn., from a neighborhood grocery to seek instructions.

He left and later sent lieutenants to speak with Nadine Brown, a veteran reporter from the black weekly, The Michigan Chronicle. She was told Holt suggested that newsmen and community leaders go to the house, in case a battle was imminent, and try to talk the occupants into leaving.

After calls to Holt and New Haven, she agreed to go inside. Police were ordered to stop all firing.

She and several others walked slowly down 16th Street to the house, she called out over a lougspeaker and went in.

On emerging, she said the occupants had told her, "This is revolution" and had decided to fight.

Mel Ravitz, Detroit's Common Council president, acting as mayor while Mayor Roman Gribbs was out of town, and Police Chief John Nichols had arrived.

In a conference, State Rep. James Del Rio, a black, proposed that he and Ravitz stand between police and the youths during a surrender. Ravitz, a silver haired professor of sociology at Wayne State University, agreed. Black Councilman Nicholas Hood agreed to join them.

Two black attorneys, Elliott Hall and Dennis Archer, went inside to plead with the youths. Police issued a 15 minute ultimatum for their surrender.

Chief Nichols ordered bystanders back and had an armored car driven up two doors from the house. After nine more minutes of waiting, police began firing tear gas.

After five minutes, Nichols ordered police to stop firing and called over a loudspeaker to the youths, asking them to surrender.

"We're coming," a voice yelled. Soon, three youths with hands held high marched into the street and into the paddy wagon.

Goodell Vows To Stay in Race Despite Poll

NEW YORK (AP) - Republican Sen. Charles E. Goodell, stung by White House disavowal of his candidacy and a poll showing him trailing, pledged last night to continue in the race.

Saying that his "political blood had been spilled" and his demise decreed by "hard hatted militants in the White House," Goodell maintained that he would not give way to try to prevent a possible victory by Conservative candidate James Buckley.

The Democrats in the campaign, Richard L. Ottinger, has maintained that votes for Goodell would help Buckley.

With a somber expression, Goodell told a television audience that "this is a very agonizing moment for me," reviewed the attacks on him by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and the White House, the psychological effect of a newspaper poll showing him trailing and then said:

"I will stay. I shall continue to stand for election to the U.S. Senate."

Goodell said that to quit the contest now would be "obeissant to the forces of the right."

He charged that "my political blood has been spilled by the sword of political retribution weilded by the vice president," and claimed he was the right wing's No. 1 target.

When Goodell finished his emotion packed 20 minute speech, Republican Sens. Jacob K. Javits of New York and Charles Percy of Illinois came on screen to pledge their support.

In the final minute, Goodell apologized to viewers for preempting "Lassie" locally on CBS television.

In Washington, neither Nixon, Agnew nor the chairmen of the Republican and Democratic committees had any comment.

The senator seeks election to his office for the first time, having been appointed in 1968 by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to fill the term of the slain Democratic Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

White Calls Again For TV Debate

BOSTON, Mass. (AP) - Boston Mayor Kevin White, rebuffed in his attempts for a debate with his guvernatorial opponent, Gov. Francis Sargent, issued another appeal yesterday for a televised clash.

White, at an afternoon news conference, said the deadline for setting up a Tuesday debate had passed but he would now like to debate Sargent on a statewide hookup Thursday night.

Sargent, meanwhile, announced he would hold a news conference Monday morning to reveal his latest decision concerning White's efforts for a debate.

The two candidates were to meet for a debate when White, the Democratic nominee, was hospitalized. Sargent held his campaign in abeyance during White's hospital stay, which lasted through the original scheduled debate period.

White had tried to get Sargent to agree to a confrontation this Tuesday, but the governor had said White's hospitalization had created an unhealthy emotional aura.

White said Sunday his offer for a Thursday night debate is his last. He said he would begin campaigning Monday in New Bedford, Fall River and Springfield.

His latest debate offer gave Sargent the option of a confrontation between just the gubernatorial candidates or a meeting including the candidates for lieutenant governor.

Zeigler Mum On Idendity Of Standby News Censor

WASHINGTON (AP) - White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler refused to confirm or deny reports yesterday that a Columbia Broadcasting System executive will be in charge of censoring the news media in case of a national emergency.

The Sunday Star in Washington reported that Theodore F. Koop is the standby censor.

Koop, a Washington resident and a CBS vice president, is in Europe. Persons answering his home telephone would not disclose the nature of his business there.

Ziegler, asked about the report at a news briefing, said he favors making public information about the standby censor but he could not do so because it still is classified.

The U.S. Office of Emergency Preparedness has refused to divulge the censor's name, saying it was classified defense information and because of that Ziegler said he could neither confirm nor deny that Koop is the man in charge of keeping defense secrets out of print and off the air if the President declares a national emergency.

Koop was deputy director on censorship during World War II and later wrote a book on the subject, "The Weapon of Silence."

In New York, a CBS spokesman said the network has no knowledge of Koop's reported standby job.

In a national emergency, the censor would have a staff of 26 persons who would administer the "standby voluntary censor ship code" last revised in 1963.

President Lyndon B. Johnson also made the identity of the censor a defense secret. But it was public in the Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations.

Prosecuter Claims Misquote

KENT, Ohio(AP)-A prosecutor for the special state grand jury that probed last May's violence at Kent State University said yesterday he was misquoted in a newspaper story that said he believed National Guardsmen "should have shot all" the troublemakers on campus.

A story, written by a Detroit Free Press reporter and carried in the Akron Beacon Journal on Saturday, quoted special prosecutor Seabury Ford as saying:

"There is no question that these boys guardsmen would have been killed up there if they had not turned around and fired."

At his home in Aurora, north of Akron, Ford said yesterday, "All I have to say today is that I've been misquoted and I don't care to comment at this time."

FINALLY!
FINALLY!
FINALLY!
FINALLY!

XEROX

XEROX copies now available at Campus Center
Printing Shop - opposite the Coffee Shop.
Rates per original - 5¢ for the first 4 copies,
2¢ for each additional copy.

Other services include: Copy setting, Mimeograph, Ditto, Embosograf, Lineoscribe, Art Work, Stencils

Custom - -
Creations in Leather
"ALMOST ANYTHING MADE TO ORDER"
The Leather Shed
10 - 6 #1 The Alley Amherst

VILLAGE INN LUMS Restaurant
85 Amity St. Amherst, Mass.
Fish & Chip Night
MONDAYS 4:30 - 9 p.m.
VILLAGE INN LUMS
Open Daily 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.

PEACE RINGS
Don't just feel it — Show it!
Each one of these sensational rings is gold plated and adjustable. Choose any one for $1.00 or get all three for $2.50. Please add 25¢ for postage and handling.
FREE catalog of posters, incense, belts, bags and many other groovy things with each purchase or send 15¢ for catalog.
Send checks, cash or money orders to:
YOUTH DIMENSIONS, INC.
P.O. BOX 837, DEPT. 34
WESTBURY, NEW YORK 11590
Sorry no C.O.D.'s

Proposed Resolution Would Force Israel To Resume Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) - Israel would have an implied deadline of two months to resume Middle East peace talks with Egypt and Jordan under an African resolution drafted for General Assembly debate starting today.

Israel broke off the talks Aug. 25 and has refused to go back until Egypt removed SAM antiaircraft missiles allegedly moved into the Suez Canal cease fire zone in violation of the 90 day truce that went into effect Aug. 7.

Before Israel walked out, the three countries were working through Gunnar Jarring, U.N. mediator for the Middle East, on a political settlement based on a Security Council resolution adopted Nov. 22, 1967.

The new African resolution, circulated privately to some UN delegations this weekend, would have the 127 nation General Assembly:

Request the urgent implementation of that Security Council resolution, which calls among other things for Israeli withdrawal from Arab territory occupied in the war of June 5 10, 1967.

Express its full support for Jarring's efforts to apply the resolution.

Deplore "the obstruction by Israel of these efforts, which look toward the establishment of peace based upon justice."

Appeal to all interested parties to instruct their representatives to resume contact immediately with a view to implementing the resolution as a whole.

Request Secretary General U Thant to make a detailed report in two months both to the assembly and to the Security Council on Jarring's efforts to implement the resolution.

Decide to consider, if necessary, recommending "other measures" in line with the U.N. charter to ensure such implementation.

Oil Slick Threatens South England Coastline

VENTNOR, Isle of Wight (AP)-Marine firefighters extinguished yesterday the flames which for 41 hours had ravaged the grounded tanker Pacific Glory but oil seepage raised fresh fears of polluted beaches.

Aerial surveys showed a mile long ribbon of oil stretching to the east with oil pockets for a half mile in all directions from the English Channel mudbank on which the stricken tanker lies tilted.

The oil was reported three miles off the beaches on the east side of the Isle of Wight.

An ebb tide was tugging the oil into the channel but around the island there is a double tide-two high tides each of 12 hours-which still could pull the oil onto the beaches. A number of south coast resort beaches could be affected.

The oil looked like fuel oil, less dangerous to the beaches than the load of crude oil in the Pacific Glory's tanks.

The 42,777 ton Pacific Glory, loaded with 70,000 tons of crude oil, collided with the 46,402 ton Allegro off Wight Friday night. Three explosions shattered the Pacific Glory. Five seamen died and eight were reported missing in the savage fire. Twenty nine other crew men escaped.

Rear Adm. Arthur Power, who headed rescue efforts, said: "We definitely have not breached any more cargo tanks. I do not think there is a vast contamination threat yet."

But, the Royal Navy frigate Zulu, with a helicopter, and the Admiralty salvage vessel Golden Eye kept close watch. A dutch ship equipped with detergent spraying apparatus was en route to the wreckage.

Lucerne Women Allowed To Vote

LUZERN, Switzerland (AP)-The male voters of the Swiss canton of Lucerne awarded women the right to vote yesterday and be elected to public office.

Approval by 25,170 against 14,781 votes-and the law, 51 per cent participation of the male registered voters in what was a hotly contested issue only a few years ago, is indicative of the trend in this Alpine area, where tradition once reserved political matters to men.

Post Office Bomb Scare in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)-A bomb hidden in a package exploded on a conveyor in the main Post Office building here yesterday night, police said.

A postal employe, identified as Walter Smith, 30, was taken to a hospital but released. "He was more frightened than any thing else," a hospital spokesman said.

Police had no immediate assessment of damage in the building, about two blocks north of the Capitol.

A post office spokesman said an anonymous telephone call was received about two minutes after the blast, warning that a bomb would go off in four minutes.

Picasso's 89th Birthday

CANNES, France (AP)-Pablo Picasso, reported to have plunged into a new period of painting, observed his 89th birthday yesterday in seclusion.

Hundreds of bouquets, gifts, letters and telegrams poured into his villa at Mougins, but no one knew whether the Spanish born artist was there to receive them.

Picasso has long disdained birthdays and hates to be reminded of them. In previous years, telephone callers were always told that Picasso was traveling; this year there was no answer to phone calls.

Louisiana Tideland Dispute Cleared Up

NEW ORLEANS (AP)-Louisiana winds up its case in a 15 year old tidelands dispute with the federal government this week, hoping to win the lion's share of $1 billion in withheld royalties.

At issue is the boundary off Louisiana's marshy coastline, where rich oil and gas deposits lie submerged beneath the Gulf of Mexico.

Both sides agree the state has rights to deposits three miles out, and the federal government has those from three miles to 12 miles, the international territorial limit. The question is where in the coastal swamps is the coastline.

The debate has been raging since 1955, and $1 billion in royalties now lie in escrow, accumulated from past prospecting in those disputed lands.

Walter Armstrong Jr., a Memphis, Tenn., attorney appointed by the Supreme Court to gather evidehce, opened this phase of the case-possibility the concluding phase-on Sept. 28. After he hears Louisiana's arguments he will record the government's case, clearing the way for a binding decision on distribution of the money.

Armstrong must make a recommendation to the Supreme Court, which is expected to follow his suggestions. No date for a decision has been set.

The high court already has set guidelines for determining the coastline. This part of the case is to work out the actual location, foot by foot.

Ambushed Chilean Army Chief Dies

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)-Gen. Rene Schneider, commander in chief of the Chilean army, succumbed to assassin's bullets yesterday in a Santiago military hospital.

The death of the 56 year old army chief and the massive search for his killers cast a pall over the presidential election victory in Congress on Saturday of Marxist Salvador Allende.

Schneider died from three bullet wounds suffered when four or five assailants ambushed him as he was being driven to his office Thursday. With precision and speed, they cut off his chaffeur driven limousine with three other vehicles, then shot him point blank with .45 caliber pistols.

Police announced they had arrested a 28 year old man in connection with the assassination. They identified him as Leon Cosmelli Pereira, son of a wealthy former governor of the southern province of Chiloe.

In neighboring Argentina, authorities picked up Julie Bouchon Sepulveda, an engineer, in connection with the investigation. He was arrested in the city of Mendoza, near the Chilean border.

However, the police said neither of the two men nor the 150 other persons arrested since a state of emergency was declared Thursday, were charged with killing.

However, the police said neither of the two men nor the 150 other persons arrested since a state of emergency was declared Thursday, were charged with the killing.

Outgoing President Eduardo Frei ordered the state of emergency, which suspends some constitutional rights, to aid police in their search for the assailants. A curfew from midnight to 6 a.m. remained in effect in the capital. All roads leaving the city were blocked by military and police control points. All private airfields were ordered closed until further notice.

Thieu Tours Former Cong Stronghold

MO CAY, Vietnam (AP)-When President Nguyen Van Thieu went touring the other day he penetrated Mekong Delta areas where the Viet Cong once flourished. He made a case for pacification, but did not succeed in banishing question marks that still shadow many parts of this strategic area.

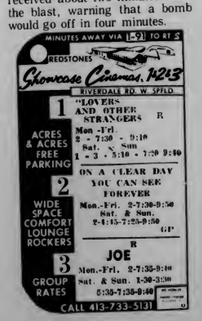
Thieu visited four districts, got four well rehearsed receptions, gave four speeches and hosted some 400 village and hamlet officials for lunch.

He walked from thatched house to thatched house, chatting, joking, shaking hands and patting children on the shoulder. He watched rice being milled by hand and visited a tiny store specializing in nuoc mam, the pungent fish sauce which is a national seasoning.

Few of the people had ever seen a chief executive before. Kien Hoa is the hardest core Viet Cong province in South Vietnam. And it was never before possible for the president to travel in many of the areas. Some 16,000 of Keien Hoa's people still live under Viet Cong control.

To those who knew Kien Hoa in 1967 and 1968, the government's gains in pacification and rural security have been little short of remarkable.

Other districts visited by Thieu showed similar changes.



"By the end of this year's pacification program in Kien Hoa," Thieu said, "we will have completely broken the Viet Cong's political and military control in Kien Hoa. And if we control Kien Hoa, we will completely control 4th Corps." That is the richest and most populous area of Vietnam.

Thieu has said several times recently that because the government controls the countryside, the Viet Cong are unlikely to accept a political settlement. One implication of this is that the Paris peace talks will accomplish nothing and that the war will just "fade away." But that control is tenuous and fragile, and it has been tested in few places.

Few observers doubt that the Viet Cong have the capability to launch actions big enough to overrun Popular Force or People's Self Defense positions, or to retake rural hamlets now under government control.

It seems possible that the Viet Cong have chosen to let the American troop withdrawals proceed unimpeded, and to wait until the U.S. troop strength has reached nominal level before launching any significant military operations in South Vietnam.

In the meantime, the government's political infrastructure will grow roots of its own, and become harder to dislodge.

BRIGHTEN UP
your dorm or apartment with DEEP COLOR Latex Paint for only $8 per gallon $2.75 per quart
at
SHUMWAY'S WALLPAPER & PAINT STORE
320 College St., Amherst 256-6753
Open daily 8 a.m.-6 p.m. Thurs. & Fri. till 8 p.m.

Make your vacation mean something!
EL AL the under 30 online
COLLEGIATE WINTER & SPRING ISRAEL VACATIONS
Eastours' Collegiate Vacations give you a great deal to enjoy now . . . much more to treasure throughout the years ahead. Travel with those of your own age. Meet Israeli collegiates and Kibbutzniks. With Eastours you feel like a native — never a tourist.
All Inclusive $489 Jr.
Choose from 10, 15, 22 and 28-day vacations (including one credit-earning program) with departures via EL AL throughout December, January and March. Complete details available in free 6-page full color brochure. Mail coupon today.
EASTOURS, INC.
11 West 42nd St.
New York 10036
Please rush Free Collegiate Vacations folder to Name
Address
City, State, Zip

WHO ARE YOU?
Be proud of your beliefs. Stand up for your convictions. Your time to stand up and be counted is now. Good movements need support and recognition.
Wear with pride a beautiful movement jacket. Each jacket bears an emblem of your choice depicting your ideas and beliefs. Every movement has a different color jacket for instant recognition. A distinctively styled jacket that you will be poud to wear. Jackets feature zipper front and cadet type collar.
ENVIRONMENT ● PEACE ● SPEAKERS BUREAU
BLACK PANTHER ● BSU ● ALL MOVEMENTS
DON'T DELAY, AVOID THE RUSH, ORDER TODAY
State name, address, name of movement and size desired, S-M-L. Send $8.00 or 2 jackets for $15.00. Send today to:
J & M DISTRIBUTORS
P. O. BOX 11244
WICHITA, KANSAS 67202
Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.
Allow 3-5 weeks for delivery.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Student Union University of Massachusetts - Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR IN CHIEF — Peter F Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR — Mark A Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER — Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR — Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR — John Sullivan

PHOTO EDITOR — Steve Schmidt
ADVERTISING MANAGER — John Fayad

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Denise Magnell
NEWS STAFF — Al Benson, Steve Head, Robert Scheier
DARKROOM — Gary Slickman, Bob Mangiaratti
SPORTS — John Sullivan
AD LAYOUT — John Fayad
EDITORIAL — L. DiMonaco

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

"This Is Law And Order?"

Peter Pascarelli

The Tri-Partite Snafu

It was proudly announced at a press conference Friday following the Board of Trustees meeting, by Chairman Robert Healey, that he is convinced that the university has gone just about all the way in giving students a place in decision making.

The statement is specious and misleading. Granted, there is student representation on search committees, planning boards, the board of trustees itself. Yet, there is an infinite distance the administration could still go to create a truly tri-partitie community.

For, when it wants to, the administration is still willing to bypass community consenx, to bypass the faculty, graduate and student senates if it really wants.

Thus, it was a valid Student Senate bill that blasted the administration for bypassing all procedural methods in appointing Kenneth Johnson to the office of Financial Officer of the Amherst campus.

Now no one can say with a straight face that he is the only man for the job. And no one can say without his nose growing that Johnson is a popular and therefore obvious choice for any position on this campus.

The administration seems to constantly to be on the verge of a genuine two-way interchange of opinion, when it stubs its toe painfully as in this situation.

Perhaps, though, the Whitmore Wunderkinds could save face. Luckily, they have a good opportunity in the person of another Senate bill which urges the appointment of Dr. Randolph W. Bromery to the permanent post of Vice-Chancellor of Student Affairs.

It's ridiculous to site the immediate need for the appointment, and the obvious reasons for Dr. Bromery's appointment. Suffice to say that the Senate has acted rightly through the channels to urge the appointment, urge the Faculty Senate to make a similar recommendation. And the Senate has rightly stated the lack of time necessary for a search committee.

The administration, with hopefully the additional approval by the Faculty Senate this week, will ratify Bromery's appointment immediately, and also notice that it isn't painful to listen to other opinions besides themselves.

If the tri-partitie community is to become a reality, then there must be consistent interchange in policy-making.

Consistency from the administration is lacking. And this alone proves that there is still a long way to go before student participation in decision-making has gone all the way.

Louis DiMonaco

The Last Commercial

"No one ever lost any money underestimating the intelligence of the American public."
H.L. MENCKEN

I was in England the summer of 1969, and because it was the summer of Apollo 11, Charlie Manson and Chappiquidick, I watched a great deal more television that I believed I could stomach. The BBC, however, was refreshing, and without going into the superiority of British television I would like to expose an incident that took place in a beer cellar someplace in England, the night of the moon landing.

The television announcer caught my attention with the words "Madison Avenue Tycoons." I listened more intently as he explained that for the sake of entertainment an American commercial would be shown. There was a pause and the announcer added that he would resist the temptation of condemning the commercial, and let the commercial condemn itself.

I swear that in the instant from his last words to the beginning of the commercial, I saw flash through my mind every hideous, mindless, babbling bag of garbage that was ever vomited from the eternally open mouth of commercial television. I was embarrassed, yet prepared for the worst. But I wasn't prepared for what I saw and heard.

They showed a film clip of the astronauts preparing to enter Apollo 11. All three of them were robust, bright-eyed, and smiling from earphone to earphone, as if someone told them that they were going on a picnic with Doris Day and Claire Booth Luce instead of to the moon.

Anyway, a voice came on and gave a short, concise explanation as to why these men were so confident, so fearless, and so healthy in tackling the greatest challenge ever to befall mankind. And already the beer cellar resounded with howls of laughter. The voice went on to give us the answer. The reason the astronauts were godlike was because they drank TANG. "Good God anything but TANG." I mumbled.

The people in the beer cellar buckled up in laughter, rolled over on the floor in spasms, spit-up their half-swallowed beer, and the rest of the commercial was drowned out like a fart in a waterfall.

Well, I was laughing myself. Being with people who had not been bombarded into paralysis by television commercials helped to weaken my own paralysis. And by the time the BBC showed a news clip of a local supermarket in Neil Armstrong's hometown, and a paunchy, middle-aged grocer with a dirty white apron quite seriously began to quick sell 300 pounds of moldly Limburger by pasting a label reading, "MOON CHEESE" across the cresant shaped clump of compounded cream, I was in tears of laughter.

Not even Dick Nixon's crater face, superimposed on the T.V. screen when the "eagle had landed" solicited as much joyous ridicule.

And ever since then I have never been able to watch a commercial without either laughing or walking out of the room. And I only walk out of the room when no one else is laughing.

(Editor's note: The preceding was the first in a four part series of opinions, facts and wild guesses on the apparent and potential relevance of commercial television).

Arizona Code

These excerpts are from a "code of conduct" covering all universities governed by Arizona's board of regents. Tomorrow, a public hearing will be held at which the code is being challenged as a model of campus repression.

Distribution or wearing of arm bands, buttons or signs or the carrying or posting of signs, banners or posters having an obscene or controversial significance in a manner which distracts and substantially interfere with the normal activities or appropriate discipline of the university.....

Participation in any crowd, assembly, parade, demonstration, sit-in or similar event which substantially interfere with or disrupts the normal activities of the university or any university sponsored or supervised function.

Publish or threaten to publish any maliciosus falsehood, expressed by writing, printing or pictures, which tends to impeach the honesty, integrity or reputation of any member of the University Community or which tends to bring such person into disrepute, contempt or ridicule.

Helplessly Hoping

Several students, accompanied by their Area Coordinator, returned five cushions taken from the Campus Center to the office of the Campus Center Manager, Warren T. Grinnan.

Mr. Grinnan reports that no action was taken either through the Student Judiciary or the Civil Courts. Because the students voluntarily returned the items Mr. Grinnan decided to make no complaint in the hope that others will follow their example. This lack of disciplinary action cannot continue indefinitely, however it will be in force over the next few days.

If you have knowledge of anyone possessing any of these stolen items, please encourage them to return them to the Campus Center Manager's office, Room 818, or phone Mr. Grinnan at 545-0585.

Okay Spiro, You Can Shut Up Now

AMARILLO, Tex., - Vice-President Agnew said tonight that a basic reason for unrest in the country was that Americans never had it so good.

"The hidden cause of lamaise in America is the success-the success-of the American system," the Vice President emphasized in remarks prepared for delivery before some 750 Republicans at a rally in the Amarillo Civic Center.

When minorities demand economic justice or young people denounce an obsession with material values, these are signs of progress, Mr. Agnew said, "because a hungry man is rarely an idealist."

The tone of the speech, with a few minor exceptions, was a departure from Mr. Agnew's month-long assault on "radical liberals" and permissiveness -- mostly among Democrats -- as causes of American disruption and disorder.

Some observers wondered if it was a sign that President Nixon had taken steps to tone down the Vice President's slashing campaign speeches, something that has been suggested by officials of his own party and sought by targets within the opposition.

"Some of our young people -- by no means all, but some -- demean the dignity of work," the Vice President said. "They scoff at the values of the previous generation as they hold out their hands for the keys to the car.

"Now stop and think for a moment," he continued. "Does this mean that we were wrong to provide as well as we did? Does this mean that we were wrong to reduce the precentage of our people in poverty? Does this mean that we should never have opened the gates of opportunity and equal justice?

"Of course not," Mr. Agnew said. "It does mean, however, that we neglected to transmit something important during the time we were succeeding in offering our fellow Americans and our children new hope and freedom."

What was neglected, he said, was the advice that it has been "a respect for the system itself that has produced this enormous change for the better."

That brought the Vice President to his point -- that Texans should elect as their next Senator the Republican nominee, Representative George Bush, and thereby help diminish the influence of "radical liberals" in the Democratic-controlled Congress.

It also may have explained, in part, the more moderate nature of Mr. Agnew's language tonight. Mr. Bush's Democratic opponent, Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr.

It also may have explained, in part, the more moderate nature of Mr. Agnew's language tonight. Mr. Bush's Democratic opponent, Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. is more conservative philosophically than is Mr. Bush.

(Copy
(Reprinted NYT 10-12-70)

Please Spiro!

Don Glickstein

Lying In Bed, It Occured To Me

---UMass is truly unique. Other schools have riots and revolutions; UMass has an SDS bake sale. Other schools don't have any buildings left; UMass decorates the walls of its buildings, not with revolutionary cliches, but with "Vive Quebec Libre" and "Off Lewicke". (Why doesn't Dr. Tippo invite students to inprove their environment by encouraging creative grafitti on the walls of buildings?)

---Isn't it true that the Pope has that special quality of speech that makes profound thoughts, like Peace, sound so mundane?

---This election year is certainly one of the most exciting and important in history. Just across our border, Bella Abzug, the female Jewish Jimmy Breslin, is battling Barry Farber, a pleasant, moderate Republican who happens to speak 16 languages, for Congress in Manhattan. Barry's slogan--"he speaks our language," Bella's slogan--"a woman's place is in the House--the House of Representatives!" Right on, Bella.

---"You're a good man, Charlie Goodell" say his campaign buttons, but it remains to be seen whether New Yorkers will support their incumbent Senator in a race against fellow radical-liberal Richard Ottinger, and the man of the silent "majority", James Buckley (the brother of you-know-who). If Goodell wins, it will prove to the Gnu that you can fool some of the people some of the time but...

---Rocky, complete with color slices, is putting his leadership class and conservatism against Arthur Goldberg's wet eclair personality and liberalism for the governorship. I suppose Goldberg would do a better job than Rocky, but the former Justice speaks like a Lyndon Johnson from the Borscht Belt, and in our age of media and charisma, well, who would you choose?

---Faculty, what can you do? You might try what Dr. Harry Schumer from the Psych Department is doing--every couple of weeks, Dr. Schumer invites his students to eat lunch with (students bring their own) and discuss how this Adolescent Psychology course could be improved.

Or you could ask for evaluations, not the usual computer evaluations, but essay-type ones. I don't think that many students would care if they were made compulsory, either.

Or you could ask the School of Education to send a video-tape unit to your class for your own micro-teaching-type lesson. Have you ever wondered how others see you, how you're coming across?

---The gentleman who introduced Dr. Stanley Milgram at the Psych Colloquium last week said something to the effect that Umass and Amherst are not exactly urban, as is New York, where Milgram was from. Funny, we have density, diversity, overload, mass, pushers, junkies, panhandlers, crime, culture, sickness, death, birth, pollution, prostitutes, noise, cement, nerves, psychotics, bureaucracies, neighborhoods, businesses, racial tensions, and everything else that is common to NYC. Lindsay recognizes that New York is in urban crisis. I wonder if Mayor Tippo and his aides realize the same about UMass?

Art Buchwald

The Search

WASHINGTON - There has been some speculation as to why President Nixon has put his prestige on the line by taking to the campaign trail the last few weeks of an off-year election. Many professional Nixon-watchers feel the President is taking a great risk by personally getting into the political arena.

If the majority of the candidates he endorses do not do well, the President is the one who will suffer most.

What nobody knows is that the President's decision to leave Washington and hop around the country has a much deeper significance for him than politics.

The secret was revealed by a White House aide who had been personally assigned to leak it to me.

The aide told me, "No one realizes it, but one of the President's deepest disappointments on his trip to Europe was his inability to find anyone in Ireland who was related to him."

"I knew it was a blow," I said, "but I didn't know it meant that much to him."

The aide nodded his head. "It meant a lot. As you know, every secret service man assigned to the President was ordered to go out and find a Nixon relative if he had to dig up every dog in Ireland."

"It must have been tough work," I said.

"Although the secret service failed to produce a Milhous in Ireland who could in any way be related to the President, it did get some very interesting leads.

"One was that a Richard Milhous had been driven out of Ireland in 1850 for student heckling. Milhous was said to have come to the United States on a three- masted immigrant schooner called the Bebe Rebozo. But after docking in New York, he disappeared into the melting pot of America -- no one is quite sure where."

"That's very interesting," I said. "But what has that got to do with President Nixon's campaigning?"

"When the President came back to the United States, he was determined to find the relatives he couldn't find in Ireland. But he was too embarrassed to admit he was searching for them. So he told his staff to find some excuse for him to get around the country so he could find the descendants of Richard Milhous."

"It sounds like the President has an identification problem," I said.

"The staff pointed out that with the elections coming up the President would have a perfect excuse to visit manyof the states where Milhous is purported to have settled. These states included Connecticut, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Maryland, New Jersey, Michigan, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia and California."

"The President really thinks he'll find his relatives in one of those states?" I said.

"He's certain of it. While he was been meeting with various Republican candidates and making a few political speeches, the secret service has been combing the area, making house-to-house searches, hoping to find a Milhous who might be related to the President."

"How long will the President keep up the search?"

Probably until Nov. 2. If he doesn't find any Milhouses by then, he's decided to go back to Washington.

"I hope for his sake he does," I said.

"I do too," the White House aide said. "There's nothing that gets to you as much as seeing the President going over to a crowd with outstretched hands, looking over the heads of the people, searching, ever searching, for a Milhous he can call his own."

Campus Comment

To Pass Or Not To Pass

To the Editor:

My recent question as to the possibility of a Pass degree in parallel with the present graded one has attracted some heat, if not much illumination, so perhaps I should explore the pros and cons:

Pro: 1. I t would resolve the impass between the Faculty Senate with its proposal for a more precise grading scheme and limited use of Pass/Fail and the Student Senate with its proposal for much wider availability of Pass/Fail or Pass/No Record. Students would have the choice of one, with a maximum of perhaps 80-90% Pass courses, or the other, with a maximum of perhaps 10-20% Pass courses.

2. It might evolve into some sort of General Studies/Special Studies distinction, perhaps with differing requirements, thus allowing a greater variety of options.

Essentially, it would release from the "grade hassle" those students who know that they are no going to need grades for graduate school or to get a job. These might include some self-employed persons such as writers and artists, as they would Essentially, it would release from the "grade hassle" those students who know that they are not going to need grades for graduate school or to get a job. These might include some self-employed persons such as writers and artists, as well as those going into small businesses, perhaps family businesses. No doubt they would include some students with marginal grades, and at least would spare them from the foolishness of trying to find some easy A's in order to pull up a low curne; to pass the requirements would be to graduate. At the same time it would permit retention of the more precise grading structure for those students who, whether or not they like it, need a graded record in order to move on to the next step in their career. Presumably Honors degrees would be limited to this group, at least as long as grades define them.

Con: 1. A student might wish to change from the Pass program to the graded one. The best defense against that problem would be to prohibit choosing the Pass program for the first year or two, although the original grades could be converted back from Pass to letters, as perhaps at any time up until graduation.

2. The Pass degree might be considered to be a second class degree and its candidates second class students, as it is to some extent in Great Britain, where of course the other degree is the Honors Degree and is defined by examination marks.

3. Courses might evolve specially for the Pass students and might be of low quality.

4. Pass students would be unable to participate in certain Honors work or to be eligible for Honors degrees, although there is no reason why Colloquia, etc., should not be open.

Perhaps points 2 and 3 summarize the most serious risks. Regarding attitudes towards the degree and its candidates, do students ridicule or snub one another now on the basis of the programs and courses they are in or the grades they are getting? Perhaps so. In the case of the outer world, one would have to take his chances; no student should be in the program if he is afraid of it. As to the quality of particular courses which might evolve for the Pass program, there is no more reason for them to be bad than there is for our presently existing non-major courses to be bad. Are they so as a group? They might well be better, more thoughtful and flexible, being free of the need to jam in every last thing needed by the majors and specialists.

If the adverse reaction to this suggestion is based primarily upon the meanings and implications of the terms Pass and Professional, then perhaps other terms would be acceptable. Pass-Honors would be worse. General-Special would presuppose distinctly different programs, which might or might not be a good idea. Still other terminology might be devised. On the other hand, if the objections are primarily based upon a belief that the Pass program and degree really would be inferior in total then we seem to imply that the individual Pass/Fail (or Pass/No Record) courses and grades are in themselves inferior. If Pass/Fail is something to be ashamed of then why is there agitation for more of it? Or is it a matter of the more Pass/Fail the better as long as no one notices it?

Finally, if my airing this idea for consideration in committee is so irresponsible, anti-intellectual, etc., then surely the Student Senate officers to address themselves to the School of Education, which appears to have done just that already, in fact if not yet in name.

Gregory W. Webb

Metawampe

Dear Metawampe,

The more I read your "picks", the more I would like to stick one in you. Your grating nursery rhymes border on the ridiculous. Every visit from a pidgeon that you receive is richly deserved.

The only intelligent thing that you have said is that no "mere mortal" could manufacture these "motley messages". Your "moldy ravings" are indeed insulting to the human mind.

Methinks the "Great One" is not so great.

Maxine Forward
318 Johnson

Poetry

To clear up the confusion about who wrote the poem "What's to do? I ain't got no finals tomorrow," it was I, Larry Trillo. The reason my name wasn't put on it, was the printer's mistake. So, to those girls, it wasn't because I'm an altruist and I wish it wouldn't be so hard on Alan Kaplan because he's just a pseudonym that I use from time to time just to see if you're paying attention. I find that sometimes I would like to have Spiro Agnew attack my poetry but since he doesn't, "Alan Kaplan" does it for me. I am honored that you girls thought the poem smashing, and your reaction to the poem and to the letter goes to show that the media is nothing without people.

LARRY TRILLO

All Strung Out Over You

Labor Relations Director Suffers Fatal Attack

Ben B. Seligman, UMass Professor of Economics and director of the Center for Labor Relations died late Friday from a heart attack. Funeral services will be held at 2:00 p.m. today at the Douglas FUNERAL Home in Amherst.

His family asks that any remembrances be made in the form of donations to a University scholarship fund.

Dr. Seligman was born in 1912 and came to the University in 1965. He was a graduate of Brooklyn College and later taught as a Guggenheim Fellow at that school. He did graduate work at Columbia University and at the New School for Social Research in Cambridge.

From 1957 to 1960 Dr. Seligman served as research and education director for the Retail Clerks International Association and later served as international affairs analysist for the United Auto Workers.

He received a citation for his achievements from Brooklyn College in 1968, when he was cited as one of the school four most prominent alumni.

Dr. Seligman is the author of seven books and numerous magazine articles on labor relations and international affairs, and his last book is scheduled for publication next week.

Improved Student ID Card System Coming

The University will be ready to operate with a new campus ID card system by next semester, according to William F. Field, Dean of Students.

A student-staff committee will be organized within the next month to recommend the most efficient method available. Dean Field seems to think that the Polaroid method, similar to that used by the Registry of Motor Vehicles, will prove to fill the need best.

The Polaroid system consists of a Polaroid camera, which takes the initial picture of the student, and machines that photograph the picture superimposed on the completed ID card blank. The resultant wallet sized photograph of the ID is then laminated in clear plastic and given to the student.

This ID system will put an end to the six week wait many presently endure to replace a lost card. If the Polaroid method is used, the wait for the replacement card will be no more than 15 minutes.

The machines necessary for the on-campus operation will be financed from the ID Trust Fund. This fund consists of the ID fees paid by the students each year. The money in the Trust Fund may only be used to cover the expenses of the ID system; any other use of the money in the fund is prohibited by university policy.

Hopefully, said Dean Field, the old ID cards will be phased out entirely within three years, along with the problems encountered with their use.

Militant Forum Holds Talk On 3rd World

Tonight's Militant Forum, the weekly socialist educational series, will hold an open discussion tonight in the Colonial Lounge in the Student Union. Tonight's discussion will be concerned with "revolution in the Colonial Countries"; Cuba, Latin America, Southeast Asia. The future of the Third World countries. The direction of the Bolivian government, the role of Marxism in Cuba: these are all topics which will be covered.

The forum will be an informal discussion, and no one is expected to have read background information for the discussion. We do offer, however, for those interested in such information, the two following pamphlets: War and Revolution in Vietnam by Che Guevara, and The Tasks of the Fourth International (The Transitional Program) by Leon Trotsky. These writings, as well as other related literature will be on sale at the YSA literature table in front of the Hatch today from 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

It is the role of the student to be aware of what is taking place among the people of the world and why. So join us tonight, Monday, Oct. 26th, at 8:00 p.m. in the Colonial Lounge of the Student Union to discuss the "Revolution in the Colonial Countries." Coffee will be served.

Referendum

The November referendum questions will be discussed at a meeting on Tuesday, October 27, at 8 p.m. in the Northampton Y.M.C.A., 286 Prospect Street. Voters will have a chance to meet many of the local candidates and hear opinions on the ballot questions.

The meeting is sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Northampton and Amherst. Refreshments will be served.

U.S.-Canada Ties DVP Lecture Topic

Wednesday, October 28, the Distinguished Visitors Program will present noted Canadian historian J.M.S. Careless speaking in Thompson 106 at 8:15 p.m. In his address "Canada: Neighbor or Nuisance?" Mr. Careless will touch on various aspects of the relations between the U.S. and Canada, including American draft resistors residing in Canada.

Mr. Careless received his PhD from Harvard University in 1950 and has since taught at the University of Toronoto. The author of many books, including CANADA AND THE AMERICANS and THE UNION OF THE CANADAS, Professor Careless has twice been the recipient of the Governor General's Award for non-fiction.

Top Of The Campus Restaurant Opens

Well it's finally here, the Top of the Campus Restaurant. Saturday night, expecting to find a continuation of the "bad vibes" present in the rest of the Campus Center, I headed up to the Top of the Campus to get a better view of the library construction site, and of the black top maze present on the other side of the concrete waffle. The ride up those super fast elevators was good, but was even better coming down with a full stomach. To my amazement the Top of the Campus turned out to be a really nice place. We arrived around 7:15 and there was no wait, as soon as the waitress takes your order you are free to wander up to the bread and salid table and take as much salid as you like and return as often as you like. There is also a bread table. The service was excellent. The food on the Top of the Campus was also quite good. The quantity however was adequate but poor for the price. To my amazement the evening turned out very enjoyable, and the view from the 11th floor of the "AWFUL WAFFLE" is beautiful.

Focus Studies Kent 25

Tonight at 10 p.m., WMUA's "Focus" program will examine circumstances leading up to an Ohio Grand Jury's recent indictment of the "Kent 25" for involvement in alleged riot activities at Kent State University last May.

Moderator Ken Mosakowski's special guest for the live, 60-minute program will be Student Senate President Glenn Elters, who is spearheading action to provide support for the "Kent 25" from student groups at UMass. Participation from such groups as the Student Mobilization Committee, Women's Liberation, the Young Socialists Alliance, the Young Workers' Liberation League, and the Committee against Repression, is expected.

Interested persons are invited to tune in on "Focus" tonight at 91.1 FM on the dial. Listeners may call in their questions during the program at 545-2425 or 545-2876.

Paper Takes Stand

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. (AP) - The Framingham News, which has never made an editorial endorsement of a political candidate in its 70 year history, broke tradition and announced support of an office seeker.

But although this is the year for election of a governor, lieutenant governor and other top statewide offices, the newspaper only endorsed a candidate for sheriff.

"This year, after due consideration, it is decided that one man at least stands out as a first rate public official and deserves the consideration of the voters.

"He is Sheriff John J. Buckley of Middlesex County, a man who has in a few short months worked hard to make the office into a model of what a modern sheriff's office should be," the publication said.

Buckley is opposed by Democrat John Dever, Middlesex County Commissioner.

BELL'S Has a Better Idea!
HOT OVEN GRINDERS
(all made with cheese at no extra cost)
Stuffed with: peppers, onions, lettuce and tomatoes
BELL'S PIZZA
"The Best Pizza In Town"
University Drive
FREE DELIVERY OF PIZZA
Call 256-8011 or 253-9051

FINE ARTS COUNCIL 1970/71 SERIES
EVENTS
Bowker Auditorium/University of Mass.
Thursday - Friday, November 5-6
Conducted by Maestro Renato Fasano
VIRTUOSI DI ROMA
Two different programs of the world's greatest Baroque Music including Corelli, Vivaldi, Marcello and Albinoni
"Unexelled in their class!" L.A. Times
Thursday - Sunday, November 12-15
Operetta Guild presents
"YOUR OWN THING"
A fully-staged production of this hit!
Reserved tickets: $1.00 - $3.00
Fine Arts Council, 125 Herter Hall
Telephone 545-0202. Remaining tickets at Bowker Box Office

ABORTION COUNSELING, INFORMATION AND REFERRAL SERVICES
Abortions up to 24 weeks of pregnancy are now legal in New York State. There are no residency restrictions at cooperating hospitals and clinics. Only the consent of the patient and the performing physician is required.
If you think you are pregnant, consult your doctor. Don't delay. Early abortions are simpler and safer.
If you need information or professional assistance, including immediate registration into available hospitals and clinics, telephone:
THE ABORTION INFORMATION AGENCY, INC.
160 WEST 86th STREET
NEW YORK, N.Y. 10024
212 - 873 - 6650
8 A.M. TO 10 P.M.
SEVEN DAYS A WEEK

FOR Halloween Masks
AND Decorations
GO TO A.J. HASTINGS
NEWSDEALER
and STATIONIER
45 S. Pleasant St.
Amherst

Notices

ACADEMIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE
Open meeting Tuesday, Oct. 27th in Hills Lounge-anyone come and rap

ACTION LAB
Meeting for those interested in new prison education program (GED tutoring), Monday, 7:30 PM, room 163 lower level of new Campus Center. New members welcomed

BIOCHEMISTRY SEMINAR
"Enzymatic Conversion of the Peptide Hormone Angiotensin X to Angiotensin II." Dr. K. Bakhle, Department of Pharmacology, Royla College of Surgeons, London, England will be the speaker. Time Tuesday, Oct. 27th, 4:00 PM

BIRTH CONTROL COMMITTEE
Birth Control Committee meeting Monday, October 26th, at 6 p.m. in room #162 of the Campus Center. All welcome

BLACK AFFAIRS COUNCIL
Black Affairs Council is accepting new members who want to work for the benefit of black students. For information call 6-7166, 6-7138, or 6-7136

CAMPUS GOLD
Organization meeting for Campus Gold or Campus Girl Scouts, October 27th at 6:30 PM in the dateroom of Thoreau. For more information call 6-7504

5 COLLEGE STUDENT COORDINATING BOARD
Positions open to all University undergrads. Interviews will be held Monday, Oct. 26th at 7:30 PM, room 803 Campus Center. If it is impossible for you to make this meeting a special appointment can be made by contacting Jerry Moriarty 6-5391 or Holly Fitzsammons 586-2304

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
Hear how students use Christian Science to enrich their lives. Everyone is welcome to attend our meeting tomorrow night in rooms 911-915 of the Campus Center.

COLLEGIATE FLYING CLUB
Basic ground school meeting in Campus Center 802, 7:30 PM. Topic: Weather reports and forecasts

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
There will be a pledge meeting on Monday night in room 178 at the Campus Center at 6:00 PM

HEYMAKERS SQUARE DANCE CLUB
The regular square dance and beginners classes will be held in the Student Union Ballroom, October 27th, 7:30-8:30

HOMECOMING PUBLICITY COMMITTEE
Mandatory meeting for all members of Homecoming Publicity Committee on Tuesday, Oct. 27th at 8:00 PM in the Hampshire Room at the Student Union.

MAROON KEYS
Freshman queen interviews will be conducted Monday and Tuesday (October 26th and 27th) evenings in room 811 of the new Campus Center beginning at 7:15 PM. If there are questions please contact Richard Simmons 6-7604.

NIGHT CLUB
Anyone at all interested in performing at Top of Campus Night Club come to organizational meeting in Student Union Ballroom at 7 PM, Monday, October 26th.

NORTHAMPTON VETERANS HOSPITAL COMPANION PROGRAM
Are you interested in people? Be a volunteer at the Veterans Hospital, Monday 7-10 PM or Thursday, 2-5 PM. Call Bonnie for details and rides. 549-1705 or 253-9008.

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS
The bus will leave Hasbrouck and Patterson Halls at 6:30 tonight.

OUTING CLUB
Outing Club meeting tonight, room 165 Campus Center at 7:45 (Note late time). All those going on Supper Caving Trip should attend.

RAFI
Regional Alliance for Israel members and others interested in living in a Hebrew House in Amherst second semester, call Susan at 6-5366

SKI CLUB
Meeting of the UMass Ski Club at 8:00 PM tonight in Mahar. Future trips incling Switzerland will be discussed. Benefits for members. New members welcomed. Movies.

SKI PATROL
Meeting tonight at 6:30 in Room 170 for all members. Bring your dues and refresher first aid sheets. Rides will be assigned for refresher courses.

SPANISH CLUB
Spanish Club meets for lunch on Mondays and Thursdays from 11:30-12:30 in Franklin. All who enjoy speaking Spanish are welcome.

SUG BOARD FINANCE
There will be a Finance Committee meeting Monday, at 3:30 in Room 805 of the Campus Center.

THINK TANK
A meeting will be held Monday, November 2nd, at 7:30 in the School of Ed. Auditorium for those dissatisfied with the undergarduate program at the School of Education.

YAF—MOBE
Matt Tockeff from UMass YAF and Sid Fineherst from UMass MOBE will appear at Amherst Regional High School Tuesday, Oct. 27th at 9 A.M. to talk on "Student Activism."

LOST
Pair of glasses in black case, vicinity Hasbrock. If found call Craig 546-7222.

Brewster Supports Student Defendant

Reprinted from the Boston Globe

NEW HAVEN, Conn. -- Yale University President Kingman Brewster Jr. called on the influential alumni of the Yale Law School Saturday to speak out in defense of the president of the Kent State University student body, who has been indicted and arrested on riot charges.

"The Kent State student leader Craig Morton has become a symbol of civil liberties under attack," Brewster told a gathering of law school alumni. His audience included two Supreme Court Justices.

Morton was one of 25 students, nonstudents and faculty members indicted on riot charges Oct. 16 by a special grand jury in Ohio investigating the disorders last May in which National Guardsmen killed four Kent State students and wounded nine others. The jury exonerated the guardsmen and accused the university administration of fostering "permissiveness."

"If you do not want to discourage the vast majority of moderates, if you do not want to encourage the malevolent, destructive minority, I urge all of you who are believers in civil liberties and civil rights to speak up," Brewster said.

"We must make it clear that we are not cowed by the political rhetoric which would desecerate liberty with the smear of permissiveness and which would ship up fear of violence in order to throttle dissent," he said.

Brewster, a former Harvard and Yale law professor, stirred controversy earlier this year when he expressed doubt that a Black Panther could receive a fair trual anywhere in America at this time. Among his attackers at that time was Vice President Sprio T. Agnew.

Art Class Begins

An open figure drawing class will be held tonight in Marshall Annex (Room 6) from 7 to 9 p.m. The class will be meeting Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

This is not a course and there will be 50¢ to cover the model's fee.

CEQ Lecture On Overpopulation

Garrett DeBell, editor of THE ENVIRONMENTAL HANDBOOK, will speak on "The Population Explosion" tomorrow night, in Mahar Auditorium, in the second of a series of lectures in the Distinguished Ecologists Lecture Series sponsored by the Coalition for Environmental Quality (CEQ) and other cooperating campus groups.

A graduate of Stanford University and a PhD candidate at the University of California at Berkley, DeBell has taught interdisciplinary courses at the Berkeley Ecology Center. For Earth Day he edited the bestselling ENVIRONMENTAL HANDBOOK which was published under the auspices of Ballantine/Friends of the Earth. He has also edited THE VOTER'S GUIDE TO ENVIRONMENTAL POLITICS.

Earlier this year DeBell was a Washington lobbyist for Zero Population Growth (ZPG). He is currently working on a revised edition of THE ENVIRONMENTAL HANDBOOK.

The lecture will begin at 8:00 p.m. and will be open to the public free of charge.

DeBell will also speak on "The Ecological Crisis in Perspective" at a coffee hour earlier the same day in the Colonial Lounge of the Student Union. The coffee hour, which begins at 3:00 p.m. is open to students, faculty and staff members of the Five College area.

UMass Girl Scout Activities Meeting

A group of UMass students are looking for interested girls to help organize a Campus Gold or Campus Girl Scout group. The first meeting will be held on Tuesday October 27, at 6:30 PM in the dateroom of Thoreau House in Southwest. The purpose of this organization will be to provide the students of UMass a means of identifying themselves with the Girl Scout movement and opportunities through fellowship and leadership for service within Girl Scouting and the college community. Presently existing groups at Smith College and Mt. Holyoke College are involved in such activites as serving as assistant troop leaders; assisting Cadettes or Senior Scouts in setting up service projects; accompanying leaders on troop trips; organizing troops in the inner city; and many more.

Film, Discussion At Newman Center

THE SUPPER, a film showing the encounter of a fisherman with an author who doesn't know the meaning of a gift or community will be presented in the Social Lounge of the Newman Center, October 27, at 7:30 p.m. Fr. Robert Hanlon, a Jesuit priest studying here on campus, will lead a discussion immediately following. The evening will provide an opportunity to discuss some of the major beliefs and values of the Christian Church today.

At this time it will also be possible for people on campus to learn more about the Antioch movement.

All members of the University Community are invited to attend and share their ideas.

ROOM TO MOVE
Campus Drug Drop-In Center
CALL 5-0400
24 HOURS A DAY
7 DAYS A WEEK

College Master Salutes
Senior of the Week
OUTSTANDING AGAINST UCONN THIS WEEKEND WAS SENIOR KEN HUGHES

Fidelity Union Life Insurance Co.

YOUR AUTHORIZED DEALER
NORTHAMPTON VOLKSWAGEN, Inc.

• SALES
• SERVICE • PARTS
COMPLETE BODY SHOP
246 KING ST. (RTE 5) NORTHAMPTON
Your Authorized Dealer
584-8620 Open 9-9 — Sat. 9-5

PUMPKINS
All Shapes, Sizes and Prices
10 A.M. - 4 P.M.
EACH DAY 'TIL HALLOWEEN
Lobby of Student Union

. . . Spice of life

8:30 P.M.	TODAY	Gershwin: An American in Paris (Cleveland Orch.)
11:400 P.M.	TUESDAY	John Dildine — Folk Music
6:30 P.M.	WEDSESDAY	The Anatomy of Off-Off Broadway
11:40 P.M.	THURSDAY	Cabaret
10:00 P.M.	FRIDAY	Anthony Newman plays Bach
2:00 P.M.	SATURDAY	Moussorgski: Sorotchinsk Fair
11:30 P.M.	SUNDAY	Brehm: Dialogues for Bassoon & Percussion

WFCR 88.5 FM STEREO

Ruggers Fall To Schenectady

By FRED WYSHAK
Staff Reporter

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. - For the second straight time, the UMass ruggers bowed, this time to a very experienced Schenectady Club Saturday, 22-6, after last week's loss to Holy Cross.

In the first half, Schenectady scored two tries and made one conversion. It also took advantage of two penalties against the Redmen with Jack Crandell making the kicks good.

Dale Tookey put the Redmen on the tally sheet late in the first half as he made a penalty kick. The New York Club had moved on a previous kick and Toohey made his second attempt good ending the first half with the score, 14-3.

The Redmen came back in the second half with both a better offensive and defensive punch, but were still unable to score against the seasoned Schenectady XV.

Schenectady scored a try as John McKay bulled his way across the line; it was unable to make the conversion. It ended its scoring with a very good play on which it made another try and, finally, the conversion also.

Toohey again took advantage of a Schenectady offsides and booted three more points to end the match at 22-6.

However, there were a few bright spots in the match. One was the playing of Frank Boksanske in his first A match as he played a hustling, offensive game.

Another was the fine defensive efforts of Mark Chenoweth and Bob Dimario. Playing all around good ball were captain John Long and Billy Wilen.

It is obvious that the Redmen have not had their previous scoring punch since the absence of Mike Bull, who is out with a fractured jaw, but both coaches Toohey and Bob Laurence feel the ruggers have enough depth to take up the slack.

Saturday's match saw a lot of absentees for one reason or another, and coach Toohey attributes the loss to this factor as much as any other. "We were obviously weak in the center with the absence of Pete Harrison and Bull. We lacked penetration of the backs, and did not shape up until late in the match. The inexperience of new players in new positions also hurt us," commented Toohey.

The B match was a different story as the UMass B's won their second straight, 13-5.

In the first half Boksanski scored a try with the conversion no good. Long scored two tries and Wilen made both conversions good as the half ended with the Redmen leading, 13-0.

The second half saw Schenectady score once and make the conversion good, but it was obvious that the UMass ruggers dominated the match.

Coach Laurence attributed the success of the B's to good pursuit and defense. The depth of young players such as Doug Knapp and Steve Rosenfeld should be noted. A players such as Long, Toby Lyons and Wilen also turned in fine performances, but one should be amazed at their stamina to play two games than at their performances. The club is now riding a 3-2 season.

Frosh Gridmen Test URI Today

By DAN KAMAL
Staff Reporter

Seeking to break into the victory column after two frustrating losses, the UMass freshman football team travels to Rhode Island today for a game against the URI frosh.

The Redman frosh suffered their second defeat, at the hands of Boston College at BC last week, in what freshman coach David Kelley termed a "highly emotional, hard-hitting game." In that game, UMass came behind from a 20-7 second quarter deficit to tie the game at 20-all at the half.

BC then struck for two quick third-quarter TD's to take a 33-20 lead. UMass scored early in the fourth quarter on Ken Hoff's third touchdown of the game, but any hopes for victory were killed when a fumble stopped a drive that might have put it ahead late in the game. BC capitalized on the UMass miscue and scored the final touchdown with 40 seconds remaining to gain a 39-27 victory.

The game was an extremely hard-hitting affair, and UMass goes into the URI game with five regulars nursing injuries, including Paul Hanson (bruised back), Dave Yushinsky (injured arm) and Mike McNiff (pinched nerve).

Looking to the game at hand with URI, coach Kelley said that the game depends on the halfbacks coming around on offense, and the linebackers and secondary on defense. He noted that Rhody boasts a stingy defense and a strong fullback named Molly McGee (no kidding).

Commenting on the overall season, Kelley singled out the outstanding play of Dave Yushinsky, Tim Berra and Steve Moschella on defense, and Paul Hanson, Mark Tripucka and Ken Hoff on offense. He also mentioned the solid job turned in by both the offensive and defensive lines so far.

Kelley emphasized the fact that despite the early season adversities, his team has shown a remarkable pride and togetherness, and he hoped that the Redmen would be able to put it all together against the Rams and gain a "most deserved victory."

sPorts shorTiEs

AP

BALTIMORE (AP) - John Unitas cracked Boston's tough pass defenses for three scoring aerials as the Baltimore Colts whipped the Patriots, 27-3 yesterday.

* * * * *

ATLANTA (AP) - Muhammad Ali, still quick of lip and fists but his staying power an unknown quantity, shakes off 3 1/2 years of ring rust and starts back on another road to the heavyweight championship today as a 2-5 favorite over young tough Jerry Quarry.

The world is asking: Can he do it?

Ali, brash and brassy but showing signs of new maturity, has the answer in advance:

"I'm more experienced. I'm not going to be whipped by no Great White Hope."

Controversy still surrounds him.

The 15-round bout at Atlanta's ramshackle, 5,000 seat old Municipal Auditorium - an implausible site for the making of ring history - has provoked bombast from the Georgia Governor and protests from patriotic groups throughout the country.

* * * * *

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - The team captain hobbled on his crutch to midfield for the pre-game coin toss.

John Hoheisel had a cast on his left leg, but he was the elected captain of the Wichita State University football team and his teammates wanted him on the field for their first game since 13 players were killed in an Oct. 2 airplane crash.

"It was a funny feeling, going out on the field," he said. "I wish I was out there playing. But, I guess I should be glad to be alive. Just after that plane crashed I didn't think I would ever see another football game."

Sports Notices

CREW REGATTA - The UMass crew team entered two boats in yesterday's famed Head-of-the-Charles Regatta in Boston, one in the Senior Division race and one in the Junior Division. How these shells fared will appear in tomorrow's sports page.

* * * * *

WOMEN'S INTRAMURAL Participation sheets for women's intramural volleyball are available at the women's IM office, room 106, Women's Physical Education Building. Rosters must be returned to this office today for a girl to be eligible. Any girl interested in officiating, scoring and/or timing games for intramural volleyball should contact Jean Paratore at 5-2558.

* * * * *

IM OFFICIATING - Anyone interested in officiating intramural basketball for the 1970 season please sign up in the intramural office, 215 Boyden.

Tonight's Intramurals

FOOTBALL FINALS
On Field 3.
At 7:
Team plays PSD

FINAL FOOTBALL STANDINGS
Fraternity
1. PSD
2. PMD
3. KS
Resident Hall
1. Pied Pipers
2. Panthers
3. Redwoods
Independent
1. Team
2. Tubes
3. 3 Ms

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

Lear Jet 8-track Stereo, tablo model, walnut finish, 2 spkrs., plus 20 tapes, pop show classical, good cond. $50. V. Brann, 402 Machmer, 5-2466. tf10-26

Records, 8-track tapes, cassettes, all at low prices, any artist, any label. See Steve in 203 Grayson 6-6800. tf10-26

1967 Rambler, good condition, 625-3075, ask for Nancy. tf10-26

8-Track Stereo Tape Cartridges 80 minute, two album tapes. Your choice $3.00, call 2Stet at 665-3685 or Happy at 253-5600. Now get total music enjoyment at half the store price. tf10-27

Sonn Selaris Amp 2 twelve-inch speakers, Reverb Tremelo, 2 yrs. old. List price $195 selling for $200. Call 546-8861 for details. 10-23-26

1 Fr Head G. S. Camps, 1 hand carried chess set, 1 Profile ski parka, 1 pr ski poles 53". Call Dave 403 Brett 546-6292. 10-23-26-27

FOR SALE — AUTOS

Classic 68 Barracuda 340, auto., P.S., radio, pobrlass. Call eves. 549-6517. 1019--21-23-27-29

1970 Triumph Tiger 650 Motorcycle. 4 months old, maintained well, 3000 miles, excellent condition. Call Kevin 549-6150. tf10-27

1963 Ford Galaxy, $350 or best offer. Call after 3:30. 253-7750. tf10-27-30

63 Chevy Impala, 3 speed shift. Good running condition. Must sell. Call after 4 o'clock 549-6618. 10-26-27-28

62 Valiant, runs excellent. New tires, battery, brakes $75 or best offer. 665-3935, 21 Squire Village, Sunderland. 10-26-27

1966 Austin Healy Sprite convert. Must sell to pay hospital bills. $500 or best offer. Carole 247-8225. 10-26-27-28

62 Ford Falcon, rebuilt engine, good tires, needs battery and body is rough. $50 or best offer. 323-6628 10-26-27

WANTED

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthology. Please include stamped return envelope. Idlewild Press, 1867 East Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

Female roommate, $45 a month, own room. Ask for Nancy, 665-3075. tf10-26

SERVICES

Will type and/or revise any written material. Also do personalized resumes for schools, jobs. Professional, fast, reasonably priced service. Call 584-6817, eves. Keep trying. tf11-6

From Spain: Sanchis, Ofimex, Enrique, etc., etc., Guitars, Lauds, Bandurrias, Mandolins and cases. Creative Endeavor, 20-22 Miles St., Greenfield. 413-774-2831. tf10-27

Musical instruments from around the world at discount prices. Guitars a specialty. Creativo Endeavor (The Music Store), 20-22 Miles St., Greenfield. 413-774-2831. tf 10-27

YOUR PRICE for your used musical instrument in our consignment sales department. For information call; 413-774-2831. Creative Endeavor, 20-22 Miles Street, Greenfield. tf10-27

Judy Collins, Joni Mitchell, Johnny Cash, etc., etc Music books plus a complete ordering service. Creative Endeavor, 20-22 Miles St. Greenfield. 413-774-2831 tf10-27

Music lessons, instruments (new and used, imported and domestic), and repairs, etc. at reasonable prices. Creative Endeavor, 20-22 Miles Street, Greenfield. 413-774-2831. tf10-27

Computer Science Tutoring and Programming available. Call Al 256-6258. tf10-23-26

Portraits - Charcoal or Pastels done from your favorite photo, any size, satisfaction guaranteed. Charcoal $10.00, Pastel $15.00. Perfect gift. Call Sheila 549-6910. 10-26-27

FOR RENT

2 bdrm. apt. in Sunderland, available at week in Nov. Big kitchen, living room, and attic for storage. Rent $160/mo. plus heat and elec Call 665-3665 evenings or anytime weekends. tf10-30

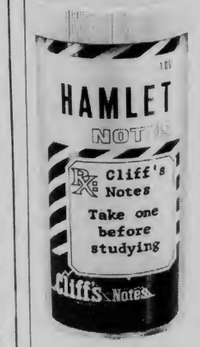
Sub Let 1 bedroom apt. All utilities incl. $135. Call 665-3197 after 5 p.m. 10-26-27-28

4 Room house for rent unfurnished. Couples only, no pets. Rt 9, Belchertown, just 10 minutes from University. Contact Albert Fitts 253-7462. tf10-26-30

LECTURE SERIES

Opening October 31, 1970, School of Psychesraphicology. Free lecture by Maury O'Connell, originator of the study, at Hotel Northampton Time: 7:30 p.m. tf10-30

HELP WANTED



College students — $3.75/hour guaranteed, part time/full time. Name your own hours. Free training if qualified call 549-6783 6-8 p.m. by Friday, October 23. 10-21-23-26

RIDE WANTED

To and from Burlington, Vt., or vicinity, leaving anytime this weekend Oct. 30. I'll pay you a lot. Call Marianne at 256-6718. 10-26-27

ROOMMATES WANTED

Female roommate wanted, own room, great place with lots of trees. Call Sue 323-7111. Also place for a guy. Call same. 10-26-27

Cliff's Notes always the right prescription when you need help in understanding literature. Prepared by educators. Easy to use Titles available now cover nearly 200 frequently assigned plays and novels

Look for the Cliff's Notes First Aid Station wherever books are sold. Only $1 each.

Cliff's Notes

P. O. Box 80728,
Lincoln, Nebraska 68501

George Roister Doister says:

"Send me your tired, your poor and I'll make a play like this school has never seen"

OPEN MEETING
OCT. 27th — 7:30 Berkshire Room, S.U.

FIVE COLLEGE STUDENT HOMOPHILE LEAGUE is having its fourth meeting COME meet people
talk to pleople
learn from people
respond to people
All interested call Jerry — 586-1002 Kathy — 665-2833

In This Corner

(Editor's Note: "In This Corner" is a brand new feature presented by the Daily Collegian Sports staff. It is intended to serve as an editorial column on sports, whose space will be used to extend the writer's opinions on a chosen sports topic or his observations and knowledge concerning a recent sporting event. "In This Corner" will try to appear twice weekly. Comments on whatever gets written, which will represent the writer's views and not the views of the Sports Staff itself, are welcome.)

Hope For Sister-Kissing Redmen

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

Although UMass' chances for winning at least half of its ten football games are dim right now after having tied the University of Connecticut, 21-21, at home on Saturday and, although many Redman fans probably left the Alumni Stadium game filled with despair, there is reason to be pleased with the outcome of this affair, even if "a tie is like kissing your sister."

For one thing, the Redman offense showed that it can click and, yes, that it can score some points. Also, Ken Hughes proved that he can run the offense, leaving little doubt that he will be the number one quarterback the rest of the year.

The offense gave indications of a new trend when it took the opening kick-off of the game from its own 20 all the way down to the Connecticut eight-yard line before finally stalling on fourth down.

Although it looked like its old self again for the next six times it had the football, it surprised its critics late in the first half by driving 92 yards in 13 plays and capping that drive with a touchdown. Shades of 1969!

The biggest surprise, and the major cause for optimism for the remainder of the season, was the play of the Redman offense in the third quarter. It initiated second-half play by traveling 56 yards in eight plays before fumbling.

The offensive team bounced right back however for what was its finest performance of the fall, a 69-yard march masterfully guided to paydirt by quarterback Hughes. The very next time this unit got its hands on the pigskin, it gave out a call for Art Consaletti and the unheralded senior ran the thing around left end for 80 yards and another score.

Although the offense failed to tally anymore after this, as a lot of weird things happened that led to the eventual tie, it found a leader in the person of Hughes. He completed 12 of 25 passes for 157 yards and had two intercepted. He sparked the Redmen to their first score by unfurling a 4-yard bomb to Mark Russell that turned a third down-15 situation on the UConn 45 into a first-and-goal situation from the Husky five.

Hughes was particularly adroit in piloting UMass to its second score, the result of the 69-yard drive in the third quarter. Mixing three Dick Cummings runs for 21 yards with four completed passes in five attempts for 46 yards, he was able to send Russell off tackle for one yard and the TD.

Coach Vic Fusia has the following to say about Hughes' performance: "He's reached the level where he's a threat." After a pause he added, "I think we have a quarterback now. This should change things considerably."

In changing things considerably, the Redmen should be an interesting team to watch the rest of the way. Still left on the grid calendar are Vermont (Oct. 31), Holy Cross (Nov. 7), New Hampshire (Nov. 14) and Boston College (Nov. 21).

With the offense gelling and the defense the superb unit that it is, the 1-4-1 Redmen could reel off three straight victories in fan-appealing fashion. And, since it has become expected that UMass will not beat BC, the importance of that contest might be brought to the level of not winning or losing but how the Redmen will play the game.

Fusia's summation: "Now, I believe we've turned the corner."

Frosh Kickers Conk Conn., 5-2

By STEVE FERBER
Staff Reporter

In typical early-game dominance, the Little Redman soccer team defeated Connecticut, 5-2, scoring four of its goals in the first 15 minutes of play. In what Coach David Jekanowski called their "biggest game of the year," the UMass freshmen started strong and then settled down to their easiest victory of the season.

With just 17 seconds gone in the game, UMass got on the scoreboard as Brian McKinney capitalized on a UConn defenseman's error. The ball was left for the UConn goalie, but McKinney found the left side of the net first and it was 1-0.

Score number two followed soon as Mark Tyma, at 5:55, sailed a corner kick into the goalie area. Eluding the UConn goalkeeper Tyma had his second cornerkick score of the season. Less than two minutes later Bruce Sibson found himself at midfield with only one man in between the goalie and himself. Moving in on the right side he let losse and, at 7:54, the ball found the left side of the goal, 3-0 UMass, and UConn was in a bad way.

The constant pressure kept up and the Little Redmen scored again. At 14:33 a Nugent-to-Tyma pass saw Tyma put in the Redmen's fourth score. The offensive punch that the freshmen had been looking for had finally materialized.

The Redmen's only defensive lapse of the first half came at 4:30 of the second quarter. With four UConn players out in front a left-footed Husky boot made it 4-1, a score that was to remain until the fourth quarter.

Excluding the first quarter of play UConn played UMass to a virtual standstill. This was due mostly to the fact that, with a four-goal lead, there is a tendency to let up. This was obviously the case of the Redmen, as Coach Jekanowski, at halftime, warned against complacency. He reminded the players that often teams have large and early leads, only to let up and have their opponents over take them. But UMass was just too over-powering.

The second half of play saw a slower pace highlighted by single scores by each team. Early in the final period UC

The second half of play saw a slower pace highlighted by single scores by each team. Early in the final period UConn scored its second goal. At 3:53 a beautiful shot was sent goalward by a UConn forward as he kicked the ball from two feet off the ground into the left corner of the UMass net.

UConn kept the ball in Redman territory for long stretches in the early parts of the final quarter but the Redman defense was too strong. Then, at 11:42 UMass wrapped up the scoring was a Stanwood goal.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

The Libra woman has a gentle touch. She is usually artistic and sensitive. Nothing dismays her more than nagging and jealousy. She is a woman of principle and marriage can represent fulfillment of her ideals and ambitions. Statistics indicate that lasting marriage for the Libra woman results when her mate is Leo or Sagittarius. However, all things equal, this woman can adjust to varying conditions and do her part to make a relationship meaningful.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Work toward completing project. Goal is closer than might be imagined. Virgo individual who aided in past will make appearance. Key is to maintain steady pace.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Check tendency to take unnecessary risks. Excitement is fine, but permit it to generate naturally. Don't try to artificially create it. Message will become increasingly clear.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Some who act in arrogant manner actually seek your approval. Know this and respond accordingly. Refuse to be intimidated. By holding your ground, you insure greater future security.

CANCER (June 21- July 22): Check with bright associate. Welcome ideas. Be flexible. Changing your mind may be indicative of creative thinking. Don't permit pride to block progress.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent on money, obtaining of legitimate bargain. Take time to be selective. Make it a buyer's market for yourself. Some obstacles boomerang into constructive challenges.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Express yourself in forthright, direct manner. Stress independence, originality. Make necessary changes. Communicate. Let others know you have ideas and can proceed with vital program.

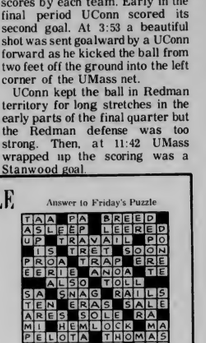
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be discreet. Family affairs should be kept within family circle. Means don't broadcast woes--or other matters. Take time to visit one who needs encouragement.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Gain perspective--see beyond the immediate. Goal may appear far away. However, a friend provides key which can open door to progress. Be receptive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Some key ambitions can be fulfilled. Business activity increases. So does your prestige--set going to impress professional superiors. Accept extra assignment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You can strengthen spiritual and philosophical concepts. Broaden horizons. Obtain hint from Scorpio nemesis. Check with one who has returned from journey.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You can settle partnership efforts. Gain co-operation of individual who controls funds. Explain position in practical, easy-to-follow manner. No fancy frills--just the facts.



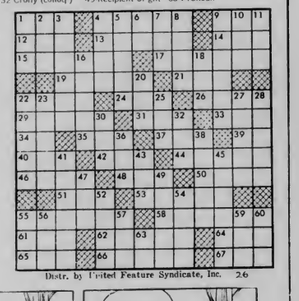
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You get best results by permitting mate or business partner to take initiative. Seek delay where legal commitment is concerned. Study Aquarius message.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you can be forceful; some get impression that you see things only your own way. This is not true. But you can be stubborn. Cycle currently in one that emphasizes outcome of special relationship. It either survives or fails apart at seams. Which it is to be depends largely on you.

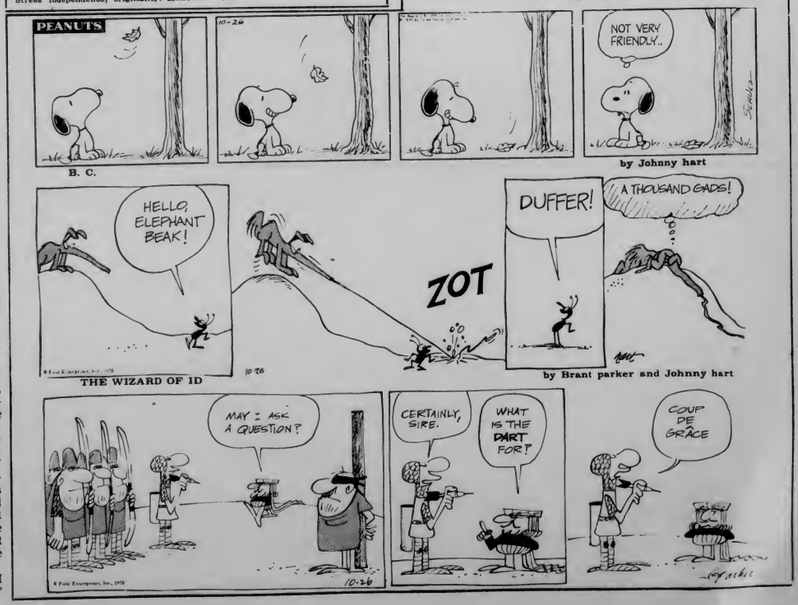
Copyright 1970, Gen. Fea. Corp.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Friday's Puzzle



ACROSS



1 Pad notices
4 Salt solution
9 Label
12 Drunkard
13 Downy duck
14 Macaw
15 Moves about stealthily
17 Desires
19 Ceremonies
21 Capuchin monkey
23 Merriment
24 Transgress
26 Chief god of Memphis
29 Passageway
31 Tear
33 Mountain in Crete
34 Preposition
35 Obstruct
37 Dance step
39 Telephone dolly
40 Conducted
42 Haughtily
44 Hand-twisted cotton thread
46 River in Belgium
48 Performed
50 Golf mounds
51 Footlike part
53 Memoranda
55 Metal fastener
58 Fonds
61 Organ of hearing
62 Sun of Zodiac
64 Lamprey
65 Emmet
66 Pastries
67 Scottish cap

DOWN

1 Snare
2 Cluster
3 Retail establishments
4 Strip of leather
5 Ascends
6 Cyprinoid fish
7 Recent
8 Goddess of discord
9 Pacific island
10 Exist
11 Aeriform fluid
16 Handle
18 Weaken
20 Title of respect
22 Merrily
23 Boundaries
25 Pinch
27 Girl's name
28 Rabbits
30 Dine
32 Crony (colloq.)
36 Insane
38 Locations
41 Leave
43 Translix
45 Last six lines of a sonnet
47 Corded cloth
49 Recipient of gift
52 Bridge term
54 Girl's nickname
55 Ocean
56 Sunburn
57 Period of time
59 Meadow
60 Shade tree
63 Pronoun

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 26

Unbeaten Booters Capture Fifth Win

By EDWARD DOHERTY
Staff Reporter

MEDFORD-Rolling to its fifth victory of the season, the undefeated UMass soccer team crushed Tufts University, 5-0, here on Saturday. The game was played on a muddy, slippery field and was characterized by numerous fouls and aggressive play by both sides.

Once again it took a full period for the booters to adjust to the foreign turf. And although Tufts had its best opportunity of the game early in the first period, neither team was able to capitalize and the quarter ended, 0-0.

The ice-breaking goal and eventual game-winner was scored at 3:18 of the second frame by senior halfback Dave Piccus. The score was set up by one of many direct free kicks as a result of a Tufts foul. Augie Calheno's boot was stopped by the Jumbo defense, and Piccus rammed the ball past Tufts goalie Dick Hanson.

This score by Piccus seemed to ignite the Redmen and, from this point on, they contained the play at the offensive end of the field.

Every time the ball came to the Tufts forwards one of the Big Red's fullbacks was right there to break up the play. For instance Gabriel Gomez, the leading scorer for the hosts, was completely outplayed by UMass' Dick McCarron.

McCarron suffered a severe stitch cut over his left eye as a result of a stray cleat from Gomez. But sophomore Todd Buck came on and contained the talented forward for the rest of the game.

The score at halftime was 2-0 as a result of Duane Brown's first goal of the game, when he took a feed from co-captain Rick Matusczcak and outran the Tufts fullback line. At the other end of the field throughout the first half, Redman goalie Bill Leary, with help from Dave Ouellette, Joe Cerniawski and Bobby Grom, shut out the Jumbos.

Partway through the third period speedy center-forward Brown scored his second goal of the game by again outdistancing the fullbacks, this time on a feed from Lindo Alves, and drilling one past the Jumbo goalie.

Abdu Thyra scored the fourth goal for the Redmen, in the final quarter. After receiving a perfect set-up pass from Larry DeFelice, Thyra dribbled a few feet to the right and let go a blue-darter that went like a bullet just inside the post.

Then, at the halfway mark of the last quarter, senior Gus Penon set up DeFelice in front. DeFelice's shot was grabbed by a Tufts fullback setting up a penalty kick which he scored on.

UMass coach Peter Broaca felt that the trip to Medford was a success and that the Redmen put out a fine offensive effort.

SOCCER NOTES - In addition to outscoring the Jumbos the booters also outshot them by a 22-9 margin...The victory left the soccermen with a 5-0-1 record...They are currently tied with Maine for first place in the Yankee Conference...Both squads have two victories and one tie in the Conference, but Maine has a loss to the Redmen against its record...In Yankee Conference statistics, Redman Brown leads all scorers with seven goals, and Alves is third with five...Co-captain Calheno leads the league in assists with four...Sophomore goalie Leary has four shutouts this season, three in a row, while allowing only four goals all year...For the second consecutive week a UMass player has earned defensive player of the week in the Conference...Last week Matusczcak earned the award...This week sophomore fullback Ouellette won the selection...Ouellette played all 88 minutes of the victory over Trinity and all 98 minutes of the overtime tie versus Rhode Island, several times making crucial saves when the goalie was out of position.

UM Tied By UConn & Freak Play, 21-21

By BARRY RUBENSTEIN
Assistant Sports Editor

Thanks to a freak play and some questionable officiating, UMass was tied by the Huskies from UConn after building up a fourteen point lead, 21-21, at Alumni Stadium field Saturday before a homecoming crowd of 14,600. The tie left the Redmen at 1-4-1 for the season while UConn is 3-2-1.

The Redmen seemed to deserve more in this one. They put on their finest offensive show of the season, mixing an awesome run game with a consistent passing attack, and grossed a season high of 542 yards. Looking further, the Redmen netted 385 yards on the ground, averaging over six yards a crack.

This rebirth of the UMass offensive unit was certainly a welcome sight after four weeks of sputtering. But in this one it shifted into high gear. Dick Cummings, the junior fullback, who had not lived up to expectations until Saturday, was outstanding as he ground out 122 yards on seventeen carries.

But the big offensive play for the Redmen came not on a Cummings jaunt but on a sweep by underrated senior halfback Art Corsaletti of 80 yards for a third quarter score which put UMass ahead by two TD's and looked like the turning point of the game. Unfortunately for UMass, it wasn't.

After a three-down-and-punt first quarter, the action started to liven up. On the first play of the second stanza, UConn halfback Juan Madry fumbled on his own 28 and Redman tackle Bill Sroka, who was outstanding throughout, was on the spot and recovered for UMass. But when halfback Mark Russell fumbled right back on the next play, it looked like the Redman pattern of the last four weeks was starting to take shape again. It was not to be however.

UMass broke out of its offensive shell late in the period when it drove 92 yards in 13 plays for the first score of the contest. The key play in the drive was a Ken Hughes-to-Russell pass for 39 yards on a crucial third-and-fifteen situation. That play put the ball on the UConn six and fullback Dick Heavey bullied his way up the middle for the score. Denis Gagnon converted.

PICKING PIGSKINS-From the tree that was UConn-quarterback Rick Robustelli's right arm, a bough bountifully-laden with footballs, UMass linebacker Joe Sabulis (59) picks a pigskin in action from the first quarter of Saturday's 21-21 tie. UMass' Bill Bush (24) and UConn's Juan Madry (22) are also on the scene. (MDC photo by Gary Slickman).

But UConn, aided by a strange penalty call, marched right back for the equalizer. With quarterback Rick Robustelli turning to the air, the Huskies marched 80 yards on only six plays.

On a third and ten from their own 20, Robustelli tossed one over the middle to Brian Herosian. Herosian apparently fumbled and linebacker Dennis Collins scooped up the loose ball and took off for paydirt. With referees whistles blaring, Collins continued to run and was aided by a teammates block. A flag went down apparently ruling that a clip had occured.

The officials ruled that the whistle had blown before the ball was fumbled and that UConn should retain possession. Fair enough. Then, however, they added on fifteen yards not from where the clip had occured, which was committed after the play had already been ruled dead, but from the spot of the fumble. The referees decided they would call it a personal foul rather than a clip after a lengthy discussion. Strange.

All in all, this play netted the Huskies 36 yards and put them in excellent field position. Three plays later Robustelli hit Vince Russell with a beautiful pass just over the arms of UMass defender Bill Bush who just missed an interception. Russell danced into the end zone and Bob Innis' conversion knotted the count at seven.

In the second half UMass put together one of its finest drives of the season. Driving 70 yards in ten plays, including four consecutive first downs, signal-caller Hughes masterfully mixed passes to John Hulecki and Russell with Cummings' bursts producing a show of the UMass offense at its highest state of efficiency. Russell went over from the one for the TD and Gagnon put the Redmen in the lead, 14-7

The next time UMass got its hands on the pigskin, it surpassed even its own previous drive. Corsaletti took a handoff from Hughes at the UMass 20 and swept the left side. He stumbled a bit turning the corner but regained his balance and got a good block around midfield. From then on he just turned on the speed, broke one tackle around the ten, and galloped in. The Redmen went crazy.

Not to be outdone, the Huskies turned in an 80-yard scoring play of their own. It was actually an accident and occured on a play that UMass defensed perfectly.

Robustelli dropped back to pass and fired one about fifteen yards toward the right sideline for Herosian. There were no less than three UMass defenders there and the ball was tipped into the air. With linebacker Joe Sabulis on his knees waiting for his second interception of the afternoon, Madry came running by at full speed, the ball fell into his arms, and he raced down the sideline untouched for six points. Innis made it seven and UConn trailed by only one score, 21-14.

The Huskies finally tied it in the fourth quarter on a 80-yard drive which took nine plays. The key was a 39-yard sweep by Madry who brought the ball to the UMass one before he was brought down. Ray Jackson went over left guard for the score and Innis tied it up at 21-21 with 8:13 gone in the period.

Both sides missed field goal attempts in the last period. Gagnon was wide to the left with a 26-yard attempt and Innis was short with a 42-yarder with 0:27 left.

Solid 17-46 Win For X-Countrymen

By EARLE BARROLL
Staff Reporter

With only 43 seconds separating the first five Redman finishers, the UMass cross country team administered a sound beating to the Holy Cross harriers, 17-46, in its final tuneup before the Yankee Conference Championship, at the Women's Physical Education Building on Saturday morning.

The Crusaders came into this meet with a list of very formidable credentials, but these were quickly erased as Tom Swain, Larry Paulson and Ron Wayne lead the Redmen to their best team start of the year. By the mile mark the race was all UMass as only three Crusaders were challenging a united Redman attack.

Paulson lead the race until Baker Hill where Wayne took over the lead which he held the rest of the way in posting his seventh straight dual meet victory of the season.

At the half way mark Wayne had a 50-yard lead over his nearest rival Bob rooke of Holy Cross. Paulson was just behind Crooke, with another Crusader, Bob Fahey, on Paulson's heals.

Following these four was one group of Redmen, comprised of Swain, Leo Duart, Tom Jasmin and freshman Doug O'Connell, who was competing in only his second varsity meet of the year. This group personified the team unity that spelled the key to victory in this meet.

During the next two miles with Wayne moving on to victory, Paulson and Duart both passed Fahey to give UMass six of the first seven positions in the final standings. Completing the top seven Redman finishers was Arnie Morse who fininished ninth in the meet holding this position for the last half of the race.

The 43-second team split for UMass was the big story of this meet as it was an improvement of some 23 seconds over Tuesday's meet with Springfield. On the championship level this time split will be tough to beat as there's not much room for opposintg teams to place their men in this small period of time.

In the face of this being the third race in a week for the Redmen, the times for the five-mile course were viewed as good times by coach Ken O'Brien.

Paulson turned in his finest effort of the season on Saturday. He came storming out of the pack going up Eastman Lane to lead the race for a good mile and a half. During the last half of the race he picked off the number one Holy Cross runner and held off a late charge by Duart to finish in second place.

Jasmin's return to action was encouraging to coach O'Brien as he went out slow at the start but picked up as the race progressed to finish in a tie for fifth place with Swain.

Again Duart displayed his typical race plan by coming on like a tiger in the last two miles of the race to place third in the meet. He has been a picture of consistency for UMass during the season.

This coming Friday is the YanCon championship and after Saturday's display of unity the Redmen should be able to return the trophy to UMass that they lost last year by a single point.

****

For the third meet in a row the UMass freshman cross country team shutout an opponent, this time the Holy Cross frosh being the target of the little Redman onslaught, 15-50.

Bill Lowry won his first race of the year as the frosh took the first five places in the meet. Following Lowry to the finish line were Rich Sevigny, Joe Frontierro, Roger Nasatka and Mike Beaulieu.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 34 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS TUESDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1970

White Rejects Offer By Sargent To Go On TV

Story on Page Three

CCEBS Advisor Dr. H. Glenn calls for more committment at a meeting attended by (over one-hundred) students last night in the Campus Center Auditorium. Glenn emphasized the group's need for academic as well as organizational success.
(MDC Photo by Barry Penn)

CCEBS Told: "Get Involved"

See Page Two

Campaign Climax

MDC Feature,
See Page Five

"Get With Child A Mandrake Root" or, Nothing Is Ever Impossible

By DAVID WILLIAMS
Issue Editor

The way things have been going lately I should have known that something was going to happen. This leads back to last semester sometime and gets involved in a lot of personal details that I don't much like talking about but it all came to a head yesterday. Yesterday I met a good man.

His name is Edward English and he is a poet. Anyone whoknows me well will tell you I have the most respect for who can write. But they have to put themselves into it. A lot of people can write and sometimes it isn't worth reading. The kind of writing that is worth more than any other is the kind that you can put down and say "I know what he feels."

All my life I've known that there was something I should be looking for. There's something out there in the Void that's got my name on it. I know it's there. But I don't know what it is and sometimes I get very, very tired of the whole show.

But there's always something to prod me a little to remind me that I should keep looking. This summer I turned to the almighty weed. I figured that if it grew and you could roll it, I'd smoke it. But that type of behavior can lead you up a blind alley. I had a very close shave with the law, some constructive conversations with my parents, and some pretty mixed up ideas about what was going on. But all the time there was a little voice saying to me that I had something I had to find.

I can come closest to realizing what it is I'm looking for by reading. I'm not the first to follow down the path I think I'm supposed to be on. Basho was there before me. Issa, Basho's buddy was there. Spenser was there. Shakespeare maybe. Jack Kerouac was there. And his buddies too, Dean Moriarty, Japhy Ryder. I think I'm on the right track. This isn't to say that my name will be remembered years from now for having expressed myself well, but that doesn't matter. What matters is that I get there. Yesterday I met a man who is there.

I talked with Mr. English for only a short time. But I know that he has found whatever it was that he was supposed to. He knows where he stands among all the beings and all the things that have ever had shape since the beginning of time.

He left his home in Selma, Alabama at the age of twelve. And since then he's been responsible for himself. At the age of 17 he had 25 men working for him in Chicago in some kind of painting business. After 19 years there he left and went to the West Coast and started another business. All this time he was living it up. He knows what it's like to get high, to feel sick in the morning because booze can make you feel bad.

And he knows what a good piece of prime rib of roast tastes like. One day he decided that all these things were hurting him. He said that they were putting his mind to sleep. A year after he gave them all up he said he could finally think clearly. That's when he started to write poetry.

Something happened to this man and he realized he had some work to do. Writing poetry is what this man lives for. He told me, "All my poetry is for everyone in the world...I'm talking to everybody." I tried to explain to him how I felt about how there was something beyond working for the Collegian or going to school or smoking dope, something that I was supposed to be doing but got sidetracked. And he told me, "Whatever you put into life, that's what you get out." He said that people must know who they themselves are before they can say who anyone else is.

And he's right. Disagree with me if you want but I think he's right. It's damn hard to sit at a typewriter and say why someone affected you and just how. And I'm going to be in a lot of trouble for wasting all this space. But it's my issue and this is somehow important to me. This man, Edward English, is going to be reading some of his poetry on Thursday at the Black Cultural Center at 7 p.m. Everyone is invited.

I would urge everyone to drop whatever it is that he happens to be doing to go over and listen to this man because he is worth listening to.

THIS IS AFRICA
NATURE'S CREATION
BY EDWARD ENGLISH

This is life on this earth
Life is nothing but a bowl of brazil nuts
That is hard nut to crack
Now you have the house of Spagethi.
To the house of
Now you have the House of Spaghetti
To the House of Baked Potatoes.
Now to the House of Goat Milk and Cheese
To the House of Cocoanut Trees.
Now you got the House of Frijoles and Tortilla's
To the House of Wine.
To the House of Beer.
Now you have the House of Fish and Rice.
To the House where they eat the fruit.
From the Trees of Life.
Don't forget the House of Vodka.
To the little House of Sardines.
Now the House is in the East.
Where the sun rises.
Where Black Walnuts grow.
This is the Garden of Life.
This is what the earth produces
God is Here
God Bless This House

EDWARD ENGLISH PHOTO BY STEVE SCHMIDT

Glenn Tells CCEBS To Get More Involved

By BETH GOODELL
Staff Reporter

With a call for further commitment on the part of students involvement in the program, Dr. H. Glenn led a meeting of CCEBS last evening in the Campus Center auditorium. Approximately 125 attended this meeting, of the continuing Collegiate Education for Black Students Organization.

Faculty advisor Glenn told the group that he is totally dedicated to the CCEBS students in helping them achieve the educational goals for which they are at the University. Saying, "I know this program is the best thing in the East," Dr. Glenn emphasized that the program will be considered a real success only when CCEBS students start graduating from the University. Students must work serious in their classes in order to achieve this academic success for CCEBS.

Dr. Glenn was also concerned with the success of the program in the broader area of making it an effective instrument of the minority students on this campus. CCEBS is now on the threshold of becomming institutionalized as a chartered student organization. This step will mean access to more funds and to more use of facilities in the Campus Center, specifically, better organization should also lead to more "political mussle", essential program in Glenn's words, "this place has not responded to us as yet."

An unidentified student took the stage to reaffirm the need of CCEBS students to make the University respond to them citing his disgust that university does not relate to him at all, the students stress that the group needs organization to cope with the University, to draw money from the Senate, to set up programs of specific interest, and to build communication within the community.

Also addressing the meeting was Gerry Scanlon, Dean of Student activities. He briefly outlined the areas in which his office is concerned with helping to coordinate with student groups and the steps which must be taken for a group to become a Registered Student Organization. He offered the assistance of his office in helping CCEBS to become recognized.

A member of the Black Hand Committee informed the students of his group's activities. It now has a small sum of money available to be given to any brothers and sisters at the University, especially married ones, who are in serious financial straights, any CCEBS student in serious difficulty may go to 217 Mills House to fill out an application for assistance.

Dr. Gage, Director of University Health Services, also spoke briefly, telling the students, "the health program is yours--you paid for it," Dr. Gage stressed that health services wants to know the specific needs of CCEBS students and what they want for services.

Dr. Glenn concluded the meeting with another call for more involvement by the students if they are to make the CCEBS program a significant force on this campus, a power capable of making the University respond to its specific needs and desires. A steering committee is currently working on organizing the group and is open to any one with any ideas to offer on how CCEBS should be structured in becomming a recognized organization.

Muhammed Ali Pummels Quarry, Wins By Knockout In Third

ATLANTA (AP) - Muhammed Ali, coming back from 3 1/2 years of idleness and frustration, battered young Jerry Quarry into a bloody mess last night and won a third-round knockout victory that sent him again in pursuit of the heavy-weight championship he has never lost.

Referee Tony Perez stopped the bout after the third round ended with blood gushing from an ugly gash over Quarry's left eye.

The announcer, Johnnie Addie, announced to a screaming crowd of 5,000 in the ram shackle Atlanta Municipal Auditorium that Perez found the injury too severe for the fighter to continue.

It was a straight right hand that opened the wound near the end of the third round, but it was only an act of mercy that stopped the fight at the end.

Confident and appearing almost arrogant, Ali made a mockery of the No. 1 heavy weight challenger with left jabs that struck out like an adder's tongue and a right that almost made the ring rock when it landed.

"It was more than a win for a fighter-it was a social victory," said Ali, who was stripped of his crown in 1967 when he refused to take the step for military service.

He was sentenced to five years in jail and fined $10,000 by a federal judge but he appealed the case and never went to jail.

During the past 43 months, when at one time he ballooned to a bulbous 240 pounds, he has made speeches on campuses and carried on his work as Black Muslim minister. Always looking, he said, to the day he would get back his crown.

He now sets his sights on Joe Frazier, a bullish man who captured the championship during Ali's absence.

A few minutes after Ali's hand was raised in victory, a physician at ringside said that Quarry's left brow was split and the wound might require as many as ten stitches.

Quarry, 25, reared in the ring tradition and trying to come back from heavyweight title losses to Jimmy Ellis and Frazier, wanted to continue.

The impressive victory answered the one vital question for ring buffs around the world. The 28 year old descendant of a Kentucky slave, whose brashness and boxing brilliance has captivated the world, lost little from his long idleness.

IS NIXON COMING TO
U. MASS???

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor). Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $7.50 per semester, $14.00 per year.

Apply?

Yeah, apply. Now. Deadline for SWAP applications is Friday. If you don't apply, you can't go. SO APPLY.

(Applications are available on the Lobby Counter. SU. SWAP is the annual student-faculty administrator conference of UMass/Amherst. Dec 11-13, this year. Important. Interesting. Fun.)

Sargent Proposes TV Appearance In Lieu Of Debate, White Says No

BOSTON (AP)-Gov. Francis W. Sargent offered Monday to meet his Democratic opponent, Boston Mayor Kevin H. White, in a joint television appearance, but not in a debate.

White immediately rejected Sargent's offer.

In lieu of a face to face confrontation, Sargent proposed a television program Thursday night in which each candidate would be questioned by a panel of newsmen for half an hour.

"I have spent the last few days trying to find a way to let the people hear the real issues of this campaign," Sargent said.

"I have tried to find a way to let those issues be heard cleanly...free of the kind of emotionalism that has developed from Mayor White's illness."

White, who was released from Massachusetts General Hospital Saturday after a 10 day stay following surgery for a perforated ulcer, called Sargent's plan a "charade."

He said Sargent, who originally proposed the debate, now is offering something "analogous to a football game where the Patriots play the first half, the Giants play the second, and the referee decides who is the winner."

Sargent had said he proposed the new format because newsmen would be able to ask tough questions-questions he said he feared would lead to "melodrama" if he asked them.

"The way the stories were going around about the debate," Sargent said, "it was being made to appear that the mayor might appear in his bathrobe and slippers with a thermometer in his hand."

If he asked White the questions, Sargent said, he would face the possibility of White "turning pale and asking for a glass of water or Kathryn, Mrs. White, for a handkerchief."

White said he was "surprised and disappointed" at Sargent's reply to the debate challenge, which White renewed at a hospital news conference last Thursday. He said he would be willing to face a panel of newsmen, but not back to back with Sargent. Such a confrontation, he said, would be fraudulent."

In a subsequent statement issued after White's reply to his new proposal, Sargent said, "The mayor's rejection of my call for a discussion of the issues appears to confirm the judgment of those who said he was always more interested in the melodrama of the situation than in the merits of a meeting between us."

"I hope that when he has had time to reflect more calmly on the proposal I have made he will reconsider."

Discipline Board Serves As "Supreme Court"

By LINDA BALICKI
Staff Reporter

Suspension... dismissal... Jeopardy.. Probation. These are words which most students regard as ominous and devastating, but to members of the University Discipline Board, they are the range of choices which exist when an undergraduate appeals his case from a lower judicial body.

Established by the Bylaws of the University's Faculty Senate in Spring, 1966, the Discipline Board serves as the highest appellate judiciary body of the University. As such it hears every case of undergraduate disciplinary action involving a penalty of suspension or dismissal.

It serves as a review board for students involved in disciplinary cases before lower courts and as such allows the student the opportunity to seek a reversal if he deems the decision of the lower judicial body to have been unfair or the procedures involved in that decision to have been faulty or otherwise prejudicial to his case the disposition of that case.

The Board is composed of four undergraduates and four faculty members who seek to bring objectivity and integrity into play in their decisions. It is these major criteria which the selection committee will employ this week when they seek to choose the four undergraduate members of the Board from among 18 applicants. They seek students who will be able to judge a party's case on its merits and not base their decision on personal looks, biases or prejudices.

The selection committee's task is to recommend for appointment the four applicants whom they feel will be likely to lend the most objectivity to the Board. The recommendations will be subject to the approval of both the President of the Student Senate and the Senate as a whole.

In each case which it hears, the Discipline Board must decide whether there is cause enough to warrant suspension, or dismissal. Such cases may involve academic dishonesty or impersonation. In some cases, however, while there is not enough evidence to warrant immediate suspension or expulsion, there may be significant evidence to support the imposition of jeopardy. In such cases the party is advised that any further violation of University regulations may result in complete and total separation from the University community.

The decisions of the Board are based on a majority vote of those present in order to insure complete fairness with regard to the rights of the individual involved. There must also be a quorum of two undergraduates and two faculty members present before a case can be heard or a decision made. This is to further insure the rights of the individual involved and to insure that he is given a hearing before a hearing before a body of his peers.

In certain extreme cases, the decision of the Discipline Board may be appealed to the Chancellor or the Board of Trustees of the University if the individual feels that his case has been prejudiced against or otherwise mishandled by the Discipline Board. Only cases of extreme misrepresentation or gross mishandling reach the Chancellor as an appeal and cases of appeal to the Board of Trustees are virtually non-existant. Any cases of such magnitude or necessity are more often disposed of by the Chancellor unless a special request is made by the individual involved.

Senate Wants Freshmen

Before the last meeting of the student Senate's S.G.A. Committee, there was a meeting held for those Freshman running for a class office. At this time S.G.A. chairman Leo Clark pointed out to the prospective officers that there were very few people running for the four offices.

At the beginning of the meeting there was only one person running for president, three for vice-president, one for secretary, and three for treasurer. This, Clark commented, was very unusual, seeing that as many as eight or ten have run for a single office in the past. During the course of the meeting one of the freshmen changed his candidacy from vice-president to president.

The assembled group of interested Freshmen and S.G.A. members discussed the possibility of changing the date that nomination papers were to be due. After discussing several possible dates it was decided that the period for nomination papers to be out would be open until October 28, in the hope that more freshmen would become interested and submit nomination papers. The primary election date was moved back to November 3, and November 10 was set for final election date. The elections will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Cape Cod Lounge of the Student Union.

The group then discussed possible funding for advertising the change in dates. Clark suggested that the Class of 1974 borrow the money from another class with the understanding that it would be returned after the new freshmen officers were sworn in. The Class of 1973 was contacted and agreed to loan up to $300 for advertising the freshmen elections.

The candidates and S.G.A. members agreed that it was very important to get as many freshmen as possible interested in order to have a good working executive council as soon as possible.

Action Lab To Work With Prison Inmates

By JAMES GOLD
Thursday Issue Editor

Action (a branch of the Community Action Foundation) will focus on training prisoners to pass the General Education Development test and receive high school equivalency diplomas, said Scott Caplain, advisor to a group of seven students at the lab's organizational meeting last night.

Caplain explained that this program is a "social educational program" and stressed the need of keeping political activism out of the organization.

Modelled after a Fall River program designed to help underprivileged high school dropouts to gain equivalency diplomas, Action Lab will train groups of prisoners from the Northampton jail in five areas covered by the test: social science, natural science, English literature, grammar, and general mathematics.

The members will structure courses on their own, said Caplain.

Action Lab does usually try to have at least 2 tutors for each area, though, he added. That way, one can accelerate the class while the other handles slower learners.

An orientation period, so students can meet prisoners and become acquainted with teaching methods, will be established. Final selection of the tutors will rest with the prisonon's director.

Selection will be based on screening by the prison authorities who will judge on personality, political beliefs, etc. This does not mean male turtors will need a haircut, said Caplain, but that the authorities are concerned with security at the prison.

So far about 20 prisoners have expressed a desire to take part in the program.

Besides tutors who will work once a week, Jeanine White, (another advisor,) expressed the need for other volunteers to do certain clerical work, a coordinator of the lab, and students who want to start a drop-out prevention program.

As soon as an advisor from the School of Ed. can be found, credit for the tutoring program through the school's modular credit department can be arranged.

Action Lab is in a financial squeeze. Although they have an RSO number, their funds are limited to on-campus activities. Caplain explained that money can be used for transportation to and from the prison but not to buy the texts that will be necessary for use in the tutoring program.

The group will have to find some other way to raise money, he said.

"This is your organization," said Caplain. The lab works through complete informality, he explained.

For further information, contact Scott J. Caplain at 6-6089 or Jeanine White at 5-2510 or leave word at the RSO offiee.

Nov. 2 Proclaimed Black Solidarity Day

November 2 has been designated "Black Solidarity Day" by a national committee of black leaders representing a broad spectrum of social, civic, religious, and political organizations active in the black community. The executive director of the committee is Mr. J. Metz Rollins, who is also the executive director of the National Council of Black Churchmen.

Black Solidarity Day is conceived as a national day of unity and awareness among black people in the United States and is not related to the program or idealogy of any single organization.

According to the committee, "the purpose of Black Solidarity Day, is both symbolic and practical. The black community needs a day on which it can demonstrate its essential unity of purpose, stage programs celebrating its history and culture, and undertake serious internal discussions of its priorities and goals."

"WE ARE CALLING ON ALL ORGANIZATIONS TO SUSPEND REGULAR ACTIVITIES AND TO PUT ASIDE ORGANIZATIONAL DIFFERENCES ON THIS DAY." Meetings and community programs will be held in churches during the day and in the evening there will be Unity Rallies in major cities from New York to Jackson, Mississippi.

November 2 is "not a holiday but a day of heightened awareness" says J. Metz Rollin, National Chairman of the committee. "Black people will demonstrate their economic power by not working, not buying, and travelling as little as possible. It is a day to honor our heroes and remember our martyrs. Students in colleges and high schools should not attend regular classes, but should organize discussion groups on subjects relevant to black people."

The committee estimates that observances of the day will take place in twenty-two cities in the nation as well as on the campuses of predominantly black colleges and universities.

Mike Thelwell, acting head of the W.E.B. DuBois Department of Afro-American Studies at the University of Massachusetts said that members of the black community of the five colleges were "discussing what an appropriate response of the black community might be and that some announcement of plans for Black Solidarity Day should be expected very soon." Students representing the Afro-American Society at UMass have petitioned Student Senate support and motioned to have classes suspended on November 2 for black students.

MDC Hotline
5-2550

Hillel presents
THE COLLECTOR
First of UJA film series.
All proceeds to UJA.
THURSDAY, OCT. 29, at THOMPSON 104
7 and 9 P.M.
50¢ CANCELLED

HORROR FLICKS
"WOLFMAN" "THE MUMMY"
"BRIDE OF FRANKENSTEIN"
AND OTHER FEATURES
Thursday Oct. 29
7:30 & 9:30
Maher Auditorium
Sponsored by Maroon Keys
50¢

In The Nation And The World

Children's Programs Hit, . Found Inadequate, Harmful

NEW YORK (AP) - The quality and content of television programming for children, coming increasingly under scrutiny, was criticized again Monday.

A panel at an all-day National Conference on Citizens Rights in Broadcasting at the Americana Hotel brought assertions that television largely is not educating children or instilling them with a proper set of values for life.

It was the third such conference in a month in which witnesses and panelists charged that many children's programs are inadequate or even harmful.

Evelyn Sarson, president of Action for Children's Television, - ACT - said most shows on the air are "incredibly poor"and consist mostly of "badly done" cartoons.

The Rev. George E. Riddick of Operation Breadbasket said television did not adequately serve the needs of millions of children who live under deprived conditions. "Children's television isn't beginning to deal with the wrongness of slum lords," he said. "If it isn't dealing with that, is it really dealing with the issues of life."

Dr. W. Walter Menninger of the Menninger Clinic, said many programs are set in family life, "but it is a fantasy setting. The parent has to help the child see that magical solutions to life's problems don't exist."

However, Menninger, said the "ubiquitous availability of television makes it a ready scapegoat" for ills in American society.

Two panelists asserted that commercials on children's television often misrepresent products and as a result are contributing to the rejection of traditional values by college students.

"Saturday morning commercials are wiping out any constructive imagery that children might have of their country, and we are now seeing the expectable results," said Robert B. Choate, the nutritionist who said several months ago that breakfast cereals were nutritionally deficient. His claims were disputed by the cereal makers.

The Federal Communications Commission has before it a petition from ACT, which seeks a ban on commercials in children's shows and would require at least 14 hours of programming for children each week.

Nixon Wants Southern Conservative For Court

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) - Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Monday that President Nixon, despite two rebuffs by the U.S. Senate, is determined to place a "Southern strict constructionist on the Supreme Court."

Agnew made the comment in a speech to 6,000 cheering spectators in this textile center's Memorial Auditorium.

He stopped in Greenville for two hours in opening the final six day push of the campaign.

Agnew flew on to Raleigh, N.C., for an evening rally at North Carolina State University.

The vice president was greeted by about 1,500 persons when he landed at the Spartanburg Greenville Jet Port. It was a friendly crowd, but there was an occasional sigh saying such things as "Down with Agnew, up with peace." But there were others that said: "Sock it to 'em Spiro."

In his speech, Agnew said, "I need not remind you that Richard Nixon remains determined to achieve a better ideological and geographical balance on the Supreme Court.

"His resolution to achieve that balance will never waver, despite those radical liberals who still control the Senate," Agnew said.

The vice president said Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., rejected by the Senate last fall, was "plainly the victim of Anti-Southern bias.

Haynsworth, chief judge of the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals at Richmond, Va., and a resident of Greenville, was defeated 52 47 by the Senate. In April, Nixon's second appointee to the court, federal Judge G. Harrold Carswell of Florida, was rejected 51 45. In May, the Senate confirmed Judge Henry Blackmun of Minnesota.

GOP Issue: "New Barbarism," Law And Order Looms Large

WASHINGTON (AP) - Call it law and order,permissiveness, campus unrest or wrap it up as "The New Barbarism." Whatever its name, Republicans are pushing to make it the No. 1 issue in this year's elections.

Call it cost push pressures, overdue readjustment, wage price spiral or just plain "Nixonomics." It's the pain in the pocketbook that Democrats see as the overriding issue on Nov. 3.

The Republicans talk about lawlessness, bombings, attacks on police. From President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew to candidates for state legislatures, they have seized on domestic disorder as their issue.

Democrats described the GOP litany as "the politics of fear.....a calculated attempt by these leaders to exploit the doubts and fears, the anxieties and frustrations, the emotions and mistrust, of the people whose trust and confidence they claim to hold."

Instead, the Democrats accuse the administration - and thereby Republican candidates - of being insensitive to unemployment, rising prices "to help President Nixon balance his books or compensate for fiscal ineptness."

Vice President Agnew sought to brush off these allegations last week, saying "they jump at a one month wobble in the Consumer Price Index to try to panic the electorate."

They are the nearest thing to national issues in the campaign, echoed in varying degrees in contests for the 35 Senate seats, and the 435 seats in the House.

A few months ago, in early summer, the Vietnam war was widely heralded as the issue. A cry at peace demonstrations protesting the sending of American troops against Communist installations in neutral Cambodia was "wait til fall." But the troops were pulled back on schedule, the President has continued to withdraw them from Vietnam, and passions have cooled.

Now, with the exception of a handful of races, the war as an issue is as dated as a 1968 automobile-running on, a little older, but causing little excitement.

For all the bombast,the two major concerns - law and order and the economy - aren't really being debated at all. No Democratic politician is going to campaign for crime and violence; no Republican is running on a platform of unemployment and higher living costs.

Such issues as the environment, power shortages, quality of education, consumerprotection and the like are being debated hardly at all.

The Republicans have exploited to the fullest their advantage of having natural newsmakers - the President and Vice President.

President Nixon signs a crime bill and comments "every day we pick up the papers and see some sporadic incident without reason, without cause - a terroristic act that we have not been able to cope with before."

Five days later, openly campaigning, he makes an unscheduled hospital visit in Kansas City to two policemen injured in a bomb explosion. "Let's give them respect," he says. "Here they are underpaid, a dangerous job, protecting us, and instead of calling them pigs and spitting on them and shouting profane slogans at them as they go about their job, let's give them respect."

That the emotional issue is having an effect is illustrated by the Senate race in Utah, where Republican Congressman Laurene J. Burton is trying to unseat Sen. Frank Moss, a Democrat with a liberal record.

Burton rails against what he calls "The New Barbarism," - student terrorists, pornographers and cop killers. "There's no doubt about it," says Moss, "that's the big issue. I'm not sure just why. All we've had around here was a sit in last spring at the University of Utah and it was totally non-violent."

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien, in addressinghimself to what he calls "the politics of fear," likened Republican tactics to those of the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin.

"And this time," he said "the practitioner is not a single, demagogic senator but a carefully orchestrated team of the highest office holders in the land..... it is terribly hard to grope for the answers to the problems of a vast and restless nation, but it is easy to inflame human emotions."

O'Brien, countering with the Democratic Theme, said unemployment is not only a key issue but also "that so many who are out of work, and the people who depend on them, have no feeling that anyone in power sees their plight or understands their humiliation - or gives a damn."

Nowhere in the country, perhaps, are the divisions between opposing candidates as sharply defined as in Tennessee's Senate race between Democratic incumbent Albert Gore and Republican congressman William Brock.

Brock pursues a line straight out of the GOP strategy book: a recital of the unease that plagues the country, Gore's antiwar record, attacks on the Democratic "big spenders."

Gore sticks to issues that have worked for him before, talking of high interest rates, high prices and unemployment.

"These are bread and meat questions that come down to the problems that your wife has got to work with in paying the bills and keeping the family budget," he says.

Although once Brock was considered the likely winner, Gore's fortunes swung dramatically upward with the President's proposal for a cease fire in Vietnam, which Gore had advocated.

A similar situation exists in Ohio where Rep. Robert Taft Jr., a Senate candidate with a grand Republican name faces Howard M. Metzenbaum, who has made the race a virtual Nixon policy referendum. Taft is a hardliner on crime and campus unrest and an advocate of conservative fiscal policies. Metzenbaum hammers away at Nixon economic policies, says the administration should set a deadline for withdrawal from Vietnam, and wants to see some defense funds diverted to social programs.

In Illinois, Sen. Ralph Tyler Smith is convinced "the one thing about which people are most concerned is the problem of violence in society." His opponent, Adlai E. Stevenson III, owner of a formidable Democratic name, says "Smith is a big law and order man - and he's also a damned hypocrite."

"He says so many absurd things; he's called me a Communist, he's called me everything in the book." But Stevenson issued strong statements against violence, indicating that Smith's campaign had touched a nerve.

While the two issues, domestic unrest and the economy, dominate most campaigns, there are other issues.

But for the most part, up and to including such celebrated liberal conservative confrontations as the New York House race between Rep. Allard K.Lowenstein, a leading Democratic liberal in the House and Republican Norman F. Lent, an ardent conservative, the argument rages over two issues: law and order and the economy.

FINALLY!
FINALLY!
FINALLY!
FINALLY!

XEROX

XEROX copies now available at Campus Center

Printing Shop - opposite the Coffee Shop.

Rates per original - 5¢ for the first 4 copies,

2¢ for each additional copy.

Other services include: Copy setting
Mimeograph
Ditto
Embosograf
Lineoscribe
Art Work
Stencils

CENTRAL AREA RESIDENTS
READ

Academic Affairs Committee Open Meeting

In Hills Lounge, Tonight at 7:00 p.m.

COME AND RAP ON YOUR EDUCATION

MINUTES AWAY VIA 91 TO RT 5
REDSTONES
Showcase Cinemas, 1213
RIVERDALE RD. W. SPFLD.
1 "LOVERS AND OTHER STRANGERS" R
ACRES & ACRES FREE PARKING
Mon.-Fri. 2 - 7:30 - 9:10
Sat. - Sun. 1 - 3 - 5:10 - 7:20 9:40
2 WIDE SPACE COMFORT LOUNGE ROCKERS
"ON A CLEAR DAY YOU CAN SEE FOREVER"
Mon.-Fri. 2-7:30-9:50
Sat. & Sun. 2-4:05-7:55-9:50
GP
3 GROUP RATES
JOE
Mon.-Fri. 2-7:35-9:10
Sat. & Sun. 1-30-3:30
5:30-7:35-9:40
CALL 413-733-5131

CAMPAIGN CLIMAX

Sargent-White A Tossup

The most visible, most expensive and most important campaign this year is also the most confusing, as incumbent Republican Governor Francis W. Sargent tries to maintain his early lead to his Democratic challenger, Boston's Mayor Kevin H. White.

Sargent has the advantage of being the incumbent, but White is very visible as mayor of Boston and the former Massachusetts Sec. of State is running his fourth state campaign.

On the surface, both men appear to be somewhat alike. Both are television oriented, articulate, liberal veterans of Massachusetts politics. They both lead the liberal wings of their respective parties, and they agree on a number of issues, such as the War in Vietnam, federal aide to several state programs, the need for tax reforms and the need to bring "the people closer to the government."

In this campaign, both Sargent and White have been criticized by members of their own party for being too liberal, too much the friend of the alienated within society. But neither man really stands any farther to the left of the traditional political definition of liberalism. For the record, White seems to live up to his self-created image a little better than Sargent.

As mayor of Boston, White initiated a series of programs designed to bring government into the communities, such as "little city halls" and the Summerthing program. He also can claim with a good deal of authority that he worked hard as mayor to respond to the people as much as possible.

Sargent can claim several legislative victories in the name of the people, such as the auto insurance reform and to a lesser degree the Shea anti-war bill. He can say he thought the people should have been given a larger voice in the determining of whether a cut should be made in the size of the House of Representatives.

On the subject of public aid to higher education, Sargent's position is clear--he is not a friend of the University or of its sister State Colleges. He has repeatedly butchered the UMass budget and has failed to attend even one of the monthly Board of Trustee meetings during his two year term.

And while most people admit that White's position on public higher education is unclear, most agree that it cannot possibly be as unfriendly as Sargent's.

But this campaign has really turned into a battle of personalities, rather than a battle of issues. Both members have spent more money on radio and television ads than candidates in any other election in the State's history. Both men seem to be willing to accept the voter's verdict on which image projected is the more comfortable, the most believable.

THE BIG ONE — Television and ulsers should be the deciding factors in the State's Cubernatorial race, as Boston Jayor Kevin H. White and Governor Francis W. Sargent appear deadlocked.

Sargent stresses his experience, his ability to work with or without the legislature's help and his record of what he terms "fighting for the people of the State."

White stresses his record of reform and rebuilding as Mayor of Boston, his closeness to the people who elected him and his ability to lead with courage.

When the campaign began in earnest two months ago, Sargent was the leader by somewhat comfortable margin. White has been gaining consistantly though, but his week's stay in a hospital for ulcer treatment may damage his campaign.

Right now, the Mayor's health and the possibility of a statewide television debate between the two candidates looms as the deciding factor in the campaign.

Sargent has been implying for the past few days that the mayor's health does not allow him to debate competently, but White maintains that the Governor just wants to avoid a direct meeting. Publically, the voter is being put in the position of choosing who he will call a liar.

With no debate, it would appear that Sargent is stronger than White, but that's what everyone said before White beat Maurice Donahue in the Democratic primary.

Lt. Gov. Choices Use Coat Tails

Dukakis Visible And Well-Known; Dwight??

It used to be that Lieutanent Governor races were not very important; most people assumed that a victorious Governor would carry the Lt. Governor candidate of his party into office on his coat tails. But this year for the first time in this State, the top two offices on Beacon Hill are being campaigned for by tickets--the Governor and Lt. Governor candidates of each party running as a team.

This means that the candidate for Governor in each party is in the position of being helped or harmed by the candidacy of his Party's number two man, and this is a Massachusetts first.

For the Democrats, the candidacy for Michael Dukakis is no supprise--he's been after his party's number two slot for the past three years. He won a relatively easy convention victory in June, and primary victory in Sept. and is generally considered to be a shade more "liberal" than his running mate, Boston Mayor Kevin H. White.

Kukakis has been a State Representative from Brookline for the past seven years, and has served on the House Insurance, Low-Income Housing and Public Service Committees.

Some of his major actions in the Legislature includes his sponsorship of the Keeton-O'Connell Insurance Bill, the fofe runner of the present no-fault reform law, and his support of the late Rep. James Shea's law which challenges the constitionality of the War in Vietnam.

Kukakis is generally considered to be capable of attracting liberal and to the left of liberal votes to the White-Dukakis ticket. He is strong, campaigns well, appears in the "Kevin White mold" and seems to a definite plus to the Democratic ticket.

But while Dukakis is a strong and visable member of the Democratic team, his opponent, Donald R. Dwight of Holyoke is relatively unknown and has played much less of a role on the Republican ticket.

Dwight's candidacy was a supprise in the first place. All Spring State Representatives Martin Linsky and John Quinlan were the front-runners for the G.O.P.'s number two slot, and prior to the Convention, Governor Sargent endorsed Linsky.

But about two weeks before the Republican Convention Linsky called a news conference and said that Quinlan had launched a smear campaign against him, a campaign aimed at paring away his delegate strength.

A week later Linsky withdrew from the race, saying that his continued campaign could only hurt the Governor. At that point, Sargent called on Dwight to be his candidate at the Convention. Dwight beat Quinlan easily at the Convention, in a battle which showed the extend of the Governor's control over his party.

They cite his previous public service (as State Commissioner of Administration) as poor campaign experience and call his background (a newspaper publisher) a poor political childhood.

Since the primary function of the Lt. Governor this year seems to be centered on helping the Governor get elected, Dukakis appears much stronger than Dwight. The Democrat is an experienced campaigner, has that young, liberal Democratic look and provides a positive bookend for the White campaign. But Dwight is a political novice and has no real image. Thus while Kevin White can expect help from his running mate, the old coattails proverb about the number two position is still true for the G.O.P.

MICHAEL DUKAKIS, the Democratic Lt. Gov. nominee agreed to be a big help to his Gubernatorial running mate

Quinn, Conn Have Similar Stands Incumbent A.G. Should Prevail

People generally vote for an Attorney General according to his Party label, and generally disregard any campaign rhetoric they may have heard by either candidate. The incumbent usually ends up winning reelection in this race, no matter what his opponent does or says.

This will probably be true again this year, as incumbent Democrat Robert H. Quinn is opposed by Republican Donald Conn., a former D.A.

Quinn is a former Speaker of the House of Representatives in this state and has been A.G. for about two years.

He has published a lot of consumer reports and has attempted to attack organized crime in the state, although his office has accomplished as little in the second effort as his predecessors.

Quinn believes that separate penalities should be set up for use of marijuana and other drugs, and believes the selling of drugs should carry a stiffer penality than their possession. He never mentions whether he thinks any drugs should be legalized.

His opponent flately states that marijuana should not be legalized, but allows that users should not receive as lengthy prison terms as dealers.

Both candidates have essentially the same views on law enforcement in general, saying that greater centralization of all State law enforcement and support agencies is a primary need.

Both candidates have come out strongly in the past against what they call "radicals prone toward violence".

Both candidates argue that the image of police in the state and in the nation must be improved.

It seems as though both candidates stand in the traditional political middle road, although Quinn occassionally leans ever so slightly toward the left.

In such a race the only thing besides being an incumbent and having your party do well that counts is your media exposure.

As Attorney General, Robert Quinn is familiar to those who watch the news on television, and his name has a familiar newpaper ring. Also, he has spent a considerable sum on radio and T. V. ads, considering the office he's running for.

On the other hand, Conn is virtual unknown and has spent little money for radio and T.V. ads. In this race of look alikes and sound alikes, the better known Robert Quinn should have no trouble winning with his party.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Student Union University of Massachusetts - Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR John Sullivan

PHOTO EDITOR Steve Schmidt
ADVERTISING MANAGER John Fayad

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR David Williams
NEWS STAFF Ann Gurnett
DARKROOM Barry Penn
SPORTS John Sullivan
AD LAYOUT Rich Butstein
EDITORIAL Mary Ellen O'Shea

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

White For Governor

To a great extent, the Gubernatorial campaigns of Francis W. Sargent and Kevin H. White have been, look alike and sound alike affairs, both relying heavily on professional media image-making and both dealing more with slogans than with issues.

And, to a certain degree, this type of campaign mirrors the few differences between the candidates on many issues; both are flimsey liberals of the Kennedy style, both feel that welfare is just an administrative problem, both believe abortion is a matter for the courts and both constantly harangue youth for not joining the broken down bandwagon of the state's two party system.

But there are differences, differences important enough to make voting for Kevin White a worthwhile exercise in State politics.

Governor Sargent has spend the past two years arguing that the Democratic controlled State Legislature refuses to listen to him; perhaps a Democratic Governor (and there hasn't been a Democratic Chief Executive in the State for the past six years) can deal with the legislature more effectively.

Governor Sargent has been a foe of proposed increases in the budgets of the State's public institutions of higher education, and while no one knows for sure how White will treat UMass and her sister schools, it is a certainty that he cannot be less of a friend than Sargent has been.

Under Sargent's administration, Massachusetts has lost several major businesses, a fact which has made the increase in unemployment in this state greater than the inflation-plagued national average. And while no one can be sure, White's ability to attract business to Boston as Mayor seems to promise improvement over the Governor's economic performance.

But the greatest lure to Kevin White is his record in Boston since being elected that city's mayor in 1967.

Through the programs of little city halls, White brought the city government closer to the people and made it more responsive to them; through his Summerthing program he gave his people a season-long program of entertainment; through his efforts new schools were built in the city for the first time in this century.

In short, Kevin White has given the people of Boston a sense of hope uncommon to any other city in this state. The decay of Urban America, flourishing in all other cities in Massachusetts, has begun to wane under White's leadership in Boston.

What Massachusetts needs most in 1970 is hope for the future, hope for a government closer and more responsive to the people, hope for a government capable of at least attacking the problems of her people.

Over the past two years, Francis Sargent has shown that he is incapable of instilling this hope in Massachusetts; over the past three years Kevin White has proven that he is capable of giving this state the hope it so desperately needs. He should be elected governor.

Lou DiMonaco

Commercial Exploitation

"I pity the poor immigrant..
Who eats and is not satisfied,
Who hears but does not see,
Who falls in love with wealth itself.
And turns his back on me."

Dylan

Commercials hold a unique place in the brief history of the television industry. It can be said about television commercials that never has so little been said by so few to so many.

As the post World War II boom crop of babies, we have watched and listened to an almost constant stream of singleminded salesmanship. And as if we had been given an overdose long ago, we sit numb in front of the t.v. and take it all in.

Alright, maybe some of us laugh, or snap the television silent when we are disgusted. But for most of us the commercials are the price we willingly pay for the occasionally good programs, the daily news broadcasts, and the sporadically heavy documentaries. And every year the price gets higher.

Ralph Nader mentioned when he spoke here last spring that if television advertising was used to benefit society the results would be tremendous. He cited the effectiveness of anti-cigarette commercials, Cancer Research Foundation commercials pleas for contributions, and anti-litter, anti-forest fire commercials as examples of "steps in the right direction". But while the socially conscious commercials move in steps, the profit conscious commercials move in leaps and bounds.

Commercial exploitation is rampant! As an example I recall a commercial that began with a series of brief shots of pollution in action; pictures of industrial smoke stacks and traffic jams, sevage disposal and junk yards. I thought, "Great an anti-pollution commercial". The next thing I knew a hand shoved a bottle of Visine in my face and said something like "Give your eyes a break.." Well buddy, give me a break!

Visine may be great stuff if you're stoned and have to rap to the Dean of Students, but when the pollution makes your eyes smart you shouldn't reach for a bottle of Visine, you should reach for the nearest politician or industrial clout and bang some sense into his head.

Television in general and commercial television specifically has the potential to change the way people think. To believe this all you have to do is watch the endless lines of Jones' and Doe's, drolling at the door of American materialistic luxury, believing that the good life can be bought.

And as with most everything else, the more you pay the more you have to pay, until something like the following remark rings with a note of familiarity:

"The business of inventing and flourishing treacherous paradies of freedom, joy and fulfillment becomes an indispensible form of social control under the technocracy."

THEODORE ROSZAK

Television advertising is not the sole cause of the economic merry-go-round, but it is in the forefront of causes.

The results of almost two decades of commercials whose emphasis is on catch phrases, fantasy images, repetition, the "spirit of competition" has been devastating. But the devastation has been highly underrated.

Television commercials have helped make women objects that can be bought, brought home and mounted; eternally young, submissive; forever responsive, sexual and yet always this fantasy is unfulfilled.

Television commercials have helped make men pathetic warriors in a jungle whose law is competition (far removed from the supposed co-operative law of civilization). One man's profit is another man's loss, and life becomes a series of great expectations constantly unrealized.

The point of all this is not hyperbole, although that may seem true. The point is that television commercials are like jaundice, a symptom of a greater disease; a sympton of the shrunken liver of a system drunk on its own competitive spirits.

It is easy for the young to ignore or laugh at one of the obvious symptoms. But, everyday more people are drawn into the sickness, feeding the sickness until the yellow can be seen even in their eyes.

The most ludicrous image I have of this is the figure of a once "aware" individual sitting at a bench, flicking the hair from in front of his eyes, and punching out .45 caliber automatics at a gun factory, to feed, shelter clothe and entertain himself in the American way.

But as Nader mentioned, if television advertising was used to benefit society the results would be tremendous.

(Editor's note: the preceding was the second in a four part series on commercial television. Tomorrow a look at some of the "good" commercials, and some suggestions on how to assure their continued existance.)

Tony Granite

Campus Carousel

THE UNDRINKABLES...the UBridgeport (Conn) Scribe reports that when the Bradley University Publications Council (Peoria, Ill.) approved beer advertisements for Scout (the campus newspaper there), three faculty on the Council were removed.

Although Prexy denied the beer ads were the motive, the newspaper pointed out that the Dean of Students had threatened the removal if beers ads were printed.

* * * * *

SPEAKING OF CENSORSHIP...The Texas Student Publications Board of Directors is telling the editor of The Cactus, the UTexas yearbook, what and how to include material in his book.

According to a story in The Daily Texan, the Board has decided that "dormitory student governments be allowed to determine the format of their pages in The Cactus."

An editorial in The Daily Texan pointed out that "Allowing student government to determine the content of any student publication is contrary to all the freedoms the publications of TSP have acquired through the years."

* * * * *

BEST SELLERS in the book store at Northern Illinois University are books on sex, politics and ecology, according to a survey by a staff writer of The Northern Star.

Also passing the bash boxes with increasing frequency are volumes on campus unrest and astrology(?).

Any port in a storm, Charlie.

* * * * *

EFFICIENCY - PLUS is demonstrated by the University of Utah, which uses "Instant Payment Orders" that do not require invoices on purchases of less than $100.

The vendor receives a blank check, which he fills in for the amount due him for the purchase of goods described in an attached order form. There is no exchange of correspondence, either since the cancelled check carries all the information the auditors need to know.

'Tis indeed heartwarming to learn that some areas of Academe can do it like it really is!

* * * * *

PREXIES CAN BE HEROIC...Students at American International College had the cockles of their hearts warmed by their new president, this Fall. Instead of taking the honors due him with an expensive inauguration ceremony, Harry J. Courniotes has arranged to have the expense money invested in a Scholarship Fund.

The committee appointed to plan the inauguration has "enthusiastically" agreed to acquiesce, according to a page one story in the Yellow Jacket.

And just for that, the Scholarship Fund has been named after him as a "permanent and lasting tribute."

Surely longer lasting than a 50-minute inauguration speech, eh?

* * * * *

ADD WOMEN'S LIB...with this intelligence: According to the student newspaper at Midwestern University, Wichita Falls, Texas, an 18-year old coed is doing her thing at the campus barber shop.

And when she's not cutting hair, shaving faces and giving shampoos, she plays chess with the other barber.

May all her moves be smart ones.

* * * * *

MONKEY SEE, MONKEY DO...the UCal-Santa Barbara Nexus reports there's a chimp on campus who's making a monkey out of them kinds who can't do grammar.

Sarah's her name and writing's her game.

The seven year old chimp is the pupil of a psych prof there who has taught her to communicate with 130 plastic chips of variousshapes and colors.

She arranges the symbols in sentences to express her own thoughts while observing the same language rules of humans.

In a picture showing Sarah at work with one of her instructors, Nexus was careful to identify the Chimp. Ya never know!

* * * * *

ALUM GIVING - ON CREDIT?...Yup, that's the way it is at the University of Bridgeport, nowadays.

This private institution is taking the ouch out of giving by having arranged with a local bank to honor Master Charge account donations to the University's Alumni Fund.

* * * * *

SPIRO, AGAIN...Satirist Arthur Hoppe took aim at everyone's beloved Veep in a column that appeared recently in the University of South Florida Oracle.

"There's the Middle East in flames,"he wrote, "with the President off cruising around Europe and where was Vice President Agnew? Why wasn't he discharging his Constitutional responsibilities?

"Mr. Agnew's sole Constitutional responsibility, of course, is to preside over the Senate. It's the only job he's got.

"So far this year, the Senate's been in session for a total of 950 hours. But Mr. Agnew has presided for only 15 hours and 40 minutes. That's less than three minutes a day. And for this he gets $62,500 a year....."

Campus Comment

Exaggeration

To The Editor:

Unscrupulous advertising has beguiled the public for many years. A blatant example of this deceptive practice is the ad for the Reading Dynamics course that appeared in a recent edition of the Collegian. In my opnion this ad, as well as Reading Dynamics ads appearing in major newspapers throughout the country, illustrates the height of irresponsible and unethical advertising.

The ad in the Collegian depicts six students who, because they read dynamically, now "have more time for learning and fun." They all "read five to ten times faster than average." Johnny, for example, reads at 2,135 words per minute with 69% comprehension. Dick has 87% comprehension while reading at 2,945 words per minute. Russ is a bit slower; he reads at only 1,815 words per minute but has 98% comprehension. The other three have similar reading rates. These are, we are to infer, satisfied customers of the Reading Dynamics course. But we do not read about the experiences of college students, like the ones reading specialist Martha Maxwell has counseled, who were victims of the course-students whose comprehension skills deteriorated after the course and who struggled to survive academically.

Here are some sample quotes from different ads and from a leaflet that was liberally littered around the University of Massachusetts campus.

"Save 350 hours a semester."

"At 1,000 words per minute, you'll be able to read a text like Hofstadtler's American Political Tradition."

At 3,000 words per minute, you'll be able to read the 447 page novel The Godfather in 1 hour and 4 minutes."

"You'll learn how to increase your reading speed from 3 to 10 times."

A few years ago one ad emphasized how Reading Dynamics changed the lives of its students from failure to financial success.

Let's look at what research has revealed about some of the other claims.

CLAIM: "You'll be able to read between 1,000 and 3,000 words per minute."
RESEARCH: Standford Taylor, who evaluated 41 students in Reading Dynamics course, found the average reading speed of the group to start was 474 words per minute and after the course the average speed was 564.

CLAIM: "You'll learn how to increase your speed from 3 to 10 times with equal or better comprehension and greater recall."
RESEARCH: When Taylor, in the same study mentioned above, asked the students to read "dynamically" they attained averages between 2,000 and 4,000 words per minute, but their comprehension dropped to 49%. William Liddle, who tested 50 graduates of the Reading Dynamics course, found that although students improved their reading rate, "an analysis of the data does not substantiate the claim that these exceptional rates are obtained without a loss of conprehension."

CLAIM: "Dynamic Reading is not skimming."
RESEARCH: After photographing and analyzing the eye movement of the Reading Dynamics students, Taylor concluded that the students demonstrated "patterns that are very similar to those produced during skimming or scanning activities. These patterns are typically a rhythmical and are of the type I have obtained in photographing the skimming activities of various readers." Spache's research showed that when reading is defined as reading faster than 800 to 900 words per minute." He concluded that the speeds quoted in newspaper articles "must be characteristic of such performances as skimming and scanning, in which relatively large portions of the reading material are skipped." Space also cites the work of Miles Tinker who stated that speeds over 800 words per minute is skimming.

CLAIM: "95% of our graduates have improved their reading ability by an average of 4.7 times."
RESEARCH: Maxwell cites Ehrlich's report where he "tested graduates of Reading Dynamics on a page of type-written material and found that they averaged 6,000 words per minute. When he had them re-read the material to make sure they understood it, their average speed dropped to 1700 words per minutes. Ehrlich concedes their speed scores were impressive, but notes that the material he had used consisted of garbled lines from two different magazines." The material was meaningless, but none of the adults realized it!

Since there is a shortage of qualified teachers of adult reading, one might question how Reading Dynamics manages to find instructors for all their courses. One way is to employ graduates of the course. Another way is to offer franchises. For example, an ad in the financial section of the New York Times, Match 1966, offered high profits and personal satisfaction to those who wanted to enter the reading business by purchasing a $500 franchise for the Wood Reading Dynamics method. The qualifications were a "solid educational background, excellent references and adequate operating capital of $15,000 to $25,000." The franchiser also received training in the Wood method and experienced management guidance. Martha Maxwell notes that on occasion commerical reading programs have hired trained specialists, but they are mainly "academic window dressing and rarely remain in the program."

Nationally, the cost for the Reading Dynamics course is $225. But for students in the five college area, the cost is reduced to $175 and then even further reduced to $150 if payment is received in one lump sum. The expense would be worth it if we could, in fact, increase our "reading speed from 3 to 10 times with equal or better comprehension." But where is the carefully controlled research to support this claim?

It should be mentioned that the Reading Dynamics course apparently does produce some measure of reading improvement in their pupils. Research, however, does not substantiate the exaggerated claims quoted in the newpaper ads. Even within the academic marketplace, the caveat emptor principle applies.

Sincerely,
Richard P. Santeusanio
Director, Reading-Study Center
University of Massachusetts

Only Rhetoric

George Wallace says that if a pseudo-intellectual lies down in front of his car it'll be the last car he lies down in front of. But they say it's only rhetoric.

Vietnamization is really working; fewer and fewer of our boys are dying.

Spiro's on the trail again.

Some students are dead at Kent.

Jimi is now fully experienced.

Tim Leary is finally free.

Sihanouk got his.

A grad research assistant at Wisconsin got his.

Angela will get hers.

Frank Zappa tells me, "There's no way to delay that trouble coming every day." I can't get him out of my head.

The boob tube is staring out at me from the corner of the room. Dick Cavett (that Yale-synthesized noncommittal prince of ambivalence) is on. Gypsy Rose Lee is with him. A decadent smile is painted on her all-too-obviously-lifted face. She is saying something about the so-called sexual revolution.

"If kids engage in licentious behavior before marriage, then there is nothing sacred; there is nothing left for marriage."

Her facial expression doesn't match her emotions, but I suppose she doesn't want her makeup to crack.

"Kids don't realize that they're ruining it for themselves. Promiscuity will only lead to regret and tension when they marry. Kids are only ruining morality and themselves."

I opened up the Black Panther today. I read the first two pages, then read the rest without turning the page: "Kill the Pigs!" "Death to the fascists!" But they say its only rhetoric.

Jerry Rubin's on the trail again.

Muhammed Ali is too immoral to box.

The Third World is armed.

The Fourth World is arming.

Laporte got his.

Mary Jo got hers.

Walter Cronkite is wrapping things up on the tube. "And that's how the world is today. Good night."

Kenneth Teixeira '71

Facts?

Dear Assistant Sports Editor:

Were you really at the game Saturday? Were you watching it? If so, you'd better shake the qualifiers out of your biased head. UMass was tied by the Huskies because the Redmen were too generous on offense again. Didn't you notice UMass fumble away the first play after recovering a UConn fumble--right back to UConn on UConn's 28 yard line?? You can't blame that one on the officials. And UMass didn't win because they blew a field goal attempt.

Please, for the sake of journalism, attempt to write a factual account of these games. No one needs to be told the Redmen wanted to win--it's an accepted part of the game.

Sharon Miles '71

The State never intensionally confronts a man's sense, intellectual or moral, but only his body, his senses. It is not armed with superior wit or honesty, but with superior physical strength. I was not born to be forced. I will breathe after my own fashion. Let us see who is the strongest. What force has a multitude? They force me to become like themselves. I do not hear of men being forced to live this way or that by masses of men. What sort of life were that to live? If a plant cannot live according to its nature, it dies: and so a man.

Henry David Thoreau

Damage Done By Who?

To The Editor:

The recent indictments of the "Kent State 25" have activated some do-gooders on campuses across the nation to sponsor rallies to call for the defense of these lawbreakers. To act as though these 25 people have done nothing is absurd. Of those in custody, some of the charges against them are: first and second degree rioting, attempt to commit arson, and interference with a fireman at the scene of a fire. One of those arrested Tuesday had never even attended Kent State. The coed who was arrested Wednesday was charged with interference of a fireman, which grew out of the burning of the ROTC building two days before the National Guardsmen arrived on campus. The rally will call people to the defense of these students. Will it replace the damage done by them? Will it stop more damage in the future? Were these the same helpless students that were shot? The answer to these questions is more than obvious.

ERNIE LOUISON

Students Need The Money

To the Editor:

What's the Union all about?

I paid twenty-seven bucks I didn't have and had to borrow and now, not only myself but some other twenty thousand other students, can only use three floors, the price of a meal in the upper level will probably be outrageous, a lousy beer will probably be upwards of seventy-five cents. Dog Jam it man, I'm on welfare now tryin to get through this place things aren't bad enough, in the old union you can't even buy a lousy englush without havin to pay extra for a piece of butter and some jam. The son-of-a bitchin skin-flint that's runnin this place (the caf) should be bounced out on his ass and the 27 bucks I paid should be utilized in the making of a caf where one can have a little something without paying for every crum that happens to fall on his plate, paper plate. The student body should have a say in who caters to them, the student body should make a buck if one is to be made.

JAMES B ARGENTATI

Art Buchwald

Calling From Where?

WASHINGTON--All Washington is talking about Martha Mitchell. It isn't a question of what she is going to say, as there are no surprises in that any more.

The big question that everyone is wondering about is "From where is she going to make her next telephone call?" As everyone knows, Mrs. Mitchell is always calling the press at some unearthly hour in the night, but she doesn't want her husband John to hear what she's saying.

A month ago, it was revealed she was making her calls from the bathroom. Last week, when she called a UPI reporter, she said she was speaking from the balcony of her Watergate apartment.

No one knows where Martha Mitchell's next call is coming from.

Perhaps I can speculate:

"Hello, is this the United Press? This is Martha Mitchell...I'm calling from my shoe closet and I have to speak fast because my heels are killing me...I just thought you'd like to know what I think of that turncoat, John Lindsay. I think he should be hung by his fingernails...Yes, and that does for Charles Goodell...Ouch! I just sat on a shoe tree...Yes, and they should both be crucified and be thrown out of the Republican Party...Listen, I have to go now...a hat box just fell on me and I think I woke up John. Toodle-oo."

Three days later:

In a whisper. "Hello...Life magazine, this is Martha Mitchell...I'd like to blast Sen. Gore...Can you put me in touch with someone who would be interested?...Thank you...Hello, hello. This is Martha...no, I can't speak louder. I'm calling from under the bed...John doesn't know I had an extension put in under here...He tore out the one I had in the bathroom...It's a tight squeeze under here...I just want to say that Sen. Gore is despicable and I hope the voters of Tennessee see that he never comes back to Washington...Wait a minute, I think I heard John turn over...It's all right now...Gore is a terrible man and..."

A week later:

"Hello operator, get me the Arkansas Gazette...This is Martha Mitchell...No, I'm speaking as loud as I can...We're having a party here and I'm talking from the chandelier...That's right...the chandelier...Of course it's safe...The telephone company would not have put a line in up here if it weren't...I would like to talk to you about that rat William Fulbright...What have the people done about him lately? How can you allow that ghastly man to stay in the Senate? He makes me sick...Oh-oh, the chandelier is starting to swing...Oh dear, it's rocking...I better call you back...! Owwwwwww!

A week later:

"Hello, give me Mike Wallace at CBS...Mike, this is Martha...What do you mean you're getting an echo?....Oh, I know why...I'm speaking in the dumb-waiter at the Watergate...Well it's not very funny, Mike...It's uncomfortable as hell. But John found all my other extensions and I have to call from somewhere... Mike what I called about is I thought you might want to do a program blasting the Supreme Court...Wait a minute, Mike...Someone on the third floor is ringing for the dumb-waiter...

"Oh Mike, Mike, I'm stuck...I can't get out...I'm going down...Oh dear, I'm not certain the extension cord is long enough...Mike, listen, if we get cut off, I think you should do an expose of that awful William Douglas...Now someone on the sixth floor is ringing for the dumb-waiter...I don't know how I'm going to get back to my apartment...Mike, call my cook on the other line and ask her to ring for the dumbwaiter so I can get back to my own apartment. But tell her, for heaven's sakes, not to tell John where I am."

Draft Counselor's Corner

You're Not A Number, You're A Human Being

By GILBERT J. SALK
Staff Reporter

It seems that I've gained something of a reputation as a CO "pusher," a rep I consider something of a compliment. The truth is somewhat different, however, I am extremely partial to the Conscientious Objector position, but I am not rigid about it. I will consider and advise on other deferments.

What I am rigid about is honesty. I will not help anyone manipulate himself through the draft. There are too many ways to keep yourself honest and manipulate the draft for that to be necessary.

We are manipulated by nearly everything with which we come in contact. The educational system teaches us to put our thoughts into terms and theories which fit and preferences of our teachers. Our jobs will tell us how to dress and cut our hair, what to buy, where to live, and what kind of car to drive. The draft tries to channel us into certain occupations. The list is endless.

For most of us, the first chance we have to taste anything like freedom and to demand that the systems deal with us as individuals instead of numbers, is the draft. We have it in our power to demand that the machine come to a full stop and listen to what we have to say. If we are opposed to war, we can say so directly to some of the warmakers. We can demand that they listen to and respond to our feelings. We can tie them up at the local level, the state level, and in the courts. We can make them deal with our real physical problems, our emotional dependencies, our financial hardships.

At no time is it necessary to depart from the truth about ourselves in order to get what we want. They have to deal with us. Stop. Me. No numbers. No IBM cards. No long assembly lines. Me. Not an average. Not an expediency. Not a compromise. Me. Not a cop-out. Not a hustle. No games. Stop, you crazy people. This is ME. And you've got to take the time to deal with it. I've bent, folded, stapled, AND mutilated your program card, and you've got to pull it and read--really read--the attached living human being.

Think about it. It might feel good to try dealing with an institution that way instead of letting it call your shots for you. You've been taught all your life to manipulate, evade, conform, do it the easy way. Now you can jump off that wagon, pick your own path, and force the system to move over for you.

Granted, it's just a little step, but what a great feeling. And if you do it once, maybe you can do it again. If you start expecting it, you start demanding it. That's the first step to breaking out of the rat-race.

Peace

Questions to this column should be addressed to: Gilbert J. Salk, c/o Draft Counseling Services RSO #396, Campus Center, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.
Free personal draft counseling available. Draft Counseling Services, 418E Student Union 2nd floor

Noted Editor To Reveal Bare Facts On Population Explosion Tonight

Garrett DeBell of San Francisco, editor of the Environmental Handbook, will speak on "The Population Explosion" tonight at 8 p.m. in Mahar Auditorium, in the second of the Distinguished Ecologists Lecture Series sponsored by the Coalition for Environmental Quality (CEQ) and other cooperating campus groups.

A graduate of Stanford University and a Ph. D. candidate at the University of California at Berkeley, DeBell has taught interdisciplinary courses at the Berkeley Ecology Center. For Earth Day he edited the bestselling "Environmental Handbook" which was published under the auspices of Ballantine/Friends of the Earth.

He has also edited "The Voter's Guide to Environmental Politics." Earlier this year DeBell was a Washington lobbyist for Zero Population Growth (ZPG). He is currently working on a revised edition of "The Environmental Handbook."

The lecture is open to the public free of charge. DeBell will also speak on "The Ecological Crisis in Perspective" at a coffee hour earlier the same day in the Colonial Lounge in the Student Union. The coffee hour, which begins at 3 p.m., is open to students, faculty and staff members of the Five College area.

GARRETT DeBELL

Vegetarian Shop Opening Soon

A student-owned and operated vegetarian restaurant named The Noodle opens Friday, November 6, in the Suffolk room of the Student Union. It will be open from 5:30 to 11 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

Under the auspices of the Campus Center Planning Council, The Noodle has obtained approval and funds as a special student project.

Restaurant organizers are asking for donations of kitchen equipment and ideas in interior decoration from the student body. The Noodle needs cast iron pans and kettles, pressure cookers, a juicer, air tight containers, a crepe plate, apple peelers, choppers, and old dishes, bowls, and cups. Organizers also need help in making the Suffolk room more beautiful room for dining. For more information, call Demian 549-1655.

WMUA Goes Feature

Tonight WMUA's Public Affairs programming features three programs of interest. At 6:30 p.m. Dick Poholek of WMUA talks with Tom Sellers and Tom Spriggs of the Student Senate Committee on Academic Affairs about Teacher Evaluation and the other activities of the committee. At 7:30 p.m. an hour long tape recording from the Young Socialist Alliance will present the important issues that face the Alliance today. At 8:30 p.m. Bob Hancock's "Bucket of Blues" will study the Blues Harp, considering the many blues harp musicians that have been recorded. Jay Ballard follows at 9:30 p.m. with "A Jazz Show", all on WMUA, 91.1 FM.

Notaries Public Listed

The following Notaries Public can be contacted if you wish to have your ballot notarized:

Mr. Jake Bishop	Room 337, Whitmore
Mrs. Doris A. Dee	Room 232, Whitmore
Mr. Ward M. Hunting	Room 340, Chenoweth Lab
Mr. William H. Moss	Room 329, Whitmore
Mr. Sidney Myers	Room 324, Whitmore
Mr. Donald J. Pelkey	Room 247, Whitmore
Mr. Francis J. Teahan	Room 337, Whitmore
Mr. John C. Marchant	Physical Plant
Mr. Daniel H. Schwartz	Campus Security, Security Bldg.
Mr. James Cooper	Room 301, Whitmore
Mr. Robert Garstka	Room 301, Whitmore
Mr. John De Nyse	Room 301, Whitmore
Mrs. Pauline Ashby	School of Education

CALL TO ACTION
OCTOBER 31

This boy was 6 years old when the Vietnam war started.

Seems like only yesterday,
doesn't it?
When there wasn't an endless war.
When a lot of kids were young.
And alive.
When a 6-year-old boy's chances of dying in Vietnam were remote.
Think about it.
We've been getting out of Vietnam for years now.
Isn't it about time we got out?
Let's not sacrifice another American life for a war we've already abandoned.
Let's not put off until tomorrow
what's costing lives today.

DEMONSTRATE OCT. 31

COME TO THE AMHERST COMMONS

Jose, Blues Image To Help Highlight Homecoming

The Friday night concerts of Homecoming '70 will feature Jose Feliciano and a relatively new group, the Blues Image.

For music aficiandos, Jose needs no introduction. He has been acclaimed by critics as "the first contemporary artist of our time" and his distinctive style is recognized by all.

The Blues Image hails from Tampa, Florida, and has been described as having a Latin flavor to their style. The feeling projected is blues yet it is permeated by a Latin beat. Conga drums, maracas, claveis, added to the organ and the bass give this groups a new and unusual sound.

Tickets for the Friday Nov. 13 concert cost $3.00. There will be two shows-one at 7:00 p.m. and another at 10:00 p.m.

THE BLUES IMAGE. Coming out of Tampa, Florida, the Blues Image is a new group which weds a Latin beat with the blues. Members of the group are: Malcolm Jones, Mike Pinera, Manuel Bertematti, Joe Lala, and Skip Konte.

JOSE FELICIANO will appear in concert in Curry Hicks Cage at 7 and 10, Friday, Nov. 13. Tickets cost $3.00.

PUMPKINS
All Shapes, Sizes and Prices
10 A.M. - 4 P.M.
EACH DAY 'TIL HALLOWEEN
Lobby of Student Union

MESSAGE TO BLACK
MEN and WOMEN
THE BLACK AFFAIRS COUNCIL
NEEDS NEW BROTHERS AND SISTERS.
If you have a desire to help in the overall improvement of our college experience, and our life as such, consider joining.
For information call:
6-7166, 6-7138 or 6-7136

CANADA:
NEIGHBOR or NUISANCE
J. M. S. CARELESS
from the
University of Toronto
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 28
8:15 p.m.
Thompson 106
Sponsored by
The Distinguished Visitors' Program

MDC Book Review

Sugar And Spice And Everything Nice

By ROBERT NESTI
Fine Arts Staff

Editor's Note--The following is an MDC book review of two recent best-sellers, Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Sex...But Were Afraid To Ask by David Heuben, M.D. and The Sensous Woman by "J".

There is a famous story involving a psychologist giving a lecture at a large, Midwestern university. He looked up from his notes and noticed a girl knitting in the back of the hall, and then paused to inform the girl that knitting is symbolic of masturbation. After the laughter subsided, the girl cooly told the doctor, "When I knit, I knit. When I masturbate, I masturbate."

I am reminded of this girl's common sense upon reading these two phenomonally successful best-sellers for, although both were entertaining, I don't put much faith in either of them.

Dr. Reuben is a genuinely witty writer, yet in the same manner that Spiro Agnew is a wit. Reuben is something of the Agnew of sexologists and his silent (well, except for some groans and moans) majority enjoys the good doctor's prejudices as much as hard hats supposedly enjoy Agnew.

If this were fiction, or a joke, it could be appreciated. Unfortunately Dr. Reuben is serious and he makes me squirm almost as much as the Vice President, for throughout his book opinions are passed off as facts and prejudices as truths. Here's a statistic for you: "seventy to eighty percent of Americans engage in fellatio and cunnilingus." Now where does the good doctor get this figure? He never tells us, all which made me curious if he had another such fact to the conclusion that the other twenty percent who did not indulge in such oral exercises had fewer cavities.

Worse, though, are his prejudices, which I am sure Middle Americans read with pleasure as many of their own moralistic sexual concepts are neatly reinforced. Reuben is essentially a "hip" preacher telling all these mini-skirted Victorians how, today, anything goes in an "acceptable" penis-vagina relationship, but anything else--yup, you knew it all along--is lurid and perverted.

Prostitutes are "never happy". Moreover (and you thought this didn't you), "they all have at least one thing in common--they hate men." And, sounding right out of the Bible Belt, Reuben informs us that Jackie Susanne didn't tell us, that "the majority of prostitutes are female homosexuals in their private lives." A fact, right? And even "proper" people do not escape the venom of Dr. Reuben's pen. He rather cutely maintains "blind girls become particularly adept at secret masturbation." Something easily proven, I guess, and very noble of the man to point out.

He can be informative though--consider consumer goods. I never realized before just how clever homosexuals are with light bulbs. And as far as a good contraceptive, well the Real Thing is "the best douche available." And, of course Coke in the "six-ounce bottle is just the right size for one application." I can see where we do "come alive" in the Pepsi Generation.

Okay now you--with Dr. Reuben's help--are having a simply grand time in penis-vagina land, but girls, now how do you keep his eyes from checking out all those little holes here, there, and everywhere. Don't fret, just get up six dollars and buy "The Sensuous Woman" by "J". Another revelation, the way to a man's heart is....well, not through his stomach anymore. But good cooks, don't fret, there are many other uses of food. Take cream-of-wheat, have a mouthful and surprise him...it should keep him coming back for more...no pun intended.

Now if you have finished off your Harold Robbins collection and find the hard-core stuff a bit too rich, then read these books, I am sure you will be entertained. And as The Valley Of The Dolls taught you a great deal about medicine, so these books will about sex.

ROOM TO MOVE
Campus Drug
Drop-In Center
CALL 5-0400
24 HOURS A DAY
7 DAYS A WEEK

Notices

ANGELS FLIGHT
Tonight the pledges will meet at 7 p.m. in room 808 of the Student Center. A general meeting will be held at 9 p.m. in room 808 of the Student Center. All Angels are required to attend.

ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY
Tonight the pledges will meet at 7 p.m. in room 808 of the Student Center. A general AAS meeting will be held at 9 p.m. in room 808 of the Student Center. Attendance is mandatory.

CENTRAL AREA RESIDENTS
Academic Affairs is holding an open meeting in Hills Lounge tonight, Tuesday, Oct. 27th. at 7:00 p.m.

COMMITTEE ON POVERTY
Important meeting to be held, Tuesday, Oct. 27th. at 6:00 p.m. George Washington Tower fifth floor lounge.

CUSP-PSYCH COUNCIL
Meeting, Tuesday, Oct. 27th. at 8 p.m. in Room 121 Bartlett. Discussion about office, etc...maybe a surprise guest.

DELS (CEQ)
Come tonight to hear Garrett De Bell editor of Environmental Handbook speak on "The Population Explosion" at 8:00 p.m. in Mahar Auditorium.
Attend coffee hour for Garrett DeBell in Colonial Lounge, S.U. at 3:00 today. Topic is "The Ecological Crisis in Perspective." Open to students, faculty, 5-college area.

DEUSTCHE UNDERGRADUATE STUDEUTEL
Meeting Tuesday night, Oct. 27th. at 8:00 to discuss new business. All welcome.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
There will be a meeting on Tuesday night at 6:30 in room 162 Campus Center. The Executive Board will meet at 6:00 p.m. in room 168 Campus Center.

INTERGROL YOGA INSTITUTE
There will be an open class in Hatha Yoga, chanting and meditation, 5:30 to 7:00 p.m. in the new Campus Center, room 904-908. Please bring a towel, empty stomach and wear loose-fitting clothing.

MATH JUNIOR COLL
This week's talk is "But You Can't Get There, Fromlere" or "The Problem of Maps and Things," by Harry Joiner. October 27, 1970. Arnold House, 3:30 p.m.

MATH MAJOR
Anyone interested in serving on the personnel, curriculum, or grievance committees, leave your name with the Math Office in Arnold before 5:00 p.m. today.

NAIADS
Meeting tonight at WOPE pool, 4:30 - 6:00 p.m., bring suits.

NEWMAN CLUB
Film and discussion on The Supper, lead by Fr. Robert Hanlon, S.J., at 7:30, Newman Center social lounge, Oct. 27th. All welcome.

ORGANIZATION OF ARAB STUDENTS
Abu Samer from the Palestine Liberation Movement will speak on "The Palestinian Revolution" on Tuesday, Oct. 27th. at 8:00 p.m. in the Council Chambers, Room (2nd floor), of the Student Union.

PRE-LAW STUDENTS
Case Western Reserve, Oct. 27th. 9:30-11:30
Albany Law School, Oct. 28th. 11:00 - 3:00.
All Law Schools will be at UMass during the above times and dates. Call Mrs. Fournier at 545-2614 if you have any questions.

PSYCH 305, HISTORY AND SYSTEMS
Professor Krekhaus urges all students to attend Psych 305 on Wednesday, November 4th for a very important class. Especially to come are those who have not attended all semester.

RAFI
RAFI members and others interested in forming a study group on Socialist-Zionism (Herzl, Hess, Buber, Syrkin, Borochov, Achadha'am, etc.) call Jim at 6-0396.

SOUTHWEST (AND PROJECT 10) FILM GROUP
Organizational meeting. Students from anywhere on campus interested in seeing, ordering, or making films are invited. Wednesday, 3:30 p.m., Pierpont main lounge, SW.

SPANISH CLUB
Spanish Table meets for dinner from 5-6 p.m. in Hampshire Commons. All who enjoy speaking in Spanish are welcome.

STUDENT MOBE
Expanded steering committee preparations and final planning for Oct. 31st. SMC Office 8 p.m.

UNIVERSITY HEALTH SERVICE
The University Health Service bus leaves the Kennedy Tower for the Infirmary at 8:15, 8:45, 9:15, 9:45, 10:15, 10:45 a.m. and 1:15, 1:45, 2:15, 2:45, 3:15 and 3:45 p.m. on Monday through Friday.
Infirmary hours are 8-12; 1-5:00, Monday through Friday. Urgent problems only on Saturday from 8 - 11:30. Emergency help is available at all times.

UMASS FOR SARGENT/DWIGHT
Thanks for the two bus loads that went to Springfield Sunday, next weekend Easthampton, postcards will follow.

MRS. WHAPLES CLASS, MUSIC 101
Will meet today at Berkshire Clubroom.

LOST
8 piece sterling silver puzzle ring. Sentimental value. Please call 323-6968, if found.
Lost brown wallet; identification, Stephen Fisher, urgently needed. If found call 6-6823, ask for Steve.
Wallet lost out of my purse in Worcester Dinning Commons girls room, please return to the Student Union lost and found. No questions will be asked.
Lost black puppy, white boots and chest w/brown tea collar (tuner heartbroken. Call 546-5170 or 546-3169.
Lost in Bartlett 203, English 312 notebook Friday. Desperately needed for Wednesday exam. Please call Ron, 6-8751 or return to 1109 John Adams.
Gold Kappa Delta Phi Fraternity pin. If found call Joyce 546-7369.
A copper key with label 85-B on the top. If found please call 549-6385 and ask for Joan.
A watch in central area, engraved with the date 8-22-69. Contact Mal 6-6324.

FOUND
Black and white speckled dog, part setter, part Dalmatian, near Campus Center. Call 549-0811.

No notice may exceed twenty-five words.

Deadline for notices is 2:00 P.M. on the preceding day.

There is a one day maximum for all notices.

Pinnings and engagements will appear on Fridays.

U.N.I.C.E.F.
Needs Your Help
To Canvas The Campus
Volunteers can sign up and obtain information all week at the UNICEF Information Table in the Student Union lobby.
Contributions will also be accepted at the table.

MDC
NEWS HOTLINE
5-2550

HALLOWEEN CARDS
THREE C'S
Friendship Center
191 NORTH PLEASANT ST.
AMHERST
253-9306

FIVE COLLEGE STUDENT HOMOPHILE LEAGUE is having its fourth meeting COME meet people talk to pleople
learn from people respond to people
All interested call
Jerry — 586-1602
Kathy — 665-2833

You are cordially invited to attend a lecture on
"THE PALESTINIAN REVOLUTION"
SPEAKER: ABU-SAMER
From the Palestine Liberation Movement
TIME: Tuesday, Oct. 27th — 8 p.m.
PLACE: Council Chambers, 2nd Floor, Student Union
SPONSORED BY: Organization of Arab Students and Solidarity Committee with the Palestinian People

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

1967 Rambler, good condition, 665-3072, ask for Nancy. tf10-26

Pioneer, Teac, Garrard, PE Aztec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, LPs, 8 track and other necessities. Amherst Audio. tf10-23

8-Track Stereo Tape Cartridges 80 minute, two album tapes. Your choice $5.00, call Eliot at 665-2665 or Happy at 253-5400. Now get total music enjoyment at half the store price. tf10-27

1 Pr Head G. S. Compe, 1 hand carved chess set, 1 Prefile ski parkas, 1 pr. ski poles 55". Call Dave 421 Brett 546-6292. 10-23-26-27

Puppies — Alaskan Malamute Sled Dogs, excellent pedigree, ideal pets. Call Greenfield 773-8411 after 5:30 p.m. tf10-30

FOR SALE — AUTOS

Chassic 68 Barracuda 340, auto., P.S., radio, polyglass. Call eves. 549-6347. 10-19-23-27-29

1970 Triumph Tiger 650 Motorcycle, 4 months old, maintained well, 3000 miles, excellent condition. Call Kevin 549-6136. tf10-27

1963 Ford Galaxy, $250 or best offer. Call after 3:30, 253-7159. tf10-23-30

63 Chevy Impala, 3 speed shift. Good running condition. Must sell. Call after 4 o'clock 549-6648. 10-26-27-28

62 Valiant, runs excellent. New tires, battery, brakes $75 or best offer 665-3923, 21 Squire Village, Sunderland. 10-26-27

1966 Austin Healy Sprite convert. Must sell to pay hospital bills, $500 or best offer. Carole 247-8758. 10-26-27-28

67 Ford Falcon, rebuilt engine, good tires, needs battery and body is rough. $50 or best offer. 323-6678. 10-26-27

65 Chrysler 383 or best offer, good running condition. Ph. 253-7118. tf10-29

1967 Rambler, good condition, 665-3072, ask for Nancy. tf10-26

Rambler 770, 1965 326 8 cyl., 4 barrel, 43500 miles, recent new brakes, hacks, carb., runs real good. Call Bob at Sig Ep. Bob Nurent, 545-0070. tf10-30

WANTED

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthology. Please include stamped return envelope. Idlewild Press, 1807 East Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

SERVICES

Will type and/or revise any written material. Also do personalized resumes for schools, jobs. Professional, fast, reasonably priced service. Call 584-6817, eves. Keep trying. tf11-6

From Spain: Sanchis, Ofimex, Enrique, etc., etc., Guitars, Lands, Bandorrian, Mandolins and cases. Creative Endeavor, 29-22 Miles St., Greenfield. 413-774-2831. tf10-27

Musical instruments from around the world at discount prices. Guitars a specialty. Creative Endeavor (The Music Store), 29-22 Miles St., Greenfield. 413-774-2831. tf 10-27

YOUR PRICE for your used musical instrument in our consignment sales department. For information call: 413-774-2831, Creative Endeavor, 29-22 Miles Street, Greenfield. tf10-27

Judy Collins, Joni Mitchell, Johnny Cash, etc., etc. Music books plus a complete ordering service. Creative Endeavor, 29-22 Miles St., Greenfield. 413-774-2831. tf10-27

Music lessons, instruments (new and used, imported and domestic), and repairs, etc. at reasonable prices. Creative Endeavor, 29-22 Miles Street, Greenfield. 413-774-2831. tf10-27

Computer Science Tutoring and Programming available. Call Al 256-6298. 10-23-30

Portraits - Charcoal or Pastels done from your favorite photo, any size, satisfaction guaranteed. Charcoal $10.00, Pastel $15.00. Perfect gift. Call Sheila 549-6910. 10-26-27

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car. 107 No. Pleasant St. 256-8133. tf12-23

FOR RENT

2 bedrm. apt. in Sunderland, available at week in Nov. Big kitchen, living room, and attic for storage. Rent $100/mo. plus heat and elec. Call 665-3005 evenings or anytime weekends. tf10-30

Sub Let 1 bedroom apt. All utilities incl. $135. Call 665-3107 after 5 p.m. 10-26-27-28

4 Room house for rent unfurnished. Couples only, no pets. Rt. 9, Belchertown, just 10 minutes from University. Contact Albert Fiste 323-7402. tf10-26-30

LECTURE SERIES

Opening October 31, 1970, School of Psychoraphicology, Free lecture by Manory O'Connell, originator of the study, at Hotel Northampton. Time: 7:30 p.m. tf10-30

RIDE WANTED

To and from Burlington, Vt., or vicinity, leaving anytime this weekend Oct. 30. I'll pay you a lot. Call Marianne at 256-6715. 10-26-27

Ride wanted to Washington, D.C. or as far as Maryland. Leave Friday. Call Wendy in Northampton at 584-6877. 10-17

ROOMMATES WANTED

Female roommate wanted, own room, great place with lots of trees. Call Sue 323-7111. Also place for a guy. Call same. 10-26-27

1 or 2 roommates for large house in South Hadley. Own room. Call 6-5280, ask for Jean. tf10-29

PERSONAL

Will the person who stole my suede jacket from Dining Commons No. 7 with the name tag in it, please turn my glasses which were in the pocket to the Dr. O. Lost and Found. I need them to study. 10-27

Fall Baseball Wrap-up . . .

UMass '9' Loses Only To Dartmouth

By BRONA SIMON
Staff Reporter

Splitting a doubleheader with Dartmouth College, last year's finalized UMass baseball's fall practice season last week at eight wins, one loss and two ties.

The only Redman loss, to Dartmouth, was a close 1-0 game.

"This year we've had the most successful fall season ever," remarked coach Dick Bergquist. "Good weather permitted us to view all the candidates at length and choose the tentative rosters for spring training."

A great number of players put on impressive performances, as indicated in the team's almost perfect record. It was certainly difficult to narrow down the 128 men who went out to 25 probable varsity and 34 probable junior varsity members.

Because of the new ruling allowing freshmen to play varsity baseball, seven frosh have been invited to spring play.

Coach Bergquist expressed optimism about his pitchers, in particular, junior Tom King, who had arm trouble last year, senior Jack Bernardo, sophomore Tom White and 6'5" left handed freshman John Olson.

Junior Kerry Daly, sophomore Bill Ryan and frosh Ed Hamel and Tom McDermott will have to battle among themselves for the catching position.

The infield is the most unpredictable situation. Senior Jack Conroy's fall play has named him probable third baseman. Jim Saracino, a junior, has improved at shortstop, but will find competition there from promising freshman Ed McMahon.

Veteran Hosea Kelly was injured in play this fall, but will play in the spring, so sophomore Dan Kelly and freshman Ken Brewer saw a lot of action at second base. First base is questionable between two sophomores. A usual third baseman, Mark Palau, will be given a try at first to compete with Dan Esposito.

"We're looking forward to a very successful baseball season," predicted Bergquist. "We have a great deal of ability plus enthusiasm from a very young team."

sPorts ShorTiEs

— AP —

ATLANTA (AP) - Muhammad Ali weighed 213 1/2 pounds - a 16 pound advantage - but failed to get the traditional eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation at weigh-in ceremonies for his Monday night comeback fight against Jerry Quarry that has sparked interest around the world.

"They asked me to pose with him and I said 'no,' " said Quarry, the angry Irishman who hit the scales first and pushed the finger to 197 1/2 pounds. "The next time I see this guy it will be on the other end of this." He brandished a right fist.

Ali appearing calm and relaxed for the scheduled 15-rounder and trimmed down to within two pounds of his last competitive engagement 3 1/2 years ago, shrugged off the affront.

"I'm glad," said Ali. "I'm not fooling, either."

* * * * *

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Spencer Haywood, suspended star of the Denver Rockets basketball team, said yesterday he wants his reported six-year, $1.9 million contract clarified.

Haywood, his injured hand in a cast, appeared at a news conference with his attorney, Al Ross, and denied reports he was asking a boost in his contract terms.

Sports Notices

INTRAMURAL BOWLING-All bowling teams entered in the intramural tournament may have a practice on either this evening or Wednesday evening from 6:30 to 8:30 or 8:30 to 10:30. Teams must sign up with the bowling alley manager to reserve a lane.

* * * * *

TRUCKS WANTED-The UMass crew team is looking for male freshmen, at least 6'1 and 185 pounds, with good coordination and previous experience in some sport. Willingness to work hard and the desire to compete successfully are also pre-requisites as frosh coach Kurt Betchick needs members for UMass' 1071 freshman crew. Those interested should inquire at the crew office, 211 Boyden or phone 5-2801 during the day and 253-3576 at night after 9.

* * * * *

QUARTERBACK CLUB-The seventh, of 11 weekly UMass Redmen Quarterback Club Luncheons, will be held at the Newman Center on Wednesday, Oct. 28 at 12:15, to let out promptly at 1:15. A film of the UMass-Connecticut game will be shown. Also featured will be the awards for the offensive and defensive players of the week, a scouting report on Vermont (UMass' next opponent), a door prize and a raffle of choice game tickets.

* * * * *

INTRAMURAL OFFICIATING-Anyone interested in officiating intramural basketball for the 1970 season please sign up in the intramural office, 215 Boyden.

* * * * *

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL-UMass' freshman football team traveled to the University of Rhode Island yesterday for a game against the URI frosh. The 0-2 UMass team was seeking its first victory. How it fared will appear in tomorrow's sports page.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

Astrology, like music and mathematics, is a universal language. Wherever you are in the world, people identify with their birth dates or sodiacal signs. Persons who go most places in the world are apt to be born under Gemini, Virgo and Sagittarius.

ARIES (April 21 - April 19): Activity centers on legal matters, partnerships, ability to accept and cope with opposing views. Gather facts, strengthen position. Refuse to be intimidated by one who makes threats.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Observe rules, safety regulations. Remember diet. Concentrate on guarding what is most precious? your health. Follow through on hunch. You are able to see unusual side of one close to you.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Romance is accented. Your creative urges soar to forefront. Those who may have appeared indifferent display affection. Change routine. Fine for dining out with stimulating companion.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Many of your natural talents, abilities are recognized and put to us. Be aware of details. There are some roadblocks, but you overcome them. Take conservative courses.

LEO (July 23 - Aug 22): Avoid excess speed. Don't write letters while upset, angry. Sharp words could alienate neighbors, relatives. Good for putting ideas to work. You can get project off ground. Keep appointments.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Money, possessions — these are activated. Consult family member. Impulse purchase or sale could create dissent. Realize this and act accordingly. One close to you confides financial problem.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Cooperate rather than fight. Applies specifically to mate, partner or attorney. You may not be seeing things too clearly. Permit expert to offer informed guidance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): What was secret, now is revealed. Your work methods come under scrutiny. Be prepared to defend yourself. Sometimes you are going too fast. They may be partly correct.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Some friends may appear overly aggressive. Don't compound error. Listen and evaluate. A child who makes demands should be dealt with fairly but firmly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Decision affecting home, career should be put into action. Stress independence, exude confidence. Creative endeavors succeed. Take the lead. You are going to be a winner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Travel is emphasized. Ideas are put to test. Read and write. Gain knowledge if you are perceptive. Detect hidden things. Co-operate with Aries individual.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Interest in unorthodox subjects is accented. Be flexible. You may change your mind about financial project. This is all to the good. You cannot stand still and go forward at same time.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a humanitarian, willing to aid those who experience difficulties. You are going to embark on satisfying, new and different project.

Copyright 1970, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Frosh Booters Face Trinity

By STEVE FERBER
Staff Reporter

This afternoon at 2:30 the Little Redman soccermen travel to Trinity in quest of their fourth victory. As they look forward to their fifth consecutive game without a loss, the freshmen are hoping to produce more of the scoring power that they displayed against UConn last week.

The defense, which has been impressive throughout, had a new addition last week in the person of Noel Anderson, said coach Jekanowski. "Noel did an excellent job for us, especially since it was his first game as a fullback. He had been playing at a forward position earlier in the season."

Another switch that has been significant deals with Bruce Sibson has been playing the front lines he has scored four goals, trying him for the club lead with Mark Tyma, the center halfback. Mike Nugent has been the other offensive spark, as he has tallied two times.

The Little Redmen have had their two toughest contests away from the fields of Boyden, and if away contests have any pattern, the freshmen are going to be in for a rough afternoon. But if the frosh maintain their high level of play, they'll be no stopping them.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

A	D	S	■	B	R	I	N	E	■	T	A	G
S	O	T	■	E	I	D	E	R	■	A	R	A
P	R	O	W	L	S	■	W	I	S	H	E	S
■	■	■	R	I	T	E	S	■	S	A	L	■
G	U	E	S	S	■	S	I	N	■	P	T	A	M
A	L	L	■	S	L	E	■	R	I	P	■	I	D	A
I	N	■	D	A	M	■	P	A	S	■	E	R
L	E	D	■	T	A	P	■	L	I	S	L	E
Y	S	E	R	■	D	I	D	■	T	E	E	S
■	■	P	E	S	■	N	O	T	E	S	■	■
S	T	A	P	L	E	■	N	E	S	T	L	E
E	A	R	■	A	R	I	E	S	■	E	E	L
A	N	T	■	M	A	T	E	S	■	T	A	M

27

Across
1 Dirk
5 Lasting
6 Sun god
7 Limb
8 Former Russian ruler
9 Lasso
10 Poem
11 Bushy clump
16 Spread for drying
18 Repulse
20 Pronoun
22 Strikes
23 Vital organ
25 Country of South America
27 Fork prongs
28 Frighten
30 Female sheep
31 Long, slender fish
33 Essence
37 Weirder
38 Underworld god
39 Courteous
42 Communist
44 Spouse
46 Finishes
47 Oltspring
48 In favor of
49 Small bird
51 Exist
52 Nothing
55 Printer's measure

1 Church bench
4 European herring
9 Parcel of land
12 Mucow
13 Approaches
14 Fuss
15 Season of year
17 Delayed
19 Abounds
21 Unit of Portuguese currency
22 Lean to
24 Exclamation
26 Strokes
29 Conducted
30 Vigorous
32 Cooled lava
33 Reverence
34 Female (colloq.)
35 A continent (abbr.)
36 Claimant to a throne
39 Through
40 Let it stand
41 Metal
42 Flower
43 Uncooked
45 Metal
47 Enthusiasm
50 Native American
53 Native metal
54 Demon
56 Prefix: three
57 Conjunction
58 Small stoves
59 Slippery fish

DOWN
1 Animal's foot
2 Silkworm
3 Needed

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 27

UMass Crew Shells Take 3rd and 9th In Regatta

By BRONA SIMON
Staff Reporter

BOSTON-Perfect rowing weather, very cloudy, very blustery, and a strong tailwind greeted the UMass Crew Club Sunday in the sixth annual Head-of-theCharles Regatta. General all-around spirits of the team were high after the impressive Junior Eights' third place and Senior Eights' ninth place finishes in the largest single-day regatta in the world.

Because there were 13 events and 245 participating boats, each crew was timed on the three-mile course, that is, the race was against the clock rather than against other boats.

The Junior boat finished in 16 minutes, 15 seconds, winning a bronze medal behind first place Marist College at 16:00.1, and second place Mt. Hermon, a prep school, at 16:10.8. There was a marked improvement over last year's fifth position, out of the same number, 33, of teams.

The line-up of the Junior shell was:

Bow	Paul Winchell	sophomore
2	Mel Streim	sophomore
3	Joe Piela	sophomore
4	Al Flanders	sophomore
5	Bill Moran	sophomore
6	Jeff Allen	sophomore
7	Clay Morin	sophomore
8	Rick Jones	junior
Cox	Bob Jayes	junior

Third place is quite commendable for a team of seven sophomores and only one junior. The style of their rowing together proved that the line-up was well chosen. There was perfect balance, with each member of the crew putting his oar in the water at the same time, especially evident at the beginning of the race when passing Yale and rowing the course with Rutgers, both of which started before UMass.

In the Seniors' division, competition was considerably tougher, from perennially strong teams made up of national champions and Olympic finalists among the 16 starters.

Seated in the UMass Senior boat were:

Bow	Dave Richard	senior
2	Tom Mone	senior
3	Bob Weimer	junior
4	Kevin O'Brien	junior
5	Jack Appel	junior
6	Ted Fitzpatrick	sophomore
7	Doug Thompson	sophomore
8	Charles Leonard	senior
Cox	Chris Jedry	senior

Finish-line time for the Seniors was 15:55.2. A span of 28 seconds separated UMass from Northeastern University's first place 15:27.6, which beat out the Union Boat Club by a tenth of a second.

UMass' time was 55 seconds faster than its previous run on the Charles course, indicating a very smooth race: oars were clean coming out of the water.

Considering the fact that the Senior crew had only been rowing together in practices since Thursday, and that they had no experience with the winding course, the team rowed a fine race, beating the well-known Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia. Stroking was very strong on the straight aways, as unofficial timing showed UMass time the same as the leading boats, but seconds were lost on the sharp turns.

Undoubtedly, UMass finished in the top ten clubs in the "overall" tabulation. Both of the eights finished under 16:15, a feat no other clubs accomplished, thus showing the great depth of the UMass crews.

Coach Mike Faherty was very pleased with the outcome of the day.

"We've got a very young team. The outlook for the spring season is very good." Faherty explained. "The kids are very enthusiastic, certainly strong, and have a good competitive attitude."

OARSMEN AND COACH-UMass' co-captains Tom Mone (left in left photo) and Dave Richard are shown as they prepare for the Senior race in Sunday's Head-of-the-Charles Regatta. In the right photo is Mike Faherty, UMass crew coach. (MDC photos by Brona Simon)

PSD In IM Finals

Fraternity champion Phi Sigma Delta rolled over Team, the Independent champ, 36-7, to give the Greeks the right to play the Hamlin Pied Pipers tonight for the intramural touch football campus championship. Game time for that one will be 7, on IM field 3.

In the opening moments of last night's game, Team's quartertack Rettalich was put out of the game, and it seemed as though Team's offense never recovered.

On Team's first play after the mishap, Bob Sprague of the tough Phi Sigma defense intercepted and turned the ball over to Tony Lauria, who ran 50 yards for a touchdown on Phi Sig's first offensive play.

This was the story of the game as the Greeks' offense and defense completely overpowered the Independent champs.

Lauria threw two touchdown passes, to Bob Littleton and Jeff Lewis, and one to big blocking back Tony Riddle, to account for the Greeks' scoring. They failed to score on every conversion attempt.

Team's offense seemed to move in spurts as it would threaten, but never actually hit paydirt. Finally, in the second half, Jeff Oppenheimer caught a touchdown pass for Team's only score. Team made one point on the conversion.

Phi Sigma's defense looked very tough as it had a good rush and a quick secondary. Sprague had two interceptions and Steve Schneid and Brian Chandler had one each.

Intramurals

TUG-O-WAR
KS 2, PMD 1
Pied Pipers 2, Seagram 6's 0
3 M's 2, BX 0
Bulldogs and Dildoughs, df
PSD over SPE, wbf
Redwoods over Panthers, wbf

TONIGHT'S INTRAMURALS
TUG-O-WAR
8:15—Pied Pipers vs. 3 M's

ATLANTA (AP) -Muhammed Ali, coming back from 3 1/2 years of idleness and frustration, battered young Jerry Quarry into a bloody mess last night and won a third-round knockout victory that sent him again in pursuit of the heavyweight championship he has never lost.

IM Meeting

INTRAMURAL MEETING - A compulsory meeting for all paid officials of intramural basketball will be held in room 17 of Boyden on Wed., Oct. 28 at 6:30 p.m.

Soccermen Host Strong WPI Today

By EDWARD DOHERTY
Staff Reporter

When the Worcester Polytechnical Institute soccer team arrives at UMass today for a 2 p.m. match, its goal will be to leave Amherst as the team that dropped the Redmen from the ranks of the unbeaten.

Thus far this season six fine soccer teams have tried to upset the Big Red machine, but only one school, the University of Rhode Island, came close, holding the booters to a scoreless tie. Otherwise the Redmen have been unstoppable.

Reviewing the season so far, coach Peter Broaca's team scored a 5-1 victory in its opener against present Yankee Conference co-leader Maine. It backed up that performance with a 3-0 whitewash at Boston College.

These two victories propelled the soccermen into the top ten ratings in New England for the first time ever. When the Redmen thumped eighth-ranked UConn, 5-3, for their third triumph, they moved all the way up to the fourth position, where they have remained ever since.

In fact the Redman booters have not been scored upon since the Connecticut game, posting three straight shutouts: 2-0 over Trinity College, 0-0 versus Rhode Island and last week's 5-0 win over Tufts. week's 5-0 win over Tufts.

Worcester Tech will have to contain with a ballclub that has scored 20 goals while allowing only four in those six games. The Engineers, however, are not coming to Amherst to play dead for UMass. They too are off to a fine start, entering today's contest with a 7-1-1 record, losing their game last Saturday to Coast Guard, 2-1.

They boast high-scoring forward Jack Blaisdell, who has an impressive 12 goals for the season. Currently WPI is ranked ninth in the New England region, and are favored to successfully defend the Samson Trophy that they captured last year.

The trophy is emblematic of college division supremacy in N.E.

They have defeated Hartford, Holy Cross, Tufts, MIT, Lowell Tech, Boston University and Assumption.

Last season's game found the Redman booters on the short end of a 2-1 score. This season the Engineers have a hustling, well-balanced team, one which is very aggressive. Halfback Tim Rooney of WPI is a former teammate of such UMass stars from Ludlow as Augie Calheno, Lindo Alves, Dave Ouellette and Dick McCarron.

The visiting booters also have three fine fullbacks in Lionel St. Victor, Steve Williams and Dave Sund. The Engineers also play two freshmen, Bucky Kashiwa and Jim O'Bray.

The Redmen are in for their seventh tough game of the year, and after two away games, the 2 p.m. contest will be somewhat of a homecoming for the booters. It will also be the first time a number-four team in New England has played soccer representing UMass. Hopefully, it will not be the last.

A Trio Of Long-Distance Specialists

SATURDAY'S FOOTMEN-Three UMass athletes who used their feet to good advantage this past weekend are pictured above. In the left photo are Larry Paulson (left) and Leo Duart. Paulson finished second and Duart the Hatter placed third in UMass' 17-46 cross country victory over Holy Cross. In the picture at right Redman Art Corsaletti (44) is seen turning the corner on the way to his 80-yard touchdown ramble in UMass' 21-21 tie with Connecticut. No. 61 for UMass is Jim Queeney. (MDC photos by Ed Mangiaratti and Rich McIntyre respectively)

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOLUME XCVIX, ISSUE 35 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1970

D.E.S. Speaker Urges Ecology Action Now

Turn to page three

The Third Candidate

SOCIALIST CANDIDATE FOR THE SENATE Peter Camijo told a group of students yesterday why he thinks a third party candidate can never win an elected office in this Country. For more on Camijo, see Campaign Climax, page five and editorial, page six. (MDC photo by Pat Lempart)

Security Confusion Explained

Story page two

S.W.A.P. Deadline Nears

details, pages six and nine

ANSWERING QUESTIONS at Butterfield Monday night during the administration coffee hour, Provost Robert L. Gluckstein explained what the new jobs in the campus's administration reorganization plan entail. (MDC photo by Steve Schmidg)

Gluckstern Explains New Whitmore Setup

Meeting for four hours with a group of about sixty students in Butterfield late Monday night, Provost Gluckstern contended with a barrage of questions ranging from administration reorganization to the University's relationship with the Legislature.

Gluckstern opened with a brief description of the reorganization of the administration. Basically this involves a President at the head with a Chancellor for each of the three Campuses. Each Chancellor worked with a staff of five Vice Chancellors: one for Student Affairs, Academic affairs, (the Provost), Public Relations, Finance and Administrative Services.

Gluckstern described himself as "interim provost". When asked if he would remain and perhaps become permanent he replied that if the administration thought that he was doing a satisfactory job then he would remain. A few students were quick to point out that perhaps if he was so unsure of his own capabilities than maybe he was the wrong man for the job.

At this point a debate among the students occurred with some defending Gluckstern and others attacking him.

The question of money and the Legislature arose and Gluckstern said, "you ask for more than you know you will get and you justify what you ask for...it's a game."

Gluckstern was asked how dorms and groups other than residential colleges could procure the services of willing professors to teach special courses. The answer he thought would be to "give release time to faculty" and to give participating departments preference when it came to appointments of new postions because the University is "reluctant to pay additional stipends to faculty for outside projects."

Gluckstern said that he would eventually like to bring to campus all matters regarding student life; such as style of co-ed dorms "We are heading for the time when more responsibilities of the campus will be in the hands of those on Campus.

Cop Snafu Settled

By WALTER SOBZAK
Staff Reporter

"In order to provide for security of persons and property on emergency basis, there is hereby delegated to...Chancellor Tippo, the authority to appoint...police officers who shall have such duties and authority on the Amherst campus as may from time to time be assigned by the Chancellor as he may deem necessary or desirable for security through the end of the present semester."

So reads the motion passed by the Board of Trustees with regards to the ability of security officers to make arrests. Contrary to the widespread notion that they now have the power of arrest, the duties of the security officers have not changed.

According to Dr. Randolph Bromery, acting Assistant to the Chancellor, "this act merely gives the Chancellor the authority which was previously assigned to the Trustees, to give personal police powers."

This action was the result of numerous complaints by students and residence hall personnel of theft and assaults. Implementation of the power, Bromery emphasized, will only be in "emergency situations."

As it stands, the security force is not very well trained as a police body. The Trustees motion would provide for training of these officers. It aids the Chancellor by giving him the ability to implement the powers previously assigned to the Trustees.

In the meantime", Bromery said, "we are taking a long look at the security department. We are going to design a new campus security program. The university campus is a very anomalous situation, so we have a wide latitude in designing such a program."

The department is currently doing its utmost to utilize its personnel to stem theft and assault on campus. There is a search now on for a new security director who can coordinate the forces now in existance.

Fenton. Conservatives To Score Big Tuesday

By DAN KAMAL
Staff Reporter

"Democrats in general and liberals in particular are in for a bad night Tuesday."

This is the way Professor John Fenton of the Government Dept. feels the voting will have developed come election night in a speech given last night to about 40 people in Thompson Hall. He verified this statement by citing a number of events which are working in favor of Republican conservatives.

Fenton stated that among these are the bombings and police killings which are so prevalent on the front pages of newspapers and symbolize the Democratic permissiveness on social issues, a major concern of the electorate.

He characterized the Democratic dilemma by citing the Philips Thesis which states that the common man is completely disenchanted with the elite liberal establishment because he feels that all legislation is directed at him and not for him. This is how Philip accounts for the Democrat defeat in 1968, and Fenton feels that this disenchantment will prevail in the '70 elections, particularly in the senatorial races.

Another factor he thinks will favor the Republicans is the "political cycle". He noted that voting trends have gone from a Republican landslide in 1956, to an evening-off period in 1960, to a Democratic landslide in 1964, to another evening-off period in 1968; thus he sees, if not a Republican landslide, at least a trend toward Republican conservatism.

Professor Fenton also noted that there are 35 seats up for re-election in the Senate, 25 of which are Democratic; claiming that the Senate is atypical, that many of these Democrats gained their seats simply by being "lucky" enough to be caught in the Democratic landslide of 1964, he therefore sees the conservative trend hurting them in particular.

He added that the Democrats are in good shape to win only four senatorial seats while the Republican Party may add as many as 11 to their slate; "although the latter is a remote possibility, it would be a major victory for Nixon."

In conclusion, he said that the biggest thing to look for on Tuesday is the turnout; that a large turnout would corroborate what he says about a conservative trend, because "a large turnout is emblematic of voter disenchantment with the incumbent party--in most cases the Democratic Party."

FINALLY!
FINALLY!
FINALLY!
FINALLY!

XEROX

XEROX copies now available at Campus Center
Printing Shop - opposite the Coffee Shop.
Rates per original - 5¢ for the first 4 copies,
2¢ for each additional copy.

Other services include: Copy setting
Mimeograph
Ditto
Embosograf
Lineoscribe
Art Work
Stencils

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor).
Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1945. Subscription rates are $7.50 per semester, $14.00 per year.

Why are prophets needed today?

A prophet is somebody who is close to God, who sees spiritual solutions to world problems, who leads the people to them.

Joseph G. Heard of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship thinks we need some prophets today.

Hear him tell what it takes to become one in a talk titled "Today's Prophet."

Thursday, Oct. 29
Campus Center
Rooms 168-170
7:30 p.m.

Sponsored by CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION

VEGA -
VEGA -
VEG ET A BLE

HORROR FLICKS
"WOLFMAN" "THE MUMMY"
"BRIDE OF FRANKENSTEIN"
AND OTHER FEATURES
Thursday Oct. 29
7:30 & 9:30
Mahar Auditorium
Sponsored by Maroon Keys
50¢

PEOPLE MUST SAVE THE ENVIRONMENT-This was what Garrett deBell explained last night (MDC photo by Ed Fenwick)

People Needed To Cure Environment Says DeBell

By JOHN BOITEAU
Staff Reporter

Garrett DeBell, speaking before 300 people in Mahar auditorium last night, called for personal involvement in environmental problems, as a part of the Distinguished Ecologist Series.

"The stakes are high," he said, "and go beyond solving the environmental crisis."

Population stabilization, he went on, must be a primary goal.

"Freely available birth control must be a first priority" he added.

The earth cannot support the population of the U.S. at its current level, he said and American economy must be cut back. "If pollution is to decrease, the population must decrease", he added.

Cutting back does not mean a sacrifice, he explained, and cited labor saving devices as an example.

"We can automate anything," he went on, "but the question is whether this is desirable and worth the environmental cost."

Technology can be used to cut pollution, he said, but the results must be carefully investigated.

Mr. Garrett added that personal involvement may take the form of participation in groups that sponsor lobbyists.

"Lobbying is only a dirty game if only the polluters play it," he explained.

The purpose of lobbying is to influence legislators by presenting them with facts, he said.

He said individuals can help by contributing to groups which sponsor lobbyists and added, the support of such groups, he added, is voluntary, but the support of the opposition--the polluters--is involuntary.

You support the opposition every time and drive a car," he explained, "by supporting the oil companies,"

Many people become discouraged because progress in environmental reform seems slow, he said, but there has actually been a great deal of progress.

Camejo Vs. The System

Rebel With A Cause

By RICHARD C. HANSON
Asst. News Editor

The rumpled corduroy suit, the tired eyes, the Bic pens jammed into a pants pocket. Typical Socialist-Worker's Party candidate running for U.S. Senator from Massachusetts; challenging the big name politicians.

Peter Camejo arrived on campus late yesterday afternoon. He quickly made phone calls to Boston. Digested the local situation.

Kennedy, the Senator, is in Springfield speaking at a "private" benefit for gubernatorial candidate Kevin White. Is Kennedy to be in Northampton? Natick? If Camejo can find out, there may be a chance to debate. Kennedy is tough to find. He's being careful. Like Camejo says, "Kennedy can only lose votes from now on."

The cluttered life of a politician, like Camejo, revolves around his opposition. Right now, he needs to confront Kennedy. At Bridgewater State, Camejo was cheered as Ted Kennedy quietly bowed out, avoiding the abortion-war-economy issues raised by his Socialist-worker opposition.

"Kennedy has never debated a candidate to the left of him", claims Camejo. He added that Kennedy has carefully arranged his schedule to avoid any further run-ins with opposition candidates.

Kennedy won't even debate Si Spaulding, Republican candidate for Senator, who has stated that if Kennedy debates with him, Camejo is to be included.

Camejo was described by the Boston Globe as being one of the best "soap box" orators around. The Globe statement came in an article about Camejo arrest at Northeastern, while giving an impromptu loud speaker address as Northeastern's free speech area. During the Collegian interview Camejo was soft-spoken; he backed his claims with figures, he spoke confidently without cliche.

His party's biggest obstacle at present is that they, the Socialist-Workers have to gather thirty times the number of signatures than either the Republicans or Democrats. The party is forced to run a sticker campaign. Camejo told of a pending court case to test the constitutionality of the 1920 law which discourages new political parties by imposing such heavy signature requirements on all parties not established before 1920.

Camejo believes that capitalism has "outlived its usefulness" and is unable "to maintain the standard of living it has created." He continued "What we have is chaos now...we socialists could solve the housing problem in two years, the hunger problem now." "You have to produce according to human needs. If we continue to produce for profit, we won't be able to solve our human problems."

Concerning the growing fear of a wave of repression in the U.S., Camejo cautioned, "I think that those who say fascism is around the corner are wrong. "There is repression and there is violation of rights" he added, explaining that what is needed is a general assertion of rights by individuals.

Camejo does not doubt that with the advent of socialism in America there would be "violent"reaction. "I feel there will be a revolution. The Democrats and Republicans won't permit it...we predict that there will be violence. But we'd love to do it without violence," he stated, noting that the U.S. now has more "police per population than Nazi Germany."

One of several people, who had occupied themselves making campaign telephone calls and talking in small groups came to Camejo and told of latest developments in the Kennedy campaign, missed appointments and pressing engagements. He was asked about newspaper support and coverage of his campaign: "No newspaper could endorse me and survive."

Free U. Opens

Due to personnel shortages and work overloads, the Free University has been delayed from taking the space in the old campus bookstore.

University store manager, Mr. Cummings, said in his office yesterday that a warehouse crew working with Free University volunteers will begin moving stock which remains in the old bookstore this morning and the space should be available at the end of the week.

Commenting on the situation a Free U. spokesman said the bookstore would become "open space."

"Last year's image of alternate courses is obsolete and insufficient.

YOUR AUTHORIZED DEALER
NORTHAMPTON VOLKSWAGEN, Inc.
• SALES
• SERVICE • PARTS
COMPLETE BODY SHOP
246 KING ST. (RTE 5) NORTHAMPTON
Your Authorized Dealer
584-8620 Open 9-9 — Sat. 9-5

VILLAGE INN
LUMS
Restaurant
HOT ROAST BEEF SANDWICHES

Hot Dogs steamed in beer with Sherry flavored sauerkraut

Eat in or take out
Open Daily
11 A.M. - 2 A.M.

All Power to the People!

THE BLACK AFFAIRS COUNCIL needs BLACK people with new and powerful ideas.

If you want to make this school relevant to Black needs, get out and WORK FOR IT!

We have money to work with for the constructive needs of BLACK PEOPLE.

For Information Call:

6-7166, 6-7138 or 6-7136

FINE ARTS COUNCIL 1970/71 SERIES
EVENTS
Bowker Auditorium/University of Mass.

Thursday - Friday, November 5-6
Conducted by Maestro Renato Fasano
VIRTUOSI DI ROMA
Two different programs of the world's greatest Baroque Music including Corelli, Vivaldi, Marcello and Albinoni
"Unexelled in their class!" L.A. Times

Thursday - Sunday, November 12-15
Operetta Guild presents
"YOUR OWN THING"
A fully-staged production of this hit!

Reserved tickets: $1.00 - $3.00
Fine Arts Council, 125 Herter Hall
Telephone 545-0202. Remaining tickets at Bowker Box Office

In The Nation And The World

Nixon Signs New Drug Abuse Bill To "Strengthen Narcotics Control"

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon signed the Drug Abuse Control Bill yesterday and called on Americans to help save "thousands of our young people who would otherwise be hooked on drugs" by backing up law enforcers with moral support.

Affixing his signature to the bill at headquarters of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, Nixon set in motion new procedures for controlling the legitimate manufacture and sale of drugs, tough enforcement tools aimed at illegal drug trafficking and expanded education and rehabilitation programs.

Nixon said, "in order for the laws to mean anything they must have public support.

"I hope the whole nation will move with us to save the lives of thousands of our young people who would otherwise be hooked on drugs and physically, mentally, and morally destroyed."

The new law, the third major administration crime bill to be approved by Congress this year, focuses federal law enforcement activities on controlling the flow of narcotics and dangerous drugs and on capturing and punishing pushers.

Penalties for simple possession or use of narcotics or dangerous drugs are reduced from felonies to misdemeanors punishable by no more than a year's imprisonment on the first offense and allowing probation, parole or dismissal of charges at a judge's discretion.

Penalties for sale of the substances, however, are increased, ranging from five years to life depending on the nature of the selling operation and the type of drug or narcotic involved.

The new law provides for addition of 300 federal narcotics agents and use of the controversial "no knock" power when a judge authorizes it.

Manufacturers and distributors of drugs will be licensed under the act, and reporting and record keeping regulations are strengthened. Five separate categories of drugs and narcotics are established according to their potential for abuse.

The new law authorizes a total expenditure for educational, treatment, and rehabilitation programs of nearly $2 million under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The Justice Department, through the BNDD, administers other aspects of the law.

Unemployment Growth Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) - House Speaker John W. McCormack, D Mass., said yesterday the government has added five major labor markets to its list of areas with substantial unemployment of 6 per cent or more.

The Labor Department confirmed the report, but denied McCormack's charge that the Nixon administration had planned to hold up official announcement until after the Nov. 3 elections.

"The official report is coming out this afternoon for release tomorrow," as previously planned, and McCormack was among several congressmen to be given advance notice, said a Labor Department spokesman.

The report adds Los Angeles Long Beach, San Diego, and the San Bernardino Riverside Ontario areas of California, New Brunswick Perth Amboy in New Jersey and Lawrence Haverhill, Mass., to the list. It also adds 13 smaller labor market areas.

The official report will also remove two major areas-Utica Rome, N.Y., and Kenosha, Wis.-from the list.

The list of major areas of substantial unemployment now totals 38, highest in more than six years.

The Labor Department describes substantial unemployment as 6 to 8.9 per cent of the labor force. The national jobless rate is 5.5 per cent, highest in nearly seven years.

The next Labor Department report on national unemployment is due Nov. 6.

SWAP

The Student Workshop on Activities Problems is an annual, off-campus conference which brings together a selected group of students, faculty, administrators, trustees, legislators and others concerned about the University for discussion, information-exchange, planning and politicking.

This year's conference will be held December 11-13 at the Oak'n'Spruce Lodge in South Lee, Massachusetts. There will be two meetings of SWAP participants before the Conference: November 22nd and December 10th. Plans are being made now for a follow-up conference, on-campus, early in second semester.

Participants in the conference are asked to pay a registration fee; $5 for students who pay Student Activities Tax; $35 for others (with some subsidies available). These fees, plus Student Senate appropriations, cover the cost of the Conference (meals, lodging and transportation).

Participants will be selected from among those who submit applications before October 30th. For information on applications, see the box to the right.

SO APPLY!

for application, see page 9

Nixon Takes Florida Base For Final Campaign Assault

WASHINGTON (AP) - Against a background of shrinking Republican political goals, President Nixon headed yesterday for Florida in his strenuous last week bid to reverse off year election traditions and weaken the Democrats' hold on Congress.

At the start of the campaign grind leading to the Nov. 3 voting, the official Republican line was that the party had a good chance to achieve the net gain of seven Senate seats needed to take over control of that chamber while cutting substantially into the Democrats' majority in the House.

Predictions that these goals would be reached have been fading from party leaders' public comments of late and on Monday White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler conceded that the Republicans would view as a victory any results that ran noticeably contrary to the tradition that incumbent administrations customarily lose, rather than gain, ground in off year voting.

Ziegler went a bit further under reporters' questioning Tuesday and said election of only one or two new senators generally committed to Nixon policies would be seen by the White House as a political success. He implied that election of conservative Democrats with such credentials would not be wholly unwelcome.

However, Ziegler would not concede that Republican gains actually would be so modest, said he is optimistic and declared many races are so close that no one really can tell what's going to happen.

Nixon scheduled stops in West Palm Beach and Miami Beach on the first leg of a five day swing that will take him into ten states-all but one electing a senator next week-by Saturday night.

In Florida, Rep. William C. Cramer, victor over defeated Supreme Court nominee, G. Harrold Carswell in a bitter Republican primary, is believed to be trailing his "new look" Democratic opponent, Lawton Chiles.

In the state's gubernatorial contest GOP Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr., Cramer's rival for state party control, is in a close race against Democrat Rubin Askew.

As a former supporter of New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the Republican presidential nomination, as well as a foe of the President's man, Cramer.

WITCHCRAFT THROUGH THE AGES

"Despite much eroticism, nudity, and elements of genuine horror ... this brilliant Swedish film is essentially a learned treatise."

TONIGHT, OCT. 28th, 7:30 and 9:30 P.M.
Hampden Commons, Southwest — 50c

CANADA

NEIGHBOR or NUISANCE

DVP PRESENTS

J. M. S. CARELESS

from the

University of Toronto

TONIGHT 8:15 P.M. THOMPSON 106

MINUTES AWAY VIA I-91 TO RT. 5
Showcase Cinemas 1-2-3
RIVERDALE RD. W. SPFLD.
1 "FUNNIEST MOVIE I'VE SEEN" N.Y. Post
LOVERS AND OTHER STRANGERS
Mon.-Fri. 2 - 7:20 - 9:10
Sat., Sun. 1 - 3 - 5:10 - 7:00 - 9:10
R
3 "It's A Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World"
G
Mon. - Fri. 2:00 - 7:10 - 9:55
Sat. & Sun. 1:00 - 4:00 - 7:15 - 9:15
2 ★★★★ "A TREAT FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY" WNAC-TV
CHILD-12 & under $1 All Shows
On A Clear Day You Can See Forever
G
ACRES and ACRES OF YOUR OWN FREE PARKING
WIDE SPACE COMFORT LOUNGE ROCKERS
GROUP RATES AVAILABLE
CALL 413-733-5131

CAMPAIGN CLIMAX

Kennedy Name Still Enough

It is said that a Kennedy cannot lose in Massachusetts, and this year will probably be no exception. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is a heavy favorite to win re-election to the Senate over Republican Josiah Spaulding and three other candidates.

In a sense, Kennedy is running against himself. He has waged a vigorous campaign, has spent a great deal on television advertising. The senior Senator from Massachusetts is obviously making a big effort to prove that his voter appeal has not dimmed since the Chappaquidick incident of a year ago.

Kennedy, though, will be hard pressed to match his election totals of 55% of the vote in 1962 and a whopping 74% in 1964 against a colorless opponent. And the challenge to match these totals may be greater than the challenge of Spaulding.

The Republican, who won a bitter primary battle over Col. John L. McCarthy, stands relatively identically with Kennedy on most issues. Both favor a quick end of the Vietnam War, and both have similar

Kennedy

The Republican, who won a bitter primary battle over Col. John L. McCarthy, stands relatively identically with Kennedy on most issues. Both favor a quick end to the Vietnam War, and both have similar views on domestic issues. The main areas of contention have been in areas of the draft and abortion, Kennedy favoring the draft and no legal abortion, Spaulding the opposite.

Spaulding is getting little help from the National GOP due to his several splits with Nixon Administration policies. And Spaulding has had recognition problems, money problems and has been unable to find significant issue differences with Kennedy. It is also Spaulding's first attempt at elective office and the inexperience is shown by his lack of public identity. He has waged a substantial billboard campaign, but it has not been a great success.

Kennedy appearances meanwhile are an event. He is beseiged by autograph seekers and is accompanied on many campaign trips by his mother, Mrs. Rose Kennedy, or his nephew Robert Kennedy Jr. Kennedy has emphasized his congressional record, which includes such as legislation as the national health care plan and his consistent opposition to Nixon policies.

The Kennedy-Spaulding campaign has therefore been a relatively dull one, especially when it is considered that both are waging all out efforts.

In fact, the most excitement in the campaign has come from candidates not on the ballot. Birth control advocate Bill Baird during the early months was a constant newsmaker with his proposals for liberalized sex laws in the state.

Lately, Peter Camejo, Socialist Worker's Party candidate has been a constant thorn in the sides of Spaulding and Kennedy. Camejo has appeared with both candidates and has delivered rapid fire addresses on such topics as the socialist view of the war, women's liberation, inflections, unemployment and racism, and has been received favorably.

Camejo was also arrested in Boston on October 8 on trespass charges while addressing an outdoor audience at Northwestern University. School officials complained that he wasn't invited by any organized student group. Camejo maintains that such meetings were ruled legal by police, and as filed a false arrest suit. Camejo was also denied ballot status by a federal court. He had filed suit against what he terms exorbitant number of signatures required asked for injunctive relief until the constitutionality of the requirement could be decided.

Other candidates include Mark Shaw a Prohibionist candidate and Lawrence Gilfedder from the Socialist Labor Party.

Drinan, Hicks, Studds Aim For Congress

Massachusetts Congressional races have at least two contests that have gained nationwide attention, and several other district fights that are challenging old time congressional veterans and supporters of Nixon administration policies. The districts will be summarised in order.

FIRST DISTRICT: Republican Silvio Conte is running unopposed in this district that includes Amherst. Conte, a ten year veteran of the lower house who resides in Pittsfield, is a member of several key committees including Appropriations, and is the ranking Republican member of the Subcommittee on Transportation and House select committee on small business.

SECOND DISTRICT: Democrat Edward P. Boland is also unopposed in this district that includes Springfield. Boland has been in Congress for nine successive terms, and had served in the Massachusetts house and as Hampden County Register of Deeds before entering the U.S. House.

THIRD DISTRICT: This race is probably one of the most closely watched congressional battles in the country, because of the candidacy of Democrat Reverend Robert F. Drinan, a Catholic Jesuit priest and the Dean of the Boston College law school.

Drinan a long time anti-war critic, defeated long time Congressional leader, and a member of several powerful committees, Philip J. Philbin in the Democratic primary. Philbin is now running on a sticker campaign, but is given little chance of winning.

Drinan meanwhile, has run a MacCarthyish new politics campaign that has included a horde of young workers and has gained him nationwide prominence. His primary victory comes in a district that was redistricted to include a larger segment of middle class voters.

The Republican candidate is a down the line supporter of Nixon policies, John McGlennon. He is a state representative, who in addition has been appointed secretary for former Governor Volpe, and member of the Republican state committee.

Philbin's entrance in his sticker campaign is generally thought to hurt McGlennon more than Drinan. The theory is that Philbin will split the anti-Drinan vote that would have gone to McGlennon, thus insuring a Drinan victory. Philbin's main campaign theme is that he is 12th in seniority in the house and is the chairman of the powerful House Armed Services Committee.

Whatever the result, this race will be regarded as referendum on the Nixon foreign policy.

FOURTH DISTRICT: In a district that encompasses Worcester, veteran democrat Harold Donahue is facing the challenge of young republican Howard Miller Jr. Both won easy primary battles to gain nominations. And this is a rematch of the 1968 district race in which Miller won outlying districts but got clobbered in Worcester to lose the election soundly to Donahue.

Miller has been campaigning heavily in Worcester, on themes that are independent of standard Republican themes. He states that undeclared wars should not be fought. He is against the SST, and he says that National Guardsmen should use tranquilizers to quell rioters instead of guns.

However, in this heavily democratic district, Donahue seems to have the exposure of 24 years in legislative experience working heavily in his favor. Donahue has not waged a vigorous campaign, but instead has depended on the power of being the incumbent. A long time supporter of military appropriations, Donahue has lately adopted a more dovish stand on the war.

Miller's primary fightwith salesman Williams Burns gained him needed exposure. It appears that the central issue will come down to whether the voters will accept Miller's argument that Donahue has done nothing significant in his 24 years, or whether Donahue's 23 years of service deserve re-election.

FIFTH DISTRICT: This race pits two relatively dovish candidates, incumbent Republican F. Bradford Morse and Democratic challenger, youthful Richard Williams. Morse appears to be in little trouble.

The congressional veteran has sponsored the Amendment to End the War, and has worked closely with Members of Congress for Peace. He has also worked to reduce military spending to restore Congress' role in deciding policy.

Williams is also a liberal supporter of ending the war, community health care units, etc., but is hurt by a lack of exposure.

SIXTH DISTRICT: Incumbent Michael Harrington, who got nationwide publicity a year ago when as a maverick, anti-war, strong on ecology issues oriented candidate, he became the first Democrat in 100 years to win a congressional seat from this district. Harrington, who then filled an unexpired term is faced by a former aide to President Nixon. Howard Phillips, who moved into the district in June when no Republican entered the race.

Harrington is another of the new politics candidates and has waged a low key campaign banking on his visibility and recognition value. Harrington calls the war a tragedy, has opposed larger police penalties or police records for young drug addicts and means to gain law and order, and has invited youth involvement into his campaign.

Phillips, hampered by a lack of recognition in the district, has supported most Nixon policies. He has gained somewhat in recent weeks, but it is believed Harrington will be returned to the Congress and will serve his first full term.

SEVENTH DISTRICT: Veteran Congressman Torbert McDonald faces relatively easy opposition against Republican Gordon Hughes. Both favor an end to the war, but the campaign has been lifeless and has gained little attention. McDonald, another Kennedy associate, should win easily.

EIGHTH DISTRICT: Unopposed in this district that includes Cambridge is incumbent and 18 year Congressional veteran Thomas P. O'Neil. His amendment during the last session ended secret house votes. A former hawk on the war, O'Neil has responded to his dovish constituency and has advocated a readjustment of national priorities to fight poverty instead of increased military spending.

NINTH DISTRICT: This is another race that has gained nationwide attention, mainly because this is the race for the seat being vacated by the retiring speaker of the House, John W. McCormack, and because of the presence of controversial Louise Day Hicks as the Democratic nominee.

Mrs. Hicks gained national publicity when, as a Boston School Committee member, she was a violent foe of busing to end de facto segregation. Presently she is a Boston City Councilor. Mrs. Hicks who lost in a mayoral bid to Kevin White three years ago, defeated democratic primary challengers Joseph Moakley and David Nelson to win nomination with 39% of the vote.

Her opposition comes from an elderly perennial Republican conservative candidate, Laurence Curtis, and an Independent former decorated Vietnam War vet and now an outspoken peace candidate, Dan Houton.

Houton, though little known before the election could be Mrs. Hick's most serious challenger. He will have to appeal to the liberal vote in the heavily Democratic Boston district to offset the loyal support Mrs. Hicks gets in any election. The district which encompasses 15 wards in Boston, is one made up of nearly all lower to middle class voters. They have in the past been heavy supporters of Hicks, although her vote total in the primary indicates some erosion of her past strengths.

Houton will have to depend on a large black vote and votes from the more liberal sections of the city to offset Mrs. Hicks' traditional fiercely loyal supporters.

But the district is Hicks territory and Houton's challenge may not be enough.

TENTH DISTRICT: A key test of Nixon support has developed in this district between Republican incumbent Mrs. Margaret Heckler and Democratic challenger, Bertram Yaffe.

Yaffe is a veteran activist in local peace efforts, including being a coordinator for Eugene McCarthy, Vice Chairman of Mass. PAX, Chairman of the Oct. 15th Moratorium, Founder of the Citizens for Participation Politics, and an Area Coordinator of the American Civil Liberties Union. However, he is at the disadvantage of running his first electoral race and facing an incumbent.

Mrs. Heckler is by no means a consistent supporter of the Nixon administration and she has answered back strongly when accused of pro-Nixon leanings. Another issue has developed over Heckler's reluctance to debate Yaffe.

Yaffe, however has an advantage of running as a Democrat in a Democratic district, and hopes to combine these votes with independent votes to unseat Mrs. Heckler.

ELEVENTH DISTRICT: Incumbent James Burke is unopposed for re-election. Burke has been in Congress for 12 years and has the distinction of maintaining a 100% attendance record in the House and in committees.

TWELFTH DISTRICT: This is another contest that is being viewed as a referendum on Nixon policies. It pits a down-the-line Nixon supporter in incumbent Hastings Keith against an anti-war challenger, Gerry Studds, a former McCarthy worker.

Nixon policies are the main issue in this contest, just as in the third district. The 12th district is normally a Republican district, but Studds' youth oriented organization won him more than 50% of the vote against three primary opponents. Studds, in fact, received more votes than did Keith in Keith's primary victory.

Keith is an opponent of most reform legislation and points to his experience and his work with oil spills as being his main credentials. He has sat on numerous congressional committees and is a strong Nixon ally.

Studds supported the McGovern-Hatfield amendment to end the war and is a supporter who has made the high unemployment rate in the city of New Bedford which is in the district a main issue. Studds has said that this is due to poor planning and historical financial problems and must be dealt with by public service programs.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Student Union University of Massachusetts - Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR — Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER — Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR — Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR — John Sullivan

PHOTO EDITOR — Steve Schmidt
ADVERTISING MANAGER — John Fayad

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Mark Silverman
DARKROOM — Ken Emory, Ed Fenwick
SPORTS — John Sullivan
AD LAYOUT — Sherry Morse
EDITORIAL — Ed Bryant

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Peter Pascarelli

A Chance To Respond

It's funny that in this day and age of student demands for contact with faculty and administrators, a program offering a close interrelationship between students and the other two groups is lagging behind in student and faculty applications. But such is the present situation of SWAP.

SWAP has traditionally brought together a group of students with faculty and administrators at an off campus location to discuss campus problems for three days. However, the program has suffered in the past because most students believed that SWAP was open only to student leader types and that most students were closed to the program. And SWAP has suffered in the past because it analyzed problems that were in a nebulous state and assumed they would be acted on.

But SWAP this year seems to be making a strong effort to dispel these old tendencies. It is appealing strongly to any and all students. In other words, you don't have to be Editor of the Collegian or Student Senate President to attend.

And SWAP has changed its conference format somewhat, so that certain assumed concepts of the campus, such as, intellectual resources of faculty should be used for as much student benefit as possible, are being analyzed seriously and in intensive group sessions. SWAP wants to pin down certain nebulous concepts as the above which are not always evident as being realized.

Deadlines for applications are Friday. There is still plenty of opportunity to apply.

It's a painless way to get involved, a painless way to shed your apathetic facade and try and do something about this campus that everyone always complains about.

Yet there has not been a groundswell of applicants, either student or faculty. And maybe this is a typical UMass syndrome: "Let some one else go, I'm busy." Then when something isn't perfect, they are the first to get pissed, write a letter to the editor and call the university unresponsive.

SWAP is a good chance to respond. It shouldn't be overlooked by anyone.

Camejo For Senator

Massachusetts voters are offered two candidates for U.S. Senate that are identically alike. There is on the one hand Republican Joslah Spaulding who is trying desperately to sound like Edward Kennedy, and then there is Senator Edward Kennedy who is content to sound like himself. Both are probably called radical liberals by Agnewian standards, or flimsy liberals by most other standards.

However, there is a third candidate running for Senate that isn't on the ballot and cannot win. Yet he may be a perfect example of the democratic system that purports to be for all the people but then fashions election laws that make it sometimes impossible to get a place on the ballot.

Peter Camejo, running on the Socialist Workers ticket has been arrested for giving a speech on Northeastern University's campus. And you have to wonder whether Kennedy or Spaulding would have been arrested for giving what was called an unauthorized address.

Camejo challenged the Massachusetts election law that requires over 60,000 signatures to get an independent candidate senate on the ballot. While the court turned his appeal down, the federal judges did say that a study on the law should be made.

He has been a frequent visitor to most campuses in the state and has confronted both major candidates with discussion several occassions that have brought some of the only issue-oriented speaking of any campaign. And the discussion has been concerned with racism, women's lib, third world liberation, to name a few issues that never come up in political campaigns.

Camejo cannot win this election. Yet a sizeable write-in vote for him could demonstrate the willingness of many citizens to modernize archaic election laws, vote approval in a candidate that is more than just a flimsy liberal and show that there could be an alternative between two political parties that, at least in this state, are identical.

Louis DiMonaco

And Now A Word...

"As they go to worship the electronic shrine
On which is playing the late late commercial
In that hollowest house of the opulent blind
And I wave goodbye to Mammon
And smile hello to a stream"

TIM BUCKLEY

Ignoring the commercial media is a lot harder than people think. Unless you stop watching television altogether, stop reading the daily newspapers and weekly magazines; unless you learn to drive your car without seeing the roadsides, gaping with billboards and neon signs, you'll never get away from the effects of advertising.

But while the quality of television commercials in general has not increased, the quantity of "socially relevent" commercials has increased. One has to stretch the truth for a strain of optimisum on this point because the number of good commercials has increased from nil to about 5% of the total commercial time.

And indeed, a few of the once immortal dinasaurs have been exposed. The tobacco industry, the carbonated beverage industry, the automobile and cereal industries have all gone down in varying degrees in the public eye.

The consummers, partly out of sheer laziness, and partly out of lack in expertise, do not make themselves aware of deficiences both in the quality of the product advertised and the quality of the advertisement itself. Someone has to investigate and expose these deficiencies for the consummers.

What Ralph Nader started in this field has slowly begun to snowball. The consummer is realizing what he might have guessed all along; that cigarettes are hazardous to health, authomobiles are unsafe at any speed, and Sugar Pops are 40% air, 8% preservaties, 2% nutrients, and 50% promotion.

There are far more products advertised on the air waves than there are investigative organizations to determine the degree of deception in the commercials themselves.

Far more publication space is available to the advertisers than to the organizations who should persue the advertisements.

The increase in consummer reports, while not increasing the number of good commercials, will, at least, decrease the effectiveness of the bad commercials.

The commercial which begins with a series of hydrogen bomb explosions, and then reveals the fact that forest fires cause more damage that 100 of these bombs, is just great when compared to the Ajax White Knight. The commercial which shows a child asking a "Madison Avenue Executive" if he is God, because he helps the kid pick up his toys is great if compared to a recruitment commercial for the Armed Forces.

What is needed are more of the anti-forest fire commercials certainly, but what is needed most are commercials which are good outside of an extreme comparison like the white knight. What is needed is an anti-forest fire commercial which gets to the root of the problem, leaving no doubt that the saved timber will not be used by Wysehauer to make more plywood.

The public is slowly beginning to change. Cigarette sales have sent the tobacco industries running into more secure investments like candy companies. People are buying bio-degradable cleaning liquids, health foods, VW's, Volvos, and Gremlins instead of obnoxious, gas-eating, smog-spewing Olds, Chevys and Chryslers (the extent to which this a phenomenon explainable economically is anybody's guess).

But the point I want to make here is this: just as bad, socially irrelevent and profit orientated commercials are reinforced by public response manifested in the market place, producting an ever widening circular growth, so to will good, socially relevent and concious orientated commercials grow as public response to them grows.

Reinforcement is vital to growth whether that growth is malignant or benign. Without some measure of support the aware person would collapse and the aware commercial would (and still might) collapse.

You don't have to write a letter every time you see a worthwhile commercial. You merely have to respond to the commercial pleas which you feel are legitimate pleas, and not respond to the commercials that deceive.

In short, buy bio-degradable instead of Ajax, buy a VW instead of a Chrysler, and when in doubt, don't buy anything.

(Editor's note: the preceding was the third in a four part series on commercial television. Tomorrow a look at why the television industry should not be blown off the face of the earth.)

Ernie Bigelow

Free University Phoenix

Remember when the domes blew down and the UMass public lost track of Free University? Well, it's still there, and its members have been active ever since. Incidentally, for everyone's edification, Free University City was pictured in the Encyclopedia Brittanica under Student Dissent. So it's famous even if you don't remember it.

Free U. hid in South College all last year and did things. Eight members went in the Silver Bus last semester and had educational experiences on the open road. Cultural revolution, a central Free U.idea, has been explored, and incone

Free U. hid in South College all last year and did things. Eight members went in the Silver Bus last semester and had educational experiences on the open road. Cultural revolution, a central Free U. idea, has been explored, and in connection with this, Free U. has gotten into the use of media. This week, Free U. returns to the public consciousness as it moves into its new headquarters, in the old bookstore opposite the Hatch.

Last year there was no real grasp on the part of the student body as to the nature of Free U. The Dome City failed as a spark. Apathy was the general reaction. What could have been a new dimension in the college life of Joe Umie became a story for the media and a conversation piece for the dorm rat.

It shouldn't be like that. Educated people, especially those who can read, ought, I think, to be curious. A recent survey showed that eight-six percent of all UMass undergraduates were in fact literate. This constitutes a clear majority, yet only sixteen per cent of the student body is curious. That is, I think curious.

Free U. is an opportunity for those students who are dissatisfied to find alternatives. It is a largely structureless flexible organization in a time where few things are flexible. It's a chance to rap with people who are into interesting things. It's also entirely preferable to the ceiling in your room which you just maybe find yourself staring at, no?

Find out about Free U. It's right there by the Hatch.

(Ed note: Ernie Bigelow is a special correspondent to the Collegian. He'll come out of the woodwork from time to time.)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR must be typewritten, double spaced, at sixty spaces, and must carry the writer's signature, address, and telephone number (all of which will be withheld upon request). Because there is limited space on the editorial pages, we must stress that letters are limited to one page in length. Deadline for letter submission is five p.m. on the day prior to intended publication. Letters which are not typewritten cannot be printed. Please do not use pseudonyms. The editors reserve the right to edit all letters. Letters which are libelous will either be edited accordingly or not printed. We ask your cooperation in this matter, as it is most difficult to handle without your cooperation. Peace.

Wanted:

Poets And Reviewers

The Daily Collegian has been publishing a new feature, the poetry page, on Friday. Another new feature, Book Review, is in its nascent stages. Response thus far to the poetry page has been encouraging, but more contributors are needed. This is an opportunity for all area poets and other budding artists to see their work in print. Come forth, poet and make the poetry page a success. Photographers, we need you.

Book Review will begin soon. Simply stated, we need book reviewers. The Collegian has several timely and interesting books sent to us by publishers. Also reviewers may write reviews of any book which they may find on their own.

If you are interested in the poetry page, see Lou DiMonaco. If you would like to work as a book reviewer, see Ed Bryant or Lou Di Monaco in the Collegian Office.

Elliot Eisenberg

Coogan's Married

Rain began to fall quietly on the Calumet Park Beach. During the day the Cal wasn't exactly the prettiest of Lake Michigan beaches; it had the distinction of lying just to the south of the giant U.S. Steel South Works and just to the north of the Gary-Hammond industrial area. There were many who came each day of the summer to go to the beach; there were few who came to swim.

But at night, and expecially this night, the Cal was a tolerable, even pretty, place to be. Rain pounding gently on the sand made a sound which someone attuned to city sounds could find easy to take. It also did the gardening, rearranging the sand like a rake in black loam, covering the marks of day people with a dew that could reflect the rays of refineries to the south and fluorescent lamps above.

The police constantly patrol the Cal as it's reputed to be one of the most dangerous places around at night. They are used to breaking up gang fights and chasing young hoods out of the park, back across the I.C. tracks. But this night the officers seemed more at ease with the rain; besides J. Edgar Hoover and George Wallace, rain is reputed to be a policeman's best friend.

A patrol car rolled along the concrete sidewalk and slowed as it passed a young couple. The car moved slowly beside them. The policeman was young and white. He just scowled then nodded his head and accelerated away.

"Coogan, crazy Coogan," the youth said to the girl, "we shouldn't even be here."

To that she just laughed and pulled him by the arm down the gently sloped sand to the water. They walked along the edge to where sand became rock. The beach, of course, hadn't always been there; it was built on fill from the mills, and dotted along the lakefront were rocky retaining areas which cemented the encroachment of land into water.

They climbed onto one of the rocks and sat near but not touching each other, gazing out at the lighthouse in the lake that blinked red and white in the mist.

"Hey, Coogan," he called and his hand moved as if it wanted to take hers.

"What?"

A silence. "Oh, nothing. Forget it."

"You always do that, you know. Start something and then not finish it."

He started to speak, but he didn't even have to. She understood his gestures and they got up to go.

The squad car came by again and this time flashed its beacon in their faces. "Park's closed," said the young cop.

II

There hadn't been rain for many days and a heavy coat of soot continued to settle on the city. It usually hit hardest the clusters of row houses which had been hurriedly put up to accomodate the workers during the War, and where tonight a young man walked slowly, perhaps aimlessly. He stopped, stepped up to one of the houses and rang its bell.

"Hello, Mr. Kalvin," he said, "I'm sorry it's so late. Is Jill still up?"

"Who are you?" asked a voice behind the screen door.

"Gordon, Gordon Lewis, sir." In the house a figure darted up the stairs.

"Well, come in. I'm sorry, I don't think I met you. She'll be down in a few minutes. What did you say your name was?"

"Gordon. It's been a long time, sir."

They sat in the livingroom, the young one and the old one, waiting. On the television the weather report was playing. Soon Jill came walking down the stairs. Sitting in the cushion rocker, she was more attractive than he had remembered. Her straight, light-colored hair hung in her face, and her legs crossed and uncrossed in the most disconcerting manner.

How've-you-beens and watchabeendoins. Stories and rundowns on friends.

"Coogan's married," he said.

"Yes, I know. I guess she wanted to get out of the house one way or another. Her father was pretty mad."

"That's funny," he said. "I thought he'd be the first one for it."

"No."

"Well, I've got to get going. I'm leaving for school in the morning."

"Some of us are lucky enough to still lead that kind of life," said Jill.

"Yeah."

Gordon got up to leave and looked out the screen door. In the distance, thunder was rumbling its discontent with the heaviness in the air. To the south, lightning was flashing in the sky. Perhaps. It could have been the blasting open of the furnaces.

Ed Bryant

Float Like A Butterfly, Run As A Liberal

I've been waiting for Monday night for a long time. Three and one-half years to be exact. During that period men went to the moon, Nixon was elected to the office he now holds, Joni Mitchell released three albums, the Red Sox won the pennant, and war became unpopular. A fertile era, one with many happenings, a full diet for the average earthling. But for three and one-half years, the bastards wouldn't let the champ into the ring, a fact which annoyed me greatly. Monday night changed that.

The sad story of the conspiracy against Ali is typical of many unfortunate occurences in modern America. Essentially Ali was polical and religious beliefs. He was a Muslim and a pacifist. And a proud black man. They didn't like that, the politicians and parasites who make interfering with boxing their business, so they kept Ali out.

Athletic competition goes back as far as man's history, and we have always honored the skillful athlete. The Ancient Athenians paid homage to athletes in the Olympic Games, a custom revived in 1896. An Olympic Champion becomes a national hero. He is the best in his field, and is honored as such.

Maybe it's wrong to honor champions, to glorify competition. Perhaps. I think it's a lot worse to bastardize and lie. A sport which is hurting as bad as boxing ought to have more sense than to attempt to live a farce. Boxing is too close to death to pull this kind of trick. But the people in charge did.

Monday night Ali was back. He beat Quarry badly, so that Quarry's seconds wouldn't let him come out for the fourth round. The champ was as good as ever. He'll be the same old Ali we knew before.

Frazier fights Bob Foster Sunday. He'll win. And he won't be able to avoid Ali for very long. Then we will have some semblance of justice in a sport which betrays the principles of sport.

Welcome back, champ. You're the best.

* * * * * *

Elections being next Tuesday, I thought I'd say a few words about straight politicis, an area I usually avoid. It's really not worth great elaboration, so I hope these brief bits will be comprehensible. Here goes.

Nixon and Agnew have behaved disgracefully. There is simply no excuse for those to clowns. They shoud resign.

Richard Ottinger is not the conquering hero some think. Charlie Goodell has been really jerked around on all sides, and he hasn't a prayer. That is a real shame. If I lived in New York, I'd vote for Goodell anyway. Who needs the other one. Buckley won't win anyway. Buckleys always lose.

In California, John Tunney is running against incumbent George Murphy. Murphy must go, but George Brown, Tunney's primary opponent, was a better man. It's too bad he won't be the new Senator.

Albert Gore of Tennessee somehow manages to be in favor of peace. His opponent, Brock, is a typical Southern politician. Nixon wants this one badly. I hope Gore is reelected. A good man.

Muskie, Kennedy, and Humphrey are all running this year. If they all do the Democrats will really be hurting, which is an appealing thought. They are necessary and useful, I suppose, but if this were the mid-term election of a Johnson administration, and they all lost, I'd laugh. Would I laugh!

I wish either that this election wasn't so important, or that it really was important. If Nixon gets his people in, the only people who will gain will be the professional revolutionaries. There is still a great wealth of opportunity in the field of political repression. All Nixon needs to go off the deep end is a mandate. If that happens, then we haven't anything yet. In the sense that we're all fucked if Nixon's crew wins, it's important.

If the liberals win, the election will prove not to have been important. Because the liberals can't do much, and wouldn't anyway. Before you can call a Senator liberal, you must first call him politician. The whole thing sucks. Peace.

Campus Comment

Asylum For Kent 25

(ed note. This letter is being sent by Glenn Elters to the student body presidents of colleges in New England.)

Dear fellow Presidents:

With the indictment of twenty-five members of the Kent State University community I feel that civil rights are being governmentally jeopardized. I for one feel that repression in this country reached a dangerous level some time ago. We have seen the wholesale repression of blacks, Black Panthers, women, youth, students, the anti-war movement, and political dissidents.

Orangeburg, South Carolina, Jackson State, Augusta, and Kent State are flagrant examples of this repression. It bothers me to feel helpless and frustrated and I have thought long and hard about possible steps to be taken. Needless to say, there are no easy answers, but I am of the opinion that certainly the least we, as student government presidents, can do is to attempt to arrange some type of political asylum specifically for those indicted at Kent State University.

For these reasons I am communicating to Kent State University that there are groups on the campus of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst which are interested and willing to harbor any of those indicted at Kent State if they desire asylum. I am pledging myself to aid in setting up communications between these groups and to help those indicted in any way that I can.

I hope that other student government presidents will join in the effort to fight repression in this manner and in other ways.

Peace
Sincerely,
Glenn Elters
President

Friday's Rally

To the Editor:

I found the Friday afternoon rally a depressing affair-talent show in which each speaker (as long as I stayed) displayed his own brand of revolutionary rhetoric in attacking his own particular devils. The Kent State students - except for what appeared to be generous financial contributions from their UMass supporters-seemed to be the forgotten people.

Especially unfortunate was Professor Gadlin's personal attack on Chancellor Tippo, whom he compared in so many words to Spiro Agnew.

First, it confused the issue, since the Ohio grand jury blamed the Kent administration as well as the students, and since the aim of Nixon and Agnew has been to intensify the hostility of "middle America" to the whole academic community-administrators, faculty, and students alike.

Second, it resembled Agnew's own invective in that it not only was unsupported by specific evidence but ignored the real and relevant facts--in this instance the Chancellor's moderation in several critical situations last year, in defiance of heavy pressure from both inside and outside the University to "crack down" on protesting students.

Professor Gadlin evidently has a large and loyal following of students. He owes them a better example of intellectual integrity.

Finally, as one who in general shares the social aims of Professor Gadlin (as I understand them), I fear that his methods are (in the current jargon) counter-productive. Just as Spiro Agnew and his ilk are, in my judgment, losing votes for the candidates and causes that they espouse, so people like Professor Gadlin are losing them back.

Ellsworth Barnard

Student's Blood

Today while I was giving blood here at school, the Red cross volunteer told me that a full 40 percent of the blood supply in Western Massachusetts comes from UMass students' donations. Not a newsworthy fact, perhaps, but nonetheless a fact which makes me feel a little more comfortable in my role of student, in an age where being a student isn't often a com fortable thing to be

JULIA M. KANE

Blower Bust

To The Editor:

Sitting on the blowers feeling it's warmth penetrate our bodies on a cool fall Sat. nite, we began to eat our blueberry pie - a nice party. We rapped about Woman's Lib to Peter Pan and read graffiti by match light. Around the corner came the infamous cop car containing a couple of potential pigs. They proved positive. We got spotlight on center stage like on the Perry Como show produced by the Universities finest. It turned out to be an amateur hour for Sylvania. We decided we were being told to get off the blower - a bust on our party - all that was confiscated was the pie and sneakers - didn't have time to get them on for the getaway. Going down to comfort the cops, identification was requested - friendly cops - just wanted to know names (Reading is a growing field.)

Asking them what it was all about they gave a mechanical reply of "We don't ask questions, we just follow orders."

NAME WITHHELD UPON REQUEST

What's Happening

Campus Assaults Increase From May To September

By ALBERT BENSON
Staff Reporter

According to Sgt. Philip Cavanaugh, a campus security office, assaults on students in and around every University dorm complex have increased since classes ended last May. "While we do not have figures for last year", he maintained, "we do know that there has been an increase".

"From May 1 to the end of September", he added, "there were 19 assaults recorded on University property". Of these 14 were physical assaults usually involving robbery, 4 were gun assaults also involving robbery, and 1 was an attempted rape with a knife. These crimes have occured on practically every section of campus.

In Southwest, where, according to Sgt. Cavanaugh, crimes of this type are most frequent, muggings have taken place both inside the dorms and on the streets surrounding the complex. Four weeks ago three armed men entered George Washington Tower and robbed two students. they were later caught and brought to trial police spokesman stated.

Assaults have also occured on the streets surrounding Southwest. The stretch of Fearing Street between Sunset Ave. and North Pleasant Street has been cited by both campus and Amherst police as an area where crimes of this type are likely to take place. "The street is poorly lighted and has been the scene of attacks", a police spokesman maintained.

The dark, narrow, dirt path between the infirmary and Brooks House provides muggers and would-be robbers on Orchard Hill with a similar opportunity.

While students living on Southwest and on Orchard Hill have been the major targets of these attacks, the people living in the Central Area and in the Quad have also been victimized. A Central Area student left his dorm to walk his girlfriend to her room in Southwest. On his way back he decided to take a short-cut between Mahar and the Newman Center. As he walked between the two buildings, he was grabbed, beaten, and robbed by three non-students who had been hiding behind some trees. The trio was later apprehended.

On Friday, October 16, residents of the Quad experienced an assault on members of their community. A drunken AWOL GI physically attacked 6 different people in the Northeast Area. After he had assaulted two girls, some residents of Thatcher House chased him and eventually surrounded him in his car. He was arrested and later handed over to the military police.

"Incidents such as these", stated Cavanaugh, "can be partially attributed to the fact that the University is such a wide open place. Since there is a major road which cuts through the center of campus", he continued, "almost anyone passing through the area can park his car, get out, and go almost anywhere he wants to. Further investigations", he added, "are often hampered by the reluctance of many people to report assaults to us. We know", he stated, "that the nineteen assaults that have been reported are only a small fraction of those committed". The large number of non-students living near the campus were also mentioned as a possible cause of the problem.

DVP Tonight

The Distinguished Visitors Program will present a talk by the noted Canadian historian J.M.S. Careless, tonight at 8:15 p.m. in Thompson Hall 106.

His talk, "Canada: Neighbor or Nuisance," is open to the public without charge. He will discuss various facets of U.S.-Canada relations, including American draft resistors in Canada.

Dr. Careless received his Ph. D. from Harvard University in 1950 and has since taught at the University of Toronto. The author of many books, including "Canada and the Americas" and "The Union of the Canadas," Dr. Careless has twice been the recipient of the Governor General's Award for non-fiction.

Float Parade Winners

Complete results of Friday night's float parade have been announced by the Homecoming Committee.

In the dormitory division, Webster won top honors, Mary Lyon placed second, and Moore third. In the Greek division, Alpha Tau Gamma placed first, Beta Kappa Phi second, and Delta Chi third.

In the combined division, Iota Gamma Upsilon and Phi Sigma Delta placed first, Sigma Kappa and Theta Chi second, and Lambda Chi Alpha and Alpha Chi third. The entry of Iota Gamma Upsilon and Phi Sigma Delta was judged the grand prize winner.

Silver bowls will be presented to all these winners by the Homecoming Committee.

Christian Scientist On "Today's Prophet"

Joseph G. Heard

"Today's Prophet", a free lecture given by Christian Scientist Joseph G. Heard of Miami will be held tomorrow night at 7:30 in rooms 168-170 of the Campus Center. The talk is sponsored by the Christian Science Organization at UMass.

Mr. Heard, an attorney, left his law career in 1952 to enter the public healing ministry of Christian Science. He has been active in youth activities for The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, for a number of years.

After the lecture, Mr. Heard will answer questions from the floor. Christian Science literature will be made available by the Christian Science Organization today and tomorrow in the Campus Center and Student Union Lobbies, and after the lecture.

Student Employees To Form Committees

There will be another meeting to organize a Student Employee's Union at 6 p.m. tomorrow, in the Council Chambers of the Student Union. During last week's meeting it was made clear that no employee could be fired for reason of organizing, the audio-visual technicians presented grievances, and pay scale differences were discovered among the student employees present.

Tomorrow night student employees will meet to determine goals for each special interest group. Committees will be formed to research each group's goals and to decide on alternative directions. The meeting will continue past 7 p.m. for any interested Dining Commons workers.

Dick Howland, Student Senate legal advisor, will be present at the beginning to answer any questions concerning protection under law.

JOHN A. BARBARO

MDC Hotline 5-2550

Notaries Public Listed

The following Notaries Public can be contacted if you wish to have your ballot notarized:

Mr. Jake Bishop	Room 357, Whitmore
Mrs. Doris A. Dec	Room 232, Whitmore
Mr. Ward M. Hunting	Room 346, Chenoweth Lab
Mr. William H. Maus	Room 329, Whitmore
Mr. Sidney Myers	Room 424, Whitmore
Mr. Donald J. Pelkey	Room 217, Whitmore
Mr. Francis J. Teahan	Room 327, Whitmore
Mr. John C. Marchant	Physical Plant
Mr. Daniel H. Schwartz	Campus Security Security Bldg.
Mr. James Coopee	Room 301, Whitmore
Mr. Robert Garstka	Room 391, Whitmore
Mr. John DeNyse	Room 391, Whitmore
Mrs. Pauline Ashby	School of Education

A 15 MILE RIDE TO SAVE!
FROM AMHERST FOLLOW RT. 9 TO WARE (APROX. 15 MILES) TURN RIGHT ON RT. 32 WARE CENTER ...MALS 1 MILE ON RT. 32....50,000 SQ. FT. OF SAVINGS!

FAMOUS NAMES AT BIG SAVINGS FOR GUYS 'N GALS
•BELL BOTTOMS
•BODY SHIRTS
•SNEAKERS
•BOOTS
EVERYTHING!
DIRT CHEAP!
OPEN' TILL 10
mals
DISCOUNT DEPT. STORE
PHILLIP PLAZA
ROUTE 32, WARE

FOR Halloween Masks
AND Decorations
GO TO A.J. HASTINGS
NEWSDEALER
and STATIONIER
45 S. Pleasant St.
Amherst

EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO SKI
Tennis - Soccer - Football - Hockey
including professional fitting at WESTERN VILLAGE SKI SHOP
Western Auto
32 Main St., Northampton

3 WAYS TO KEEP TRACK OF SOME VERY IMPORTANT PEOPLE...

like Abbie, Arnie, Grand Funk, and Huey, Golda, Super Joe, Mick, Joni, William F., Lew and Mario, Angela, Spiro, Dick, Jackie, Juli, Arlo and Martha . . . in the three magazines that provide you with everything you ever wanted to know about important news . . . every week. TIME, LIFE and SPORTS ILLUSTRATED. And now you can follow the patterns and particulars of all the newsmakers in your TIME, LIFE or SPORTS ILLUSTRATED at the absolute minimum of cost. Send the student discount coupon to your TIME-LIFE representative or contact him at:

Vincent Barry
Campus Magazines
Post Office Box 773
Amherst, Mass. 01002

Student rates

TIME	SPORTS ILLUSTRATED	LIFE
☐ 27 weeks $3.97	☐ 26 weeks $3.97	☐ 27 weeks $2.97
☐ 1 year $7.50	☐ 1 year $8.50	☐ 1 year $6

Send me the magazine (or magazines) checked and bill me
Miss/Mrs./Mr. _____
Name _____ (please print)
Address _____ Apt. No.
City _____ State _____ Zip Code _____
Signed _____
☐ Undergraduate ☐ Graduate student
Name of college/university _____ Year studies end
Order not valid without above information. Rates subject to change without notice. Also available
☐ FORTUNE 1 year $9 (cash only)

Freinburg Applications Opened For Semester

UMass is now taking applications for its 1971-72 study program at the University of Freiburg in Germany.

Graduate and selected upper division undergraduate students from all colleges and universities are invited to apply.

Although the program is not restricted to students concentrating in German language and literature, the University of Freiburg requires all foreign students to pass its language proficiency test. The program begins with a several week orientation program which stresses the German language.

Courses are offered in the social sciences, arts and humanities, including comparative literature, political science, philosophy, history, music, English, economics, and German language and literature. The UMass department of anthropology offers special European studies in anthropology through its Freiburg Field Program affiliated with the study center.

Scholarships are available to outstanding students, and Fulbright scholarships may be applied to participation in the Freiburg program. University of Massachusetts students who receive financial aid may apply it towards their expenses in Freiburg.

The $2200 cost includes round-trip travel, room and board, tuition and fees. Not included are books, travel within Europe and miscellaneous fees.

Extending from the foothills of the Black Forest into the Rhine Valley of southwest Germany, Freiburg is renowned for its twelfth-century cathedral and open market.

Applications and additional information are available from Dr. Barbara B. Burn, Director of International Programs, Whitmore.

SWAP Sets Final Plans, Friday Last Day To Apply

Plans for the 1970 SWAP (Student Workshop on Activities Problems) conference are in the process of being finalized and it appears that the present committee co-chaired by Betty Pugh and Dick Palomba will make several changes in the hopes of increasing the conference's effectiveness.

There will be some variation on previous selection procedures. In the past Faculty, Administrators and Staff have been invited to the conference by the committee. This year, however there will be no invitations in the hope that the self-selected delegates will be more willing to participate in the two pre-SWAP meetings and will remain for the entire conference. There has been some difficulty with attendance in the past and the committee felt that the effectiveness of SWAP was hampered if conferees did not receive proper orientation or if they left prematurely. The deadline for all applications was set for Friday October 30.

The format of the conference will differ somewhat from past conferences in the sense that it will focus on action rather than ideas. Hopefully, SWAP conferees will be able to begin implementation of goals accepted throughout the University community such as improving "relations with the taxpayers of the Commonwealth" by exploring readily accessible University channels. It is expected that delegates chosen for expertise in a certain area will be particularly helpful here.

The possibility of sponsoring a continuation of SWAP '70 is also being delved into presently by the committee. It is not known at this time whether it will take the form of a similar follow-up conference in the Spring or an open campus-wide conclave on issues which affect the future of the University community.

SWAP

To apply:

Application blanks are available in the RSO office, Campus Center. They are to be filled out and returned before October 30th, either to RSO or to the box on the Lobby Counter in the Student Union.

If you wish, you may apply by answering the questions below and sending your answers to SWAP, RSO #305, Campus Center.

I. Name; Local address; Telephone; Class or Title; Major or Department.

II.

1. What are some of the important issues facing the University (please comment even if you don't know very much about them)?
2. What issues do you know or care about that you would like considered at SWAP?
3. What would you like to gain or learn from SWAP?
4. What interests, experience or knowledge do you have that will make you a useful SWAP participant?
5. Have you participated in SWAP? If so, in what year?

III. Please give any suggestions you may have about the following: a) program content; b) program format; c) suggested participants.

The SWAP Committee is planning a follow-up Conference on-campus during the Spring semester. Do you have any suggestions about this Conference?

SO APPLY! for more information, see page 4

MFA Poetry Set Tomorrow

The Master of Fine Arts in English program is sponsoring a series of poetry beginning this Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall lounge.

The scheduled readers for this week are Jane Lunin and Robert Bohm.

After they are finished an informal open poetry reading session will be held. This is open to any member of the University community who would like to present his works before an audience.

Other scheduled dates in the series are November 17 and December 19, both in Memorial Hall.

Anyone who wishes to be placed on the list of scheduled readers should contact the coordinator of the series, Bill Tremblay, in Bartlett Hall. His phone number is 545-1882.

New England's Largest College Daily

An open figure drawing class will be held tonight in Marshall Annex (room 6) from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The class will be meeting Monday and Wednesday evenings. This is not a course and there will be a 50¢ charge to cover the model's fee.

IMAGE BREAKER
389 Main St. Athol, Mass.
Rte 2 — either by Rt. 91 or Daniel Shay's Hwy
Mon. - Fri. 10 a.m. - 10 p.m.
Sat., 10 a.m. - 6 p.m.
Heavy Quality Goods for MIND and SOUL
(617) 249-4802

MAXI-DRESSES
VILLAGE CRAFTSMAN
181 NORTH PLEASANT ST.
AMHERST 253-9306

Large Draft Hour
12 oz. BEER 15¢ 12 oz. BEER
9:00-10:00 Tonight — 2 Pizza Slices 25¢
then
THE FABULOUS "D J" til 1:00
at the
ALL NEW MEADOW INN
Rt. 47 (Come see our new bar) Sunderland

AMHERST Cinema
Now Showing Evenings 7:15 and 9:10
PARAMOUNT PICTURES PRESENTS HENRY MILLER'S Tropic Of Cancer
X
Starring RIP TORN DAVID BAUER PHIL BROWN ELLEN BURSTYN JAMES CALLAHAN LAURENCE LUCKINBILL
Produced and Directed by JOSEPH STRICK Screenplay by JOSEPH STRICK and BETTY BOTLEY COLOR A PARAMOUNT PICTURE
Plus Shorts at 6:45 and 8:40
Soon - "ON A CLEAR DAY" Streisand

CONCERTS PICNICS LECTURES
COMMUNITY PROJECTS CAMPUS AFFAIRS MOVIES DANCES

FRESHMEN, you can help plan and run these and many other events through class government.

RUN FOR A CLASS OFFICE ! !

Nomination Papers due October 28 before 5:00 p.m.
Primary Elections November 3 (9-5 in the Cape Cod Lounge, S.U.)
Final Elections November 10 (9-5 in the Cape Cod Lounge, S.U.)

ALL CHILDREN AND PARENTS ARE INVITED TO A

HALLOWEEN PARTY

OCTOBER 29, 1970
COMMONWEALTH ROOM
STUDENT UNION
7-9 P.M.

MDC Feature

Campus Police Combat Car Vandalism

by WAYNE SOINI
Staff Reporter

Vandalism of parked cars is a chronic problem of this university. Literally hundreds of cars are vandalized annually as they set in one of the lots of our campus. Dozens of students are victimized weekly by car damage and removal of material from their cars. The rather isolated lots of hundreds of cars near Southwest are particularly set upon by vandals. Campus police are pressed to their outermost limits in an effort to protect student cars. The problem seems to be growing inspite of all efforts and the police now ask for student aid.

How can you help?

There being no one else on campus to watch out for students' cars, try to be alert when you walk through or by campus parking-lots. If you see someone working on a car, note it, and call the campus police at 545-2121. An officer will be at the lot within minutes to check the license with registration. Police are aware of the occasional bother this will cause car-owners repairing their own cars, but past experience recently has shown car-owners themselves approve of this procedure and are most co-operative. Vandals have already been apprehended successfully in this way.

Police also request, please just observe and report. Tapping that fellow on the shoulder as an amateur detective not only endangers you but makes his immediate escape likely. Campus police are waiting to be called, hope you will call promptly and be specific about lot number and location within the lot. No names need be given. With a real student effort the parking lots could be reversed from a vandal's paradise into the most "vandal-proof" lots in the state.

Vandals, of course, are not the only ones engaged in activities in the parking lots. Car-thieves have made off with thirteen vehicles since September 1, including three stolen Saturday night or early Sunday, October 25. All are still missing.

Without student efforts, the police can only generally patrol the whole area of the campus. Telephones are the best and most effective way to beef up protection of student property. The car you are protecting may be your own!

The owners of the following cars are in various states of inconvenience and would sorely appreciate help from fellow students in locating the vehicles. As with the vandalism reporting, reporting of (NOT action about) a stolen car is what the police are requesting. Try to be alert and report promptly and specifically the sighting of any of the following:

1971 Jeep Dune-buggy	(no plates)	florescent purple
1968 Porsch	U43092(Mass.)	dark blue
1967 Austin-Healy convert.	63537L(Mass.)	green & black
1967 MG 2-door sedan	ELP985(N.J.)	beige
1966 Triumph convert.	62487Y(Mass.)	black & green
1966 Triumph convert.	19576K(Mass.)	dark blue
1963 VW sedan	K90881(Mass.)	green
1965 Pontiac	674642(Mass.)	green
1964 Triumph	5011506(N.J.)	white & blue
1964 VW convert.	57457L(Mass.)	green
1965 Toyota stationwagon	F40843(Mass.)	beige
1963 VW convert.	71325F(Mass.)	red
1958 Chevrolet convert.	E47691(Mass.)	blue & white

transcendental meditation

as taught by

Maharishi Mahesh Yogi

Transcendental meditation is a natural spontaneous technique which allows each individual to expand his conscious mind and improve all aspects of life.

introductory lecture

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29th

SBA 120 8:00 P.M.

IS L.B.J. COMING TO U. MASS NOV. 14??

ROOM TO MOVE
Campus Drug Drop-In Center
CALL 5-0400
24 HOURS A DAY
7 DAYS A WEEK

SELF-DEVELOPMENT THROUGH SELF-KNOWLEDGE

Axiometric analysis of judgmental abilities shows strengths and weaknesses in judgment, problem-solving, concentration, value capacities.

Write
AXIOMETRIC TESTING SERVICE
589 EAST HUNT ROAD
ALCOA, TENNESSEE 37701

Support Those Running For Class Office... Run Against Them!

Make them prove that they are the best for the job.

Nomination papers due Oct. 28, by 5:00 p.m.
Level 1, C.C. outside of Student Activities
November 3rd — Primary Elections
November 10th — Final Elections

• 3 THEATRES UNDER 1 ROOF •

Campus Cinemas
256-6411
AMHERST-HADLEY LINE

1 SUN. thru THURS. 7 & 9
FRI. & SAT. 7 & 9:45, Sun. Mat. 2
R
CANDICE BERGEN · PETER STRAUSS
SOLDIER BLUE

2 The beauty of creating life. The freedom to give it away.
Nightly at 7 & 9
Sun. Mat. 2
The Baby Maker R
Starring BARBARA HERSHEY

3 A MIKE NICHOLS FILM
ALAN ARKIN
in
CATCH-22
Nightly at 7 & 9:15
Sun. Mat. 2

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

Pioneer, Teac, Garrard, FE Aztec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, LPs, 8 track and other necessities. Amherst Audio. tf12-23

Puppies — Alaskan Malamute Sled Dogs, excellent pedigree, ideal pets. Call Greenfield 773-8411 after 5:30 p.m. tf10-30

Guitars way below retail prices, brand new and overstocked, accessories, electric-acoustic classical $30 and up, most $89. On campus call; 546-7072 or 549-6744, leave number. tf10-29

High power stereo outfit, Scott amp, Garrard changer w/Grado BTE cartridge, Electro-voice 15 inch Coax speakers, $125. Bruce 253-2213. tf11-2

1964 Volkswagen bus with gas heater and other accessories. Price $850.00. Call 586-2590. tf10-29

67 Chevrolet Impala SS 2 dr. 327, 350 hp, 4 speed posi. Immaculate. Will sacrifice. Call 546-6518. 10-28

1962 Rambler, good condition, 665-3072, ask for Nancy. tf11-2

PA sound equip., amps, mixers, mikes. Also ITU 6 volt transistor radio for VW. Call 665-3072, ask for Paul tf11-2

Sony Tape Recorder, model 230 stereo, can be made into a deck. One year old, cost new $230, will sell for $110. Call 253-2193. tf10-29

FOR SALE — AUTOS

Classic 68 Barracuda 340, auto., P.S., radio, polyglass. Call eves. 549-6547. 1019—T1-23-27-29

1963 Ford Galaxy, $350 or best offer. Call after 5:30. 253-7750. tf10-23-30

63 Chevy Impala, 3 speed shift. Good running condition. Must sell. Call after 4 o'clock 549-6648. 10-26-27-28

1966 Austin Healy Sprite convert. Must sell to pay hospital bills. $800 or best offer. Carole 547-8228. 10-26-27-28

67 Chrysler $75 or best offer, good running condition. Ph. 253-2118 tf10-99

1968 Rambler, good condition, 665-3072, ask for Nancy. tf10-30

Rambler 770, 1966 288 8 cyl., 4 barrel, 4500 miles, conv., new brakes, hooks, carb., runs real good Call Rob at Sig Ep, Bob Nugent, 545-0076 tf10-30

62 Chevy, 6 cyl., automatic, good condition. Call Sandra 253-7264. tf10-30

WANTED

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthology. Please include stamped return envelope. Idlewild Press, 1507 East Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

SERVICES

Will type and/or revise any written material. Also do personalized resumes for schools, jobs. Professional, fast, reasonably priced service. Call 584-6617, eves. Keep trying. tf11-6

Computer Science Tutoring and Programming available. Call Al 256-6258. tf10-23-30

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car, 107 No. Pleasant St. 256-8133. tf12-23

FOR RENT

2 bdrm. apt. in Sunderland, available at week in Nov. Big kitchen, living room, and attic for storage. Rent $100/mo. plus heat and elec. Call 665-3060 evenings or anytime weekends. tf10-30

One bedroom apt. at Cliffside Apts., Sunderland. $135 monthly with all utilities, garbage disposal, dishwasher, etc., swimming pool, tennis courts, call 665-3064 after 6 p.m., before 9 a.m. tf10-29

LECTURE SERIES

Opening October 31, 1970, School of Psychographicology, Free lecture by Manny O'Connell, originator of the study, at Hotel Northampton. Time: 7:30 p.m. tf10-30

RIDE WANTED

To Spfld, Winchester Sq., mornings and back at night. Will pay well. Call Diane at 665-3090 after 6 p.m. tf10-30

ROOMMATES WANTED

1 or 2 roommates for large house in South Hadley. Own room. Call 6-0286, ask for Jean. tf10-29

PERSONAL

Can a girl be beautiful and socially aware??? Amherst man seeks not a self-centered young lady. Call John 527-6133. 10-28

To Sunday night at the Union candy counter from chunky and the 3 Musketeers: can't expect 9:30 to last forever but I'd like to see you again (before Sunday) Name or other cosmic clue. 10-28

Repair Your Own Car

Tremendous savings on plugs, points, regulators, wipe-blades, headlamps, muffler-tape, and oil treatments. Mals Discount Dept. Store, Rt. 32, Philip Plaza, Ware. Open nights til 10. 10-28

PAINTS! PAINTS!

All top quality, latex, vinyl and oil base paint at less than ½ price. Paint an entire room for less than $3.99. Mals Discount Dept. Store, Rt. 32, Philip Plaza, Ware. Open nights til 10. 10-28

GIVE AWAY

Adorable gray tiger kitten who wants a good home. Call 546-6719. 10-28

CHEF WANTED

Berkshire resort restaurant looking for chef, creative, preferably young outlook, able to handle all phases, incl. menu planning, purchasing, work prep., 55 hr. week. Salary open. Amherst Empl. Service, Inc., 22 Pray St., Amherst, Mass. tf10-30

Notices

APO HOMECOMING RAFFLE
Homecoming ticket raffle drawing to be held Thursday night, Oct. 29th at 8:30 in the Norfolk room of the Student Union.

BICYCLE CLUB
The UMass Bicycle is holding its second trip this Saturday to Puffers Pond, Amherst and vicinity. Meet at 10 A.M. sharp in front of the Newman Center and don't forget your lunch.

BIOCHEMISTRY SEMINAR
Dr. Irving Patterson, Food Science and Technology, Chemoreth Laboratory will speak on "Occurrence of Polycyclic Aromatic Hydrocarbons in Foods," on Thursday, Oct. 29th in Room 253 Goessmann Laboratory at 11:00 A.M. Coffee will be served at 11:15 A.M.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST
College Lieutenant Lounge, 8:00 PM tonight. Hear John Fitty "Edupath-thesetup" Entertainment door prize. Its all open to you.

CEQ
Pesticides workshop. Wednesday October 28th in Campus Center 165 at 7:00 pm. Speaker will be Rohe Hubley from Massachusetts Audubon Society.

UMASS CHESS CLUB
Match with Springfield Chess Club, Thursday, Oct. 29th. The meeting will begin at 7 PM in room 811 of the Campus Center. All welcome!

COLLEGIATE FLYING CLUB
Private pilot ground school, room 804 Campus Center 7 PM. Relax flying is fun.

FREE UNIVERSITY
Space isn't a place until it attains communal expression. The old bookstore is ours.

UNDERGRAD GOVERNMENT MAJORS
An organizational meeting Wednesday, Oct. 28th, 7:30 PM, rooms 168, 170, 172 Campus Center to discuss problems in the department and formation of a council.

HILLEL
Board meeting Thursday night at 6:30 PM, in Nantucket Room Student Union. All invited.

5 COLLEGE HOMOPHILE LEAGUE
Meeting Thursday evening, Oct. 29th. These weekly meetings provide an opportunity for gay people to meet and relate to one another. Call Kathy 665-2853 or Jerry 586-1602 for information.

INTERVARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Important meeting for all interested in IVCF Inc faculty. Crisis in communication and fragmentation: IV needs help!! Please come back of the Hatch 7:30 PM. Thursday.

LAMBDA DELTA PHI
Jim Allen will show slides and speak on the Peace Corps in Africa. This presentation is open to the public. Anyone interested, please come Wednesday, Oct. 28th from 7:00-8:30, 389 North Pleasant St.

MEHER BABA LEAGUE
Meeting Thursday, Oct. 29th at 7:30, room 165 in the Campus Center. Anyone interested in discussing religion, drugs and BABA is cordially invited.

MHFC
All interested in forming UMass Chapter of MHFC please call 6-6809, or 6-6821 for further information.

NAIADS
Meeting today, please bring money for club suits.

NEWMAN CLUB
Meeting 7 PM, Oct. 29th at the Newman Center Student Office. All persons interested in the Thanksgiving Food Drive to benefit needy in Springfield please attend.

PRE AND PARA MEDICAL SOCIETY
Distinguished lecturers program presents Dr. Morton Wilder, Microbiologist. Topic: "Venereal Disease Epidemic." Wednesday, November 4th 8 PM in old Senate Chambers, S.U. All medically affiliated people welcome.

RAFI
RAFI members please call Sue at 6-6356 in Southwest or Mark at 6-6184 in Quad, Central, or Orchard to work on telephone squad.

SIGMA ALPHA MU
Open House. Live Band-Genesis.

SOCIOLOGY 101-161-104
Make-up exam for Mid-Semester, Thursday at 4:40. Place in Thursday's paper.

SOCIOLOGY 101
Films this week: "The Jungle" and "Obedience." Wednesday in Mahar, 4:40, 8:00 and 10:00.

SPANISH CLUB
Anyone interested in Spanish, come hear Damaso Alonso speak on the novel tonight at 8:00 in Herter Hall room 231.

STUDENT MOBE
Expanded steering committee tonight at 8 PM in SMC Office. All SMC re's please attend. Final preparation for Oct. 31st. Bring all the troops home now and defend the Kent 25.

THINK TANK
Retraction: The meeting for undergraduates concerning the School of Ed. scheduled for November 2nd, has been postponed.

TODAY'S PROPHET
Joseph Heard of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship will tell why prophets are needed in today's world. Question period afterward. Thursday, Oct. 29th (evening) 7:30, Rooms 168-170 Campus Center.

LOST
Girl's gold Hamilton watch, lost in the Orchard Hill area. Information or whereabouts contact Cathy 546-6749.

Tan kitten 10 to 12 weeks old-vicinity of East Main Street. Call 253-7089.

Girl's opal ring in the vicinity of Kennedy Middle or Thompson Hall, of sentimental value. Call 546-7744 or 546-5353.

Green and chrome Schwinn 3-speed, from back of Chadbourne. John in 320 Chadbourne.

Money Order $40.00, lost in Union, Tuesday noon. Please return, the money was for my sister who has been in an accident. Call Art Office 5-2574, 5-2659 or 545-2750, Patricia Corcoran.

No notice may exceed twenty-five words.

Deadline for notices is 2:00 P.M. on the preceding day.

There is a one day maximum for all notices.

Pinnings and engagements will appear on Fridays.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

by SYDNEY OMARR

I have never met an individual who seriously studied the subject of astrology and completely dismissed it as worthless. It usually is just the opposite. Many who become involved with astrology start out as skeptics, attempting to disprove it. Astrology is no gaudace. But it is a valuable tool for self-help and for detecting future trends and cycles. It is a scientific art which has flourished for at least 5,000 years and is going stronger than ever in this so-called Age of Aquarius.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Legal matters that appear settled may come apart at the seams. Unusual happenings center about partnership, marriage. Avoid trying to commit others to definite stand.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Unusual procedures succeed — applies especially to career, employment areas. Key is to be imaginative, versatile. One who performs special service could make extraordinary request.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Good lunar aspect coincides with romance, creative efforts, dealings with children. Go slow on speculation. Double check facts, records. Avoid extravagance.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): What appears settled may undergo revision. Applies especially to home, property. Domestic situation could be slightly hectic. Make some changes — and concessions.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Journey may find you taking different or surprise route. Relative figures prominently. Routine may undergo transformation. Be flexible.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Money situation is not stable. Guard valuables. Don't go in for get-rich-quick scheme. Maintain steady course. Be analytical. Avoid tendency toward self-deception, wishful thinking.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Put original ideas, concepts into motion. Adhere to your own principles. Your style impresses, succeeds. Know this and act accordingly. Envious individual may criticize.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): What was blocked is released — including emotions. Express yourself. Many, even those at a distance, will respond. Strive for universal appeal.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Messages should be answered. Take initiative in making contacts, requests. Throw aside false modesty. State needs. Accent on fulfillment of hopes, desires.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Money comes from occupational efforts. You can gain public favor. You do this by acting in calm, quiet and direct manner. Cancer individual is ready to co-operate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): You get action on requests. There's a flurry of activity. Communication lines are cleared. Results of past efforts are made known. Individual at a distance plays key role.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Secrets, behind-scenes maneuvers are stressed. Your efforts may gain public notice. Be sure meanings are crystal clear. Friends act in your behalf. IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY project which was started early this year begins to bear fruit. You are a dynamic person, independent, with plenty of original ideas.

Copyright 1970, Gen. Fea. Corp.

SCS Corp.
STEREO COMPONENTS at SPECIAL PRICES
Ex. Kenwood KR-100 Receiver
List $300.00
$220.00
Campus Reps: Call
Matt 546-9432
Bob 546-9447

Is our image slipping?

Some people may have us wrong. It's possible.

For instance, we Paulists are known for the printed and the spoken word. Books, radio, and TV. The glamorous world.

But there is another, bigger world in which the Paulist moves . . .

A dusty corner in Utah where Paulists offer material and spiritual relief to migrant workers.

An area known as East Village and a Paulist who understands the meaning of "taking a trip."

A Newman Center on a troubled college campus and a priest who is not a judge but an understanding ear and a mediator.

Being a Paulist isn't easy.

Being a Paulist isn't glamorous.

It's better.

For more information on Paulist priestly spirit write to:

Rev. Donald C. Campbell, C.S.P.
Vocation Director

Paulist Fathers
Room 112
415 West 59th Street
New York, N.Y. 10019

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

PEW SPRAT LOT
ARA NEARS ADO
WINTER MARRED
TEEMS REI
SHED AHA PATS
LED ENERGETIC
AA AWE GAL NA
PRETENDER PER STET TIN ROSE RAW STEEL
SPIRIT INDIAN ORE FIEND TRI
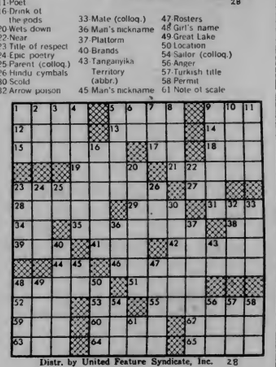
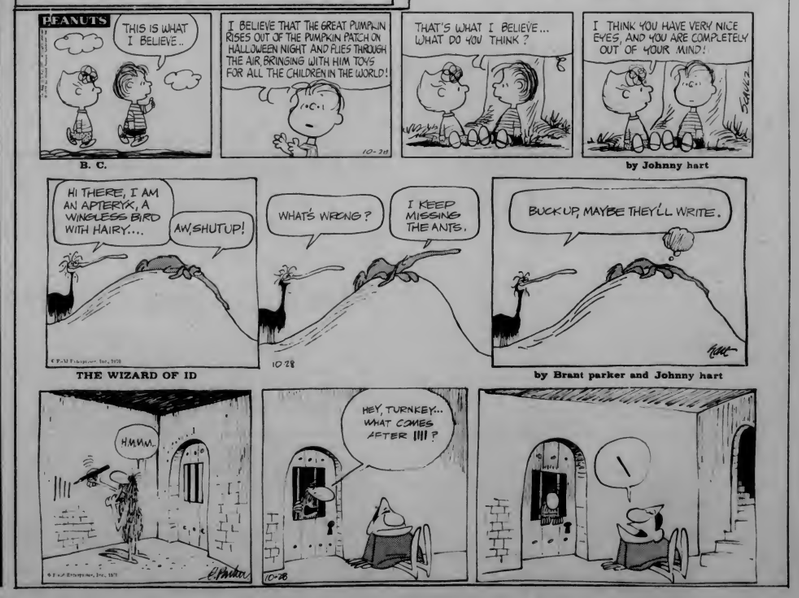
NOR ETNAS EEL



28

ACROSS



1 Manner of running
5 Speck
9 Fairy queen
12 Skin ailment
13 Delphinidae cetacean
14 A state (abbr.)
15 Becomes aware of
17 Teutonic deity
18 Comparative ending
19 Musical instrument
21 Tilled
23 Member of political party
27 Symbol for tellurium
28 Separate
29 Detace
31 Plunge
34 A state (abbr.)
35 Piece of needlework
38 A continent (abbr.)
39 Worm
41 Fish eggs
42 One who casts ballot
44 Symbol for tantalum
46 Joined 48 Repasts
51 Dines
52 Limb
53 Pronoun
55 Continued story
59 Tear
60 27th President
62 Force onward
63 Affirmative
64 Periods of time
65 Flesh

DOWN

1 Female (colloq.)
2 High card
3 Girl's name
4 Frights
5 Covetous person
6 Preposition
7 Gravel
8 Merit
9 Crippled
10 Toward shelter
11 Poet
16 Drink of the gods
20 Wets down
22 Near
23 Title of respect
24 Epic poetry
25 Parent (colloq.)
26 Hindu cymbals
30 Scold
32 Arrow poison
33 Mate (colloq.)
36 Mah's nickname
37 Platform
40 Brands
43 Tanganyika Territory (abbr.)
45 Mah's nickname
47 Rosters
48 Girl's name
49 Great Lake
50 Location
54 Sailor (colloq.)
56 Anger
57 Turkish title
58 Permit
61 Note of scale

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 28

Redman Booters Upset By Defense-Conscious WPI

UMass' awesome offense was thwarted throughout yesterday's soccer game by Worcester Polytech's sticky defense and the Redmen's six-game undefeated streak was halted by a 3-2 score.

In a game that was dominated by the Redmen, the wind and penalties played the biggest roles in Tech's upset win. For the game the Redmen fired 14 shots on net while W.P.I. could manage just five, but the Engineers made the most of them.

UMass started the game facing a stiff wind, but still got the game's first goal on a nifty pass across the goal mouth by Lindo Alves to Mark Cantor who easily beat Tech's goalie Sund. This goal came at 5:30 and it looked like the Big Red machine was going to roll again.

Just two minutes later, Worcester tied the score on a head in by Blaisdell, with the assist going to Kern. Kern made this play go as he dribbled through four or five UMass defenders to set up the easy shot.

That was all the scoring in the first quarter and the two teams settled down to play strictly defensive soccer. UMass got its second goal at 12:00 of the second period on a bruising play by co-captain Rick Matuszczak. Mark Cantor set this goal up with a gloating pass that both Matuszczak and Sund reached at the same time. The UMass senior inside-wing rammed his head at the ball and knocked it out of Sund's hands and into the net.

In the first half UMass had ten shots to one for W.P.I. But still the Redmen had just a slim one goal lead.

The wind really picked up in the third period and Tech had it blowing at its backs. Consequently the Engineers dominated most of the third period. After just two minutes W.P.I. seemingly scored on a wind-blown corner kick, but the goal was disallowed as the referee ruled one of the forwards interfered with goalie Bill Leary. The game continued to be played in the Redmen's half of the field, but the UMass defense prevented Tech from getting any shots at all. The game then was decided in the next six minutes on three different penalties. W.P.I. tied the game at 11:55 when Blaisdell curled an indirect kick into the upper left corner of the net. This shot was exceptionally fine and Leary had no chance at all.

Worcester scored its final goal and the game-winner at 16:44 on a penalty kick by St. Victor. He calmly rolled the ball into the left corner and gave his team a 3-2 lead.

About a minute later the Redmen got a break and had a penalty kick when a W.P.I. defenseman put his hands on a Redman shot. Alves took the kick, but got under the ball too much and sent it over the net. It's not too often when anyone misses a penalty kick but this one came at a most crucial time and forced the Redmen to play a harried game during the last period.

NET-MINDED-Bill Davidson (31) and Lindo Alves guide ball towards goal at yesterday's exciting game against Worcester Polytech. W.P.I. won 3-2 (MDC photo by Gary Slickman)

The Redmen had the wind for the last period, but W.P.I. decided to sit on its lead and play tough defense. UMass was thwarted every time it got the ball within range of the net. And when the Redmen did get shots away Sund was there to make the stop.

During the last six minutes of the game, UMass let loose a barrage of shots, but Sund made some incredible saves. With just two minutes left in the game Alves sent a screaming line drive at an empty right side of the W.P.I. net, but Sund came out of the blue and with that save dashed UMass' dream of an undefeated season.

Although UMass played a good offensive game, and although the penalties did hurt the Redmen; W.P.I. played its defensive type of game. The Engineers laid back and waited for the breaks. They made the most of them as they scored three goals on just five shots.

UMass can't dwell too long on this defeat though, because on Saturday it faces another fierce struggle with Vermont. A win against the Catamounts in Burlington would place the UMass squad in great shape for the Yankee Conference title.

And then next Wednesday the feature game of the year occurs when the Redmen host Springfield College. Hope is that the Big Red machine hasn't been derailed, just slightly detoured.

YanCon Chooses Hughes

UMass quarterback Ken Hughes, Maine end Mike Landry and New Hampshire halfback Greg Scott have been chosen as the top offensive, defensive and sophomore players in the yankee Conference for their performances last Saturday.

Hughes, a 5'11 180-lb. senior, completed 12 of 25 passes for 157 yards and gained 53 rushing as UMass battled to a 21-21 Conference tie with league leader UConn.

Landry, a 6'1 205-lb. senior, caught the quarterback four times for losses, caused a fumble and helped hold favored C.W. Post to 46 yards rushing as Maine got its first win of the season 42-8.

Scott, a 5'11 185-lb. soph, netted 98 yards rushing on 17 carries, including two touchdowns as UNH won its third straight game, 33-7 over Northeastern.

Other candidates were: Offense - guard Bill Spencer, UConn, quarterback Bob Hopkins, UNH, halfback Bill Swadel (Maine), flanker Bob Sadowski (Vermont) and guard Jay Monaghan, URI; Defense - halfback Greg Andrews, UConn, tackle Nelson Cassavaugh, UNH, linebacker Rich Rostowski (Vermont), end John Devaney, URI, and linebacker Dennis Collins, UMass; Sophomore - halfback Juan Madry, UConn, quarterback Sandy Hastings (Maine), safety Tom Nieradka (Vermont) and guard Jim Queeney, UMass.

Frosh Gridders Beaten

By DAN KAMAL
Staff Reporter

Injuries and often listless play sent the UMass freshman football team to its third straight defeat, 35-14 to URI Monday afternoon at Kingston.

UMass opened the scoring as it took the opening kickoff and marched about 65 yards, with Paul Hanson playing quarterback at the time, capping off the drive with a 25-yard run.

URI came back quickly, however, and tied the score as quarterback Jim Purcell completed the first of three touchdown passes, this one a 35-yarder to knot the game at 7-7.

The Ram defense scored the next TD for the home team when it turned a blocked punt into a touchdown. This put URI ahead 14-7.

The Little Redmen came storming back to tie it up at 14-14 on the very next drive. Phil Roland, Tom McMahon, and Jim Mahaney did the bulk of the running on this drive, but it was Ken Hoff who bulled his way into the end zone on a crucial fourth-and-goal situation at the URI one yard line.

At this point, however, the complexion of the game turned completely to URI's favor. A short punt by UMass late in the second quarter gave the Rams good field position, and set the stage for Purcell's second TD pass of the day, which made the score 21-14.

On the ensuing drive, UMass fumbled on their own ten-yard line, and with six seconds left in the half, Purcell hit for his third scoring strike of the game. This propelled URI into a commanding 28-14 lead at half time.

The game seesawed back and forth in the last two periods until late in the game when URI tallied the final score to end it at 35-14.

UMass suffered four costly injuries in the games, and with its acute lack of depth, this hurt immensely.

Coach David Kelley refused to use this as an excuse, however, and instead blamed the poor performance on the fact that his team was "not mentally ready and therefore played quite listlessly and with little desire."

Despite the generally inept showing of his team, Kelley did manage to find words of praise for running backs Phil Roland, Ken Hoff, and Jim Mahaney.

MDC
SPORTS HOTLINE
5-0344

Sports Notices

QUARTERBACK CLUB - The seventh, of 11 weekly UMass Redmen Quarterback Club Luncheons, will be held at the Newman Center today at 12:15, to let out promptly at 1:15. A film of the UMass-Connecticut game will be shown. Also featured will be the awards for the offensive and defensive players of the week, a scouting report on Vermont (UMass' next opponent), a door prize and a raffle of choice game tickets.

*****

INTRAMURAL MEETING - A compulsory meeting for all paid officials of intramural basketball will be held in room 17 of Boyden today at 6:30 p.m.

*****

FEMALE COXSWAINS - Female coxswains are not needed but strong freshmen at least 6'1 and 185 pounds are needed for the UMass crew team. No previous crew experience is desirable. If one is an athlete and wants to try crew, he should contact the crew office in 211 Boyden to find out. The phone numbers to contact would be 5-2801 during days or 253-3576 during nights after 9. At these numbers ask for Kurt Betchick.

*****

INTRAMURAL BOWLING - All bowling teams entered in the intramural tournament may have a practice today from 6:30 to 8:30 or 8:30 to 10:30. Teams must sign up with the bowling alley manager to reserve a lane.

Intramurals

TUG-O-WAR
Semi-Finals
Pied Pipers 2, 3 M's 0
CO-REC BEEF PULL
Lemons 2, Lovers 1
LXO 2, Cougars 0
Dogs and AXO, df

TONIGHT'S INTRAMURALS
Time: 7
Pit: 1
Teams: KS and Pied Pipers
Event: Tug-o-War campus championship

sPorts ShorTiEs

— AP —

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Texas coach Darrell Royal likes the Longhorns' new No. 1 ranking in The Associated Press college football poll, but he says it is just going to make things harder the rest of the season.

Pipers Campus Champs

In the championship final of the intramural touch football season, the Hamlin Pied Pipers, resident hall representatives, nipped Phi Sigma Delta of the fraternity division, 30-24, on a touchdown and an extra point in the last minute of play.

Going into the last moments of play, the Pied Pipers were held on four downs. PSD took over but couldn't move the ball, surrendering it quickly to the Hamlin Team.

On the very next play from scrimmage, the Piper quarterback lofted an aerial down the right sideline that the end caught; he gave a good move on the defender and went into the endzone untouched. The extra point was good for the 30th point.

On the ensuing kickoff, Phi Sig took over again. On two passes it moved the ball close to paydirt but couldn't push it across in three plays as the game ended on the final count of 30-24.

Leading scorer for the winners was Dutkanicz, who had three TD's and two points-after-touchdown for an excellent total of 20. Hamlin's next best scorer was Moreau with six markers. For the PSD squad, Lewis had 18 points and Lauria chipped in with six.

This championship game was marked by a lot of offense, a tilt that saw but three punts. The final overall standings in intramural football has the Pied Pipers first followed by Phi Sigma Delta second and Team third.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOLUME XCVIII ISSUE 36 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1970

Senators Consider Violence, Firearms

See Page Three

POINT OF ORDER - Senator Leo Clark has all he can do to contain himself as the Student Senate debates a motion on campus fire arms last night. Clark survived and the Senate adjourned. For other details on the meeting, see page three (MDC photo by G.B. Fullerton)

Dispite Strike, Last Semester Grades Normal

Details, Page Two

Black Solidarity Day Detailed

See Page Two

Security Proposals Reviewed By Tippo

By ANNE STADNICKI
Staff Reporter

Chancellor Oswald Tippo will rule this week on a desperately needed security proposal, arrived upon through the combined efforts of Dr. Randolph W. Bromery's staff and an ad hoc committee of heads of residence, as was announced at a meeting between the groups yesterday morning.

Dr. Bromery serves as special assistant to the chancellor on student affairs.

Nine heads of residence representing Central, Northeast, and Southwest areas met yesterday with Dr. Douglas Forsyth and Dallas Darland from the office of the assistant to the Chancellor to discuss what security measures were to be effected.

The meeting followed a conference Monday at which heads of residence rehashed with Dr. Tippo the incidents which led to an emergency meeting called by them last week.

Over thirty security proposals from different dormitories have been submitted to the administration in the wake of the recent attacks on students and thefts and damages incurred in and around dormitories.

Dr. Forsythe said that a bill would be recommended to Tippo by Dr. Bromery.

The proposal advocates hiring 22 additional security guards. This would bring the total to 30 permanent security positions. Students would not be eligible.

Two resident hall assistants for each dorm, probably students, would be hired with the remaining funds (from professional staff 03 money). These people would fill the openings left vacant by work-study deficiencies.

On a rotating weekly basis, from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. the guards would be stationed at every corner dorm of the Quad, one in each tower in Southwest, and one each in Crampton, Patterson, and Van Meter, said Forsyth.

The pay rate should also be higher on weekends, he added, since the job entails much more work.

The student assistants could also be trained by Mr. Fitzpatrick, head of security, to cope with difficult situations.

The dormitory heads asked to be included in selecting the security guards, since they want responsible people to work with them. They also hope that in the near future they will be allowed the funds and freedom to man their own security programs rather than depend on University wide measures.

Heads of residence stressed that this is an emergency proposal. They demanded that an optional budget for security be recommended in the supplement for next year.

Although disagreeing that 30 guards are adequate for the 51 dorms presently occupied on campus, the residence heads felt that the suggested proposal was an improvement over present security measures.

Grades Weren't Any Higher Due To Last Spring's Strike

by KAREN DeGRACE
Staff Reporter

Despite the leniency of last spring's grading policy, "more people didn't come out ahead". Such is the word from the Provost's office, according to Richard Story, Assistant to the Chancellor.

Changes in the patern of grades awarded were apparent last spring. Figures released by Story compare a "normal" semester's disbribution of undergraduate grades (based on grade reports) to the situation which occurred as a result of the strike.

	A	B	C	D	F/WF	INC.	W/WP	BLANK	P	TOTAL	% OF PASSING GRADES
Spring '68	10,714	23,347	21,462	6,216	3,635	89	1,614	1,879		68,956	89.8
Fall '69	12,131	24,916	23,031	6,754	3,876	146	2,879	3,507		77,240	86.5
Spring '69	14,227	24,169	19,916	5,602	3,472	148	2,398	3,339		73,271	87.2
Fall '69	12,574	23,959	19,434	4,878	3,152	304	4,520	2,160	5,984	76,965	86.8
Spring '70	14,125	20,749	6,647	1	49	2,463	6,389	845	23,108	74,376	86.9

In addition, figures supplied by Mr. Jones, undergraduate registrar, indicate that there were only three academic dismissals in spring '70 as compared to 355 in June '69.

Such statistics need to be analyzed if they are to be interpreted in proper perspective. Mr. Story provided a brief analysis in a Colegian interview.

"Students only took advantage of the strike to change the grading pattern", he bagan. He then stressed the fact that students did not "take advantage" in the sense of passing more courses than they would have in any normal semester, for the variation in the percentage of passing grades is, he said, statistically insignificant.

Teach-In Highlights "Black Solidarity Day"

Black students and faculty of UMass, Mr. Holyoke, Smith and Hampshire Colleges will hold a Teach in at the Student Union Ballroom of the University beginning at 10 a.m. November 2nd, 1970.

The teach in will cover the general topic "The Struggle for Liberation: Black Students and Black Studies" and will coincide with national "Black Solidarity Day" celebrations taking place in black communities across the country.

The main speaker at the Teach-in will be Dr. Wilfred Cartey, a Pan Africanist scholar at Columbia University who will speak on "Black Culture and Black Consciousness: The Road to Unity" in the afternoon session. Dr. Cartey is the author of the book WHISPERS FROM A CONTINENT an account of the resurgence of African culture in post-colonial Africa.

"The purpose of the gathering," according to Mike Thelwell-Acting Head of the W.E.B. DuBois Department of Afro-American Studies, "is much more than symbolic. There is a glaring need for the black community of the university to come together and really evaluate their presence here at the university. These are crucial times for black people and unless we can move towards our existence, and collectively develop strategies and an agendum of priorities within which to operate then our experience here will be of questionable value to the majority of us."

Black Solidarity Day is described as "a day on which the black community can demonstrate its unity and economic power by refraining from all traditional activities and celebrate its culture and its history while undertaking serious internal discussions of its priorities and goals."

According to the organizers of the five college teach-in, this day "is not a holiday, but a serious working day for black people. This will not be simply another rap session. We are going to discuss problems affecting the community and we are going to be testing out several proposals for new programs in the five college area which will significantly add to the value of the educational experience of black people in the valley. What we hope will result from the workshops is a deeper cohesiveness and sense of purpose between faculty, student and members of the surrounding black community."

Infirmary Bus Leaves From Kennedy

The University Health Service bus leaves the Kennedy Tower for the Infirmary at 8:15, 8:45, 9:15, 9:45, 10:15, 10:45 a.m. and 1:15, 1:45, 2:15, 2:45, 3:15 and 3:45 p.m. on Monday through Friday.

Infirmary hours are 8-12; 1-5:00 - Monday through Friday. Urgent problems only on Saturday from 8-11:30. Emergency help is available at all times.

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550

Student Mobe Will Canvass In Springfield

By PETER McDONALD
Staff Reporter

The UMass Student Mobilization Committee (SMC) today announced that it will canvass the downtown Springfield area on Friday, October 30th.

Sidney Finehersh, spokesman for the SMC said the purpose of the canvass is two-fold.

First, the SMC wishes to make Massachusetts voters aware that on Election Day, November third, they will have an opportunity to voice their disapproval or approval of the Viet Nam war by answering the following question which will appear on the ballot: "Which of the following do you prefer with reference to the future course of action by the United States in Viet Nam?"

The voter then is given three choices: "A.) Win a military victory. B.) Withdraw our armed forces in accordance with a planned schedule. C.) Withdraw all our armed forces immediately."

The SMC further hopes to persuade people to choose the third alternative, complete and immediate withdrawal of our troops.

According to Finehersh, workers will spread out in the downtown Springfield area on Friday afternoon, distributing leaflets and buttons and talking with the people. Two weeks ago, when a similar canvass was made in the same area, the response was excellent, Finehersh said. Over 2000 leaflets were distributed and many people were seen wearing the SMC buttons.

Anyone wishing to help with the canvass, especially those with cars willing to provide transportation, is asked to stop in at the SMC office as soon as possible. The office is in the Plymouth room on the second floor of the Student Union.

Canvassers will meet in the same room at 11 a.m. on Friday and from there depart for Springfield. Food and Transportation are being provided.

Israel Resists Arabs, Peace Negotiations Nil

UNITED NATIOS: (AP) - The cease fire standstill agreement led to the opening of Arab Israeli peace talks under UN. special envoy Gunnar V. Jarring on Aug. 25. Israel broke off the talks almost immediately over the issue of missile movement.

Eban said new missiles could threaten Israeli forces up to a distance of 10 miles on the Israeli side of the canal and pave the way for a possible attack by Egyptian ground forces.

Fifteen Asian African countries and Yugoslavia introduced a resolution late Wednesday calling on Israel, Egypt and Jordan to resume contacts with Jarring so he could carry out his mandate under the Nov. 22, 1967, Security Council resolution.

Eban made clear Israel would not accept any solution that did not demand a return to the conditions in the Suez Canal zone as of Aug. 7, when the cease fire standstill agreement went into effect.

Notaries Public Listed

The following Notaries Public can be contacted if you wish to have your ballot notarized:

Mr. Jake Bishop	Room 337, Whitmore
Mrs. Doris A. Dec	Room 232, Whitmore
Mr. Ward M. Hunting	Room 340, Chenoweth Lab
Mr. William H. Maus	Room 329, Whitmore
Mr. Sidney Myers	Room 324, Whitmore
Mr. Donald J. Pelkey	Room 217, Whitmore
Mr. Francis J. Trahan	Room 337, Whitmore
Mr. John C. Marchant	Physical Plant
Mr. Daniel H. Schwartz	Campus Security, Security Bldg.
Mr. James Coopee	Room 301, Whitmore
Mr. Robert Garstka	Room 301, Whitmore
Mr. John DeNyse	Room 301, Whitmore
Mrs. Pauline Ashby	School of Education

HORROR FLICKS
"WOLFMAN" "THE MUMMY"
"BRIDE OF FRANKENSTEIN"
AND OTHER FEATURES
Thursday Oct. 29
7:30 & 9:30
Mahar Auditorium
Sponsored by Maroon Keys
50¢

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus, zip code 01002. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), and 549-1311 (editor).

Second-class postage paid at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $7.50 per semester, $14.00 per year.

IMMEDIATE ATTENTION TO EMERGENCY REPAIRS — CONTACT LENS SUPPLIES ALL KINDS MATCHLESS SELECTION OF FASHION-RIGHT FRAMES — WIRE FRAMES LOTS!
Amherst Optical Shoppe
195 North Pleasant St., Amherst
Tel. 256-6561

SCS Corp.
STEREO COMPONENTS
at SPECIAL PRICES
Ex. Kenwood
KR-100 Receiver
List $300.00
$220.00
Campus Reps: Call
Matt 546-9432
Bob 546-9447

Several non-senators addressed the senate during consideration of a bill favoring observance of Black Solidarity Day next Tuesday. The senate unanimously approved a motion supporting excusal of black students from classes November 2. (MDC photo by Gib Fullerton)

Firearms, Violence Major Senate Topics

By BETH GOODELL
Senate Reporter

Last evening's regular meeting of the Student Senate was involved mainly with motions concerning internal matters and technicalities. A scheduled address by University President, Robert Wood, was postponed to a future meeting. Dr. Wood was tied up with business in Boston.

The issue of greatest controversy on the agenda was one concerning the return of certain firearms to the campus. Melville Senator Karen MacNutt sponsored the bill which would allow the Flying Redmen to store their "de-activated" rifles in an appropriate place on campus, and would allow University, Stockbridge, and visiting rifle teams to have their firearms on campus provided they are properly secured and used only on the rifle range.

According to Senator MacNutt, "These teams have excelled in the past, but they have to practice or else they will fall apart. It would be nice to give them this moral support." In response to opposition of the bill based upon the fact that the firearms are still weapons, Legal Advisor Howland informed the Senate that the firearms for these pacific groups could legally be permitted back on the campus.

Treasurer Richard Verrochi of Greenough continued to debate against the measure because of the firearms are intrinsically weapons. Since "The presence of firearms is intuitively provocative of violence," Verrochi argued that action on the bill should be postponed for further investigation in committee.

The bill was then returned to committee for three weeks. It will next be considered by the Senate at the same time as a bill sponsored by Verrochi which is strongly opposed to any firearms or facsimile on campus because of their provocative qualities.

Violence on campus was also the subject of an address to the Senate by Jack Richardson, Head of Residence of Thatcher. Citing the significant increase in crimes and violence on campus this semester, he urged the Senate to support a future motion calling for immediate action to be taken by the Administration to improve security. He said that student pressure is needed to speed up the administration's response.

With a unanimous vote, the Senate moved to endorse the Black Solidarity Day on November 2. It also resolved that any black student wishing to participate in activities of the day should be excused from class attendance with no penalty for absence.

The Senate also engaged in debate over acceptance of the 1970-71 Activities Act which concerns the governance of Recognized Student Organizations (RSO). The main topic of discussion was in an article of the Act which deals with membership regulations in RSO groups. Several Senators expressed fear that the article as it now reads allows for possibly illegal discrimination in membership qualifications. There was also discussion of the fact that certain organizations such as the Greek community receive some RSO benefits without actually belonging to RSO or meetingall of its requirements. Due to this debate over these points concerning the Activities Act, the bill was returned to committee consideration for three weeks.

The Senate last considered a special motion charging the University and State Communications Council with conducting a study of the possibility of obtaining representation on the Board of Trustees for a student from both the Boston and Amherst campuses at one time. The motion was passed and the meeting then adjourned.

DVP Lecture

U Toronto Professor Reflects Upon U.S.-Canadian Affairs

By BRIAN WHITE
Staff Reporter

J.M.S. Careless, professor of history at the University of Toronto, stated in a DVP lecture last night that the United States and Canada have always been "neighbors" and "nuisances" to each other, and are likely to remain so.

Mr. Careless noted that the United States and Canada are similar in many ways: in their mass media, their cities (a compliment to neither country, in the life-styles and aspirations of their citizens. But conservative Canada's foreign policy is distinctly her own he said. Canada recognizes Cuba and Communist China, opposes the Vietnam war, receives American draft protestors, and disagrees with America on continental resource development and the FLQ issue, said Careless.

Why are the two countries so different? They have different origins, for one, said Careless.

Canada failed to join the United States' revolt against the British., partly because the French-Canadians, as an already conquered people, chose not to take the risk, Careless explained. Canada came to represent the remnants of old empires: the end of the British empire, the end of the French empire, and the breaking up of the Scottish clan system, which had been the cause of considerable immigration. These elements worked to hold the system together largely out of convenience, he went on.

The War of 1812 was very pleasant as wars go, Mr. Careless noted: the Americans won, the Canadians successfully drove the American invaders from their territory, and the British never knew anything had happened. For Canada it was a nation-building war -- Canada began to define herself in opposition to the United States, just as the United States had found unity by opposing Britain, said Careless.

He said Canada became more British in the 19th century than ever before, as a backstop against American aggression. The Commonwealth has been called a "selfish plot by Canadians" intended, like NATO, as an alliance against a massive foreign presence (in this case, the United States), said Careless. American aggression continued well into the 1860's; it is from these conflicts that many of Canada's heroes arose, he explained.

As a result, Careless asserted, Canada is conservative in orientation. There has not been a well-developed political left or right in Canada's history: they died of apathy, he said. Only the middle has had any success Careless said.

Mr Careless does not think that the FLQ issue will bring immediate polarization to Canada, given this history of conservatism, prolonged conflict although may change matters.

J.M.S. Careless, professor of history at the University of Toronto, spoke last night in a Distinguished Visitors' Program Lecture on "Canada: Neighbor or Nuisance?" (MDC photo by Barry Penn)

Blount Issues Stamps In Anti-Pollution Drive

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) - Postmaster General Winto M. Blount introduced four new six cent, anti-pollution stamps at the Western White House Wednesday and cited this city for its "distinguished achievement in maintaining good ecology."

Presidential adviser Robert H. Finch, who attended the ceremony, said the stamps "are symbolic of the nation's determination to restore a life environment that matches the quality of the other basic rights and freedoms which we are pledged to preserve for our citizens."

The stamps, printed in blocks of four, have a common color view of the earth from outer space but each appeals for ecological action in a different field. They urge Americans to "Save Our Cities," "Save Our Soil," "Save Our Air" and "Save Our Water."

A Postal Service spokesman said the stamps will be available throughout the nation Thursday.

3 THEATRES UNDER 1 ROOF
Campus Cinemas
AMHERST HAMPSHIRE MALL
RUN. thru TUES. 3 & 9
WED. & SAT. 1 & 3:15, Sun. Mat. 1
SOLDIER BLUE
CANDICE BERGEN - PETER STRAUSS
The beauty of creating life. The freedom to give it away.
Mystery at 7 & 9 Sun. Mat. 1
The Baby Maker
BARBARA HERSHEY
A TIME MAGAZINE FILM HIGH
CATCH-22
Mystery at 8:15 Sun. Mat. 3

BLACKLIGHTS
VILLAGE CRAFTSMAN
181 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst 253-9306

FOWLER Jewelers
OF AMHERST
253-7615
65 North Pleasant Street
EXPERT WATCH REPAIR
THE FINER LINES OF CHINA, CRYSTAL AND SILVER
QUALITY JEWELRY
DIAMONDS SOLD WITH USE OF DIAMOND SCOPE.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO GET INTO OUR PANTS?
(AT SALE PRICES!!!) ONE WEEK ONLY 40 %Off Flares & Bells*
Superficial smile
*except denims and corduroy
Just around the corner from dangling
Open Thursday til 9

In The Nation And The World

Court Forbids Issuing Campus Speakers Report

WASHINGTON (AP) - Declaring an official House report on campus speakers was issued "solely for the sake of exposure or intimidation," a federal judge Wednesday prohibited its public distribution by the government.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell, a landmark confrontation between the courts and Congress, ruled the list of 65 so called militant, radical or Communist oriented speakers serves no valid legislative purpose.

Gesell permanently enjoined the U.S. public printer from printing the report at public expense. But he specifically refused to prohibit individual congressmen from distributing it on their own.

"There are undoubtedly individuals who would destroy our institutions and form of government," Gesell said in his order. "If any of them are listed in this report, our Constitution nevertheless preserves their right to speak even though their acts may be restrained."

Gesell's court order appears to be the first ever to prohibit Congress from publicly distributing an official report. And Gesell said it was the first to be based on the doctrine of valid legislative purpose.

Gesell said the 25 page report itself states it is not related to any legislation but it intended instead to alert university presidents, alumni and parents "to the extent of campus speaking in promoting the radical revolutionary movement."

Gesell called the report a blacklist and urged Congress to curb what he called its increasing tendency "to investigate for exposure's sake" rather than to develop legislation.

The court order was won by the American Civil Liberties Union.

Lennon May Testify In Tate Murder Case

LOS ANGELES AP - Charles Manson will be the only defendant to testify at the Sharon Tate murder trial when the defense presents its case seeking to show other people murdered the actress and six others, a source says.

The defense is expected to begin its presentation next week, the trial's 21st, and several music world celebrities will be reluctant witnesses, the source added. Defense attorney Paul Fitzgerald confirmed Wednesday that a subpoena was issued a month ago for John Lennon of the Beatles.

However, a Beatles' spokesman said that calling Lennon to testify on whether one of the group's songs, "Helter Skelter," could have inspired Manson to violence as the state claims would be "like summoning Shakespeare to explain Macbeth."

Manson, 35, and three women members of his hippie style clan are on trial charged with murdering Miss Tate and six others in August 1969.

Counsular Access Denied To Detained US Generals

MOSCOW (AP)-Soviet authorities refused a second request for consular access for two U.S. generals detained in Armenia and stepped up propaganda blasts Wednesday over their aerial intrusion across the Turkish border.

The U.S. embassy issued a statement saying its two consuls had been recalled to Moscow for consultations. It declined comment on the chances for the generals' release.

The statement pointed out that the consular treaty between the United States and the Soviet Union calls for "continuing access."

"We expect to see the four men again," it added. "We have not yet asked for a specific time, preferring to wait for a full report from the consuls before proceeding."

The wording indicated little hope of swift release for Maj. Gen. Edward C.D. Scherrer, chief of the U.S. military mission in Turkey, his assistant, Brig. Gen. Claude M. McQuarrie Jr., the American pilot Maj. James P. Russell and a Turkish escort officer, Col. Cevat Deneli.

They have been detained in a government guest house at the Armenian town of Leninakan since their unarmed U8 military plane landed there a week ago. U.S. consuls met with the men Monday, but a request for a second meeting Tuesday was turned down by the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

Russell told the consuls his plane was blown across the border by a freak gust of wind and he landed in Lenikakan thinking it was the Turkish town of Kars.

The Soviet Union has formally protested the intrusion to Washington and Anakara. Official press organs, which get their writing orders from the Kremlin, appeared to be shipping up a campaign of condemnation.

Although nothing has been said officially, some quarters in Turkey fear the Russians might try to use Deneli as a bargaining card for two Lithuanians accused of hijacking a Soviet Aeroflot plane to Turkey Oct. 15. A stewardess was killed in the hijacking.

More than 24 hours after it happened Soviet authorities were refusing to acknowledge the hijacking of a second Aeroflot plane to Turkey by Russians seeking political asylum.

The official silence was in marked contrast to the steady stream of propaganda and invective directed at the Lithuanian hijackers.

Viet Bases Evacuated As Storm Hits

SAIGON (AP) - Tropical Storm Louise slammed into the central coast of South Vietnam with 58 miles an hour winds early Thursday and forced evacuation of planes from two huge U.S. Air Force bases.

The storm hit land just 10 miles south of Phan Rang Air Force Base, 160 miles northeast of Saigon and cut into allied military operations by forcing cancellation of many American air strikes.

Weather forecasters said Louise apparently caused little damage as its strength began to dissipate after hitting the coast.

As precautionary measures, however, aircraft at both Phan Rang and Cam Ranh Bay, 35 miles to the northeast, were flown from the danger area.

The U.S. Command said American fighter bombers logged only 43 tactical air strikes in South Vietnam during the 24 hour period that ended at dawn Wednesday.

It was the lowest number in two years and marked the second straight week in which storms had drastically curtailed air operations. When Typhoon Kate struck the northern coast last Saturday, headquarters reported only 46 tactical air strikes.

The weather had no effect on the 2-1/2 week old bombing campaign against North Vietnamese supply routes in southern Lagos.

The command said U.S. B52 Stratofortresses launched strikes against the Ho Chi Minn trail over which war materials and reinforcements are ferried to North Vietnamese troops fighting in South Vietnam and Cambodia.

Nixon Campaigns, Claims Economy Up

LONGVIEW, Tex. (AP) President Nixon, pressing his campaign to elect Republican senators in Florida and Texas, declared Wednesday his administration's economic policies are working and "inflation has been checked and will slow still further."

Nixon gave this assessment on the economic situation, the chief target of Democratic campaign efforts across the nation, in a statement as he arrived in Texas to campaign for George Bush and Paul Eggers, the Republican candidates for senator and governor in this heavily Democratic state.

Besides the slowing of inflation, he said: "Interest rates are definitely on the way down and housing starts are up."

HILLEL DELI SUPPER

Sunday Night, Nov. 1, 6:00 p.m., in Council Chambers, S.U. Speaker: Rabbi Alex Weisfogel
Topic: SOVIET JEWRY AND ITS CURRENT CRISIS Paid members 75c Others $1.50

YOU CAN'T

JUST

GO TO SWAP

YOU HAVE TO APPLY

ONLY PEOPLE WHO APPLY CAN GO

SO APPLY

SWAP?

The Student Workshop on Activities Problems is an annual, off-campus conference which brings together a selected group of students, faculty, administrators, trustees, legislators and others concerned about the University for discussion, information-exchange, planning and politicking.

This year's conference will be held December 11-13 at the Oak'n'Spruce Lodge in South Lee, Massachusetts. There will be two meetings of SWAP participants before the Conference: November 22nd and December 10th. Plans are being made now for a follow-up conference, on campus, early in second semester.

Participants in the conference are asked to pay a registration fee; $5 for students who pay Student Activities Tax; $35 for others (with some subsidies available). These fees, plus Student Senate appropriations, cover the cost of the Conference (meals, lodging and transportation).

Participants will be selected from among those who submit applications before October 30th. For information on applications, see the box to the right.

To apply:

Application blanks are available in the RSO office, Campus Center. They are to be filled out and returned before October 30th, either to RSO or to the box on the Lobby Counter in the Student Union.

If you wish, you may apply by answering the questions below and sending your answers to SWAP, RSO #305, Campus Center.

I. Name; Local address; Telephone; Class or Title; Major or Department.

II.

1. What are some of the important issues facing the University (please comment even if you don't know very much about them)?
2. What issues do you know or care about that you would like considered at SWAP?
3. What would you like to gain or learn from SWAP?
4. What interests, experience or knowledge do you have that will make you a useful SWAP participant?
5. Have you participated in SWAP? If so, in what year?

III. Please give any suggestions you may have about the following: a) program content; b) program format; c) suggested participants.

The SWAP Committee is planning a follow-up Conference on-campus during the Spring semester. Do you have any suggestions about this Conference?

Deadline for Applications Tomorrow, Oct. 30th

CAMPAIGN CLIMAX

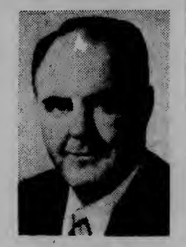
Incumbent Leads Newman

Because most voters don't really care who is elected Secretary of State, this office usually is won by the incumbent, regardless of his party and dispite any issues which may be brought up in the campaign. This year's race is no different, as incmbent Democrat John F. X. Davoren should have no difficulty defeating his Republican challenger, Mrs. Mary B. Newman.

Charged with the duties of keeping the State archives, keeping vital statistics and supervising elections, this job is essentially one of execution, rather than one of policy making and Davoren's major election claim is that he has been a good administrator.

He says that he has worked to expand the information and referal services of the State, has established a statistical service for political candidates and has cleaned up a backlog of paperwork in many of the State's cities and towns.

But Mrs. Newman has been campaigning against what she calls the Secretary's "misuse of his office." She has challenged Davoren to debate her, but he has refused to reply to her challenge.



One of the challenges against Davoren which Mrs. Newman has been campaigning around includes contracts which Davoren's office awarded a Milton based corporation of more than $15,000 to research the State's corporation laws. Mrs. Newman challenges this award, claiming that a single retired State employee is doing all the work, and that the contract never should have been given to the corporation in the first place.

This is the kind of "misuse of office" Mrs. Newman has been campaigning on, but Davoren, running an extremely low-key campaign, has never been put in a position to answer his opponent.

The incumbent Secretary has been content to run as the Democratic office holder, counting on the voter's reluctance to listen to over Constitutional office candidates as his greatest boost.

And despite the fact that Mrs. Newman has raised several legitimate questions in this campaign, her lack of exposure and lack of familiarity with the voters almost insures the incumbent Davoren of an easy victory as he rides into office behind the Kennedy wakes.

Mary B. Newman, left, suffers the problem of all challengers for lower office: lack of an image.

White Helps Crane Lead Auditor Race

The most low key of all state-wide campaigns this year, the race for State Treasurer pits the six and half year incumbent office holder, Robert Q. Crane against new-comer Fred D. Hannon.

And, as in the other lower constitutional office contests, the incumbent has a great advantage in this one, especially since only a handfull of voters have ever heard of his opponent.

Crane, as Treasurer, is in charge of "safeguarding" the State's money, and has custody of all Commonwealth trust funds.

All he has done in his campaign is stress that he has done his job well, and since the State hasn't lost any of its money in the trust funds over the past six and a half years, his opponent has no real issues to play upon.

What makes things all the more safe for Crane is that Hannon has actually avoided publicity. He refused to answer a League of Woman's Voter election guide questionaire and thus is not in publication, distributed free to thousands of voters.

Crane is not in a position to let free publicity slip away. He has virtually no media money and is unknown around the State. Meanwhile, the incumbent majority party member Crane is also campaign manager for Kevin White, a fact which nets his a tremendous amount of free publicity and gives him a ready made and attractive political image.

There doesn't appear to be much of a contest here.

Crane, top, has been helped by his opponents lack of publicity across the state.

Buczko, Bucci In Battle of Unknowns

Buczko, left, is the frontrunner in a battle between two behind the scenes professionals.

Thaddeus Buczko has been State Auditor for the past six years and is running his campaign for relection on the theme of continuing the improvement in managing the state's financial affairs which he claims he has led. His opponent, former newspaperman Frank Bucci, has little money to campaign with, no state-wide image, the minority party backing him must contend with the reality of small voter interest in the lower constitutional races. His is an uphill battle.

There are not a great number of hard "issues" in this campaign. bucci has called for the creation of guidelines to steamline and to hopefully conserve State spending. These guidelines include rating the size of expenditures, past history of the agency, susceptability of misuse of funds because of what Bucci calls "newness" of a number of personal involved, and outside contacts.

He also wants to upgrade the training of all persons involved with state funds and wants to begin an evaluation program of all State spending.

Buczko has ignored three suggestions by his opponent, and says only that he seeks "to continue the present policies of management and to continue to make improvements in methods of dealing with expenditures."

Neither man has met face to face with the other, each has been content to campaign by himself without other members of his party.

This strategy clearly helps the incumbent, since his name is somewhat better known than his opponent. Also, Bucci's non-existant experience in waging a State-wide campaign leaves his in the position of appearing to be a complete outsider with no real issue, challenging the experienced guardian of the public wealth.

Here, as in the other "lower" races, the incumbent seems safe.

Re-Routing Traffic To Relieve Congestion

Norman Mcleod, Chairman of the Amherst Board of Selectmen, and Chancellor Oswald Tippo have issued a joint statement concerning the proposed East Pleasant Street by-pass, designed to reroute traffic from the center of the University.

"There is general agreement," the statement says, "that the part of North Pleasant Street passing through the University should be closed, that a town owned North Pleasant - East Pleasant Street connector passing through University property should be built, and that the East Pleasant - North Pleasant - Triangle Street interchange requires improvement."

The statement continues, emphasizing that if "action is not taken now, the problem will intensify "The whole re-routing and Triangle St. project " can be built at no cost to Amherst" and is "compatible with the town's master plan."

In 1968, the traffic problem had grown to such critical proportions that a Joint Town-University Task Force was created which then studied 15 different proposals to discontinue North Pleasant St. through the campus. A stron road link between North Amherst and Amherst Center was declared a "must."

The following is the complete text of the MacLeod-Tippo statement:

During the past two years the university and town officials have worked together to solve the traffic overload on North Pleasant St., to provide easy, safe access to the center of town from North Amherst, and to make the campus circulation system compatible with the town's master plan.

"It is our firm conviction, after studying all the alternatives, that the proposed DPW plan, including the East Pleasant St. by-pass, is the best possible solution to a very complex problem. The joint town university task force carefully considered each alternative, along with objections to other proposals. Without going into the merits and demerits of each plan, the selectmen and the university completely support the plan and arguments for it, as outlined by Professor Theodore S. Bacon, Jr., in last week's Amherst Journal Record

"There is general agreement that the part of North Pleasant St. passing through the university should be closed, that a town owned North Pleasant - East Pleasant St. connector passing through university property should be built, and that the East Pleasant St. - North Pleasant St. - Triangle St. interchange requires improvement.

"The participation of the Commonwealth Department of Public Works insures that a safe road from North Amherst to the center of town, together with the vital Triangle St. interchange, can be built at no cost to Amherst. The plan provides for safe access to the Wildwood School Center complex by pedestrians and buses. The plan is compatible with the town's master plan and the by-pass, designed by professional engineers and safety experts from DPW, will make Amherst's roads safer

"If action is not taken now, the problem will intensify. In our judgment there are no better solutions available. The opportunity for total state funding of $13.3 to $2 million offered the town of Amherst and the university by the DPW is based on the East Pleasant St. bypass proposal. No alternative plan has this BPW support. We urge that all citizens of the town join with the selectmen, the town planning board and the university administration to favor this plan that is so vital to the future of Amherst."

The northeast section of campus is shown here with East Pleasant Street running down the center of this aerial photo. Eastman Lane and Tillson Farm are located on the lefthand side of the photo while Fraternity-Sorority Park is on the righthand side. The proposed route for the East Pleasant Street By-Pass would run almost diagonally across this photo from Fraternity-Sorority Park to the area below the farm. (Photo by Pat Lempart)

The remaining few acres of the Orchard are shown here and would be cut in half by the proposed by-pass highway. (Photo by Steve Schmidt)

Fine Arts Center Contract Signed

Construction of the $15.3 million Fine Arts Center at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst, will be started in a few weeks and is expected to be completed in the fall of 1973.

The State Bureau of Building Construction and Fontaine Brothers, Inc., contruction company of Springfield signed the general coniract this week in Boston. Funds for the building include original legislative appropriations totaling $13.8 million, plus an additional $1.5 million from the State Bureau of Building Construction escalation and contingency fund, to make $15.3 million total funds available for the project. Towards this amount, the University has obtained a federal grant of $560,000.

In 1973, the completed Fine Arts Center will overlook the Campus Pond from the south. In the building will be a 2,200-seat concert hall, a 750-seat theater, and an art gallery-lobby to serve both; an experimental classroom-theater, art studios, music practice rooms; a music and art library; and other facilities for art, music and theater. It will serve students and others of the University community, as well as residents from throughout Western Massachusetts.

YARDLEY MIXIS

FINGER MIX EYE SHADOWS
CREATE EVERY EYE SHADOW SHADE UNDER THE SUN

MATTE or FROSTED . . .

. . . DEEP or PASTEL

* * * * * *

BRUSH ON POWDERED EYE SHADOW
6 PILLOW SOFT COLORS
in REGULAR or FROSTED KITS

NEW WINKERS

BY

DuBarry

SEE THEM NOW

AT

COLLEGE DRUG

4 MAIN ST. AMHERST

Top of the Campus Luncheon

11:30 - 2:00

ENJOY OUR "Old Fashioned
New England
BEEF STEW
with Dumplings" $1.75

Tender chunks of heavy western steer beef, simmered with fresh garden vegetables and served piping hot with our own homemade dumplings.

Cocktail Lounge open 11:30-2:00

Spring Semester, 1970.

Mayday.
A film on the New Haven rally to free Bobby Seale.

Flick Out

On your local Public Television station.

Draft Counselor's Corner

Students Have Advantage in Draft

By GILBERT J. SALK
Staff Reporter

There is still a great deal of confusion regarding the lottery and student deferments, so perhaps it would be a good idea to review the situation once again. Under any foreseeable circumstances, the draft call will not go over 195 this year. This has been stated by Selective Service Director Curtis Tarr.

The Nixon Beauracracy has a great vested interest in making the lottery "work" in order to stifle dissent about the draft and the war against Vietnam. This means that it is virtually compelled to keep the numbers low to give the system a semblance of success.

Okay. That's clear now. Next step: IF your number is over 195 and if you were born prior to Jan. 1, 1951, you may safely drop your II-S deferment, enter this year's eligibility pool, and be out from under the draft on December 31, 1970. You only need to have a I-A for one day (if that day is Dec. 31) in order to be considered in this year's pool.

To get a I-A, immediately write to your board telling them that you no longer want your student deferment and that you wish to be classified I-A. According to Mr. Tarr, the board must reclassify you. (By the way, if you have any other deferments, you may also drop them and be reclassified. This should be strongly considered if you have a deferment which will expire in a year or three.)

There seems to be a paranoid fear, not entirely unjustified, that this might be anotherway that the draft is trying to screw people. But you are really in no danger. If you are a full-time student with a 196, for example, and you drop your II-S, and by some freak get an induction notice, you automatically qualify for a I-S(C). This cancels your induction notice until the end of the school year, at which time you still can claim any deferments for which you are eligible. Or you can simply write to the board on Jan. 1 saying that you are a student and wish to be classified II-S. They have to give it to you. Thus, you have nothing to lose, and everything to gain.

In nearly all cases, this can be done without the aid of a draft counselor. But you should be sure to send your request Certified Mail, Return Receipt Requested. This will cost about half a buck, but it will give you proof that you requested the change and that they received the request. Keep a copy of the letter, and staple the receipt to it. If you feel that your case may be a special circumstance, or are unsure of what to do, see a draft counselor.

Let me add my usual cautionary note. Remember your brothers who may have lower numbers. Their enslavement is also yours, and your freedom is restricted by the burden of their lack of freedom.

Respond to it. Work to end the draft and to help others work their way through the system. Learn draft counseling, if that's your bag. Work to end the war against Vietnam, and all other wars. Vote "C" on the Vietnam question in Tuesday's election. Work to abolish the military. Apply for CO even if you're not draft eligible. Resist.

Remember, no man is free as long as one man is a slave.

Peace.

Questions to this column should be addressed to Gilbert J. Salk, c/o Draft Counseling Services RSO #395, Campus Center, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.

Free personal draft counseling is available at Draft Counseling Services, 418 E. Student Union 2nd floor.

Drugs, Sex Are Subject Of High School Survey

WASHINGTON(AP) - Only one in every 33 high school students contacted in a national survey approved of students using hard drugs but one in every 10 said they personally used marijuana.

More than 22,000 girls and boys 16 to 18 years old, top scholars in 18,000 public, private and parochial schools, responded to the 70 question survey distributed by Merit Publishing Co., Northfield, Ill.

Asked if they approved of the use of LSD, speed or heroin, 96 per cent said no, 3 per cent approved and 1 per cent failed to answer. Three out of four expressed the belief that marijuana use could lead to the use of other drugs.

In answer to another question on drugs, 75 per cent expressed disapproval of marijuana use by high school students but 10 per cent said they used marijuana now and 21 per cent said they would use it if it were legalized.

On sex relations, 53 per cent expressed disapproval of premarital sexual intercourse, 42 per cent approved and 5 per cent failed to answer the question.

Twenty four per cent of the students ducked the question when asked whether they had participated in sexual relations.

Of those answering, 16 per cent said they had and 60 per cent said they had not.

The sponsors said nine students put together the 70 questions that ranged from Vietnam to drug use and national poltics to ecology.

The students split almost evenly on whether they would consider an interracial marriage. A substantial majority, 84 per cent, said they would move into an integrated neighborhood.

On national politics, 52 percent said President Nixon was doing a good job and most felt that ending the Vietnam war is the nation's No. 1 priority. Eighty five per cent felt that respect for this country had suffered because of the Vietnam conflict.

GOP Party Loyalty Forces Support Of Goodell's Lost Cause Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)-Among the members of the United States Senate, there is a political bond that goes beyond party, an unwritten code that in effect warns : Caution, you could be next."

That reminder of political mortality tends to make senators polite, and often ineffective, campaigners against other senators. It also tends to send them to the aid of a party brother in trouble-even if they are Republicans and the trouble is, in part, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and the Republican White House.

So it was with six Republican senators who went to New York Monday for a day of campaigning in what most of them privately concede is a lost cause, the election of Sen. Charles E. Goodell.

Goodell, the Republican disowned by the administration, is generally rated the third man in a three way race.

And in New York, the bastion and bank vault of Republican liberalism, there is now a strong possibility that a conservative will be elected.

If James L. Buckley accomplishes that feat as the nominee of the Conservative Party, he will do his voting from the Republican side of the aisle, as a favorite of the White House.

Buckley, a White House spokesman said, "supports the President and the President appreciates his support." As for Goodell, Agnew called him "truly the Christine Jorgensen of the Republican Party," accusing him of radical liberalism and constant opposition to the administration on major issues.

Rep. Richard Ottinger, the Democratic candidate, insists that by staying in the campaign, Goodell can only abet the Buckley cause by dividing the liberal and moderate vote.

"Mr. Goodell has fallen into the Agnew trap," said Ottinger. "The vice president's unconscionable attacks have been aimed at splitting the moderate vote between Goodell and me, and electing a conservative."

Indeed, one of the senators who went campaigning for Goodell, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, told the Chicago Tribune afterwards that his real goal was to abet just such a strategy. That message, however, seemed tailored for the generally conservative Republican hierarchy back home in Illinois. For Percy, who has had his differences with the administration, said in New York "the thought has been ventured" that he, too, might encounter conservative retribution when he runs again in 1972.

All told, 20 of the 43 Republican senators have endorsed Goodell despite the administration's repudiation of the nominee.

The on the scene campaigners ranged from such liberals as Sen. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey to Sen. J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware, who ranks third among senators in his support of Nixon policies.

"Obviously, he doesn't agree with Goodell on a great many things," a Boggs spokesman said. "But he thinks whoever is nominated by the Republican Party is a good Republican. New York is obviously different from Delaware."

Sen. William Saxbe of Ohio put it differently:

"When the President runs in 1972, is he going to campaign in industrial states with Thurmond, Goldwater and Hruska? They're fine people and represent their own voters, but will Mr. Nixon go with them into Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and Michigan?"

The New York mission was, in the words of a Republican aide who made the trip, a case of showing the flag in a hopeless cause. "Even the Goodell people just seemed to be going through the motions," he said.

But there is an undercurrent of Republican resentment against what some senators consider an attempt to enforce loyalty to the administration by making an example of Goodell.

"The Republican senators feel they should make their own decisions as to who qualifies for their support," one GOP source said.

It is clear that a Buckley victory would arm the administration with a forceful new weapon for the enforcement of Republican discipline-particularly among senators who must run for reelection in 1972.

Goodell insists that he has a chance to win, but that is a lonely political judgment.

Voting Guides in S.U

Free copies of Election '70, a voting information guide, are available now in the Student Union lobby. Information on all candidates, their backgrounds, their stands on important issues, and the duties of the offices they seek are included in this guide distributed by the League of Women Voters.

Also included in the publication, produced by the Boston Globe in cooperation with the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts, is information on referendum questions and feature articles and historical notes of interest to voters. All registered voters in Amherst will receive a copy by mail.

A hangover isn't funny

A hangover can be just about the most distressing combination of pain, nausea, depression and fatigue you ever woke up with. Simple headache tablets or alkalizers alone can't do the whole job. You need a combination of special ingredients to chase those multiple miseries. Formulated specially for hangover, CHASER combines nine ingredients in every tablet.

So, pain disappears fast. Your stomach calms down. Your spirits perk up.

Try CHASER FOR HANGOVER. It Really Works! Now at your pharmacy

FINALLY!
FINALLY!
FINALLY!
FINALLY!

XEROX

XEROX copies now available at Campus Center Printing Shop - opposite the Coffee Shop.

Rates per original - 5¢ for the first 4 copies, 2¢ for each additional copy.

Other services include:
Copy setting
Mimeograph
Ditto
Embosograf
Lineoscribe
Art Work
Stencils

Bring This Coupon For

50¢ OFF

at

PIZZA RAMA

356 COLLEGE ST. (Route 9)
(near Colonial Village)

We offer 50c off on each order over $1.50 on our large variety of

REAL ITALIAN PIZZAS made with daily home-made dough plus our FOOT LONG ITALIAN GRINDERS not to mention our DELICIOUS SPAGHETTI & MEATBALLS

and
SPAGHETTI & ITALIAN SAUSAGE

We do take phone orders for faster service.
Call 253-3808
OPEN DAILY 11:00 A.M. to 11:00 P.M.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

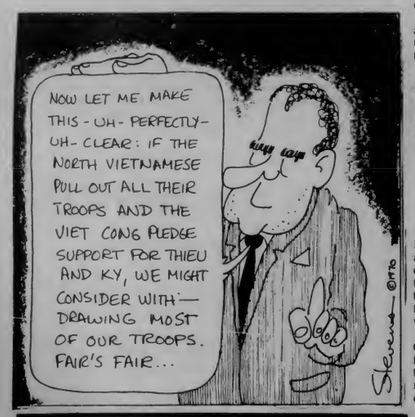
Student Union University of Massachusetts - Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Peter F. Pascarelli
MANAGING EDITOR — Mark A. Silverman
BUSINESS MANAGER — Janice Palmbach
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Louis A. DiMonaco
NEWS EDITOR — Claudia R. Hamberg
SPORTS EDITOR — John Sullivan

PHOTO EDITOR — Steve Schmidt
ADVERTISING MANAGER — John Fayad

TODAY'S STAFF



ISSUE EDITOR — Jim Gold
NEWS STAFF — Tim Fagan, Gil Fullerton
DARKROOM — Marty Kelly
SPORTS — Pat Lempert
AD LAYOUT — Ed Bryant
EDITORIAL

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

"Come Back When You Can Reach The Conclusions We Want"

All You Need Is Love

Elliot Eisenberg

Where Is Economics Going?

There is something eating away at students of economics in 1970. It is a debate which rages around us and above us on how best to proceed with expanding the knowledge of the discipline; whether to place more or less emphasis on a mathematical interpretation of the world.

Our economy has in recent years become so complex a creature that it requires of its managers a highly developed grasp of mathematical and quantitative tools. A man must be a skilled technician to be able to approach even basic questions of public and industrial policy. To read the literature, he must know mathematics; to remain beyond being bafoozled he must know statistical methods.

But the very same economy which is becoming more susceptible to the tools of precise analysis is having effects on the quality of life of those within it. These effects - of automation, of the mix of goods which has been produced, of the life which results in a world of managers and technicians - defy quantification, or even if they can be expressed as equations to be maximized, deserve qualitative study.

It is as if the warnings of the radical social critics are coming true. We can set their works down on our desks, look around and see that in 1970 America the technician does in fact command a higher place in the pecking order than the man whose thoughts are of a less quantitative nature. John Kenneth Galbraith has been proposed as president of the American Economic Association; there is a move to block his election because he is not enough of a theoretician. This very week the second Nobel Prize in economics was warded to theoretician Paul Samuelson, (the first went to two econometricians.) while here in Amherst one of the nation's foremost institionalists, Professor Ben Seligman, quietly passed away.

Precisely because our economy has become so complex, we have need of men who can grasp the interplay between the process and its externalities. Furthermore, because a man investigates those factors, economic and not, which are affecting the quality of men's lives does not mean that he necessarily is incompetant with mathematics. It was Professor Seligman, as a matter of fact, who wrote the AER review of THE COLLECTED PAPERS OF PAUL A. SAMUELSON.

If we as students choose to be technicians, and there is nothing so horrible about that, we must make certain that we never become so lost in perfecting the methods of quantitative analysis that we lose sight of what are the meaningful questions. We must find room in our schedules and our minds for questions and men of an institutional nature. If we choose to be institutionalists, we must not reject math as a part of our educations, trying to get away from it at every turn. We must master it so that we can never have newly developed, synthetic wool pulled over our eyes.

There is no place a student can go to escape the controversy over mathematics. It crosses disciplinary lines; it is a product of a complicated economy and society. The best we can do is to understand it and deal with it.

Louis DiMonaco

The Possibility of Changing TV

"I love life - that is my true weakness."
Camus, La Chute

There are a number of ways to improve the quality of commercial television. One is to stop reinforcing the bad commercials and start reinforcing the good ones. Another way is to infiltrate, en masse, the commercial industry and change it directly. And a third way is to establish more intense research organizations to peruse the advertised products.

But these remedies are not likely to be applied right away. For one thing, the people who are presently in a position to change the industry do not believe a change is necessary. And for another thing, the people who believe or are willing to concede that a change is necessary are preoccupied with the more vital issues of the day. The latter true believers are busy combating repression (it is interesting to note that the good fight is against repression when a few years ago it was against the industrial establishment; an indication that people and events are indeed getting worse. In a few years we may all find ourselves underground; literally and figuratively.)

There is another remedy (if that is the word) which although not in my head, is perhaps floating around in the head of somebody somewhere. The "remedy" is the homemade bomb.

IBM, General Telephone and Electronics, Humble Oil, as well as countless ROTC Buildings, Draft Boards and Courthouses have experienced the terrorist bomb.

The television industry may or may not be a future victim.

All I have to say on the subject is the following:

When doctrine, whether it be revolutionary or facist, becomes more important than human life, or when material goods take precedence over well being, only alienation of man from man can result. And alienation causes evangelical exploitation and the use of people as objects.

To quote a slogan of the May 1968 student uprising in France:

"A revolution that expects you to sacrifice yourself for it is one of daddy's revolutions."

I should not have to add to the overwhelming fear of the BOMB, the equally frustrating fear of the bomb.

Another quote from Theodore Roszak reads:

"We are a civilization sunk in an unshakable commitment to genocide, gambling madly with the universal extermination of our species. And how viviously we ravish our sense of humanity to pretend, even for a day, that such horror can be accepted as 'normal', and as 'necessary'."

(Ed. Note: Thus ends Lou DiMonaco's four-article discussion of television. Lou will be a featured columnist henceforth).

Ed Bryant

God Only Knows What I'd Be Without You

Look around sometime when you're out walking. Many people will walk by you. Some will turn away in a fear born of conditioning. Some will smile, while others look solemn. Most won't see you, but you'll see them, because you're making a point of looking at them after all. See who's the happiest. I think you'll find they're the ones who took the trouble to get involved, those people who are in love.

Love for one special other person is a dying concept. Our children's children will live in family units with four to six adults rather than two as has been traditional. The ultimate extension of one-on-one love, marriage, is in its dying days. When it goes, it will be obsolete, but that's not what I want to talk about.

Love for one person is for most of us something we aren't doing now. It is not yet time to move on to group marriage for those who haven't been deeply in love. All around us there are people who don't want to get involved with a man/woman. People who are afraid to get hurt, and people who are afraid to get hurt again. People who would be much happier if they had a special someone of whom they could think, who would think of them. Someone to tell all your secrets, who in turn would confide in you. Someone on whom you can depend, who again in turn can depend on you. Nothing feels better than the knowledge that for another person, you are the most important person on earth. You even like yourself at that point.

One obvious advantage of being in love is a resolution of the problem of scoring sex. Being horny is one of life's greatest frustrations. People who are otherwise really kind and enjoyable people can be a real drag when their sanity is fighting a losing battle with frustrated sexual desire..

It isn't a matter of fault here, either; man is naturally a sexual being. It's a real problem to be sexually frustrated.

Being in love is the best way I know to resolve the problem. When the question of using the other person is gone, sex returns to its rightful place. And besides, you get more.

Don't be afraid of other people. Fall in love with one. Peace.

Campus Comment

Elters Endorses Candidates

I serve in the office of President of the Student Senate partly because I believe strongly that students' ideas, feelings, and needs matter greatly and have to be voiced effectively. The upcoming elections will affect students directly and indirectly. After much thought and personal debate, as well as much study and inquiry I have decided to make some remarks about certain electoral races within and without of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. I will not ask for legislation as has occured in some student governments, rather I am here attempting merely to advise students as to who in my opinion deserves concentrated student support.

As many of you already know I am supporting the re-election of Sen. Charles Goodell (Republican, New York) and Rep. Allard Lowenstein (Democrat, 5th Congressional District New). These are the only non-Massachusetts races on which I will comment.

I will comment on the Senatorial contest, the Gubenatorial contest, and the contest for Attorney General within Massachusetts. I will also comment on the contest for District Attorney in Hampshire County. My remarks shall be brief.

There is only one choice for senator from this state. There is only one individual who has spoken forthrightly about the major issues; this is Peter Camijo of the Socialist Workers Party. Neither Spaulding nor Kennedy have addressed themselves honestly to the major issues. I cannot support Kennedy's running on laurels; he cannot be supported as an anti-war candidate because his record clearly is to the contrary. Kennedy's moral hang-ups about abortion certainly make him unacceptable for a Senate seat in this age of womens liberation and planned parenthood and population control. Kennedy is not being asked to have an abortion, he cannot claim to be a civil liberatian and attempt to be paternalistic toward women.

The Gubenatorial race has been clear to students for a considerable time now. This state has a totally ineffective executive branch under Francis Sargent. His choice of Donald Dwight as a running mate is a clear indication that Acting Governor Sargent fails to recognize that the problems facing this Commonwealth call for more in a Lt. Governor than an administrative assistant. The team of White-Dukakis is a virgorous, activist combination that recognizes the problems of this Commonwealth and has shown a sensitivity to people and problems. It is essential to the Commonwelath that the White-Dukakis team be elected.

In considering the endorsement of an Attorney General candidate students views drugs, abortion, birth control, political activism, consumer protection, ecology, protection of 1st Amendment rights, and many other feelings must be taken into account. After reviewing the candidates, their records and their views toward students and minority groups and people versus the state in general I have found that Toba Leah Singer, running as the Socialist Workers Party candidate is the outstanding choice.

The contest that probably affect University of Massachusetts at Amherst students the most is that of District Attorney of Hampshire County. There is here a clearer choice than in any of the other campaigns that I have mentioned. Students have flocked to support John Callahan (Democrat). This county must have a competant, fair, and understanding District Attorney, John Callahan is such a man.

I hope that I have not offended the sensitivities of many people in this body. I often feel compelled to speak on some issues even if what I say means little. I hope we as a body agree that no matter who is elected basic changes must follow.

Thank you.

YAF Protests MDC

We, the Executive Board of the UMASS YOUNG AMERICANS for FREEDOM, protest the use of the slogan "free and responsible press" on the COLLEGIAN heading. We feel that this is misleading for the following reasons:

1. The COLLEGIAN has been anything but a responsible newsletter. It has presented itself to be totally biased. The daily headlines are consistantly manipulated so as to give organizations such as YSA, the MOBE, and SDS maximum favorable publicity. This gives the average reader the opinion that there is no intellectual diversity on campus. The cartoons and the editorials in the COLLEGIAN bear our protests out even more shaply. The cartoons are nothing but mudslinging against the Nixon Administration policies and the editorials that are of a political nature present only one side of the issue. Wednesday's endorsement of a Trotskyite-Communist for the U.S. Senate was an act of extreme irresponsibility.
2. The COLLEGIAN cannot call itself a "free" either. YAF members have submitted several comments and letters to the editor, NONE of which have been published. Nor has there been ANY CAMPUS COMMENTS which have presented a conservative point of view.

It is quite evident that the COLLEGIAN is being managed by a crew of one-sided propagandists, whose intentions are to brainwash UMass with half-truths and leftist jargon. Until an outlet is given to responsible commentary (YAF will be more than willing to provide it) on the editorial page, the slogan "free and responsible press" should be dropped.

MATT TACKEFF, JIM ROSE, BILL PANTAJA, BOB CORRY, DAVID ELLIOTT MANRIQUE
EXEC. BOARD, UMASS YOUNG AMERICANS FOR FREEDOM

(ED. Note: YAF seems somewhat confused. The Daily Collegian frequently prints letters of conservative sentiment. The letters which appear in Campus Comment are a representative sample of the mail we receive. If YAF would care to recheck this year's Collegian, they'll find that their side has not been denied a voice.)

Thanks!

To the Editor:

We would like to thank everyone who contributed to help war-injured children, through the Committee of Responsibility, during the float parade last Friday. We collected $170, and have fifty dollars each from Sigma Delta Tau, Tau Epsilon Phi, Butterfield House and Lambda Delta Phi.

We'd like to keep this open as a sort of continuing cause; if any group is interested in putting on some sort of fund-raising campaign and is looking for a recipient, we will be happy to help you get in touch with the committee. Thank you all for your generosity.

ANITA KARCZ
LAURIE GOLDSTEIN
SIGMA DELTA TAU

Who Causes Violence?

The Business community has very appropriately got the message of the Vice-President: to educate the silent majority about the things they ought to know, as the White-House would want them to know. Sunday night's TV version of The FBI was one such example. In the Agnew-like manner, the issue of Campus unrest in general and campus violence in particular was dealt with and decided as a black-and-and-white issue. The FBI immediately will be keeping a closer touch with the campuses--thanks to the authorization of Nixon, who likes to curb violence at its very roots. So do so many of us who cannot condone violence as a solution to our problems. The only difference is that we don't think that the root cause of campus violence lies on the campuses themselves, but entirely off-campus--In fact, at a very well-known place on Pennsylvania Avenue, enhanced by its agents, who in the name of the "era of negotiations" are supplying arms to countries which threaten world involvement and therefore world peace (Israel, Jordan)--and in the name of democracy asks for support for a cease-fire in Vietnam. Unfortunately, the latter presupposes the legality of a corrupt and a puppet government in South Vietnam, whose vice-president fought against his own people in its struggle for freedom from the French. In the name of "unity" it takes pains to single out leftists as "effete snobs" and urges the so-called 'silent majority' to stand in opposition to them by supporting the politics of Emperor Nixon and Vice-Emperor Agnew.

I am reminded of a recent film I saw at the Campus Cinema. Those of us who went to see Fellini's Satyricon--and got the idea that the brutality and the power of the 'masters' was absolutely unbearable, are urged to take a hard look around them and see if they see any similarities and try to recognize those who are responsible for it. (In Prince House things are as usual--some of the people who watched the FBI program have gone to attend the International Coffee Hour to look for further entertainment, while others are watching the commercials following the program--with their eyes glued to the screen when the comedy of 'extra length' is displayed by the Benson and Hedges Company and Virginia Slims harps on its familiar theme--"You've Come a long way, BABY...")

(Name withheld by request)

PEACE

Wayne Soini Praises Senate

To the Editor:

After having attended and covered student senate elections and meetings sporadically and, most recently, regularly, for three years, I am leaving the post in favor of my college education. Although I will continue to write articles now and then, and work with WMUA's growing senate reportorial staff, the position of Collegian senate reporter is now going to be filled by two reporters, Beth Goodell and Bob Carmen. I would like to speak freely as a leave-taking senate reporter.

First, let everybody know that the senate this year is facing and not evading issues. That face might be right-face or left-face or about-face with relation to individual Collegian readers, but it is not the old Siwash ostrich-stance.

Second, senate officers are deserving of laurels (and salaries). Vice-President Pat Beharry is the longest-serving senator in history, has one of the best attendance records in history, and people can be heard to say, "See Pat about your question, she'll know." She cares. President Glenn Elters is to be commended for energetic leadership, being a legislative initiator and not merely passive chairman and trustee. Treasurer Rick Verrochi's meritorious services as a fair and efficient chairman of meetings, when called, are only part of the story. Dealing with a half-million dollars, Rick is one of the most competent, knowledgeable, clear-thinking, clear-speaking treasurers of all time.

Third, the new senators (and that is about two-thirds of senators) are not the dumb and driven cattle of previous years. They are imaginative and innovative people who stock this senate with lots of human potential this particular year.

Fourth, since all is relative, the senate is the one beautiful garden of a university swamp stagnant as a morass of vegetation consisting primarily of weeds Ignorantis belligerensis and Ignorantis apathysis. Where have all the flowers gone? To the senate!

Laurels from,
WAYNE SOINI
Senate reporter

The Repression of Women

The repression of women is very similar to the repression felt by other minority groups and third world people. Both the needs and interests of women and other repressed groups are determined by the male population of our culture. But it is harder to see cultural discrimination against women since they are an intrinsic part of the culture.

Most of the women in prisons in the U.S. are political prisoners. Women are forced to seek economic security in one of two ways--in relationship with a man (usually in the isolation of a nuclear family) or as sexual objects, prostitutes. Earning a living by acting out the sexual depravity of the culture is a crime for the woman, an amusing folly for the man. The laws reflect this double standard. Prostitution is punishable by a maximum sentence of a number of years; frequently a prostitute is punishable by a maximum of a few months.

Larceny is one of the biggest crimes for which women are arrested. Women, who are usually responsible for family shopping, are the first to feel rising cost of groceries and household items. To meet their families' needs more and more women are learning to rip off the capitalist that rips them off for profits for the rich. There are numerous examples of the poor woman, the black or brown who is alone supporting her children. She is thrown in jail for shoplifting. She has no money for bail and no provision is made for her children.

The prisons reflect the attitudes of the culture with heightened brutality. A search of a woman often includes an internal examination. Pregnancy is used as a torture condition. Women are refused visits by doctors of their choice. They're refused special diets when the usual jail menu of starches and tea fucks them up. Women in prison in Conn. are involved in the New Haven Panther trial weren't provided with maternity clothes until they are 7 months pregnant. The women were also given inadequate care after deliveries--bandages left unchanged for days after Frances Carter underwent a Caesarian Section, nothing but aspirin for pain. Children born in jail can be taker from their mothers, made wards of the state and placed wherever the state chooses. All jails are overcrowded with inadequate facilities for recreation, creative labor, or human life in general.

Houses of detention are prison camps for keeping dissenters from exercising their rights under the constitution. They are increasingly important as tools for isolating people and bludgeoning them into submission to the brutality of the whole culture.

People who are openly doing work to organize people to work together in meeting their needs are being singled out and ripped off. Panthers, Weatherpeople, students, Welfare Rights workers are being charged with crimes from cohabitation and possession of marijuana to murder and riot.

Because dissent is on trial, not criminal activity, the people who are charged with breaking the law are considered guilty until proven innocent. That means that no black, brown, young or woman can receive justice. They never receive a trial by their peers. But the proceedings tie up energies, money, and act as examples of what happens when people who are attempting to meet their needs begin to be effective.

The solution to repression is to prevent individuals from being singled out. As one hero of the first American Revolution said, we must all hang together or we'll all hang separately.

DALE LABONTE

THANK YOU. (ed. note: the preceding is the second in a continuing series of articles by and for women.)

From nine to midnight every Fri. & Sat. Nite

Dancing and entertainment in the Top of the Campus Club Cocktail Lounge

Music by the Novae

Harrington Will Coordinate Legislative Liaison Committee

For those students and faculty members who participated in Legislator's Day last spring during the strike, the name Robert Harrington may be familiar. Harrington was a student co-chairman of this event that brought students and Legislators together during the strike. This year, Harrington, who is co-ordinator of the Legislative Liaison Committee of USCC (University and State Communications Council), hopes to further the relationship between UMass students and Legislators.

USCC, an advisory committee to the Student Senate, was formed to foster communication between all segments of university life - administrators, faculty, students and Legislators. The Liaison Committee is particularly concerned with the latter two groups. Harrington stated that the main goal of this year's committee will be the development of a social action lobby. Students will research topics and report the results to the Legislators. These topics would concern the problems of a larger number of citizens in the state rather than just the University community, and would focus on such issues as housing, drugs, environment, welfare, birth control and abortion, and consumer interests, as well as educational problems.

There are several reasons for expanding the number of research topics, for the USCC feels a responsibility to render services to the State in return for what they are giving to UMass. Researching and reporting on these topics before the Legislature provides those students of real social committments with an opportunity to do something within the existing system. Researching also provides a good chance to use the excellent resource facilities of this University. Once these topics have been explored, the committee members will go to Boston to lobby in support of the measures they have researched or will inform groups and individuals interested in specific issues the times when they can testify before Legislative Committees.

In addition to bringing students to Boston to talk with Legislators, USCC will initiate a program to periodically bring Legislators to campus to teach and meet with students. This contact will develop closer relationships between students and Legislators.

Because of the number of topics and the large amounts of time needed to adequately research them, more people are needed. The Legislative Committee would welcome any person (student and/or faculty) who has knowledge or an interest in any of the above fields. This is a a good opportunity for people who are interested in taking some serious, positive action towards changing or improving the campus. Any interested individuals can get in touch with Bob Harrington at 549-6029 or can leave a message in RSO Box 667.

Court Insists Upon NH Illiterate Vote

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) - A three judge federal panel ordered New Hampshire Wednesday to permit illiterates to register and vote in next Tuesday's elections.

Atty. Gen. Warren Rudman, who contested the Justice Department suit, said at a news conference he would not appeal the decision because "it would be an exercise in futility and a waste of state money."

Rudman echoed Gov. Walter Peterson who said earlier he believed voters should be informed enough to read and write but that the state would obey the court order.

Rudman said he and Peterson were satisfied that the court "was responsive to our concern the illiterate vote could taint an election" if higher courts later upheld the state's literacy tests.

The panel said illiterates may request halp from election officials in marking their ballots and their ballots will be kept and tabulated separately.

In elections where the illiterate votes do not affect the out come of the total tally those tabulations will be final.

But if the illiterate votes do affect the outcome of any local race, the election results will be held in abeyance until the end of the year.

If the U.S. Supreme Court before that time knocks down the 1970 Voting Rights Act, under which the suit was brought, such votes will be subtracted from tallies in which they might make a difference in a race.

An Office of Economic Opportunity report listing 16,000 persons in the state over age 21 as being only a fourth grade education is the sole count of illiterates in New Hampshire. Both state and federal officials called the figure high.

Rudman noted that an anticipation of the ruling he directed election officials in September to register illiterates on separate checklists. He said he knew of only five, all in Manchester, who registered by last Saturday's dead line.

"Sensory Overload" Greets Halloween

The Retinal Circus is a group of media artists who travel in a converted schoolbus. They work with light shows, media exhibits, and their own version of "kidnap" theater.

The Retinal Circus will be in Amherst with the Free University until next week. On Friday night they are planning a "Sensory Overload" with local media freaks and musicians. The night will be complete with light, film, slides, music, pumpkins, and "Hot Stuff". Sensory Overload will be held in the Campus Center Auditorium and is free. All additional imput is welcome.

WHAT HAPPENED TO THAT HIGH SCHOOL ENTHUSIASM?
DON'T LET IT DIE!!

RUN FOR CLASS OFFICE

Pick up nomination papers in front of Student Activities Office, Level 1, C.C.
Nomination Papers due back by 5 p.m. October 28
Primary Elections to be held November 3
Final Elections to be held November 10

Case Against ROTC Workshops Friday

"A case against ROTC" will be the title of a series of workshops to be held by SDS on Friday Oct. 30. The workshops will be held in the Colonial Lounge of the Student Union at 9:00 and 11:00 in the morning and 1:30 in the afternoon. Each will be led by two members of SDS.

SDS hopes that the workshops will convince students to fight against ROTC which helps defend militarily U.S. policies. It is believed by SDS that these policies are both racist and imperialistic.

Common arguments against abolishment of ROTC such as "Isn't ROTC an academic question?", "Won't abolish-of ROTC be a denial of personal freedom?", and "Isn't it better to have liberal educated officers than hardliners?" will be answered at Friday's workshops. All interested members of the University community are urged to attend.

Religious Grounds Approved for CO's

SHREWSBURY, Mass.(AP) - The New England Conference of Roman Catholic Priests has approved the use of religious grounds for Catholic youths seeking conscientious objector status under the Selective Service Act.

The priests, five from each of the 11 New England diocese, voted to have each local senate inform its priests and local draft board of the action. The priests have been meeting since Monday at the Calvary monastery and retreat house here. Nine bishops, including Archbishop Humberto S. Medeiros of Boston have participated in the meeting.

"The Christian in the United States is not sensitized to see this war as a major, practical, moral issue of our times," said the Rev. Patrick McDermott of the United States Catholic Conference Secretariat on World Peace and Justice.

"This lack of ethical sensitivity or moral discernment in the case of Vietnam is one of the most serious signs that the church in America is in deep trouble. I think it is true to say that the just war doctrine has been as irrevelant in the case of Vietnam as it was at the end of World War II," he said.

P.E. Registration

General Physical Education Activity Registration for Second Quarter - Monday, November 2 and Tuesday, November 3 - Boyden Main Gym - 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Students who have finished one or three quarters of their requirement are urged to sign up for an activity in order to complete a semester credit.

UM Consumer

Corporate Drug Abuse

By ELLENI KOCH

Commonly, the consumer finds himself in the position of having to make a quick purchase of drugs through a doctor's prescription. In order to alleviate an unhealthy condition, such as infection. To combat a number of infections, tetracycline, a common antibiotic, is widely used and its powers are well known. The average consumer is not, however, aware of one of its more esoteric qualities: the huge price differences among different vendors.

A few of the more bargain conscious among us may have the prescription in hand and telephone a few neighboring pharmacies for a quotation. But unfortunately, we are consistently rebuffed with, "We don't give prices over the phone, come in and we'll talk about it". When feeling ill, who needs direct on foot comparison shopping at a time like this? Discouraged, and with the immediate need of the drug as top priority, we unquestionably hand over the prescription to the first druggist we come to, paying whatever he charges. It may be a fair price, but how is one to know?

Consumers Union decided to find out earlier this year by actually doing some comparison shopping in New York City and surrounding areas, including Long Island and the Burroughs. Armed with identical prescriptions for thirty capsules of tetracycline, the "shoppers" dispersed to sixty different pharmacies in various socio-economic neighborhoods; visiting various kinds of pharmacy counters: Everything from the small neighborhood store to the mass merchandising "discount" counter usually found tucked away against a wall in the large department store. They uncovered a rather chaotic price range for the same prescription.

It was somewhat comforting to know that ON THE AVERAGE one paid less at a discount store, where the range was from 79¢ to $4.85. It was somewhat disconcerting, however, to know that if unluckly ones went to a higher priced discount store, they would be paying more than in their own low, middle, or high income neighborhood, where the average was less than the higher range of the discount store. It was still a matter of chance. Although the highest price paid for the drugs, $7.45, was in a neighborhood pharmacy in Harlem, the average paid in a poor area was less than in other neighborhoods, but more than a discount store. Generally, this is a rarity in low-income areas. To further confuse things, different outlets of the same discount druggists offered different prices!

One reason for some price deviation may have been that the individual druggist had free reign to supply any brand or non-brand (generic) of the chemical compound tetracycline, including two interchangeable chemical formulations. A brand name on a prescription will usually command a higher price than its generic compound name, so it is beneficial for the consumer to ask his doctor to write down the generic and not the brand name.

When this hint was made public, big name manufacturers tried to discredit the reliability of a generic drug as opposed to the alleged superiority of a more expensive brand name. An FDA study released to the public in early 1967 discounted these unfounded claims. Out of 2582 samples of 20 generic compounds, 200 (7.7%) did not meet with the labeled potency because they were either too high or too low. Of 1991 samples of the same 20 drugs, this time using brand name versions, 176, (8.8%), did not equal the stated potency. The simple conclusions drawn were that generic quality is at least as high as brand name quality.

What can the average consumer do? Virtually nothing, except change the law. Ohio is the only state which has not barred advertisements of prescription drugs. This practically removes competition among various drug interests. The defective law should be repealed in every state. The way to do it was exemplified last year by a department store in St. Petersburg, Florida, which defied the law by advertising prices. As a result, they won a decision in Florida State Supreme Court, which resulted in the removing of the law. Other action taken was the conviction, three years ago of The American Cyanamid Co., Chas. Pfizer Co., and Bristol-Myers Co. by a Federal jury, for conspiring to fix the price of tetracycline compounds. Together with Upjohn Co., and Squibb Beech-Nut, Inc. these companies arranged to pay back $120 million dollars to cheated customers, including hospitals, states, cities, and individuals. Much more of this type of bold action is needed if the consumer is to expect a fair deal in the prescription drug market.

Westmoreland Charged With Allowing Torture

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)-Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. Army forces in Vietnam, was charged Wednesday by a defendent in the My Lai case with violating the military code by allowing the beating and torture of civilians at a South Vietnamese village in 1968.

Sgt. Esequiel Torres also charged the four star general with concealing a felony committed by troops in his presence at the village of Chanh Luu. Attorney Charles L. Weltner, a former Georgia congressman, filed the charges on behalf of Torres in a petition to Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor.

Weltner said the charges were based on an Associated Press story written by Peter Arnett. A copy of the story, which appeared in Aug. 12, 1968, newspapers was forwarded to Resor. Arnett is the only witness listed in the formal charge sheet.

Torres brought the charges under a provision of the military code which provides that anyone subject to the code can make formal accusations against anyone else subject to it.

Weltner said Resor may either dismiss the charges or order an investigation. if the charges are dismissed, the attorney said, Torres will have no legal recourse because, "You can't force the Army to prosecute anyone."

He added, however, "It'll be up to him Resor to explain how a four star general is immune to such a charge when the privates and corporals are not.

"If they treat this the way they do all the enlisted men, they will have to have an investigation. If the story is at all accurate, there would have to be a court martial."

In his letter to Resor, Weltner said, "It is my continued hope, in spite of your action on the charges against Gen. Westmoreland, that the Army will undertake seriously to determine responsibility for My Lai and related incidents, and cease its efforts to place the entire blame upon the shoulders of teen age 'boys.'"

Weltner referred to a charge he previously filed on behalf of Torres against Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Army chief of staff who was commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam at the time of the alleged My Lai massacre.

Weltner contended that Westmoreland was guilty of any atrocities that may have occurred at My Lai under the doctrine that a commander is responsible for the actions of his troops, even though he may be unaware of the. Resor dismissed the charges on grounds that Westmoreland had no knowledge of the My Lai incident.

Torres, 22, of Brownsville, Tex., is one of 10 defendents charged in the incident. He is accused of murder and assault with intent to murder in connection with the March 16,1968, attack on My Lai by units of the Americal Division.

The charges against Abrahms are based on a 600 word Associated Press story which describes what it calls "one of many allied raids on one of the most stubborn Viet Cong villages in Vietnam."

The first four paragraphs give this description of activity in the village on Aug. 11, 1968: "The people of Chanh Luu village squatted on their heels in the market place, watching impassively.

"The thud of fists on flesh in the rear room of one stucco house indicated that a battlefield interrogation was in progress. An armed guard pushed an old man, his hair matted with mud, into the main village square. His daughter followed tied to a rope behind him.

"Rows of bound men and women crouched in an open storehouse. Some were muddied. A few looked clean, wet and pale. They had been through the 'water treatment,' a favorite form of interrogation in Vietnam. Water is poured on a prisoner's face to make him talk.

"Weapons and grenades were added to a growing pile in the center of the market place. Senior allied generals strode around, including the U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams ." The remainder of the story described reactions among allied officials to problems in villages like Chanh Luu and cited the villagers' attitudes.

Student Employees To Form Committees

by JOHN A. BARBARO

There will be another meeting to organize a Student Employee's Union at 6 p.m. tomorrow, in the Council Chambers of the Student Union. During last week's meeting it was made clear that no employee could be fired for reason of organizing, the audio-visual technicians presented grievances and pay scale differences were discovered among the student employees present.

Tomorrow night student employees will meet to determine goals for each special interest group. Committees will be formed to research each group's goals and to decide on alternative directions The meeting will continue past 7 p.m. for any interested Dining Commons workers.

Dick Howland, Student Senate legal advisor, will be present at the beginning to answer any questions concerning protection under law.

Soldier Cleared Of Family Murder

FT BRAGG, N.C. (AP)-A Green Beret physician was cleared Wednesday of charges that he murdered his wife and two daughters. He said he wants to get out of the Army and start a new life.

"I don't hate the Army inspite of what has happened," said Capt. Jeffrey R. MacDonald, 27. "I'm proud of my green beret. But I've been through a bad scene, and the best thing for me to do is get out now."

MacDonald was cleared by his commanding officer, Maj. Gen. Edward M. Flanagan, of three counts of premeditated murder. Flanagan said there was not enough evidence to support the charges.

He based the ruling on a report by Col. Warren V. Rock, who held five weeks of hearings into the charges this summer to determine whether MacDonald should be court martialed. The Army had charged that the young doctor from Patchogue, N.Y., killed his family in a rage because his 2 year old daughter wet the bed.

MacDonald's wife, Colette, and daughters Kimberly, 6 and Kristen Jean, 2, were found beaten and stabbed to death in the family's apartment. MacDonald told investigators that a group of four persons one a girl had invaded the apartment, stabbed him and knocked him unconscious. He said when he awoke he found the bodies. The Army contended MacDonald made up the story of the intruders and stabbed himself to make the story believable.

A spokesman for the Army, Maj. James Wilson, said Wednesday, Unless there is new evidence there is no possibility of further charges against MacDonald.

MICHELLE IS WELL

AND SINGING AT THE

NEW MEADOW INN

TONIGHT FROM 10-1

BEER HOUR

9-10 EVERY THURSDAY
15¢ — 12 oz. BEER — PIZZA
MEADOW INN RT. 47 SUNDERLAND

Looking for some new ideas?

Go to the Christian Science Lecture

Today's Prophet

by Joseph Heard
Tonight
7:30

Questions afterward
Rooms 168-170
Campus Center

Sponsored by Christian Science Organization

MESSAGE TO

BLACK

MEN and WOMEN

THE BLACK AFFAIRS COUNCIL NEEDS NEW BROTHERS AND SISTERS.

If you have a desire to help in the overall improvement of our college experience, and our life as such, consider joining.

For information call:

6-7166, 6-7138 or 6-7136

Index Sparked By New Ideas In A Traditional Framework

In spite of the trend of the times, the yearbook should not be used as a vehicle for social protest.

So says this year's editor of the Index, Tom Leavitt.

"I don't feel a yearbook should be a soapbox for one person or any one group of persons for spouting opinions or value judgements," he said in an interview Friday.

"If there is such a thing, the average student, the 'Joe UMass', is the student we're publishing for. It's his book," Leavitt added.

Leavitt is a veteran who served as a photographer in the U.S. Army. He was appointed editor of the Index last Spring.

"This is a good opportunity for me to do something positive for the university. I feel I'm better qualified than some previous editors because of my background in Art Design principles and because photo-journalism is my field," he said.

"We're out to make the traditional yearbook something more, to make it work within the traditional framework as something new and exciting.

"We want the Index to be like a scrapbook, recording the year's events objectively and candidly with emphasis on people within the context of events," he added.

The Index should be "exciting and colorful, but not so it comes off with a carnival-circus flavor," he said.

Leavitt explained that the Index plans to take the viewpoint of an individual and show how a person reacts, visually and emotionally, to the campus.

"But we need people to work. I want to emphasize that the yearbook is not 'my' book or soapbox. It is published by students for students. We can't make it what they want if we don't have students working.

"We need at least 25 or 30 more people on the staff willing to do more than take up space," he said.

Some changes in the Index under the editorship of Leavitt will be essays by those chosen as distinguished professors, statements from students about the university, and articles by three prominant UMass administrators.

These will be in a section entitled "Educational environment", and a new section, "Performance and Fine Arts" will be added.

"Cyclebreaker," Halloween Show WMUA's Specials For This Week

WMUA's "Cyclebreaker" will present a special program on filmmaker Mike Nichols tonight at 6:30. Writers Lennie Poholek and Edward Roche will focus on Nichols' life, his partnership with Elaine May, and his current film, "Catch-22."

"Cyclebreaker" has tentative plans to present an interview with "Catch-22" screenplay writer Buck Henry and a possible interview with Mike Nichols himself. WMUA can be heard on 91.1 FM.

*****

And As a pre-Halloween special, Wolfman, Dracula, the werewolf, Igor, and even the Millhouse kid will be making cameo appearances on tomorrow's edition of the Eric Benjamin show, at 11:15 p.m.

This special halloween edition will contain poems by Ferlinghetti, short stories by Ray Bradbury and H.P. Lovecraft, and a special guest appearance by an indirect descendant of Edgar Allen Poe.

As well as poetry, music, and stories, there will be several other, "freaky" surprises for your halloween experience.

An American girl will sing the original version of an Indian song in the native language at Indian night on Sunday in the Campus Center.

India Night Sunday

"The important thing about India night is that it is not confined to Indians," President R. Patnaik of the India Association said, explaining the function of India night, which will occur this Sunday at the Campus Center auditorium beginning at 7 p.m.

He explained that although there are over a hundred Indian students studying at the University, most of them live off campus and, consequently, contacts with American students is often limited. By sponsoring productions including Americans both in the production and in the audience, the India Association is trying to widen the Indian student's contact with the university community.

"Of course, India night is also intended to give Americans a wider appreciation of Indian culture as well, to move beyond the idea of India as a land of maharajahs, poverty, Hinduism, caste, Indira Gandhi, "Mr. Patnaik said, throwing out these stereotyped images with a patient smile.

A skit to dramatize the differences between Indian and American cultures will satirize the experiences of an Indian student arriving in the States and an American Peace Corpsman arriving in India. The skits will proceed with parallel scenes scanning the occurences of a full year.

Much of the program will enable anyone with the one-dollar admission fee to see authentic Indian culture. Music will include American and Indian instruments harmonizing, as well as the unusual inclusion of an American girl singing an Indian song untranslated.

India night will put you in contact with a fascinating group of the UMass student body.

Sky Marshals Hired

(WASHINGTON (AP) - Top federal officials cleared the way Wednesday for putting a permanent force of more than 2,000 sky marshals into antihijacking service by early next year. Claiming tremendous success for a temporary force pressed into action earlier this fall by President Nixon, the officials decided to go ahead without awaiting congressional approval of financing.

Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy and Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe signed an agreement under which the Treasury Department will recruit and train the sky marshals to be known as "customs security officers." They then will be made available to the Federal Aviation Administration.

Volpe said it is hoped the permanent force will be ready for both air and ground service in three months, although he added the temporary group can be used longer if necessary.

The Krinkles
Soft, Squeezy
PATENTS
by — Socialite
Joyce
Nina
Zodiac

At BOLLES
8 Main Street

WE HONOR BANKAMERICARD

The talked-about 10 page spread in Playboy Magazine clearly shows why this movie is for everyone!
Everyone who does not shock or embarrass easily!
Everyone who likes their movies bold!
Everyone who likes provocative language!
Everyone who likes it like it is!
"Can Heironymus Merkin ever forget Mercy Humppe and find true happiness?"
IT'S THE ADULT MOVIE EVERYONE WANTS TO SEE!!!
But—PEOPLE EASILY EMBARRASSED...SHOULD NOT!
But—PEOPLE WITH 'HANG-UPS'..DARE NOT!
But—PEOPLE UNDER 16...CANNOT!
Anthony Newley · Joan Collins · Milton Berle
"Can Heironymus Merkin ever forget Mercy Humppe and find true happiness?"
co-starring Bruce Forsyth · Stubby Kaye and George Jessel
THURSDAY, OCT. 29 S.U. BALLROOM
ADMISSION: 50c 7:00 & 9:30

Peace Parade

Peace Parade To Present New HomecomingExperience

PEACE PARADE, to be presented Sunday, November 15 as a part of student Homecoming, is the new play which inspired a crowd of 5000 at Cornell University to clap, dance, and "blow their minds." PEACE PARADE is an experience -- it features a light show, films, and audience participation plus all the music from HAIR.

The cast, including members of the original casts of the New York and Los Angeles productions of HAIR, are into a communal thing, and the spontaneity displayed on stage is not acted. It's their life style, free to get up and have a great time.

PEACE PARADE will be "performed" at the Cage on Sunday November 15 at 2 p.m. Tickets are $2 and go on sale Monday, November 2. Tickets for the Friday and Saturday night concerts also go on sale Monday.

Watch tomorrow's MDC for an announcement of the Saturday night concert entertainment.

First Church To Offer Educational Labs

A first level Personal Education Lab, "The Narrow Ridge," will be offered on the weekend of November 6-8 in the lounge at First Congregational Church. Personal Education Labs are short term courses under the sponsorship of the Adult Education Committee of the United Ministry which blend insights from Christian Theology, the psychology of Carl Jung and others, and a variety of existentialist and other contemporary literary figures. The style of learning is in small groups.

The specific schedule for the lab, which will be under the leadership of Paul and Betty Millin is as follows: Friday evening, Nov. 6, 7:30-9:30; Saturday, Nov. 7, 10-12 a.m., 1-3 p.m.; Sunday Nov. 8, 2-6 p.m.

Registration can be made by telephoning Mrs. Gordon Good, at 253-5055 weekdays between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Registration is limited to 16 persons and cost for the lab is $2.50, payable at the first session.

Apple Corps Sponsors Hill Halloween Party

On Saturday, October 31, the Orchard Hill Apple Corps is sponsoring a night of Halloween activities for residents of the Hill. The celebrations are also open to anyone on campus who might be interested. The program, (free, of course,) will consist of:

8:00-10:00 pm - Costume Ball, Webster Rec Room
10:00-10:45 pm - Costume judging, Webster Lounge (prizes will be awarded)
10:45-11:45 pm - Speaker on Witchcraft, Field Lounge
11:45-12:00 - Horror tunnel - Link between Field & Grayson (open most of night)
12:00-2:00 am - Film - "The Haunted Palace" - Grayson Lounge
2:00...am - Refreshments and rap, Grayson Rec Room

Parents Try To Stop Communal Field Trip

GREENFIELD, Mass. (AP) - A group of parents say school field trips for youngsters to fire stations and museums are one thing, but a visit by school children to a hippie commune is quite another.

The parents tried unsuccessfully Tuesday night to have the school committee take a stand on visits by classroom youngsters to the Brotherhood of the Spirit Commune in Warwick.

Several humanities classes from Greenfield High School have visited the commune, and Principal Edward Jones told the school board that educators regarded the commune trips as similar to visits to a monastery.

The commune is currently under fire by Warwick officials who want to evict most of the 100 members for violations of the sanitary code. Last week a Greenfield woman offered the commune use of her 20 room home.

Commune spokesmen say it has a strict ban on liquor, drugs and promiscuity.

Although the school board did not take a vote, an informal poll indicated five members were in favor of the commune visits, four opposed.

Men's Lib To Hold Open Conversation

An open conversation on men's liberation will be held Thursday, November 5 at 8 P.M. in the Student Union Council Chambers. Groups involved in a continuing conversation of this kind have begun all over the country. Some have begun among men who relate to women in women's liberation. Many represent an independent search for ways for men to free themselves from rigidly defined social roles, conditioning and pressure.

UNICEF Needs More Volunteers

Volunteers are still needed to canvas the campus for the annual UNICEF drive. Canvassers are especially needed in the Southwest, Central, and fraternity-sorority areas. Volunteers can sign up and obtain information this week at the UNICEF Information Table in the Student Union lobby.

Thursday night is set for campus-wide canvassing. Contributions will also be accepted at the lobby table.

Quadruplet Girls Born In Worcester

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) - Quadruplet girls born eight weeks premature were reported in critical condition Wednesday at The Memorial Hospital.

The quads, born Tuesday night and ranging in wright from one pound, 15 ounces to three pounds, two ounces, currently are in incubators and are receiving intravenous feeding.

The parents were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Gary Fennell of Fairfield, Conn Mr. Fennell is a graduate student in biology at Clark University.

A hospital spokesman said the father was in the delivery room at the time of birth, and "managed to stay calm. He had been told a few weeks ago that two were expected, and then last week he was told it might be three. The fourth came as a surprise."

The mother's condition was reported as "fine." The hospital said she had not been taking fertility pills.

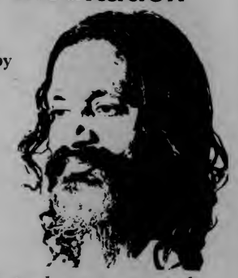
The next five to 10 days will be critical for the children, the hospital said.

Last Wednesday in Winchester, quadruplet girls were born to a young ironworker and his wife.

FDA To Set Baby Food Standards

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Food and Drug Administration moved Wednesday to set federal standards for infant feeding formulas and to require the labeling of all contents in baby foods.

Under the most stringent portion of the proposed order, manufacturers of infant formulas designed as complete or partial substitutes for human milk would have to tell consumers when their products fail to meet federal standards for four major nutrients. These are protein, vitamins, fats and minerals.



The FDA also proposed first time labeling of baby food such as strained vegetables, fruits and meat to indicate all ingredients and, where applicable, their plant or animal source.

Federal dietary guidelines, however, would be established only for formulas. And only the ingredients of these products would have to be listed by quantity.

Friday — Saturday — Sunday Special!
BIG BOOMER SANDWICH
DRUMMER BOY
FRENCH FRIES
74 c

transcendental meditation
as taught by Maharishi
Mahesh
Yogi

Transcendental meditation is a natural spontaneous technique which allows each individual to expand his conscious mind and improve all aspects of life.

introductory lecture
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29th
SBA 120 8:00 P.M.

Greenough Bus To Tour Experimental Colleges

by JOYCE KACOYANIS
Staff Reporter

The 1947 GMC bus parked next to Greenough co-ed dorm "everyone thinks is just an old wreck, actually runs like a top," according to John Tierney, Housefather of Greenough.

The dorm residents will use the bus to visit experimental colleges in the northeast section of the country over the week-ends next semester.

"Greenough has the potential to develop into an experimental college system as one of different styles of living and learning, instead of the traditional "lecture-examination set-up."

Tierney recently bought the 37 passenger vehicle for himself at $1,000 from a policeman who bought it from a Hingham bus company. The bus now has a new Diesel engine which the Greenough housefather claims probably runs better than most buses on the roads.

Ten to 12 people will travel in what will become a "complete mobile living unit." The bus will be equipped with a full kitchen, bath, shower, and sleeping accomodations, Tierney continued.

"It's important that the kids who'll go on these trips can live together in such a limited area. After each visit, we'll sit down and bounce our impressions off each other. It's also important that the members of each group have diverse opinions so we won't go too much in one direction," Tierney commented.

Tierney explained that since accomodations are few, the co-ed trips will be limited generally to Greenough residents. If there is ever room, Project Ten and Insnifree students will have second priority.

Ben Salem Experimental College of Fordham University, New York, is the first planned visit on the 'PROJECT'S ITINERARY. Tierney read about Ben Salem, named after an Irish poet, in the New York TIMES. Little is known, however, about experimenmental colleges because there is a lack of informative literature on the subject, he claims.

Tierney said that the idea of Greenough changing to an experimental college developed last year "over talking." Residents asked the University for bus fare to various colleges but were refused. "So I bumped into this bus," he added.

Greenough's housefather, or as he calls himself, the dorm's "noisemaker," estimates that renovations will cost him $1800.

Greenough residents have helped him to tear out seats and heaters. "Physical Plant personnel have been a great help to us with their experience and skills," he also acknowledged.

Notices

ASTRONOMY CLUB:
Open House at the UMass Observatory, Saturday, Oct. 31st, sunset to midnight. Come up and take a look at the outside world.

CEQ:
Anyone concerned about POPULATION PROBLEMS-come to MPG meeting, 7:30 tonight, Oct. 29th, room 502 Campus Center.

ELEM. ED. MAJORS IN S.W.
Undergraduate affairs offices presents HELP ME? JQA Middle, Monday, November 2nd, 7:30, 12th floor.

EQUESTRIAN CLUB:
Meeting on Wednesday, November 4th at 7:30, room 168 Campus Center – movie on saddlebreds to be shown. All are welcomed.

FREE UNIVERSITY:
Could this be the way out of here? Sensory pumpkin/electra' media and music, Friday night October 30th in Campus Center Auditorium.

HILLEL:
Friday night services in Nantucket Room, SU, at 7:30 PM. Saturday services at 10:00 A.M. in Nantucket Room. Speaker: Kobi Michaeli. Topic: Fourth World Liberation Struggles.

INTEGRAL YOGA INSTITUTE:
There will be an open class in Hatha Yoga, breathing, chanting and meditation tonight 5:30-7:00 in the Campus Center room 911-915. Please bring an empty stomach and wear loose-fitting clothing.

KRISHNA CONSCIOUSNESS BLATIYOGA CLUB:
Join in chanting Hare Krishna and learn about Krishna consciousness at the first meeting of the Blakhyoga Club. Come to 204 Crince House 7:00, Thursday, October 29th. Contact Lee Ruth for further information.

MFA IN ENGLISH:
Open poetry reading featuring Jane Lunan and Robert Bohm at 7:30 PM tonight in Memorial Hall.

MPG:
Urgent! We've been invited to perform. Meeting 7:30 tonight, room 802 Campus Center.

NEWMAN CLUB.
The Newman Club is having a Halloween party in the Social Lounge this Friday at 8:00 PM. The public is invited. Refreshments and entertainment.

OUTING CLUB.
Know Super Caving spectacular coming tomorrow. Be prepared.

REGIONAL ALLIANCE FOR ISRAEL:
RAFI members and other interested in making posters, banner, advertisements and other publicity call Debbie at 6-6868

STUDENT EMPLOYEES UNION:
Student Employees Union organizational meeting Thursday, Oct. 29th, 6-8 PM, Council Chambers, Student Union. If you want job security and control come and bring friends.

UMASS/EQUESTRIAN DRILL TEAM:
Tryouts for team on Friday, Oct. 30th, 12:20, 1:25, 2:30 at Tillson Farm. Bus leaves from Grinnel Arena

UMASS WOMEN'S SKI TEAM
A meeting will be held on Tuesday, November 3 at 7:00 PM in front of the Hatch in the Student Union. All interested please attend

USCV:
Meeting of all members interested Students and Faculty, Sunday, November 1st, 8:00 PM, Colonial Lounge. Barbara Herron, Speech Prof. will speak to group.

VAN METER SOUTH.
Jay Healy, Republican candidate for state representative from First Franklin District will speak on variety of issues, Thursday, October 29th at 8:30 PM in Music Room of Van Meter.

WMUA:
Eric Benjamin presents a special Halloween show 11:15-3:00 A.M. Readings from Fertighetti, H.P. Lovecraft, Ray Bradbury. Find a friend and begin celebrating Halloween early

YPSL:
Will meet in room 163 of Campus Center on Thursday, October 29th at 8:00 PM. All YPSL's must attend; anyone interested in democratic socialism is welcome.

LOST
Lost in Hatch, a slide rule. If found please call (leave message) Steve Carter 104 Butterfield, 5-2418-9 (dorm phone).

Trig book and notebook lost from bicycle basket in front of Herter yesterday.

LOST:
A gold key case somewhere in Southwest. If found please call 6-8518. Needed urgently!

Girl's brown wallet in F-lot. Contains important articles. Please contact Linda 546-7481.

Gold watch with black cord band. Between Infirmary and Lewis. Sentimental value. Call Mrs. DeWolfe 545-2671.

Brown corduroy winter coat with pile lining. Call Joan 549-6081.

FOUND:
Black and white spotted dog, both ears are black found October 26th by Campus Center. Call 549-0811.

Men's Timex waterproof watch, found near pond last week, claim at Student Union lost and found soon.

No notice may exceed twenty-five words.

Deadline for notices is 2:00 P.M. on the preceding day.

There is a one day maximum for all notices

Pinnings and engagements will appear on Fridays.

CALL ANY VEGETABLE

ONLY MINUTES AWAY VIA RT.91 OR MASS. PIKE

Showcase Cinemas No. 3
733-5131
RT.5 RIVERDALE RD. W. SPFLD.
CHILD $1
HONORED HERE
ACRES FREE PARKING
RECLINING ROCKER LOUNGES
GROUP RATES
Barbra Streisand Yves Montand
On A Clear Day You Can See Forever
Mon-Fri: 2, 7:25, 9:50 G
Sat & Sun: 2, 4:45, 7:25, 9:50
"THIS KIND OF MOVIE A REVIEWER SHOULD PAY TO SEE!" N.Y. POST
LOVERS AND OTHER STRANGERS
Mon.-Fri: 2, 7:30, 9:40 R
Sat. & Sun: 1, 3, 5:10, 7:20, 9:40
COLOR
RECLINING ROCKER LOUNGES
2 ART GALLERIES
GROUP
THE MOST SAVAGE FILM IN HISTORY!
SOLDIER BLUE
CANDICE BERGEN R
MON. - FRI. 2:00-7:30-9:40
Sat. & Sun. 1-3:10-5:20 7:35-9:40

HALLOWEEN PARTY

OCTOBER 29, 1970

COMMONWEALTH ROOM
STUDENT UNION
7-9 P.M.
ALL CHILDREN AND PARENTS WELCOME

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

Pioneer, Teac, Garrard, FE Aztec, Fisher, TDK, cassette and open reel tape, standard radio, Utah speakers, 4 Fs, 8 track and other necessities. Amherst Audio. tf11-23

Puppies — Alaskan Malamute Sled Dogs, excellent pedigree, ideal pets. Call Greenfield 773-8411 after 5:30 p.m. tf10-30

Guitars way below retail prices, brand new and overstocked, accessories, electric-acoustic classical $50 and up, meet $80. On campus call: 546-7072 or 546-6714, leave number. tf10-29

High power stereo outfit, Scott amp, Garrard changer w/Grado HTE cartridge, Electro-voice 12 inch Coax speakers, $125. Bruce 253-2213. tf11-2

1964 Volkswagen bus with gas heater and other accessories. Price $750.00. Call 586-2850. tf10-30

FA sound equip., amps, mixers, mikes. Also ITU 6 volt transistor radio for VW. Call 665-3075, ask for Paul. tf11-2

Sony Tape Recorder, model 530 stereo, can be made into a deck. One year old, cost new $230, will sell for $110. Call 253-2149. tf10-29

Raccoon coat, very good condition. Call Ware 967-5585. tf10-30

Old TV (still works) and small coffee table. Best offer. Call 253-3663. tf10-30

Very friendly baby Boa Constrictor. Easy to care for. Tom at 6-7108 tf10-30

FOR SALE — AUTOS

1962 Rambler, good condition. 665-3075, ask for Nancy. tf11-2

Classic 66 Barracuda 340, auto., P. S., radio, pin-stripe. Call eves. 549-6047. 10/29—21-23-27-29

1963 Ford Galaxy, $250 or best offer. Call after 5:30. 253-7709 tf10-23-30

62 Chrysler 575 or best offer, good running condition. Ph. 253-2115. tf10-29

1962 Rambler, good condition, 665-3075, ask for Nancy. tf10-30

Rambler 770, 1965 326 8 cyl., 4 barrel, 4500 miles, perf., new brakes, hooks, carb., runs real good. Call Bab at Sig Ep, Bob Nugent, 549-6070 tf10-30

62 Chevy, 6 cyl., automatic, good condition. Call Sandra 253-7264. tf10-30

64 Dodge Dart GT Conv., asking $250. Call Steve 253-9227. tf11-5

1968 Falcon 4 door, std., trans., 289 V-8, 38,000 mi., good cond., $975.00, Call eves 323-7866 Belchertown tf10-30

63 Impala 8 cylinder, excellent condition, $300, or best offer. Call 549-1807. tf10-30

1966 Chevrolet Bisc., 4 dr., new engine, low mileage. Call 773-8501 after 6 p.m. tf11-5

WANTED

Poetry wanted for cooperative anthology. Please include stamped return envelope. Idlewild Press, 1507 East Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90021. tf11-13

Wanted: Term paper, Naturalism in Crane's Works. Price negotiable 546-9436, ask for Pat. tf10-30

SERVICES

Will type and/or revise any written material. Also do personalized resumes for schools, jobs. Professional, fast, reasonably priced service. Call 584-6817, eves. Keep trying. tf11-6

Computer Science Tutoring and Programming available. Call Al 256-6128. tf10-23-30

Amherst Audio services stereo components, tape decks for home or car, 197 No. Pleasant St. 256-6150. tf12-23

FOR RENT

2 bdrm. apt. in Sunderland, available at week in Nov. Big kitchen, living room, and attic for storage. Rent $100/mo. plus heat and elec. Call 665-3066 evenings or anytime weekends. tf10-30

One bedroom apt. at Cliffside Apts., Sunderland, $135 monthly with all utilities, garbage disposal, dishwasher, etc., swimming pool, tennis courts, call 665-3064 after 6 p.m., before 9 p.m. tf10-29

LECTURE SERIES

Opening October 31, 1970, School of Psychographicology. Free lecture by Manery O'Connell, originator of the study, at Hotel Northampton. Time: 7:30 p.m. tf10-30

RIDE WANTED

To Spfld, Winchester Sq., mornings and back at night. Will pay well. Call Diane at 665-3899 after 6 p.m. tf10-30

ROOMMATES WANTED

1 or 2 roommates for large house in South Hadley. Own room. Call 6-5286, ask for Jean. tf10-29

PERSONAL

Frank, 8th floor, and John, Fuffton: Thanks for the wonderful time Saturday night. — C. and J. 10-29

Will anyone who saw accident involving tan 68 VW at Stop & Shop Sat., Oct. 24 at about 4:30, please call Warne at 253-3663, urgent. tf11-4

T., Happy 20th. Love, M.F. 10-29

Bike! Happy birthday. Your car will help you find where your prereqs are. DTWD87 10-29

CHEF WANTED

Berkshire resion restaurant looking for chef, creative, progressive, young outlook, able to handle all phases, incl. menu planning, purchasing, work prep., 55 hr. week. Salary open. Amherst Food Service, Inc., 82 Pray St., Amherst, Mass. tf10-30

In This Corner

Hats Off To Redmen Booters

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

The fall sports scene around UMass for the past several years has always been football, football, football. More people go to Alumni Stadium to watch the home football games, more space is devoted in this paper to the UMass gridders and the campus radio station, WMUA, broadcasts every one of the Redmen's football games, home and away.

Football has been the top fall sports attraction for a long time around here, as it has been and will be for some time to come on most college campuses across America. But, for the first time in a long time, another sport has risen to fall prominence the UMass campus. It won't challenge football for fan-appeal but, heck, it's high time some hoopla was made about the excellent Redman soccer team.

Coach Peter Broaca's booters are among the best soccer aggregates in New England. Presently they are ranked as the fourth best team in the six-state area, not bad for a squad that has never been in the top ten prior to the present campaign.

Up until two days ago the soccer team was unbeaten, the owner of a proud 5-0-1 record, the one tie coming against the University of Rhode Island in double overtime, a game played in the midst of a bone-chilling 35 mile-an-hour wind.

On Tuesday the Redman undefeated express was upset by a tough Worcester Polytech club, the ninth-ranked soccer squad in N.E. Going into the fray W.P.I.had a 7-1-1 mark but nipped UMass, 3-2, on the strength of two second-half goals.

It was a really great game though and probably the best thing to come out of it was the fact that close to 200 people were there, at the field right across from Boyden Building, to cheer on the Redmen.

Will they be back? Yes. The loss did not disillusion these fans; it was such a finely-played contest and left probably everyone present with a belief that this UMass soccer team can bounce back and start another win streak.

A lot of interested fans will be waiting anxiously to get first word on how the team fares in its tremendously important game against Vermont on this coming Saturday. The tilt will be played away and it will be against the team that is yearly associated with the best soccer in the Yankee Conference.

UMass is rated as a better team than the Catamounts but it will have to prove its edge on the playing field. With the Redmen the present frontrunners in the Conference, the importance of this affair cannot be overemphasized.

However, the booters must return home after the Vermont game for an even bigger challenge, a mighty Tuesday match with Springfield College. The Chieftains are rated a notch ahead of the Redmen at the present time and this tussle should be something to see. Game time on Tuesday is 2 p.m.

Win, lose or draw against Vermont, one is urged to go down to the soccer field Tuesday to take a look at UMass' proud soccer team. Try soccer for a change!

Even if one isn't knowledgible about the rules of this sport, the playing of the game itself will capture his imagination. Standing along the sidelines one can get very close to the action. Watch what these guys can do with their feet! The footwork involved in moving the black-and-white soccer ball in position for a score is simple incredible.

For sheer fan appeal, soccer is the number one sport in the world, but it never has caught on in America, which is a shame. Fans in this country are, overall, a spoiled lot. At their very fingertips they have a television dial that switches them from high scoring sporting event to high-scoring sporting event with narry a break in between.

Rarely does one take the time out to go to a soccer match where the scoring is low, but where the actual playing of the game is something beautiful to behold. Try soccer on next Tuesday.....just for a change.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

Astrology helps indicate the stop-and-go signals of life. My personal research indicates that persons born under Aquarius seem especially attracted to the subject. Aquarius was the sign of the most famous American astrologer ever — Evangeline Adams.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): New moon position coincides with emphasis on finances related to partnership, marriage. Maintain flexible position. If you get your back up, you invite unnecessary problems.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Lie low; play waiting game. This is time to plant seeds. But they take time to develop, flourish. Specifically, make contacts which can blossom into meaningful relationships. Don't rush.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Best to personally supervise basic tasks. Otherwise, there is tendency for others to skip essentials. Maintain steady, moderate pace. Not wise to overexert yourself.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Affection is accented. Many express appreciation, warmth. Family member makes amends for recent slight. Be gracious — accept gesture of friendship. Romance is also in picture.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): New approach to old problems is necessary. Consult individual who aided in past. You can improve surroundings by adding appropriate dashes of color. Cancer-born person will co-operate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Relative who appeared stubborn does about-face. You get chance to prove worth of favorite project. Means more responsibility, but also greater satisfaction. Light is green for go.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): A different source of gain is revealed. Income potential is highlighted. Finish current assignment and prepare for new opportunity. Lunar position accents money, possessions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): New moon in your sign promotes strong desire for self-assertion. Take initiative. Cycle is high; judgment proves correct. Heed inner voice. Act with confidence, conviction.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Air of mystery, romance, intrigue — these are featured. For answers, look behind the scenes. Key is to make discreet inquiries. Not wise to show hole card.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Accent on versatile approach toward goal. Means socialize; find out what others are saying and thinking. Fine for dining out, attending theater. Change routine. Get out of any rut.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): You may find yourself dealing with governmental official, local or otherwise. Key is to have facts at hand. Don't deceive others — or yourself. Get files in order.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): You can gain publicity, added recognition for product and yourself. But you must be willing to discard some preconceived notions. Open mind to knowledge. Then you make gains.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are intuitive, creative, but often are plagued by self-doubts. You are on the brink of embarking on active social period. Loneliness will be replaced by sense of genuine fulfillment.

Copyright 1970, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Frosh Booters Drop First, 2-1

By STEVE FERBER
Staff Reporter

The freshman soccer team's inability to mount a strong offensive attack resulted in its first loss of the season, to Trinity by a 2-1 score. The Little Redmen, suffering from an obvious emotional let-down after last week's victory, over UConn never got untracked, as their Tuesday loss put them at 3-1-1.

The first period furor, which has been the freshmen's trademark, was just not there. This was further supported by the fact that this game saw the opposition open the scoring, something that had never been done against the frosh.

After a listless first period, Trinity moved downfield mid-way in the period. The Trinity forward beat goalie Beggs in what was to be the only score in the first half.

Early in the second half UMass finally started moving. With the ball near mid-field Howie Spier took it downfield, and after eluding two Trinity defensemen he drilled the ball into the Trinity goal. The score was knotted at 1-1.

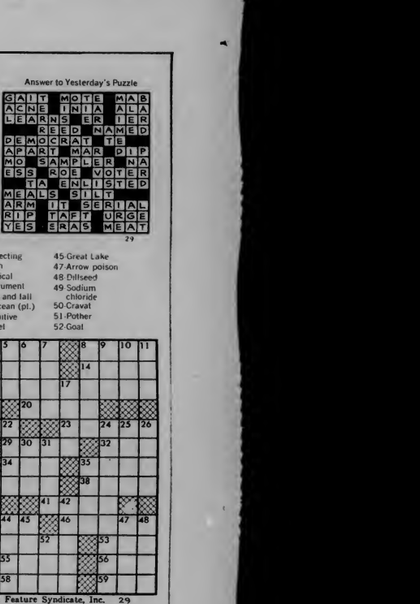
UMass' goal sparked the Redmen as they showed flashes of dominance. Four times in that third period they came extremely close, only to be denied, twice by the fine Trinity goalkeeper.

The tie did not stand for long as minutes later Trinity again scored, wrapping up the day's tallies, and ultimately the victory. This late third period score did not appear to be the final one though as Trinity was awarded a penalty kick soon after. The kick was surprisingly missed and it looked as if UMass had the break it needed. But little could help the Redman cause.

Although it was its only loss of the season, Trinity didn't appear to be UMass' toughest foe. The loss of Mike nugent seemed to have an effect as the offense was sorely unimpressive.The defense was led by Jeff Stanwood, who did another exceptional job at halfback, but over-all the Redmen had played their poorest contest of the season. The day's sorrows were best summed up when one of the players said, "We just weren't up for this game at all."

The Little Redmen, who weren't their dominating selves, had another nemesis working against them as the heckling from the hometown fans was something to behold. Heckling in a soccer contest is quite rare, and in a freshman soccer game it is somewhat shocking.

The frosh will conclude their season against Springfield at home this Friday in an attempt to end their highly successful season on a winning note.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

G	A	I	T	M	O	T	E	M	A	B
A	C	N	E	I	N	I	A	L	A
L	E	A	R	N	S	E	R	I	E	R
		R	E	E	D	N	A	M	E	D
D	E	M	O	C	R	A	T	I	E
A	P	A	R	T	M	A	R	D	I	P
M	O	S	A	M	P	L	E	R	N	A
E	S	S	R	O	E	V	O	T	E	R
		P	A	E	N	I	S	T	E	D
M	E	A	L	S	S	I	L	T
A	R	M	I	T	S	E	R	I	A	L
R	I	P	T	A	F	T	U	R	G	E
Y	E	S	E	R	A	S	M	E	A	T

ACROSS
1-Weaken
4-Charity
8-Narrow, flat board
12-Be mistaken
13-Face of watch
14-Run easily
15-Confederate general
16-Adorned
18-Large spoon
20-Short jacket
21-Helps
23-Sharpen
27-Ceremony
29-Domesticate
32-Period of time
33-River in Siberia
34-The self
35-Antlered animal
36-Ventilate
37-Blemish
38-Wan
39-Glossy liber
41-Heavenly body
43-Speed contest
46-Country of Asia
49-Reeled
53-Hostelry
54-Opera by Verdi
55-Boundary
56-Born
57-Man's name
58-Spreads for drying
59-Obtain

DOWN
1-Trade for money
2-Region
3-Pillaging
4-Totaled
5-Falsehood
6-Heavy staff
7-Narrow opening
8-Incline
9-Parcel of land
10-Simian
11-Man's nickname
17-Flower
19-Hold on property
22-Walk
24-Holding back
25-Spoken
26-Boy attendant
27-Bellow
28-Dolphinlike cetacean
30-Time gone by
31-Witty remarks
35-Reach across
37-Projecting tooth
40-Musical instrument
42-Rise and fall of ocean (pl.)
44-Primitive chisel
45-Great Lake
47-Arrow poison
48-Diffused
49-Sodium chloride
50-Cravat
51-Pother
52-Goal

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 29

Winless Cats Hope To Scratch Visiting Redmen

by BARRY RUBENSTEIN
Assistant Sports Editor

Playing an 0-6 football team can hardly be labeled an inspiring task for anyone, even for the 1-4-1 UMass unit. That is the chore, however, that the Redmen face this Saturday as they travel up to Burlington to meet the Catamounts of Vermont.

Coach Joe Scannella hosts the Redmen with a team that has the worst offensive and defensive record in the Yankee Conference. Not only have they given up the most points, 230, but they have also scored the least, 59. One might think that the resurging Redmen could take the Catamounts lightly. Not so.

Vermont is not without its threats. Its offense, which might look meager in terms of statistics, is an explosive one and contains some extremely talented personel.

The Catamounts have a solid running attack. Getting most of the yardage inside is John Pelcher, 5'11-185-lb., who was a defensive halfback before this season. Pelcher, however, has made the transition to fullback well and is, on fact, second in the conference in rushing with 408 yards in 90 attempts for a four yard average.

Pelcher has taken up most of the slack brought about by an injury to star halfback Bob Rodger. Last season, Rodger was first team All-Yankee Conference, honorable mention All-New England and ECAC Sophomore of the Year. The Catamounts expect great things from him and his return to the lineup will greatly aid the Vermont offense. He will play against the Redman.

Vermont, however, is primarily a passing team despite the fine statistics of Pelcher and Rodger. Earl Olson will be the starting signal caller and the 5'11 165-lb. sophomore has completed just under 50% of his passes thus far. He has tossed four touchdown passes but has been plagued with a Conference high of nine interceptions. Alson has a couple of fine receivers to choose from.

Vic Zollo, the tight end, leads the Yankee Conference in receptions with an excellent total of 28. He has nabbed one touchdown pass and averages 10.4 yards a catch. Olson likes to go to him on third and long yardage situations.

As far as the long bomb is concerned, split end Dan Leber is the primary threat. The Catamounts like to go for the big gainer whenever they can and Leber is usually the man on the recieving end. He has so far caught 17 passes for two TD's and an average of 13.4 yards a catch.

One of the things that makes the Vermont passing attack effective is the fact that Olson has a very quick release. He usually gets rid of the ball in about three seconds which makes it awfully tough on the pass rush and takes much of the pressure off of a mediocre offensive line.

The Catamount defense can be troublesome. They have a solid line which is anchored by 6'2 245-lb. senior captain Gerry Elliott, a defensive tackle. However, Elliott has been bothered by injuries and it is not known whether he will start or not. The defensive line is a difficult unit to run against and provides an adequate pass rush.

Fran Prodecvi and Kevin Lynch, both veterans, are the leaders of a competent linebacking unit. The secondary, on the other hand, is the Catamount weakness.

The defensive backfield has been a perennial problem for Coach Scannella. Over the last two seasons, Vermont has given up at least 1500 yards a year through the air. The key man this year has been sophomore safety man Tom Nieradka.

The strongest portion of the Catamount team this year has been, stragely enough, their kickoff return unit. Vermont lists three men, Bob Sadowski, Rodger and Leber, among the top eight men in this category in the Conference and Sadowski has broken one for 94 yards and a touchdown.

Though UMass, especially considering last week's fine effort, must be considered the definite favorite in this one, Vermont's explosive offense is capable of turning any game around.

The Catamount

Vt.'s Line-up

Offense
C John Nichols, 6'2 205
LG Peter Radliet, 6'0 205
RG Barry Sullivan, 5'8 194
LT Bill Rudkin, 6'1 240
RT Bob Lynch, 6'7 240
LE Dan Leber, 5'11 175
RE Vic Zollo, 6'1 205
FB John Pelcher, 5'11 185
HB Bob Rodger, 6'0 190
HB Larry Bona, 5'8 180
QB Earl Olson, 5'11 165

Defense
LE Bob Stearns, 6'2 230
LT Tom McLaughlin, 6'3 215
RT Charles Russo, 6'0 210
RE Wayne Bulman, 6'3 220
LB Fran Frondecki, 6'0 195
LB Ira Gordon 6'1 200
LB Kevin Lynch, 6'1 205
LB Dick Rostowsky, 5'11 190
HB Gene Hotaling, 6'0 170
HB Jim Schwartz, 5'9 160
S Tom Nieradka, 5'10 160

Daily Collegian
Sports
VOLUME XCVIII ISSUE 36
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1970

sPoRts —AP— ShorTiEs

NEW YORK (AP) -Robert Short, the owner of the Washington Senators, said yesterday he had not yet signed out fielder Curt Flood but Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said "there is a possibility something definite may develop shortly." The Washington Post earlier had reported that Flood, still engaged in an antitrust lawsuit involving baseball's controversial reserve clause, had agreed to salary terms at a price in excess of $90,000 a year.

But Short denied that and Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, which is backing Flood's suit, labeled the story "flatly untrue."

*****

NEW YORK (AP) - Tom Gatewood of Notre Dame continues to pace the nation's major college football players in pass receiving with an 8.8 catch per game average with 44 receptions for 679 yards.

New leaders took over in interceptions and kickoff and punt return categories for the third straight week, figures released by NCAA Sports Services showed Wednesday.

Among the new faces are Colerado State's Jake Green in kickoff returns with a 30.7 average and Dartmouth's Tim Copper in punt returns, a 20.2 mark. Nine players are tied for first in interceptions at exactly 1.0 per game, including four who held or shared the lead in previous weeks. Five newcomers to the top ten include, Tim Priest and Bobby Majors of Tennessee, Windlan Hall of Arizona State, Dan Devito of Northern Illinois and Mike Sensibaugh of Ohio State.

*****

NEW YORK (AP) - Take two NFL Individual Stars: with 44. Larry Brown of Washington is the runaway leader in NFL rushing statistics with 543 yards in 106 carries for a 5.1 yards per carry average and four touchdowns. Trailing him in the National Conference is last week's leader, MacArthur Lane of St. Louis with 531 yards after being held to just 37 yards last weekend by the New York Giants.

In the AFC the man in front is big Floyd Little of Denver with 493 yards in 108 carries for 4.6 yards and a pair of TDs. No. 2 formerly No. 1 a week ago is Oakland's Hewritt Dixon with 475. Dixon galloped 106 yards against Pittsburgh but Little rambled for 140 against San Francisco.

Eddie Hinton of Baltimore leads the AFC receiving list with 29 receptions, 467 yards and a 16.1 average.

Sports Notices

BASKETBALL SCRIMMAGE - On Saturday afternoon at 4, the UMass basketball team will hold its first varsity intrasquad scrimmage at Curry Hicks Cage. This intrasquad scrimmage is open to any student who wants to attend.

*****

OLYMPICS? - Ever wanted to compete in the Olympic games? Rowing is an Olympic sport. The men in Harvard's 1968 Olympic boat never rowed before attending college. Crew became their sport. With this in mind, the UMass crew team repeats that it wants freshmen at least 6'1 and 185 pounds. Inquire at the crew office, 211 Boyden at 5-2801 during the day. At this number ask for Kurt Betchick.

*****

FOOTBALL TICKETS-Tickets for the UMass-Holy Cross football game, to be played in Worcester at H.C.'s Fitton Field, can be purchased at the Boyden ticket office, room 155 Boyden. The office is open until 6 p.m. Unreserved tickets for this game will cost $2, representing- fine endzone seats. reserved tickets will go for $4.

*****

WOMEN'S FIELD HOCKEY - The women's field hockey team won its fifth game of the fall recently, beating Connecticut State College, 1-0. The team's record is now 5-2. Its next home game is Nov. 5 against Springfield.

Intramurals

TUG-O-WAR
CAMPUS FINALS
Pied Pipers 2, KS 0

CO-REC BEEF PULL
CAMPUS FINAL
Lovers 2, Lemons 0

Tonight's Intramurals
KS vs. 3 M's for Campus 2nd Place

UMass' soccer team is on the move with only one loss and one tie in seven matches. The booters have achieved high ranking in New England soccer circles. And so, the Collegian Sports Staff's second publication of "In This Corner" focuses on the UMass soccer team on page 15.

"WE FINALLY TURNED THE CORNER" - comments head coach Vic Fusia to a vastly improving QB Ken Hughes. This week's Quarterback Club offensive recipient came alive against UConn hitting 12 of 25 passes for 157 yds. At extreme left is assistant coach George Karras. (MDC photo by Rich McIntyre)

At QB Club Luncheon . . .
Rejuvenated Offense Heralds Hughes

by JOHN SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

Yesterday's UMass Redmen Quarterback Club Luncheon presented its weekly awards for top UMass offensive player and top defensive player in last Saturday's football game against Connecticut to Ken Hughes and Dennis Collins respectively.

The honoring of Hughes, the Redmen's senior quarterback, as the best offensive player might be a milestone of the present rumble-jumble season. The likeable 5'11 180 lb. senior has had his ups and downs this fall as has the whole Redman offense.

Hughes was the starting quarterback against Maine and UMass won, he started against Dartmouth and UMass was shutout, he started in the Buffalo tilt and UMass was defeated, he started against Boston University and a lousy offense blew the football game, he did not start against Rhode Island but the Redmen still lost.

So Hughes got the starting call again, against UConn, and he uprighted the UMass offense to the tune of 21 points. This attacking unit should show even more improvement, with Hughes at the controls, over the remainder of the campgian, four games.

The crowd of about 100 people at the luncheon gave Hughes a warm hand upon his reception of the award.

For Collins, it was his second such selection this year, his first defensive citation coming after his play in the 16-13 loss to Buffalo. Collins is not very big as linebackers go but, with his 6' 185-lb. frame, he can make tackles with the best, as was evident against UConn.

After these two players received their awards, UMass freshmen football coach Dave Kelley gave his scouting report on Vermont, the Redmen's opponent on Saturday. The Catamounts are 0-6, but Kelley respected them, indicating that they hadn't lost any of their zip.

Head coach of the Redmen Vic Fusia showed some highlight films of last Saturday's 21-21 tie with the Huskies. He focused a lot of attention on the play that UConn lucked out on, the 80-yard touchdown play. The films explicitly show two UMass defenders outjumping a Husky receiver and batting the ball into the air.

Just before the luncheon came to a close, Fusia, who is usually in a joking mood at these affairs, commented very seriously, "I've never been with a club that worked so hard and had so many things go against it. Destiny has it that this will be a fine club by the end of the year."

MDC
SPORTS HOTLINE
5-0344

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
Volume XCVIII Issue 37 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS Friday, October 30, 1970

White Press Conference Held In Springfield

Kevin White fields reporters' questions as he arrived in Springfield Thursday for a press conference. Although his health appeared shaky, White announced that he will debate with Governor Sargent tonight. Stories on page three. (MDC by Joe Casey)

Peace Demonstrators Rain Missiles On Nixon Car

See Page Four

Faculty Senate Approves Bromery Appointment

Details On Page Two

SMC Rally Stand To Be Anti-War, Pro-Kent 25

By PETER McDONALD
Staff Reporter

In conjunction with the National Peace Action Coalition, The UMass Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Southeast Asia (SMC) is sponsoring a demonstration on the Amherst Commons, Saturday, October 31st.

The demonstration is being called to show support for the immediate withdrawal of all American forces from Southeast Asia.

A Mobe spokesman said the mass rally is also being held to gather as many people as possible "against the clearly prejudicial nature of the grand jury indictments" against 25 Kent State students and faculty.

In asking people to show their support against the war by attending the demonstration, another SMC spokesman stated that "The only way the war in Viet Nam will end is though the majority of citizens demanding immediate withdrawal and not through Vietnamization – a process which will take a lifetime."

Preceding the demonstration, there will be a march from theUMass Student Union's south terrace to the town commons, beginning at 1:15 p.m. The demonstration is scheduled for 2 p.m. on the Green in front of the Lord Jeffrey Inn.

Speaking at the rally will be William Arthrell, a student at Kent State and one of the 25 persons indicted by the Ravenna grand jury; Susan Link, another student from Kent State; Elana Montiero, of the Boston Female Liberation Movement; Charles Beard, an undergraduate at Jackson State; and The Reverend Jeffrey Cambell, minister of the Amherst Unitarian Church.

Other speakers will include representatives of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee and United Auto Workers.

Permission to use the town Commons has been obtained from the Amherst town manager by the SMC.

At 5:30 p.m., following the demonstration, the two students from Kent State will be available in the "Hatch" to discuss the situation and to answer any questions.

Cartey Slated As Speaker For Black Solidarity Day

Monday, November 2, has been proclaimed Black Solidarity Day by a cross section of Black organizations around the country. In cooperation with this proclamation, the W.E.B. DuBois Department of Afro-American Studies will present a Black Solidarity Day program featuring Dr. Wilfred Cartey as guest speaker.

Trinidad-born Dr. Cartey is a professor of Comparitive Literature at City College in New York and an associate of the same at Columbia University.

Wilfred Cartey is not only widely published but has also repeatedly participated in the development of the programs and ideas that directly relate to the international liberation struggles of Africans and peoples of African descent.

Among Dr. Cartey's more recent publications are The African Reader; a two volume study of African history, culture, and politics done in collaboration with Martin Kilson of Harvard University, and Whispers From a Continent; an exploration into the works of contemporary Black African Writers. Whispers From a Continent has been hailed in some quarters as "the Bible on African Literature." Dr. Cartey has also written extensively on West Indian, Carribean, and Afro-American culture and literature.

Along with these publications Dr. Cartey has also been a contributor to Negro Digest (now known as Black World), the Pan-African Journal, Presence Africaine and others.

Far from ending his contributions with literary publications, Dr. Cartey's committment to the Pan-African struggle has also brought him into publishing and broadcasting lectures on such topics as Revolution, Race, the Poetry of Blackness, and Third world Writing.

He has also taped TV shows that were broadcast nationwide in 1964 on African religion" and "African Culture and Folklore".

Along with these contribution, Wilfred Cartey has served as a consultant to Southern Black colleges on curriculum developemnt and to Head Start and Upward Bound.

Cooperative Craft Store Opens In Amherst Today

Today the Peoples Craft Cooperative will open its new store above Flavortown, next to Loius' Foods in downtown Amherst. Unlike the other stores that sell to U Mass students it is a cooperative venture. The people who produce the goods are the people that finance and run the store. Thus cooperation extends to the whole community in that both artistians and the buyers are freed of consignment fees which boost prices in area stores by at least one third.

The organization has been kept as fluid as possible, with anyone who has goods, or just an interest in seeing the project succeed, being able to join

Last night around 6 or 7 p.m. a bomb scare was reported in Engineering East. The building was cleared, and the usual security proceedures followed.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

STATEMENT of Ownership, Management and Circulation
(Act of October 23, 1962; Section 4369, Title 39, United States Code)

1. Date of Filing: September 21, 1970
2. Title of Publication: Massachusetts Daily Collegian.
3. Frequency of issue: Five times weekly, Monday through Friday during academic year, except during vacation and exam periods, or when a holiday falls within a week.
4. Location of known office of publication: Student Union Building, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass.
5. Location of the headquarters or general business offices of the publishers: Student Union Building University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass.
6. Name and addreses of publisher, editor and managing editor:
Publisher: Student Body of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass.
Editor: Peter F. Pascarelli, 33 Phillips St., Amherst, Mass.
Managing Editor: Mark A. Silverman, 33 Phillips St., Amherst, Mass.
7. Owner: —
8. Known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages or other securities: none.
9. The purpose, function, and nonprofit status of this organization and the exempt status for Federal income tax purpose have not changed during preceding 12 months.
10. Extent and nature of circulation:

A. Total no. copies printed (net press run), average no. copies each issue during preceding 12 months, 15,000; actual number of copies of single issue published nearest to filing date, 15,000.

B. Paid Circulation. 1. Sales through dealers and carriers, street vendors and counter sales, average no. copies each issue during preceding 12 months, none; actual number of copies of single issue published nearest to filing date, 150. 2. Mail subscriptions, average no. copies each issue during preceding 12 months, 500; actual number of copies of single issue published nearest to filing date, 100.

C. Total Paid Circulation: average no. copies each issue during preceding 12 months 500; actual number of copies of single issue published nearest to filing date, 250.

D. Free Distribution (including samples) by mail, carrier, or other means: 14,425; actual number of copies of single issue published nearest to filing date, 14,675.

E. Total Distribution (Sum of C and D): average no. copies each issue during preceding 12 months; 14,925; actual number of copies of single issue published nearest to filing date, 14,925.

F. Office use, left-over, unaccounted, spoiled after printing: average no. copies each issue during preceding 12 months 75; actual number of copies of single issue published nearest to filing date 75.

G. Total: average no. copies each issue during preceding 12 months 15,000; actual number of copies of single issue published nearest to filing date, 15,000.

I certify that the statements made above are correct and complete.

PETER F. PASCARELLI
Editor

Action at the Faculty Senate meeting remained brisk yesterday afternoon. The legislative body failed to name Dr. Randolph Bromery Vice-Chancellor because of a parliamentary discrepancy. (MDC photo by Ed Fenwick)

Bromery Appointment Endorsed By Fac-Sen

by Brian White
Staff Reporter

Meeting yesterday afternoon, the Faculty Senate decided not to directly name Dr. Randolph Bromery Vice-Chancellor, but voted its approval of the appointment should it ever take place. In other business, the Senate moved to stay outside the affair of the Callan's and WFCR.

The Senate debated at great length the procedural details of appointing Dr. Bromery to a permanent equivalent of the temporary post he now fills as Special Assistant to the Chancellor for Student Affairs. The Faculty Senate agreed with the Student Senate that Dr. Bromery was the man for the job, but it was felt that to appoint him directly instead of by an action of a Search Committee would breakdown the safeguards of formal procedure.

Finally a vote of 25-22 endorsed Student Senate Resolution S12, by which the Student Senate "favors the immediate appointment of Dr. Randolph W. Bromery to the post of Vice-Chancellor of Student Affairs."After the vote the Chairman expressed his formal disapproval of the precedent that had been set -- at which it was found that many Senators had thought that they had been endorsing Dr. Bromery in the abstract, instead of actually appointing him to a post. Student Senate President Glenn Eiters clarified the resolution, the motion was modified, and the Senate voted to simply express emotional approval.

The firing of the Callands from WFCR was briefly discussed. Chancellor Tippo gave a report to the Senate which was limited by the fact that the Callands had not requested an investigation; without such a request, Mr. Tippo declined to air the matter in very much detail. The Senate chose to stay out of the affair for the time being.

In related discussion, the Senate decided to look into the appeal machinery open to non-faculty personnel. Those working at installations such as WFCR are not unionized, and at present any labor problems must go through their immediate superiors. The Senate will soon set up alternatives for the workers.

God's Inspiration Said Solution For Men

Last night, the Christian Science Organization at UMass introduced Dr. Joseph G. Heard, the head of the Youth Commission of the World Wide College and University Activity division of the Christian Science faith.

Dr. Heard spoke to a group of 100 about His topic, "Today's Prophet", dwelled upon the idea that all of man's ills could be remedied by insight inspired by God.

Dr. Heard stated that "God is the I am, all knowing, wise, eternal, soul, spirit, truth, love, substance and intelligence." The true prophet is able to express his thought through God and thus correct his problems. All real existance, is thus, ultimately spiritual. Material and physical counterparts are "incorrect mental contracts".

In conclusion, Dr. Heard felt that all of the world's turmoils could be settled if only people would get together with the help of the Almighty and come to intelligent solutions to problems.

Dr. Heard a life-long member of the Christian Science Church, began his career as a minister in 1952. Since that time he and his wife, have traveled to several universities and colleges setting up groups such as the Christian Science Organization at UMass.

HILLS NORTH

HALLOWEEN DANCE

presenting

STEEL and all the BEER

you can drink FREE

8:30 to ? Friday, Oct. 30

Guys $1.50 — Girls 25c

'70 BMW 2002 Sunroof 2 dr. $2995
'69 Triumph Spitfire Conv. $1695
'68 Corvette Conv. 4 spd. $3195
'68 Datsun 1600 Conv., 4 spd. $1695
'67 Mercedes 230S Sedan $2795
'65 VW Sunroof Microbus ... $995
'63 VW "Ghia" Conv. $695
'63 VW 2 dr. sedan $495
'65 LandRover (body damaged) $1195

109 BEACON
GREENFIELD, MASS.

White Announces Participation In Debate With Sargent Tonight

By RICHARD C. HANSON
Asst. News Editor

SPRINGFIELD - Gubernatorial candidate Kevin White announced yesterday that he would debate Governor Sargent tonight.

The announcement was made at a press conference here at the State Street Democratic Party Headquarters, where White told newsmen that he felt the "purpose of a debate" was not to attack 'personalities", rather to show the positions of the two candidates.

Earlier in the week, Kevin White had refused to appear on television with a format of individual questioning of each candidate for a half hour by newsmen. White has insisted upon an open debate. Wednesday night, Sargent finally agreed to such a debate, saying that White had accused him of being a "coward". Sargent called for a " o holds barred" debate.

"Anytime on Boston Common, I don't care," fumed Sargent at what his office called "the most important press conference of his campaign."

White's press conference in Springfield was the first in Western Massachusetts since his "perforated ulcer" operation. He called "unemployment and the economy" the most "important issues of the campaign" and accused Sargent of not recognizing them as major issues. White warned that Massachusetts wouldn't solve its problems "as long as unemployment eats away at the state." Without "jobs for the people, this state can't survive," he said.

"We are in a national depression," he said, "does that mean Massachusetts be the worst" hit state. The slightly wasted looking White said that Sargent was guilty of "a lack of response to the economic" problems. He added that although he doesn't have all the answers, he "will face every problem."

White cut the news conference short, pleading exhaustion. "They cut out a little of my stomach, not my guts. But, they did cut out a little wind too."

Kevin White mixing with campaign workers in his Springfield State Street headquarters. At his press conference there, White called unemployment and the economy the most important issues of the campaign. White added the state's survival depends on jobs for the people. (MDC photo by Joe Casey)

As The Grass Roots

White Visits Springfield

By RICHARD HANSON
Asst. Editor

Springfield headquarters for the Democrats, carved into an old store front: the plaster walls strung with red, white and blue campaign colors; makeshift tables covered by district maps and telephone books with old ladies crossing out names and adding telephone numbers to new lists.

"The next Governor of Massachusetts" was expected to arrive for an early morning 11:30 a.m. press conference. The old 'pols' were standing in small groups, wringing their hands and figuring the situation. "It all hangs on the debate," commented one professionally friendly State rep. to the fat ladies and the young girls wearing "White" ribbons made of white ribbon and blue lettering.

People drank the coffee from the automatic electric coffee brewer, and the band started to warm-up outside the big poster and slogan spotted window. A man, about 50 years old, made sure the electric piano was plugged in and brought the band coffee; the man smiled, his black shoes shined and greying hair slicked back.

The crowd inside began to form the crowd outside, with posters on long sticks. The four piece band was playing "Night Train" I turned and saw Kevin White "for governor" over my left shoulder. His poster smile, a glint in the right eye, two glints in the left, a finely touched portrait with a staple in his lip. Someone grabbed the standard, as a shiny black car-number 783-84K with a 250 pound driver-pulled up to the curb. The band changed the song to welcome the Mayor.

The Mayor, smiling, just like the poster, got out of the car. He grabbed a few hands, said "Hi!" to the band. Moved through the supporters, looking a little bit pale, a little too thin, he greeted the man who looked like the Party boss, with a once broken nose and big ears: "James. How are you?

Standing in the middle of the more barren part of the big divided room, he greeted the crowd. The crowd kept a good distance.

His aides moved him to a corner platform. Where his close associates announced to the Democrats that it was "no time for Sargents". White stood back, protected from the applause; shuffling in his scuffed cordovan shoes. When the Mayor finally spoke and answered a couple of questions, his fore-finger trembled, noticably.

One of White's more youthful supporters ponders on the issues at hand. Though enthused over recent voting age reductions, he still remains unsatisfied. Presently junior is taking advantage of the Sesame Street Plan. (MDC photo by Joe Casey)

DC Sets Up Diet Line

Food Services has taken the initial steps in the creation of a "diet line" for those students who are dieting. Joel Stoneham, Director of Food Services, decided to study the feasability of such an innovation after receiving "a lot of requests from kids who are having diet problems."

The program of "diet lines" would set up a specific line, probably one in Southwest and one in the Central and Northeast areas.

Stoneham has appointed a nine man committee to study the "nutritional value" of the foods to be used. The committee will report its findings within two weeks, said Stoneham.

Stoneham emphasized that the dining commons "are very serious" in this endeavor and that they are very willing to "see how it goes."

CLASS OF 1973

MEET YOUR CANDIDATES FOR

CLASS OFFICE

Come to the Open Class Forum

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1970

at

8:15 in Mahar Auditorium

So Apply!

Application blanks available on the Lobby Counter, SU. If you'd rather, answer the questions on this form and put the form — or the whole paper — in the box on the counter; or send the blank to R-SO #305. Today:)

NAME ..... Class or Title ..... Major or Dept. .....

LOCAL ADDRESS ..... Tel. .....

1. What are some of the issues facing the University (please comment even if you don't know very much about them)? 2. What issues do you know or care about which you would like to see discussed at SWAP? 3. What would you like to gain or learn about from SWAP? 4. What interests, experience or knowledge do you have that will make you a useful SWAP delegate? 5. Have you participated in a previous SWAP? If so, in what year?

Only those who apply can go. SO APPLY!

This Is The Back of Your SWAP Application

In The Nation And The World

AFL-CIO President Affirms Platform; Urges Election of Progressive Candidates

WASHINGTON (AP) - AFL-CIO President George Meany urged voters Thursday to elect congressional candidates who favor a national health insurance plan and other legislation to benefit workers and consumers.

Meany, in a paid political CBS radio broadcast, said President Nixon and conservative candidates oppose a national health plan.

"The conservatives who are seeking your vote, and the administration say 'no.' They say America cannot afford a first class, comprehensive system of health care for all its people. We say America can afford nothing less," said the 76 year old leader of the 13.6 million member labor federation.

"That same argument has been used in opposition to full employment, industrial safety laws, a higher minimum wage, consumer protection, clean air, clean water, better schools, reasonable interest rates. On all these issues, we are again told; America can't afford them," Meany said.

"America can afford them-all of them."

Meany's broadcast, and another one last week that attacked Nixon's economic policies, was paid for by the labor federation's political arm, the Committee on Political Education. The price for the two broadcasts was $15,000, a spokesman for Meany said.

"Except for one thing-the fear of unemployment-there is no fear that haunts the average American worker more than the fear of sickness, and the crushing medical bills and hospital bills that go with it," he said.

"Most union members have some kind of medical insurance, won by their unions at the bargaining tables. But even that expensive insurance sometimes pays only a third of the cost of health care. And one American in four has no insurance at all.

"We believe the finest medical care on earth should be available to rich and poor, black and white, young and old, employed and unemployed alike," he said.

Meany said action is needed also to spur economic growth.

"What America cannot afford is to do nothing-to slip backward, as we have been doing the last two years under the present administration in Washington," he said.

"So, my message to workers is this: cast your ballot as if your job, your health, your pocketbook and your family's future depended on it. They really do. They are what is at stake in this election."

Viet Petitions Filed In Court

WASHINGTON (AP) More than 100 petitions carrying about 7,000 signatures have arrived at the Supreme Court urging the justices to rule on the legality of the Vietnam war.

Speaking in the name of John M. Wells of a Unitarian Universalist minister from Lexington, Mass., and through Louis H. Backman a Brookline lawyer, the petitions asked the court to hear a suit filed by the state of Massachusetts last July.

Styling their presentation a "people's brief," the petitioners questioned the authority of "agents of the President or Congress" to send American troops to fight in southeast Asia without a formal declaration of war.

Backman, a Democratic member of the Massachusetts house told a reporter the signatures were obtained from almost every state in the nation, although mostly in the Northeast

Drug Deaths Rise In Viet

WASHINGTON(AP) Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D Conn., said Thursday that GI deaths in Vietnam from overdoses of narcotics have skyrocketed in recent months and military leaders have failed to clamp down on drug abuses in the Armed Forces.

The Pentagon replied that they are seeking information from "appropriate authorities" in Vietnam, but would not elaborate or make further comment.

In a statement issued here, Dodd said he will interrupt his re-election campaign Friday to conduct a public hearing in Hartford to bring out information received in the last 48 hours from investigators for his Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee.

Dodd said the subcommittee, of which he is chairman, sent investigators to Vietnam following hearings last August at which he said Defense Department witnesses gave testimony that minimized other testimony about drug abuse among the troops.

He said investigators dispatched to Vietnam had reported that in the last few months South Vietnam has been flooded with the most powerful heroin ever to come to the subcommittee's attention.

Nixon Mobbed By Violent Crowd

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)- President Nixon, in his bullet resistant limousine, ran a gauntlet of rocks, eggs, bottles and other missiles Thursday night in order to break through massed anti Vietnam demonstrators here.

The fireworks erupted after Nixon addressed a Republican rally in a small auditorium near the center of San Jose.

When the chief executive emerged from the hall, demonstrators had surrounded the parking lot where his motorcade awaited him.

With the aid of helmeted riot police, a path was cleared through the throng which seemed larger than the GOP partisons who seemed cheered Nixon in the auditorium.

While threading its way through the crowd, however, the cavalcade halted at one point and there was a chain reaction crash of several vehicles.

Before getting into his car, Nixon said the Secret Service had estimated 900 demonstrators on the scene. Newsmen tended to put the figure considerably higher.

Before the violence, Nixon in effect taunted his critics by standing in the glare of floodlamps on the hood of his limousine and, facing the demonstrators, waving with both arms outstretched, his fingers making "V" symbols.

The President's jaw seemed thrust forward defiantly.

The cavalcade proceeded without further incident to the airport.

Corporate Hands Finger Executive Contributions

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Justice Department is broadening its drive on questionable campaign spending to probe the executive political funds set up by some corporation officials to funnel money to favorite candidates.

Executives of at least two national firms, General Foods Corp. and Lone Star Cement Corp., openly report having such political funds this year. And the presence of several more is often hinted in industry circles.

The Corrupt Practices Act bans outright political spending by corporations, labor unions and national banks. The Justice Department, dusting off the law after decades of neglect, has pressed 17 prosecutions in little more than a year.

The broadened probe was disclosed by a Justice Department source some hours before House Banking Committee Chairman Wright Patman called on Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell Thursday to investigate what he labeled "massive political fund rasing being conducted either directly or indirectly by a large segment of the commercial banking industry."

The "North Street Good Government Group," for example, is run by top executives of General Foods at its headquarters in White Plains, N.Y. Its contributions this year include aid to three key members of the House Agriculture Committee.

The "Lone Star Executive Voluntary Political Fund," set up at the cement firm's headquarters in Greenwich, Conn., has given help to members of both the Senate and House Public Works committes.

Labor unions have long used these self contained voluntary political committees on a large scale to avoid the ban on outright contributions.

In his letter to Mitchell, Patman mentioned banks or groups in Washington state, New York, Texas and Ohio and contended that some banks are assessing their employees in proportion to salary to raise political campaign chests.

General's Son Refuses Induction

RICHMOND, Va (AP) - A 23 year old college graduate appeared on Thursday for refusing induction into the armed services.

This differed from many such cases, for Thomas Stanwix Hay is the son of retired Maj. Gen. Allen T. Stanwix Hay, until recently deputy assistant secretary of defense for material.

There was no sentencing. Defense counsel and the general finally prevailed on the young man to change his "no defense" plea to innocent on the understanding he will accept induction even if he persists in his objections to the Vietnam war.

The court continued the case until Nov. 17 to let Stanwix Hay exercise his option of responding to the draft call. He did so promptly.

Judge Merhige had a t hand an eloquent letter from Maj. Gen. Stanwix Hay, written Oct. 5, the day his son was convicted on the plea of nolo contendere.

The letter, made public with the general's approval, made no effort to explain the gap between the career military man's thinking and those of his only son.

"As difficult as his decision to refuse service has been to us, we have tacitly accepted it, not as his right, but as his decision."

Stanwix Hay was with his slender, scholarly looking son in court.

Leary To Attend Rally Will Support Seale

CAIRO (AP)-Dr. Tinothy Leary said Thursday he will elude U.S. police by disguising himself and attend a Black Panther rally in New Haven, Conn., Nov. 3.

Leary, a fugitive from California where he escaped prison while serving 10-15 year sentence for a narcotics violation, talked with reporters before he and his party boarded a plane for Algiers.

On Nov. 3 a Black Panther rally is scheduled in New Haven to voice support for Seale, chairman of the Black Panther party, and Mrs. Huggins.

Seale is charged in the slaying of Alex Rackley, another Black Panther. Mrs. Huggins is charged with kidnaping resulting in death and with aiding and abetting in Rackley's slaying.

Leary came to Cairo Tuesday from Beirut, Lebanon, where police refused to let him enter the country. The Egyptians also refused him entry and put him on the first plane for Algiers.

CAMPAIGN CLIMAX

Callahan Challenges 66 Year-Old GOP D.A.

Perhaps the most significant local political race is the contest for District Attorney. Incumbent Oscar Grife, a veteran Republican is being challenged strongly by young Democrat John Callahan.

There has never been a Democratic District Attorney in the Northwestern District, of which Amherst is a part, but Callahan's bid has caused a last minute flurry of activity by the Grife camp, who have in the past just sat complacently back and have always been reelected.

Grife is a 66 year old native of Northampton. He was elected two years ago to fill an unexpired term. It was rumored that he would not seek re-election this year, but Callahan's strong presence made Republicans change their mind and Grife is running.

The incumbent is a graduate of Northeastern Law School. His biggest claim to fame was that he was the youngest lawyer from Hampshire County to be admitted to the bar when he was admitted to the Massachusetts bar at the age of 21.

Callahan has constantly spoken on methods of crime prevention, and the administration of the D.A. office to bring his name to attention. Callahan was Assistant U.S. Attorney for Massachusetts from 1964-1968, Chief of the Civil Division of the U.S. State Attorney's office from 1967-68 and was in the office of the General Counsel of the C.I.A. from 1962-64.

He is the first District Attorney candidate in state history to be endorsed by the liberal Americans for Democratic Action group.

Callahan has gone on record for rehabilitation and drug education programs for schools, the establishment of a youth resources bureau in the D.A. office , a consumer protection bureau in his office, an attack on drug dealers in the district, and a 24 hour advice service for police.

Grife has labeled many of Calahan's proposals as being impossible to implement.

